Lane, Cates crowned Mr. and Miss at SHS

Snyder High School seniors Louise Cates and Tommy Lane were crowned "Mr. and Miss SHS" Thursday afternoon in the annual school coronation ceremonies in Worsham Auditorium.

The 2:25 p.m. event in the packed auditorium began with the procession of sweethearts of various groups, class favorites and crownbearers Anna Lou Williams and Wes Martin.

Mr. and Miss SHS nominees were chosen in voting by the entire 831-member student body, as students were each asked to submit the name of a senior girl and boy. From that voting were derived nominees, in addition to Cates and Lane, Tara Greene, Christy Holmes, Jacy LaRoux, Krystle McCarter, Jason Best, Willie Garcia, Toby Goodwin and Corey McDaniel.

The students voted again recently to choose Mr. and Miss SHS.

Class favorites presented Thursday were freshmen Melody Sargent and Wes Everett, sophomores Tonya Warren and Benji Felan, juniors Rachel Pena and Edward Albarez and seniors Jennifer Pate and Willie Garcia.

Jerry Worsham was the master of ceremonies, and Denise Blythe and Kevin Muddock provided musical entertainment.

Proceeding up the auditorium aisles in formal attire as spotlights picked them out, the sweethearts included Dora Jean Rumpff, band, escorted by Abel Garza; Angee Crawford, baseball, escorted by Bart Morton; Kristi Prather, boys' basketball, escorted by Carlton Sanders; Jason West, girls' basketball, escorted by Anne Osborn; and Jamey Morton, (see SCHOOL, page 8)

Late registration held...

Government seminar slated Saturday on college campus

State Sen. John Montford and former Snyder city manager George Patterson will be among the keynote speakers for a seminar on county government Saturday at Western Texas College.

The program, "Scurry County: Good Government for the 90's and Beyond," is designed and coordinated by Vestal & Co., CPAs and offered through the WTC community service division. The seminar is scheduled from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Seminar organizers said Thursday afternoon that late registration will be accepted today at the WTC continuing education office in the administration building, and will be held from 7:30 a.m. until 7:50 a.m. Saturday. The seminar costs $40, which includes lunch.

Topics to be covered include county government as an arm of the state, fiscal responsibility, planning for the 90's and the tax base.

Montford, D-Lubbock, will be the luncheon speaker.

"He's not here as a politician or celebrity," said program organizer Jerry Vestal. "He's agreed to come as an educator, attempting to talk about what leadership is called for."

Vestal said Patterson will discuss budgets with an emphasis on communication, determining the needs and wants of the people, prioritizing them and answering the question, "How much of a tax will the community allow?"

Patterson was city manager of Snyder for 16 years. He is currently city manager of Highland Park.

Other speakers include Bill Hicks, Ector County auditor who has 30 years experience and is publisher of an information guide (see SEMINAR, page 8)

Production well underway at Daniel's industrial plant

The Price Daniel Unit's industrial plant grossed $380,000 in December and January and will be employing another 80 inmates with the addition of a welding department this spring.

Plant manager Frank Ruiz reports that the total number of inmates working in the plant, where furniture is the main product, will increase from 218 to around 300 — about a third of the total inmate population.

"We will be making our own acoustical panels now," he said. "Navasota cuts all our steel and Ramsey at Rosharon welds it. By manufacturing them here, my turnaround time will be a lot shorter."

The welding department is the plant's last department to become operational, joining woodworking, hand-sanding and lamination, the spray room, modular assembly and upholstery.

For modular office lay-outs, the plant is currently working to fulfill nine contracts with other state agencies and five Department of Criminal Justice orders.

Various types of office chairs are also made there.

Orders have come in from the Travis County auditor's office, the state hospital in Wichita Falls, the Waco Center for Youth, the Department of Human Services in Austin, the Commission for the Blind, Windham School of offices at other units, the attorney general's office, the highway department, Harlandale Independent School District and the West Texas State University Agriculture Department.

"We had a real good December and January," Ruiz said. "I hope the trend bi-monthly will still be in the $300,000 range. Our prices are very competitive."

Anti-drug 'cartel' formed by Bush and Latin leaders

CARTAGENA, Colombia (AP) — President Bush and three Latin American leaders agreed on a new drug-fighting strategy but steered away from a disputed U.S. initiative during a tightly guarded one-day summit.

Bush said he and the leaders of the three largest cocaine-producing nations formed the first "anti-drug cartel," but a joint communique vowing closer coordination on the war on drugs apparently ruled out expanding the use of U.S. military force in Bolivia, Colombia and Peru to combat cocaine traffickers.

"Each country may involve its armed forces in this fight in its own territory," said the communique, signed by Bush, Bolivia's Jaime Paz Zamora, Colombia's Virgilio Barco and Peru's Alan Garcia.

Latin leaders had opposed a U.S. plan to send a naval force to interdict cocaine shipments in the international waters off Colombia's coast.

At the summit, Bush promised to step up the fight against U.S. drug use and outlined emergency programs to help offset the weakening of Peru's and Bolivia's economies as they fight to reduce and eventually eliminate cultivation of coca, used to make cocaine.

But Garcia later questioned if the United States could come up with the money to pay for such expensive programs. "Where's the beef?" he asked at the concluding news conference.

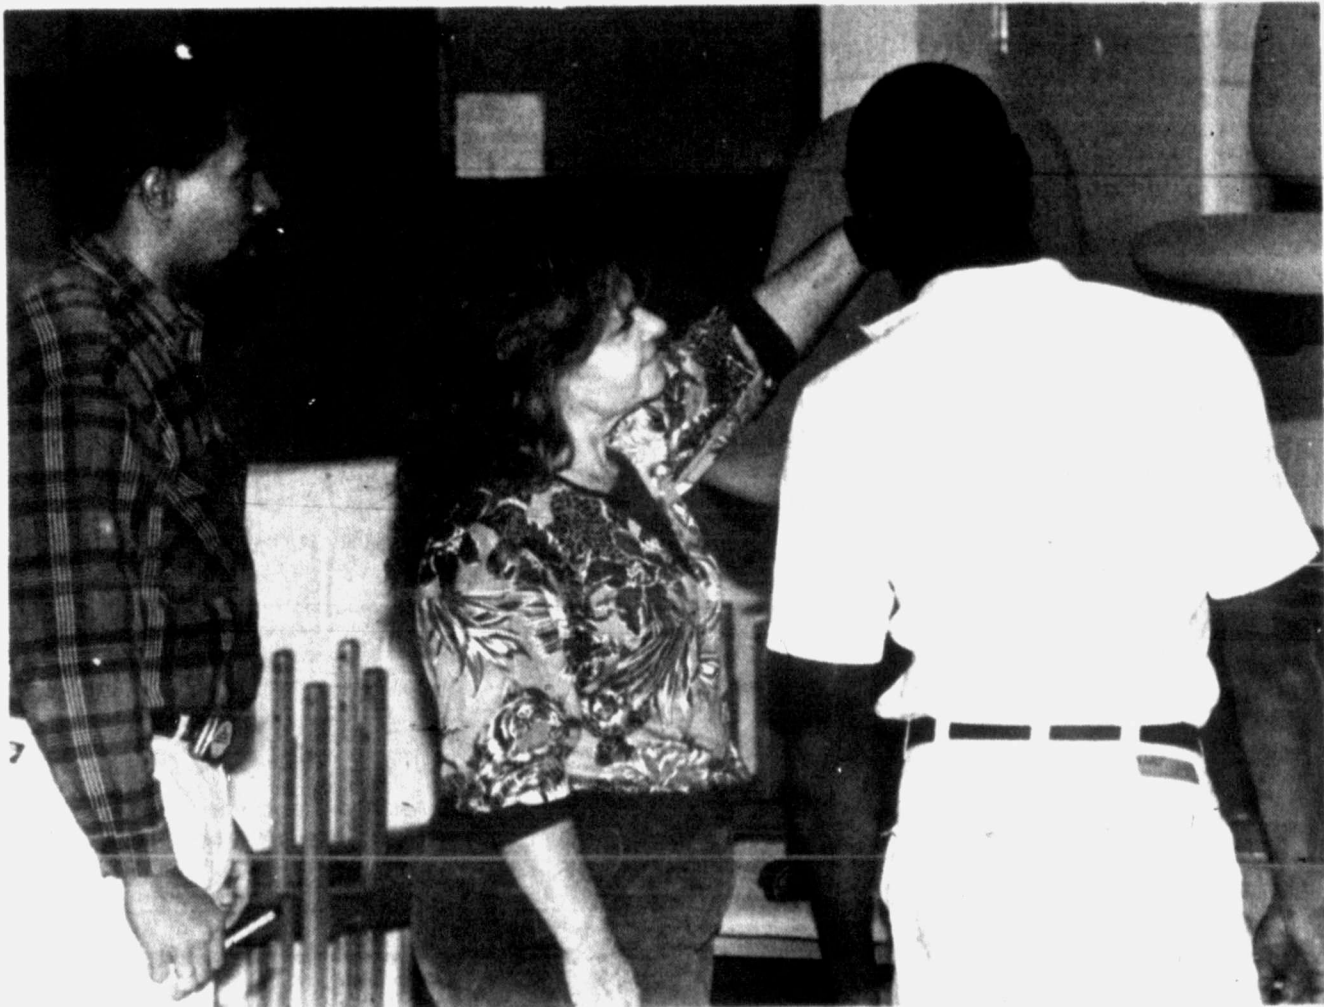

Zamora, with a nod to Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's sweeping reforms, said a new openness had been attained at the summit. "A perestroika has begun," he said.

Oil imports reach high last month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign producers provided a record 54 percent of the petroleum consumed in the United States last month, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

A bitter cold spell that drove up demand for heating fuel was partly responsible for the hike in imports, said officials who predicted foreign crude and refined products could soon represent more than half of domestic consumption every month.

"At current rates, the United (see OIL, page 8)

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Some minds are like ink blotters—they soak everything in, but get it all backwards."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors: Vernon's Larry Crabtree observed that the difference between a girl and a woman is easy to see. "The girl is delighted with the gift and the woman is delighted with the giver."

Gene Dow, in the Seminole Sentinel, quoted from a book entitled, "The First Really Important Survey of American Habits."

The book tells everything you wanted to know about Americans' behavior, but were too polite to ask. For example, seven percent of Americans admit to looking behind a closed shower curtain when visiting a friend's home.

Thirty-eight percent clean their belly button every day, but 20 percent never do. Six out of 10 U.S. citizens say they would wear torn underwear. A sample of other findings:

—45 percent of Americans pick their nose while waiting at stop lights.

—89 percent prefer bad TV over good TV, and 53 percent think there's nothing wrong with wearing brown shoes with a blue suit.

—69 percent believe they're better looking than they really are, and 72 percent don't realize they dress funny.

—58 percent talk with their mouth full, and 79 percent have moldy leftovers sitting in their refrigerator.

—81 percent like people to think they are busier than they really are, and 2 percent really mean it when they tell you to have a nice day.

—62 percent lean whichever way the wind blows, 29 percent had it but lost it, and 47 percent have bit off more than they can chew.

—82 percent of American men say they like their wife's new hairdo when they really don't. You can conclude from this one that men are smarter than you may think.

Q Is it legal to shoot a BB gun or pellet gun in Snyder residential areas?

A—Yes, according to the police department it is legal to shoot those types of guns in the city limits, providing they are used in a safe manner. It should be noted, however, that damages caused by such weapons could result in legal action.

In Brief

UMW wins 1

DUFFIELD, Va. (AP) — United Mine Workers strikers won concessions on health care and pension benefits and Pittston Coal Group got the ability to run its mines almost nonstop in a proposed settlement distributed to miners today.

If approved by the UMW's rank-and-file in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky, the settlement could resolve the union's bitter and sporadically violent 10½-month strike against the nation's largest coal exporter by next week.

Youth gangs

HOUSTON (AP) — Police officers say gang activity skyrocketed in Houston last year and is expected to continue to grow, but the amount of gang-related crime still is not as substantial as other urban areas.

A Houston Police Department report issued Thursday shows the number of gangs have more than tripled in a year's time with 75 gangs identified in the Houston area last year, compared to only 24 in 1988.

Missing man

HOUSTON (AP) — Homicide detectives hope a Houston man found driving a stolen car in New Jersey can lead them to the salesman who has been missing since last month when he took a customer on a test drive in that car.

Houston homicide Sgt. Eric Mehl left Houston Thursday for South Hackensack, N.J., to question the man who was found driving the 1990 Toyota Camry that disappeared Jan. 20 along with Calvert Toyota salesman Roy McIntyre, 46.

Pareesh Kumar Patel, 22, who lives in southwest Houston, has been charged in New Jersey with falsifying a police report, possession of a firearm and possession of a stolen vehicle, said homicide Sgt. Brad Rudolph.

Laredo sends children home

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A measles outbreak forced a school district to send home 250 students who didn't prove they had been vaccinated against the illness.

"We sent a letter home with those students failing to provide proof, notifying the parents that their children will not be allowed to remain in school," said Sharon Cruz, spokeswoman for the United Independent School District.

1st out-of-court settlement...

Family settles suit in school bus wreck

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — The first out-of-court settlement between a soft drink company and a family that lost a child in Texas' worst school bus accident will bring the parents of Jose Luis Ortega a lifetime income of more than $2.7 million.

Alton residents Raul and Margarita Ortega reached the settlement Monday with Valley Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Inc., the Ortgas' attorney, Kenneth W. Sparks of Houston, said Thursday.

Valley Coca-Cola, based in McAllen, has agreed to pay $1.5 million to the family. But because of an interest-earning annuity created in the agreement, the family over 35 years will receive a total of more than $2.7 million, and more if the parents live longer.

It includes an undisclosed sum the company paid the Ortgas last Monday, plus lifelong monthly payments that begin at $4,000 and eventually escalate to $7,000. Sparks' law firm received approximately one-third of the settlement total.

"It provides them (the Ortgas) a guaranteed income, and I would think would enhance their lifestyle considerably, which hopefully would make up for the loss of their son," Sparks said. "It would not begin to replace his life, but that's the only measure that we have adopted in our system of justice to compensate people."

If the parents die within less than 35 years, the monthly payments go to their heirs, Sparks said.

The lawyer said the Ortgas did not want to comment on the settlement, but said, "My clients have assured me that they would gladly refund all money in this settlement to obtain their son back."

He praised Valley Coca-Cola for its "corporate conscience" in dealing with the family.

It was a Valley Coca-Cola truck that knocked a school bus into a water-filled pit on Sept. 21 in Alton, killing 21 students and including 60 others. The company is a defendant in lawsuits filed by nearly 50 other families in connection with the incident.

An attorney for Valley Coca-Cola, Eduardo Rodriguez of Brownsville said, "It is our sincere wish that the settlement reached with the Ortega family will demonstrate our commitment to the community to act in a moral and responsible manner."

"We continue to send our prayers for the Ortega family, as well as for all others involved in the Mission Bus No. 6 accident."

Valley Coca-Cola last month brought in the bus manufacturer, Blue Bird Body Co. of Fort Valley, Ga., as a third-party defendant with which the bottling company wants to share the liability in any lawsuit verdicts.

The soft drink company's suit accused the bus company of producing an unsafe product because the junior and senior high school students could not escape before they drowned.

Sparks said he is also pressing a case against Blue Bird to obtain further damages for the Ortgas. He blamed the bus manufacturer for Jose Luis Ortega's death because of alleged inadequate escape routes.

Blue Bird officials last month said they were confident of the safety of their buses.

Sparks also represents two students injured in the wreck, Jose Luis' brother, Raul E. Ortega Jr., 17; and a cousin, Marisela Ortega, 15, for whom he also seeks damages.

The truck driver, Ruben Perez, 25, of Mission faces trial on 21 felony counts of involuntary manslaughter.

A Hidalgo County grand jury also is investigating allegations that some personal injury attorneys illegally promoted lawsuits among affected families.

Sparks said he was hired by the Ortgas because he used to live next door to them while growing up in the Alton area.

2 candidates say they are drug free

AUSTIN (AP) — State Treasurer Ann Richards, front-runner in the Democratic gubernatorial race, says she never abused illegal drugs and that's that.

"I have said all I am going to say on this issue," Ms. Richards said in a statement issued by her campaign Thursday after rival Jim Mattox made public his medical records and declared himself drug-free.

Mattox, who most polls have shown running third in the March 13 Democratic primary for governor, said his medical history is an open book.

"I have never used any illegal drugs, including marijuana, cocaine, cocaine derivatives, heroin, methamphetamines, hallucinogens, mood-altering chemicals or any prohibited substance — period," Mattox said.

His statements come as most of the major gubernatorial candidates in both parties have made a war against illegal drugs a key campaign issue.

During a debate last week among those two and former Gov. Mark White, Ms. Richards, a recovering alcoholic, was asked if she could assure voters she'd never abused illegal drugs.

"I can assure voters my addiction was alcohol," she replied.

Asked later whether she had abused illegal drugs, Ms. Richards said, "The answer is no. I have revealed more information about my personal life — including my alcoholism and recovery — than any other candidate running for governor this year, or any time in the history of Texas."

But both Mattox and a White spokesman said they didn't think Ms. Richards had fully answered the question.

"She talked about alcoholism, and that was not the question that was asked," Mattox said, adding that his opponent "obviously dodged the question both times it was asked."

Said White's press secretary, Gary Rasp, "I don't think she has sufficiently answered the question."

How Do I Love My Wife? Let Me Count the Ways

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: In early December, I published a letter from "Mrs. Larry Smith, Orange, Calif.," the topic of which was "Why I Love My Husband." At the end, she asked, "Abby, don't you have one about wives?"

In my reply, I stated that if enough husbands would send me three reasons why they love their wives, I would publish a companion piece.

Following are some choice responses:

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife because: She's as much at home in the most elegant country club as in the city jail, where she ran a program to rehabilitate women prisoners. She also organized a school that enabled thousands of prisoners to earn a GED certificate. My wife is the kind of person who can get a friend an immediate appointment with a doctor who's been booked solid for weeks. S. GRAHAM MC KERRALL, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife for: getting up every morning to fix my breakfast when she could sleep until noon; for making me feel loved, secure and appreciated; and for letting me know it's OK for a man to cry. SAM IN SEOUL (KOREA)

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife because: She cares about the needy; she gave us three great children and brought them up properly (with very little help from me). She's also forgiven me for a lot of little things — and a few big ones, too. ANDREW NOWAKOWSKI, MONROVIA, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife because: In our 46 years of marriage, she's lived in nearly 100 homes in three states. She's given me three wonderful children who have given us five beautiful grandchildren. At 64 years old, she looks like 40. (Pictures enclosed.) ROY HIGGINBOTHAM, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife for: never asking if I won or lost when I came home from a poker game, always providing a warm place to put my cold feet; and making me go to those family "get-togethers" where I always had a good time after I got there.

C.W. JORDAN JR., GARDEN GROVE, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife because: She makes me feel like Paul Newman even though I look more like Ed Asner with a hearing aid. And when we kept my mother in a nursing home for 10 years, she never complained about the time we spent visiting her — or the money it cost us. She also makes me feel like the greatest lover in the world. (I assure you, I'm not.) W. DIXON SWAN, D.D.S., REDONDO BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife for the magnificent job she does in caring for the family while holding down a full-time job. But most of all, I love her for forgiving me when I have been a total jerk. J.S.S. IN MANHATTAN

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife for loving me enough to say, "Either give Alcoholics Anonymous an honest try, or we are finished." I reluctantly gave it a try, and A.A. not only saved my marriage, it saved my life. ONE DAY AT A TIME IN IOWA

DEAR ABBY: I love my wife because she's the one who writes letters to my mother and buys her gifts on Mother's Day. She never says a word when I screw up the check-book, or finds the letter in my coat pocket I forgot to mail two weeks ago. And she's never said, "I told you so," or asked, "Why didn't you?" Academic milestone: Asian American to head university

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One of Chang-Lin Tien's earliest memories of America is a segregated drinking fountain he saw in Kentucky.

That memory could be a portent of what awaits Tien as chancellor of the University of California-Berkeley, which has been wracked by controversies over minority admissions and faculty hiring.

At a news conference Thursday to announce his selection as Berkeley chancellor by the UC Board of Regents, Tien indicated prejudice was still very much on his mind.

"You maintain and enhance academic leadership through excellence and primarily diversity, which means in all levels — students, faculty, staff, campus life in general," said Tien, a 54-year-old Chinese immigrant.

In his only reference to ongoing disputes between students and administration over issues affecting minorities, Tien said he believed the university had taken "very positive steps and has good momentum" toward resolving those problems. He would not otherwise comment.

University officials believe Tien is the first person of Asian ancestry to head a major U.S. university.

Rep. Norm Mineta, D-San Jose, a Japanese-American, praised Tien's selection.

"For Americans of Asian ancestry in particular, Dr. Tien's appointment represents a milestone not only because he is the first Asian American to head a UC campus, but also because of the campus he will lead."

Berkeley's academic standards generally are considered the highest among the nine University of California campuses.

Tien, chosen over 250 others, assumes the $165,000-per-year job on July 1. He will become Berkeley's seventh chancellor since the position was created in 1952.

He came to the United States in 1955 after earning a bachelor's degree at National Taiwan University. He received his doctorate from Princeton University in 1959, the same year he joined the Berkeley faculty.

Tien, an internationally recognized authority in heat transfer technology, stayed at Berkeley for 29 years before becoming executive vice chancellor at UC-Irvine 18 months ago.

Ex-cafeteria workers file suit for damages

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Five former public-school cafeteria workers contend in a $1.5 million federal civil rights complaint that they were fired in December for refusing to cook dinner without pay for a school board.

The five women are asking the Greenwood Independent School District for $4,042 in back pay and $1.5 million in exemplary and wrongful-conduct damages. They contend in the suit filed in U.S. District Court in Midland that they were denied equal employment opportunity because of their sex.

The women say, after they began working for the district last September, the district "began requiring (them) to 'volunteer' to cook and serve dinner for the school board members after regular working hours without pay."

Furthermore, the women say they were "told they need to each bring a dish from home to serve to the school board members and then they would retire to the kitchen to eat their dinner" before board meetings.

The plaintiffs are Cheryl Casbeer, Johnnie Knowlton, Terry Mansell and Frances Popham, all of Midland, and Linda Hopper of Stanton. Their pay varied from $5.05 to $6.77 an hour.

School board President Vicky Moody said Wednesday that the women were paid for all the time they worked, and that the custom of cafeteria workers preparing meals for board members and administrators predates their hiring.

She said the women were not fired because "they were given the opportunity to come back."

Tim Outlaw, a Greenwood superintendent for 13 months in 1988 and 1989, confirmed that board members had meals "just prior to meetings just to get together and have association other than in a formal meeting."

"There seemed to be no problems with it," Outlaw said. The school district is based in the unincorporated community of Greenwood, about 12 miles southeast of Midland in Midland County.

Airman wants job back

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An airman being discharged from service at Carswell Air Force Base for allegedly maintaining an "active" membership in the Ku Klux Klan will take legal action to retain his position, says a leader in the white supremacist group.

Bill Walton, grand dragon of the Arlington-based Invisible Empire of the Knight of the Ku Klux Klan for the Realm of Texas, said airman Sgt. Timothy Hall, who is one of five men being released from the military for having close ties to the KKK, will appeal the discharge.

Membership alone is not a violation of military conduct codes, but "active" membership constitutes a violation, said Carswell spokeswoman Capt. Barbara Carr.

Ms. Carr said the ejections were based on violations of an Air Force regulation that prohibits members from actively participating in supremacist causes or attempting to create illegal discrimination based on race.

Under the regulation, "active participation includes publicly demonstrating or rallying, fund raising, recruiting and training members, and organizing or leading."

Ms. Carr said the airmen were members of the 7th Security Police Squadron, which patrols the area where bombers loaded with munitions are parked. They will get involuntary administrative discharges, entitling them to veterans benefits.

The discharge is a step-by-step process that systematically "separates" the airmen from the military. At each step, the airmen can respond to allegations in writing, she said.

Well-plugging should be up for discussion

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Discussions to remedy the near evaporation of the state's well-plugging fund should be placed on the agenda of the special legislative session later this month, a state senator says.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, said a well blowout in South Texas has drained the state's well-plugging fund at a time when hundreds of oil wells are suspected to be contaminating ground water.

"This is more serious than meets the eye," Montford said Thursday night. "Many of the wells are close to suburban and residential areas. I am fearful if we don't give priority to these wells we may have steep consequences in relation to fresh water in this state."

Montford said he will contact Gov. Bill Clements next week about putting the issue on the agenda of the special session, which opens Feb. 27.

Clements, who controls the agenda of the special session, called it to deal with school funding and the selection of judges. Montford said Wednesday he is reluctant to overload the agenda, but that he believes the issue can't wait until the next regular session a year from now.

Improperly plugged or abandoned oil and gas wells can contaminate ground water by providing a direct route between saltwater formations and freshwater aquifers, he said.

The Texas Railroad Commission, which oversees matters such as the capping of wells, is weighing options for replenishing the state's well-plugging fund, said Glen Hunt, administrative assistant to commissioner Kent Hance. He said one option is to request more money for the fund during the special session.

The Railroad Commission lists

580 wells as being suspected of polluting ground water.

Jim Morrow, the commission's director of oil and gas, said the three commissioners have drafted a letter to Clements outlining the problem of ground water contamination caused by unplugged wells.

The state's well-plugging fund, which is sustained by drilling fees and pollution fines, had $430,000 at the end of December, but has been reduced to $80,000 now, said Brian Schaible, spokesman for the Railroad Commission.

Bill says frogs can't be licked

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Worried that his constituents might lick or kiss a South American toad to get at the hallucinogenic toxin it secretes, a legislator has introduced a bill making it illegal to get high on cane toads.

"It's the latest wave" in hallucinating, said Rep. Pat Harris, citing the Drug Enforcement Administration's recent toad-licking alert.

Harris said Thursday he has not heard of instances of cane toad-licking in South Carolina, although he said it was potentially an explosive phenomenon. "Crack could pale" in significance, he joked.

"They say these frogs grow to the size of a dinner plate. I don't want to see somebody walk across the Statehouse grounds with a frog on a leash and pick him up and lick him."

Harris admitted his bill was good for nothing more than a laugh.

Sweetheart social is scheduled in Snyder

A sweetheart social will be hosted Saturday by the Scurry County chapter of NAACP at Mount Olive Baptist Church at 7 p.m. The social is one of the activities hosted by the chapter during Black History Month.

Another upcoming event includes an NAACP banquet in the coliseum Feb. 24 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 for adults and $2.50 for students.

Black History Month got underway in Snyder with a proclamation-signing by Mayor Troy Williamson. A program recognizing international, national and local leaders from the black community was held Feb.

11 at New Hope Baptist Church. "Call On Your Past to Enrich Your Future," is this year's theme. The program expanded the theme through songs, readings and commentary on leaders in and from the black community, both past and present.

Mistress of Ceremonies for the afternoon's activities was Jearldene Anderson. Speakers included Ernest Tippens, city councilwoman; Albert Lewis, SHS coach; and Sammie Harrison, SHS math instructor.

Mrs. Tippens' remarks highlighted achievements of blacks locally. Coach Lewis' comments centered on the importance of education and the changes occurring in the education of children today.

Harrison's topic was awareness of the environment and the connection between heritage/history and personal self-awareness and self-worth. He connected the need for remembering history for both preservation of culture and building one's own self-worth and being able to proceed into the future.

The local chapter hopes next year to have remodeling completed at the Lincoln School so that activities can be held there. The school will be re-named Lincoln Community Center, and will be used to preserve and carry on black history.

A finesse with an edge

By James Jacoby

In the 1989 Bols Royal Distilleries' bridge tips competition, eight journalist-experts around the world are invited to submit entries, and those of us who are members of the International Bridge Press Association (IBPA) vote for the best. The tip by Zia Mahmood is based on the traditional and correct play of covering an unsupported honor in a side-suit when it is led from dummy. His tip is simple: "When they don't cover, they don't have it." Today's deal demonstrates the usefulness of Zia's tip.

After North's three-club limit raise, South decided to bid a slam if North had as much as one ace. After the club lead, declarer can play two rounds of clubs and then four rounds of diamonds, pitching a spade from dummy. Dummy can then be entered with a club, and a spade led up to the king. If East has the ace of spades, the king becomes a winner, and a heart loser can be parked on it. If West holds the spade ace, the slam will still make if East holds the heart king. That's either of two finessees — a 75 percent chance. But look how Zia's tip improves your chances. Win the A-Q of clubs, and then lead dummy's queen of hearts. If East holds the king, he will surely cover. (From his point of view, South can hold A-J-9 or A-J-x.) When East does not cover, declarer plays the ace. Next come four rounds of diamonds, and dummy's remaining heart is pitched. When South now leads the jack of hearts, West can cover or not. In either event, declarer will be able to get rid of a spade from the North hand and make his slam.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Phoros Books.

Names of drugs can be confusing

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Your columns are great, but you refer to medications by the chemical names. We have no way of knowing what we take, except by the name on the bottle. For example, I take Inderal and Calan. Is Inderal a beta blocker, and does the Calan reduce my blood pressure? Why aren't there notations on the prescriptions so I don't get confused?

DEAR READER: I plead guilty to inconsistency: I tend to use brand names and chemical names (generics) interchangeably. If a reader asks about a specific drug by brand name, I'll usually answer using that brand name. However, for simplicity, I'll ordinarily use the generic name when responding to a question about a class of drugs.

For instance, you mention two medicines, Inderal and Calan. Inderal is the brand name for propranolol, a beta blocker used for treating hypertension, angina and migraine headaches. It is related to Tenormin (atenolol), a long-acting beta blocker with identical characteristics.

Calan is the brand name of verapamil, a calcium-channel blocker used for treating hypertension and various heart ailments. Verapamil is also marketed as Isoptin.

To confuse matters further, nifedipine, another calcium-channel blocker, is marketed under the brand names Adalat and Procardia.

The druggist who fills your prescriptions will usually label the medicines with the name of the drug he or she has dispensed. This may be the generic name or the brand name. If you are confused, you can always ask the pharmacist for clarification.

For my part, I will try in the future to mention both names, so that readers will be less confused. Thank you for writing and making your suggestion.

To give you additional information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Consumer Tips on Medicines." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband recently had mild chest pain radiating down his right arm. He was short of breath and attributed it to indigestion. A recent EKG done through his work place didn't reveal anything, yet he didn't tell them about the chest pain he experienced. Could this have been a heart attack?

DEAR READER: As a general rule, cardiac pain (from angina or heart attack) localizes in the left side of the chest and radiates down the left arm. Although right-arm pain could indicate a heart problem, this would be unusual.

Nonetheless, your husband should describe his symptoms to his doctor. An electrocardiogram (EKG or ECG) performed at rest may be normal in some cases of heart attack. If your husband is at risk for heart disease because of family history, obesity, smoking or high cholesterol, the doctor may advise further investigation, such as a stress test, to make sure his heart is normal.

In addition, if your husband's self-diagnosis of indigestion is correct, the combination with right-arm pain suggests a non-cardiac condition — such as an inflamed gallbladder or a lung infection — that may need treatment. In some cases, the pain of lung infection could resemble indigestion.

Although your husband was reluctant to describe his symptoms to the company doctor, I urge him to be less reticent with his private physician. Chest pain should never be ignored.

WTC tames Broncos

Westerners explode for 106-74 WJCAC win

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

The Westerners of WTC gave New Mexico Military Institute's Broncos some lessons in basketball, more specifically the pressing defense, en route to a 106-74 trouncing of the visiting squad. The Broncos kept the game very tight, and were down by just 12, 49-37, at the half.

Western Texas came out of the locker room more intent and with a defensive plan that would scuttle the NMMI scheme in the last 20 minutes.

WTC hit the floor literally yelling and by the 10:00 mark in the second half, the game was in control, 67-49.

The Westerners started out very strong grabbing a 20-6 lead in the opening minutes of the Western Junior College Conference matchup before allowing Tony Ellington and Sammy Fatoki to pull the NMMI squad to within eight on an 8-2 run.

Ellington and Fatoki combined for 35 points on the night and the duo scored all eight points in the run.

Tony Joyce put the Westerners up by 20 with about nine minutes left in the second half on a 10 foot jumper. Fatoki scored two consecutive baskets to bring the difference to 16 at 69-53.

With 8:21 left in the contest WTC post Kenneth Critton grabbed a monster rebound and dished to Ray Johnson who found Cedric Mason under the basket for two.

David Smith gave Western Texas a 31-point advantage at the 1:41 mark with a pair of free-throws.

Mason, who hit four three-point buckets Thursday, paced the WTC offense with 20 points.

Allen Smith and Critton each scored 18 on the night followed by Dominick Byrd with 13 and David Smith with 12.

In all, 10 Westerners scored. The win sets the Westerners' record at 18-8 on the season and 7-5 in WJCAC competition.

New Mexico Military has yet to win a conference tilt in 10 tries. They are 4-19 on the 1989-90 campaign.

WTC plays on the road next week as the race for the four conference spots in the NJCAA regional tournament, to be held in Snyder, tightens. Monday the Westerners will be in Levelland to face South Plains College and Thursday the WTC crew is in Hobbs, N.M. to battle New Mexico Junior College.

Western Texas' last home contest will be Feb. 26 as the Westerners and Dusters host Howard College.

SHS plays for loop title against Eagles

It's put up or shut up time in District 4-4A.

With just one game remaining on the loop docket, two teams have a shot at just one playoff spot.

Snyder, having clinched at least a second place finish and one of the post-season berths, is at Pecos tonight in their regular season finale.

The Eagles, and Andrews are the other loop squads with shots at the playoffs.

If Snyder, 12-1 in district play, beats Pecos in the PHS gym Friday, then the Tigers will stroll in to the post-season tournament as district champions and Andrews, should they win their Friday battle in Sweetwater, and the Eagles would play for the second spot.

Should Pecos win, then the Tigers and the Eagles would turn around and play a rubber game for the title, the loser heading in to the playoffs as the second seed from the circuit.

Pecos is coming off a 48-47 upset loss to Andrews Tuesday night. By losing, the Eagles lost a share of first place they have held since the beginning of the campaign.

Snyder defeated Sweetwater, 61-43, Tuesday to claim the top spot in the loop. Snyder's Tracy Brazier and Lee Hamilton each contributed 19 points to lead the Tigers against the Mustangs.

Pecos boasts a long-range attack that sees the five on the floor put up as many as 25 to 30 three-point attempts per game.

Players to watch for the Eagles include 1989 all-district pick Tommy Cobos, a 5-9 senior, and 6-3 senior Gary Moore.

The Tigers defeated Pecos, 62-59, when the two teams played at Scurry County Coliseum Jan. 26.

Against Pecos the first time, Brazier scored 20 points followed by sophomore post Hayward Clay and senior guard Jason West with a dozen apiece.

That win boosted Snyder into a first-place tie with Pecos that was broken only Tuesday with the Eagles' loss.

The varsity tilt will get under way at 7:30 p.m. in Pecos, immediately preceded by the JV game at 6 p.m.

Tigers battle Midland Lee

The Tigers will hit the baseball diamond tomorrow at 1 p.m. for a scheduled scrimmage against Midland Lee's Rebels.

The contest will be Snyder's second as they beat Lubbock Dunbar, 6-2, in their initial practice game at Moffett Field.

Tiger hurler Bart Morton, touted by SHS coaches as the probable ace of the 1990 pitching staff, went 2 1-3 innings in the game, striking out five and not allowing a hit.

Senior Tommy Lane came on to toss the final 3 1-3 and took the win, striking out six Panthers in the process.

Snyder's one and two hitters, seniors Bert Merritt and Randy Morris each ripped base hits in the first inning and both scored to start the season off right for Snyder.

Snyder's Terry Stephens got the games' only extra base hit, a double, in the three-run bottom of the fifth inning.

The Tigers begin regular season play against Lubbock Estacado Feb. 27 at Moffett Field.

Snyder track squad at LCU

This weekend starts Snyder High School spring sports in earnest as the boys' track team, the tennis team, and both the boys' and girls' golf squads are in action.

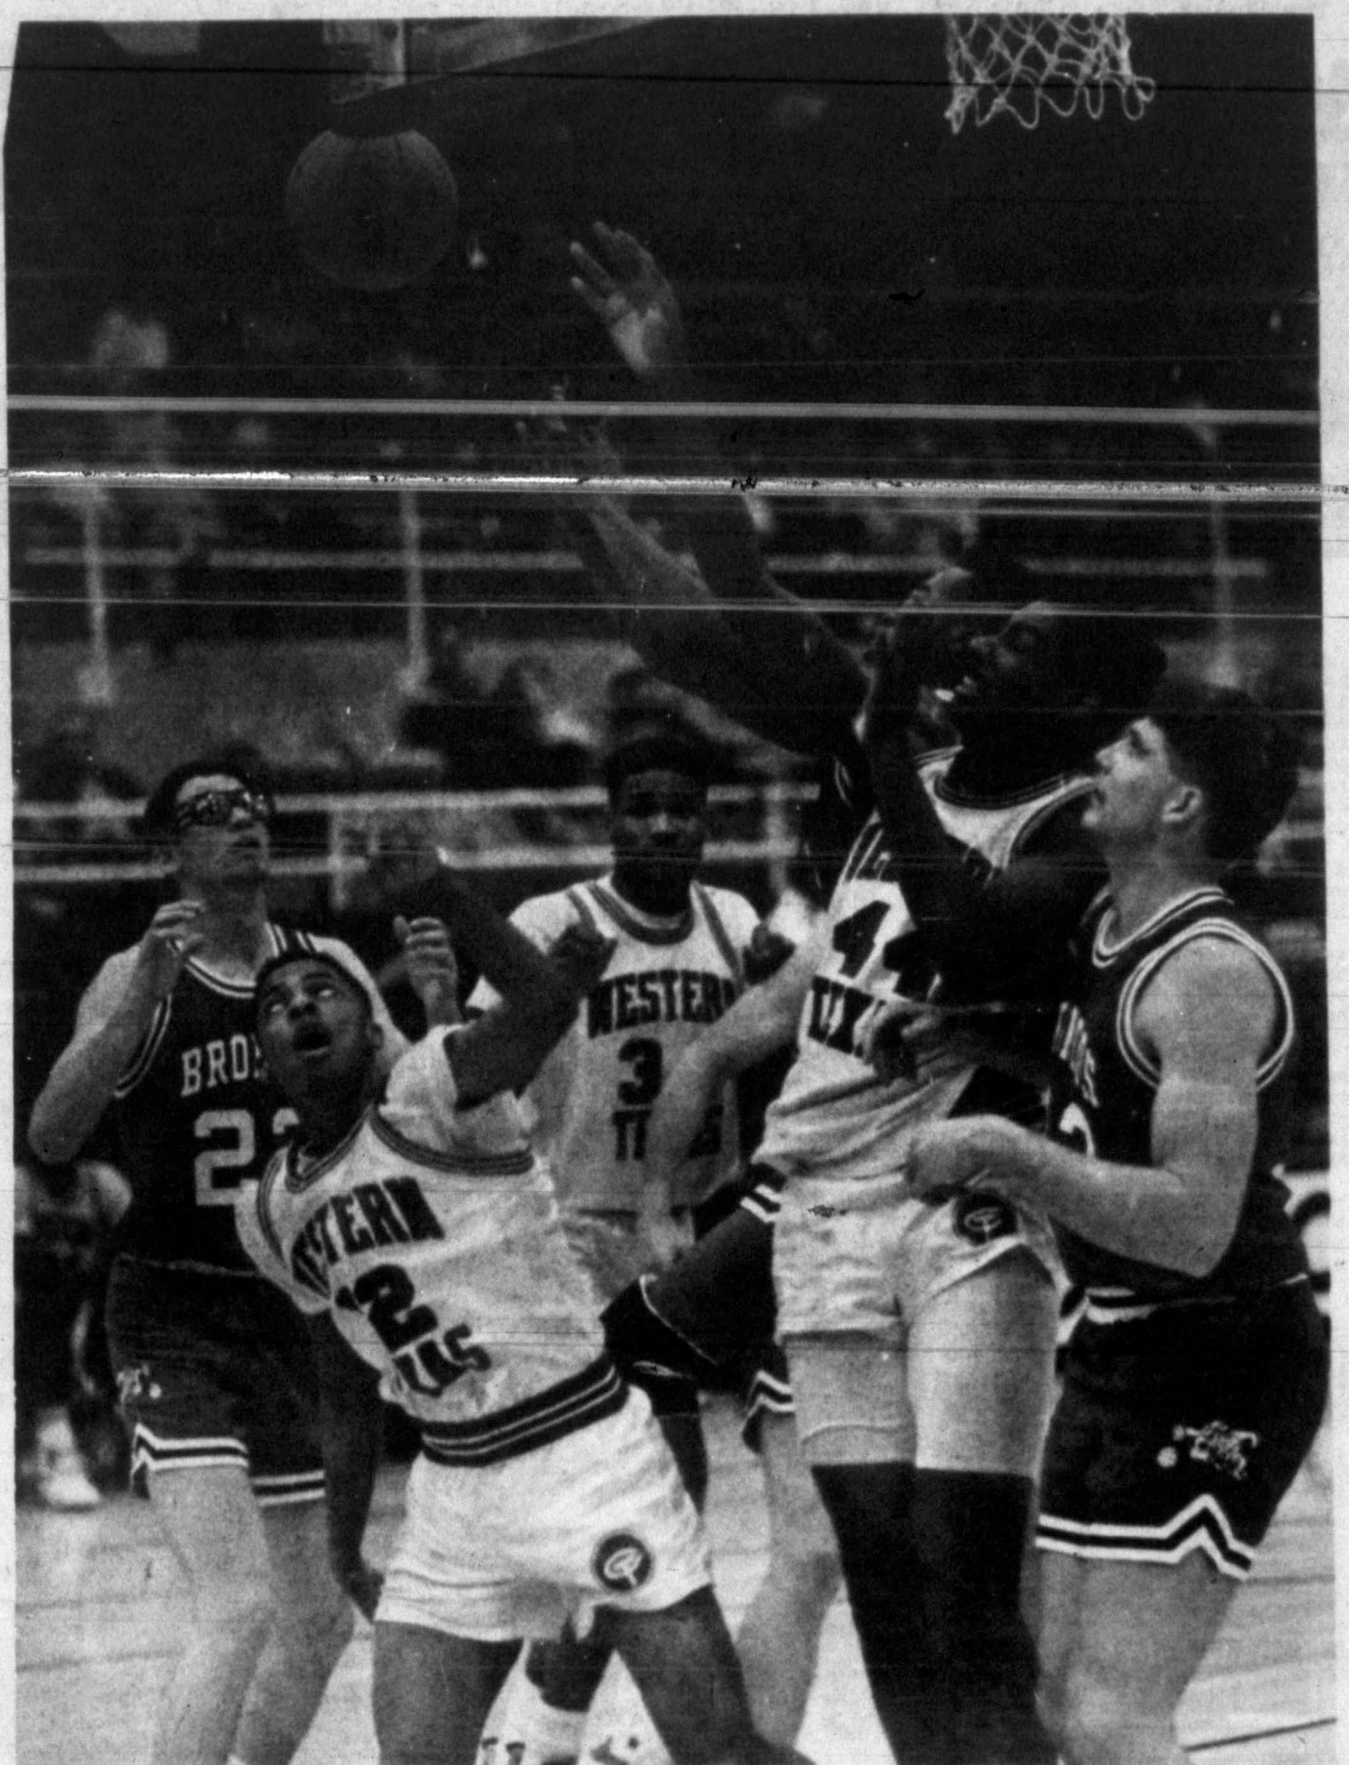

Coach Joe Granato will take his track squad to Lubbock Saturday to participate in the Lubbock Christian University Indoor Meet.

Granato's charges include Shelby Bufkin, who will run in the 400 and 500 meter events, miler and two miler Billy De Lao and Anthony and Robert Palacios who will both run the 500 meter and the 800 meter.

Charlie Guynes, a regional qualifier last season in the pole vault with a 14-6 best, will make the trip for the Tiger thinclads, also.

The meet gets under way at 11:00 a.m. on the LCU campus.

The Snyder tennis team, coached by Charlie Chrane, will be in action beginning today as they travel to the Abilene Team Tennis Tournament and in other action, Snyder linksters, boys and girls, will be entered in the Big Spring golf tournament today and tomorrow.

Commissioner Vincent is 'pessimistic' after Thursday's baseball labor talks

NEW YORK (AP) — The doors to spring training were shut and Commissioner Fay Vincent sounded down. The sides were talking on the first day of the lockout of 1990, but there didn't seem to be much common ground.

"I am extremely pessimistic. It was not a very productive day," Vincent said Thursday after a four-hour meeting in his office. "I am pessimistic about resolving this in the near term. I am pessimistic because we're talking, but we don't seem to be making much progress. As of tonight, I'm not very encouraged. "We're talking, and that's a good thing. Tomorrow's another day. But as of tonight, it does not look very good."

There was sunshine in Florida and Arizona as baseball began its seventh shutdown in nearly 20 years. But the outlook was grey in New York, where negotiators for players and owners met for the 22nd time since talks began on Nov. 28.

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder," Chuck O'Connor, the chief negotiator for management, said in his description of the talks. "I think the fact that we spent that amount of time in the room is progress. That is in the eye of a labor negotiator. If anyone (else) was sitting in the room, you might say, 'My God, if that's progress, I'd hate to see a bad day.' It was in inches, not in quantum leaps."

Vincent's plan, which would impose a 75 percent cap on salary increases for players in arbitration, met with stiff reaction from the players association on Wednesday. Union head Donald Fehr had a softer tone Thursday.

"Certainly nothing was settled today or anything reasonably like that," Fehr said, adding that he wanted to wait a day before assessing the talks.

Vincent's plan replaced the revenue sharing and pay-for-performance proposals that management had advocated since last summer.

"The need to reach an agreement in a certain point of time overrides the adherence to a particular method of getting there," O'Connor said in his explanation for the switch.

Now that the sides are talking about the same issues, they're talking about the same disagreements they've had in the past. Fehr said the sides spent most of the day discussing arbitration and the benefit plan. Sources familiar with the talks characterized the arbitration discussion as acrimonious.

"Arbitration is, as it has been in all the previous negotiations, a major stumbling block," Fehr said in a briefing for reporters at his office.

While management is proposing to restrict arbitration rights, the union proposes to expand them by allowing players with between two and three years in the major leagues to file. The union agreed to increase eligibility from two to three years in the settlement of 1985's two-day strike.

The union has asked the minimum salary be raised from $68,000 to between $100,000 and $125,000. Vincent proposed minimums of $75,000 for "first-year" players, $125,000 for players with one year of service and $200,000 for players with two years.

Ira and Sands in scrimmage

District 25-A champions, the Ira Bulldogs, will be in action Friday in a pre-playoff practice game against Sands.

The Ira-Sands battle will be played in Stanton tonight at 7 p.m.

Ira starts the post-season tournament with a game against Westbrook. Times and sites have yet to be announced for the Ira-Westbrook matchup.

Young cage group to strut at WTC tilt

A girls' basketball group, made up of kindergartners through sixth graders will perform at halftime of the Feb. 26 home finale of the Western Texas College Lady Dusters as they host Howard College.

The group, called PIP for Players in Progress, is based in Cooper, near Lubbock, and is headed by the Cooper High School girls' basketball coach, David Land and his wife Brenda.

"The performance consists of a ball handling routine set to music. "It's a four or five minute routine," said Land.

"We practice for an hour once a week," he said, "Plus any of their own time they want to put in."

"They are really fun to watch. We have performed at several colleges in the area and the crowds just love the little girls."

The group is sponsored by Cooper schools.

Cheney meets with American troops

GONGJAK OBSERVATION POST, South Korea (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney peered through binoculars into heavily fortified North Korea today and said the experience reminded him of America's "determination to protect freedom and democracy" around the world.

"At a time when we are welcoming changes in Eastern Europe and the erosion of the Soviet position in the Warsaw Pact, it's important to be reminded that the United States and the Republic of (South) Korea still face a very hostile and threatening power in the North," said Cheney.

Cheney was driven up steep, muddy slopes by jeep to this mountaintop South Korean army observation post along the 2.5 miles-wide Demilitarized Zone which separates the communist North from capitalist South Korea.

The border between the two Koreas is one of the most heavily armed in the world, with some 1.5 million troops behind barbed wire and bunkers on both sides.

South Korean Lt. Col. Chang Gwang-il told Cheney in a strategic briefing that Gongjak overlooked the Chorwon Valley, one of the main invasion routes used by the communist North at the start of the 1950-53 Korean War. A peace treaty has never been signed and the two nations remain technically at war.

Col. Chang told Cheney he was visiting the site on the birthday of North Korea's Kim Jong Il, the son and heir apparent of ruler Kim Il Sung, the world's longest ruling communist dictator.

Cheney was flown to the border outpost by helicopter after lunching with troops of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division, but had to cancel a scheduled visit to Panmunjom, the truce village on the border of the two Koreas, due to dense fog.

During his visit to Camp Casey, headquarters of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division located 35 miles northeast of Seoul, he passed dozens of tanks, bunkers and guard posts covered with camouflage, buildings painted in speckled olive and brown and soldiers in full-dress battle fatigues.

Journalists were told Cheney asked to have an informal lunch with 12 noncommissioned officers "with no generals present." The special fare for the day at Camp Casey's Warrior's Club, where Cheney ate, was a "Secretary of Defense Turkey Club Sandwich."

Cheney explained the background of cuts in troop strength and defense spending to senior enlisted men and asked for their comments, one witness said.

There are 43,000 U.S. troops stationed in South Korea under a mutual defense pact. U.S. officials said Thursday about 5,000 are expected to be withdrawn in the next three years.

The secretary told Seoul officials earlier that he wants to cut U.S. forces in Asia and the Pacific by 10 to 12 percent — at least 12,000 troops — over the next three years.

He said about 5,000 of the troops would be pulled out of South Korea and another 7,000 to 9,400 would be withdrawn from the Philippines and Japan. There are 120,000 U.S. troops based in the three countries.

Cheney, who also will travel to Manila and Tokyo, said the troop cuts in South Korea would not be pushed "precipitously."

"Our commitment remains strong," Cheney told reporters Thursday.

At a meeting with South Korean President Roh Tae-woo Thursday, Cheney reaffirmed Washington's firm security commitment to Seoul and warned the military threat from communist North Korea "remains undiminished."

To meet deKlerk...

ANC to send delegation

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — In a major breakthrough, the exiled leadership of the African National Congress said today it would send a delegation to South Africa for a meeting with President F.W. de Klerk.

It would be the first meeting ever between the guerrilla movement's exiled leaders and a South African head of state. Alfred Nzo, secretary general of the ANC, also said the guerrilla movement was prepared to negotiate "a suspension of hostilities" once de Klerk met the group's remaining conditions for formal talks.

There was no immediate comment from de Klerk's office.

The ANC said "it resolved to meet Mr. de Klerk as soon as possible to discuss with him the need to address these issues so that a climate conducive to negotiations is created."

The guerrilla movement said the delegation would include exiled members as well as leaders inside South Africa. That could include recently released ANC leader Nelson Mandela, although Nzo did not specify anyone by name.

"It is important immediately to begin the work of re-establishing the ANC within the country," Nzo said, adding that the organization's estimated 15,000 exiles would soon begin to return on a large scale.

The ANC, the main black group fighting white rule in South Africa, has been waging a bombing and sabotage campaign since 1961. However, the armed struggle has been largely dormant in the past year and poses no serious threat to the white-led government.

The announcement followed three days of meetings to evaluate recent reforms announced Feb. 2 by de Klerk, such as legalizing more than 60 opposition groups, including the ANC, the release of Mandela, the easing of press restrictions, and a moratorium on executions.

Nzo said the ANC views these reforms "in a positive light."

The ANC reiterated that the white-led government must release all political prisoners, lift the state of emergency and allow exiles to return before formal negotiations begin.

De Klerk has said he plans to take these steps, but has not said when.

The ANC, which was banned for 30 years, also said it would open offices in South Africa.

Oil imports reach 54 %

States will be importing two-thirds of its petroleum requirement by the middle of this decade," said Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs. "These figures underscore how imperative it is that our nation have a strong energy policy ... We simply cannot wait until we are completely at the mercy of foreign producers."

Imports last accounted for more than half of the country's petroleum consumption in July, which marked the first time they had crossed the 50 percent level in 12 years.

API spokesman Earl Ross said January's high level was "probably an aberration" due to the tremendous need for heating oil in December, which prompted efforts to replenish supplies in January.

"Chances are it will drop back," he said, "but the longer term trend is unmistakable — we're going to have more imports."

Noting that the plant now has an average work force turnout of 150 — depending on the number of inmates reporting sick and going to classes — Ruiz said, "It will help to offer more jobs to the overall unit."

Ruiz's assistant, Grayling Gradney, said the plant has shipped 31 orders since it opened in October, with as many as 300 items to an order.

He said problems with inmates' bickering among themselves and otherwise observing regulations have been minimal.

Yeutter: Stenholm's dairy plan could doom the entire farm bill for 1990

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter is so steamed about a dairy price support program being backed by Rep. Charlie Stenholm that he would recommend the entire farm bill be vetoed if it includes the proposal, officials said.

Yeutter reportedly made his threat at a meeting with state agriculture commissioners Wednesday, according to officials who attended the session.

"He didn't agree with supply management and felt that if it was in the farm bill he would ask, and the president would agree, to veto the farm bill," said one of the 11 state leaders attending the luncheon.

The official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Yeutter's comments on the dairy plan "got a lot of the commissioners at the edge of their seats. He was extremely firm about it and made very clear that this was his position."

Stenholm, the chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee on livestock, dairy and poultry, was considering including a federal price support for a certain percentage of dairy production in the farm bill. His district includes Erath County, the No. 1 dairy-producing county in Texas.

Although Yeutter called Stenholm "quite a reasonable person," he complained the Stamford Democrat, who is also a farmer and rancher, was promoting a supply management approach toward the dairy industry for the 1990 farm bill, the official said.

Another official at the meeting said Yeutter noted that Stenholm's approach would be a major stumbling block to getting the farm bill past the president. Yeutter's press secretary, Kelly Shipp, did not return phone calls for comment Thursday and a secretary said she was traveling.

Through a spokeswoman, Stenholm said he preferred not to respond to hearsay, but added that if indeed Yeutter made those remarks, "it's most unfortunate, but it would be the most specific thing he (Yeutter) has said about the 1990 farm bill and we welcome that."

Anything produced above that level, which would likely be what is needed to satisfy domestic demand, would be sold at the world market price, officials said.

August Schumacher Jr., commissioner of food and agriculture in Massachusetts, said he believes Stenholm's proposal would help dairy farmers in the Northeast, who are struggling to stay in business.

Milk is in short supply in New England, with production dropping in Massachusetts by 20 percent over the past five years and 35 percent of dairy farmers getting out of the business, Schumacher said.

Trucking in milk from the Midwest adds 45 cents to the price of a gallon, he said, while consumers in Massachusetts would prefer fresh, locally-produced milk.

"Consumers want milk at a fair price, local and fresh, and they want dairy farms in their towns," Schumacher said.

Causes of the Northeast milk shortage include a dairy buyout, which was intended to reduce production by paying farmers to kill 1.6 million cows, and problems with forage caused by bad weather, he said.

The 1990 farm bill, which will set national food and farm policy for the next several years, will likely be approved by Congress this year.

February weather stays mild throughout much of U.S.

By The Associated Press

Severe thunderstorms spawned tornadoes, washed out roads and bridges and dropped baseball-sized hail in the South, while record cold damaged California citrus and ice storms left tens of thousands without power in the Midwest.

Schools were closed in parts of 13 states because of bad weather Thursday. Schools also were closed in parts of Alabama today because of flooding from as much as 6 inches of rain.

Farther north, storms were accompanied by sub-freezing temperatures, and crashes on slick roads have killed at least eight people since Wednesday — four in Kansas, two in Michigan and one each in Minnesota and Missouri. Ice also was blamed for a 20-car crash in Arizona; nobody was injured.

Icy conditions prompted airport runway closings in Connecticut, New York and Wisconsin.

The wintry weather ended an unusually balmy six-week period when temperatures in many northern states climbed above freezing almost daily, occasionally reaching the 60s.

More snow was expected to move through the Pacific Northwest and Great Lakes today, while snow changing to freezing rain threatened power outages in northern New England. Accumulations Thursday reached 8 inches in parts of Wisconsin and Michigan and 7 inches in Vermont.

A tornado that wrecked three mobile homes in Louisiana injured five people, while another twister Thursday destroyed a home and damaged about 10 others in Copiah County, Miss., but caused no injuries.

"It was black and boiling, and it looked like a ball of fire was in it. It was coming through like a freight train," said witness Ruth Sojourner of Crystal Springs.

Flash-flooding along a creek in Mendenhall, Miss., forced 250 to 400 people to flee their homes.

The National Weather Service also reported tornado sightings in Alabama and Kansas and hail the size of baseballs in Jackson, Miss.

It was the third straight week of treacherous weather for Alabama, and Gov. Guy Hunt on Thursday requested a federal disaster declaration to aid weather victims.

Meanwhile, roads and bridges were washed out in Cullman County, Ala., and schools there were closed today.

Schools were closed Thursday in parts of Washington state, Arizona, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, Kansas, Missouri and Oregon.

In California, San Diego County's avocado and citrus crops sustained major damage as temperatures plunged into the mid-20s.

Students walk out of class to protest school's decision

LANCASTER, Texas (AP) — About 200 Lancaster High School students returned to classes following a walkout to protest what they claimed was an inadequate Black History Month Program, officials said.

The students, representing about half of the Dallas suburb school's black students, walked out of classes at 11:30 a.m. Thursday and marched peacefully around the school grounds for about 30 minutes, according to Ken Smalling, a school district spokesman.

Most of the protestors returned to school 30 minutes later when principal Leon Rodgers asked them to. The school has about 1,200 students. School officials are considering possible disciplinary action against students who did not return to class after the demonstration, Smalling said.

Students said they held the protest a day after two students who represented the school's black students met with Rodgers to complain there had not been a specific program at the school this year to celebrate Black History Month.

Only hours before the students walked out, Rodgers told

But in central California around Fresno, where temperatures fell to a record low of 24, damage was minimal to citrus and almond trees.

In the Midwest, an ice storm snarled traffic and knocked out electricity to more than 146,000 customers in northern Ohio, although most service was restored Thursday. At least 42,000 customers lost power in Illinois. Outages also were reported in Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Rain and freezing drizzle swept across much of northern and central Illinois today, hampering utility crews sent in from southern Illinois, Indianapolis and St. Louis to help restore power.

students the school would observe Black History Month by having a special assembly at the end of school Feb. 28.

The offer was not enough and came only after students had threatened to demonstrate, some students said.

"They wouldn't let us have a Black History Month program, so we felt that the only way to make our point was to walk out of class," said Tanorra King, a sophomore. "So now they gave us a program, but we don't feel like it's enough. We wanted something for us, and nobody else has to come if they don't want to."

The students had asked Rodgers to have a program with speakers and possibly a singing group as an observance of Black History Month, Smalling said.

School officials held a mandatory, one-hour assembly last year during the school day for Black History Month, but this year the school left education about black heritage and history to teachers' discretion.

Rev. Moore followed in his father's footsteps

After being raised in a parsonage, Rev. Cary Moore, pastor of First Assembly of God, felt his desire to work within the church "almost inevitable." His father was a pastor for Assemblies of God throughout Oklahoma, and Moore refers to the southeastern part of the state as home.

Both Moore and his wife, Janice, have a resounding interest in music. They met while both were involved in the Harvester Choir at Southwestern Assembly of God College in Washington. Moore graduated in May of 1979, and married Janice Nov. 16 of the same year.

Moore has been involved in music ministries as well as associate pastorates and youth ministries. He was an all-state tenor in Oklahoma. In high school, Moore's goal was to be a music minister, but when he first was saved, he felt the call to preach.

As music came more naturally to him, he continued with it to a point when it was no longer a challenge. He then combined both ministries.

When he was called to fill in at a church he eventually took over pastorate of, Moore said the service was turned over to him at 11:15 a.m. He said he sang until 11:55, then preached for 6½ minutes. Following that display, he was asked to try out for pastor of the church, and after another 6½ minute sermon, he was unanimously selected pastor.

Teamwork plays a big part in the pastor's life. He calls his wife the "backbone" behind the work. "All the credit should go to my wife. She provides the stability and support," he said, calling her everything an associate pastor would be. She has been "blessed with the gift of teaching," and teaches junior high and high school Sunday school classes as well as playing piano and handling women's ministries.

Moore said he first felt like a failure as a preacher because he compared what he did to what his father, father-in-law and brother did as preachers. Much of his family and his wife's family consists of pastors.

"I'm at home anywhere God's people are," Moore said. He said he tries to be flexible enough to minister to any size congregation. The church averages from 65 to 70 people at worship services, a figure triple the 20 people average before they started an extensive campaign of witnessing to people and inviting them to church.

"I give full credit to the Lord," Moore said, "Our church is praying and we have people who have a vision." What should the people of Snyder know about Rev. Cary Moore? "I care about them. They should give me a chance and don't judge by what they see or hear from others." His business card sums it up adequately, "Reaching the city for God."

Governor says state should reduce its share of revenue

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said the state will have to spend money to make money in pari-mutuel racing.

Clements said Thursday he agrees with reducing the state's portion of the pari-mutuel racing tax and has no particular concern about expenditures by the Texas Racing Commission that are the focus of an in-house investigation.

"We're talking about a multi-hundred million dollar industry and to get it off the ground ... it's an expensive, long, drawn out process."

"We're going to have to make an investment into this venture before we start getting back revenues in the form of taxes," he said.

And to the possibility of approving a state lottery in the Feb. 27 special legislative session, Clements said, "No deal."

Clements said he would favor consideration of lowering the 5 percent tax on betting during the special session "if we will tend to our knitting and get down to business quickly" on education and judicial reforms.

The horse racing industry has said the tax is too high and the Racing Commission has lobbied Clements, who initially opposed lowering the tax.

More than two years ago voters approved race wagering, but only one track has opened — G. Rollie White Downs in Brady — and it closed early because of financial problems.

On Thursday Clements said, "We don't want to start out on the basis of having it (the racing tax) so onerous we kill the goose that we hope is going to lay the golden egg."

Clements said he favors a tax rate that would increase as the amount of betting increases.

He said if lawmakers begin serious negotiations on school finance and judicial selection, "I will be happy to consider addressing this particular issue (the racing tax)."

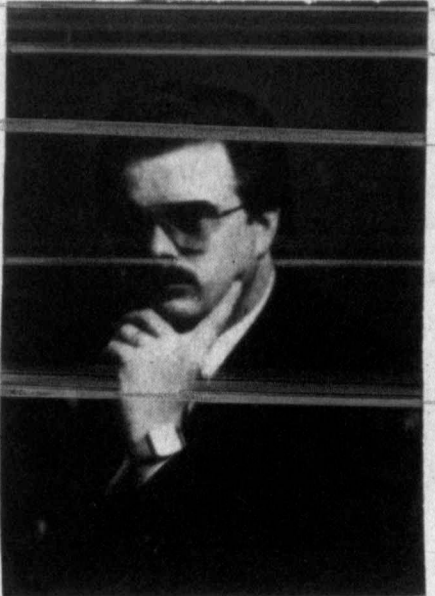

The Texas Supreme Court has declared the state's school funding method unconstitutional because it allows disparities in financing between rich and poor school districts.

On judicial selection, a federal judge has declared the at-large system of electing state district judges in nine urban counties violates the Voting Rights Act by diluting minority voting strength.

On the issue of Racing Commission expenses, Clements said he had no specific concerns at this time, but added, "I just think we need to be careful, we need to be prudent and we need to exercise good judgment and we need to have tight discipline and controis on these appropriations."

The Houston Post reported in a copyright story the Racing Commission is investigating thousands of dollars in questionable expenditures in a $1.7 million consultant's contract with the accounting firm Deloitte & Touche.

Frys establish new church in Snyder

Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Fry moved to Snyder in September of 1989 from El Paso. They left their church home out there and moved to Snyder where there is not a church of their denomination, but they have found a solution to the problem.

What may be Snyder's newest church group is meeting in their home at 3309 48th Street. Both Mr. Fry and his wife, Bonnie, are ordained ministers and serve their church as Elders.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, also known as the RLDS Church in Independence, Mo., where it is headquartered in the Auditorium, has about 240,000 members in the United States, Canada and 38 other countries. They sponsor two non-sectarian colleges, a hospital, two nursing homes and other institutions. World conferences are held every two years.

RLDS members are encouraged to take an active part in their communities, cooperating with service organizations and as the world church makes donations to relief organizations to help victims of hurricane and earthquake disasters. All services in their churches, auditoriums and temples are open to the public.

The local mission is sponsored by the Stanton congregation and has organized with some 25 people participating. They expect to be ministered to by the local ministry and also receive direction from the leaders sent from the World Church.

The president and prophet of the church is Dr. Wallace B. Smith of Independence, Mo. Dr. Smith is the great-grandson of Joseph Smith Jr., founder of the church. He is also a personal acquaintance and friend of the members of the new home congregation.

Lavern Fry, who served as pastor of the El Paso RLDS congregation and is pastor of the new congregation in Snyder, offers a welcome to the public to come learn and worship in their home on the second and fourth Sundays of each month from 10:30 a.m. to noon. For information, call 573-1271.
