Hog judging marks opening of annual livestock show here

Crossbreed hogs exhibited by Mario Sanchez of Hermleigh and Jason Withers of Ira were chosen as the top two animals of the show Wednesday night as the 46th annual Scurry County Junior Livestock Show opened in the county coliseum agricultural annex.

Sanchez, a Hermleigh High School senior and representing the Hermleigh FFA, took the grand championship trophy with his heavyweight crossbreed, winning out in stringent competition against 298 other animals.

Withers, a senior at Ira High School and carrying the Ira FFA banner, won the reserve grand championship with his medium-weight crossbreed animal.

Mario is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sanchez, and Jason is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Withers.

Judged by Kenneth Dudenseng of Sweetwater, the show lasted from 5 to 11:30 p.m.

Competition will resume with the lamb show at 6 p.m. today and the steer show at 7 p.m. Friday.

Preston Faris of Sonora will judge 165 lambs and Billy Reagor of Ozona 48 steers.

The annual premium sale, with about $60,000 in cash bonuses to be offered for the top 50 hogs, 42 lambs and 26 steers, will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday in the ag annex.

Felony charges against former local deferred

A 44-year-old former Snyder man's four felony charges in Kansas in a pyramid scheme involving imaginary airplane flights have been placed in deferred prosecution status in exchange for his agreement to pay restitution and refrain from getting involved in such schemes in the future.

Eric Rosen, associate general counsel for the Kansas Securities Commission in Topeka, said Wednesday that the agreement for the charges against Glenn Polk to be "diverted" was worked out through Securities Commissioner Douglas Mays and Polk's attorney, Tom Smith of Liberal, Kan.

Rosen explained that the "diversion" of criminal charges in Kansas is similar to the "deferred prosecution" alternative that is used in Texas.

"The agreement is that Polk shall not take part in any investment contract or scheme in the form of an airplane program or scheme of similar nature, and shall refrain from any and all activities regulated under the Kansas Securities Act," Rosen said in a telephone interview.

The prosecutor said Polk, of Lubbock, agreed not to act as a broker, agent or seller of any investments or securities and to pay $1,000 to the state securities commission as restitution for the cost of its investigation.

The former city man was charged last May with two counts of selling unregistered securities, one of engaging in business as a broker-dealer or agent without being registered and with (see CHARGES, page 8)

Q—Has the deadline to pay city, college and school taxes been extended because of the county tax rollback election too?

A—No. City, college and school taxes will become delinquent if not paid on or before Jan. 31. The rollback has extended the deadline to pay county taxes without penalty until mid August because new statements have to be sent out.

In Brief

Bell talks stall

AUSTIN (AP) — Consumer advocates walked out on a proposed $1.23 billion four-year rate decrease for Southwestern Bell customers, saying they wanted a better deal for Texas telephone ratepayers.

Public Utility Counsel C. Kingsbery Ottmers, the state-paid consumer advocate, refused to participate in further negotiations with the telephone company and the staff of the Public Utility Commission Wednesday.

Scurry County...

Unemployment dips to 5.6%

Scurry County unemployment dropped to 5.6 percent in December, according to Texas Employment Commission estimates.

The figure was welcome following November's 6.2 percent, and was well below the year's average, which was 6.6 percent.

According to TEC estimates, 8,594 people were employed in the county and 511 were unemployed, but seeking work. Together, they make up a "civilian labor force" of 9,105, of which 511 is 5.6 percent.

From January through December, Scurry County averaged a 6.6 percent unemployment rate. The county's highest month of unemployment was January, which experienced 8.9 percent unemployment. The low came in October, when unemployment was down to 5.2 percent.

Statewide for December, unemployment was at a low of 5.8 percent.

"That is the lowest rate we have seen since December of 1984," said TEC Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers, "but unfortunately this does not reflect unemployment that resulted from the freeze in the Valley that occurred late in the month."

The Texas Employment Commission's data uses estimates taken from one week in the middle of December. Since the Valley freeze occurred the following week, the effects of that disaster will be reflected in January unemployment data.

Among the more populated areas of Texas, the Bryan-College Station area had the state's low unemployment rate of 3.6 percent in December while the McAllen-Edinburg-Mission area experienced 16.8 percent.

Texas leads nation in hospital closures

For the fourth consecutive year, Texas led the nation in the number of hospital closures, with 15 hospitals closing in 1989, according to the Texas Hospital Association, the industry's state trade association.

Among those closing were the Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital in Big Spring, the South Plains Hospital-Clinic, Inc., at Amherst; and the Sterling County Hospital in Sterling City.

In 1989, three hospitals reopened, including two that had closed earlier in the year.

Eleven of the 15 hospital closures were located in rural areas, which the hospital association defines as a county that is not part of a metropolitan statistical area. Only two of the 15 closed hospitals had more than 100 beds. Ownership of the closed hospitals was evenly divided among investor-owned, non-profit, and public.

Since 1980, Texas has lost 105 hospitals, and slightly more than half (56) were in rural areas. Only 10 had 100 beds or more. By ownership, 58 were investor-owned, 25 were non-profit, 20 were public, one was federal and one was state. Since 1980, 10 hospitals have re-opened, and two of these subsequently closed again.

Unemployment figures for other counties near Scurry included...

—ANDREWS, 6.2 percent with 21,169 employed out of a possible workforce of 22,563.

—BORDEN, 10.8 percent with 415 employed out of a possible workforce of 465.

Hospital board...

Wilson to be sworn in as new board member

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers today will recognize a retiring board member and welcome a new one, hear a year-end financial report and discuss a request to allow the Texas Department of Health office to relocate to the clinic building.

Dan Cotton, chairman of the board of managers, will be recognized as a retiring member in the 6:30 p.m. meeting, after which new appointee Bill Wilson III will be sworn in by County Judge Bobby Goodwin.

The board will also elect officers. In addition to Cotton, other officers are G.A. Parks, vice-president; and Jackie Smith, secretary. Also on the board are Brenda Hedges, Dr. Jim Palmer and Roy McQueen.

The Texas Department of Health office includes several programs, included the federally-funded Women, Infant and Children's (WIC) program.

Other items on the agenda include a medical staff report and a quality assurance report.

The SDN Column By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Anybody who thinks there is a shortage of coins hasn't taken up a collection lately."

With so much being said recently about what's bad in Snyder, we agree with some Snyder teachers that at least one really good thing is happening.

From all reports, the DARE program designed to help school children be informed about and say 'no' to drugs is a rip-roaring success.

Teachers think it's great, administrators think it's great, law enforcement thinks it's great—but most importantly, the kids think it's great.

Three Snyder elementary schools and Hermleigh were involved in the fall. This spring, three more Snyder schools will be in the program along with Ira.

Sheryll Reed, fifth-year 6th-grade teacher at Northeast has only praise for Sheriff's Deputy Charlie Reynolds who is in each class one day each week.

Mrs. Reed believes that the officer being in the classroom and getting personally involved with each student allows the student the opportunity to develop a positive attitude about a police officer.

She says the officer also helps the children feel better about themselves. "Mr. Reynolds is very patient and caring with each student, and he is motivated and enthused about the program."

It's not just a job for Reynolds, who tries to get involved with students by attending class, recess and eating with them in the cafeteria.

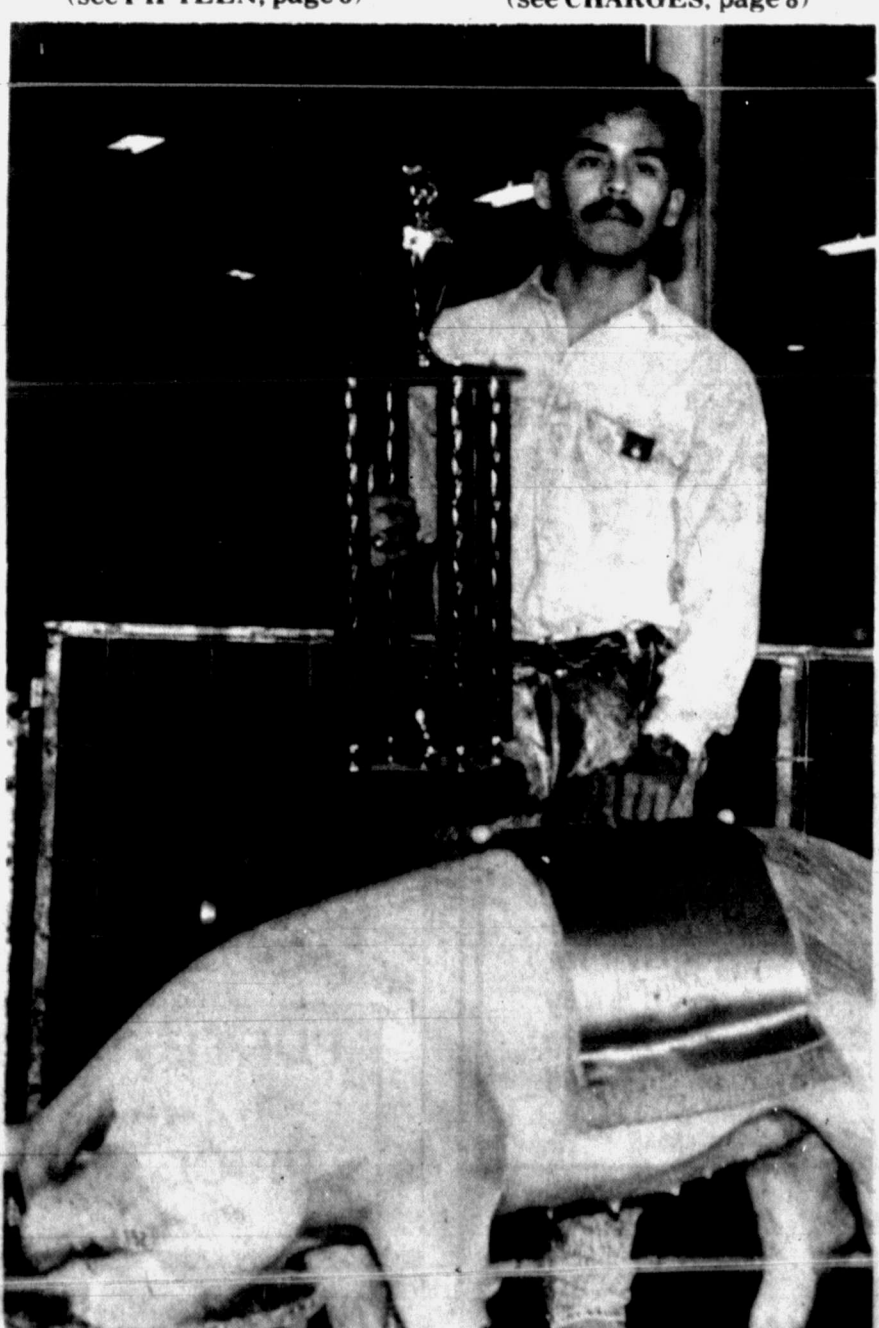

During the year, Mrs. Reed has asked students to express their views about the program. Here's a sample:

—You are the first officer I have talked to.
—You are a very good friend.
—Learning about drugs will help me stay away from them.

—I have learned more than I thought about drugs.
—You always cheered me up.

—I want to thank you for putting up with me. Helping and caring for me. I hate for DARE to be over...

—I'm going to stay drug-free.
With a little time and a few more people like Reynolds, maybe the Drug War can be won.

Meeting ends with no endorsements

AUSTIN (AP) — In the end, neither blinked. At the Texas AFL-CIO endorsement convention Wednesday, Attorney General Jim Mattox had more than enough votes to block state Treasurer Ann Richards, in their battle for the Democratic Party nomination for governor.

And Ms. Richards had just enough votes to frustrate Mattox. The result was a bitter floor fight that careened into down ballot races, leaving Democrats without any endorsements from the powerful labor bloc.

After the convention abruptly ended, bitter supporters of Mattox and Ms. Richards shouted at each other and waved placards for nearly an hour.

Bob Krueger, a political veteran and Railroad Commission candidate, quoted humorist Will Rogers as he watched the uproar: "I'm not a member of any organized group, I'm a Democrat."

"Ann Richards and her minority destroyed the endorsement of the other candidates," Mattox said.

Ms. Richards saw it differently. "I didn't want to see this divisiveness and fight in the first place. I regret he uses these inflammatory remarks," she said.

Both campaigns blamed the other for the failure of the 213,000-member labor group to endorse anyone in any statewide race. The organization only considered Democratic candidates.

The Richards campaign said Mattox should not have sought the group's endorsement when it was obvious that after three test votes he fell short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

Mattox supporters said that since they were close to the two-thirds plateau they would have been foolish to give up. They say Ms. Richards should have released her delegates in the interest of unity. "It's an unusual thing when the minority tells the majority 'You join us so we won't divide organized labor.' It defies logic," Mattox said.

Ms. Richards said, "What I want is for these people to work for whomever they choose." Former Gov. Mark White, another leading Democrat in the race for governor, did not emerge as a force at the convention.

The failure to endorse candidates in any of the down ballot elections has a substantial side effect, according to Texas AFL-CIO president Joe Gunn.

This means that although Mattox had the most support, none of the union members can help his campaign.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our 29-year-old daughter has been told she must have her spleen removed. She was diagnosed with low platelets in the sixth month of her first pregnancy, was placed on steroids and delivered a healthy baby. Now her doctor says something in her immune system is causing her spleen to destroy all the platelets. Because of insurance regulations, we can't afford another opinion.

DEAR READER: The spleen, a spongy organ lying under the diaphragm in the upper left abdomen, has several functions, the most important of which appears to be filtration; the normal spleen traps worn-out or defective blood cells, breaks them down and releases their components to be re-used in making new blood cells.

On occasion, in patients with certain blood disorders — such as thrombocytopenia (low platelet count) — the spleen becomes overly aggressive and filters out too many platelets. In such cases, splenectomy (spleen removal) may prevent the complications of a low platelet count, such as a tendency to bleed. Surgery may be avoided if steroid drugs, which help correct thrombocytopenia, prove beneficial, as they did in your daughter's case.

I think a second opinion is necessary. Not only might it save your daughter the discomfort and risk of surgery, it could save a good deal of expense: A second opinion would cost much less than an operation.

Most insurance companies welcome second opinions. In fact, some insurers even insist on them before major surgery. Contact your insurance underwriter, explain your dilemma and request coverage for a second opinion.

In addition, share your concerns with your daughter's doctor. Most physicians I know will adjust their rates to accommodate people experiencing a financial squeeze. Above all, don't let your daughter consent to a procedure for economic, rather than purely medical, reasons.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Insuring Your Good Health." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had severe rheumatoid arthritis for 18 years and have been given every known drug for it. Several of the drugs have caused major hair loss. Is there any help for me before I go bald?

DEAR READER: First, see a dermatologist to determine the cause of your hair loss and whether the situation can be corrected. While it's true that many medicines cause hair loss, the problem almost always goes away once the offending drug has been discontinued. Therefore, you may be going bald for other reasons, such as a skin disorder that can be treated, or heredity, which probably can't.

Second, make an appointment with a rheumatologist, a specialist in arthritis. Rheumatoid arthritis is now treatable with a wide variety of medicines, ranging from anti-inflammatory drugs to gold or cortisone.

A specialist could review the drugs you have taken and advise you about future options. For example, an inexpensive drug, such as aspirin, that won't cause hair loss might reduce your symptoms.

Ecologist wants pilot program to be extended

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A leading ecologist publicly urged Mexico City authorities to extend year-round a pilot project restricting motor vehicle circulation one day a week in winter to help combat air pollution.

Homero Aridjis, secretary of the Group of 100 Intellectuals and Artists, issued the appeal after ozone readings in many parts of the capital topped the dangerous level of 283 points on Tuesday.

Readings of up to 100 points on Mexico's air monitoring scale are considered fair, and up to 200 unsuitable but tolerable. Anything over 200 is considered dangerous and over 300 very dangerous.

Death Row inmates say...

Clarence Brandley's case was special

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Clarence Brandley's release from Death Row sparked excitement among his fellow inmates awaiting execution, but the Texas prisoners said the former Conroe janitor had a special case.

"I wish it was me, but my case ain't Brandley's case," said Carl Kelly, who faces execution next month for his part in a 1980 robbery-slitting in Waco. "The man was framed for a crime. I don't think he should ever have gone to trial."

Kelly, whose cell was four cells away from Brandley's, said Wednesday he wished Brandley luck as he watched guards lead his friend in handcuffs away from the death row wing Tuesday.

Brandley, 38, who once came within five days of execution, was released on a $75,000 bond Tuesday, a month after the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals threw out his capital murder conviction for the 1980 rape-slitting of a 16-year-old Bellville girl. The court issued its final mandate in the case Monday, confirming its decision that Brandley did not receive a fair trial.

After securing the bond, Brandley's attorneys quickly hustled to the Ellis II Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections, retrieved their client and drove him to Houston for a tearful reunion with family members and supporters.

"Who wouldn't want to be walking out the gate, vindicated in most of the public's eye, going home to your kids, starting a new life?" asked inmate James Beathard.

"It happens so rarely. It's never happened that he walked directly off the row and out the front door — never out the front door of the death row wing," added Lester Bower, who is awaiting death for the slayings of four men during a 1983 robbery outside Sherman.

"It was the novelty of it," inmate Roger DeGarmo said. "It shows there is a way to handle the system."

But Beathard, like Kelly, said there will be little impact from Brandley's case on other death row inmates.

"As far as having implications for the rest of us here, one would have expected this would have a favorable effect, but I've seen it happen with too many other cases where it hasn't had an effect," said Beathard, sentenced to die in 1985 for killing a 14-year-old boy, one of three members of a Trinity County family slain in a plot to collect on their estate.

"The public looks at it and gets all interested in it and are thrilled to death until the end of the week when the next news story comes up," Beathard said. "You have your hopes up but you're kind of reserved."

"I'm cynical," DeGarmo agreed. "It's encouraging that something like this happens on a case. But you know the media — a week later and it goes inside the

Freeze effect on economy: $450 million

AUSTIN (AP) — South Texas producers suffered $138 million in crop losses from the Christmas freeze, which will have a $450 million negative impact on the state economy, the Texas Department of Agriculture has reported.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower also said Wednesday that more than 17,500 workers are facing the rest of the winter without jobs or adequate food, shelter and clothing.

"Thousands of our poorest neighbors now need help to pay for food, utility services, transportation and repairs to pipes that were frozen during last month's cold blast," he said.

Ingredients on hand for quick fix muffin recipe

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

Muffins are the first-choice quick breads at our house. They're quick to mix from ingredients I always have on hand. For weekday breakfasts, I measure and mix the dry ingredients the night before, then just stir in the liquid ingredients and bake in the morning. For weekend breakfasts and with soup or salad suppers, I prepare the rest of the meal while they bake.

These muffins get appetizing golden-brown, bumpy tops as they bake. Yogurt makes them light and moist; pears and lemon make them tangy-sweet.

PEAR YOGURT MUFFINS

2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 slightly beaten egg
One 8-ounce carton plain yogurt
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup cooking oil
1 teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice
One 8-ounce can pears, drained and diced

In a medium mixing bowl stir together flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. In a small mixing bowl stir together egg, yogurt, milk, oil, lemon peel and lemon juice. Add to dry ingredients along with diced pears. Stir just until mixed. Fill lightly greased muffin cups 3/4 full. Bake in a 400-degree F oven for 20 to 25 minutes, until golden brown.

QUICK TO MIX — Quick to fix. You don't need any special ingredients for these pear yogurt muffins. Everything comes from your refrigerator or pantry, including the canned pears. (Better Homes and Gardens Photo)

Patience valuable asset for handyman do-it-yourselfer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Years ago, when I first became interested in doing-it-myself, I read every book I could find that would help me discover the shortcuts to getting good results.

I soon learned two things: (1) that there are no shortcuts more valuable than patience and the active experience of tackling things that previously seemed unapproachable; and (2) that I would have no money left to buy any do-it-yourself materials if I bought all the do-it-yourself books on the market.

Three recent books are targeted towards the handyman specialist. For those who like to make the most of their furniture, there's "The Weekend Refinisher" by Bruce Johnson. For the woodworker, there's "Carpentry: Tools, Shelves, Walls, Doors" by Black & Decker. And for those who like to work with stone, there's "Building With Stone" by Charles McRaven.

Johnson makes this observation: "Busy schedules are a fact of life, but they are not going to deter those who would rather do a refinishing project themselves than have it done by someone else." Mail from readers over the years makes it plain this very definitely is so.

Thousands of pieces of furniture are refinished every year by do-it-yourselfers simply because the furniture needs refinishing. But there must be 10 times as many that get refinished just because somebody wants to refinish a piece of furniture. In short, wood finishing has become more of a hobby than a necessity. The ideal situation, of course, is when a hobby is utilized to produce needed and practical results, no matter what the endeavor.

"The Weekend Refinisher" does a fine job of advising you how to restore furniture, whether it needs just a cleaning or major construction. Solutions to problems are presented clearly in down-to-earth language and with some humor. Johnson does not hesitate to tell of his own uncertainty at times.

"I once spent four weeks with a rosewood piano that had been stored in a leaky garage," he says, "only one week of which I used to do the actual work. The first three weeks I spent staring at the piano, trying to decide where to start."

"Carpentry: Tools, Shelves, Walls, Doors" features striking color photographs along with a limited but effective amount of textual matter. It's a book that gives visual pleasure as well as spreads knowledge. If you work with wood and want clear information about basic carpentry, this book is for you. You'll be astounded at the brilliant color and clarity of the photographs.

"Building With Stone" tells you how to do what the title says. It gives detailed instructions for constructing walls, fireplaces, dams, bridges, walkways, wells, buttresses and many other things, even a house or barn.

The writing makes it clear the author has a great fondness for stone as a material per se as well as something which can be used for building.

He tells of building a stone arch as part of a de-modernizing restoration of a 70-year-old building and adds: "That arch will long outlive me, since the building is a National Historic Landmark. It should be intact for many generations. That's what building with stone is all about: time. Time is needed to put together the oldest and most durable of materials and have the structure stand for as long as anything stands in this world."

"For the refinisher, the carpenter and the stoneworkers, amateur or pro, these books hit the mark."

"The Weekend Refinisher" is published by Ballantine Books. "Carpentry: Tools, Shelves, Walls, Doors" by Black & Decker and Cy DeCoose, Minnetonka, Minn.; and "Building With Stone" by Garden Way and Storey Communications, Pownal, VT)

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much helpful information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $3 to this paper at P.O. Box 1055, Brick, N.J. 08723.)

Leading against one no-trump

By James Jacoby

What should West lead against one no-trump? One theory is that when responder bids one no-trump, denying a four-card major suit, the best bet for the defense is to try to take tricks in the majors. That was West's thinking when he led the spade four. A better theory is that since the opponents have stopped at one no-trump, partner has 6-10 high-card points. Therefore, in this deal, chances are good that he will hold the ace or jack of diamonds. And even if the diamond lead is not best, at least West will be leading from his best suit.

On West's spade lead declarer played low from dummy, and East put in the jack. South won the queen and led the jack of hearts. East took the king, and returned the two of spades. Declarer now ran the remaining hearts in dummy, discarding a spade on the fourth heart. West had to discard twice. He let go a diamond, and then, little suspecting that South held so much in the club suit, he parted with a club. The sad result from the defenders' standpoint was that declarer made five club tricks, three hearts and three spades for 11 tricks. Needless to say, if West starts a diamond on the go, and the defenders take four diamond tricks and switch to a safe heart lead, declarer will probably take only seven tricks. Leading fourth best from the longest and strongest suit is certainly the winner here.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books. © 1990, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Caterer of Ford party is nervous

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — The guest list includes Fords, Edisons and Firestones, and the man who's catering the party Friday night marking the restoration of Henry Ford's winter home in Florida is excited about it.

Don Smith, a caterer whose previous jobs were always Ohio affairs, also conceded Wednesday that he's a bit nervous. "I guess we call this stage fright," said Smith, owner of the Allisten Manor restaurant and Smith Catering in this western Ohio city.

More than 500 guests are expected at Ford's home — called The Mangoes. The historic, lodgelike residence is owned by the city of Fort Myers.

Poll shows Landry Hall of Fame cinch

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry appears a cinch to be voted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame Saturday, a newspaper reported today after canvassing 26 of the 30 sports writers who will vote on the 15 finalists.

Landry needs about 25 of the 30 votes to make the Hall of Fame on the first ballot.

Of the 26 voters on the Hall of Fame election committee polled by the Dallas Times Herald, the newspaper said 25 replied they definitely will vote for the former Cowboys coach. One said he was leaning toward Landry, but wouldn't make a final decision until Saturday's election.

"I would vote for him four times if I had a chance," said Chicago Tribune sportswriter Cooper Rollow, who represents the Bears.

Twenty-eight of the voters represent the NFL's 28 teams. Baltimore Sun sportswriter John Steadman holds an at-large ballot. The 30th vote is held by Chicago Tribune sportswriter Don Pierson, president of the Pro Football Writers Association of America.

Most of those polled said they expect Landry to be elected easily on the first ballot and be enshrined next summer at the hall in Canton, Ohio.

"I would be thoroughly shocked if he didn't get in," Philadelphia Daily News columnist Ray Didingier said.

Some of the other top candidates among the 15 finalists are running back Franco Harris, linebacker Jack Lambert and wide receiver Lynn Swann, all of Pittsburgh; quarterback Kenny Stabler of the Raiders; and defensive end Jack Youngblood of the Rams.

Candidates will need about 80 percent of the vote, depending on how many voters attend the meeting. As many as seven or as few as three new members can be elected, officials said.

Aggie coach claims win in first outing

Interim head coach John Thornton got off to a good start as the Texas A&M Aggies broke a three-game losing streak in his debut.

Lynn Suber scored 22 points to lead the Aggies to an 89-82 victory over Rice.

In other Southwest Conference action Wednesday night, Texas Christian defeated Texas Tech, 62-52, and Houston took an easy 64-47 victory over Southern Methodist.

All five Aggies starters were in double figures, led by Tony Milton with 20 points and Darren Rhea with 18. Brent Scott led Rice with 27 points and 13 rebounds.

The victory broke a three-game losing streak for A&M, now 10-10 for the season and 3-3 in SWC action. Rice, which had won four straight conference games, fell to 9-7 and 4-2.

Texas A&M led by as many as nine points in the first half, but Rice pulled to within 45-41 at halftime. Marvin Moore's three-point basket with 14 minutes remaining gave the Owls a 55-54 lead, but Suber and Rhea countered with baskets that put A&M ahead 58-55, and the Aggies never again trailed.

Thornton was named interim coach on Monday after the firing of Shelby Metcalf, who had been the Aggies' head coach for 26½ years.

Several A&M players said they dedicated the game to Metcalf.

"This game was for Shelby. I was playing this game strictly for Shelby. Before the game, we had a little talk, and I told the team, 'Let's take 3 for Shelby,'" Milton said.

Guard Brooks Thompson said: "We were so emotional. We had a lot of inspiration and a lot to prove to Texas A&M and ourselves," guard Brooks Thompson said. "We've become a lot closer the past two days. I just wish Coach Metcalf could have been here for us to come together."

Thornton said he was worried going into the game about what kind of effort his team would be able to give because of the flurry of activity surrounding the coaching change.

"If we could get the effort, we knew we would be all right. It was a real team effort from the word go," Thornton said.

Kelvin Crawford scored 15 points as Texas Christian kept Texas Tech winless in the Southwest Conference with a 62-52 victory.

The win pushed the Horned Frogs to 9-8 overall and 3-4 in SWC action. The loss dropped the Red Raiders to 5-12 overall and 0-7 in the league.

Craig Sibley added 14 and Tony Edmond had 11 for TCU.

Reserve Barron Brown led the Red Raiders with 14 points. Will Flemons and Drex Butts added 12 each for the losers.

Frogs coach Moe Iba said he was happy for the win.

"We didn't play well in the first half, we got outthudded and we didn't rebound at all," he said. "We made some big plays in the second half to win, but you won't win many games playing like we did tonight."

Houston's Byron Smith scored 19 points and Carl Herrera pulled down 17 rebounds and blocked six shots as the Cougars defeated the SMU Mustangs 64-47.

Houston improved to 13-6 overall and 4-3 in the conference, while SMU fell to 6-9 and 1-5.

NBA roundup...

L.A. coach claims 500th win

Pat Riley had plenty of people to thank for his unprecedented run of coaching success — all the players he's had on the Los Angeles Lakers.

"The team is committed to many things; all of those things are about winning," Riley said Wednesday night after the Lakers beat Indiana 120-111 for his 500th coaching victory. "I will say that about my 300th, then 400th, 500th and even 600th — it's a great team."

Riley became the 13th coach in NBA history to win 500 games, and he did it much faster than any other coach — in 684 games. Don Nelson of Golden State achieved his 500th win in 817 games.

The defeat of the Pacers also assured Riley of his eighth All-Star coaching berth in nine years.

"I can't believe I've coached 700 or 800 games," Riley said. "Life flies. It seems like just yesterday, but versatility and depth are winning it for us."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Boston 116, Miami 95; Philadelphia 125, Orlando 103; Atlanta 103, Cleveland 86; San Antonio 106, the Los Angeles Clippers 98; Milwaukee 119, Seattle 112 and Sacramento 129, Golden State 99.

Texas' Ryan award winner

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Rangers pitcher Nolan Ryan, who had 301 strikeouts in 1989 to push his career total past the 5,000 mark, was honored as Texas Professional Athlete of the Year by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Ryan, who played out his option with the Houston Astros following the 1988 season, had a 16-10 record and a 3.20 earned run average in his first season with the Texas Rangers.

It was Ryan's sixth season with 300 or more strikeouts. He got 55 of 83 first-place votes for 511 points that far outdistanced golfer Tom Kite, who won three tournaments and led the PGA Tour in earnings in 1989. Kite, an Austin native, had nine first-place votes and 344 points.

Rangers outfielder Ruben Sierra finished third in the TSWA voting, with Houston Oilers quarterback Warren Moon fourth.

Chicago Bears linebacker Mike Singletary was the TSWA's 1988 pro athlete of the year.

Tigers battle for first place

Snyder's Tigers will face off against Pecos in a District 4-4A basketball showdown tomorrow at Scurry County Coliseum.

Snyder, second in the loop with a 6-1 record, tries to pull even with the Eagles who are currently in first place at 7-0.

The SHS Lady Tigers will go to Pecos to tangle with the Lady Eagles.

Varsity games begin at 7:30 p.m. at their respective sites while the JV contests start at 6 p.m.

Snyder's opponents for Friday were incorrectly listed in yesterday's SDN Sportsweek as being Big Spring.

WTC takes on Hawks

Dusters, Westerners face tough HC squads

WTC takes its basketball show on the road with games pitting the Dusters and Westerners against the men's and women's teams of Howard College tonight.

Both Western Texas squads are coming off impressive wins.

The women beat the Lady Thunderbirds of New Mexico Junior College, 66-42, and the Westerners edged the men's team 121-119 in a nail-biter Monday night.

The Lady Dusters were led by the long-distance shooting of Bobbie Brown, who scored 21 points and hit five three-pointers in the contest.

WTC jumped out to a 16-0 lead before the Lady T-birds even scored.

The win also allowed point guard Carla Gladden, a freshman from Morning Side High School in Inglewood, Cal., to rest.

Gladden is nursing pulled muscles in both legs.

She is still not at 100 percent and her status for tonight's game is in question.

If Gladden can't go tonight her fill-in will be freshman Vicky Jones.

"If Vicky Jones has as good a game at point guard against Howard as she had against New Mexico we'll be in good shape," coach Kelly Chadwick stated.

Brown is still tending a muscle pull in her leg and sophomore post Tami Wilson got a thigh bruise a week ago against South Plains College that has her bandaged.

"We're not going to try anything any different," said Chadwick.

"Royce (Chadwick, coach of Howard's women and son of Kelly) likes a more conservative game. The tempo will likely be slower than we've been seeing lately."

"I expect a good basketball game," he said, but it should be low-scoring. It'll be a defensive ball game."

Western Texas, 14-6 on the year and 2-3 within the Western Junior College Athletic Conference, faced Howard earlier in the cage season during WTC's women's tournament in November.

Howard nipped the Dusters in that encounter, 54-52.

The Lady Hawks are fresh for the battle after having an open date Monday.

Howard boasts 5-6 sophomore Monique Cook who ranks in the top ten in the conference in turnovers with almost four a game, assists with 5.4 per outing and steals with a 4.3 average per tilt.

The Western Texas men are still riding high after defeating a New Mexico Junior College team that upset a tough Odessa College squad in Odessa earlier in the season.

WTC took an early 20-6 lead but had to fight and scratch for the win in the last moments of a game that featured Dominick Byrd of the Westerners scoring 24 points and WTC's Alfredo Porter connecting on five three-point hoops.

Byrd is currently ranked in the top ten among WJCAC scorers averaging almost 19 points per contest.

He is listed as the top rebounder in the conference also, pulling down 10.7 boards a game, just .6 of a rebound ahead of teammate sophomore Kenneth Critton who averages 10.1

Howard, currently ranked No. 3 in the nation, is undefeated on the season at 20-0.

"As much as anything, what we'll have to do against Howard is stop their two top players inside," said WTC men's coach Tony Mauldin.

"They are balanced enough but Lewis and McDowell can really hurt you."

Lewis is Terrence Lewis, a sophomore guard who makes his living off outside shooting and is hitting over 62 percent of his shots this season.

Johnny McDowell, a freshman from Tuscaloosa, Ala., is shooting almost 70 percent from the floor, mostly in the paint and is pulling down about 10 rebounds per contest.

"The other thing we'll have to try to do is stop their fast break and keep them off the offensive boards," Mauldin said.

The WTC-Howard match-up will feature the two top scoring offenses in the country. Howard is lighting up the scoreboard to the tune of 110.8 points per game while WTC averages almost 109 points.

Coach Steve Green's Howard College offense is anchored by returning post Carlos Thum and guards Lewis and Frank Henderson.

Newcomers for the 1989-90 Howard cage season include forwards McDowell and Keith Rucker of Detroit.

The games begin with the women's tip-off at 6 p.m. followed at 8 p.m. by the men's contest.

No. 16 LSU upset by Georgia, 94-92

By The Associated Press

Chris Jackson enjoyed another pretty fair game. But from the free throw line, No. 16 LSU was pretty foul.

The Tigers missed the front end of 10 straight 1-and-1s late in the game and, despite Jackson's 45 points, lost to Georgia 94-92 in overtime Wednesday night.

"We knew that free throw shooting was our Achilles heel," LSU coach Dale Brown said. "And last year, we were the best free throw shooting team in the league and No. 4 in the nation. Maybe they should get their tails out there a little early and practice shooting free throws."

In other games, No. 8 Duke beat North Carolina State 85-82 in overtime, No. 9 Oklahoma defeated Iowa State 107-96, Michigan State upended No. 12 Indiana 75-57, No. 15 St. John's stopped Providence 83-75 and No. 20 Connecticut downed Central Connecticut 99-77.

LSU failed at the foul line in the last seven minutes of regulation and the first three minutes of overtime. The Tigers made just 20 of 36 free throws and Shaquille O'Neal missed eight of 13.

Georgia is 11-5 overall and 4-3 in the SEC. LSU is 12-4 and 4-3.

Wood resting after surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Gordon Wood, who coached his football teams to more victories than any other schoolboy coach in the nation, was recovering today following double bypass surgery at St. Luke's Hospital.

Wood, 75, was moved from intensive care to a private room at the hospital Wednesday night.

Heart surgery pioneer Dr. Denton Cooley performed the surgery Monday on Wood, who retired from coaching in 1985.

He coached from 1940-85 and had a record of 405-88-12. He finished his career at Brownwood High School, but had coached at Rule, Roscoe, Seminole, Winters, Stamford and Victoria.

Wood was admitted to St. Luke's last Thursday to undergo tests. He had severe chest pains, but his wife said that he had not had a heart attack.

Fifteen Texas hospitals close

"While the closure rate moderated in 1989, the problems affecting hospitals have not abated," said Jim Houdek, senior vice president of health care finance. "The pressures caused by inadequate payment from Medicare and Medicaid are going to be more intense in 1990, due to federal budget cuts."

Texas hospitals lost an average of $619 per Medicare patient during the third quarter of 1989, according to DataPulse, an information collection and reporting program implemented by THA in 1989. Urban hospitals reported a loss of $645 while rural hospitals showed an average loss of $574 per Medicare patient. Medicaid, the joint state and federal insurance program for the poor, also paid Texas hospitals less than the cost of treating its beneficiaries. On average, Texas hospitals lost $601 per Medicaid patient, with urban hospitals showing a loss of $655, and rural hospitals $289, for the third quarter of 1989.

"In addition, Texas hospitals provide a tremendous amount of uncompensated care. DataPulse indicates that on average, uncompensated care represents more than 10 percent of the hospital's total patient load. That means that one out of every 10 patients cannot pay for their care."

In addition to the financial problems, many Texas hospitals are adversely affected by a shortage of personnel, including nurses, various therapists and pharmacists. Rural Texas hospitals often find it difficult to recruit and retain physicians, Houdek noted.

Son fears dad

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Charles Rothenberg began his parole in a secret location wired with an electronic leash, while the son he set afire seven years ago says he won't feel safe until the day his father dies.

Rothenberg left prison early Wednesday, beginning three years' probation, said Tipton Kindel, spokesman for the state Department of Corrections in Sacramento.

At a news conference later, 13-year-old David Rothenberg told reporters he fears his father will try to see him again.

Polk was arrested in Garden City, Kan., and was freed on a $5,000 bond pending the adjudication of the charges.

Mays said then that his agency opened its investigation into the "Airplane" pyramid promotion in the late summer of 1987, explaining that the scheme involved the recruitment of eight "passengers" who paid $1,500 apiece to board an imaginary flight.

Then the "flight" would be split into two flights, with the passengers advancing to "crew member" status when they recruited more passengers. The object was to advance to the "pilot" level, where $12,000 would be collected.

Mays said notices were sent to 104 people, many of them Garden City area residents, to cease the game, and Polk was the only one to face criminal charges.

Heart Patient Finds Strict Parking Laws a Handicap

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Concerning handicap parking spaces: In Massachusetts, the law is such that if you are in a wheelchair and cannot walk even one step (as my mother was) you cannot get a handicap plate. I know. I begged the powers that be to give her one. She had doctors' requests, but the answer was a resounding no. You must have at least one foot missing.

My uncle, who lives in New Mexico, has a handicap plate, and he can dance the jitterbug! He is a handicapped veteran. The laws are not as strict in New Mexico.

Why the entire country doesn't have uniform laws concerning parking spaces for disabled people is beyond my comprehension. I live in Florida now, and while I am not familiar with the laws of this state, this I do know: Even though a borrowed vehicle has handicap plates that entitle the owner to park in a preferred area, no able-bodied person should use that space.

Everyone seeing anyone whom they believe to be a healthy person drive into the handicap parking space should write the license number down and report it. If the person is not qualified, then reporting them will finally result in the revocation of the plate for whom it is issued. And people who own the plates will be more careful of the inconsiderate persons they lend their cars to.

Before my open-heart surgery in Massachusetts, I could not walk 10 feet. I could not get a plate either.

E.C. IN WINTER HAVEN, FLA.

DEAR E.C.: One does not have to have a "missing foot" to get a handicap plate in Massachusetts. According to the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles, one must suffer the permanent loss of the use of at least one foot or leg, not the foot or leg itself. Your difficulty in obtaining a permit for yourself may have arisen because your physician could not state that your handicap was permanent.

This year, the Massachusetts RMV further expanded the law to include "class 3 and 4" heart patients, by virtue of the sever-

Staubach quits campaign

DALLAS (AP) - A disagreement over the volatile abortion issue has prompted former Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach to sever his ties with the gubernatorial campaign of Dallas lawyer Tom Luce.

Luce has taken a pro-choice stand on the issue that has divided voters within the Republican party.

Staubach had served as co-chairman for Luce's campaign.

Luce had used Staubach's name on fund-raising letters as late as last month, but The Dallas Morning News reported Wednesday that Staubach had reassessed his public involvement in the campaign in light of his own opposition to abortion.

In a brief statement read by an aide, Staubach said Wednesday he is not involved in any gubernatorial race.

"Tom Luce and I don't agree on the issue of abortion," he said, "but I feel there are many issues that are facing Texas such as education, economic development and the fight against drug

Rapist who escaped now in custody

TYLER, Texas (AP) - Smith County officers have apprehended a convicted rapist who jumped up from a dentist's chair and eluded officers by running down the street while shedding his jail clothing.

Authorities arrested Michael Rochelle Williams Wednesday afternoon at the vacant house of Williams' grandfather, according to Sheriff B.J. Smith.

Williams, convicted last November of aggravated sexual assault and sentenced to life in prison, had complained of a toothache Monday and was taken in handcuffs and chains to a dentist's office for treatment.

But authorities took the handcuffs and chains off when they put Williams in the dentist's chair.

2 recall petitions filed...

Big Spring mayor won't quit

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) - For the second time in his nine months in office, some citizens are circulating petitions calling for the recall of Mayor Max Green.

Five months ago, it was because Green broke a City Council tie by voting against raising property taxes. Supporters of the increase, who said the police department needed the money, didn't get enough signatures to force a recall election.

This time, citizens are angry because Green publicly alleged there was gambling in the police force. Teacher Carrie Dunnam began circulating the petition Wednesday, and two City Council members have urged Green to quit.

The petition needs about 880 signatures to force a recall election, officials said.

Green declined comment Wednesday. At Tuesday's City Council meeting, he said he would not quit.

Last week, Green confirmed reports that he had received citizens' complaints that some members of the police department were operating a board on which bets were placed on scores of football games. The mayor said the alleged gambling was going on at the police station and that he believed police chief Joe Cook was aware of it.

Cook has said the accusations are groundless, and termed Green's allegations demeaning and demoralizing. He said Monday he has begun an investigation and will forward the results to city manager Hal Boyd.

Ms. Dunnam said Green should have responded with a "no comment" when news reporters asked him last week about the gambling allegations. Instead, he confirmed them.

"I feel he has carried out the duties of his office irresponsibly," Ms. Dunnam said. "Standard procedure and common sense would dictate you would follow procedures within the city government instead of going to the press."

Councilwoman Pat DeAnda - who was behind the failed recall drive last year - said the mayor was on "nothing more than a witch hunt" and was seeking publicity when he made the accusations. She said she would like to see him step down.

Councilwoman Gail Earls also has called for Green's resignation.

"I have nothing personally against Mayor Green," Ms. Earls said. "I've known him for 20 years. But as mayor, he is not effective. I believe it would be better for the city if he would resign. It would save the people of Big Spring the cost and trouble of a recall election."

Heart Association still okays labeling, despite FDA stand

NEW YORK (AP) - The U.S. Food and Drug Administration took a last-minute stand against a plan to label foods deemed safe by the American Heart Association, but the organization says it will go ahead anyway.

The program, known as Heartguide, is scheduled to begin Monday. It's an ambitious effort by the association to make consumers smarter shoppers by identifying products low in saturated fat, total fat, cholesterol and sodium.

The program has been in the works for three years, but Acting FDA Commissioner James S. Benson told the association Wednesday it risked regulatory action if it proceeded with the plan.

"FDA believes that your program will increase consumer confusion and hamper any comprehensive solution to the food labeling program," Benson wrote to the group.

The association decided to proceed.

"We've already talked to the companies" participating in the program, and "they are in," said a Heartguide spokeswoman, Jany Poth.

Products tested and approved by the association would, for a fee, carry a symbol made up of a red heart and a check mark.

Discussions have been held with the FDA throughout the past year, said Vicki Anderson, another spokeswoman for Heartguide, and the heart association was distressed with the last-minute letter.

But an FDA spokesman said the agency has expressed concerns to the association during the past year.

"I would think they would have been aware of them," said the spokesman, Jeff Nesbit.

In the wake of the letter, the second phase of the program - in which cereals, cheese, cookies, pasta, salad dressings and other foods will be included - has been put on hold to allow time for further negotiations with the FDA, Anderson said.

The FDA has no authority to act before products are sold, Nesbit said. Once they are on supermarket shelves, however, the agency determines whether labels are misleading.

If it determined that the association's seal of approval was misleading, it could order that the symbol be removed. Or it could seek a court order to block the sale of products with the symbol, or seize them, Nesbit said.

The program has been criticized on the grounds that competitive pressures would force companies to participate, and that it promotes certain foods instead of promoting the idea of a healthy overall diet.

The association said its educational program will make clear that Heartguide-approved foods should be incorporated into a diet that is beneficial overall.

The fees paid to the association - up to $640,000, depending upon a product's sales - also have been criticized.

"What we see here is a realization by the government agencies that you have a non-profit, private organization, a non-regulated organization, trying to establish a set of rules and regulations on labeling - for a fee. I think that's wrong," said John Cady, president of the National Food Processors Association, which has vigorously opposed the program.

More than 100 brands of margarine, oil, crackers and vegetables already have been tested and approved.

Millikin University's founder, philanthropist James Millikin, was so publicity-shy that he declined a place on the platform when President Theodore Roosevelt dedicated the new university in 1903. Millikin preferred to mingle with the crowd.

Officer to remain free pending his appeals

MIAMI (AP) — A Hispanic police officer was free on bond and predicting his vindication after receiving a seven-year prison term for the deaths of two blacks. One critic called the sentence "justice delayed and justice denied."

Officer William Lozano thanked his supporters after being sentenced Wednesday by Dade Circuit Judge Joseph Farina. "My attorney, my family and I will continue to fight within the system for the truth, for what is right, and at the end, we will win," Lozano said.

Lozano, 30, was convicted last month on two counts of manslaughter for fatally shooting an unarmed black motorcyclist, sending the vehicle crashing into a car and killing the motorcycle's passenger. The deaths ignited riots by blacks.

The defense contended that Lozano shot in self-defense because the motorcyclist tried to run him down.

"This court cannot do perfect justice in this case," said Farina, who called the deaths and resultant trial a "tragic incident."

Supporters of the Colombian-born officer cheered as they left the courtroom after Farina said Lozano could remain free on $10,000 bond pending the outcome of his appeal.

Patricia Lloyd, sister of slain motorcyclist Clement Lloyd, 23, said she wished the sentence had been longer.

"I see this as both a case now of justice delayed and justice denied," said Marvin Dunn, a black psychology professor at Florida International University. "Seven years does not in fact mean seven years in prison."

But Dunn, who wrote a book on Miami's 1980 race riots, said he hoped blacks would accept the sentence with equanimity.

"What we have to be concerned about is whether or not the perception of a miscarriage of justice now resurfaces in the black community," Dunn said, urging a "responsible reaction by all of us in the black community to accept and live with the judge's decision."

The predominantly black Overton and Liberty City neighborhoods, the scene of riots over past police shootings, were quiet late Wednesday, police said.

Defense attorneys criticized the case as an effort to ease racial tensions in Miami rather than give their client a fair trial.

"If Officer Lozano was black, he never would have been charged with a crime," defense attorney Mark Seiden told the judge. "If the two people on the motorcycle were white, he never would have been charged with a crime."

Prosecutor John Hogan, who recommended a 12-year prison term, described the sentence as a just one. Lozano could have faced a punishment of 12 to 17 years in prison under state sentencing guidelines.

Miguel Degrandy, a vice president of the Spanish American League Against Discrimination, said the judge "fashioned a sentence that he felt that both parties could live with."

"However, this is a no-win case for our community in Dade County, and there is still going to be unfortunately polarized reaction," he said.

The shooting on Jan. 16, 1989, sparked three days of racial violence, the fourth riot in this city in the 1980s. All were linked to the killing of blacks by police officers.

Standardized test phaseout sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — When A. Graham Down taught American history in college he would ask his students such questions as "How 'new' was the New Deal?" or "Should President Truman have dropped the bomb?"

Down says such broad questions, aimed at showing the depth of students' understanding of subjects, should replace the standardized, multiple-choice questions that are now used to assess what students know.

"There is no right answer and that understanding of ambiguity is surely the most important source of inspiration that informs citizenry of a real Democracy," Down said Wednesday in leading a call for reform of the widely-used standardized tests.

Down, head of the Council for Basic Education, joined leaders of more than three dozen national education, parent, and civil rights organizations to urge President Bush and the nation's governors to move toward assessments based on actual student performance.

The groups' "Statement on Genuine Accountability" comes as the administration and governors move towards setting up national educational goals promised during an education summit last year. One of the key issues is how to judge student performance.

"The testing craze has damaged the quality of our schools," said Monte Neill, associate director of FairTest of Cambridge, Mass., which is spearheading the effort for reform.

"Low-income and minority-group children have been particularly harmed. Teaching the narrow content included in multiple-choice tests has prevented students from learning higher-order thinking skills," he said.

The statement was signed by the leaders of 49 organizations, including the American Federation of Teachers, the Asian Law

Alliance, Council for Basic Education, the Institute for Learning and Teaching, National Indian Youth Council Inc., National Parent Teacher Association, Federation of Organizations for Professional Women, National Association for the Education of Young Children, NAACP and the National Association of Elementary School Principals.

Absent from the list were the National Education Association and the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Gregory Anrig, president of the Educational Testing Service, the Princeton, N.J., group that produces several standardized exams for college-bound students, said he disagrees with the "blanket rejection of multiple-choice tests."

Bryant seeks full collider funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Bryant launched a new effort to secure funding for the superconducting super collider after hearing White House staff comments that the Texas congressional delegation was slacking off its lobbying for the giant atom smasher.

Bryant, a House Budget Committee member from Dallas, told President Bush he was "concerned by suggestions by one of your assistants that ... the delegation 'needs to be a little bit stronger' in lobbying for the SSC."

He said the Texas delegation has made tireless, bipartisan lobbying effort of Congressional colleagues for the super collider, which is to be built in Ellis County south of Dallas.

"The administration would be better served by shoring up support from within its own ranks before criticizing the SSC's strongest congressional supporters," Bryant told Bush in a letter sent Tuesday.

Bryant, a Democrat, said earlier he would urge the full $393 million in the budget committee for the 1991 fiscal year.

The White House press office had no comment Wednesday on the letter.

Jerry Rucker, a former Dallas city councilman who is vying for Bryant's 5th District seat in November, said Bryant didn't do that much to secure super collider support.

"While the majority of the work was being done by the Texas delegation, as well as hundreds of other Texans, seeking support and funding for the superconducting super collider, John Bryant was traveling the state of Texas seeking support for his race for Attorney General," Rucker said.

Bryant said his challenger was the first to inject politics into the effort to secure collider funds.

"Mr. Rucker had better decide whether he's for super collider funding or not," Bryant said.

Some scientists have said the super collider will cost more than the $5.9 billion originally projected. But others are backing the project, and 35 universities in 18 states have received SSC-related research funds.

Agency allows homeless in apartments

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Housing Authority officials, taking a stance that appears contradictory, said they could not allow homeless to use a block of apartment units but opened the units to them.

The move Wednesday attempts "to provide a framework for the housing advocates to continue their making their statement," said DHA Executive Director Alphonso Jackson.

Protesters cheered Jackson as he announced his "sincere desire to assist the homeless advocates" and said 15 units of the closed George Loving Apartments could be opened.

Many of the units need renovation and do not have running water, heat or toilets.

"We'd like to proclaim a partial victory, not only for West Dallas, not only for the homeless, but for all mankind," said the Rev. Marion Barnett, president of Concerned Citizens to Save West Dallas. "This is a start."

The Rev. L. Charles Stovall, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said homeless protesters will decide who moves into the first 15 units. "All through this, the homeless people have made decisions themselves," he said.

Earlier this month, protesters proposed opening 60 of the West Dallas units for a self-help program for the homeless. Sixteen people were arrested when they entered the apartments.

DHA rejected the plan, but Jackson said Monday he would lease a 58-unit complex in northeast Dallas to protesters if they form a non-profit agency to run the transitional housing program. The ministers said the northeast Dallas apartment wasn't ready for immediate occupancy.

The DHA's Jackson had said earlier that city officials would help housing activists find sources of funding — such as public money — to renovate the units, but municipal funds would not be used for the renovations.

The long-term fate of the West Dallas apartments remains uncertain, however, because of a pending desegregation lawsuit.
