Spring storms pound county

Back-to-back spring thunderstorms — some laced with high winds, lightning and hail — pounded Scurry County Monday night and early Tuesday, as residents cautiously watched threatening clouds.

The first storm developed in the southwestern portion of Scurry County and hit the Lake J.B. Thomas area about 6 p.m. where 1.5 inches of moisture fell.

The National Weather Service reported a possible funnel cloud on radar in the Lake Thomas area, but there were no reports of any twisters touching down.

However, the Lake Thomas area was pelted with high winds and hail, resulting in several reports of windows being broken on the south side of homes.

Melton Davis, who lives just north of the Lake, reported nine storm windows broken at his home. He said the hail, as large as one inch, was blown by winds which were 45-50 mph.

Davis also reported that other homes in the area had windows and glass doors broken by the blowing hail. Rainfall totals in the Lake Thomas area was 1.5 inches.

TU Electric lost its Lake Thomas sub-station due to lightning shortly after 7 p.m., and residents in the lake area were without power from two to three hours. Some larger industrial users were asked to curtail their usage for about nine hours until the sub-station was fully operational.

The storm hit Snyder about 7 p.m., but the hail and strong winds did not strike the city until the second storm hit about 12:30 (see RAIN, page 8)

Area schools compete in UIL literary events

Hermleigh and Ira high school students competed in the University Scholastic League regional literary competition this past weekend on the campus of McMurry College in Abilene.

Hermleigh High School had two students place at the contest. April Blair placed fourth in editorial writing after qualifying for the regional meet with a third place finish on the district level.

By virtue of the fourth place finish in Abilene, Blair is in the first alternate position to the state competition.

Crystal Church, who advanced with a third place finish at district, earned a sixth place finish in literary criticism at regional.

Also competing but not placing at the competition were Hermleigh students Alison Beeks in prose, Joey Matthews in informative speaking and Karen Olsen in headline writing.

In addition, Ira had two students compete but not place at the regional level. They were Susan Johnson in literary criticism and Amanda Sorrells in feature writing.

Discovery blasts into orbit, carrying Hubble Telescope

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Discovery blasted into a record-high shuttle orbit today with the $1.5 billion Hubble Space Telescope, an astronomical marvel that will enable man to peer deeper into the universe than ever before.

The shuttle roared through a thin bank of clouds into a clear blue sky on a 700-foot column of flame almost three minutes late at 8:34 a.m. EDT. The ship carried five astronauts and NASA's most complex and costliest payload.

"Lift-off of the shuttle Discovery with the Hubble Space Telescope, our window on the universe," announced NASA launch commentator George Diller.

"It was one of the prettiest launches I ever saw, and it's a beautiful day to have Hubble Space Telescope in orbit instead of here on Earth like it's been for so many years," said NASA administrator Richard Truly.

With 31 seconds left in the countdown, the computer that runs the final moments before lift-off shut down because an indicator showed a fuel valve closed instead of open. The problem was quickly overcome and the clock resumed after a three-minute pause.

At two minutes, six seconds into the flight, Discovery's two solid-fuel rockets burned out and dropped into the Atlantic Ocean. The shuttle continued upward on the thrust of its three main liquid-fuel engines.

Blood drive today at Towle Park Barn

Each of the eight local public schools in Snyder will receive recognition for blood donations made by their personnel during a blood drive which began this morning at Towle Park Barn and continues until 8 p.m.

Friends and relatives may have their donation credited to a specific school during the city-wide drive.

Scurry County blood council and Cogdell Hospital Auxiliary are sponsors.

Cookies will be provided by Lawrence IGA and orange juice will be furnished by the hospital auxiliary.

In addition, each participant will receive coupons good for a number of items, including a sundae from Dairy Queen, a malt or milk shake from Sonic Drive In/

Gandy's Dairies, a medium drink with the purchase of any dessert from Whataburger, a small soft drink and order of potatoes ole from Taco John's, a medium drink with any food purchase at Wal-Mart, a large drink at The Coffee Shop at 318 East Hwy., $1 off at Golden Corral Steak House, and $1 off one family-style meal at Long John Silver's.

Jaramillo's Restaurant and Spanish Inn have each donated seven $5 gift certificates which will be distributed by drawing.

Every other donor will receive a coupon for a regular order from Gill's Fried Chicken. Every fifth donor will receive a six-pack from Dr. Pepper Bottling Co.

A Sunday buffet for two at Willow Park Inn will be awarded by drawing from the list of all donors.

Rodeo special to students, rodeo team members, too

By HOWARD BIGHAM

Sometimes unnoticed by the fans but high on the list for special education students is an annual "special rodeo," held in conjunction with the Western Texas College NIRA Rodeo.

Both events were held last weekend at Scurry County Coliseum.

Bob Doty, WTC rodeo coach, puts together the special rodeo each year. It is patterned after the Professional Rodeo Cowboy's Association Exceptional Rodeo, which takes place each year during the PRCA National Finals.

Each WTC rodeo team member is paired with a special education student. There were 30 teams entered in the rodeo this year.

"They seem to enjoy the animals and the involvement with the rodeo students," said Doty. "It helps both sets of students and it is a good learning experience for all."

Doty developed ideas for the events while working with well-known professional barrel man and rodeo clown Quail Dobbs. Dobbs organized the Stick Horse Rodeo for kindergarten-age children at Coahoma, which recently completed its 13th season.

Doty works with Dobbs in Coahoma, and in return, Dobbs and his dog, Phyllis, perform in the WTC/special education rodeo in Snyder. RODEY has worked with (see RODEO, page 8)

AN 'OFFICIAL' COWBOY — Rodeo clown and barrelman Quail Dobbs presents Jonathan Barrow with a bandana as a part of the special education rodeo put on each year by Western Texas College. Also pictured are Delbert Johnson (with cap), Manuel Alaniz and WTC student Sonora Bratton of Brady.

The SDN Column By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A lawyer is a person who reads a 40-page document and calls it a brief."

Attorney-dominated government agencies have a problem with simple communications, likely because they usually try to cover all the angles and forget to let the public know what is intended.

The Austin American-Statesman reported the following speech made by a delegate at a convention who was striving to obtain simple wording:

"If a man were to give another man an orange, he would say 'have an orange.'"

But when a lawyer is entrusted to put this simple action in writing, he adopts this form:

"I hereby give and convey to you, all and singular, my estate and interests, right, title, claim and advantages of and in said orange, together with all its rind, juice, pulp and pips, and all rights and advantages therein, with full power to bite, cut, suck or otherwise to eat the same or to give the same away with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp or pips, anything hereinbefore and hereinafter or in any other means or whatever nature or kind whatsoever to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding, as now or hereafter provided by law."

By this time the orange is spoiled.

Speaking of government logic, the state of Maryland is considering another "luxury" tax. We've had such taxes on long-distance telephone calls and airline travel.

Donald Schaefer, governor of Maryland, has proposed that the state slap an excise tax on snack food. Advisors say a levy on cookies, crackers and doughnuts would bring in another $25 million a year.

That would be a clear case of the government's hand in the cookie jar.

Report cards, test info are due out Wednesday

Snyder public school students will be receiving report cards Wednesday, the district has noted.

In addition, Snyder Junior High School students will receive their copy of achievement test results. Students are to take the test results home and they do not need to be returned. However, report cards do need to be signed by parents and returned.

Achievement test results for elementary school students will not be sent home. Instead, teachers will be contacting parents to schedule conferences to discuss the results.

Also, TEAMS test results have been received and will be sent home to junior high school parents.

Snyder High School will mail TEAMS test results to parents.

Q—Will there be another testing period for the exit level TEAMS test? If so, when?

A—Yes, retakes for the exit-level TEAMS tests — which must be satisfactorily completed before a student can receive a diploma — are scheduled May 1-2. Contact high school counselors Janet Wesson or John Short for more information.

In Brief

Disaster area

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements asked the U.S. Small Business Administration to declare Dallas County a disaster area as a result of heavy rains and flooding April 15-16.

Approval of Clements' request would authorize the federal agency to offer low-interest loans to individuals for real estate and personal property damage. Owners of small businesses that sustained physical damage or economic injury also could apply for loans.

Clements' letter, which was released Monday, said losses in Garland and Sunnyvale "have created an economic emergency for the residents of these areas."

Costs jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wages, salaries and other benefits paid to American workers shot up 5.5 percent over the past year, the largest jump in six years, the government reported today.

The Labor Department attributed much of the increase in its Employment Cost Index, one of the best measures of wage inflation, to the continued soaring cost of health insurance and other benefits.

Health insurance alone increased 12.1 percent for the year ending in March, following the 13.4 percent rise registered for the 12-month period ending in March 1989.

Senators get $96 million from PACs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas senators Lloyd Bentsen and Phil Gramm were among only four U.S. senators who collected more than $2 million each in donations from political action committees between 1983 and 1988, according to a group attempting to limit such contributions.

Common Cause said Democrat Bentsen led the list in total PAC receipts, with $2,554,724. Republican Gramm was fourth with $2,020,344. Gramm's totals include contributions while he was a member of the House. He became a senator in 1985.

Bentsen is a co-sponsor of a bill to restrict PAC donations. Common Cause and its allies have long sought legislation to outlaw PAC contributions.

Bentsen was the top business PAC recipient, receiving $1,844,404. Gramm was fourth with $1,601,339. Conversely, Bentsen was 37th and Gramm 70th in donations from labor PACs.

Common Cause said finance industry PACs — those associated with banks, savings and loans and other financial institutions — were the top contributors during the period. Bentsen placed third on that list with $307,272. Gramm was 13th with $184,328.

Gramm was the top recipient of PACs representing oil, gas, utilities and other energy-related interests, with $382,103. Bentsen was second in energy PAC contributions with $327,717.

Gramm also led in donations from real estate and construction PACs, with $193,875. Bentsen was fourth on that list with $139,100.

Bentsen led insurance PAC contributions with $213,900

Common Cause said the totals were compiled from Federal Election Commission data, and showed that 44 of the 99 incumbents received at least $1 million in PAC money during the six-year period. Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, who died earlier this month, was not included.

Gender gap could widen in governor's race in Texas

By The Associated Press
Republican gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams and his wife say his admitted trysts with prostitutes as a youth are part of the past and should stay there.

Williams admitted during the weekend that he paid for sex in Mexico as a youth and later as a student at Texas A&M University.

The admission brought questions from feminists about Williams' attitudes toward women, but Williams said Monday it's time to get on with real issues in the campaign.

"I'm saying that I've not been a perfect man in my early days, but I'm honest; I've admitted that and I'm willing to talk about the issues now," Williams told reporters.

His wife, Modesta, agreed. "That was so long ago, that was 35 or 40 years ago. That was not part of our marriage," Mrs. Williams said during an appearance with her husband in Midland Monday.

"We've had a very strong, wonderful marriage. What he did in his past, it doesn't matter to me," she said.

In a Sunday Houston Post story, Williams said he paid for sex in his youth because brothels "were the only place you got serviced then." He shrugged when a reporter asked Monday if he thought it was wrong.

Analysts say the admission could widen the gender gap in his campaign against Democratic nominee Ann Richards.

The West Texas oilman and rancher previously has said he'd be uncomfortable running against a woman because he grew up in a "man's world." And, during gloomy weather on a cattle roundup, Williams compared rape to bad weather, saying if it's inevitable, "just relax and enjoy it."

'Ice cream wars' shown in commercial

CHICAGO (AP) — Call it "Ice Cream Wars."

Instead of race, politics and patronage, the issues were chocolate, strawberry and vanilla in a series of ice cream commercials that feature five Chicago aldermen bickering over their favorite flavors.

The ads that debuted Monday for Edy's Grand Ice Cream are a spoof on the city's Council Wars, the political sparring that erupted in the City Council after the 1983 election of the city's first black mayor, Harold Washington.

It's part of the company's effort to boost sales in the Chicago area by capitalizing on the public's fascination with politics, Chicago-style.

The Oakland, Calif., ice cream maker's campaign features three 30-second TV commercials.

"Order, please," commands the chamber speaker (an actor) as the aldermen argue. "Yeah, order more vanilla," responds Alderman Roman Pucinski.

Alderman Edward Burke prefers blueberry, colleague Luis Gutierrez opts for strawberry, Lawrence Bloom can't decide between chocolate and vanilla, and Danny Davis likes peach.

"Will the alderman yield?" Gutierrez asks. "Not until I'm finished," an ice cream-savoring Davis responds in the ad.

Dying Husband's Last Wish Is For Wife's Future Happiness

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for supporting the widow who started dating three months after her husband died. You were right to say, "The time to show respect for one's spouse is while that spouse is living."

Here is my story, and there must be a few thousand husbands (and wives) who feel the same as I do. My wife and I have had many good years together. We raised kids, lived through joyous good times and horrendous bad times.

I am in my 18th month of chemo treatment for various cancers. I may live three months or five years. It doesn't matter how short or long my life will be, but it's reasonable to assume that I will die before my wife does.

I have had a more rewarding and fruitful life than I probably deserve, for which I am grateful. But the day I die, my last thoughts will be regret that I shall leave her alone. So sad, to me, to know that after so many months of total concentration on my welfare — days of putting up with my misery and never letting me see her own misery — her reward will be to be left alone.

Abby, she is not the kind of person who should be left alone.

So I tell her now, and I want all my kids and friends to listen: "As soon as you possibly can, after throwing my ashes off the boat into the Pacific, wrap the memories of our life together around you — and begin a new life. If three days, or three months; after I'm gone, you find a man who will love and cherish you for a few years as I have for so many, go for it! You've earned it."

"MAC" IN OREGON

DEAR MAC: Your sincerity rings true, leaving me uncharacteristically speechless. Thanks for a two-hankie letter.

DEAR ABBY: I have a real concern — listen to this!

A friend told me that she asked her 4-year-old daughter to kiss her good night the other evening when she was putting her to bed. The little girl came to her mother with her mouth open and her tongue sticking out!

"What are you doing?" asked her mother.

"I'm kissing you just like they do on TV," the child replied.

Abby, what are we exposing our children to on TV — anytime, day or evening? What should we do? Please put this concern in a column soon, and tell us whom we should write to about it. It will probably mean nothing, but let's try!

MOTHER OF SIX

DEAR MOTHER: When you see something on TV that you think is offensive and a poor example of what children should see, take the time to write to the sponsor — the company that advertises its product on that particular TV program. Your local library has business directories that contain the names of large companies, their addresses and the names of their corporate officers.

Write to the president of that company and tell him that you are not going to buy his product — and tell him why.

"How to Be Popular" is for everyone who feels left out and wants an improved social life. It's an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person. To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Professionally trained Hearing-Aid Specialists will be at our office at 2203 Ave. M in Snyder to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if the loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year — even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them. Only a hearing test can determine if you are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The free hearing tests will be given Wednesday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 2203 Ave. M in Snyder. To avoid waiting, call for an appointment. Or, if you can't come in, call 806-795-0188 for in-home service.

Your Birthday

April 25, 1990

The year ahead could be a very active one for you, because you are likely to explore paths you've never previously trod. Be cautiously selective of traveling companions so they help and do not hinder you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Several old responsibilities you failed to take care of could get in the way of what you hope to accomplish today. Clear them up now instead of letting them gather more dust.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be mindful of protocol today, so that you don't slight an old friend for one you've recently met. Hard feelings could result if you're thoughtless.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's not likely you'll get too much effective support from others today in achieving your objectives. You won't have much about which to boast if you're not self-sufficient.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Ideas about which you are enthusiastic should not be soured out on persons who are essentially negative. Your survey could discourage you before you even try them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Any business deals into which you enter today should be closely examined to be certain they are everything they are represented to be. Take nothing for granted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In most instances you strive to be cooperative, because you appreciate the value of compromise for mutual advantages. However, today your stance could be unyielding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a possibility today that you might get involved in something that is beyond your scope and talents. Be a doer, but also be realistically aware of your limitations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Give yourself ample time to get to know better someone you've recently met whom you find appealing. This individual's personality could have some darker facets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not take it upon yourself to act singularly today in a matter that could affect other members of your family as well. Be sure everyone is in accord.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unreasonable doubts may weigh heavily upon your bright ideas today, and this could prove self-defeating. Others can't be expected to believe in something of which you are unsure.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You might become involved with someone today who does not manage resources too prudently. If you follow the example this person sets, you may be tempted to spend what you don't yet have.

the 1989 Spingold team-of-four features a breakdown in North-South bidding followed by a peculiar deceptive false-card by East that enabled declarer to bring home an otherwise impossible game contract. Jimmy Cayne, North, made the negative double of two spades. However, when South bid two no-trump to describe a minimum balanced hand with a spade stopper, North was pushing hard to bid game based on three kings and a couple of 10s.

When the spade six was led, South won the trick and played a low diamond to dummy's 10. Mark Cohen, East, won with the ace rather than the queen. Perhaps he expected to demolish the declarer psychologically when he later took the queen. Not wanting to play declarer's first-bid suit, Cohen now played the nine of clubs to the four, queen and king. Declarer played nine of hearts; East played low and West won the queen. West cashed the ace of spades and then played back a club. Declarer now forced out the ace of hearts. He scored two spades, two hearts, one diamond and four club tricks to make three no-trump. And Cohen is still waiting to devastate declarer with the concealed queen of diamonds.

Capitol focus of program

On April 17, Donna Fowler presented a program "Texas' Capitol" to members of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Fowler drew from her radio series, "The Eyes of Texas" and gave many personal insights of our state legislators as well as a history of the Capitol building and future plans for the remodeling of the Capitol.

The meeting was called to order by club President Bette League. Betsy Griffin, service chairman, announced that the packets were in for the Cancer Walk and assigned routes for the walkers. Also members were reminded about the upcoming Neighbors Sharing project for April 28.

Voting was carried out by the membership for recipients of the awards to be presented at the Founder's Day Celebration. Hostesses were Griffin and Carolyn Limmer. Mickey Baird won the door prize.

Moods determine cravings

NEW YORK (AP) — You wake up in the middle of the night, bolt out of bed, and dash to the refrigerator. You have an inexplicable craving for cold chicken. Last night it was apple pie. Why?

And what made you order lobster last week? Why do you crave a hot, steaming bowl of chicken noodle soup when you're feeling under the weather?

Which came first — the mood or the food? According to American Health magazine, people choose foods to satisfy physical or emotional needs. For example: — Americans eat differently when the weather gets colder.

— People also turn to "comfort foods" when they are unhappy or a little depressed.

— Many eat soup, especially chicken soup, to help fight a cold or the flu.

Joel Gurin, American Health's editor-in-chief, says ritual and tradition often take over when we choose foods.

We eat certain meals before a big race or an important presentation, he says, perhaps out of superstition. Even when we're sick in bed, we seem to choose foods that remind us of home and of our childhood.

Gurin says that very often, it's not the food itself that we crave, but the memories and associations that these foods conjure up.

In 1913, the 17th amendment to the Constitution, providing for the election of senators by popular vote rather than selection by state legislatures, was ratified.

Valvano was forced out April 7 after interim chancellor Larry Monteith criticized the academic records of players.

N.C. State is hoping Robinson, who signed a four-year contract paying $95,000 annually, can work the same magic on the court while defusing the furor over academics. All but one of his players in a 16-year coaching career have graduated from college.

N.C. State names Robinson to replace Valvano as coach

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — When Les Robinson took center court in Reynolds Coliseum as North Carolina State's new basketball coach, it very well could have been five years ago in another arena.

Just as in 1985, when he took over at East Tennessee, Robinson comes to a team beset by NCAA violations and criticized over academics.

"I'm a little nervous out here at center court," Robinson said Monday as he accepted the coaching job made available when Jim Valvano was forced out. "This is a very, very exciting moment for me, needless to say."

Robinson guided East Tennessee to a 27-7 record and the Southern Conference championship last season. But much of what Robinson attractive in Raleigh was his background — he's a former N.C. State player — and his ability to succeed despite inherited NCAA restrictions.

At East Tennessee, Robinson began his first season with three players suspended for six games. The NCAA stripped the Buccaners of scholarships later that year, but the program remained competitive.

N.C. State is hoping Robinson, who signed a four-year contract paying $95,000 annually, can work the same magic on the court while defusing the furor over academics. All but one of his players in a 16-year coaching career have graduated from college.

Veto override predicted...

Senate committee okays tax increase

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers and lawyers are maneuvering to make sure schools stay open even if the Legislature doesn't meet a May 1 court deadline for reforming the public education finance system.

The Texas Supreme Court — which last year found unconstitutional disparities in funding available to property-rich and property-poor school districts — said state aid to schools should stop May 1 unless the finance system is overhauled.

But on Monday, Attorney General Jim Mattox said he'll go to court to force schools to keep operating through the end of the school year, even if lawmakers and Gov. Bill Clements don't meet the deadline.

In another effort to forestall the possibility of school closings, the House Appropriations Committee endorsed a bill to give schools their nearly $500 million May payment at the end of this month.

The measure — backed by Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis — goes to the full House for consideration.

Schools currently aren't scheduled to get their May state payment until the 25th of the month, Mattox noted in a letter to State District Judge Scott McCown.

McCown, who has jurisdiction over the school finance case, has set a May 1 hearing to look at legislative reform efforts and legal motions.

"Because this office is concerned about the continued provision of education to the school children of this state, and because no serious economic disruption will occur within the school districts until the end of May, we will seek from the court temporary injunctive relief ... against any school district in this state that attempts to suspend school operations prior to the normal end of the school year," Mattox said.

In the meantime, the Senate Finance Committee chairman predicted lawmakers may be able to override Clements' threatened veto of a half-cent sales tax increase to pay for reform.

"I think we will have the votes to override the veto, without question" in the 31-member Senate, said Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan.

In the 150-member House, he said, "I think it's very close."

But another influential legislator — Rep. Jim Rudder, chairman of the budget-writing Appropriations Committee — said he doesn't think there are the needed 100 House votes to enact the bill over a gubernatorial veto. A two-thirds vote would be required in each chamber.

Before Texaco appointment, Pennzoil judge paid $25,000

DALLAS (AP) — Texaco attorney Richard Miller says he would have challenged the qualifications of a judge in a multi-billion dollar judgment against Texaco if he'd known the judge had worked for the opponent a few months earlier.

Texas Lawyer, a legal trade publication, reported Monday that retired state district judge Solomon Casseb Jr. was paid $25,000 from one of Pennzoil's law firms for work on a case unrelated to the 1985 fight between Pennzoil and Texaco Inc.

The payment was not disclosed to either side during the trial.

Casseb awarded Pennzoil $11.1 billion. The judgment later was settled for $3 billion.

Legal experts quoted by Texas Lawyer said the payment to Casseb should have been disclosed, although it did not violate ethical canons.

"Surely there must be a judge who could be appointed to complete this case who had not just finished a very substantial relationship with one of the lead counsel on the other side," Miller said Monday by telephone from his Houston office.

In December 1987, Texaco and Pennzoil agreed to settle the case for $3 billion.

Rodeo

Events in the special education rodeo this year included team roping, goat tagging and barrel racing.

"It is so special and so much fun, for the kids and everybody," said WTC occupational-technical education secretary Donna Robinson, who takes time off every year for the event. "Parents with children that do not need special education cannot really understand how important and how much this means to the kids."

Special Education Instructor Sherry Kidd agrees. "The kids start asking, 'Are we going to get to go to the rodeo again this year,' almost as soon as the semester starts," she said. "They really look forward to it."

Photographs are taken of the students and their partners during the rodeo. A video tape is also made of the rodeo.

Jerry Baird served as announcer for the activities. In addition to the events, Dobbs brought bandanas and rodeo posters for everyone.

Former hostage reunited with wife, 2 sons following release

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AP) — Freed American hostage Robert Polhill spent most of his captivity in the same room as two fellow hostages and probably in the same building as other Western captives, U.S. officials said today.

Some details of a special team emerged as a police captain U.S. investigators began questioning him today about what he knows of other captives in Lebanon and the Shiite Moslem militants who hold them.

The 55-year-old business professor was reunited with his two sons today. They shared a lunch of spare ribs, serenaded by a German accordionist, the officials said.

Polhill, a New Yorker, has been staying in a VIP suite at the U.S. Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden with his wife, Feryal. His sons, Stephen, 26, and Brian, 23, arrived this morning from the United States.

fairly certain of that." The official said he did not know which of the 17 Westerners still in captivity might have also been held in the building. Seven Americans are among those held. "We know from various sources where the hostages have been held," the U.S. official said, explaining that they were moved regularly.

Elsewhere, there were indications a second hostage might soon be freed, though U.S. officials said they had "no information" on that.

And a London newspaper, The Independent, reported that several dozen Shiite prisoners held in southern Lebanon by an Israeli-backed militia would be released in the next few days as part of a deal that won Polhill's release. Sources close to the militia said Monday its leader would decide today whether to free some of the group's estimated 300 prisoners to mark the end of the Islamic Ramadan fast.

"According to the latest information that we have received from Lebanon, maybe after a few days another hostage will be released," Iran's foreign minister, Ali Akbar Velayati, told CNN in an interview Monday.

Rainfall amounts, which came on the heels of last week's gentle rains, varied around the county. The city water plant reported .92 of an inch from the two storms, bringing the year's total to 10.33.

Four miles north of Ira, the total for Monday night was 2.4 inches with 1.5 inches southwest of Ira and 1.2 inches east of Ira. Dunn community reported 1.2 inches and Hermleigh reported 1.2 inches.

Four miles north of Snyder, the rainfall total was 1.04 inches while the Loyd Mountain area received .4 despite some limbs reported being blown off. Only a trace of moisture was reported in Fluvanna.

Rainfall totals of up to four inches last week have put county farmers in good position for cotton planting next month. The uniform planting date is May 21.

Food scientist invents oat bran ice cream

Just what the world has been waiting for: ice cream that's good for you

BOSTON (AP) — Impossible as it sounds, a food scientist says he's invented just what the world's been waiting for: Ice cream that's good for you.

Not only does this stuff contain almost no fat, it might actually lower the body's cholesterol level instead of raising it.

The secret ingredient is a fluffy white powder made from that darling of the food conscious, oat bran. Its principal inventor, George E. Inglett of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's research labs in Peoria, Ill., calls it Oatrim.

If his predictions are correct, in two or three years it will be an ingredient in all sorts of otherwise high-fat foods, including mayonnaise, cheese spreads, salad dressings and margarine.

"It has a double whammy," Inglett said. "It will replace animal fat, such as cream, in desserts. And it acts in the body to lower blood cholesterol."

To be successful, Oatrim will have to compete against other fat substitutes that have been under development longer, and it will have to overcome doubts that have arisen about the powers of oat bran to lower cholesterol.

The first of the substitutes, called Simplesse, was approved by the Food and Drug Administration last month. It is made from egg whites and milk protein. Others, made by Kraft and Procter & Gamble, are also under consideration by the FDA.

Whether oat bran actually lowers blood cholesterol was called into question by a study conducted last year at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston. Doctors concluded that cholesterol levels fall when people eat lots of oat bran — but only because they are too full to eat high-fat foods that raise cholesterol.

Oatrim is produced when enzymes are used to remove water-soluble fiber from oat bran or oat flour. When mixed with water, it takes on the consistency of cream cheese but has almost no taste.

Inglett unveiled his product Monday at a meeting of the American Chemical Society. He handed out samples of English muffins covered with an Oatrim cheese substitute. It was sweet and bland with a mild taste of cheddar cheese.

While he did not show off Oatrim ice cream, he said that in taste surveys people rate it between ice milk and ice cream. When whipped up by a soft-serve machine, tasters describe it as "delicious, excellent, wonderful and marvelous," he said.

In one respect, it is clearly different. Four ounces of fancy premium ice cream contain about 300 calories, 22 grams of fat and 85 milligrams of cholesterol. Oatrim ice cream has 135 calories, virtually no fat and four milligrams of cholesterol.

No studies have been done to see what effect the product has on people's cholesterol. However, Dr. Rosemary K. Newman of Montana State University tested it on chicks and found that it lowered their cholesterol levels 18 percent.

"It certainly was effective in chicks," she said. "I'm excited about it" as a food for people.

Oatrim cannot be used as a fat substitute in baked goods, such as cookies, because it loses its fat-like consistency when heated.

Inglett said Oatrim powder could also be stirred into powdered breakfast drinks to provide the same amount of oat bran fiber as a bowl of oatmeal.

"Instead of eating your oatmeal," he said, "there's no reason why you can't drink it in the morning, and then you're off to work."

After injured turtle found...

Coast Guard arrests captain

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — The captain of a shrimp boat faces a $20,000 fine after the U.S. Coast Guard discovered a live, but injured Kemp's ridley sea turtle aboard the man's vessel.

Coast Guard spokesman J.D. Cole said Monday Hung Van Tran, 37, of Houston, was arrested after officers found the turtle on the vessel Capt. Paul Le after it was caught in trawling nets that did not have turtle excluder devices.

Tran was charged with violating the federal Endangered Species Act after a Coast Guard patrol boat stopped the 50-foot vessel for a routine inspection at around 2 p.m., about 20 miles east of Galveston.

"The sea turtle was alive, but it had been abused," Cole said. "They drilled a hole in the shell, there were cracks in the shell, and it appeared it had been hit on the head."

Coast Guard spokesman Don Merwin said the hole was apparently drilled so the turtle could be tethered to the boat's stern and kept in the water to make detection more difficult.

The injured turtle was turned over to National Marine Fisheries Service personnel who operate a Kemp's ridley preservation program in Galveston.

"Right now, we have it in a tank, and it's swimming around," said Jo Williams, a fisheries service employee who retrieved the turtle. "Unless something changes drastically, it should be all right."

The turtle, about 22 inches long, is just under normal adult size, Williams said.

A veterinarian was to give the turtle a thorough examination today.

Cole said Tran acknowledged to Coast Guard inspectors that the turtle was caught in the Capt. Paul Le's nets.

"There were no TEDs installed in the nets," Cole said. "However, there were TEDs on board."

TEDs are required on all shrimp boats in the Gulf of Mexico. The rule requiring the TEDs has prompted protests from shrimp boat operators, who claim they cause the shrimpers to lose part of their catch.

The injured turtle is believed to have been aboard the boat or tied to it for at least two days, Cole said.

Quakers do not like Popeye commercials

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I yam what I yam," says Popeye the Sailor Man, but the peace-loving Quakers don't like his brawling ways and object to the use of the cartoon character in ads for Quaker Oats.

Not only that, toot toot, but Olive Oyl is too submissive, say members of the Religious Society of Friends, better known as the Quakers, a longtime champion of women's rights.

Popeye began popping up last year in TV commercials and in comics inserted in instant oatmeal packages, dispatching his nemesis Bluto with a swift swing of an oversized forearm.

"I eats me oatmeal and I'm stronger than steel, I'm Popeye the Quaker Man," he sings to an adoring Olive Oyl.

Elizabeth Foley, spokeswoman for the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting, the biggest Quaker group in the East, said Monday, "They had Popeye resolving dispute and conflict through violence. This is completely obnoxious and offensive."

"We are an organization of pacifists. We have a peace testimony that is more than 300 years old," she said. "To portray us as a church that beats up on other people is not OK."

Quaker Oats Co. — which has no connection with the religious group — apologized and said it deleted the phrase "Popeye the Quaker Man" from commercials, which ran through the "oatmeal season," September through March.

References to "Popeye the Quaker Man" will be taken out in future printings of the comics in oatmeal packages, the Chicago-based company said.

"Obviously, we looked at it as a humorous way in which to promote the product and certainly never intended to create any controversy," said company spokesman Ron Bottrell.

However, he said Quaker Oats hasn't decided whether to drop Popeye as a spokesman.

In Chester County, near Philadelphia, Quaker children at the Willistown Monthly Meeting First Day School suggested an alternative plot.

"They have Popeye and Bluto coming together and saying, 'Our fights have never resolved anything.'"

Bilingual students study about Earth

Third grade level bilingual students at Central Elementary have been studying about the environment and Earth Day. Activities included a water survey, listening to a speaker talk about water conservation, encouraging public awareness by hanging pictures they colored at Wal-Mart, and picking up trash on the school grounds.

Students also plan to participate in National Youth Science Day on April 27. Plans for that day include reading books to children at Snyder Day Care Center and showing a cartoon to third grade classes in exchange for a can of food to be donated to the food bank.

Susan Everton, bilingual instructor, coordinated all activities.

EARTH DAY ACTIVITIES—Central third grade bilingual students in Susan Everton's class have been participating in Earth Day related activities. Besides conducting a survey, coloring pictures, clipping articles about the environment and listening to speakers, they also plan to read to children at Snyder Day Care and show a cartoon to other third graders on April 27 which has been designated National Youth Service. DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been fighting a fungus for more than 20 years and use Nizoral cream. It doesn't seem to help much. Is there something else I can use?

DEAR READER: The answer to your question depends on the location of the fungus. If it affects areas of skin (for example, the typical athlete's foot inflammation), topical applications of creams or liquids — such as Monistat, Loprox or Tinactin — should be effective.

On the other hand, if it is more than skin-deep and affects the nails, for instance, anti-fungal pills — such as griseofulvin — may be necessary. Your physician can prescribe the appropriate antidote after using lab tests (cultures and smears) to identify the type of fungus causing your problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 35-year-old and have enjoyed a full life of drinking beer since the age of 14. Three months ago, a miracle happened. I grew up. My physician prescribed Vistaril 50 milligrams to help me with withdrawal and anxiety. My life has gotten better, and my thought process has caught up with my age. Is there anything wrong with taking the Vistaril at bedtime to help me sleep? Are there any long-term side effects I should know about?

DEAR READER: I assume your "miracle" means that you recognize you have a drinking problem and took a positive step in controlling your alcoholism: You stopped drinking.

The temporary use of Vistaril (hydroxyzine pamoate, an anti-anxiety drug) under medical supervision is probably appropriate. However, it is not appropriate for long-term therapy, especially in an alcoholic. It's all too easy to substitute one addiction for another: pills for booze.

The side effects of Vistaril include habituation, dry mouth, drowsiness, involuntary muscle movement and convulsions.

Unfortunately, alcoholics — because of their addictive personalities — can easily switch habits, replacing alcohol with prescription, mind-altering substances or with other drugs. Therefore, irrespective of the potential side effects of Vistaril, you are better off not taking it. Make an effort to become totally drug-free.

I recommend you talk to your doctor about discontinuing Vistaril, put up with a couple of nights' poor sleep and attend self-help meetings, such as Alcoholics Anonymous, to maintain your sobriety.

To provide you additional information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Help II — Mental/Substance Abuse." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Thornburgh says...

Fraud, not failed economy, reason for many S&L failures

DALLAS (AP) — Many savings and loan executives suffered a "moral failing," which led to the collapse of numerous thrifts, according to Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, who blamed fraud, not economics, for the collapses.

"We know that any number of financial and fiduciary failings contributed to this massive collapse," but fraud was at the bottom of 25 percent to 30 percent of the failures, Thornburgh told Dallas business executives Monday.

"We must be clear that a root problem among the S&Ls is not your Texas economy," Thornburgh said. "The problem was outright criminality, pure and simple."

"Falling oil prices, and the bad real estate market, the general

Texas downturn, did not form the criminal intent of the S&L rip-off architects," he said.

"Like all con artists and swindlers, they fantasized pyramiding riches that would save them from the consequences of their illegal excesses," he said.

Later, Thornburgh told reporters he is pessimistic about obtaining much of the money lost through fraud.

"I don't think a lot of this money is available even to the persons who were responsible for diverting it from legitimate uses," Thornburgh said. "It's simply been dissipated and spent."

"What I'm trying to do is be realistic, and being realistic in this case prompts one to be somewhat pessimistic about the notion that dollar-for-dollar we're going to be able to recoup for the American taxpayer and the American treasury sums that have been over a period of 10 or 15 years systemically looted and expended out of these corrupt undertakings," Thornburgh said.

"It just is not going to happen."

Government accountants say the bailout of the savings and loan industry will cost more than $300 billion and maybe as much as $500 billion over the next 10 years.

Publication acted alone

DALLAS (AP) — A Mexican magazine's publication of the names of U.S. drug agents does not signal government disapproval of American actions, Attorney General Richard Thornburgh said Monday.

The weekly news magazine Proceso on Sunday published a list of 49 names it identified as being U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration attaches, assistant attaches and agents in Mexico.

The magazine published the list as part of a set of articles on the DEA's role in Mexico, which periodically causes controversy, most recently over the alleged abduction of a murder suspect to face charges in the United States.

Parents are bitter about divorce action

DALLAS (AP) — Peggy Railey's parents, whose lives center on the care their comatose daughter requires, are bitter that their son-in-law, the key suspect in her choking attack, hasn't taken greater responsibility.

Walker Railey "wrote us a letter and said he was filing for dissolution of the marriage ... and alluded to the fact that Peggy and I were good friends and that as close as we were, we could take physical care of her," said Billie Jo Nicolai, Mrs. Railey's mother.

Mrs. Railey has remained in a Tyler nursing home since the 1987 attack at her home. Walker Railey says he found her nearly strangled on the floor of the couple's garage. He has never been charged in the attack, but he was found liable in an $18 million lawsuit.

In the years since the 1987 attack, Walker Railey has resigned his ministerial credentials, given up custody of his children and filed a divorce petition. It is set for trial in June in Long Beach, Calif., where he now lives.

Police are urging prosecutors to reconsider charges against the former minister, published reports said.

Police told The Dallas Morning News in a copyright story Sunday that Mrs. Railey's handwritten journal, despite providing few clues against her husband, show the woman was angry at Railey and unhappy with her life.

A top Dallas police official told the newspaper that he would ask the district attorney's office to reconsider whether there is enough evidence to charge Railey in the attack.

While Railey, described by police as the only suspect in the case, has re-established his life in California, the Nicolais have resented that he has left his wife's care totally in their hands.

"He said in the letter that he was sure I could handle it because I've been such a good friend to her," Mrs. Nicolai told the newspaper in a recent interview. "And I thought, 'You don't handle this easily no matter what.'"

Brain-damaged and unable to speak, Mrs. Railey requires constant attention. Each day, Mrs.

Nicolai combs her daughter's dark hair, swabs her ears, washes her face and changes her diaper. She also thinks about Railey.

"I don't feel that after 17 years of marriage that he should be able to turn his back and walk away from his responsibilities to Peggy," said Mrs. Nicolai, 69.

She and her 72-year-old husband, Bill, said their daily visits to their daughter's nursing home are tougher this time of year, near the anniversary of the April 21, 1987 attack.

"Peggy still stares into space, and we don't know what she knows or what she thinks or what she feels," said Linda Nicolai, Mrs. Railey's sister-in-law.

Austin TV producer dies during confab

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An Austin television producer in town to collect three awards for his news organization died early Sunday after he apparently fell down a flight of stairs at the Worthington Hotel, police said Monday.

Officers of City Center Security found the body of Rick Brannon, 34, in a third-floor stairwell at 2:17 a.m. Sunday. Authorities say Brannon sustained a broken neck and severe head injuries, and have ruled the death accidental.

Brannon produced the 5 p.m. news for KTBC-TV. He was attending the annual convention of The Associated Press Broadcasters to accept station honors for series, documentary and investigative reporting.

From police reports and interviews it appeared Brannon may have been on the way down from his sixth-floor room to a TAPB dance on the hotel's mezzanine when the accident occurred.

According to police, hotel security officers made a routine check of the stairwell at 1:03 a.m. and found Brannon during a subsequent sweep at 2:17 a.m. Brannon was pronounced dead at the scene after security workers and MedStar personnel failed to revive him.

Fort Worth police Lt. T.C. Swan and a spokesman for the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's Office say Brannon's death has been ruled accidental.

"His death has been ruled accidental. His injuries are consistent with a fall," said Bill Fabian, records supervisor for the medical examiner's office.

Fabian said tests will be run to determine Brannon's blood-alcohol level.

Investigators said Brannon last saw his wife about 11:30 p.m. Saturday, when he took her to their room and told her he was returning to TAPB activities. Police said they found her looking for her husband on the sixth floor about 3 a.m. and told her of his death.

She told officers her husband was breaking in a pair of new boots.
