Tournament opens at five locations throughout Snyder

The familiar thump, thump of basketballs throughout the city's gymnasiums generated into a roar today as play opened here in the Little Dribblers National Tournament.

The first of 108 games to be played began at 9:15 a.m. at Western Texas College, Travis Gym, the high school and junior high gyms and Scurry County Coliseum. There are 49 games scheduled today, 42 on Friday and 17 Saturday.

The tournament — actually six tournaments in different divisions and age groups — involves almost 900 players and coaches and is expected to draw as many parents, friends and relatives.

The influx of tournament goers and participants has flooded local motels beyond capacity. Snyder motels have been booked for weeks and many of the guests are staying in Sweetwater, Colorado City, Big Spring and Abilene. A number of local citizens have opened their homes to players in order to help, and several special accommodations have been made. The West Fire Station, for instance, has been turned into a boarding house for 26 players from Weatherford. The National Guard Armory is also being used as a temporary dormitory.

Among the areas and communities represented in the tournament are Plains, Malakoff, Dalhart, Amarillo, Brownfield, Kermit, Eules, Borger, Brownsboro, Hamshire, El Paso, Grosebeck, Nome, Snyder, Mexico, Shallowater, Weatherford, Levelland, Silsbee, Bryan, Dallas, Lamesa, Keller, Denver City, Ralls and the central area of Louisiana.

Others include Mercer Island, Wa., New Baden, Ill., and Ironton, Mo.

The six championship games are slated at the coliseum on Saturday, to include the American Juniors' final at 2:15 p.m., the National Juniors' title match at 3:30 p.m., the American Majors' contest at 6 p.m., the American Seniors' final at 7:15 p.m. (see TOURNEY, page 8)

Friday final day to sign up for guard class

Friday is the final day to apply for the June 2 correctional officer training course at Western Texas College.

The course is certified by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice for correctional officers for all state prison units.

Classes will meet from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m. on nine Tuesdays and seven Thursdays, and from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on seven Saturdays — a total of 120 hours of instruction.

Cost is $225.

Application forms are available in the adult education office in the administration building on campus.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the office at 573-8511, extension 240 or 390.

At District 2 contest...

SHS band grabs sweepstakes

Snyder High School varsity band, which last fall grabbed top honors in marching competition, added First Division marks in concert and sight reading Wednesday to claim the University Interscholastic League's Sweepstakes Award for Class 4A.

The District 2 UIL Concert and Sight Reading Contest was held at Abilene Cooper High School in Abilene.

"It was a great job on stage but a truly outstanding job in the sight room," said Walter Reneau, SHS band director. "We were smaller in numbers this year but a real gutsy little bunch. The students met with every expectation I had."

Also competing Wednesday were Mineral Wells, Sweetwater and San Angelo Lake View. Snyder was the only 4A band to receive a First Division from all three concert judges and three sight reading judges.

By virtue of the earlier award in marching, Snyder earned the UIL Sweepstakes Award.

Snyder's 4A non-varsity band received a 2 in concert and a 3 in sight reading at the competition.

Snyder Junior High School band was to compete today in concert and sight reading, also at Abilene Cooper.

National Guard called to fatal floods

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms that have pounded parts of Texas for more than 24 hours are being blamed for three deaths, and authorities today feared two more were killed by floods. The National Guard was called to Brownwood to evacuate people driven from their homes and businesses by rising water.

Some residents were being warned not to go outside except in emergencies, as most of North Central, Central and Southwest Texas remained under flood, severe thunderstorm or tornado watches and warnings.

The National Weather Service reported some areas got up to 14 inches of rain overnight as storms carrying at least six confirmed tornadoes hop-scotched across the state.

A tornado touched down in Corsicana about 10 a.m. today. There were no immediate reports of injury.

In Brownwood, an elderly man was drowned today when flood waters swept him under his car as he tried to get in it, police said. The man has not been identified.

All major Brownwood traffic routes were reported under water, some waist deep. The Department of Public Safety was sending a helicopter to survey the damage.

Water was pouring into buildings, including the police department.

"We're praying for sunshine," Sgt. Garry Page said in a telephone interview as he tried to hold his computer above the Industrial arts advances 14 students to state competition

Fourteen Snyder High School industrial arts students have qualified to advance to state competition.

The students, who qualified by competing in the Regional Industrial Technology Contest in Abilene, will attend the state meet, set for May 4-5 in Waco. Regional competition was held at Moody Coliseum on the Abilene Christian University campus.

Luis Alaniz was division winner in woods competition. In drafting competition, Kenny Gambrell took two first-place finishes and two second-place finishes while Charlie Busby also had both a first- and second-place dragging a flooded road today for the bodies of two missing companions. A car carrying the three (see FLOODS, page 8)

Junior high sends students to contest

Snyder Junior High students, along with sixth graders from West Elementary's gifted and talented program, will join Lamesa and Big Spring students for the third District 2-4A UIL literary meet Friday in Lamesa.

A ready writing contest opens the meet at 8:30 a.m. at Lamesa Middle School. Most of the other events — spelling, number sense, calculator applications, science, oral reading, impromptu speaking and dictionary skills — will be held beginning at 1:15 p.m.

At the conclusion of all grading and judging, an awards ceremony will be held in the school gym. The ceremony is expected to take place about 4 p.m. and students should be back in Snyder between 6-6:30 p.m.

A coffee will be held at the Snyder Junior High School patio from 8:30-9 a.m. Friday in support of the students. Parents are especially invited to attend.

Snyder will send 84 students to the competition, which was started by Kelly Starnes, SJHS counselor, and is in its third season. Of the 84 students, 31 are eighth graders, 30 are seventh graders and 23 are with the gifted and talented program from West Elementary.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Most college students believe in free speech. That's why they call home collect."

The candidates never mentioned it during the primary campaigns, but we're gonna vote for the guy with a solution to the grackle problems—those black birds which invade us each summer.

After numerous foiled attempts of eliminating the pesky black birds last summer, we resorted to chopping down two trees and cutting back a third.

Even before warm weather, those silly birds are back stalking the neighborhood. The park area just south of Wal-Mart must have more than a thousand birds there just waiting to see if those remaining trees will be adequate.

Lots of people in Snyder have battled the birds—and the birds always seem to win. Harold Denson, Ted Crenwelge, Ernest Sears and C.A. McCown are known "certified bird warriors."

The black birds are fearless. In fact, they seem to play games with bird warriors. Not only are they noisy, they make a giant mess everytime they flap their wings.

If the politicians can't figure out a solution, perhaps this could be a new business idea for Scurry County — Black Bird Eradication, Inc.

The top pun of 1989, as selected by the International Sa 3 the Pun Foundation, is about a bird lover in Toronto who had the habit of rescuing winter birds from the cold.

One day her husband charged into the dining room where his wife was toweling a cold wren and went into a loud tirade about all of the fowl recuperating in the house.

"Please Frank," the wife said reprovingly. "Not in front of the chilled wren."

Q—Will Snyder participate in the alternative school program at Hobbs?

A—Snyder officials are interested, but since the school is only speculative at this time, they are waiting to see what happens.

In Brief

More flooding

COMANCHE, Texas (AP) — More than 100 people — many of them elderly visitors from northern states — were evacuated from campgrounds around Proctor Lake because of flooding and were being assisted at a temporary shelter set up at Comanche High School.

"A lot of them are requiring medical attention," said Comanche Police Sgt. Ron Moe. "Many of these are elderly people who have come down here for years to camp. The lake came up without warning and flooded them out."

Moe said local physicians were trying to help many of those who left behind their medication as they fled the lake about 12 miles northeast of here.

Exit TEAMS

Retakes for the exit-level TEAMS tests are scheduled for May 1 and 2.

Students should contact high school counselors Janet Wesson or John Short for more information. Satisfactory performance on the exit TEAMS is required before a student may receive a diploma.

Cogdell board

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers will interview a family practitioner candidate from Kansas during its 5 p.m. board meeting today.

Also on the agenda is consideration of a hospital credit card and routine items such as a medical staff report, quality assurance report and financial report.

New number

Effective Friday, the new telephone number at the Scurry County Health Center will be 573-4947. Stu Rayner, new director, said the change is being made in order to provide better service to clients. With the change in number, Rayner said they are adding a second line which will allow calls to the facility to "roll over" to another line when the first line is busy.

U. S. Capitol...

Experimental aircraft lands near building

WASHINGTON (AP) — An experimental vertically landing aircraft plunked itself down on the Capitol grounds Wednesday, sending spectators scurrying up the steps of the Capitol with its prop wash and setting off praise from members of Congress as the greatest thing in aviation since jet engines.

Some members also denounced plans of the Pentagon to stop development of a successor plane, the V-22 Osprey, after spending $2 billion.

Members of the House Public Works aviation subcommittee, in a series of statements at a hearing, showed nearly unanimous support for the Osprey's potential to serve cities with congested airports and airways and small towns without conventional airports.

The plane that landed at the Capitol actually was a 12-year-old XV-15, predecessor to the V-22 made by Boeing Helicopters and Bell Helicopter Textron Inc. Only two XV-15s were made. Pentagon contracts call for six Ospreys, two of which have been delivered.

Joseph Del Balzo, head of systems development for the Federal Aviation Administration, said the Japanese are working on a tilting aircraft, possibly to be built in Texas, but would likely be interested in taking up the tiltrotor technology if the United States abandons it.

Del Balzo told the committee the FAA will continue to spend about $7 million a year over the next three years to research and prepare for tiltrotor aircraft, whether U.S. or foreign built.

Use of an aircraft similar to the Osprey to ferry passengers around the busy Northeast corridor could increase the number of passengers carried by from five million to eight million per year, Del Balzo said.

The XV-15 and the V-22 are powered by two turboprop engines which tilt up so their propellers, normally pulling the plane forward, act like helicopter rotors for take-off and landing. In forward flight, its 340 mph top speed is significantly faster than most helicopters.

Only Rep. John J. Duncan, R-Tenn., raised a negative note, asking why, if the plane has such great potential, aircraft manufacturers and airlines are not paying to develop it.

Supporters said it often is necessary for expensive new aircraft to begin as military hardware.

"Let's give it to the Marine Corps and let them try to break it" before its developed for commercial use, said Rep. Jim Lightfoot, R-Iowa, who said he has piloted a tiltrotor and is sold on its potential for civilian use.

The Marines sought the Osprey for use as an assault transport, to carry 24 troops or weapons and supplies from ship to beachhead in amphibious landings. But the Defense Department argues that helicopters already are doing the job and money for the Osprey can be better used elsewhere when budgets are tight.

Rep. Peter DeFazio, D-Ore., brought applause at the hearing when he said, "I can count on less than one hand the the new military weapons systems I will support, but this is one of them."

"Welcome to the dawn of a new age in aviation," said committee chairman Rep. James Oberstar, D-Minn., who told the committee it took everything but a papal decree to allow the XV-15 one-day landing rights on the east side of the Capitol.

Panel says nation is failing its young

WASHINGTON (AP) — America is "failing its children," a federal commission reported today, with one young person in five living below the poverty level. The National Commission on Children said in an interim report that children have become the poorest age group in the United States. The 20 percent of children living in a poor family was up from 15 percent in 1970, it said.

The commission said the rise in childhood poverty more than any other factor places young Americans at risk for a range of long-term problems, including poor health, failure in school, teen-age pregnancy, crime and drugs.

"One of the tragic ironies of recent decades is that in a period of significant economic growth, the most prosperous nation on Earth seems to be failing its children," Sen. Jay Rockefeller, D-W.Va., chairman of the panel, said in the report.

"The evidence of this failure is pervasive," he said. "The seriousness of the problems afflicting many of the nation's children and their families is now largely beyond debate."

The commission was established by Congress and its members were appointed by the president and House and Senate leaders. It made no recommendations in its interim report, but its findings so far are expected to form the basis

Man kills self after standoff with police

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The parents of a 38-year-old man who killed himself after a short standoff with police described their son as a non-violent man who became despondent when his marriage broke apart.

William Thurman of San Antonio turned a pistol on himself Tuesday night after he allegedly pointed his weapon at police and officers shot him once in the arm.

Police said Thurman appeared at a convenience store where his estranged wife worked and threatened to shoot everyone in the shop and himself. Thurman had fled by the time police arrived, but police spotted him a short distance away and began chasing him.

for suggestions for new spending next year.

Rockefeller, in issuing the report, said the trends pose a threat to the nation's economy and democracy by producing new adults who are unhealthy, illiterate and unemployed.

He pointed to an array of jarring government statistics suggesting children are suffering the most from poverty.

Malnutrition affects nearly a half-million children, and every night an estimated 100,000 children go to sleep homeless.

Among black and Hispanic children, poverty is even worse. The poverty rate in 1987, the year the report cited, was 15 percent for white children but 45 percent for black children and 39 percent for Hispanic children.

Despite the stereotype of inner-city poverty, rural poverty is as big a problem or worse, the report said. One of every four rural child is poor, it said, and rural families are less likely than urban ones to receive public assistance.

In 1989, the poverty line set by the government was $12,675 for a family of four, exclusive of non-cash benefits such as food stamps.

U.S. children on average are economically better off now than they were in the 1960s, primarily due to rising family incomes through 1973 and the trend toward smaller families, it said. But those figures do not reflect the growing disparity among families, the report said.

The problems of poor children are compounded by a patchy health care system that omits many, with "harsh and senseless consequences," the commission said.

Dr. Gott Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 17-year-old son has an acne problem — on his face, back and chest. He's under the care of a dermatologist, takes Minocin and uses Retin-A — all with little improvement. A second dermatologist wants to put him on Accutane for three to four months, and I'm reluctant to try this procedure. What do you think?

DEAR READER: Accutane (isotretinoin) is a logical next step in the treatment of your son's recalcitrant acne. Most patients tolerate the prescription drug well. However, the manufacturer warns that in rare cases, the drug causes pressure to build up in a patient's brain (intracranial hypertension), leading to visual disturbances, headache, nausea and vomiting; such a reaction means the drug must be immediately discontinued.

Also, about 25 percent of Accutane patients show an increase in the blood fat called triglycerides; this may require adjustment of dosage or special low-fat diets. Finally, about 15 percent of patients exhibit signs of liver inflammation, which disappear on lower doses. Also, women who are pregnant or are planning to become pregnant should not use Accutane because of the risk of fetal abnormalities.

If your son has exhausted the usual methods of treating acne, he may wish to consider using Accutane, under the doctor's close supervision.

Acne is not life threatening; therefore, you should carefully review the risk/benefit ratio with the doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My girlfriend has been plagued with a very bad sinus allergy since her teens. The condition is aggravated by a deviated septum as a result of an auto accident. Is there anything we can do to relieve her constant misery?

DEAR READER: The nostrils are separated by a thin plate of cartilage. This septum usually lies midway between the nostrils and does not interfere with anything. However, a deviated septum may be present from birth or be the result of an injury to the nose. In these instances, the septum is pushed to one side and can partially block a nostril. More important, a deviated septum may press against the tiny sinus openings at the back of the nose.

In situations where the nasal lining — and the covering of the septum — is swollen and congested, sinus blockage can be complete, thereby preventing normal sinus drainage. Sinuses are cavities within the facial bones and, like other body chambers, will become infected if they are blocked.

Hence, sinus infection is common in patients with deviated septums, particularly if these patients have colds or allergies, which increase both the secretions from and the swelling of the nasal lining.

Treatment usually consists of antibiotics and decongestants, which reduce the tissue swelling and promote drainage.

In cases of pronounced septal deviation, medicine may not be enough; surgery is then considered. The operation is called septoplasty and can be performed by an ear-nose-and-throat specialist who surgically repositions the septum to a more normal location. This relieves pressure on the sinus openings and usually solves the problem of repeated sinus infections.

Your girlfriend should see an otolaryngologist who will advise her if septoplasty is appropriate.

To give you additional information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Employees honored for speaking out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two employees at the Comanche Peak power plant near Glen Rose, Texas, are among seven people honored Wednesday by the National Whistleblower Center, an advocacy group.

All reported being retaliated against after exposing safety hazards at nuclear weapons and energy plants.

The seven, recipients of the center's first annual Whistleblower Award for Courage, were hailed as having risked "their job, career and livelihood to protect the public from the hazards of atomic weapons and nuclear power."

The center is a project of Northwest Environmental Advocates and was formed in 1988.

The seven honorees are: —Roger D. Wensel and Joy P. Adams, who contend they were fired after complaining that the widespread use of illegal drugs was creating a safety hazard at the Department of Energy's Savannah River nuclear weapons facility in Aiken, S.C.

—Syed M.A. Hasan and Joseph J. Macktal, who claimed whistleblowers at the Comanche Peak power plant near Fort Worth, Texas were offered "hush money" to drop complaints about safety and other problems.

—Vera M. English, Rudolf Norman and Blaine P. Thompson, who, the Whistleblower Center said, "risked their careers to protect the public from significant nuclear power hazards."

HOBBY TURNS BUSINESS — Glenda Glasscock of Hayes, Kan., formerly of Hermleigh, displayed a few of her hand-made items to the Art Guild Study Club during the April meeting. Glasscock started her projects as a hobby, but they soon developed into a business for her. (Private Photo)

Craft-maker entertains club

The Art Guild Study Club was entertained at its April meeting by Glenda Glasscock of Hayes, Kan. Glasscock presented a program on her hand-made, stuffed items. Included in her collection were mop and stuffed dolls, rabbits, hanging cats and calico chickens in half shells. Some of her crafts were used to adorn the table.

She told the group that she has names for each doll she makes and that she began her "Country Crafts" as a hobby. However, friends and acquaintances began to request pieces. Glasscock has now turned her hobby into a "cottage type" business. She does all the handwork, stuffing and pattern making herself. She now has an outlet in a Colorado gift shop and several in the town of Hayes. Locally, her items can be found in two beauty salons and Express It.

Glasscock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Tate, and she grew up in Hermleigh. She married Robby Glasscock of Snyder and is the mother of two grown sons.

Sixteen members and three guests were present at the meeting. Hostesses were Mary Bell Cary, Ethel Mae Sturdivant and Clara Tate.

Penwomen discuss fiction

Scurry County Penwomen met April 18 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy of Lake Thomas. Christine Killgo gave the invocation. Mary Westmoreland presented a program on "Some Aspects of Writing Fiction." She quoted Robert Newton Peck who said in his book "Fiction is Folks" that "characters are the most important part of a story. They are what the readers are most interested in."

She also quoted what Phylis A. Whitney stated in her book "Writing Juvenile Stories and Novels", that she believed that character and plot were equally important in a story. "How to find characters? Observe people; see how they dress; the expressions on their faces; etc. Perhaps you will see an unusual character whom you can use in a story. Listen to their talk. Do they have an accent? Use short paragraphs to tell your story."

"Good writers don't tell stories — their characters tell the story," she concluded.

The society welcomed new member, Betty Bynum Boyd. Sherry Bryant reported that she had won honorable mention with her poem "A Mother's Heart" in a contest in the World of Poetry. In the reading session, members read their own works.

Jean Everett read her poem "My World;" Janelle Burk read her poems, "The Stones Cry Out" and "Speedy Recovery;" Bryant read her poem "A Smile in Your Heart" and her article "Nature's Rampage;" and Estelene Murphy read her poems "Mr. Weatherman" and "Little Daffodil." Garnet Quiett read her poem "May Thoughts."

In addition, Boyd read her letter to the editor that was published in the Snyder Daily News. Betty Kellams read her favorite quotes from Reader's Digest.

In a secret ballot, Burk won the popular prize for best reading. She also gave the word of encouragement on the subject of dealing with dry spells.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be May 16 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Everett. Visitors and writers are welcome.

Americans go to festival

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Philharmonic has been invited to be a major participant in the 1992 Salzburg Festival, becoming the first American orchestra to be in residence for both opera performances and symphony concerts there.

Esa-Pekka Salonen, who officially begins his tenure as the Philharmonic's music director in the fall of 1992, will conduct the orchestra at Salzburg in a new production of Messaien's opera, "St. Francois d'Assise," as well as in a number of concerts.

Headaches for declarer

By James Jacoby

Today's deal features Bob Hamman in an unusual role, misplaying a hand and by some lights misbidding it. After North's takeout double, it was certainly right for South to bid one no-trump. However, when North raises to two no-trump, describing a hand of 15-17 points, it can't cost anything for South to bid three hearts. The meaning would be clear: "I'm accepting your game invitation; along the way I'm telling you I have four hearts, just in case we have a 4-4 fit that would play better than three no-trump."

In the no-trump game, Hamman played a low heart at trick two, ducking all around. West continued with the king of hearts, also ducked, but East now played the heart queen. That could be nothing but a suggestion for a spade shift, and West duly led the two of spades. Declarer won the ace, cashed two hearts (West discarded two diamonds, East a club), and then played the king of diamonds. West won and played another spade. Hamman now tried for an endplay against West, cashing two clubs ending in dummy and exiting with a spade. But the defenders arranged things so that East took the balance, even depriving declarer of his eighth trick.

Nothing's clear in the play, but declarer will succeed if he plays West for the singleton jack of clubs. I've had the good fortune to be Bob's partner a few times, and I estimate that he would make this contract 90 percent of the time, and perhaps more than that if it were day one of the tournament rather than day 10.

Tigers face Ponies in make-up contest

The Snyder Tigers will try one more time to get in their District 4-4A baseball game against Andrews tonight at 7 p.m. at Moffett Field.

Andrews, sitting atop the loop standings with a 14-5 overall record and a slate of 8-1 within the district, has attempted the game twice, once last Friday when soggy field conditions here forced the game's postponement, and Monday when a thunderstorm flooded the field again.

Andrews will send ace pitcher Jesse Armendariz to the mound against Snyder.

Armendariz pitched a no-hitter earlier in the season as the Mustangs popped San Angelo Lake View, 7-0.

Offensively, the Ponies are led by slugger Brent Leffingwell.

Leffingwell slapped a home run against Snyder in the two teams' early season encounter that tied the game with two outs in Andrews.

The homer allowed the Mustangs to work one more run over in the game's last inning to beat the Tigers, 4-3.

Andrews' last outing was a closer than expected 7-6 win over Ft. Stockton's Panthers Tuesday with Armendariz earning the win and Leffingwell getting a save.

Snyder captured an 11-3 win over Lake View in their Tuesday contest.

Snyder hitters rapped out 10 hits and SHS hurler Willie Garcia topped his season mark to 2-1.

Chad Fox and John Wright each drove in three runs in the Tiger win while Jason West, Randy Morris and Wright each turned in two-hit performances.

Snyder senior Jamey Morton will take the hill against Andrews tonight, putting his 9-2 record on the line.

Morton has fanned 103 batters in 1990 and sports a 2.02 ERA.

WTC golf team set for Region V event

Western Texas golfers are preparing for this weekend's 54-hole Western Junior College Athletic Conference season finale and National Junior College Athletic Association Region V tournament at the WTC course.

The tourney is slated to run Saturday and Sunday with tee-off both days at 8:30 a.m.

Western Texas is currently ranked fifth in WJCAC competition with four points on the conference campaign.

Odessa College holds the No. 1 spot with 17 team points followed by Midland College and New Mexico Junior College with 15 each and New Mexico Military Institute with nine.

The Westerners' last outing was a fifth place finish at Hobbs, N.M. a week ago with a team-total 438 on 27 holes.

The Snyder-based school fired a 296 in the tournament's opening round and followed up with a 142 on the final nine holes.

New Mexico Junior College, the event's host, captured first place points with their combined 412 score.

The Thunderbirds carded a sizzling 277 on the first round and tacked on 135 on the last nine.

Shane Bertch, an NMJC golfer, was the medalist at the Hobbs tournament with a 99, including his 66 on the first 18 holes and a 33 on the event's last day.

Tony Lara of Sweetwater and Jeff Baker of Borger carded 109s to pace the WTC squad.

Brandon Benedict of Bartlesville, Ok. shot rounds of 74 and 39 for a total 113 followed by Snyder's Wade Hatter and Ponca City, Ok. native Jimmy Howe with 113 tallies, also.

Brad Stewart from Sapulpa, Ok., managed a 115 on totals of 78 and 37 last week.

Besides the WJCAC teams coming, Weatherford Junior College, McLennan Community College and Grayson Junior College will also field squads for the event.

New Mexico JC is currently ranked fifth in the nation while Odessa sports the sixth position and Midland sits at No. 12.

Western Texas, Grayson, McLennan and NMMI have all been ranked in the country's top 15 at one point during the year, as well.

The WJCAC tournament will consist of the event's first 27 holes. After the conference portion of the tourney, each team will drop its sixth player and continue through another 27 holes.

The top two teams at the end of the Region V event will advance to the NJCAA National Finals in Scottsdale, Az. June 11-15.

Mavs battle Portland

Dallas begins playoffs against Trail Blazers

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — For years, Clyde Drexler has played on a team that did a fast fade in the NBA playoffs. Across the continent, Buck Williams toiled for a squad that rarely made it to postseason play.

Both say things are much different this year.

They feel they are on a Portland Trail Blazer team with the potential to go all the way to the top.

"A chance to have a shot at the championship," Drexler said of his team's ambition. "I think that's very big to all of us."

The Trail Blazers will be out to prove they've gone from playoff patsy to title threat tonight when they open their best-of-5 first-round series against the Dallas Mavericks.

Williams, obtained by Portland in a trade with New Jersey before the season started, is elated to be on a successful team.

"All the elements are there," he said. "We're just very happy to be in the playoffs and to be matched against a team we've played well in the past."

The Trail Blazers won a franchise record 59 games during the regular season and swept their four-game series with Dallas.

Portland coach Rick Adelman thinks the veteran-laden Mavericks will be much tougher now.

"When you have a team with Derek Harper and (Rolando) Blackman and (Roy) Tarpley and (Sam) Perkins, you've got a lot of talent," he said. "With their talent and playoff experience, they're going to be a very tough team."

But it will be a wounded Dallas team that comes to Portland.

Backup guard Brad Davis is out with a pulled hamstring.

Adrian Dantley, who missed most of the season with a broken leg, says he isn't fit enough to return for the playoffs. Tarpley is bothered by a pulled groin and center James Donaldson has a bruised toe.

Then there have been the other problems with Tarpley. The 7-foot power forward missed much of the season because of substance abuse. He returned in March, but later was suspended for two games when he missed a team flight and practice.

Throughout all this, coach Richie Adubado, who took over after John MacLeod was fired early in the season, has managed to direct the Mavericks to 47 victories.

Portland center Kevin Duckworth has averaged 21.4 points against the Mavericks, so Adubado has made a defensive switch. Donaldson will guard Williams and Tarpley will guard Duckworth.

"We feel Roy can get out on (Duckworth) and stay with him on his drives, while Buck Williams isn't going to be such a big offensive force that James can't handle him inside," Adubado said. "It's a big area of concern, because Duckworth is playing more of a perimeter game than ever before."

The 244-pound Tarpley said he isn't intimidated by the prospect of guarding the 7-foot Duckworth.

Fenton to run at regionals

Snyder's Dana Fenton will accompany the Tigers' qualifiers to the Friday and Saturday Region I Class 4A track meet in San Angelo.

Fenton, who will compete in the 400 meter run, finished third at the District 4-4A meet two weeks ago with a 63.6 time.

Her third place finish made her the loop alternate in the event and second place Angela Adames of Sweetwater was forced to bow out earlier this week with an injury putting Fenton in the regional meet.

Fenton joins Lady Tigers Vinnie Clay and Katina Brandon in the discus throw, Brandon in the shot put, Liz Greathouse in the triple jump, Schanekka Thompson in the 100 meter low hurdles, Charlie Guynes in the pole vault and Ed Rios in the high jump as regional contenders from Snyder High School.

Scott, Birks slate camps

Snyder High School basketball coaches Larry Scott and Bud Birks are gearing up for their annual Tiger Basketball Camps this summer.

The first session at the camp will be for boys and girls who are in the second through fifth grade this year.

The camp will run June 4-8 from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

The second camp, for sixth through eighth grade boys, is slated for June 11-15 from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Both camps will stress fundamentals with team and individual competition.

The camp for the older boys will also involve the offense and defense used in the junior high and high school programs.

The fee for both camps is $40, which includes insurance, a T-shirt, medals, trophies and instruction.

For further information contact Scott at 573-8648 or Birks at 573-1297.

Exxon shareholders reject 6 environmental proposals

HOUSTON (AP) — Some large investors say they remain concerned about Exxon Corp.'s environmental policies, despite shareholders' overwhelming rejection of efforts to make America's largest oil company do more to protect the environment.

Shareholders at Wednesday's 3-hour, 40-minute annual meeting turned down six resolutions asking Exxon to improve its environmental performance in the wake of last year's Valdez oil spill.

Although the six resolutions received more support than is usual for shareholders' proposals, none got as much as 10 percent of the vote, and Chairman Lawrence G. Rawl said the results indicated "support of the management by large shareholders."

But Elizabeth Holtzman, who controls six million Exxon shares as trustee of New York City pension funds, remains concerned about the company's environmental record.

The pension fund voted in favor of five of the six environmental proposals, but abstained from votes for the directors.

"Liz ... is still not persuaded that Exxon understands that its image and potential liability as a polluter could seriously affect the value of its stock," said spokeswoman Nancy Young.

Management had urged shareholders to vote against resolutions seeking pledges by Exxon to reduce emissions of pollutants and toxic waste, create a special environmental affairs committee on its board of directors and follow the so-called Valdez Principles for corporate environmental conduct.

"Liz is dismayed that a company in good conscience can oppose reducing air pollution and toxic emissions," Ms. Young said.

Brion Blackwelder, vice president of Friends of the Earth who said he represented holders of 250,000 Exxon shares at Wednesday's meeting, also criticized management's refusal to back even one of the proposals.

"You've chosen to take a hard line and miss each pitch totally," Blackwelder told Rawl. "You are out of touch with reality. You're running a ship that you're not able to control. I see no reason for you not to step down."

No injuries in bus mishap

There were no injuries Tuesday in a 2:25 p.m. mishap on U.S. 180 near the intersection of U.S. 84.

A 1960 bus, carrying 22 students and sponsors from the Sandia View Academy in Corrales, N.M., struck a 1988 Winnebago as the east-bound recreational vehicle attempted to pass the east-bound bus.

The Department of Public Safety report indicated that the driver of the bus, school principal Eugene Edelbach, first signaled a right turn into a service station and then changed his mind and signaled a left turn into another service station. Damage was minor to both vehicles.

Driver of the recreational vehicle was Richard Wachter of Munich, Germany. The 22 passengers on the bus ranged in age from 16-26.

Clements taking veto message to airwaves

AUSTIN (AP) — After fighting in the halls of the Capitol, Gov. Bill Clements plans to take his no-tax message straight to Texans with a special television broadcast.

Clements said Wednesday he wants air time, probably Friday night, to explain why he is vetoing a sales tax increase that lawmakers want for public schools.

"It's important that the people of Texas understand the situation down here and the lack of serious activity in the legislature," Clements said.

Clements has vowed to veto a one-half cent sales tax hike that would fund most of a $555 million school finance plan lawmakers hope will satisfy the Texas Supreme Court, which unanimously ordered reforms.

But time is running out. The court's May 1 deadline for action is less than a week away.

After an "escape hatch" plan — to keep state money flowing to billions-a-year school finance system or face an order stopping distribution of financial aid to schools.

Lawmakers are finishing — and expect to pass — a $555 million reform plan. It would require the state sales tax to jump from 6 cents to 6½ cents on the dollar and trim $114 million from other state agencies to provide more for schools.

Clements insists "no tax increase is necessary." He says extra money could be raised through budget cuts he supports or through a state lottery which doesn't need his consent.

He asked Houston TV station KTRK for time during the 6 p.m. newscast Friday to explain his veto. The station was asked to make the signal available to all Texas stations, said Rossanna Salazar, the governor's press secretary.

Ms. Salazar said the time was chosen because Clements' staff expects the tax bill to be passed and sent to his desk by Friday. The broadcast may be made later if the tax bill hasn't reached Clements by then, she said.

Ms. Salazar said the Republican governor's comments would be followed with rebuttal from a top Democratic lawmaker. The costs of the satellite linkup, estimated at a maximum of $430, probably would be split between the governor and opposing Democrats, she said.

Such a broadcast — similar to one then-Gov. Mark White made during a budget and tax special session in 1986 — would take the fight between Clements and lawmakers into a new arena.

billions-a-year school finance system or face an order stopping distribution of financial aid to schools.

Lawmakers are finishing — and expect to pass — a $555 million reform plan. It would require the state sales tax to jump from 6 cents to 6½ cents on the dollar and trim $114 million from other state agencies to provide more for schools.

Clements insists "no tax increase is necessary." He says extra money could be raised through budget cuts he supports or through a state lottery which doesn't need his consent.

He asked Houston TV station KTRK for time during the 6 p.m. newscast Friday to explain his veto. The station was asked to make the signal available to all Texas stations, said Rossanna Salazar, the governor's press secretary.

Ms. Salazar said the time was chosen because Clements' staff expects the tax bill to be passed and sent to his desk by Friday. The broadcast may be made later if the tax bill hasn't reached Clements by then, she said.

Ms. Salazar said the Republican governor's comments would be followed with rebuttal from a top Democratic lawmaker. The costs of the satellite linkup, estimated at a maximum of $430, probably would be split between the governor and opposing Democrats, she said.

Such a broadcast — similar to one then-Gov. Mark White made during a budget and tax special session in 1986 — would take the fight between Clements and lawmakers into a new arena.

Snyder students get TSTI honors

SWEETWATER — The Sweetwater campus of Texas State Technical Institute, the technical college of Texas, has announced its honor rolls for the recently finished fall term. These lists include both part-time and full-time students from the Sweetwater campus and the Abilene extension.

In order to qualify for the President's List, a student must maintain a 4.0 grade point average for the term. The Dean of Instruction's List requires a 3.5 to 3.99 grade point average in order to be eligible.

Kim Appleton, Billy Benson, John Brock, James Flowers, and Paul Gilbert, all of Snyder, have been named to the President's List.

Billy Allen, Linda Arnold, Barbara Nazworth and Thomas Stevens, all of Snyder, have been named to the Dean of Instruction's List.

An accredited two-year college which offers programs of study leading to either certificates or associate degrees, TSTI is the only state-supported technical college in Texas.

Consumers like new lean meat label, USDA reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers apparently have generally accepted a new federal label for lean beef since the Agriculture Department carved it out more than two years ago.

The new labeling took effect in November 1987 after consumer and industry people petitioned USDA for a name change in official federal beef grading, said Jimmy Wise of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service.

"Consumers told us they wanted a more positive description of leaner meat available in grocery stores, and they got it," Wise said Wednesday.

The change involved scrapping the 60-year-old "USDA Good" label and substituting a new "lean" label on supermarket cuts.

Many nutrition-conscious consumers wanted the name change because they felt the "Good" label misled buyers into thinking the beef was mediocre. When the label was established in the 1920s, it described the amount of fat, or marbling, in a cut of beef.

The consumer view was that less fat was more healthful and that the "Good" label wasn't descriptive.

A consumer organization, Public Voice for Food and Health Policy, petitioned USDA in June 1986 to change the name from "Good" to "Select." The change, also endorsed by a dozen other consumer and health groups, went into effect in November 1987.

The push to a "Select" beef grade also was supported by the cattle and meat packing industries, including the American Meat Institute, National Cattlemen's Association and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Wise said the "Select" grade was adopted as the result of "a welcome coalition between industry and consumers." Moreover, he said, "Select" beef is selling well.

"That wouldn't be happening if people weren't happy with it," Wise said. "Industry is responding by providing more leaner beef for grading, and more retailers are beginning to carry the product."

In the three months prior to the official name change, only 49,714 pounds, or 1.7 percent of all graded beef, qualified as "Good." By the fourth quarter of 1989, the "Select" label accounted for 433,413 pounds, or 14.3 percent of all graded beef, according to agency records.

Since the 1920s, USDA has provided eight grades and standards to beef quality. Those are: Prime, Choice, Good (now Select), Standard, Commercial, Utility, Cutter and Canner.

Federal grading by USDA is a voluntary service that is requested by packers and paid for by user fees.

It is designed to help assure the industry and consumers of uniform standards for a variety of commodities other than beef and cattle, including cotton, dairy products, fruit, other livestock, mohair, poultry, rabbits, shell eggs, tobacco, vegetables and wool.

Flynn earns Air Force medal

AIR FORCE Lt. Col. Michael D. Flynn has been decorated with the Meritorious Service Medal at MacDill Air Force Base, Fla.

The Meritorious Service Medal is awarded specifically for outstanding non-combat meritorious achievement or service to the United States.

He is the son of Emil D. and Jo N. Flynn of Snyder. He graduated from Snyder High School in 1968 and from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos in 1972.

Sunray residents was swept into waters up to 13 feet deep Wednesday, officials said.

Missing were Cano Najera, 19, and Andres Aravjo, age unknown.

A 77-year-old Brownwood man was swept away by floodwaters as he worked to clear a drain by his home about 8 p.m. Wednesday.

"The swift current pulled him into the drainage ditch, carried him underneath a bridge, and he disappeared," said Brownwood Police Chief Joe Don Taylor.

The body of the man, whose name was withheld by authorities until relatives could be contacted, was recovered three hours later by firefighters, Taylor said.

Rising water drove hundreds of people out of their homes and into shelters in Central Texas.

More than 130 people were evacuated from Proctor as nearby Proctor Lake rose and the rain continued. Comanche County officials warned people not to go outside except in emergencies.

About 100 people were evacuated this morning from a flooded subdivision in Parker County, said Sheriff's Department dispatcher Ken Galbreath. "It's a madhouse right now," Galbreath said.

Other storms caused extensive damage to Laughlin Air Force Base in the Big Bend area. A base spokesman said 100-mph winds damaged buildings and three T-37 trainer aircraft.

There were no reports of injuries and no damage estimates, military officials said.

Flash flood warnings were issued early today for Tarrant, Denton, Wise, Parker, Comanche, Erath, Eastland, Palo Pinto, Somerville, Johnson, Cooke and Bosque counties.

Numerous roads and highways in the counties under flash flood warnings were closed at dawn. Bridges were washed out and others were damaged by flooding, highway department officials said.

Locals will graduate from Howard Payne

BROWNWOOD — Several students from Snyder will graduate from Howard Payne University May 5.

They include Glynda Kay Clawson, B.S.E. in elementary education in the Academy of Freedom program; Sheri Smith Mayo, spouse of former graduate Jay Mayo, B.B.A. in Academy of Freedom in history and political; and Todd Pollard, son of Bob and Janelle Pollard, B.S.E. in Secondary Education in mathematics and physical education.

Court says...

Confession admissible in Port's murder trial

AUSTIN (AP) — A Harris County prosecutor says he'll work to put David Port back behind bars in the 1984 slaying of a Houston postal carrier now that the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled the conviction was wrongly overturned.

But Port's attorney said the defendant has led an "exemplary life" since being released on bond in 1987, and that he'll keep appealing his murder conviction.

The 3rd Court of Appeals in 1987 threw out Port's conviction in the murder of Debra Sue Schatz, saying his confession didn't lead police to new evidence and therefore couldn't legally be used as evidence in his trial.

Since then, Port has been free on $20,000 appeal bond.

But the Court of Criminal Appeals said Wednesday that Port's statements were properly used in his trial and returned his case to the 3rd Court at Austin for consideration of other issues Port raised in appealing his murder conviction.

If the 7-2 decision stands, Port's conviction would be reinstated pending the 3rd Court's review, said Tim Taft, assistant district attorney in Harris County.

Port will ask the Court of Criminal Appeals to reconsider its decision, said defense lawyer Jack Zimmermann of Houston.

Zimmermann wouldn't reveal Port's whereabouts, citing concerns for Port's safety. But he said that Port "has been living an exemplary life."

A Comal County jury convicted Port in the slaying of Ms. Schatz, who was shot in June 1984 after she stopped at Port's Houston home on her mail route.

Her body was found two days after the killing in a remote area of northwest Harris County. She had been shot twice in the head with a .22-caliber pistol.

Port, who was 17 at the time of the killing, was sentenced to 75 years in prison.

Vasectomy Can Sometimes Be the Unkindest Cut of All

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I read about that woman who tried to get her husband to get a vasectomy, but he refused. She called him "chicken." Well, I think he was a wise bird. Listen to this:

My wife and I had been married for a year when she gave birth to a beautiful baby boy. (It was her second child. She had a daughter by a previous marriage.)

When the baby was 3 months old, my wife asked me to meet with her and her doctor to discuss birth control. I agreed to this meeting, thinking how nice of her to let me have a voice in the matter. Well, during the meeting, she and the doctor suggested that the best method of birth control for us would be for me to have a vasectomy! I didn't want to appear "chicken," and my wife said we had a perfect family — a boy and a girl — so I said, "OK." Nobody mentioned that it might be good insurance for me to make a deposit in a sperm bank.

The vasectomy was no picnic, but I got over the discomfort in a couple of days. Well, I suppose you can guess the rest of the story. Three years later, my wife decides that she doesn't want to stay married to me! She said, "It's over. I'm not happy. Let's call it off while we are both young." (I was 36 and she was 34.)

So, now I'm a single man who has given up his ability to become a father again.

MINNESOTA MULE

DEAR MULE: Thanks for telling your story. Your experience may remind other men who are considering a vasectomy to make a deposit in a sperm bank first. One day it could pay big dividends.

P.S. Have you checked with your physician? Some vasectomies can be reversed.

DEAR ABBY: So many people — you included — use the term, "Please enclose a self-addressed envelope."

Abby, I do not mean to be rude or impertinent, but how can an envelope "address" itself?

Why can't people use the term "pre-addressed envelope"? I await your reply.

GEORGE E. VOGEL, APPLE VALLEY, CALIF.

DEAR GEORGE: Read my lips. Not everyone will understand that a "pre-addressed envelope" means "an envelope addressed to yourself." (Actually, the prefix "pre" means "in front of" or "before.")

In requesting an envelope addressed to oneself, "self-addressed envelope" conveys that message clearly. While "pre-addressed" suggests that the envelope be addressed beforehand, it doesn't indicate to whom.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you have room for one more letter on the subject of people bringing children to restaurants. No one mentions "training" children at home so they will know how to behave in public.

We were always very proud of how our three sons conducted themselves in restaurants. Waitresses and customers used to stop by our table to say "what little gentlemen" the boys were.

I'll never forget the time we were in a restaurant waiting to be served when a couple came in with two boys about the ages of our children. They were seated across from us. The parents sat calmly smoking their cigarettes (permitted at the time) while their two sons literally took over the place! They raced around the room between tables, knocking over chairs, screaming and laughing — completely out of control. Then they went into both the men's and ladies' restrooms, locked all of the stall doors from the inside and crawled out from under the doors, so no one could use the facilities.

If parents don't want to take the time or trouble to teach their children how to behave in public, they should leave them home. If they can't afford a sitter, they should stay home with them.

MRS. F.E.K. FREDERIC, MICH.

Abby's favorite family recipes are included in her cookbooklet! Send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

AUSTIN (AP) — A Travis County grand jury declined to indict an Austin man who shot and killed a suspected burglar, drawing an angry response from the father of the dead man.

"How the hell can it be legal to shoot a man who's running from you in the back?" asked J.T. Shugart, father of Jeffrey Keith Shugart. "I just don't understand a law like that. There ought to be some kind of law against doing it."

Jeffrey Keith Shugart was shot to death early April 6 by Mark Szeneri, 32, who told police that his wife had seen someone in their car in the driveway of their home. Szeneri told officers he fired a shotgun at the man as the man ran away.

"He was basically a good kid. If that man would have known him, he never would have shot him," the elder Shugart said Wednesday following the grand jury meeting. "I don't think he did anything he deserved to die for."

A person is allowed by Texas law to use deadly force to protect property and to prevent burglary and other crimes during nighttime, or to prevent a criminal from fleeing with stolen property.

The grand jury declined to indict Szeneri after he testified before the grand jury for about an hour.

Szeneri declined comment, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

"He was questioned by the grand jury extensively," said Assistant District Attorney Terry Keel. "They heard all the evidence. It's over."

"The use of deadly force to protect property can only be justified in extremely narrow circumstances," Keel said. "If you use deadly force you will probably be in front of a grand jury. It will be closely scrutinized."

Oil contaminates source of water for Texas town

MILLSAP, Texas (AP) — Millsap residents will have to find alternate sources of water for as long as three months, the result of a crude oil spill into a lake that provides Millsap's water.

Workers Wednesday tried to mop up what one official estimated to be up to 100 barrels — 4,200 gallons — of oil from a leak discovered Tuesday in a pipeline on a hillside above the lake. Water service was not turned off for several hours after the oil spilled into the lake.

Heavy rains hampered the clean-up effort, and the black oil spread in a dark film over the surface of the 41-acre lake about 2½ miles east of the community.

The leak was reported Tuesday afternoon to Amoco Pipeline Co., the owner of the 8-inch pipeline, by the pilot of a small airplane who noticed the oil on the water as he flew over, said Parker County Emergency Management Coordinator Jo Schweikhard.

Amoco notified federal and state officials of the leak, but failed to call anyone with the Millsap Water Cooperative, an official who requested anonymity told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Arnold Garrett, an employee of the cooperative, said that he pumped water from the lake after 6 p.m. Tuesday because he didn't know of the leak. He said he learned of the problem at 7:45 p.m., but didn't cut off the water supply until 2 a.m.

Garrett said the water cooperative should have been notified sooner, but said he didn't see a problem with waiting before cutting off the supply to the co-op's 316 households.

"We didn't think it was that bad. They were already cleaning it up when I got here," Garrett said yesterday of the oil leak. After cutting off the water from the lake, which is on privately owned land, Garrett said he activated an agreement with Mineral Wells to take some of that nearby town's water through a 2-inch pipeline. But he said that could be a problem if the clean-up job takes several months.

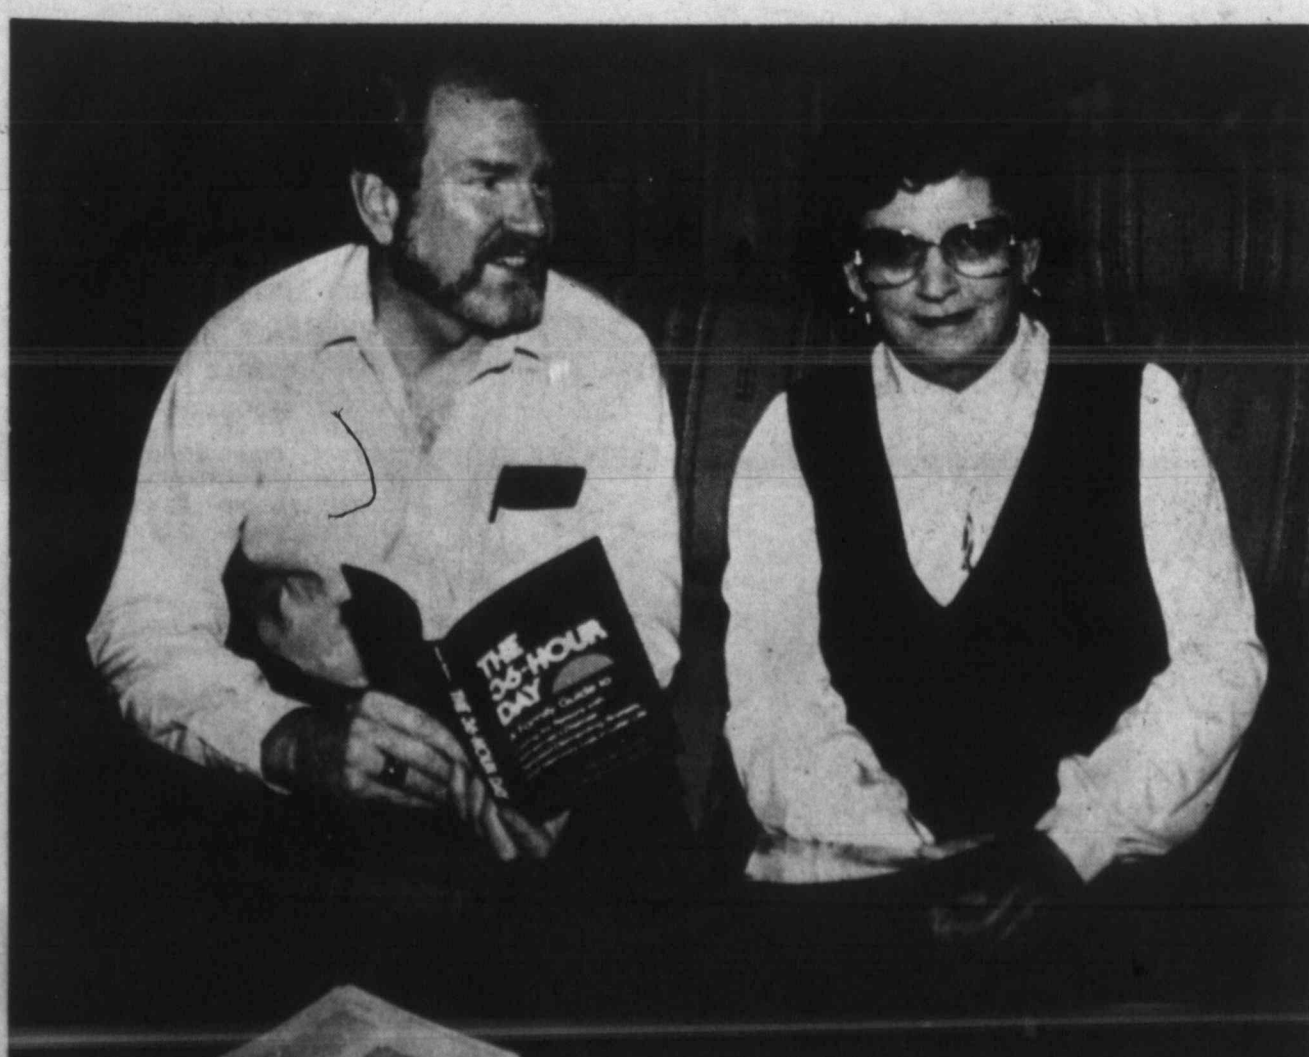

Police said several automobiles in the area where Szeneri lived were burglarized the morning of the shooting. Shugart had two screwdrivers and a pocketknife at the time he was shot.

Allan Williams, an Austin attorney who represented Szeneri, said, "It was a relief as far as we are concerned. We felt like what he did was within the law."

"It's been traumatic on him," Williams said. "I think he feels like things are never going to be the same, but I think it's a relief that this part is over."

Shugart was convicted of burglary of a vehicle and theft in 1985, and served about six months in prison before being paroled.

Police said several automobiles in the area where Szeneri lived were burglarized the morning of the shooting. Shugart had two screwdrivers and a pocketknife at the time he was shot.

Survivors hope show will help catch killers

LAS CRUCES (AP) — Police and relatives of victims of a bowling alley massacre said they were disappointed by the brevity of a television re-enactment but hope it leads to the capture of the two killers.

NBC's "Unsolved Mysteries" carried an account Wednesday night of the Feb. 10 robbery and shootings at Las Cruces Bowl. Killed were bowling alley mechanic Steve Teran, 26, his daughter, Valerie, 2; step-daughter Paula Holguin, 6; and Amy Houser, 13.

Stephanie Senac, 34, daughter of bowling alley owner Ron Senac, was wounded along with her daughter, Melissa, 12, and cook Ida Holguin, no relation to Paula Holguin.

Two men took $5,000 and shot all seven people in the back of the head. A reward of $30,000 has been offered for information leading to their capture. Both were described as Hispanic. One was 29 to 35 years old, the other middle-aged. Both spoke English plainly. The younger man had no Spanish accent. The elder had a slight accent. Composite drawings were shown.

"The mission was accomplished that the composites were saturated throughout the United States. We're receiving calls," said police Capt. Fred Rubio. He estimated the number of calls at between 40 and 50 from around the nation in the first half-hour following the show. The hotline is 1-800-876-5353.

Rubio, however, expressed concern that the show might not have the impact he had hoped for because the four-minute segment was so short. "We had so many victims in this case," explained David Rafter, an "Unsolved Mysteries" researcher. "To do a background on all of them would have been too long. The story speaks for itself."

Police Chief Ron Axtell said Wednesday that 312 potential suspects have been questioned by investigators since Feb. 10. He said the possibility of a drug connection and other motives have not been ruled out in the case, but he said there has been no evidence of such a connection other than the manner in which the victims were shot. Rubio said some of the suspects have had drug backgrounds, but they were singled out not because of their backgrounds but because they resembled the description of the killers.

Axtell has estimated the cost of the investigation in the six figures.
