Board okays Channel One concept

Snyder public schools board of trustees approved a contract with Whittle Communications for Channel One programming and discussed participation in the Advanced Placement Program during Tuesday's special meeting.

The board will convene again for a regular meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday. An executive session to discuss a personnel matter is scheduled for 6 p.m.

Band Director Walter Reneau also appeared before the board to discuss band uniforms and City Engineer Don Osborn reviewed an analysis of water taken from three elementary schools.

Both high school principal Rueben Gillespie and junior high principal Gary Patterson endorsed the Channel One concept, which consists of showing a daily news-and-information program to students via satellite. The 12-minute program includes four 30-second commercials.

In exchange for showing the program, Channel One provides educational materials for teachers and students, and electronic equipment — to include a fixed position satellite dish, VCR, color television sets for classrooms, a monitor for administrative program review and the necessary wiring.

Designed for students age 12 through 17, the program will be shown at both the high school and junior high.

"I think it is an outstanding opportunity for us," said Patterson. "I viewed it with department heads and they were real excited. I feel real good about it."

"We had some kids preview it and they were unbelievably enthusiastic about it," added Gillespie.

The concept has come under attack because of the commercials, but Gillespie added, "The advertising is in very good taste. It's shampoos, deodorants, candy bars, potato chips — things of interest to school students. It's not anything they don't see on regular television."

Board members were told that (see SCHOOL, page 8)

ABSENTEE — John Greene of Snyder was signing up for a ballot Tuesday afternoon in the absentee voting area on the third floor of the county courthouse, to cast his vote in the county tax rollback election. With him is election official Dean Walker. (SDN Staff Photo)

Rollback election...

Forty a day voting absentee; ballot confusion is explained

Absentee voting in the county's Jan. 20 rollback election is at a rapid clip, with an average of 43 people voting daily, County Clerk Frances Billingsley noted today.

An election official also said a few voters were having trouble understanding the ballot, and explained where the mix-up lies.

In-person, absentee voting began Jan. 2 and in the six-plus working days since then, some 262 have cast their ballots.

Absentee voting continues through Jan. 16.

The election seeks a roll back of county taxes from 39.80 to 34.75 cents per $100 valuation. The election was set after a group of citizens submitted petitions containing 1,304 certified names in October.

Anyone who wishes to vote in-person absentee is asked to bring their voter registration certificate to the county clerk's office on the third floor of the courthouse. Hours are from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Voters age 65 and over or anyone with a disability may vote by mail. They may call or write the clerk's office for an application. The final day to request an application is Jan. 13.

The confusion on the ballots has occurred because of the placement of the "for" and "against" boxes. The "for" box is located adjacent to a statement which explains what the subject of the election is (reducing the tax rate from 39.80 cents to 34.75 cents). The "against" box is located adjacent to the same statement, but in Spanish.

Confusion comes in part because of a sentence in the middle of the page which states "Place an X in the square beside the statement indicating the way you wish to vote." Some voters are taking that to mean they should decide between the statements. Actually, there is only one statement — in English and in Spanish.

Spring registration set to begin at WTC

Western Texas College will begin registration for the spring semester at 1 p.m. Thursday as sophomores enroll.

Evening registration for the new semester will be permitted only on Thursday from 6:30-8 p.m. This action has been taken due to placement tests required.

WTC placement tests will be given at 8:30 a.m. Thursday in the Student Center for the convenience of any student who needs to take it. There is a $10 fee for the test and it is to be paid when the test is taken.

The tests requires about one hour to complete.

Freshman registration is scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon Friday. Registration for any student not registered prior to noon Friday will be held from 1-3 p.m.

Registration for all students will begin in the admissions office in the Learning Resource Center. Information concerning registration may be obtained by calling the college at 573-8511.

Day and evening classes will begin Monday, Jan. 15.

Clements calls special session

AUSTIN (AP) — After summoning the Legislature to a Feb. 27 special session on public school finances and judicial elections, Gov. Bill Clements predicted that the upcoming round of lawmaking will be anything but easy.

"There are going to be a lot of problems. We have here two very delicate issues," Clements said.

Comparing the upcoming session with the two bitter sessions required last year for workers' compensation reform, Clements said, "I think they will be equally contentious, equally aggravating and equally difficult."

The session Clements announced Tuesday will deal with topics on which the state is under court orders to act.

The Texas Supreme Court has given lawmakers until May 1 to overhaul the $11 billion a year school finance system, saying the current plan discriminates against property-poor districts.

And U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton of Midland has ruled that the at-large system of electing state district judges in nine urban counties violates the federal Voting Rights Act.

Bunton said the at-large balloting dilutes the strength of minority voters in those counties. He has ordered special, non-partisan elections on May 1 as an interim solution.

The Feb. 27 session will begin just two weeks before the March 13 primaries, where half the 31-member Senate and all 150 House seats are up for election.

Collider funding pondered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department is expected to decide by month's end whether to spend more to build a super collider of the strength originally envisioned or to scale back the project and keep the price tag at $5.9 billion, Sen. Phil Gramm says.

"My guess is there will be a compromise. We want to be sure that we don't buy a Cadillac, that we buy a Chevrolet," Gramm, R-Texas, said Tuesday.

"But we want to make sure it has four wheels, good brakes, a steady engine and a good starter. What I don't want to do is be penny-wise and pound-foolish. I want to make a rational decision," Gramm said.

As planners move from a 1985 conceptual design of the particle accelerator to an engineering blueprint, they're finding that spending will have to increase to maintain the original scope of the giant project.

The SDN Column

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Too much celebration has kept some people from becoming celebrated."

Of all the improvements in newspaper production over the past 25 years, readers should appreciate this one the most.

Some readers may remember when the switch was made from "letterpress" to "offset." The results were obvious to include better reproduction of pictures, and the availability of color.

Although an internal thing, computerized typesetting has allowed later deadlines and earlier deliveries. Still, the most recent change is the best.

A negative of offset printing has been the time that it takes the ink to dry. The fact is, it never became completely dry. How well the ink dried was largely dependent on the humidity and temperature. The resulting ruboff has been a major complaint of readers—especially housewives.

Ink suppliers have been developing a "no-rub" ink. Actually the correct term is "low-rub ink."

Although it costs a few cents per pound more, our press crew believes that the same amount of ink will actually go farther.

Regardless, our readers will like the fact that hands will not be nearly as black after reading the newspaper. You can now actually rub a finger across the page without getting a smudge.

Personnel here in the office have already noticed a distinct difference. Our 1,500-gallon tank was filled with the "new and improved" ink just last week.

The new ink is made with soybean oil which helps obtain the low-rub quality. Happy, cleaner reading in 1990.

Cold weather makes a big impact on people in all walks of life.

It even got below freezing in the Houston area. We heard about a guy in a long overcoat in downtown Houston. He lamented that it was so cold that instead of flashing, he had resorted to a brief description of himself.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Columbia's astronauts smoothly put a Navy communications satellite into orbit today and sped on to a rendezvous with a science laboratory they want to pluck from space before it falls to Earth.

"We had a good deploy. ... It looked real great," reported mission specialist David Low as the 15,200-pound Syncom satellite slipped out of its berth and spun away like a Frisbee, leaving the cargo bay empty and ready to receive the science package on Friday.

Bush declares Rio Grande Valley disaster area

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush has declared the Rio Grande Valley of Texas a disaster area following last month's freeze that destroyed millions of dollars in crops and left thousands of workers without jobs.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, announced the action in separate releases Tuesday night.

Gov. Bill Clements earlier this month asked Bush to declare the four Valley counties — Starr, Hidalgo, Cameron and Willacy — a disaster area.

Larry Neal, a spokesman for Gramm, said the declaration releases $23 million in emergency unemployment compensation funds for workers left jobless when an Arctic snap chilled Texas just before Christmas.

Bentsen spokesman Jack DeVore said because there was no structural damage, relief under the disaster declaration is limited to unemployment benefits.

The disaster declaration triggers low-interest loans to producers from the Farmers Home Administration and to small businesses and agricultural cooperatives from the Small Business Administration, Neal said.

He said the declaration will be formally announced this morning.

Earlier Tuesday, Bentsen urged the president to act quickly on Texas' request for a disaster declaration.

In a letter to the president, Bentsen said losses across the Rio Grande Valley were mounting and thousands of unemployed workers are unable to feed their families.

"Estimates are still coming in," Bentsen said, "but it appears that this freeze devastated all of the remaining citrus crop and destroyed or severely damaged many of the citrus trees. The winter vegetable crops also apparently suffered major losses."

Bentsen said that hundreds of farm workers would be unable to feed their families this winter because of the freeze.

"The work that they were expecting and counting on will simply not be there," Bentsen said. "In addition, this freeze will mean huge financial losses for the affected producers and for the agribusinesses that process these crops."

Bentsen said federal disaster unemployment assistance was needed for 15,000 farmworker families affected by the freeze, along with help for farmers and agribusinesses.

State officials estimate losses at $385 million but expect that figure to increase.

The governor also has asked Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter to declare the four counties disaster areas, making growers eligible for low-interest loans from the Farmers Home Administration.

On Tuesday, the state also filed a $6 million request with Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole for community repair and clean-up funds, said Randy Erben, acting director of the Texas office of state-federal relations.

The state is also investigating the possibility of applying for federal relief from five other agencies, Erben said.

Billboard draws many complaints

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A resort billboard that urges would-be skiers to "Go ahead. Call in sick," and hit the slopes in midweek has drawn complaints.

"We all have different senses of humor. We really thought that this was so bold that it would be obvious we were kidding," Robert J. Shannon Jr., director of marketing at Stratton Mountain, said Monday.

The sign along Interstate 91, which went up in November, has caused at least 17 people to write letters of complaint to the resort.

Because of the letters, a new billboard will replace the old one this week with the less-offending message, "More White. Less Green."

"I just figured that if we had that many complaints there were five or six times that many out there," Shannon said. "We said instead of infuriating any more of the western Massachusetts populace we'll just take it down."

Actor says he's no bully

UPPER DARBY, Pa. (AP) — He may have been the bully Biff in "Back to the Future," but back at the school where his aunt is principal, actor Tom F. Wilson told pupils he's not that bad a guy.

Wilson, who starred with Michael J. Fox in both "Back to the Future" films, showed up Monday at the invitation of his aunt and godmother, Sister Clair Edward, the principal.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm concerned about the treatment my friend is receiving for her chronic anemia. She's sprinkling ground up nails on her ice cream. Her body's metal content is so high she cannot go through an airport metal detector. Is this a valid treatment?

DEAR READER: This takes the cake for being the most wacky "treatment" I've heard of in many years. Not only is this not appropriate, it is potentially dangerous.

Some types of anemia are caused by iron deficiency; such patients are cured by taking iron-containing medicines and vitamins. However, metallic iron will not do the trick; it is indigestible.

The iron particles from the nails are sitting in your friend's intestinal tract making compasses malfunction and metal detectors hum. She may rust prematurely. Tell her to stop her strange practice. Incidentally, how does she grind up the nails?

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband and I are both in our 90s and have problems with our hands going to sleep frequently. We try to eat properly, and his only bad habit is pipe smoking. What would cause this annoying problem?

DEAR READER: Paresthesias (tingling and numbness) of the hands and feet are commonly caused by two conditions: pressure on nerves or poor circulation. Unfortunately, the elderly are prone to both afflictions.

Children injured in bus collision

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A school bus carrying 21 junior high school pupils collided with a pickup, sending six children to hospitals with minor injuries, authorities said.

The accident occurred about 4:20 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of U.S. Highway 281 and Loop 1604 in north San Antonio, officials said.

Twenty-one Bradley Middle School students from the Northeast Independent School District were on the bus as it was traveling north on Highway 281, said district spokeswoman Debbie Cano.

The bus was struck broadside by a westbound pickup whose driver told authorities the brakes failed, San Antonio police officer A.B. Gomez said.

As we age, osteoarthritis — the normal wearing-down of joint surfaces — affects most joints, the spine included. In the cervical (neck) spine, pain from early osteoarthritis rarely occurs; however, during the ongoing process of aging, the bones produce outgrowths called osteophytes, which can rub against nerves in the neck.

Because most of the nerves supplying the arms and hands pass between the bones of the neck, osteophytes in this area will often irritate them, leading to recurring tingling of the hands.

Progressive arterial blockage from arteriosclerotic plaque is also a consequence of aging and causes poor circulation. Hence, the elderly commonly experience muscle cramps and tingling of their extremities.

In most cases, the part of the body farthest from the heart is most profoundly affected. Therefore, older patients often suffer from cold hands and feet, as well as from paresthesias. Such symptoms are especially troublesome during exercise (when there is inadequate blood supply for muscular needs) and at night (when cardiac output declines).

In addition, the position of the extremity, especially the arms, makes a difference because flexing and kinking of an artery further retards blood flow. This is why people often awaken with paresthesias after they have been sleeping on their arms.

Your doctor may be able to help you, once a diagnosis has been made. Vasodilators, medicine to improve circulation, may relieve symptoms. Or, if arthritis is the cause, neck traction using a soft cervical collar can reduce the pressure on nerves. Since pipe smoking is not as harmful as cigarette smoking, urging your husband to give up his pipe would not improve his symptoms — nor would it help yours.

Remember to keep your hands and feet warm with gloves, mittens, extra socks and thermal clothing. You are probably more susceptible to cold injury and must take special care to guard against it. Remember also that regular exercise is beneficial in maintaining good circulation.

Although you and your husband believe you are eating properly, you may be interested in further dietary tips, so I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Eating Right For A Healthy Heart." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

To make the contract, declarer must abandon any temporary positional advantage that would come with ducking the first trick. Instead he must win dummy's spade ace and play the king of clubs. If East then underleads the diamond ace, South must rise with the king and take two pitches on the Q-J of clubs before going after trumps. East is more likely to play three rounds of spades, but South can ruff the last spade with the nine of trumps and come to eight tricks. The applicable rule is simple — plan ahead before playing to the first trick. Count first, play later

By James Jacoby

Although the Flannery two-diamond convention is for the most part useful (it is handy to be able to show specifically four spades and five hearts), there are drawbacks. One disadvantage is that the opponents can manufacture a way of showing a balanced strong hand without having to bid no-trump. Thus in today's deal, by partnership agreement, East's double of two diamonds showed the strength and shape for an opening one-no-trump bid. When South bid two hearts and West passed, East did not need to bid further, since he had already told his story, and West had no interest in competing.

On the opening lead of the spade nine, declarer carelessly played low from dummy. East won the queen and returned a small diamond. Regardless of how he played, declarer was now sure to fail in his contract. West would get back on lead with the queen of diamonds to come through the ace of spades a second time, and South would lose two diamonds, two spades, the club ace and the heart ace.

Note: Approximations derived from 1990 Scurry County Budget

Whether a household, a business or a local government, every budget is made up of two elements: the "sources" of funds, or where the money comes from, and the "uses" of funds.

It may surprise you to know that the largest share of Scurry County's revenues for the 1990 fiscal year will not be provided by taxes. In fact, ad valorem or property taxes contribute only about 26% of the cost of operating our county government, including the Hospital. About 3% is derived from county sales taxes. The rest — over 70% of the total county revenues — comes primarily from patient receipts, service charges, user fees, court fines and state government allocations.

For example, nearly $6 million of Scurry County's $13 million budget will be provided by patients served by Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

An additional $1 million will come from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice for medical services to state prison inmates.

Almost $1 million will come from vehicle registration, court fees, and criminal fines.

Another half-million will come from state grants, royalty income, and interest on deposits.

While property taxes are not the major source of revenues for the county budget, they nevertheless provide essential and necessary funding to balance the budget for the government of Scurry County.

As you prepare to vote on the January 20th rollback referendum, please keep these facts in mind.

Let's Keep Snyder Rolling Forward.

Snyder girls outlast Maidens

Lady Tigers claim 58-50 district victory over Lake View

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

The Lady Tigers of Snyder High School won an exciting 58-50 District 4-4A basketball game in the SHS gym Tuesday night over the San Angelo Lake View Maidens.

"This was a game we had to win to stay in the district race," said Snyder coach Kenneth Housden in an interview after the game, "and we're in it right now."

The game began with a fast paced first quarter that ended with Snyder's girls holding a six-point lead, 20-14.

The Lady Tigers pulled away on an 8-2 run at the beginning of the second period beginning with a bucket by Anne Osborn at the 5:21 mark and followed by a hoop from Liz Greathouse and four consecutive points by Vinnie Clay to set the score at 28-20.

Vineta Allen kept the Maidens in the game with a basket at 2:40 in the period to narrow the Snyder advantage to 31-27.

Freida Clay hit a lay-up off a lob pass from Greathouse to end the scoring in the first half and stretch the Lady Tigers' lead back to six points, 33-27.

"In the first half we had trouble getting into our post defense," said Housden.

"We were packing everything inside the zone."

Lake View's Allen knotted the score at 37-all with 1:52 remaining in the third quarter with a nifty bank shot off the glass.

Robbie Braziel snapped the cords from long-distance for a three-pointer to give the lead back to Snyder at 40-37.

Allen scored four more to give the Maidens their first lead of the contest at 41-40 with under a minute left in the third stanza.

SHS senior Osborn made sure the lead didn't last long as she hit a short jumper with just :26 seconds left in the period to recover the lead.

"The middle of the third quarter we just couldn't score," said the Snyder coach.

"I don't feel like we were forcing our shots, they just weren't falling."

The fourth quarter started with a bang as Robbie Braziel made a well-timed block of a shot by Allen. The ball ended up in Vinnie Clay's hands for an easy lay-up.

Mitzi McCollough brought Lake View back to within a point with a shot from the deep left corner that hit nothing but net.

With just 6:06 left in the contest and SHS holding a 44-43 lead the Maidens began a full court press.

The move was designed to cause turnovers but it did just the opposite as Osborn was left open under the basket several times for easy lay-ins.

Teena Braziel's bucket at :40 iced the win for Snyder giving the Lady Tigers a 55-48 lead.

She added another hoop at :34 and Robbie Braziel tossed in a free-throw with 11 seconds left to end the scoring for SHS.

"The girls handled the press like it was drawn on the blackboard," beamed coach Housden.

"We scored at least three easy lay-ups on their press in the last quarter."

Osborn accounted for 17 points in the Snyder win followed by 10 from Robbie Braziel and eight each by Greathouse and Teena Braziel.

The win ups the Lady Tigers season record to 10-7 and evens the district mark at 3-3.

The Snyder JV girls won also, taking a convincing 68-47 win over Lake View.

Shanekka Thompson scored 24 in the win followed by Daisy Braziel with 23 and Molly Mauldin with 12 for the Lady Tigers.

Their next game will be in Monahans Friday as they battle the Lady Lobos in district action.

Tigers blast Chiefs in District 4-4A tilt

SAN ANGELO — Snyder's Tigers remain undefeated in District 4-4A competition after trouncing the Lake View Chiefs, 52-34 Tuesday.

"It was pretty close the first half," said Tigers' coach Larry Scott.

"They took a four-point lead at one time in the second quarter but we were able to come back for a two-point lead by halftime."

"We worked on our zone offense," said Scott, "and that picked up a lot in the second half."

The Tigers took a first quarter lead of 10-7 that was whittled to 21-19 by halftime.

programming can be previewed on a daily basis before it is shown to students to insure the quality of content.

It was also pointed out that Channel One is only one component of the Whittle Communications' Educational Network, which will also provide The Classroom Channel and The Educator's Channel — neither of which are interrupted by commercials. The equipment may also be used in other ways, such as showing a tape to the entire student body at one time.

"As long as it doesn't detract from our educational process I think it will be good," said board member Mike Jordan.

"My teachers feel it would enhance the quality of education in the classroom," said Gillespie.

Superintendent Dalton Moseley

also pointed out that no additional staff would need to be hired to implement or conduct the program.

Voting for the concept were trustees Jordan, Billy Bob McMullan, Luann Burleson and Ann Walton. There were no dissensions. Terry Martin, Ygnacio Benitez and Sam Robertson were not at the meeting.

Channel One will be implemented "sometime around March," board members were told.

The Channel One concept was the only business item on Tuesday's agenda.

The board did entertain a report from Gillespie on an Advanced Placement Program, which the school hopes to begin implementing in the fall of 1990. Basically, it consists of college-level courses taught in high school by high school instructors for which students could receive both high school and college credit. Successfully completing the course would earn the students high school credit. They could then take a test which, upon passing, would give them three hours of college credit.

Gillespie said he wanted to begin three classes next year — English, biology and calculus.

"We want to start small and insure success and build from there," he said of the program, which could eventually include as many as 29 courses in 15 academic areas. Gillespie noted that under a full-blown program, it is conceivable that a student could go from high school to a sophomore in college.

The program would help identify talented and gifted students, a policy which the state will be mandating, according to Gillespie.

Students would apply to be accepted in the Advanced Placement Program.

"We're not asking for new teachers or lots of materials. I feel that with a small investment we could easily implement this program," said Gillespie. "I really feel this is an important step in our curriculum."

It would take approximately $2,000 to send three instructors to two-day workshops, and for teaching materials, he informed the board.

The board voiced approval of the project but will have to wait until Thursday to act on it.

Trustees decided to put a request for new high school marching band uniforms on hold until their February workshop after learning that some 175-180 uniforms would be needed at approximately $285-$290 per uniform — a cost of between $49,875 and $52,200.

"That's just too much money," said Jordan, who added "I suspect we are in need of band uniforms but I'd like to see a range (of styles and prices)."

The report from Osborn concerned water samples from Stanfield, North and Northeast elementaries. A visual examination showed the water delivered to all three schools was acceptable but that samples taken from within North and Northeast buildings were high in turbidity (suspended solids and color).

Osborn's report to the board stated "the most likely solution is...hot water heaters and all water lines, both hot and cold, should be thoroughly flushed."

It further noted "a filtration system or a sand and water separator is not recommended for two reasons (1) expense and (2) they are a threat to water quality."

Minor wreck

Police investigated a minor traffic accident involving two pickup trucks at 2:31 p.m. Tuesday in the 2800 Block of 25th St.

A 1984 Ford pickup driven by John Covey Jr. of Rt. 2 was in collision with a 1989 Ford pickup driven by Heath Wilson of Altus, Okla., officers said.

Board wants $136 million for more prisons

AUSTIN (AP) — Despite the largest prison buildup in state history, criminal justice officials urged the construction of more prisons and one leading lawmaker said the demand may not decrease for 20 years. "There's no end in sight," state

Rep. Jim Rudd, chairman of the House budget committee, said Tuesday.

"We can build all these we want, all we can afford, but at this point in time, until probably 2010, we're not going to see a dropoff in the continued increase," said Rudd, D-Brownfield.

Essentially, he said, Texas' prison population will decrease only when the general population grows older.

The Texas Board of Criminal Justice unanimously adopted a resolution to spend $136 million to build additional prisons that would bring the Texas Department of Corrections — the third largest state system in the nation — up to a capacity of more than 60,000 inmates within four years. That represents a 50 percent increase from its capacity of approximately 40,000.

Aside from wrestling with prison overcrowding problems, the board on Tuesday also discussed the large number of sex offenders being transferred to minimum security, privately run state prisons.

Without proper treatment and counseling, Board chairman Charles Terrell of Dallas said that when sex offenders leave the pre-release centers, "We are in essence letting a monster out to pick its next victim."

Terrell said more money is needed for counseling of sexual offenders and building new prisons in order to make room for the burgeoning prison population. The board asked Gov. Bill Clements to open the agenda of the next special session and allow lawmakers to approve more prison construction with the $136.3 million in tax-backed bonds included in a $400 million bond proposal approved by voters last November.

Clements said he would call lawmakers into a Feb. 27 special legislative session on education and judicial reform, but was non-committal on the question of allowing the Legislature to consider prison funding.

Board members were angered that a large proportion of inmates serving in the minimum security units in Kyle, Bridgeport, Cleveland and Venus are sexual offenders.

DEAR ABBY: Back in the '50s, when I was a teen-ager, I dated a 17-year-old boy who told me that his parents thought it was OK for him to have sex, but they didn't want his twin sister to have sex until she was married.

I am sorry to see that we are heading into the '90s with the same double standards that existed in the '50s.

CINDY (NOT MY REAL NAME)

DEAR CINDY: To carry the old double standard of the '50s into the '90s would be a tragedy, because today we must deal with a new sexually transmitted disease for which there is no cure.

The Centers for Disease Control has estimated that on college campuses, one in 300 students is infected with the AIDS virus.

Adolescents have always thought themselves to be invulnerable. Everyone, regardless of age, should know how to protect him- or herself from the AIDS virus. Parents who cling to the '50s philosophy that their adolescent daughters should "just say no" while encouraging their sons to do whatever comes naturally are foolish, unrealistic and gambling against enormous odds.

A surprising number of adults today deny that AIDS can happen to them. Otherwise sophisticated people insist that they can tell from a conversation what another's sexual history is — when sexual behavior has, historically, been something about which most people are inclined to be dishonest.

The highest rates of sexually transmitted disease are found in sexually active persons from 13 to 19 years of age. Those who take responsibility for their own actions, and practice safe sex to protect themselves and their partners, will survive the '90s and multiply.

DEAR ABBY: My spouse and I are separated and are in the process of discussing divorce. We have a difference of opinion about what happens to the wedding rings. Perhaps you can help us. (We had a double-ring ceremony.)

Although both of us have stopped wearing our wedding bands, one of us feels that each ring belongs to the person who has worn it over the years; the other believes that because of the symbolism of the rings, when the marriage has ended, each ring should be returned to its giver. PUZZLED IN PERTH, ONTARIO

DEAR PUZZLED: I vote with the party who believes that the wedding ring belongs to the person to whom it was given. Whether it's worn or tossed into a jewelry box is the decision of the owner — not the giver.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd see anything to beat the chutzpah of that couple who requested a gift of money in their wedding invitations, but here it is: The bride telephoned to say that she "knew" we'd be spending at least $50 on a gift, and they found something they wanted on sale for $50, so would we mind sending our check for $50 immediately so they could buy it?

I later learned that she had phoned several other people with similar requests for "sale" items they had seen. APPALLED IN MC COOK, NEB.

Women served alongside men in Panama action

FORT HOOD, Texas (AP) — During heavy fighting in Panama, women from this Army post's police detachment served alongside their male counterparts before the surrender of Gen. Manuel Noriega earlier this month.

Department of Defense policy excludes females from serving in combat units. Nevertheless, 12 Fort Hood military policewomen bolstered the force that included 112 men, Army officials said Tuesday.

"They knew what they had to do and they went out and did it," Capt. Steven Rathbun, commander of the 401st Military Police Company, told the Temple Daily Telegram.

"They went out just like everybody else and they were at the same places as the males. ... They all did a super job," Rathbun said.

Two women who said they were involved in heavy fighting believe "certain women" manage combat situations well. "A lot of women can handle combat," said Spec. Pamela Hengst, 21, who joined the military two years ago.

Also witnessing combat firsthand was Cpl. Tamara Elam, 23. A driver for her female platoon leader, she said she was only a few feet from Pfc. Scott Lee Roth when he was cut down in enemy cross fire on Dec. 20.

The only Fort Hood soldier killed in Panama was Roth, 19.

"It just depends on the person — anybody can freak out and anybody can handle it," said Ms. Elam of Olton, Texas. "It just depends on your make."

In the fighting's first day, her unit was responsible for securing major intersections and setting up roadblocks along the main attack route.

But the Fort Hood soldiers met heavy resistance and repeatedly came under fire in the first three days of fighting.

"It was scary," said Ms. Hengst, a native of Salisbury Mills, N.Y. "You weren't sure what was going to happen."

During the barrages, she and Ms. Elam said they returned fire. During one mission, Ms. Hengst said she carried the M60 machine gun, capable of firing several hundred rounds a minute.

The weapon is one of the heaviest individual weapons in the Army's arsenal and considered the most important in the unit because of its capability to provide great suppressive fire.

"Rounds were dropping all around us the first three days," said Staff Sgt. Gregory Borders, Ms. Hengst's squad leader. "That first night, everybody returned fire. We were receiving a lot of rounds from a lot of different directions."

Ms. Elam said putting women in combat situations is "not socially" acceptable to a lot of people. But Ms. Hengst said she believes her male comrades are confident of women's combat performance.

"They most definitely have a different attitude, now," she said.
