

SIX WIN, FOUR LOSS RECORD

13 Indians Hang Up Uniforms In Bulldog Finale

It took Steve Haterius, two competent coaches, a high wind, and three intercepted passes to subdue the plucky Indians...

The Stamford victory was all the more bitter here when it was learned Ballinger had kayeod Winters 6 to 0, and an Indian victory would have given Haskell a share in the title with the Blizzards.

But it still was a commendable season in which Coach Ray Overton's charges won six while losing four. The four losses were to the bi-district opponents in 5-AA and 6-AA this Saturday night...

After a scoreless first quarter, Stamford struck for a TD on the second play of the second period when Bulldog defensive halfback Dave Grissom picked a Haskell aerial on the Indian 48-yard line and raced up the sideline for the score.

Stephen Haterius, who led all ball carriers with 78 yards rushing, plunged over for the two-point conversion for Stamford, to lead at 8-0.

They added their second tally only a few minutes later when they took a Joe Thigpen punt on their own 14-yard line and marched 86 yards in 13 plays to paydirt.

Seal Sale Forces Arrayed In Fight Against Dread TB

The president of the Haskell County Tuberculosis Association and the co-chairmen of Haskell County's 57th annual Christmas Seal Campaign appealed for support in the battle against TB as the seal sale drive in this area entered its second week.

Dr. T. W. Williams, president and medical advisor of the Haskell County TB Association, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Gornik, Sr., co-chairmen of seal sales, declared, "The need for your support is emphasized by the fact that in the past as many as 29 new cases of tuberculosis have been found in this county in one year."

The TB group leaders emphasized that "out of every Christmas Seal dollar sent in, 82 per cent will be used in Haskell County and 18 per cent will be paid back to the citizens in health dividends from nationwide TB control work and medical research."

Recipients of mailed Christmas seals were urged to buy all the seals possible at $1 per sheet and send their checks and money to P. O. Box 756, Haskell.

Commenting on the new 4-H activities in Haskell County, Mrs. Leverett declared Saturday, "Our only difficulty, as I see it, is the desperate need for adult leaders to work with the girls. The girls are eager and raring to go. We need at least one lady to work with each club, and really, there should be three."

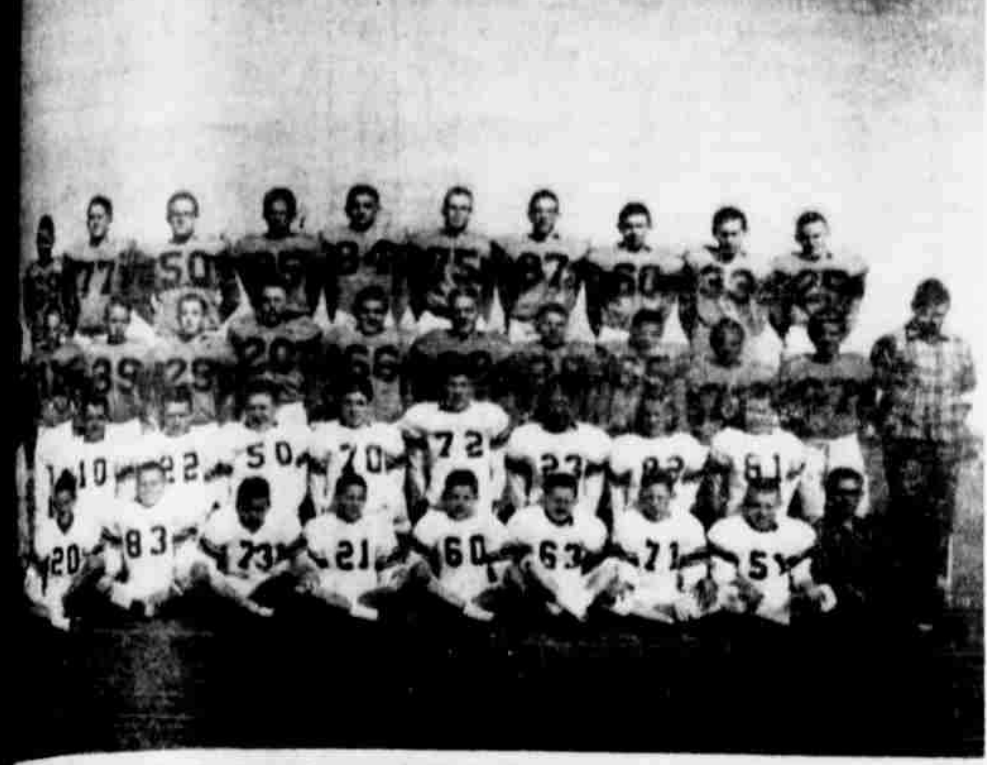

Mrs. Leverett appealed for any mother or other homemaker interested in helping to contact club members in their respective communities, or the home demonstration agent's office in Haskell, Phone 564-2546.

It Takes A United Effort In Behalf Of A United Fund . . . Let's Finish The Job By Furnishing The Support

A story in last week's Free Press was headlined, "Town Needs United Effort To Meet United Fund Goal."

Much more has been done since that story was published, and the United Fund totals have climbed. But the work has been accomplished by too few undertaking the job of filling in for too many who have been too busy to shoulder their proportionate share of the United Fund responsibility.

We are tremendously indebted to those diligent few who have put the town within striking distance of its goal. We are so near . . . yet so far . . . from it. The big gifts are in . . . those from the advance gifts contacts, and those from the business houses, the merchants of Haskell, who always are generous in their support of every worthwhile cause here. But there still is the rank-and-file citizenship who must be contacted by those of us who have been lax in completing our jobs, or who have been missed by our canvassers, and whose contributions are sorely needed.

We call attention to, and wholeheartedly endorse, an advertisement inserted elsewhere in this issue of the Free Press, signed by the Board of Directors of the Haskell United Fund. We implore you, if the shoe fits, to wear it, taking to heart what is said there.

In the situation in which Haskell presently finds itself with respect to the potential success of the United Fund, we are reminded of the "rule of thumb" of the hard core of civic workers who have toiled tirelessly in many campaigns which have been in the mainstream of community life. They say, "We'd rather have one thousand people giving one dollar than one person giving $1,000" to any worthwhile cause. When one puts his money into an effort, he is a tangible part of it.

In a myriad of ways, beneficiaries of the United Fund have light where there has been darkness, health where there has been sickness, a roof where there has been exposure to the elements, education where there has been ignorance, training where there has been slipshod disorganization. The United Fund lights the way in many ways. You, and you, and you can help that light cast a longer shadow, a protective shadow, along the way.

Let's all help finish the job by furnishing the support to send our United Fund over the top.

Courageous, Commendable Competitors

With the 1933 football season in the record books, we cannot sit idly by and not say from the heart what is in it to say about our football team, its coaches, Head Coach Ray Overton, and his assistants, Bill Blakely, Carlos Berry, Dave Middleton, and Sonny Everett, the managers, the band, its director, Roark Barnes, our majorettes, our pep squad, our school administrators, our Booster Club, and last, but not least, our community brimfull of Indian supporters.

There are scintillating, laudatory superlatives we could use about each of the foregoing, individually, or by the "team" each was on, football, boosters, band, cheering section, or otherwise. Summing it up, all were courageous, commendable competitors whose work, dedication, attitudes, and conduct, reflect tremendous credit upon Haskell High School and this town, the name of which the school bears.

After a season of intimate association with all of this, the personalities, and that intangible spirit so vital a part of the overall picture, we feel as if we know for sure now what that Indian senior squad member meant when he said not long ago, "It makes me want to stand a little taller on the sidelines."

We feel we truly can stand a little taller on the sidelines, too, by virtue of the enriching experience we have enjoyed of association with courageous and commendable competitors this football season.

Potpourri

By PORTER

We couldn't help but notice, during the mass exodus of deer hunters from Haskell over the weekend, that many wives also went along, which is a healthy situation, an interest-protecting one anyway. As one accompanying spouse declared, "I just want to be sure what kind of deer(dear) he's going to hunt." The type, two, or four-legged, do make a difference.

At least a couple of the Post Office crowd with whom we have a whispering acquaintance went on a high falutin' bird hunt recently. Golly, it would be pleasant to have a present of a pheasant from one of those "peasants."

Speakin' of that Post Office crowd, they've a most amicable new man, most accommodating and helpful to us steady customers. His name, and this is not meant to belittle him, sounds like appropriate identity for that whole Post Office bunch. Sounds something like "Skid-Row."

We now have arrived at the time of year when frenzied football fandom is divided into two groups—those that wish the coach had been fired and those that wish he hadn't.

Been trying for a long, long time to figure a flattering fool-proof formula in answer to the queries about our evaluation of "mug shot" pictures submitted for use in the newspaper. We've finally hit on this one, "Good lookin' people take bad pictures, and the rest of us are hopeful!"

Just in case you didn't see it in another area newspaper, and because it isn't plagiarism, on account of we sent the dispatch in the first place, we submit the following:

At Hinds, he of the mustache, advertising manager of the Haskell Free Press, in addition to mustache, has two trademarks. He is an inveterate pipe smoker and he has a burning zeal for his Lions Club.

Last Tuesday Al got all fired up, and both were involved.

He was at the Lions' luncheon and was about to introduce a new member, Don Alley, one of the new owners of Holden Funeral Home.

Al stuffed his favorite pipe into a side pocket of his jacket.

Pretty soon Al looked around and casually mentioned he smelled something burning.

It was Al.

Fellow Lions cooled him off before he became Alley's first customer.

Before we leave the subject of You Know Me Al (Fifty-Eighth Variety) Hinds, have you ever noticed the characters (yes, plural) in this wizard salesman's face? We can always tell when he comes back from a round trip on the Square whether he's scored, or not. If he's had a profitable circuit, he looks like Adolphe Menjou— suave, that is. If it was no sale, the Hinds' map is a cross between Charlie Chaplin and Groucho Marx— sort of nyaah.

Have you noticed that the so-called breadwinners in our mundane existence are fast resolving themselves into two segments? Those who just barely deign to work, and those who totally disdain it. So many folks in the deign-and-disdain groups are cause for concern as to where our good of American initiative and drive is going. We need to "regroup" and recapture it.

Even though it labels us obese, by a single inch, we are intrigued by the new yardstick, and it is literally so with some people who are 36 inches or more around the waist, by which a scientist has hit upon a new way of readily determining whether one is overweight.

The system worked out by Dr. Norman B. Marshall, a specialist in metabolism, should be welcomed by people who are not quite sure whether they carry too much blubber, or who need one last push, or measurement, to nudge them into a sensible program of weight reduction. Here is the formula:

First, you subtract your waistline measurement from your height in inches. The result is compared with figures at which Dr. Marshall has arrived by diligent observation of numerous cases. He considers a difference of 36 inches a normal, or good "figger." If the difference in your waistline and your height in inches is as high as 38, there is a tendency toward leanness. A difference of 33, or less, indicates obesity. In other words, if you're five-foot-eight, and you have a 36-inch waistline, you'd better stop the calory intake.

This new formula presents all kinds of new situations for everyday American living. We will need a penny height-measurer machine, the kind they have in doctors' offices, and another with a tape mea-are that pops out when a penny is inserted, in order to take an obesity reading. That makes two pennies it will cost to determine your condition, but the cost of living has about doubled anyway. And you won't live long, they say, anyway, either, if you don't watch your obesity.

This new weight formula, as applied, would open up an entirely new format for conversation pieces, such as, "How big around are you these days?" instead of "How much do you weigh?"

And some new idiomatic expressions probably will spring up, like "My, you're getting waist-full!"

And Dizzy Dean's famous saying, certainly would apply under the obesity formula of height and waistline for some of us. You know. The one about the ballplayer arguing with the umpire. "He's got just two chances, slim and none." Laterally.

Oakescript: Did you hear Dr. Gillespie's "Eleventh Commandment?" so aptly conveyed recently? It was to "Honor Thy Children" by adopting this position in our relationship with them! All the experience of all the years may be offered, but never imposed. Amen.

WE ARE STILL SHORT OF OUR GOAL . . . But we are climbing every day. We are falling behind for two main reasons:

1. The Volunteer Workers are slow in making their calls and turning in their collections. Many are not displaying the zeal for the task that we had anticipated.
2. Persons are not giving in amounts sufficient to cover so many agencies included in the United Fund. The ADVANCE GIFTS and BUSINESS Donations have been quite satisfactory. These two sections of the drive have raised 60 percent of our total budget.

WE EARNESTLY URGE our workers to see all their clients SOON AS POSSIBLE. If you desire to give, and have not been contacted, please mail your donation to: P. O. The Good Earth

The blowing wind and pelting rain brings new life to the growing grain.

Oh wind that bloweth all day long. Oh wind give us your winter song. It tells of gentle falling leaves. That o'er the flowers a blanket weaves. Or seed that's wafted in the air. To fall to earth, we know not where. To bloom once more in early spring. And start the cycle once again.

Trees will soon be shedding their leaves, but even in their dormant stage, they are beautiful. Next spring fruit trees will blossom bringing much beauty to "the good earth."

IN MEMORIAM Five Years Ago

Albert, you went first and I remain. To walk this road alone, I have lived in memory gardens dear. With happy days we've known. In Spring I wait for roses red. When fades the lilac blue. In early fall when brown leaves fall. I catch a glimpse of you. Albert, you went first but I remain. For battles to be fought. Each thing you touched along the way. Will be a hallowed spot. I'll hear your voice, I'll see you smile. Though blindly I may grope. The memory of your helping hand. Will buoy me on with hope. You went first and I remain. To finish with the scroll. No lengthening shadows shall creep in. To make my life seem dull. We've known so much of happiness. We've had our cup of joy. And memory is one gift of God. That death cannot destroy. You went first and I remain. One thing I have to do. Walk slowly the path you trod. For soon I'll follow you. I'll want to know each step you take. That I may walk the same. And someday, down that lonely road. You'll hear me call your name. Written by Willie Hall, in memory of her husband, Albert Hall, 47p

WEINERT SNAPS O'BRIEN WIN STREAK IN GRABBING TITLE

O'Brien's desperation touchdown drive late in the fourth quarter was turned back by a stout Weinert defense at Weinert Thursday night as the Bulldogs held on to preserve a 24-20 victory and win the District 3, Six-Man championship.

The loss snapped a 19-game O'Brien winning streak, third longest in Texas school basketball and shot the winning Bulldogs into the playoffs with a perfect 9-0 record. Both teams were unbeaten before the encounter.

The defensive heroics came at the Weinert two-yard line with four minutes remaining when O'Brien picked up a first down and appeared headed for the winning touchdown. Four plays later seven yards and Weinert took over to run out the clock.

It was a see-saw battle the entire distance and although Weinert had the best of the statistics the score certainly indicated how tough the battle really was.

O'Brien tallied first when James Duncan raced 25 yards to score. The extra point failed.

Weinert came marching back with the ensuing kickoff and Johnny Cunningham capped the drive with a 34-yard dash to paydirt to knot the score at 6-6. The extra point attempt failed, also.

In the second quarter Duncan raced eight yards to shoot O'Brien into the lead, but once again it was short-lived. Weinert took the kickoff and made it a 2-12 game on a 23-yard dash by Cunningham.

The Bulldogs promptly tried an on-side kickoff, recovered and scored in eight plays when Cunningham raced in from the

Senior Class To Stage 'Our Town' On February 1

Haskell High School's Senior Class will present Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize winning play, "Our Town," on February 1, in the high school auditorium. Wayne Perrin, president of the class, announced Saturday.

The production, one of the best loved in modern American drama by critics and audiences alike, had a long Broadway run. It has a distinctive familiarity among the most recent generations of Haskell High School students, because it has been studied in Junior English Literature for the past 12 years here.

"Our Town" has a large cast, consisting of 17 males and seven females. Tryouts will be held before the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Brooks Middleton and Coach Bill Blakely, Senior Class sponsors, will direct the play.

Cancer Center Steps Up Workload

Nine volunteer workers assembled at the Haskell Cancer Center on the third floor of the Courthouse here to accelerate projects toward completion before the Christmas holidays. Further prosecution of the timetable for making dressings for cancer patients in this area will be initiated at a meeting at the Cancer Center at 2 p. m. Thursday.

Cancer volunteers will not meet next Thursday. Thanksgiving, but will hold work sessions on December 5 and 12 before recessing their activities for the Christmas holidays. A large turnout of volunteers is requested for the three remaining pre-holiday sessions.

Taking part in the last work session were: Mines R. R. Overton, J. H. Montgomery, W. C. Pope, D. R. Easterling, Walter Copland, Alice Mayes, Florence Darden, John Brock and Perry C. Spenny.

Dr. Rex Kyker In Stirring Address To FTA, Guests

Members of the Haskell and Knox City Chapters, Future Teachers of America, and the world and American history classes of Haskell High School Monday night heard a stimulating address on "Americanism" by Dr. Rex Kyker, head of the speech department, Abilene Christian College, Abilene.

The speaker said that answers were varied to the question of "What kind of people are heroes?" but, in his opinion, a hero is one who wins when no one else has the nerve to try, and that there is some good in the bad and some bad even in the good, according to one of his youthful listeners.

The ACC professor described the speech production qualities of Daniel Webster, and his Plymouth Oration, recounted the life of Patrick Henry and the heights and depths to which the great patriot rose and ebbed.

Miss Zona Basing, as a member of the FTA chapter here, reporting Dr. Kyker's address, expressed regard for two other points he made: Natural laws exist, and cannot be taken away; and it is left up to the present generation to see that future generations know of our glorious past.

Dr. Kyker called attention in his opening remarks to the fact that Tuesday, Nov. 19, was the 100th anniversary of President Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, an immortal example of oratory that took but two minutes to deliver.

Dr. Kyker's enthusiastically received appearance in Haskell was arranged by Mrs. Lather Burkett, guidance counselor for the Haskell public schools.

Eight Injured On County Highways During October

A total of 14 accidents on rural highways in Haskell County were investigated during October by the Texas Highway Patrol, Sergeant Frank Jirik, highway patrol supervisor headquartered here, reported Thursday.

These crashes accounted for eight persons injured and an estimated property damage of $6,915. There was no loss of life in traffic accidents during October in this county.

The rural traffic summary for Haskell County for the first 10 months of 1963 shows a total of 52 accidents resulting in two deaths and 40 persons injured. Property damage totals were an estimated $25,855.

Sergeant Jirik, in reporting these vital highway statistics, reminded that "Don't walk yourself to death" is a slogan "we would like for you to remember for the rest of the year."

The Sergeant said that November and December are most dangerous months in traffic, especially for pedestrians. During the last two months of 1962, Sergeant Jirik, recalled, there were 60 pedestrians killed and 165 injured in collisions with motor vehicles.

The veteran highway patrol sergeant headquartered in Haskell suggested light colored apparel while walking after dark, the carrying of some kind of light, and walking on the left side of the road facing traffic, day or night, as some important safety tips.

Legion Post Here Marks Significant Dates In History

Haskell American Legionnaires last week held one event commemorating a significant anniversary in this nation's military history, and are planning another in December. R. V. Black, post commander, has announced.

On December 7, the anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day, the Haskell Post will have a family night for all Legion members and their entire families at the American Legion Hall here.

At the regular meeting of the Legion last week, John Payne, one of the organizers and first commander of the post here, presented a stimulating discussion on the Legion's role in community affairs. District Chaplain Henry Druessdow, Jr. reported on the Legion's district meeting recently held in Haskell at the Calvary Baptist Church here, with the Rev.

the next district convention in the spring of 1964.

Commander Black announced that membership strength of the Haskell Legion post now stands at 174, 12 more than the designated quota for this town. Black was recognized at Burk Burnett for securing 100 new memberships in the Legion post here.

Ten Legionnaires of Haskell are now enrolled in a course sponsored by the national veterans organization on the mechanics and procedures of an American Legion post. They are Druessdow, Black, Truett Parsons, Levi Greer, Woodrow Anthony, Paul Dick, Payne, Herbert Fischer, Dave Parsons and Herbert Ray.

MR. FARMER
DO YOU NEED MORE LAND TO WORK?

MAYBE NOT . . . Why not raise more on the land you now own with the use of Fertilizer—Wheat, Oats, Rye, Barley, Milo and Cotton, Coastal Bermuda Grass.
NOW is the time to top dress your wheat, oats, barley for grazing . . . Grain that is not used for grazing . . . Top dress in January and February.
LISTED below is a re-print from the October issue, page 16, of the Progressive Farmer by Roy McClung, County Agent, Baylor County, Seymour, Texas.

Fertilizer is paying big dividends on wheat in Baylor County in West Texas. It's an old story, but results are almost "unbelievable," says Roy McClung, county agent.

Here's part of the story: Fertilizer gave an increase of 14 bushels of wheat an acre, dryland, in 1962-63; 22 extra bushels on irrigated wheat plus $36 worth of beef an acre from grazing.

These averages came from result of demonstrations conducted by 26 Baylor County farmers.

One farmer was J. D. Wilson. He applied 50 pounds N an acre, according to soil test, and harvested 36.6 bushels of wheat per acre. Where he left off the fertilizer, he produced 8.6 bushels per acre—difference of 28 bushels! I. D. Eiland produced 19.7 bushels of wheat an acre, dryland, without fertilizer. With 75 pounds 16-20-0 per acre, he produced an extra 10.6 bushels, which gave him 30.3 bushels per acre. All this, for a $4 fertilizer investment!

Irrigation farmers experienced the same increases. T. C. Griffin produced 27 bushels wheat per acre without fertilizer; applying 100 pounds 13-39-0 per acre, he produced 49 bushels per acre. And many other farmers tell the same success story.

You say that 1963 was a year of good moisture. And it was. So let's go back to 1956 and check records on McClung's demonstrations. Average yield increases from fertilizer use under dryland conditions in 1956 were 9.2 bushels compared to 14 bushels of wheat per acre this past year. With irrigation, the average was 22 bushels per acre in 1956 and was the same this past year. This emphasizes the fact proved by research — fertilizer helps "stretch" water that is available.

These demonstrations pointed up another significant fact. Yield increases have averaged about the same over a period of years. Base yields fluctuated with moisture each year, but yield increases were surprisingly close to the same.

There is no doubt that fertilizer on wheat has put many extra dollars into Baylor County farmers' bank accounts. And farmers believe it. McClung estimates that 75% or more of the wheat in Baylor County will be fertilized this year.

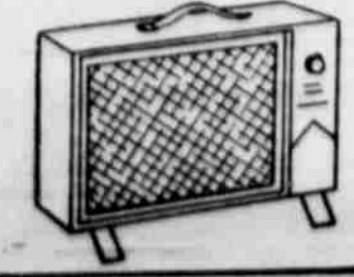

A Big Factor which has caused Baylor County farmers to turn to fertilizer for extra profits has been the area soil testing laboratory in Seymour. Through soil tests, farmers have found that use of the right kind and rate of fertilizer can make money.

Prattle

By AL HINDS

In pre-game predictions for last weekend contests, ol' Prattle suffered his worst defeat of the season, batting a lousy .333, however, I still have a .640 batting average for the overall season.

For this weekend and "Turkey Day," I see it like this: SMU over Baylor; Mustangs getting stronger.

Rice over TCU. The Owls have more punch, power and push.

Arkansas over Texas Tech. Only because the game is to be played on hog territory.

And for the Turkey Day title, Nov. 28: Texas over A&M. Longhorns long gone.

I hear by George Yancey that President Kennedy on his trip to Texas wants orange juice scratched from the menu. He doesn't want any "Goldwater."

Thanks to Robbin, Edith and Bob Wheatley for letting me "look over" an edition of "The Old Farmer's Almanac Sampler" edited by Rob Sagendorph.

Along about Thanksgiving time, when turkey and pumpkin pie are gladdening the inner man, a familiar friend, "The Old Farmer's Almanac" arrives upon the scene as it has every year since 1792.

From its beginning the Almanac has played an intrinsic part in our nation's life. In the homes of countless pioneers, the Almanac and the Bible constituted the entire library. It served as a calendar, weather man, agricultural adviser, medical consultant, and a great many other things.

Its miscellaneous information ranged from the signs of the Zodiac to the latest gags, and its well-thumbed pages were consulted daily.

For The Old Farmer's Almanac Sampler its editor has brought together for the first time a choice sampling of the wit, wisdom, and entertainment of the Almanac in other years.

Here, in selections reflecting the times in which they were published, are bits of philosophy, anecdotes, comments, and advice on the daily life of a changing America; recipes for such typical American concoctions as cider and baked beans; poetry and special features, and amusing stories of the Almanac's famous weather forecasts.

Between the Old Farmer's Almanac, Yankee, occasional small books, and other odds and ends of activities, the annual sales of Sagendorph's operation amount to a staggering figure.

Robert B. Thomas, the man who founded the Almanac, has been called a "crotchety Massachusetts bookseller," possibly because he campaigned so vigorously against sin. But he was a painstaking honest editor in a day when his competitors were content with slipshod research and faulty facts. Though the Almanac today no longer serves as the only source of information on agricultural processes and natural phenomena for its customers, its current editor holds fast to the tradition of reliability established by his predecessor. Out of this neat combination of fun and facts Rob Sagendorph has built himself a flourishing enterprise.

The Almanac is truly a happy blend of the old and the new.

From a 1912 edition, we find that Americans half a century ago were treated to facts and figures such as a statement that the public debt was approaching one-and-one-half billion dollars, a table of hours when automobile lamps must be lighted, etc.

Going back 100 years, we find The Old Farmer's Almanac of 1862 reflects the lively antics of an age we know only from the history books.

A century ago the public debt was just over $63 million. Instructions in agriculture were being introduced into the common schools, and farmers were advised to "Keep up with the times" by using such new fangled doo-dads as a mower and horse-rake.

All this information, plus puzzles, poetry and other pleasantries, appeared in the Almanac which had set out, 70 years earlier, to be strictly a farmer's calendar.

Today, as orbited astronauts walk our streets again and everyone wonders how many more billions of taxpayers' dollars are bound to go up in dud-rocket smoke, Americans hunger for stability, for remembrances of an earlier, less complicated style of living.

For city slickers, or gentleman farmers, a session with The Old Farmer's Almanac may represent a momentary return to mother earth, a hammock-swing back to yesterday. It's only a hundred pages of paper and ink, but there's no denying for many fans the almanac is a grandfather's knee to lean against.

Many a mother sets her daughter's wedding date, and many a hostess plans her garden parties, entirely by what the Almanac has to say.

Business conventions, golf-tourney managers, soft-drink manufacturers, theatres, traveling bands, even aviation pilots, and bank presidents, go by, and plan by Old Abe's weather forecasts.

Even the experts, the highest-ranking meteorologists and scientists, will, at times, shamefacedly admit the Almanac's formula has them stumped.

Seasons for The Old Farmer's Almanac have come for a hundred and sixty-five years. But the seasons are not old. They are always new and different with a way of being what they will. They renew their youth and their loveliness, their cussedness and strangeness year after year, for all that we think we know all about them.

Like old man river "The Old Farmer's Almanac" just keeps rolling along.

Grassroots--

A $50 cash prize is being awarded for the best float among the service and civic organization entries in the gigantic and colorful parade. Two handsome trophies await the winners in band competitions in two divisions.

High School Bands already slated to be here are Throckmorton, Rochester, Aspermont, Munday, Knox City, Haskell, plus Haskell Junior High band, and the Rule High pep squad. Other bands interested in participation for the trophies are requested to contact Chamber Manager Bob Lowrance, phone 864-2477, in Haskell.

Float entries to date are from the following organizations and businesses: Chamber of Commerce, Lions, Rotary, American Legion, Business and Professional Women's Club, Haskell High School, Young Homemakers, W. A. Lyles Jewelry, Personality Shoppe, Dad 'n' Lad, Christene's Beauty Salon, Lane-Pelker, Frazier Appliance, Jones-Cox and Co., Sherman's Interiors, Wooten Oil Company, Ben Franklin Store, Haskell Auto Parts, and White's Auto Store.

Mayor J. E. Walling, Chamber President Turner, and other city officials and civic leaders will ride at the head of the bell-jangling parade vanguarded by city, county and state law enforcement officers, Boy and Girl Scout units also will march.

With all this participation by an entire community going noble en masse to signal start of the most glorious season, the spotlight of this grassroots spectacular will still be on Santa himself, who is coming early to Haskell the red letter last Saturday in November so he can give all the children who desire it a ride in the world's largest sleigh. And the jolly, round fellow will bend an attentive ear, too, to all the youngsters who desire a Christmas interview.

Centenarian--

June 26, 1863, in Winston County, Mississippi, is saluted as a new member of the Methodist publication's Century Club, and will receive an inscribed plaque in recognition of her inclusion in the select circle for Methodists "100 or more years young."

"Grandmother" Betts, on the occasion of her 100th birthday last June 26, asked for an eyebrow pencil when she heard kindfolds were coming, five generations of them, for a party in her honor. She was "mighty persnickety" about the way she looked when she reached the century mark.

The six generations of the Betts family, all of whom were represented among the 99 relatives who gathered at the home of her eldest daughter, Mrs. W. E. Johnson here, when Mrs. Betts became 100, include the alert centenarian herself, three daughters, one son, 24 grandchildren, 64 great-grandchildren, 37 great-great-grandchildren, and four great-great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Betts has lived in Texas as 80 years, and in Haskell more than 62 years. She maintained her own home at Rule until just a year ago, the last 18 years of the time from a wheel chair.

The 100-year-old Haskell Centurian is still known for her amazing interest in community affairs and the Methodist Church, is still considered expert for her crochet handiwork and is a "sharpie" at dominoes, polyanna and other games.

Her demeanor during a visit with Grandmother Betts at the senior citizens' home here this week, just confirmed what she said when asked how she felt to be 100—"It's been a picnic all the way."

The commendation was presented by Lt. Col. Roland V. Heiser of the 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment. It recognized Lt. Overton "for meritorious and distinguished service along the East-West border of Germany on a mission of national security during the period from March 18, 1962, to Nov. 4, 1963."

The honor is reserved for individuals who have either actively engaged in border operations, or who through their efforts have materially contributed to the success of the border mission of the squadron. It entitles them to lifetime membership in the 14th Regiment.

Lt. Overton arrived in the United States Thursday, Nov. 14, at Hamilton, N. Y., after 20 months of overseas duty. He is a graduate of Paint Creek High School and Texas A&M College.

Rule To Hold Union Services Thanksgiving

A community Thanksgiving service will be held Wednesday night, Nov. 27, at Rule in the First Baptist Church at 7 p. m.

The Thanksgiving message will be brought by Rev. Thurman Morgan, pastor of the First Christian Church. Rev. Morgan not only serves the Rule church, but is on the faculty of the Bible College of the Bible at Texas Christian University.

All ministers of Rule attended a meeting last week at which time the Thanksgiving service and schedule were planned. Special emphasis is placed at this service on participation in the worship by civic and service organizations of the community.

Recognition--

District is 773. Special recognition also will go, Dr. Kemp reported, to Kirk Gregory for his assistance in the organization of Troop 41, sponsored by the First Christian Church, Stamford. Gregory will be presented with an organizer's pin.

Other business on the agenda Dr. Kemp will lay before the District Committee will be date setting for training courses early January, planning a rifle competition for Explorers, organization of new units, planning a district-wide camp-out, and a district wide Court of Honor.

Dr. Kemp has announced that the following Haskell men will serve as chairmen of the various groups on the District Scout Committee this activity year: Bill Reeves, organization and extensions; R. V. Black, camping and activities; Bill Ratliff, finance; Hess Hartsfield, leadership training; Lee Roy O'Neal, advancement; Dr. T. W. Williams and Dr. Frank Cadenhead, health and safety.

Big gainers in the drive was a 26-yard sprint by Haterius, a 20-yard scamper by reserve quarterback Randy Samuels, and a 12-yard jaunt by halfback Roger Hughes.

Haterius carried the ball the final yard for the TD with less than three minutes remaining in the half and the scored stayed at 14-0 when Samuels' try for the extra point went wide.

In the second half, the Indians went to the air with quarterback James Davis and tailback Joe Thigpen completing eight passes between them for 120 yards, but interceptions killed a number of drives deep in Stamford territory.

Grissom, who ran the one aerial steal back for a TD, also swiped another one on the Stamford 11-yard line to kill one threat, and end Mark Holcomb picked one off on the Stamford 20 and sprinted 51 yards with it before being nailed from behind.

Thigpen, who had been relegated to a punting role since early in the season because of a leg injury, led the Haskell ball carrier with 75 yards on 15 carries, and completed three passes in three tries, good for an additional 57 yards. He also kept up a fantastic punting average, boosting 4 for a 40.5 average.

The turning point in the first half came just before the end of the opening quarter when Stamford decided to kick on third down from their own five yard line, because the clock showed four seconds left and they had a strong wind at their backs.

Haterius got the Bulldogs out of the hole with a tremendous 65-yard kick that reversed the teams' positions by giving the Indians the ball on their own 30. After one running play, Indian quarterback Davis fired a long pass that bounced off receiver Joe Jossel's hands into Grissom's arms and the Bulldogs were on the scoreboard and on their way to victory.

Col. McLaughlin

The Commander of the 516th has had a variety of assignments in several combat commands while on Air Force duty. Staff assignments include duty as Deputy Director of Operations, Headquarters, Strategic Air Command Commander of the 19th Bombardment Squadron, SAC, April 1955 to April 1956, Chief, Colonel's Branch, Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel, Military Personnel, Headquarters, USAF, July 1958 to August 1961.

Col. McLaughlin is married to the former Helen Elizabeth Bailey, of Denver. The McLaughlins reside at Dyess Air Force Base with their four children, Becky, 14; Kathleen, 8; Patricia, 3; and William, 2.

Mary Jane Brown Fund Buys Vital Juices, Medicines

People in this area, and many far away, continued to open their hearts and pockets with contributions to the Mary Jane Brown Fund to help a deserving lateral sclerosis-stricken lady here during the past week.

The fund, which has been used to purchase an expensive juicing machine to prepare juices so necessary for Mrs. Brown, and for juices and medicines so vital to her welfare, reached a total of $198.50 Tuesday, but the balance has depleted considerably as medicines and juices have increased, of necessity. The courageous lady is fighting a stubborn battle and doing as well as could be expected, according to the latest report.

Latest contributions to the Mary Jane Brown Fund, reports Abe Turner, cashier of the Haskell National Bank and custodian of the fund, to whom contributions should be sent, are from Colonel and Mrs. William R. Barricklow, of Satellite Beach, Florida, $5, and from Vern C. Derr, $10.

Mary Jane Brown Fund Buys Vital Juices, Medicines

People in this area, and many far away, continued to open their hearts and pockets with contributions to the Mary Jane Brown Fund to help a deserving lateral sclerosis-stricken lady here during the past week.

The fund, which has been used to purchase an expensive juicing machine to prepare juices so necessary for Mrs. Brown, and for juices and medicines so vital to her welfare, reached a total of $198.50 Tuesday, but the balance has depleted considerably as medicines and juices have increased, of necessity. The courageous lady is fighting a stubborn battle and doing as well as could be expected, according to the latest report.

Latest contributions to the Mary Jane Brown Fund, reports Abe Turner, cashier of the Haskell National Bank and custodian of the fund, to whom contributions should be sent, are from Colonel and Mrs. William R. Barricklow, of Satellite Beach, Florida, $5, and from Vern C. Derr, $10.

A flag presentation and "Mother's Night" for the Indian team, and each uniformed player son proudly escorted his craysanthemum-adorned Mother onto the gridiron, where mother and son were introduced together in turn, standing along the sideline from 30-yard line to 30-yard line before the hometown crowd.
