Absentee balloting for April 10 runoff to conclude Friday

Some 80 voters in the county have cast absentee ballots in the April 10 statewide runoff elections, the county clerk's office confirmed this morning.

The in-person absentee voting period ends Friday at 5 p.m.

County Clerk Frances Billingsley said today that 80 people have voted, including 75 Democrats and five Republicans.

"It's going well," Billingsley said of the absentee voting. "It's been pretty steady, especially considering we have only one local runoff."

The single runoff among Scurry County races is between Democratic county commissioner candidates Jack Greene Sr. and Jerry Gannaway. They will determine the Pct. 4 commissioner's race, with no Republican seeking the office. During the (see ABSENTEE, page 8)

Q—Is a will valid if typed up in the home, with an unconcerned person witnessing the signature on it?

A—A local attorney said a typed will must be signed by the testator, or will-maker, and two witnesses while a holographic, or handwritten will, must be signed only by the testator, although a holographic will should be clearly a will and not a practice copy. He said an estate of any size or one that involves real estate would usually require the services of an attorney.

In Brief

Link probed

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Texas authorities say they are investigating if there is a link between three Iowans accused of killing a man in Arizona and a shooting death of a drifter in February, an Iowa newspaper reported today.

Samuel Knott, 20, and 17-year-olds John Paul Hartley Jones and Tom Placzek, all of Iowa City, are being held in Phoenix on charges of first-degree murder, kidnapping and robbery in a March 9 shooting in the desert near Sacaton. The victim was identified as Dennis Butcher, 19, of Sequim, Wash.

Protest... FCC petitions to be gathered

Petitions protesting KTXS Channel 12 television's use of exclusivity rights will be picked up beginning Friday, Ruth Shaw, protest coordinator, has said.

Petitions have been placed at some 62 businesses throughout Snyder, encouraging U.S. Sens. Phil Gramm and Lloyd Bentsen and U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm to use their power to convince the Federal Communications Commission to strike down exclusivity and syndex rules. The rules give stations which purchase certain rights the ability to have the same programs on other stations blacked out or otherwise altered.

KTXS, for instance, has been causing some programming from Lubbock's KJTV 34 (channel 7 on Snyder Cablevision) to be deleted and is substituting Abilene commercials during some programming on WFAA Channel 8 out of Dallas.

In addition to the petitions, a group called Wives and Mothers of Snyder is boycotting KTXS and Abilene merchants. The (see PETITIONS, page 8)

One charged

HOUSTON (AP) — A 22-year-old Brown University student was charged with capital murder Tuesday in connection with the Jan. 20 abduction and slaying of a Houston car salesman.

Pareh Kuman Patel remained in the Harris County Jail without bond late Tuesday in connection with the murder of Roy McIntyre, 46, said Police Sgt. Brad Randolph.

McIntyre disappeared from the Mike Calvert Toyota dealership near the Astrodome after he took the keys to a customer test drive at 6:35 p.m.

Appraisal board ok's audit, pay raises for 2

Scurry County Appraisal District Board of Directors approved the 1989 audit and okayed pay raises for two employees Tuesday.

In addition, the board approved chief appraiser Ray Peveler's recommendation to appoint appraisal employee Tony Shields as records management officer. Shields will be responsible for the preparation, storage and destruction of permanent records.

The board was presented the 1989 audit by Carol McDonald of Davis, Kinard and Co. of Abilene. McDonald told the group that the books were in good order and that Peveler "runs a tight ship."

Following approval of bills payable and the collection report, the board entered a discussion (see APPRAISAL, page 8)

Study of Cogdell operations will be focus of May meeting

District Judge Gene Dulaney said Tuesday that he is considering having the national accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand, which recently did an operational audit of Scurry County government, perform an analysis of Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Dulaney said a Tulsa, Okla., official of the company has offered to do a preliminary audit at no charge and that he would have already been here to meet with county and hospital officials if not for conflicting schedules.

"He wants to talk to me, Judge Goodwin, the commissioners court, hospital administrators

Texans lag behind in average income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texans' incomes lagged behind the national average throughout most of the past decade, and Scurry County was no exception, according to a Census Bureau study that found the earnings picture bleakest in isolated stretches along the Rio Grande.

Per capita income figures for Scurry County indicated a close parallel to statewide figures.

Scurry County had a per capita income of $10,094 in 1987, compared to $7,063 in 1979 - a growth of 42.9 percent. Those figures compare closely to statewide figures, which show Texans had a per capita income of $10,645 in 1987, and earnings of $7,203 in 1979. Nationally, per capita income grew to $11,923 in 1987 from $7,295 in 1979.

Here is the estimated per capita income in dollars for some of the counties in Texas:

Financial deposits down $3.6 million at end of first quarter

Total deposits in Scurry County financial institutions were $199.7 million at the end of 1990's first quarter—down $3.6 million from a year ago.

Total loans at the four reporting financial institutions were $97.3 million on March 31, compared to $107.1 million at this time last year—a decline in loans of $9.8 million.

The four reporting institutions were American State Bank, West Texas State Bank, Snyder National Bank and Snyder Savings and Loan. AmWest, formerly Olney Savings, does not report individual branch figures.

At the close of the first three months of 1990, West Texas State Bank had deposits of $84 million compared to $79 million at the end of 1989—an increase of $5 million. The quarterly deposit number was up $7.7 million when compared to the first quarter of last year.

Snyder National showed deposits of $66.9 million—a drop of $800,000 when compared to the 1989 year-ending figure and a decline of $12.9 million when compared to SNB deposits of $79.8 million in March, 1989.

American State Bank's deposits were $18.6 million at the end of the first quarter of this year, up $200,000 when compared to both the fourth and first quarters of 1989.

Snyder Savings had deposits of $30.2 million, an increase of $1.5 million when compared to Dec. 31, 1989, and up $1.4 million based on a comparison to the first quarter of last year.

Loans at WTSB were $32.7 million, down $900,000 when compared to the $33.6 million loan figure at year-end. The WTSB loan total was up $1.1 million when compared to the first quarter of last year. (see FINANCIAL, page 8)

The SDN Column By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Most of us know how to say nothing, but are still trying to learn when."

What every community needs is more citizens actively involved. Snyder is no exception.

People who get things done and those who try to get things done for community betterment are the real heroes of today. Far too many people had rather wait for the outcome and serve as "Monday morning quarterbacks."

Bill Parker, president of West Texas State Bank, gave us a quotation attributed to John F. Kennedy in 1961:

"The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood, who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in a worthy cause; who, at best, if he fails, knows the thrill of high achievement, and if he fails, at least fails daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat."

George is likely not going to get the job done without a little help and encouragement from citizen Joe.

With so much basketball on television, we heard about a Snyder fan who spends his entire life at home in front of the tube.

His wife had become irritated with his total attention turned to NCAA and NBA basketball on three or four channels. Feeling especially neglected, she put on her sexiest face and her most revealing nightgown and paraded into the room between her hubby and the TV set.

"Okay coach," she demanded. "Play me or trade me."

The couple may have been like the Midwest farm couple whose house was hit by a tornado early one morning. The roof was lifted off their house, and the twister picked up the bed on which the farmer and his wife slept. The cyclone gently set the bed down on the back forty.

"Don't be scared," the hubby assured his whimpering wife. "We're not hurt."

"I'm not scared," the wife responded between sobs. "I'm happy because this is the first time in 10 years we've gone out together."

Teacher in San Diego given top recognition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Janis T. Gabay of San Diego is the teacher you always wished you had, but probably didn't.

Ms. Gabay, a high school English teacher who seriously considered leaving the profession years ago, today was named the 1990 National Teacher of the Year.

Ms. Gabay, who teaches at Junipero Serra High School in San Diego, was given the title by the Council of Chief State School Officers, which sponsors the program in partnership with Encyclopaedia Britannica Inc.

President Bush was to present Ms. Gabay with a crystal apple, the traditional symbol of teaching, in a White House ceremony later today.

"I am a prototypical teacher of the 1990s," Ms. Gabay said in an interview.

"What that means is teachers now must have requisite commitment, enthusiasm, academic and interpersonal skills to be able to offer a very high standard of quality education to students of all backgrounds."

Born in Honolulu, Hawaii, Ms. Gabay acknowledged that her optimism about teaching nearly gave way to despair midway in her career.

"It is very easy to become disillusioned from all that we hear outside of education itself," said Ms. Gabay, who has been a teacher for 17 years. "It feels like oftentimes we are not supported. We're not acknowledged. We're seen as those people who do those tasks, rather than as professionals."

"That disappoints me and personally even affected me at one point where I really stopped to reconsider whether I was in the right profession," she said.

Ms. Gabay said she is happy she was able to shake the doubts.

"I'm very optimistic about education," she said. "I cannot be a teacher without being an optimist. I have great faith in the abilities of our students. That's my job — to tap that, to elicit that, to bring out that performance. Every student is full of marvelous potential."

3-day symposium on wildlife ends

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Conservation professionals have wrapped up the First Texas Symposium on Endangered and Threatened Species by issuing a list of wildlife conservation recommendations to state officials.

Dr. Jerry Lieberman, executive vice president of the host Fossil Rim Foundation, is asking state officials to set aside $6 million annually from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department budget for the conservation of Texas endangered species.

The department currently allocates about $500,000 for endangered species out of a total budget of approximately $130 million, the foundation said.

Only 17 percent of Texas endangered and threatened species are being propagated in the state, the foundation said, recommending the red wolf, Louisiana pine snake and ocelot as being among the top priority creatures for immediate propagation programs.

The conservationists also recommended the creation of a long-term management program similar to programs run by the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums; and that a funding program be established.

U.S. ag secretary...

International trade favored

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter said the nation's farmers are making a mistake by setting their sights too low.

Yeutter told a banquet crowd of more than 700 people at the Mayborn Civic Center on Tuesday the Bush administration hopes to significantly increase the free trade of agricultural goods during current world trade negotiations.

"It is incredibly short-sighted for us to focus only on the domestic market. We're in a global economy, and we have to recognize that, and part of that is being able to sell skillfully in other markets," Yeutter said.

Yeutter criticized Americans for shipping too many raw agricultural products instead of trying to process the food before shipping.

"We need to sell more in the way of processed food products around the world," he said. "We do too much exporting today of raw materials and not enough exporting of materials in which we've added value and created jobs here."

Yeutter also was critical of advocates of "supply management," which calls for federal control over how much acreage can be planted with each crop, thus raising the price of that crop and reducing the need for subsidies to prop up the price.

cluding Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, favor some form of the supply management concept, and portions of the 1985 farm bill include supply management provisions.

Yeutter likened supply management to the failed Communist economies of Eastern Europe and said the proper response is to expand markets abroad.

"I don't see Poland, Bulgaria, East Germany, Romania and Nicaragua and other countries sticking with supply management," he said.

Instead, Yeutter said, farmers should concentrate on opening up markets abroad and creating new demand for their products.

Dr. Gott Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please tell me the connection of taking blood pressure medication, drinking alcohol and impotence. I understand there is a blood pressure medication called captopril that does not cause impotence. Are these problems related?

DEAR READER: The three factors you mention are interrelated. Alcohol can cause hypertension and impotence. Also, alcohol may not agree with patients who are taking prescription medicine for high blood pressure. Further, many anti-hypertensive drugs, such as beta-blockers (Inderal, Tenormin) and diuretics (hydrochlorothiazide, Lasix) and reserpine (Serpasil) can affect sexual function. Finally, hypertension itself may diminish sexual ability. Captopril (Capoten), a prescription medicine used to treat hypertension, is not usually associated with impotence.

I gather from your question that you are familiar with a man who drinks, takes blood pressure medicine and is impotent. Here is my advice to him:

- Stop using alcohol. This addictive substance may be raising the blood pressure and contributing to impotence. If problem drinking is present, seek help from the doctor or consider a self-help group, such as Alcoholics Anonymous.
- Tell the doctor about the impotence. Further investigation may be in order, such as a check for diabetes. A urologist can often help diagnose the reasons for impotence and offer suggestions for treatment. Or the doctor may choose to change the anti-hypertensive medicine to one that does not cause sexual dysfunction.

To discover the cause of your daughter's problem, she should see your family doctor, who will take a detailed medical history — to learn about the type of pain and its pattern — examine her and order certain laboratory tests — for example, an upper gastrointestinal X-ray and an abdominal ultrasound.

Whether the pain and vomiting are serious or simply temporary and harmless depends on the cause. Your daughter clearly needs attention from a professional.

3 states join; 3 hold out

By The Associated Press
The march toward national acceptance of a holiday honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. gathered up Kentucky, Wyoming and Idaho recently, leaving only three states as holdouts today, 22 years after King's death.

"I think it shows that we are making headway," said Lloyd Davis, executive director of the King Federal Holiday Commission.
He expressed confidence that Arizona, New Hampshire and Montana would not hold out much longer amid what he sees as dramatic reverberations of King's non-violent philosophy as far away as the Philippines, China, Poland and East Germany.

"What's happening around the world shows the universality of King," Davis said in a recent telephone interview from Washington.

Both sides have a chance

By James Jacoby

Here is a deal where, depending upon the choice of plays, both defender and declarer have a chance to shine, but not at the same time. Let's first try defender East. After South opens with a strong no-trump and is raised to three, West leads a spade. When declarer wins and plays a diamond to the jack, it is natural for East to win the king and return a spade. Too bad. Declarer wins, plays on more diamonds and gives up a trick to West, but still has control of the hand.

What if East simply plays low on the first diamond, letting dummy's jack win the trick? South will surely return to his hand to try another diamond finesse. East now takes the king, and declarer is no longer able to set up a long diamond trick, so the contract is set.

You can say that declarer could have gone up with the ace the second time diamonds were led, but that assumes that the declarer could see through the backs of the cards. However, X-ray vision is not necessary for declarer to make a play that will guard against any but the most bizarre distribution in the diamond suit. Let him simply win the first spade and play a low diamond from both his hand and the dummy. Of course the defense wins the trick, but now South can play a second diamond to the jack. East will win, but dummy's diamonds will be good, and the club king will be the entry to get to them. Declarer sacrifices a possible overtrick or two to give himself the best chance for guaranteeing nine tricks.

Senators grill DHS officials

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas senators criticized a plan to solve the Department of Human Services' projected $550 million two-year deficit, while health care providers pleaded with officials not to slash aid to the needy.

At a Tuesday news conference, members of the Texas State Employees Union called for state leaders to institute personal and corporate income taxes.

DHS employee Sylvia Meyer said state services — already among the worst-funded in the nation — provided to the growing number of poor can't be cut to reduce the deficit.

"We have seen the effects of our state's refusal to fund and implement the programs and innovations which could help alleviate the problems of our poor," said Ms. Meyer. "It is not the time to hammer down on health and human services with funding cuts."

Tuesday evening, about 45 union employees and representatives of the Texas Alliance for Human needs stood on the steps of the Governor's Mansion to protest proposed cuts in the welfare budget. They chanted, "Clements, Clements, it's nothing new. What this state needs is revenue!"

Some held signs with slogans, including, "Income Tax Now" and "We can't turn our backs on elderly Texans, Disabled Texans, Retarded Texans."

At a politically charged joint meeting of the Senate Finance and Health and Human Services committees held Tuesday afternoon, lawmakers criticized a measure proposed by Rob Mosbacher, chairman of the DHS board, to solve the deficit crisis.

Mosbacher is the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor. His Democratic opponent is State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Mosbacher supports a plan to borrow $32 million from 1991 appropriations to pay for the state's portion of the 1990 shortfall.

"What you want to move from 1991 is an impossibility, because we're broke," said Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston. "Where are the dollars that you could put your hands on and spend them?"

Mosbacher said the $32 million, plus $178 million more needed by the state to meet the DHS's budget in 1991, can be obtained by increasing the amount of federal dollars leveraged by the state.

The remainder of the $550 million budget deficit is in federal matching funds.

Gov. Bill Clements has said he would add such a measure to the agenda of the current special session, according to the governor's spokeswoman, Rossanna Salazar.

Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said Mosbacher's proposal could worsen the budget crisis.

"To suggest that we're going to solve the shortfall problem by somehow magically capturing these federal dollars is naive at best, and probably worse," Caperton said. "We shouldn't perpetrate that kind of fraud upon the people who we represent."

DHS officials last week revised downward the deficit estimate from $851 million to $550 million.

On Monday, the DHS board approved a $65 million rate increase for nursing homes and hospices providing Medicaid services to patients.

The action reversed a rate freeze enacted by the board two weeks ago as a cost-cutting measure.

Blacks call for new probe into shooting

HOUSTON (AP) — Black community leaders called for a new investigation after a Harris County grand jury declined to indict a former police officer in the fatal shooting of an off-duty security guard.

The 182nd District Court grand jury no-billed former Officer Scott M. Tschirhart Tuesday in the Nov. 5 shooting death of Byron Gillum, 24. Tschirhart, a white man, told authorities he shot Gillum, a black man, when the security guard reached for a gun during a routine traffic stop. Gillum was shot six times — four times in the back.

"It's basically a problem of object, absolute, uncontroverted racism. I think if Tschirhart had been Hispanic or black, he would have been indicted," said state Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston.

Wilson and members of the Ida Lee Delaney Justice Committee have asked for another grand jury investigation of Gillum's death. Committee members met at Shape Community Center across the street from Gillum's home Tuesday night.

Wilson and the committee also want an independent prosecutor assigned to the case and have sought a federal justice department investigation of the incident.

"Nothing to this point surprises me," said Deloyd Parker, director of Shape. "That's why we are firmly sold for the need for a civilian review board in the city because the system is not working."

Wilson said a letter by former Police Chief Lee Brown's to the Houston Firefighters and Police Officers' Civil Service Commission concerning Tschirhart's suspension from the force shows that the officer killed Gillum "basically in cold blood." But grand jurors disagreed.

"The case was presented to us — the 12 people that were in that jury room," said Jim Overpriller, a member of the 182nd District Court grand jury. "We heard the facts that the rest of the city and the rest of the county does not know. We know what the facts were and we voted our conscience."

Tschirhart, 27, was fired from the police department, but he has appealed his dismissal. The shooting was the third black civilian killed by Tschirhart in his seven years on the force, records show. He was not indicted in the other two shootings.

Police Chief Elizabeth Watson said a civil service arbitrator will review Tschirhart's case before he can be reinstated to the department. Mrs. Watson said she wouldn't decide whether to rehire the officer.

"It wouldn't be fair for me to render a decision," she said. "It would be influential to the arbitrators for me to make a statement one way or the other."

Mrs. Watson urged officers and community groups not to assume the justice system had failed.

"I would only urge our citizenry and our officers to try to keep perspective and to understand that there is a great deal about which they cannot know and about which I cannot tell them — and to let this issue run its course," she said.

The shooting was the second within a month of a black civilian by a Houston police officer. Ida Lee Delaney was shot to death Oct. 30 when three off-duty officer followed her on a freeway during the early morning.

Valvano is seeking financial settlement

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A financial settlement appears to be the only peaceful way for North Carolina State to end its relationship with basketball coach Jim Valvano, according to his lawyer.

"I don't know that it's fair to say that we've given up," Woody Webb, Valvano's lawyer, said. "It appears that the option of him staying on as coach is no longer available."

Webb met on Tuesday with Raleigh lawyer Howard Manning and chief deputy attorney general Andy Vanore, both representing N.C. State.

Manning and Vanore have declined comment on the negotiations, but Webb said the university board of trustees apparently won't discuss extending Valvano's contract.

Webb said a lawsuit would be "the only way I know of" to keep Valvano's job, but the coach would "rather be on the basketball court than in court."

"He just said, 'If it's impossible for me to stay on here, then I guess we'll have to focus on a financial settlement,'" Webb said. "He's talking with his financial people to come up with figures that might be agreeable."

Valvano was in his office Tuesday but would not take phone calls from reporters, said his secretary, Beverly Sparks.

Asked whether N.C. State had increased a $100,000 offer made several weeks ago, Webb said, "They have not, in essence, but they have indicated a softening of posture."

The sticking point remains a $500,000 buyout clause the school must pay Valvano if he is fired without cause. The contract also calls for Valvano to pay the school $500,000 if he leaves to take another professional or NCAA Division I coaching job.

The University of North Carolina system Board of Governors voted unanimously on Monday to give N.C. State permission to sue Valvano for breach of contract, if necessary. Webb said that authorization might not be used.

"It is less likely than last night that they'll sue; at least, that's the way I read it," he said.

Webb said he was frustrated by N.C. State's position, saying the lawyers seemed to believe they had the final word on Valvano's future. The N.C. State board of trustees voted 9-3 to ask Manning and Vanore to find a way to terminate Valvano's contract. But interim chancellor Larry Monteith has said he would have the final word.

Another sticking point is N.C. State's refusal to hear from Valvano himself, Webb said.

"I once again renewed our request for Jim or some representative of Jim to appear before the board of trustees," he said.

Valvano, who has coached the team 10 years and led the Wolfpack to the 1983 NCAA title, hasn't been implicated in wrongdoing. But he has been under pressure to resign since N.C. State was placed on two years' probation because players sold basketball shoes and complimentary tickets.

Valvano also came under increasing pressure when former player Charles Shackleford, now with the New Jersey Nets, admitted accepting loans while playing at N.C. State — an NCAA violation that could cost N.C. State up to $1 million in postseason revenue.

Tigers claw Mustangs

Snyder clings to share of first in district

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Snyder kept a share of first place in the District 4-4A baseball standings Tuesday with an 8-4 win over the visiting Sweetwater Mustangs.

The Tigers' Jamey Morton, starting ahead of scheduled hurler Willie Garcia, who came on in relief in the sixth inning, notched his seventh win of the season striking out five and allowing all four Sweetwater runs on five hits.

Garcia gave up just one hit, a single to Mustang third baseman Pete Cantu, in his two innings on the hill.

"We left a lot of guys on base," said Snyder coach Albert Lewis.

"Twice during the game he (Sweetwater pitcher Toby Stephens) got out of bases loaded situations with just one out. We had a problem getting the timely hits in those situations."

The Tigers stranded ten base runners against Sweetwater including the bases loaded spots in innings five and six.

Sweetwater's Stephens went the distance on the mound giving up 10 hits and striking out seven.

Snyder's offensive production began in the first inning when designated hitter Randy Morris powdered a double to deep left center that drove in shortstop Garcia who had reached on a base on balls.

Both teams' bats were quiet until the third inning when Sweetwater tied the score at 1-1 as Mustang second sacker Richard Clemmer was allowed on base on an error charged to Snyder first baseman Chad Fox.

Clemmer scored from second on a passed ball and a fielder's choice.

The Tigers came back and bounced Stephens for four in the bottom of the stanza.

Ronnie Pruitt started the inning for Snyder with a single and moved to second on a Toby Goodwin walk.

Garcia ripped a base hit into left centerfield that scored Pruitt and Morris added a single that drove in Goodwin.

Up next was centerfielder Mark King who lined a single into right that pushed Garcia and Morris across home plate.

Snyder added one more in the fourth on a hit by Jason West and a double by Goodwin that put the hometowners up by a tally of 6-1.

Sweetwater rallied in the top of the fifth inning for three runs to narrow the gap to 6-4 but Snyder answered with two in the bottom of the sixth to ice the win.

Morris was three for four at the plate for the Tigers Tuesday, followed by Goodwin who managed two doubles in three trips to the batter's box and West who went two of four on the night.

The win ups the Tigers' season mark to 11-4 while they remain tied with Andrews for first place in the district with a 3-1 loop record.

Sweetwater falls to 8-6 and 2-2.

The Tigers will face Monahans Friday in a 7 p.m. contest at Moffett Field.

In other action around the district Tuesday Pecos was a 12-2 victim of Andrews, Big Spring pounced on San Angelo Lake View 8-1 and Ft. Stockton beat Monahans 4-1.

Padres tabbed to take NL West crown

by The Associated Press

If Jack McKeon the manager does as well as Jack McKeon the general manager, the San Diego Padres should be a cinch to win the National League West.

McKeon came away from the winter meetings with the biggest prize of the off-season by acquiring center fielder Joe Carter from the Cleveland Indians for Sandy Alomar Jr., Chris James and Carlos Baerga.

Carter has averaged 31 homers and 108 RBIs over the last four seasons. In 1989, he hit 35 homers and drove in 105 runs. He's an impact player.

Carter joins Tony Gwynn (.336), Jack Clark (26 HRs, 94 RBIs) and Benito Santiago (16 HRs, 62 RBIs) in the Padres' lineup.

Cincinnati Reds
The Reds couldn't overcome a season dominated by Pete Rose controversies and lots of injuries, finishing fifth at 75-87.

There's talent on this team — lots of it — and Lou Piniella has the job of putting it together after the sorry Rose era.

Every starter in the Reds lineup was hurt last season except first baseman Todd Benzinger (17 HRs, 76 RBIs). Ironically, Benzinger broke his left hand while taking batting practice during the lockout on March 2.

Injuries also decimated the pitching staff. Danny Jackson went from 23-8 in 1988 to 6-11.

San Francisco
The Giants' pitching started to fall apart during the playoffs and World Series and they haven't done much to improve on the mound.

Can 40-year-old Rick Reuschel repeat his 17-8 season? Scott Garrels came out of the bullpen last year and finished 14-5 as a starter. The other starters from 1989, Mike LaCoss and Don Robison, combined to go 22-21.

Mike Krukow, injured most of 1989, has retired.

Manager Roger Craig is counting on a group of young pitchers to find another big winner.

To help the youngsters, the Giants signed free agent catcher Gary Carter. Carter is coming off an injury-plagued season (knees) when he dropped to .183 with only two homers and 15 RBIs.

The Giants also must make up for the loss of reliever Craig Leferts, who signed with San Diego.

San Francisco has few worries on offense, particularly with the addition of outfielder Kevin Bass. Bass joins Kevin Mitchell (major-league highs of 47 homers and 125 RBIs) and Brett Butler in the outfield.

Los Angeles Dodgers
The Dodgers finished with the best team ERA in the majors last season at 2.95, but had the lowest batting average, .240.

To add some punch, Los Angeles signed free agent outfielder Hubie Brooks (14 HRs, 70 RBIs for Montreal) and traded Mike Marshall and Alejandro Pena to the Mets for Juan Samuel.

The Dodgers' measly run-production was a nightmare for the pitchers. Orel Hershiser had a 2.31 ERA but finished 15-15. Tim Lincecum (2.82) led the league in shutouts but ended 15-12.

Atlanta Braves
Despite giving signs last season they were ready to make a move, the Braves finished last for the third straight year with a 63-97 record.

Reason for optimism comes from a group of young pitchers that includes Tom Glavine (14-8), John Smoltz (12-11), Derek Lilliquist (8-10) and Mike Stanton (seven saves, 1.50 ERA).

To help provide the pitchers some runs, the Braves signed free agent first baseman Nick Esasky. Esasky, who loved hitting in Atlanta while a member of Cincinnati, had 30 homers and 108 RBIs for Boston in 1989. In six seasons with the Reds, Esasky hit .375 with 14 homers and 36 RBIs at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium.

Comanche Peak...

Plant logs its first nuclear chain reaction

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — At 5:42 p.m. Tuesday, the $9.1 billion Comanche Peak nuclear plant logged its first nuclear chain reaction.

The low-power start-up at Comanche Peak, 80 miles southwest of Dallas, marked a crucial turning point in the long story of the behind-schedule, over-budget plant.

The start of the reaction — "reaching criticality," in nuclear jargon — came four days after U.S. Supreme Court Justice Byron White refused to block low-power testing at Comanche Peak.

Nuclear fission — a milestone in the plant's 15-year quest to generate power — began in one of the plant's two reactors, said Sid Underwood, a spokesman for TU Electric, which owns the facility.

"It's eagerly been anticipated by everyone, but I suspect most of all by the actual operators" who run the reactor, Underwood said. "To say the least, it's a very great day for them."

Citizens for Fair Utility Regulation, a Fort Worth-based group, had hoped to halt the early tests, which the Nuclear Regulatory Commission authorized Feb. 9.

With the legal challenge to testing dismissed, operators at the plant worked through the weekend to prepare for the start of the nuclear reaction.

By midnight Monday, TU Electric spokesman Mark Manroe said, the operators had completed a major task for starting the plant: lifting the control rods that regulate the reaction. When the control rods are fully inserted in the reactor, the reaction can't occur. Lifting them lets the reaction begin.

That left one more job: reducing the amount of boron in the water inside the reactor. Boron, like the control rods, prevents the reaction from starting.

By gradually adding water containing less boron, the reaction could begin, utility officials said.

"When you start to reduce the boron level, you achieve the start of the chain reaction," Underwood said.

The plant is authorized only for low-power testing, up to five percent of the reactor's thermal power — the amount of heat the reactor can generate. By early Tuesday evening, the plant was still below one percent of its power, Underwood said.

The plant was to reach two to three percent of its operating power within several hours, said company spokesman Dick Ramsey.

Once the chain reaction started, NRC inspectors were to start monitoring safety and operations 24 hours a day.

No electricity will be generated during testing. The plant works by using the reactor's heat to make steam. The steam turns electricity-generating turbines.

The beginning of low-power testing means the utility can now make plans to ask the NRC for a full-power, commercial operating license, Manroe said.

The company may make that request this month, but the commissioners set their own timetable for making a decision, he said.

One problem arose March 12 when a tiny electrical component in the plant's control system apparently failed. The NRC classified the incident as an "unusual event," the least serious of four categories of nuclear-plant operational problems.

When construction on Comanche Peak began in 1975, TU Electric estimated that it would take five years to build and cost $779 million. The plant has cost $9.1 billion.

The utility has asked the Public Utility Commission for a $442 million, 10.5 percent rate increase to pay for the plant's Unit 1. Its second reactor is not completed.

said Tuesday afternoon that he would defer to hospital board president G.A. Parks Jr. for a comment on the possible audit, and Parks said this morning that he will wait until after the meeting to give a response.

"We'll hear what they've got to say," Parks said. "I don't think I'd want to say anything other than I'll wait and see what comes out of the meeting."

"I don't know of any problems or anything," he added.

Parks noted that accountants from St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock, with which Cogdell has a management contract, have been helping to keep the Snyder hospital's books since the management agreement went into effect in January 1988.

"They've been giving us some good help," he said, referring to the Lubbock hospital group.

In a March 5 letter to Dulaney, Nix discussed the meeting and said the subject of it "will be a detailed analysis of Scurry County's hospital, with a focus on reducing costs and working capital needs while increasing patient satisfaction."

On the direction of Judge Dulaney, Coopers & Lybrand conducted an extensive operational audit of the county during December and January, presenting its findings to a standing-room-only audience Jan. 15. Some of the firm's recommendations have been or are to be implemented, such as zero-base, line-item accounting.

The extensive audit, which carried a $22,000 price tag, followed a preliminary audit. There was no charge for the preliminary audit.

According to the audit report, recommendations made at that time concerning the hospital involved four areas, which were: 1) that the commissioners' court and auditor be involved and informed of details of hospital activities and the budgetary impact, 2) that the hospital study to determine if a more detailed schedule of charges for services could enhance revenues, 3) that an immediate upgrading of data processing was needed, and 4), that the feasibility of forming a hospital district should be considered.

quarter of 1989. SNB's loans, at quarter's end, were $38.5 million, down $11.4 million when compared to the same quarter of last year, and up $200,000 compared to the end of 1989.

On March 31, loans at ASB were $4.3 million, down $300,000 when compared to the end of 1989 and up $200,000 compared to the first quarter of last year.

Snyder Savings' loans were $21.8 million, a decline of $800,000 when compared to year-end totals of $22.6 million, but an increase of $300,000 when compared to the first quarter of 1989.

concerning pay raises for two level three employees, one step below a registered Texas assessor collector. Peveler asked the board to approve the raises in the amount of $629, annually, each. The board eventually okayed the raises, which were already budgeted, but agreed to explore other options in the future concerning pay raise policy.

The meeting was attended by directors Mickey Sterling, Julius Roemisch, Doug Flynn and Bill Voss. John Reed was not present.

group has grown to 348.

Recently, men have been joining in the boycott, said Shaw, who noted, "Just about all of the women's husbands are joining in. It's just wonderful."

"Some people have even cancelled their subscriptions to the Abilene Reporter News until KTXS stops this," she added.

She encouraged anyone who is interested in signing a petition to do so quickly.

"A spokesman from Stenholm's office told me the more signatures we have the more ammunition they will have when they go before a committee (to discuss the FCC rules)," Shaw said.

Drinking-related arrests are made

Police made several drinking-related arrests late Tuesday and early today, the last at 3:45 a.m. today in the 900 Block of 27th St., where two youths 17 and 20 years old were taken into custody for public intoxication following a reported disturbance.

Officers went to the scene of a fight at 10 p.m. in the 3800 Block of College Ave., and Ben Martinez then came to the police station to file a misdemeanor assault complaint against a man he said had assaulted him.

Two other young men, 19 and 24, were arrested for PI at 11:48 p.m. at 14th St. and Ave. I.

The only other arrest of the night was of a 48-year-old man on a misdemeanor warrant for fraud from Abilene at 11:59 p.m. Tuesday in the 300 Block of N. College.

Top time wasters

Ways that executives waste time

1. Telephone interruptions
2. Crisis management, shifting priorities
3. Lack of objectives, priorities and planning
4. Drop-in visitors
5. Ineffective delegation
6. Attempting too much
7. Meetings
8. Personal disorganization, cluttered desk
9. Inability to say no
10. Lack of self-discipline

Source: Time for Success, NEA GRAPHICS by Alec Mackenzie

The telephone is the greatest time-waster of them all, according to a survey of executives. Meetings and a general lack of self-discipline also waste time, but far less often.

Births

Danny and Lynda McCormack announce the birth of their son, Tyler Cain, born 4:58 a.m. April 4 at Arlington General Hospital in Arlington weighing 9 pounds and 3 ounces. He is welcomed home by brother Austin. Grandparents are H.L. and Jean McCormack of Snyder and Bill and Joyce Cain of Arlington. Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cain of Snyder, and Mrs. O.S. McCormack of Roswell, Ga.

Cigarette machines targeted

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The first state to ban indoor smoking except for designated areas is now taking the lead nationally in trying to snuff out cigarette machines — or at least keep them out of youngsters' reach.

Since the St. Paul suburb of White Bear Lake passed the state's first ban on cigarette vending machines in October, at least 20 other Minnesota cities have prohibited or restricted the machines.

The restrictions are part of a grass-roots movement for a smoke-free society, said Jean Forster, assistant professor in the University of Minnesota's School of Public Health.

"It's captured the imagination of local communities," she said. "It's something they can do at their level. There are a lot of places watching what's happening in Minnesota."

A measure pending in Congress, sponsored by Rep. Thomas Luken, D-Ohio, would ban cigarette machines in any location accessible to people under 18.

Testimony at a hearing last year cited a National Automatic Merchandising Association report that only 2.5 percent of teen-age smokers buy their cigarettes from machines.

But advocates of cigarette machine bans say any percentage is significant.

Absentee voting period

March 13 primary, Gannaway polled 358 votes, or 46 percent, as Greene got 239, or 31 percent. A third candidate, Bill Kimmel, received 184 votes.

Of increasing interest is the Democratic gubernatorial runoff between Jim Mattox and Ann Richards. In addition, the Democrats have a statewide runoff between Harris County Treasurer Nikki Van Hightower of Houston and San Saba County Judge Tom Bowden for state treasurer.

Also, Democrats Ross Sears of Houston and Bob Gammage of Austin are vying for the Place 2 Supreme Court nomination and Frank Maloney of Austin and Morris Overstreet of Amarillo for the Place 1 Court of Criminal Appeals nomination.

The only statewide Republican runoff are between State Rep. Rick Perry of Haskell and Richard McIver of Stafford for agriculture commissioner and Wes Gilbreath of Houston and Grady Yarbrough of Flint for land commissioner.

Absentee voting began Monday in the clerk's office at the courthouse. Hours are 8 a.m. through 5 p.m.

In addition to the 80 who have already voted absentee, Billingsley said her office has sent out 65 mail ballots which have yet to be returned.

IN APPRECIATION—In a brief ceremony Monday, Chevron USA recognized three local men for their contributions to the company. SACROC Unit Superintendent H. J. Payne presented awards of recognition to D. W. "Don" Orsburn; W. E. "Bill" Jacobi, and C. A. Landon. Orsburn was recognized for originating a computer program to improve the evaluation of CO2 injection efficiency. He was responsible for all phases of development, and exhibited innovation by expanding the scope of the initial project through his own initiative. Jacobi was honored for his work in pursuing accurate G&S expense reporting. In the course of his job reviewing these expenses, a detailed review of accounting charges led to the discovery of an error in the payroll burden rate for non-operating partners at SACROC. His dedication and decisive action led to a sizable recovered savings. In addition to future savings to the company, Landon was recognized for his development of a procedure to recycle oil/water samples, replacing the previous procedure of using an open bucket which often resulted in spills. His procedure is inexpensive and contributes positively to the protection of the local community and our environment. (SDN Staff Photo)

Third northeast Demo governor won't run again

BOSTON (AP) — A decade ago, governors in the Northeast were riding a wave of economic growth to political heights. But hard times have plunged them into the depths of a political depression as well as an economic one. Vermont's Madeleine Kunin on Tuesday became the third Northeastern governor to decide against re-election this year, announcing she won't seek a fourth two-year term. Her state's budget has been sharply cut, while a 12 percent increase in the personal income tax has been proposed.

All three of the retiring governors are Democrats whose political futures cascaded with the economy and failed legislative programs.

"There's economic depression and also depressions in the political world. I think we're in one," said Frank Bryan, associate professor of political science at the University of Vermont in Burlington. "One of the symptoms of political depression is the candidate says, 'The hell with it. It isn't worth it to fight through this anymore.'"

The governors apparently are tired of the burdens and negative reaction they would face in re-election bids next fall.

"This is really a typical pattern for difficult economic times," said Larry Sabato, a professor of government at the University of Virginia who follows governors closely. "When a region is in trouble economically governors are simply encouraged to retire. They get tired of the burdens and also realize they might be defeated. They don't want to go out that way."

That apparently was the case with Govs. Michael S. Dukakis of Massachusetts and William A. O'Neill of Connecticut.

Dukakis won the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination partly on the strength of the "Massachusetts Miracle." That economic takeoff began unraveling even during Dukakis' White House campaign.

Dukakis announced more than a year ago that he would not seek a third consecutive term. His state faces a deficit of at least $780 million.

Two weeks ago, O'Neill said he would not seek a third full term after his standing in the polls dropped. His unpopularity apparently stemmed from nearly $1 billion in tax increases he approved last year.

"The big question is if there are going to be any exceptions to this process," said Paul Watanabe, head of the political science department at the University of Massachusetts at Boston.

Watanabe said political analysts will be watching whether Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York, a potential Democratic presidential candidate, is able to buck the trend.

"In some respects so far he has," said Watanabe. "I think he's been effective in indicating his ability to manage a crisis within New York and his ability to do so is going to significantly affect perceptions of him as a viable national figure."

Cuomo is facing his third consecutive year of budget deficits and is talking about $1 billion in higher taxes. He has said he expects to seek re-election to a third term but has made no formal announcement.

Cuomo said Tuesday that being a governor has become more and more difficult largely because the federal government is shifting more financial responsibility to the states.

The economic woes thus far have not derailed the plans of the region's three Republican governors to seek re-election.

Gov. Judd Gregg of New Hampshire is struggling with a $160 million deficit but opposes a general sales and income tax.

Mattox attacks Richards during 'debate'

DALLAS (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Jim Mattox's claim of having proof that opponent Ann Richards has used illegal drugs is just another "trashy allegation," says Ms. Richards' campaign press secretary.

"Mattox has a new trashy allegation every day. And it does not deserve Ann's response or attention," said Monte Williams. He refused to comment further about the allegation.

"We're not going to play into his hand on this stuff," Williams said.

During a 30-minute televised "debate" in Dallas Tuesday, Mattox blasted the state treasurer, saying he possesses signed statements from witnesses alleging Ms. Richards has used illegal drugs in the past 10 years.

The attorney general faced three reporters alone, since Ms. Richards declined to attend the debate, citing a previous commitment to appear at an Austin rally.

Mattox said he has "proof from the perspective of individuals that have said to me that Ann Richards has used certain drugs."

But, Mattox refused to say who his informants are.

"Whether they will come forward and agree to have their names released to you is an entirely different subject, and I'm not going to violate their confidence," Mattox said.

Ms. Richards, a recovering alcoholic, has refused to answer directly the question of whether she ever used illegal drugs, saying she has not used any "mood-altering" drugs in 10 years.

"My response has been my message to the people out there that if you need help you can get help," Ms. Richards said in a televised debate with six other Democratic candidates in March.

Ms. Richards faces Mattox in an April 10 runoff for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. She had a slim lead over Mattox in the March 13 primary.

"She's not here because she's afraid to discuss these issues," Mattox said.

When asked during the debate why he hasn't made his income tax returns public, Mattox said he first wants Ms. Richards to release medical documents from the Minnesota clinic that treated her for alcoholism in 1980.

But Williams said Ms. Richards has made public a letter pertaining to her treatment stay.

Likening politics to a chess game, Mattox said, "If you put everything out there, well then you've never got anything to bargain with."

Williams said Ms. Richards wouldn't release any additional medical documents.

"There's only one thing to be released in this campaign and that's Jim Mattox's income tax returns," Williams said.

Questioned by reporters about his acceptance of $200,000 from Danny Faulkner, a Dallas area developer facing retrial on federal fraud charges, Mattox said the money was not a personal gift.

"He did not give me the money," Mattox said. "I was involved in a number of business transactions with him."

Williams said Mattox has changed his position regarding the gift.

"That's certainly in conflict with his earlier statements and with Danny Faulkner's statement about the intent of the gift," Williams said. "But we'll never know."

Mattox hedged when asked if

Richards Camp won't apologize to Mark White

AUSTIN (AP) — Ann Richards' campaign is offering no apologies for its tactics after former Gov. Mark White accused the Democratic gubernatorial hopeful of waging a dirty campaign and likened her behavior to that of the head of the Nazi Gestapo.

Stopping short of endorsing Attorney General Jim Mattox over Ms. Richards in the Democratic runoff for governor, White said he would be voting in that race but not for Ms. Richards.

"I will never endorse Ann Richards. I will never support Ann Richards. And I will never vote for Ann Richards," said White, who finished a distant third in last month's Democratic primary.

"I've always thought he (Mattox) was one of the toughest campaigners I've ever seen, but what Ann Richards has done would make Himmler blush," White said, an apparent reference to the Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler.

During a campaign stop Tuesday in San Benito, Ms. Richards said, "Well, that's too bad ... I really don't think that it's like Mark White to call anyone a Nazi."

Her campaign manager, Glenn Smith, said the campaign stands by television commercials it aired which were critical of White.

"Ann Richards fulfilled the pledge she made when she announced her candidacy — she said she would run a positive campaign until she was attacked — and she was, by both her opponents," Smith said.

"Like all of us, Mr. White should support any candidate he chooses, and I'm sure he'll let his conscience be his guide," Smith said.

White said his no-vote policy will apply in the general election, should Ms. Richards win the nomination to challenge Republican Clayton Williams, he said.

"If she gets the nomination it will be without my help. And I think if she's able to be elected, she'll have it in the same fashion," White said.

Williams had courted White, hoping to win the ex-governor's endorsement. But the Republican is pleased with the outcome, said press secretary Bill Kenyon.

"We're happy with the governor's statement. We think it illustrates that moderate to conservative Democrats have no real choice in this runoff and the general election we believe that they will be attracted to Clayton Williams," he said.

Ms. Richards, the state treasurer, captured the most votes in the primary, 39 percent, while Mattox won 37 percent. White, governor from 1983 to 1987, received only 19 percent.

White blasted Ms. Richards, the state treasurer, for TV commercials and speeches in which she alleged that he had profited from public service and helped his old law firm obtain state bond business while he was governor.

He said Ms. Richards deliberately distorted his record and ran campaign advertisements that lied about him.

"Ann Richards willfully and knowingly smeared me with false accusations that she knew at the time to be untrue. She didn't do it just once in the heat of an argument. She did it with inexcusable regularity in the last days of the campaign," White said.

The former governor said Ms. Richards ran the dirtiest campaign he ever witnessed.

"I know tough politics ... I have been in some rough campaigns in my career and I know how to dish it out and I know how to take it."

Organizers of the debate said they were following through on an earlier commitment by allowing Mattox to appear alone. Debate organizers said they offered to provide a satellite uplink so that Ms. Richards could appear in one city and Mattox in another, and offered several formats, but were turned down by Richards' campaign staffers who cited scheduling problems.

Johnny England, publicity director for KERA-TV, which televised the debate, also said Ms. Richards' campaign did not respond when asked if a different date would be better.

"First, I think they sent us three dates on which we already had events scheduled," Ms. Richards said before the debate. "I didn't even know until I talked to Austin this morning that they intend to have Mattox on there by himself."

Children Need to Learn That Washing Follows Flushing

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I teach fifth-grade students. I was told that you once had a column on the importance of washing one's hands after using the bathroom. Please find it and run it again. My colleagues agree it is urgently needed. Thank you.

TACOMA, WASH.

DEAR TACOMA: Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: People come to you with every conceivable problem, so I'm encouraged to present one that is so touchy I've never seen it mentioned in your column.

How do you get people to wash their hands after using the bathroom? In our home, the bathroom is right off the kitchen, and when the water is turned on, it can be heard in the next room. Guests have gone into our bathroom, used the toilet (I can hear it being flushed) and then come out without having turned on the faucet, so I know they haven't washed their hands. Then after supper, they offer to help me dry the dishes! (I always say no thank you.) There's no telling what kind of infection could be transferred to my dishes from those unwashed hands.

Worse yet, where I work there's a cafeteria, and I've seen some cafeteria employees walk out of a bathroom stall and go straight out to serve the people without having washed their hands. Some of them even wipe and polish dishes as they come out of the dishwasher. Can you imagine the disease risks a diner faces when he uses these "freshly washed" dishes?

Abby, please explain how dangerous this is. If you print this, I promise to frame it and hang it above our toilet. Thank you.

PLEASE WASH IN WINONA, MINN.

DEAR PLEASE: I cannot stress too emphatically how important this one specific area of hygiene is to good general health. Children should be taught to wash their hands with soap (preferably a disinfectant type) after using the bathroom, and adults should have made it a lifelong habit.

Last November the Mayo Clinic, the medical mecca of the world, sponsored an "Infection Awareness Week" program. As part of its campaign, prominently displayed along the corridors of the Mayo hospital complex were posters showing a pair of hands under this terse message: "The 10 Most Common Causes of Infection."

To remind doctors, nurses and employees of the Mayo Clinic to wash their hands frequently were other posters bearing this catchy message: "A milligram of handwashing is worth a kilogram of antibiotics."

One final no-no on this subject: One must never use a napkin from the table as a handkerchief and then carelessly allow it to be mixed with other napkins on the table. Quite often a careless waiter or bus person will use soiled napkins to wipe off the table. This is almost as unforgivable as the aforementioned dirty toilet habits. The solution is to use a napkin as a napkin and a handkerchief as a handkerchief, and be certain each is deposited in its proper place when no longer needed.

***

DEAR ABBY: My parents are disappointed because I do not want to go to college. I want to go to trade school. What should I do?

NOT COLLEGE-MINDED

DEAR NOT COLLEGE-MINDED: Go to a trade school if that's what you want to do. To quote John Gardner:

"An excellent plumber is infinitely more admirable than an incompetent philosopher. The society that scorns excellence in plumbing because plumbing is a humble activity and tolerates shoddiness in philosophy because it is an exalted activity will have neither good plumbing nor good philosophy. Neither its pipes nor its theories will hold water."

Discovery of sunken ship happened by accident only

FREEPORT, Texas (AP) — A utility company's workers stumbled across the wreck of a sunken wooden ship off Quintana Beach while laying pipeline.

That discovery in January prompted an investigation of the wreck by two marine archaeologists, who say the ship may have dated back to the mid 1800s.

Last winter, Tejas Power Corp. hired a private archaeological firm to survey the area before installing a new pipeline.

"They even surveyed right over the wreck," said Gail Celmer, an archaeologist with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. "But since there wasn't any metallic materials on the boat it didn't register."

When the workers discovered the ship, which was apparently constructed of rough cedar planks, they contacted the Corps of Engineers, prompting a study of the ship.

"Her state of preservation is unique," marine archaeologist Steve James said. "She's preserved for all time."

For five days James and another underwater archaeologist studied the 100-foot ship, which sits upright, its hull encased in gray clay. Their investigation was hampered by choppy seas and murky water.
