President Vytautus Landsbergis of Lithuania, which declared itself independent on March 11, said in a statement that the Soviet leader's Wednesday decree showed "the ghost of Stalinism is walking in the Kremlin.'

Landsbergis said the Baltic republic would remain "serene and united" despite the decree, which he said "could be enforced only by brutal military force.'

Gorbachev has called Lithuania's declaration of independence illegal but has also said he would not use force to keep it from seceding.

Mayor recall election prompts key turnout

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — affairs. The leaders also said an election to recall the city's mayor, indicating a possible record turnout for the election

Assistant city secretary Lana East said 378 people cast ballots Tuesday, bringing the seven-day absentee total to a 2,086. With the addition of mail-in ballots already received, absentee votes total almost 2,100, East said.

The election, which will decide if Mayor Max Green, 58, stays or goes, is Saturday.

Almost 400 people cast ballots on they were disturbed by Green's the final day of absentee voting in revelation of gambling charges against Big Spring police officers, charges that were later determined to be unfounded.

East said the number of absentee voters may be a record.

The absentee figures are just about 400 short of the total turnout in the May 1989 election, which Green won by a 300-vote

County officials said there are 11,800 registered voters within the city limits, so 17.8 percent of eligible voters already have cast their ballots in absentee voting. By comparison, 21.5 percent of eligible voters cast ballots in the last mayoral election.

Despite a negative cash flow, the bad news said additional taxes are owed. After spending several days in Washington, D.C., it is easy to understand why the government never has enough money.

During January's roll-back election, there was criticism of local government spending. In local government it's waste. In state government it's Vaste, but on the national scene it's WASTE!!

The cost of just maintaining the federal government staggers the mind of a West Texan who believes going to a big city and having a good

We've often heard that people in Washington don't live in the real world-and now we understand. Nothing in Washington is real--it's all based on pretense, pomp and ceremony.

Never before have we seen so many grandiose buildings with so many people doing so little--and Congress sets the tone with a three-day work

Even a guy from the sticks can understand a company car, but a chauffeur-driven limousine seems like a double standard when the IRS requires a citizen to pay taxes if he rides a company car to work.

The cherry blossoms were beautiful, but it's no wonder they last for only a few days surrounded by that wasteful stench.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In a recent column, you wrote that you had been unable to identify asifity, a compound worn around the neck during the great influenza epidemic of 1948-19. Whoever asked the question must be nearly 90 years old. As soon as I saw the word, I knew what it was.

That particular sequence of vowels word, a local corruption for the name an old-time medical remedy: assafoetida

This remedy was made from the roots of the plant Narthex Assafoetida. It was considered a stimulant, a rant and a laxative. At the turn of the century, children commonly wore little cloth bags of assafoetida pinned on their undershirts or on a string around the neck to ward off colds and lung

I'm amazed that you, a physician, never heard of it. Therefore, I assume your plea of ignorance was really a ploy to fire up all the old-timers to write so you could discover how many senior citizens read your column.

DEAR READER: You attribute to me a cleverness that I disavow; I really didn't know what asifity was. But I suspected I could count on a few elderly people, such as you, to set me straight. Thank you for writing; I'm grateful you contributed to my continuing medical education.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 61-yearold male and have been smoking for the past 40 years. Whenever I quit, my voice gets very hoarse, and my sinuses seem to plug up. Can you explain why this happens, and is there anything I can do to prevent it?
DEAR READER: I'm not sure why, after stopping cigarettes, you experience the very symptoms usually caused by tobacco smoke. However, this paradoxical reaction does occur: it is probably due to a phenomenon called "rebound." Your sinuses and upper-respiratory system reacted to the withdrawal of smoke. As an alternative explanation, your upper respiratory tissues may swell and become irritated because of something else in your environment; for example, wood smoke and other air pollutants can cause sinus congestion and hoarseness in people whose

Finding a way to do better

By James Jacoby

When Careful Charlie got back to his regular bridge game after a vacation, he quickly proved that he hadn't gotten rusty.

North liked Charlie's spade response enough to jump to four. As for West's raise of his partner's heart overcall, that's fine if West has his own U.S. Treasury printing press.

Charlie grabbed the opening heart lead and played a low spade. East was not going to be endplayed, so he took the ace, cashed his heart king and then got off lead with a spade. Now, dear readers, we can see that the diamond finesse will not work. And we can also see that diamonds do not split. So it is probable that even Charlie might lose a diamond and later have to take a losing club finesse. But declarer found a way to do better.

He won the second spade and played dummy's ace of diamonds. Then he played a spade to his hand and led a diamond up to the Q-J. East now won the king and had to either lead a club back into the K-J or give a sluff and a ruff with a heart play. And what would happen if East did not even hold the king of diamonds? Charlie would win the queen in dummy on the second diamond play and come to his club ace to play a third diamond up to the jack. Eventually the fourth diamond in dummy would be a winner one way or another. Does this sacrifice anything? Only an overtrick when West holds both the king of diamonds and the queen of clubs. Surely it's better to tryto make your contract.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

And you did it the old-fashioned regional winner. way, you socked it away. The index measures prosperity by combining household spending and household net worth. Last year it was net worth that gave the real boost to prosperity, which now stands at an average of $262,402 per household. Net worth per household, jumped 2.4 percent, to $226,272, after barely budging in the two preceding years. Meanwhile, household spending, at $36,130, rose at its slowest pace since the recession year of 1982.

Older Americans Win Big: During the 1980s, households headed by people over 65 increased their share of total U.S. prosperity, while households headed by people under 35 got a shrinking slice of the pie. Older households traditionally earn more and have accumulated more assets than their younger counterparts. But income peaks at around ages 50 to 55, so it's surprising people over 65 have done so well relative to other groups.

N.C. State trustees call for resignation

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - North Carolina State trustees are calling for the resignation of basketball coach Jim Valvano, who in 10 seasons has had the Wolfpack consistently in the limelight and in 1983 won the national title.

The board voted 9-3 during a closed meeting Tuesday to ask its lawyer to begin negotiations to terminate Valvano's contract, The Charlotte Observer reported today.

The move came after N.C. State interim chancellor Larry Monteith painted a dark picture of the academic performance of Valvano's basketball players, The News and Observer of Raleigh reported.

Valvano has been under pressure following disclosures last month that former basketball player Charles Shackleford accepted $60,000 in loans while a student, a violation of NCAA rules.

A source told the Charlotte paper that trustees have directed Monteith to send Valvano's tract.

"I think Jim Valvano is gone," said the source, who wasn't identified. "The negotiations will not be to honor the contract, but to focus on flaws in it."

The source wouldn't elaborate on what, if any, flaws existed in the coach's five-year contract. If Valvano refuses to step down, he may have to go to court to seek compensation for the 41/2 years remaining on his contract, the Raleigh newspaper said.

Contacted Wednesday, Jay Goldberg, an assistant to Valvano's lawyer, Art Kaminsky, said he had received no word from the school.

Valvano was out of town and unavailable for comment, his secretary said.

Under Valvano's contract, the university would be required to pay the coach $400,000 if he leaves, unless another agreement is reached. The source said the money would likely come from the N.C. State athletic department's emergency fund.

The news comes one day after Valvano told a Wolfpack booster club at Sanford, N.C. about 45 miles southwest of Raleigh, that he wanted to continue to coach the team.

Speaking Tuesday night to 175 people. Valvano received a standing ovation when he said he wanted to remain as coach, Bobby Purcell, the club's assistant director, said.

Petitions circulating in Raleigh demanding that university administrators keep Valvano have attracted 16,000 signatures.

But his ouster has been called for by the university newspaper, The Technician, and some

"In the Virginia game, there were guys we could leave alone, we could help, we could adjust our defense in some areas. We can't do that against Minnesota," said Boeheim, whose team is in in four years. To shore up Syracuse's own weaknesses as much as to exploit the opposition's shortcomings, Boeheim has adjusted his lineup game to game in recent weeks, using different starters and situational substitutions.

Sophomore David Johnson, a one-time starter now used as a reserve, gave Syracuse 20 productive minutes against Coppin State, while sophomore forward Tony Scott scored 15 points in his first two collegiate starts in place of junior LeRon Ellis.

Elsewhere Friday, it will be No. 21 Loyola Marymount (25-5) against No. 23 Alabama (26-8) and No. 2 UNLV (31-5) against Ball State (26-6) in the West Regional at Oakland, Calif. The winners meet in the regional finals on Sunday.

Tonight, No. 7 Arkansas (28-4) plays North Carolina (21-12) and No. 25 Xavier (28-4) takes on Texas (23-8) in the Midwest Regional at Dallas. In the East Regional at East Rutherford, N.J., No. 3 Connecticut (30-5) meets No. 17 Clemson (26-8), and No. 15 Duke (26-8) plays UCLA (22-10). The winners play Saturday night.

"We've had to adjust our lineup more than I would like at this time of year," said Boeheim, who had to insert freshman Michael Edwards at point guard 15 games into the season.

Despite his dislike for shifting players in and out of the starting rotation, Boeheim said it is likely to continue.

Against teams like Coppin State and Virginia, neither with a potent inside threat and who favor playing zone defenses, it's more likely the 6-foot-7 Scott will see considerable playing time because of his accurate outside shooting.

Ellis, a 6-10 standout defensive player who started 28 games, will be in the lineup more against teams possessing a strong inside game with more than one big

Johnson is a strong defender who has slumped offensively but who showed against Coppin State that he can wreak havoc in a zone defense with his slashing drives.

Syracuse also frequently uses 6-10 Richard Manning, a good outside shooter.

Minnesota presents different problems. The sixth-seeded Gophers are a group of interchangeable leapers from 6-4 to 6-7 who play a well-balanced game.

Of particular concern to Boeheim - much like it's been to other opposing coaches — is the Minnesota backcourt of 6-4 senior Melvin Newbern and 6-6 junior Kevin Lynch. The tandem combines for 28 points and 8.2 assists per game.

Unranked Ball State should be America's favorite underdog in the final 16. But Loyola Marymount has assumed that role in the wake of Hank Gathers' death and a tournament-record 149 points from their "emotional hurricane" last Sunday

That's fine with Ball State coach Dick Hunsaker, who says the Cardinals are on their own crusade against UNLV in the West Regional.

Government calls dietary supplement major problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal been reported where the individual had taken less government today expanded its recall of the dietary supplement L-tryptophan because of indications that even small doses can cause a sometimes fatal blood disorder.

'We are confronted with a major public health problem," warned Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan, in the FDA's announcement. "I urge everyone to stop taking these supplements immediately.

L-tryptophan - which is sold over the counter and used by some for insomnia, depression, premenstrual syndrome and appetite control has been linked to a blood disorder called eosinophilia-myalgia syndrome, or EMS.

Reports of the disorder have climbed to 1,411, with 19 deaths, the FDA said. Cases have been reported in every state.

The FDA initially recalled only the larger dose forms of the product, those that would result in daily intake of 100 milligrams or more a day. That was based on evidence from the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta that EMS victims had taken L-tryptophan in doses that ranged from 150 to 17,000 milligrams a day. Most were taking 1,000 to 2,000 milligrams daily.

However, at least one case of the disorder has than 100 milligrams of the supplement daily, the FDA said.

Sullivan said the rate of EMS has slowed dramatically since the initial Nov. 17 recall, "but some recent victims have apparently continued using L-tryptophan products since the recall

EMS is marked by severe muscle and joint pain, breathing difficulties, swelling of the arms and legs, skin rash and sometimes fever. In some cases, victims show signs of congestive heart failure and paralysis.

Sullivan warned: "EMS can cripple. It can cause great pain. It can kill. It has had long-term effects on some unfortunate individuals, and some patients are not responding to treatment."

L-tryptophan, an amino acid, is present naturally at low levels in some foods.

The only products containing L-tryptophan not being recalled are some protein supplements, infant formulas and special dietary foods, intravenous and oral solutions, in which small amounts of L-tryptophan are needed for nutrition fortification, the FDA said.

No cases of EMS have been linked to any of those uses, the agency said.

Singer will need surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Gloria Estefan, whose back was broken when her tour bus was hit by a truck, faced surgery today to have her spine stabilized with metal rods.

The star of the Latin-pop group Miami Sound Machine will need three to six months to recover from injuries she suffered, doctors said.

"Her prognosis is excellent for a return to normal function," Dr. Michael Neuwirth, her surgeon, said Wednesday.

Neuwirth of the Orthopedic Institute Hospital for Joint Diseases intends to insert two metal rods into Miss Estefan's fractured vertebrae.

Known for her energetic dancing on stage, Miss Estefan felt numbness and weakness in her legs after the accident. Besides being fractured, the two vertebrae were slightly dislocated, doctors said.

"Ms. Estefan has a serious spinal injury. It is a fractured subluxation of the spine. It requires an operation to stabilize her spine," Neuwirth said. Miss Estefan, 32, initially was taken to the Community Medical Center in Scranton, Pa., but she was flown by helicopter Wednesday to New York for the opera-

Dr. Harry Schmaltz of the Scranton medical center said the singer will have to wear a device to-restrict her movement during recovery. "She's not going to do much in the way of entertaining for three to six months," he said.

"She's in a lot of pain, but her spirits are up," said her sister, Becky Fajardo.

At the time of the accident, the Cuban-born singer and her group were headed to Syracuse, N.Y., for a concert. The accident occurred Tuesday on Interstate 380 near Tobyhanna in the Pocono Mountains in eastern Penn-

The tour bus was stopped for a jackknifed tractor-trailer when a truck hit, throwing Miss Estefan from a couch where she was sleeping. The driver of the truck that struck the bus was cited for driving at an unsafe speed.

Trying to finance education reform solely by looking for fat to cut in the state budget is like "rearranging the deck chairs on the Titanic," added Parker, D-Port Arthur. He said the state tax system should be overhauled.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, called the proposed $450 million education increase "a fair and equitable beginning." But he said he expected House members to argue about funding.

Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, also a bill sponsor and head of the House Public Education Committee, said the measure would make the school finance system equitable.

How to figure your standard deduction

By George W. Smith, CPA

(Sixth of 14 parts)

The standard deduction is made up of two parts, the basic standard deduction and the additional standard

The standard deduction is subtracted from the adjusted gross income on the tax return. The amount of the basic standard deduction for 1989 depends on the filing status of the Until 1987, taxpayers received additional exemptions for age and blind-ness. Now the additional exemptions for age and blindness have been re-placed by the additional standard deduction. This is the total of additional amounts allowed for age and blind-ness, providing you don't itemize. Check the appropriate boxes on line 33a, Form 1040, for the additional deduction.

An additional amount will be allowed if the taxpayer is age 65 or older by the last day of the tax year. You are considered 65 on the day before your 65th birthday. Therefore, you may take the additional standard deduction for 1989 if your 65th birthday was on or before Jan. 1, 1990. An additional amount will be allowed for blindness if the taxpayer was blind on the last day of the tax year. A married taxpayer who files a sep-arate return will be allowed the addi-tional amounts for his or her spouse if the spouse had no gross income and was not the dependent of another taxpayer.

If a taxpayer claims an exemption for a dependent who is blind or 65 or over, the taxpayer may not claim the additional standard deduction for that erson. The dollar value of the additional amount will depend on a tax-payer's filing status. Example: Larry, 45, and Donna, 42, are filing a joint return for 1989. Nei-ther is blind. Their basic standard deduction, as a married couple filing jointly, is $5,200. If, however, Larry is blind at the end of 1989, they will receive an additional standard deduction of $600 for Larry's blindness. Their total standard deduction is $5,800.

If Larry is blind and has no gross income, and Donna is filing a separate return and claiming an exemption for Larry, Donna's total standard deduction is $3,200 (her basic standard deduction of $2,600 plus an additional deduction of $600).

There are rules limiting the amount of the standard deduction for some one who can be claimed as the dependent of another taxpayer. You must check the box on line 4 of Form 1040EZ, line 15b of Form 1040A or line 33b of Form 1040.

The standard deduction for an individual who is not blind or 65 or over and can be claimed as a dependent on the tax return of another taxpayer is $500 or the individual's earned income (but not more than the appropri come (but not more than the appropriate amount allowed by the Internal Revenue Service) - whichever is

Example 1: Robert, who is single, is claimed as a dependent on his parents' 1989 tax return. He has interest income of $600 and wages of $150. His standard deduction is $500, because the greater of $500 or his earned income ($150) is $500.

Example 2: Nancy, who is single, is claimed as a dependent on her parents' 1989 tax return. She is 18 years old and blind. She has interest income of $700 and wages of $2,000. Her standard deduction is $2,750, which is her earned income of $2,000 plus $750 because she is a single person under 65 and blind. Example 3: John, a 22-year-old. full-time college student, is claimed as a dependent on his parents' 1989 tax return. John is married and files a separate return. John has $1,500 in in-terest income and wages of $2,800. His standard deduction is $2,600, because the greater of $500 or his earned income ($2,800) is $2,800. But his standard deduction cannot be more than the $2,600 maximum allowable standard deduction shown in the tax tables. Certain individuals don't qualify for the standard deduction. They are:

• A married individual filing a separate return whose spouse itemizes deductions. A non-resident alien.

An individual who files a return for a period of less than 12 months because of a change in his or her annual accounting cycle.

New study: oat bran may work if you eat enough

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ex- levels dropped while eating this erts are still unsure whether much cereal, the study left open perts are still unsure whether oatmeal will make you live longer, but a new study suggests that to do much good, you'll have to eat an awful lot of it.

In theory, at least, the water- foods. soluble fiber in oatmeal, oat foods will lower the body's cholesterol levels.

This idea catapulted oat bran to become one of the hottest food crazes of the 1980s, as bakers and brewers offered oat bran doughnuts, oat bran potato chips, even oat bran beer.

But even if it might do some good, a new study suggests that the often mimuscule amount of oat bran in many of these products is probably worthless.

The latest study found that to noticably lower their cholesterol, people had to eat two bowls of oat bran or three bowls of oatmeal each day.

And although their cholesterol

"Whether it's fat substitution bran, psyllium and some other or not, oat bran or oatmeal appears to lower cholesterol," said Dr. Michael Davidson of Rush Medical College in Chicago. Oat bran's apparent powers were challenged recently by a study conducted at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston. It found that low-fiber wheat flour lowered cholesterol just as much as oat bran. And both apparently worked because people ate less

In the latest study, conducted on 140 people, the Chicago researchers directed by Davidson found that those who eat two bowls of oat bran lower their cholesterol levels more than 9 percent; three bowls of oatmeal seem to reduce it 7 percent.

However, it was unclear how much the volunteers changed other parts of their diet to offset their high daily consumption of cereal.

Dr. Richard Pasternak of Boston's Beth Israel Hospital said the oat bran controversy, continues. "We are still asking: Does it or doesn't it?"

Davidson's study was presented Wednesday at a meeting of the American College of Cardiology, along with a study of psyllium conducted by Dr. Eleanor G. Levin of Kaiser Permanente Medical Group in Santa Clara, Calif.

She found that the psylliumrich laxative Metamucil, taken twice a day, seems to modestly lower cholesterol, even if people are already eating low-fat food.

"I think it's an excellent adjunct to a prudent diet," she said. Levin, a cardiologist, conducted the work while at George Washington University Medical Center in Washington.

In her study, 58 volunteers were randomly chosen to use either Metamucil or identicallooking packets of unsoluble fiber. But before they started, they went on the American Heart Association diet and lowered their fat consumption to 25 percent of their daily calories. This alone dropped their cholesterol levels 40 to 50 points.

When they began using the powders, which are dissolved in water, their cholesterol levels were still above 200, the amount considered to be safe. Over 16 weeks, the cholesterol levels of those using Metamucil dropped almost 6 percent, while those of the comparison group were unchanged.

"With a little of this, a lot of people can avoid taking toxic medications" to bring down their cholesterol, Levin said. "I recommend it to all of my patients."

Dr. Thomas Kottke of the Mayo Clinic said the latest study appeared to be well conducted.

"Unless there are non-obvious holes, it seems to be a reasonable conclusion," he said. One drawback of using Metamucil and other kinds of fiber is their effects on the degestive tract. In Levin's study, participants complained of flatulence and loose stools.

"It takes getting use to," she

The deaths occurred about early December, said Argelis Ruiz Guevara, a biology student at the institute who has been monitoring the reports. She said she could not determine how many had died.

The Colombian turtle beaching occurred in February, according to Mast, who has just released details of a preliminary investigation of the incident. He said he has been receiving regular reports from Diego Amorocho, a biologist with the Nature Foundation in Bogota.

Amorocho, with the financial backing of Conservation International and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, reported taking a census of some of the dead turtles along 200 miles of beaches in northeastern Colombia.

Ninety-eight percent of the dead turtles were the Pacific green turtles, also known as black turtles, Amorocho reported. He estimated that 360 to 680 turtles had washed ashore over a period of one or two days.

The Pacific green turtle is the second most endangered sea turtle in the world, after the Kemp's ridley turtle, said Woody.

Georgia slaying similar to Stuart case

Charles Stuart's claim that a black man killed his wife and wounded him as they sat in their car in Boston turned out to be an apparent hoax, it sounded familiar in the Atlanta suburb of Marietta.

Police here, too, were in the midst of a case of murder pinned on a black - and non-existent scapegoat.

Neva Veitch told police two black men abducted her and her husband, Bobby Joe Veitch, from a motel bar the night of Nov. 20, 1987, shot her husband to death and attacked her.

Police made composite drawings of the alleged killers and interviewed more than 20 suspects. But authorities made no arrests and declared the case inactive.

Then, in November, David Lee Craig, leader of a Ku Klux Klan splinter group, walked into the police station and said Mrs. Veitch, his mistress at the time of the slaying, was the true culprit.

But when Craig taped telephone calls to her for police, she implicated him, his lawyer says, and a grand jury indicted both of them on murder charges. Testimony in Craig's trial began Wednesday in Cobb County Superior Court and is expected

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — When to last through the week. Mrs. Veitch's trial will come later.

> In Boston, police apparently had accepted at face value the story Stuart called in on his car phone on Oct. 23: that he and his pregnant wife had been shot by a black man who jumped in their car and robbed them after they left a birthing class.

> Police reportedly closed in on a black man, William Bennett, as the lead suspect until Jan. 3, when Stuart's brother, Matthew, told police Charles had plotted to kill his wife, collect insurance and blame the killing on blacks.

> Police now speculate that Stuart shot himself and his wife and that his brother took the gun and threw it into the harbor, where it was recovered. The brother, who has not been charged, said he went to police because he feared Bennett would go to

"David and Neva were in love and they agreed that Billy Veitch had to be killed," Charron told the jury in Craig's trial.

Mrs. Veitch initially told police she and her husband were abducted at a motel bar at gunpoint by two blacks and taken to an isolated warehouse district, where the two told her they were going to rape her and make her husband watch.

In November however, Craig told Cobb County Police investigators there had been no black men. Mrs. Veitch, he said, was the killer, and he offered to state's only help prove it.

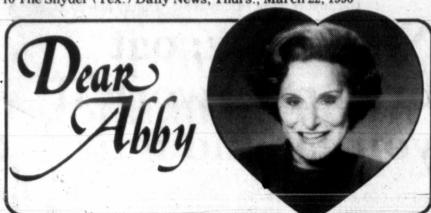

But Mrs. Veitch implicated black sheriff Craig in taped telephone conversations, said Craig's courtappointed defense lawyer, Ronnie Knighton.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A few days ago out of the blue, I received a phone call from a man that I have neither seen nor heard from in years. We dated for two years, during which time he led me on, promising that he would leave his wife and marry me. Then his wife found out about us and he dropped me cold, refusing to accept any of my phone calls. Our beautiful love affair ended abruptly - that was eight years ago!

When I demanded to know why he was calling, he said he just wanted to know how I was - that he had been thinking about me a great deal lately. I was so shocked and angry I told him very sharply that I had nothing to say to him and to please never call me again. Then I hung up

Abby, I am now happily married to a wonderful man, and I have long forgotten any feelings I once had for this man. I also would never want my husband to know that this person was calling me. What could have possessed this man to call me after all this time and act as though nothing was wrong? I can only imagine that he wanted to resume some kind of relationship. Perhaps I overreacted, but I was really annoyed that this man had the nerve to think that after dropping me like a hot potato, he could just walk back into my life again.

Now I'm worried that he might call again, and it's very upsetting. What should I do if he calls me again? Or should I call him and tell him that I am now happily married and I do not want to see him again? SHOOK IN ILLINOIS

DEAR SHOOK: Don't call him. But if he calls you again, tell him emphatically that you want nothing more to do with him. Then hang up.

ORANGE, Texas (AP) Several recordings by rap artists and one by the hard rock group Guns 'N Roses were removed from a record store's shelves after police said one recording violated the state's obscenity laws, the owner says.

Music store owner Don Hodgkinson said Tuesday he voluntarily pulled several recordings off his shelves that contained a parental warning of explicit lyrics when two police detectives told him not to sell one recording.

Hodgkinson said the recordings he removed included more than a dozen tapes by black rap artists and one by Guns 'N Roses.

"We haven't ordered anyone to remove anything," responded Orange Police Chief Sam Kittrell.

Kittrell also said he does not believe the police department is acting as a censor.

The police chief said a parent made an informal complaint two weeks ago about a record by the Ghetto Boys. He said the parent told him the handwritten lyrics of the group's song "Gangster of Love" were being circulated at a local school, but he did not know

"Gangster of Love" includes details of sexual encounters with slang terms for genitals.

"It's certainly not up to me to obscene," Kittrell said. "But it tell this is pretty obscene."

pected cost from $700 million over four years to $500 million over three years.

Byrd's amendment, offered nearly two weeks ago, has threatened to derail progress in enacting the first improvements in federal air pollution controls in 13 years.

The White House vigorously opposes the assistance plan and Mitchell is fearful its passage might cause the compromise clean air bill, worked out in lengthy negotiations with the Bush administration, to unravel.

The miner aid issue was expected to come to a head today as Mitchell tried to work out a compromise with the White House, while Byrd was likely to press for a vote on his amendment.

"I'm not going to stand here and say I've got 51 votes (needed for passage), but I can tell you, 'You don't have 51 votes either.' And I can tell you I'm very close," Byrd told Mitchell during floor debate Wednesday night.

While the Senate has been considering a string of amendments on the floor, the miner assistance program has been the hottest topic behind the scenes.

There has been intense tobbying by the White House to defeat the amendment and an administration source said Wednesday that it has become less interested in seeking a compromise and was prepared to try to defeat the proposal.

Bob Dole, R-Kan., meanwhile, have been trying line up senators to vote against Byrd's proposal, but a vote on the amendment was put off twice because its defeat was not certain.

Offering his revised assistance proposal, Byrd complained that the White House was unwilling to negotiate and that he wanted a

Mitchell and Dole said they expected a response shortly from the administration on a compromise assistance plan, crafted by aides to Mitchell, that would include benefits to coal miners as well as other workers that could lose their jobs because of tougher pollution controls.

Many senators have complained that if coal miners were to be given special assistance, the same should be provided to Mitchell and Minority Leader workers in other industries.
