Cigarette tax urged by Hobby

AUSTIN (AP) — Although Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says a 14-cent-a-pack cigarette tax increase would pass the Legislature "in a minute," Gov. Bill Clements again vowed to veto any new taxes approved by lawmakers struggling to reform the public school finance system.

Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell appeared before the board to say the west station, in the 3400 Block of El Paso Ave., and the east station, at 29th St. and Ave. E, are little-used and are becoming harder to maintain, having cost $3,500 last year for utilities and upkeep.

Cat lover tries to help strays near Capitol

AUSTIN (AP) — Lobbyists and lawmakers aren't the only fat cats hanging around the state Capitol as the Legislature meets in special session.

A self-described "basic bleeding-heart cat lover" has been providing veterinary care to an assortment of felines who make the statehouse grounds their home. She hopes to find people to adopt them.

Diane Odegard, a clerk for the Senate Journal, said at least five cats — some of which, to be fair, are actually rather slim — have been prowling around the Capitol for more than a year.

"Sometimes in the morning they'll be sitting out sunning themselves," she said. "Sometimes they'll be sitting on the steps of the Capitol just like they belong there."

Ms. Odegard and Capitol parking attendants believe some of the cats were abandoned at the legislative hall as kittens last winter and have survived on squirrels and pigeons — plus a little help from Capitol workers.

"As it turns out, a lot of us have apparently been feeding them. I'm sure we all thought we were the only ones," Ms. Odegard said. "You'll walk around the Capitol and see a plate of cat food here and there."

Nevertheless, she said the irregular feeding, exposure to bad weather and danger from cars and people prompted her to try to improve the cats' lot.

Ms. Odegard and Carolyn Seelig, another Capitol employee, have been taking donations to have the cats vaccinated and neutered to prevent the proliferation of new generations of Capitol kittens.

So far, Ms. Odegard said she has trapped and altered three cats and has found one male tabby an adoptive home.

Donations have covered all of the $120 in veterinary bills, but Ms. Odegard said she isn't sure how many more cats she can help because a trap she set daily while on vacation from her job two weeks ago failed to lure any takers.

"I have tried to catch some cats and I haven't been successful, so apparently they have wised up to the trap," she said. "Maybe they have gotten smart. If they have any brains, they won't walk into that trap."

Ms. Odegard, who said she once considered attending veterinary school, said her goal is to see all the cats adopted, although she said most are a little wild and may take time to get used to humans.

Strays still hanging about the halls of power include one female tabby and one small female calico, both altered, and three males — a tabby, a large white cat and one with black and white fur.

"There may be more than we think. This may be fairly futile," Ms. Odegard said.

Groups seeks ingredient disclosure

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you really want to know that your cheeseburger contains 711 calories and there's chicken skin in your McNugget, it may soon be easier to find out.

Fast-food companies are under pressure from a consumer group insisting that four large chains honor a 1986 nutrition disclosure agreement.

Consumers need to know that McDonald's and Burger King fry their potatoes in beef fat, says Michael Jacobson, executive director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

They need to know that McDonald's Chicken McNuggets contain ground-up chicken skin, that Burger King's Whopper with cheese contains 711 calories and that milkshakes often contain artificial colorings, said Jacobson, whose group is enlisting help from officials in three states.

"This is the first complaint that we've received," Burger King spokeswoman Cori Zywtow said after learning that product information brochures were available at only six of 14 outlets surveyed by the Washington-based center.

"We certainly believe our consumers should know what they're eating," she added. "We provide guides to all of our restaurants."

We certainly will go back and take a look ourselves and, if they are not being given out, remedy the situation."

The center, a nonprofit health advocacy group with 200,000 members, outlined its complaints on Monday against Burger King, McDonald's, Wendy's and Kentucky Fried Chicken.

In letters to the attorneys general of California, New York and Texas, Jacobson said the chains are violating a 1986 agreement to give customers on-the-spot information about ingredients and nutrition and make sure customers know the booklets are available.

The agreement worked out with the three state officials was supposed to apply to outlets nationwide, according to the center.

"We are sorry to report... that, after initial compliance, the voluntary program has broken down," Jacobson said in the letter. Based on a survey of eight states and the District of Columbia, he said, only Jack in the Box appears to be honoring the agreement.

Jacobson urged the attorneys general to consider prosecuting the companies if they don't fully comply within 60 days.

The four chains have been invited to meet with Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox and talk about the problem.

"We want them to continue providing nutritional information," said Mattox spokesman

Ron Dusek. "Whether or not the states would be inclined to sue over the violations of this agreement, I don't know."

Amarillo officials meet with DOE on security changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amarillo officials say they're optimistic of working out a compromise with federal officials that would keep the city airport operating despite proposed security restrictions on the airspace over the Pantex nuclear weapons plant.

Amarillo Mayor Keith Adams and other city officials met Monday with Department of Energy and Federal Aviation Administration officials over the proposed restrictions. Adams said the city's airport might have to close down unless the proposals are modified.

The measures are designed to prevent a terrorist attack on Pantex, the nation's final assembly plant for nuclear warheads and bombs.

Amarillo International Airport lies directly to the southwest of Pantex and uses airspace over Pantex that is currently unrestricted, according to Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

According to Gramm, the proposed restrictions would increase the minimum level for flights over Pantex from 4,800 feet to 10,000 feet. The airport is at 3,600 feet above sea level.

The proposal also would greatly expand restricted flight boundaries to the north, east and south.

The DOE has proposed alternate measures, but those require planes to land at a 39 degree angle, which pilots would find unsatisfactory, city officials said.

Denny Lynch, a spokesman for Wendy's, said the company has not discontinued a policy of offering menu information, although

"I think there's a feeling there that a compromise must be reached," said Rep. Bill Sarpalus, D-Amarillo, who attended Monday's session. "If there ever was a terrorist attack on any DOE facility, Pantex probably would be at the top of the list and they have to do everything that they possibly can to see to it there is protection there for that facility," Sarpalus said.

The city, however, has been "very, very supportive of Pantex... and we want to continue to be supportive, but at the same time that airport is vitally important to any future economic growth of our city and we must see to it that the airport is protected," Sarpalus said.

"However, if the Department's proposal were to be implemented in its current form, operations at the airport would be severely, if not totally, curtailed, thereby rendering the airport useless," Gramm told Energy Secretary James Watkins in a March 2 letter. "If the airport were to be replaced, local officials estimate that it would cost $300,000,000 to construct."

City Manager John Ward said the Amarillo airport averages 500,000 passenger boardings a year. Military operations account for 40 percent of the airport's activities.

The Brooklyn Bridge, linking Brooklyn and Manhattan, was opened to traffic in 1883.

none was available at any of the 14 outlets surveyed by the center. "They might have run out of them," Lynch said. "That's easily fixed."

Only three of 13 Kentucky Fried Chicken outlets in the survey had nutrition pamphlets on hand. Spokesman Dick Detwiler said that was because a new, updated booklet was being published at the time of the survey.

Terri Capatosto, a spokeswoman for McDonald's, said her company never agreed to anything except a one-year distribution of nutrition information in New York in 1986.

However, she said McDonald's current national policy is to have complete product information available and booklets are sent to restaurants regularly. The center found brochures available at eight of 18 outlets and concluded that the policy "is being ignored by many of their stores."

The consumer group reached its conclusions after surveying restaurants in Virginia, Louisiana, Ohio, Wyoming, New Mexico, Texas, California and New York in addition to Washington, D.C.

Music students honor composers with tea

Vivace Jr. Music Club members honored their mothers and grandmothers with a Valentine tea in the home of Emily Zeck, 2602 33rd, Sunday, February 11 at 2 p.m. Parade of American music was observed with music at piano and clavivova of American love songs, old and new. American composers honored were James Bastien, Maurice Jarre, Demarest, William Gillock, George Gershwin, David Carr Glover, Richard Rodgers, Robert Vandall, Paul Webster, Lynn Olson, Bob Merrill, Jimmie Van Heusen and Gayneyl Wheeler. Pianists playing were: Angela Riggs, Ruth Ann Riddel, Temple Latimer, Tia Basham, Carrie Perkins, Brooke Kubena, Hope Papay, Sterling Cave, Nicki

Riggs, Blanden Chisum, Stephanie Hoyle, Brandi Murphree, Laura Latimer, Andrea Helm, Amy Armstong, Alicia Kubena, Robin Cave, Jim Chisum, Mandy Strain, Ellen Strayhorn, Cynthia Stansell and Brooke Kubena.

Songs sung by theory classes were: "Somebody Loves Me" and "Valentine Song Medley." Robin Cave sang "Love and Marriage." Mrs. Dwayne Riggs and Nathan Hoyle gave a comedy skit on the "Good Ole Days."

Love poetry was read by Michelle Banta, Allison Harvey, Jenise Judah, Brandi Murphree, Stephanie Hoyle, Carole Strayhorn, Paul O'Conner, Blanden Chisum, Sterling Cave, Amber Kelley and Emily Zeck.

Vivace Music Club is affiliated with Musical Coterie, state and national federation of music clubs through Bethel Studio of Music.

The last meeting was held Sunday in the home of Amy Armstrong.

Scurry charter hosts speakers

The Scurry Chapter of American Business Women Association met Feb. 22. Nineteen members and 13 guests were present. Barbara Scrivner served as hostess for the meeting.

Program chairperson Pam Murray introduced the guest speaker Charles Streetman, assistant warden at the Price Daniel Unit for the Texas Department of Corrections. He told the group that currently the prison has 926 men. These men either go to school or work in the factory seven days a week. The factory makes chairs, couches and love seats. These items are then sold back to state agencies. If they choose to go to school, the inmates attend for six hours. They can learn janitorial services, apartment maintenance or auto care. The men are allowed visits on Saturday and Sunday and they receive mail.

Streetman added that there were three guard shifts and that the inmates give more problems when there is a full moon.

Invocation chairperson Shirley Miller introduced Jessie Scarbrough. Scarbrough is employed by the state at the driver's license office. She informed club members of her job duties. Irene Brooks, Martha Ann Woman's Club member, spoke to the group about game days held at the club on Wednesdays. Tickets are five dollars.

Pat Faver introduced Judy Bynum, member of the month. Judy and her husband Harley own Harley Bynum Photography.

ABWA members are taking donations on raffle tickets for $100 on groceries at Everybody's. Their spring tea is scheduled for March 22. Their regional meeting will be March 30-April 1 in El Paso.

Although it is a natural play to take the king of hearts with the ace at trick one, thus ensuring a second trick, declarer must suppress this instinct so he can destroy the opponents' communication. Let East win the heart king. Declarer plays the heart jack on the return. West can take the queen and clear the suit, but he has no entry to take further tricks. Declarer will force out the club ace and later play East for the jack of spades to make nine tricks and his contract. It is logical to play in this fashion, since it is quite likely that West is leading from a five-card suit, and even more likely that East has the missing aces plus the spade jack.

Sooners become third team from Big Eight to get No. 1

The No. 1 ranking has belonged to three teams from the Big Eight this season, a fact that hasn't been overlooked by Oklahoma coach Billy Tubbs.

"It can slip real quick on you, if you've noticed what's happened out there," Tubbs said Monday after the Sooners (23-4) jumped to the top from fifth after beating the other two teams from its conference which had been No. 1 - Missouri and Kansas - within three days.

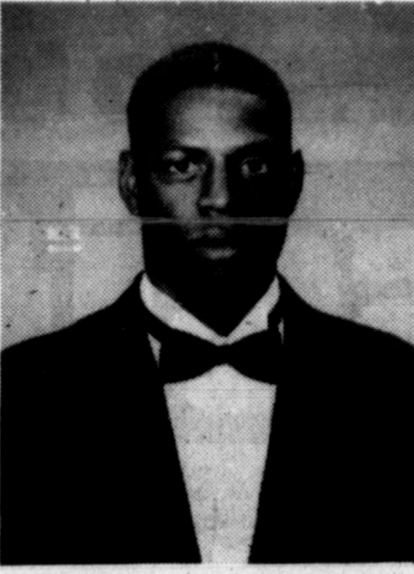

"We feel it's a great honor and something we've worked hard for," Tubbs said. "Our players are still excited about playing and feel they have much to prove."

Oklahoma had its first-ever No. 1 ranking last season when it was in that spot for three of four weeks.

"We're taking it a little bit differently than last year," Tubbs said. "When you achieve the top ranking for the first time, like we did last year, it becomes bigger than what you try to achieve on the court."

The Sooners received 47 of 63 first-place votes and 1,555 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters to easily outdistance Kansas (28-3), which dropped one spot to second with 1,473 points.

"If there's a time to be No. 1, I guess now would be it because it means you're playing good

DOMINICK BYRD

All-WJCAC squad set

WTC places two men, two women on team

The 1989-90 Western Junior College Athletic Conference All-Conference teams for both men and women were released late Monday with two WTC Dusters on the elite squad and three Westerners on the team.

The Lady Dusters placed Bobbie Brown and Tami Wilson on the team while Dominick Byrd and Kenneth Critton made the team and Tony Joyce received an honorable mention for the Western Texas men.

Brown, the Lady Dusters long-distance threat, is a 5-11 sophomore at WTC playing the forward position. She is a graduate of Jayton High School and averaged 13.8 points per game for WTC this season.

Brown also connected on over 52 percent of her 69 three-point attempts for the campaign, leading the WJCAC in that category.

Wilson, Western Texas' 5-11 sophomore post, is named to the team as a result of her dominance on both ends of the court.

The Seagraves talent scored 18.4 points per game during the season while sweeping 13 rebounds per outing.

Wilson also led the conference in blocks with 4.3 per contest and paced the WTC women shooting at a 57 percent clip.

Byrd and Critton led the Western Conference in rebounding all season and ended up even with both averaging just over 10 a game.

Critton, a 6-8 sophomore post from Dallas, will transfer to Washington State University for his junior and senior years. The 6-4 freshman, Byrd, from Ft. Worth, ended the season averaging 18 points per game and hitting almost 63 percent of his free-throws over the course of the season. Both marks place him in the top 10 in the conference.

Joyce, named to the honorable mention team, hails from Morton.

The sophomore forward hit almost 40 percent of his three-pointers in '89-90.

Howard's Terence Lewis was tagged the league's Most Valuable Player leading the WJCAC in scoring as he averaged over 25 points in a game while connecting on over 61 percent of his shots from the floor and hitting 45 percent of his three-point attempts.

Teammate Johnny McDowell was also named to the squad as a result of his 20 point and 10 rebound a game season.

Howard also furnished the All-Conference team with their coach as Steve Green, whose crew has been in the nation's top ten most of the season and for a short time took over the No. 1 spot, was chosen.

The rest of the men's team includes 6-1 sophomores Lynn Collins and Patric Nash of Odessa College, 6-2 sophomore Reggie Collins and 6-1 sophomore Marc Thompson of the New Mexico Junior College Thunderbirds, and Tyrone Maxey a 5-10 sophomore and Jeff Stern, a much recruited 6-9 sophomore from South Plains College.

New Mexico Military placed one man on the team as did Midland College.

Sammy Fatoki, NMJI's lone pick, scored over 23 points per game in 1989-90 to get the tab, while Midland's Tim Owens, a 19 ppg shooter during the season got the All-Conference nod, too.

Frank Phillips center Pat McDonald and South Plains forward Sheryl Swoopes were named co-MVP's for the WJCAC women.

McDonald scored over 18 points, blocked 4.1 shots and pulled down 14 rebounds to justify her nomination.

Swoopes outdistanced all scorers in the league scoring at a 26.1 ppg clip.

Other members include Howard's Shannon Lawson, Kim Robinson and Linda Waters, Odessa's Angela Meadough and Patricia Rivers, Frank Phillips' Peggy Shepherd and Medina Turner of Clarendon College.

Howard's Royce Chadwick was named the women's coach of the year coaching the Hawk Queens to a No. 5 national ranking after being picked in pre-season polls to finish no better than fifth in the conference.

A complete listing of the teams follows:

School finance plan will top agenda

AUSTIN (AP) — Candidates for the State Board of Education say implementing the Legislature's school finance plan will be the toughest challenge facing the newly elected panel.

Texas voters this year will fill seven of the board's 15 seats, but there's only one contested board race in the March 13 primary election ballot. Three Republicans in the Houston area are vying for the District 6 seat of Robert Cummings, 68, who has decided not to run again because he wants to spend more time with his family.

Incumbents are opposed in the primary for the six other seats.

The current board has recommended doubling state public education spending over the next five years, said Joey Lozano, spokesman for the Texas Education Agency — from about $5 billion a year to about $10 billion.

Lawmakers are working in special session to meet a May 1 court-ordered deadline for revamping the school funding system. The Texas Supreme Court ruled the current finance system discriminates against poor school districts.

"With the court order in force, it will be imperative that the Legislature start responding ... and giving some credibility to some of the financial requests that the board has been making," said Mike McLamore of the Texas Professional Educators Association.

The board develops policy for the public school system. Its unpaid members are elected on staggered four-year terms from districts of about equal population. They have six mandatory meetings during the school year, plus other meetings called by the chairman.

The GOP candidates in District 6 are:

— John Alexander, 43, a University of Houston administrator. Alexander has worked as a staffer on the Legislative Budget Board and a special committee on financing education.

— "The board has to deal with issues on a statewide level," he said. "I know the players and I know how things are done in Austin."

— Jack Christie, 41, a Houston chiropractor. Christie served on the Spring Branch school board in 1978-1984.

"You have to have direct experience with the budget process and policy making," he said.

— Elsie Huang, 52, principal at Mayde Creek Elementary School

Police look for motorist

Police are looking for a motorist who was involved in a 6:56 p.m. Monday collision at College Ave. and the U.S. 84 access road in northern Snyder.

The investigating officer said a vehicle and driver who had not been identified hit a 1988 Mazda driven by Shelley Gibson of Clairmont Rt., who then hit a reflector pole owned by the state highway department.

He said the Mazda had minor damages.

At 11:13 a.m. Monday in the 2600 Block of Ave. R, a 1977 Buick Century driven by Ennis Powell of 509 35th St. was in collision with a 1973 Ford LTD driven by Loyd Gaddis of Box 575.

Two arrested

Monday arrests by city police included a 24-year-old man who was taken into custody for DWI and not having liability insurance at 6:38 p.m. in the 100 Block of the East Hwy.

A 24-year-old man was arrested on outstanding Department of Public Safety warrants from Midland for speeding and not having liability insurance at 2:11 p.m. in the 1600 Block of 25th St.

Injury noted

A 39-year-old man was treated and released Monday night at Cogdell Memorial Hospital with a shoulder injury that he had reportedly suffered in a motor vehicle accident.

C.B. Sanders, whose address was not reported, came to the hospital at 8:15 p.m. with an injury to his right shoulder, a hospital spokesman said.

spent discussing monetary supplements for three coaches, to include varsity athletic trainer Steve Krueger. Board members were told of a recommendation to add $500 to the pay of Laurie Welch and Levon Webb, who are both coaching three sports but getting paid for only two. Welch coaches junior varsity volleyball, basketball and assists with the track program while Webb instructs freshman basketball, volleyball and junior varsity baseball.

Those supplements, if approved Thursday, would be paid for the current school year.

Also on Thursday's agenda will be a request to supplement the athletic trainer's salary by an additional $1,500 for the following year, 1990-91. Krueger is currently supplemented $3,500 while regular varsity head coaches are supplemented $5,000.

Trustees differed in their opinion of the request. Board president Billy Bob McMullan voiced the opinion that many teachers work long hours and added "He's not under pressure like they (other coaches) are."

Mike Jordan, however, responded by noting, "He oversees over 100 kids and their well being. I say he has a high level of responsibility."

Board members also discussed a numbers problem with the junior high tennis program. Over 70 students are enrolled in tennis and there is presently one coach. Gloria Ball has recently begun helping with the program and it was recommended to the board that she be paid $500 for the remainder of the year. It was noted that she works two hours each day after school and will accompany the tennis players to four meets.

Board members appeared in agreement with the recommendation — a formal vote will have to be taken Thursday — but also indicated that tryouts may need to be implemented in the program to help keep the teacher-to-student ratio to a more reasonable number. The possibility of having a tennis-physical education class was also briefly discussed.

Board members voiced their disapproval of sending students to auto mechanics and welding classes at Western Texas College.

"I don't think it has worked. We're not getting our money's worth," stated Trustee Luann Burleson. "I'm not in favor of doing it next year."

Board members indicated they did not believe students were being well supervised and, noted Jordan, "I'd rather prepare welders well than auto mechanics and welders not well. I think we need to keep them here on the campus where we have some control over them."

Also discussed was the need to establish a policy for elementary school out-of-town field trips. School officials said there was currently no problem, but requests to take the trips are frequent and a uniform policy would be beneficial to both teachers and administrators.

The final two items discussed were the possibility of offering Latin I and II in upcoming school years and a class for students who fail the exit-level TEAMS/TAAS test.

The district "has the resources to teach one or possibly two Latin classes," said Tom Scannicchio, assistant superintendent. The courses would be taught with personnel and materials already available.

Students who fail the TEAMS/TAAS test during their first two opportunities as a junior would be required to take a special class which will help them pass it as a senior. The TEAMS test is currently used by the state but will be replaced by the TAAS test next year.

James Crow of the Texas Association of School Boards predicts the state board's agenda "for the next year will be determined to a large extent by what the Legislature does."

The board's school funding plan would increase the average per-pupil spending in Texas from $3,200 to $4,400, said the Texas Education Agency's Lozano.

Council to ask for bids proval of a set of rules and procedures for council meetings, to be given out to visitors at the start of each meeting.

Mayor Troy Williamson said the rules will allow visitors to reserve five minutes to speak about an agenda item of their choice, or to speak for two minutes at the end of a meeting about a non-agenda subject.

Instead of the mayor and city manager having sole authority about what is included on the agenda, Williamson said, the new rules will also allow any two council members to put a matter on the agenda.

"For years, we have just done it the way the mayor wanted to," he said, explaining that there has been uncertainty at times about how visitors should go about addressing the council.

Williamson said the council will have a "budget retreat" on April 7 and 8 at the Holiday Inn in Sweetwater "to really brainstorm some of the things we need at the front end of the budget process."

He said the Sweetwater City Council did the same thing in Snyder last year and the local council is going at the Sweetwater panel's suggestion.

Bids were accepted for the purchase of 27 tons of chlorine from Corpus Christi attorney and Democratic incumbent in District 2.

— John H. Shields, 35, San Antonio attorney and Republican incumbent in District 5.

— Carolyn Honea Crawford, 46, Beaumont educator and Democratic incumbent in District 7.

— A.M. "Bob" Aikin, 43, Commerce businessman and Democratic incumbent in District 9.

— Will Davis, 60, Austin attorney and Democratic incumbent in District 10. His general election challenger is Charles Jones, 59, a Republican who administers the Jobs Training Partnership Act in College Station.

— Jane Nelson, 38, Lewisville businesswoman and Republican incumbent in District 11.

The plan also calls for lengthening the school year from 175 to 180 days, providing $300 million for a summer school program for students at risk of dropping out and providing funds for year-around school.

Carroll Welding & Supply of Brownwood, 100 tons of liquid alum from Rhone-Poulenc of Houston and 27 tons of hydrated lime from Austin White Lime Co. of Austin, for use at the city water treatment plant on Ave. M.

Osborn said the lime is needed to reduce the acidity level in Lake J.B. Thomas water, because the lake has been at a relatively low level.

Kerry Bredemeyer of 2312 27th St. was granted a special use permit to operate a small gasoline engine repair shop in his garage, and an ordinance was passed on first reading to create a mail loading zone in the 1900 Block of Coleman Ave.

Francene Allen elected committee chairperson

Francene Allen, resource room instructor at West Elementary, was elected last month to the position of executive chairperson of the Teacher Services Corporation of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association. She will begin serving her two-year term in June.

The convention was held in Dallas Feb. 23-24 and three other Snyder teachers also attended including Donna Bailey from Stanfield, Galene Dobbs from North, and Peggy English from the high school.

Allen said she decided to seek the executive chairperson's post last July at a TCTA leadership meeting in Austin. "I didn't think I had a chance but I submitted my name anyway," she said.

Since July, Allen has kept busy soliciting support from all the presidents of TCTA locals in District 14 which she represents. In addition, she also kept a booth at the convention and in spite of an untimely case of laryngitis which forced her to campaign voiceless, she managed to pull in more votes than either of her two opponents.

As the executive chairperson, Allen said she will be working with the TCTA staff in Austin in order to provide programs and services for teachers including liability, dental and other insurance, annuities and travel programs.

"We try to offer things to teachers which they cannot get in their own area," she said of the Teacher Services Corporation. They currently offer teachers assistance with the appraisal process and past services included preparation and training for the TECAT test which state law mandates that all teachers take.

Allen explained that the TSC tries to develop programs for teachers which match their areas of interest. Any revenue generated by the Teacher Services Corp. is put back into TCTA she said.

Allen has served on the TCTA state board for the past eight years and as a member of the TSC for the past six years. Prior to this year's election, she had served as the vice chairperson of the TSC. She has been a District Director for District 14 for the past four years.

TCTA rules state that members may serve two consecutive terms of office at the same position, but if they choose to try for a third term, then they have to leave the board for one term and but may return for the next term. However, members may seek another position without having to leave the board and that is what Allen said she had decided to do.

State's handling of abuse case investigated

AUSTIN (AP) — The state attorney general is investigating the Texas Department of Human Services' handling of a child abuse case here in which a 2-year-old was beaten to death, a newspaper reported.

The case of Christopher Wohlers also is being reviewed by a state Senate committee that oversees the welfare agency, the Austin American-Statesman said Monday.

some years ago," she said. "I am looking forward to the next two years."

Some 800 plus educators in Texas participated in the 1990 convention, which was highlighted by a gubernatorial candidates' forum and a keynote address by U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

TCTA is a professional association representing 26,000 public school teachers across Texas. The annual convention gave delegates the opportunity to discuss current education issues and to make policy decisions for the association.

Teachers attended mini-conferences on the special session on education, The Texas school finance crisis, legal issues and the Master Teacher program.

Air Clouded by More Than Distrust at Yalta Conference

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I laughed when I read your article dealing with the Yalta Conference and the alleged strong body odor of Joseph Stalin. How could anybody know who was responsible for the stench under those circumstances?

Being fluent in Russian, I was there with a team of interpreters from the U.S. Navy, and I can verify that the accommodations, insofar as cleanliness was concerned, left a lot to be desired.

What we Americans missed the most were showers and bathrooms. (Mr. Churchill called Yalta "the worst choice in the world — good for typhus and lice which thrive in those parts.") He was right.)

President Roosevelt was assigned the only private bathroom at Yalta. All the others had to go down to one of the minesweepers docked at the port in order to take a shower.

No comments were made regarding body odor, as that would have been most impolite and inappropriate in the diplomatic process.

However, if anything stank at Yalta, it was Stalin's word — which proved to be worthless!

ANDREW SAWCHUK, LA HABRA, CALIF.

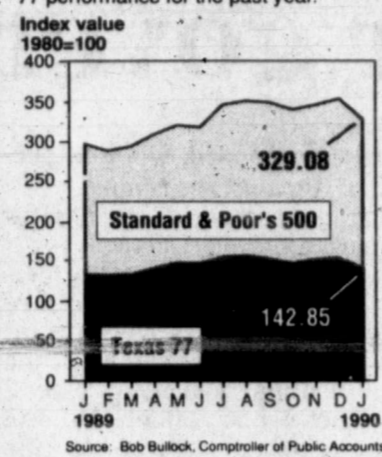

DEAR MR. SAWCHUK: Thanks for the interesting history lesson from an eye (and nose) witness.

DEAR ABBY: Am I the only one who is bugged by this? I'm referring to kids from Little League, 4-H, Pee-Wee Hockey — you name it — setting up camp outside the local mall or supermarket panhandling for donations.

I'm not saying that the causes are not worthy, but what kind of lesson is this teaching our young people? What happened to the days when most kids' groups earned their funds

Richards' rivals say she is desperate on drug usage question

AUSTIN (AP) — State Treasurer Ann Richards' decision to attack Democratic gubernatorial rivals over ethics — rather than simply say "yes or no" to whether she's ever used illegal drugs — shows her campaign is sinking, her leading opponents say.

With the primary election a week away, Ms. Richards on Monday blasted former Gov. Mark White and Attorney General Jim Mattox, saying they have ducked questions about their personal finances.

And while she again refused to specifically say whether she ever used an illegal drug, Ms. Richards, a recovering alcoholic,

DOE committed to building super collider as 1st planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy Secretary James A. Watkins says he's committed to building the super collider as originally envisioned, but won't know until June how much the design changes would add to the overall cost.

The collider's price tag already has increased once — from $4.4 billion to a current estimate of $5.9 billion — and Watkins said he expects another increase of $1 billion to $2 billion to build the particle accelerator as large and as powerful as first planned.

But a final cost estimate won't be available until June, Watkins told the House Appropriations subcommittee on energy and water development.

The cost increase — coupled with the lack of a firm figure on the new estimate — could spell trouble in Congress as supporters seek their second year of construction funding for what would be the world's largest scientific instrument, to be built south of Dallas.

"This creates some problems, yes it does. I wish they were able to give us a definite figure, but we have been through this many times on other projects," said Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., the influential chairman of the energy appropriations subcommittee.

Asked if Congress could reverse last year's commitment to building the collider, Bevill appeared unsure of the project's fate, saying: "That's always possible. No, I don't think that's going to happen. I don't know. I don't know. At this point I don't know."

Watkins said physics changes in the design of the project to build it as envisioned could in-
