Teachers voice disapproval as Clements set to veto bill

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Several teachers at the Texas State Teachers Association convention say Gov. Bill Clements has pushed the school system to the brink of insolvency. Many teachers attending the weekend convention here gave Republican Clements an "F" for his refusal to sign a $555 million school reform plan, based on a half-cent sales tax increase, which the Legislature approved last week. Clements has vowed to veto the bill today — one day before a court-ordered deadline to produce a more equitable school-finance system. TSTA President Ollie Besteiro said the governor's expected veto may force local school districts into a corner. If the $555 million reform plan — which includes $114 million in budget cuts — is axed, Ms. Besteiro said school systems will have to raise property taxes. "We're very upset at the governor," she said. "We think he is holding school districts and school children hostage to satisfy (see SCHOOL, page 8)

Unemployment dips to 4.8 percent for Scurry County

Unemployment in Scurry County plummeted sharply from February to March, according to the latest estimates provided by Texas Employment Commission. Unemployment in the county fell to 4.8 percent in March, down from 7.8 percent in February. The figure was also 4.8 for January. Statewide, unemployment was down from 7.0 percent to 5.7 percent. The national average for unemployment in March was 5.4 percent.

"With the numbers this good, it ought to feel better than it does," said TEC Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers, who was referring to the statewide unemployment rate that places the Texas jobless rate at the lowest level in over five years. "Although we are still higher than the national average, we are down from last month's rate of 7.0 percent and that's a relief," said Nabers. "One year ago the jobless rate was 6.8 percent and the last time Texas saw a rate this low was December of 1984. This leads us to believe that the economy is stronger but we are not confident that the average household is enjoying a higher standard of living." Bryan-College Station continued to be among the state's lowest in unemployment for metropolitan areas, noting 3.2 percent unemployment for March. Hardest hit areas include the McAllen-Edinburg-Mission area with a rate of 21.4 percent and Laredo with an 11.4 percent rate. Scurry County's rate for March was based on an estimated civilian labor force of 9,103 workers, of which 8,665 were (see EMPLOYMENT, page 8)

Daniel vocational program draws statewide attention

Price Daniel Unit's "cluster" vocational education program, to give inmates a crash course in a trade before they are paroled, has drawn statewide attention with an article in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice's "Newsletter" magazine. The March publication says, "The Price Daniel Unit in Snyder can boast of many firsts. It was the first 1,000-bed reintegration center to begin operation. In addition, the unit was the first to offer vocational courses using the 'cluster' concept." "We have vocational education at most of the units, but since some of the inmates at the Daniel Unit are so close to being out, the cluster gives them more diversification and a course they can complete in the shortest period of time," said TDCJ spokesman Charles Brown in a telephone interview from Huntsville. "They don't specialize in one particular thing but have some knowledge of a whole lot of things. If they have a marketable skill under their belt, their chances of getting employment are improved tremendously. If we didn't have it, it would take them a much longer time, and some of them wouldn't complete any of it." Assistant Warden Charlie (see DANIEL, page 8)

Court okays grant application; tables coliseum fee topic

Scurry County commissioners this morning gave approval for a grant application for criminal justice funds and postponed consideration for coliseum user fee increases.

Meeting in regular session, the court gave the green light for Sheriff Keith Collier to seek a $52,738 Community Service Work Program grant from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. The grant, if approved, would fund alternate sentencing to confinement in state prisons. Low-risk inmates could be sentenced to the county jail, and work during the day under sheriff's department supervision on public property.

The grant would pay for the salary of one deputy to supervise the work, and would also include the purchase of a van to transport the work crew. Collier said the only cost to the county would be meals served in the county jail. He said this cost would be minimized by not having to transport prisoners to Huntsville.

Collier said the application deadline is Tuesday, and his office has worked with the probation department, the district judge and the district attorney in preparing the application. Funds for the program were approved by the last legislature to help ease state prison over crowding. Commissioners postponed until (see COURT, page 8)

Hostage release imminent

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria's foreign minister said this morning that a U.S. hostage in Lebanon might be freed within hours. The minister, Farouk al-Sharaa, did not specifically name Frank Reed, the American educator that a Lebanese group said Sunday it would free within 48 hours.

"There is a high probability that an American hostage will be released during the next hours," al-Sharaa said in the Syrian capital after meeting U.S. Ambassador Edward Djerejian. He (see HOSTAGE, page 8)

In Brief

Cruise ship

PORT ISABEL, Texas (AP) — Operators of the cruise ship that brought casino gambling to Texas have been arrested after a four-month racketeering investigation into alleged violations of federal gambling statutes, according to the FBI.

Charges include illegal use of the mail to promote gambling, interstate transportation of gambling paraphernalia and operation of an illegal gambling business, the FBI reported.

Federal and state investigators on Saturday arrested three South Padre Island residents: Hal Templeton Fowlkes, 55, manager of Islander Cruises Ltd., which operates the Port Isabel-based gambling cruise ship Le Mistral II; and two other men involved in the ship's operations, Phillip Lance Newman, 40, and Steven Fox, 35.

They were scheduled to appear before a U.S. Magistrate in Brownsville this afternoon.

Each of the alleged violations of federal law carry a maximum prison sentence of 20 years and up to a $250,000 fine for each count. The statutes also allow for seizure of assets.

Port Isabel is a few miles north of the Mexican border.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter from "Tony's Wife," the waiter's spouse who complained about a party who came in near closing time and sat around for a very long time — giving no consideration whatsoever to the waiter. (This was a five-star restaurant.)

I am a business executive now, but I worked as a waiter for a long time, so I feel qualified to comment. No one walks into a five-star restaurant for a "quick bite"; at those prices, the customers usually linger for a long time.

Tony's wife said the check was presented long before the party was ready to leave — hoping they would take the hint. Abby, this is unacceptable in a fine restaurant.

Tony's wife also complained about the 12 percent tip, saying it should have been 20 percent. How can she make that judgment? That's the customer's decision. Besides, 12 percent is not a bad tip; I always considered 10 to 15 percent from a new customer to be normal.

When I dine in a fine restaurant, I don't concern myself with how long the waiter has been there, or the fact that he may have an early-morning class. I just want good service, and I tip accordingly.

As a waiter, I welcomed the late stragglers, even though I had to get up early for my day job. I would then pamper those diners as much as they would let me, which was easy to do after the crowd was gone. I wanted those customers to come back and ask for me to serve their table. That's how a good waiter earns big tips.

If Tony's attitude is the same as his wife's, he's probably in the wrong job.

BEEN ON BOTH SIDES OF THE TABLE

DEAR BEEN: I'm sure you were a fine waiter — and are undoubtedly and equally a fine businessman. Serving the public in any capacity is no piece of cake, but it's a valuable learning experience. Where else can one learn more about the value of patience, self-control and humility?

reunion committees are constantly searching for members of their graduation class with whom they have lost contact over the years. I have personally spent many hours making phone calls and writing letters in an effort to locate classmates and alert them to their class reunion.

Abby, if readers who have lost contact with their classmates would simply send a postcard or letter with their name, address and year of graduation to the high school from which they graduated, contact could be re-established.

Anybody who has experienced the joy of a high school reunion will understand why we continue the search. I assure you that many reunion committees will welcome your help in locating these former classmates.

Woman tries to leave prison life behind

DALLAS (AP) — Joyce Ann Brown's "living hell" began in Dallas County more than nine years ago when she was wrongly convicted of a fur store robbery.

Now, Mrs. Brown has found work in the same county where prosecutors convicted her of a crime she and others insist she didn't commit.

Mrs. Brown, 43, began working for Dallas County Commissioner John Wiley Price six weeks ago. Price, who has had his own legal run-ins with Dallas authorities, said Mrs. Brown needed a break.

He said he asked whether Mrs. Brown, who did clerical work before she went to prison, would be interested in similar work at his office. Mrs. Brown said yes.

"She's become an integral part of this staff," said Price. "She's mature and sensitive. She needed a break. Any time the system takes one day of your life — much less nine years — it's frightening. I am really suspect of this system, period."

Price was arrested in March for allegedly defacing a cigarette billboard targeted at blacks.

He was charged with criminal mischief over $400, but has vowed to keep fighting the ads, which he claimed were exploitive.

Authorities said the commissioner had led about two dozen people who whitewashed between 25 and 30 billboards, all of which contained advertising for alcohol or tobacco products. Price claims the ads victimize minorities.

Mrs. Brown said she can vividly recall her time in prison. But she said while she still gets angry at the system that kept her locked up until the state's highest appeals court set aside her conviction, she isn't bitter.

"Everybody in the county or in the district attorney's office didn't plot to send Joyce Brown to prison," Mrs. Brown told The Dallas Morning News. "I don't hold anything against the county as a whole. I needed a job. I've always respected Commissioner Price. So far, everyone has treated me politely."

In November, the court ruled that prosecutors had failed to tell defense attorneys that an inmate who testified against Mrs. Brown previously had been convicted of lying to a police officer.

At the time, District Attorney John Vance said that he still believed that Mrs. Brown was guilty and planned to retry her. But he reversed himself in February, saying that his office did not have enough evidence for a retrial. The charges were dismissed.

Mrs. Brown said her book about the experience is to be published this summer. She will leave her job with Price temporarily for a tour.

She said the work, titled "Joyce Ann Brown: Justice Denied" and co-written by Dallas author Jay Gaines, is for young people.

"I hope every young person in America will read it and realize that prison is not as glamorous as they make it on TV," she said. "It's not cool. It's a living hell. I was there, and I know."

Her experiences have been recounted on "60 Minutes," "Inside Edition" and in numerous newspaper and magazine stories.

During the robbery, the store owner was shot to death as his wife watched. Price said he had followed the story for years but had not met Mrs. Brown until two months ago.

Dr. Gott
 Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A friend of mine has a big, round "beer belly" he can't get rid of, even though he doesn't drink beer. I contend whiskey can be the culprit. He's 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. What's your opinion?

DEAR READER: Some people, when gaining weight, add inches to their abdomens, others to their buttocks and legs. The problem is not the source of the calories, but the calories themselves.

Alcohol is a rich source of "empty" (non-nutritional) calories. Most men and women who drink heavily and regularly gain weight, irrespective of whether the calories are contained in beer, wine or spirits.

In addition to supplying unwanted calories, alcohol inflames and enlarges the liver, conditions leading to cirrhosis.

Therefore, the drinker with an enlarged abdomen is dealing with a "double whammy": increased abdominal fat and a swollen liver. In the course of chronic alcohol abuse, protein deficiency may occur. This causes a loss of muscle mass (spindly arms and legs) and a protuberant abdomen that can be filled with fluid (ascites) due to malnutrition and diminished liver function.

Although your friend is not obese by customary standards, his prominent abdomen suggests that whiskey may be a source of excess calories. He would probably feel better — and look better, too — if he reduced or eliminated his consumption of alcohol.

To give you additional information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Weight Control Through Calorie Control." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please comment on the little-used procedure of injecting papiin enzyme to dissolve the gelatinous material in a ruptured disc?

DEAR READER: Papiin, an enzyme that dissolves protein, is a constituent of meat tenderizer. In the past few years, the technique of injecting sterilized papiin into herniated discs has gained favor. Its proponents claim that the enzyme dissolves the gelatinous part of the disc, which often presses against spinal nerves, causing leg pain.

Papiin injections unquestionably help some patients. However, the method is not consistently successful, so most orthopedic and neurological specialists discourage its use. Patients who have had papiin injections may eventually require surgery to repair or remove the discs — or they may experience repeated attacks of disc herniation, necessitating more traditional therapy.

Because papiin injections are not universally approved for disc disease, I usually advise my patients to try alternatives: rest, physical therapy and special, light back exercises. If this conservative approach fails, I refer disc patients to appropriate specialists for more aggressive treatment. In my opinion, papiin is still experimental. Until its complications have been worked out and it gains more acceptance, I advise against it.

Jackson-Wynn team up

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Michael Jackson is teaming up with gaming mogul Steve Wynn to design a mountain and water attraction behind the new $630 million Mirage Hotel, the casino owner says.

Wynn said Sunday that he and Jackson plan to build a mountain resembling Hawaii's Diamond Head peak between the hotel and Interstate 15 at a cost of up to $15 million.

The project will include two swimming pools, a dolphin lagoon, a water slide and plush villas reserved for the casino's high-rollers, Wynn said. It is scheduled to open in September.

Suspect in several rapes faces charges

DALLAS (AP) — Police say a man believed to be the "ski mask rapist" could face as many as 30 sexual assault charges in connection with attacks on North Dallas women since early 1985.

Officers said Gilbert H. Escobedo, a 38-year-old co-owner of an auto detail shop and a convicted burglar, has confessed to raping at least 30 women. They said Escobedo couldn't remember all the victims because there had been so many.

Police linked 17 cases to Escobedo, who confessed to committing those attacks as well as others, which may not have been reported to police, officers said.

The Dallas district attorney will decide how many charges should be filed against Escobedo, police said.

"We'll file them all if that's what the DA wants," said Dallas Deputy Police Chief Ray Hawkins. He said at least the 17 existing cases will be filed.

"We're in agreement on the 17," Hawkins said. "There are more, but it's not a situation where he's bragging. Quite frankly, it's a situation where we're not going to put more on him than we can be sure we can prove."

Escobedo was arrested Tuesday night while allegedly trying to break into a woman's apartment in north Dallas, police said.

"We believe the intent was to break in and rape her," Detective S.K. Hatchel said. "We think it was an attempted sexual assault."

Escobedo was being held Sunday at Law Sterrett Justice Center.

Police said Escobedo is a convicted burglar and has served time in Texas prisons off and on since 1972. Officers had previously questioned Escobedo as a suspect in the rapes and had been warning him, said Detective R.E. Rommel.

The ski mask rapist, so nicknamed because of his disguise, is a skilled burglar, police said. He broke into residences through doors or windows and usually threatened the women with a gun.

The attacks began in 1985, about the time Escobedo was released from prison, police said. The last attack attributed to the ski mask rapist was March 10.

Lucille Ball liked game shows

NEW YORK (AP) — Lucie Arnaz says her mother, Lucille Ball, kept her television on almost all the time but preferred game shows to situation comedies.

"I don't think she liked sitcoms very much in general after a while," Arnaz said in the May 7 issue of People magazine. "But she did like to watch 'Wheel of Fortune.' Every night. Whenever we were eating dinner it was always on. I guess that's a sitcom in itself."

Miss Ball died in April 1989. Arnaz is the host for Monday night's airing on CBS of the 34-minute pilot of "I Love Lucy," taped in March 1951 and never before seen on television.

"I thought maybe the pilot would make me cry or something, but I just laughed," she said.

Oprah wants stereotypes dispelled

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — feelings, being responsible for their children, caring about each other," the actress and talk show host said of the series that airs Tuesday on ABC.
 Miss Winfrey, a Nashville native, discussed the series at her Harpo Inc. studio last month. The series is based on the 1989 miniseries "The Women of Brewster Place," which was based on a novel by Gloria Naylor.

Greyhound to increase service...

Police investigate car fire

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Greyhound Lines, Inc. will increase its service Tuesday to more than four-fifths of its pre-strike service level, with an eye on the usually heavy summer schedule.
 But, in the meantime, Amarillo authorities are investigating the scorched remains of a car belonging to a non-union bus driver.

Amarillo Fire Department officials gave no details on the investigation Sunday. The car had been parked across from the Greyhound-Trailways Bus Lines terminal in downtown Amarillo.

Police responded to the 10:50 p.m. call Saturday and found a four-door station wagon with New Mexico plates that had its windows smashed and interior burned.

Striking Greyhound workers were near the car, but no one was arrested in connection with the incident. The Amalgamated Transit Union, Greyhound's drivers union, has been on strike since March 2.

Earlier Saturday, Greyhound announced a plan to expand its schedule by 15 percent over present service levels, as measured by mileage.

Union officials have said the bus company is ignoring the transportation needs of residents in rural areas. They contend the bus line is suffering because their former customers have not returned.

that is to make the wrong play in diamonds. The jack of diamonds should be led from dummy. It's too bad if East has a singleton king, but a subsequent trick will be given up to West, and declarer's king of hearts will be protected from attack. Here East will cover the jack with the king and South will win the ace, noting the fall of the nine from West. Declarer should then return to dummy and play another diamond. When East follows with the seven, declarer plays the eight-spot. If West wins the trick, the contract is safe. But there is a dividend for declarer's virtue — West shows out on the second diamond and declarer makes 10 tricks.

When wrong is right

By James Jacoby

Willy Nilly had been reading about card combinations. So he remembered that the right way to play the diamond suit in today's deal was to lead a low diamond from the dummy and put in the queen. Declarer could then bring in the suit without a loser whenever East held a singleton king. Poor Willy. He was able to remember a card combination, but he wasn't up to making an exception based on the dangers in the particular deal. So he won dummy's club ace and played a low diamond — seven, queen, and nine from West. When the ace then failed to drop the king, East had to gain the lead. The queen of hearts quickly brought the defenders four more tricks to set the contract.

Declarer does not need all five diamond tricks to make his contract. Four tricks are enough, provided he can take them without allowing East to gain the lead. The best way to do

Walls leaves Dallas and inks with N.Y.

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas veteran defensive back Everson Walls says he's leaving the Cowboys to go the land of opportunity — New York.

Walls, a 10-year veteran, announced on Sunday that he has signed a two-year deal worth more than $1 million with the Eastern Conference rival New York Giants.

The Cowboys left Walls, who has led the NFL in interceptions three times, unprotected under the league's Plan B program.

Walls said he would have liked to remain with the Cowboys but coach Jimmy Johnson and owner Jerry Jones wouldn't talk money to him.

"All they had to do was let me know there was a problem with my salary," Walls said. "As it worked out, it was much better I went to the Giants. I'll have a lot more opportunities after football, playing in New York."

Walls said he will play safety for the Giants, work into the nickel coverage on obvious passing situations, and also play cornerback.

"I'll be at the mini-camp on May 23rd," he said. "This is a great chance for me, a great shot. I'm excited about playing football for New York."

Agent Steve Weinberg said the financial package for Walls "was a very good deal for him. Better than what he had for the Cowboys."

The Giants lost starting free safety Terry Kinard to Houston in the Plan B free agency.

Walls, who had a falling out with Johnson during Dallas' disastrous 1-15 season, said he was unhappy with the way Johnson treated him.

"I was dumbfounded some of the things he said to me," Walls said. "He kept telling me I was the last one to practice. I told him what difference did it make if I was on time."

"He replied, 'You're not late, just last.' So, I started to get to practice on time and then the coaches started showing up late. I just thought he (Johnson) was needling me."

Walls said: "I got the feeling he wanted to stick a knife in me and twist it. I guess the season was wearing on him. Then he chewed me out coming off the field after the Phoenix game when I stopped to talk to somebody."

Walls said in another game he was made the goat for two touchdown passes on his side of the field "that were not my fault. But coach Johnson acted like it was."

Walls, taken by Dallas as a free agent out of Grambling in 1981, led the Cowboys in interceptions a club-record five times.

Cattor leads squad at Hardin-Simmons

ABILENE — Troy Cattor of Western Texas College won the all-around cowboy honor in leading the WTC rodeo team to another win in the Hardin-Simmons NIRA rodeo last weekend.

Cattor, from Nephi, Utah, scored 75 points, personally, and the team racked up a total of 310 to run away with the win and pad its first place position in the NIRA's Southwest Region.

Vernon Regional Junior College finished second with 200 points followed by Frank Phillips with 120 and Eastern New Mexico and Odessa College with 105 each.

The women from WTC got no points in the H-SU event while Howard's girls were taking first place with 230 points.

Odessa took second with 210 followed by VRJC's 102.5 and Texas Tech with 100.

Denny McLanahan scored first place points for Western Texas with his two-head 154 in bareback riding.

McLanahan, a Canadian talent, had twin 74s for his top tally.

Cattor, tossed off his short-go ride in the finals Saturday night as a bareback rider, snatched fourth place in saddle broncs with a 70 in the finals. He carried a 69 from the long-go to wind up with a 139.

WTC had three bull riders in the finals. McLanahan, with a 65, Darrin Cook with a 73 and Michael Gaffney's 80 put the trio into the Saturday night performance where all three were bucked off for "no-times".

his personal whims." Clements has few supporters among TSTA members, which endorsed Democratic gubernatorial nominee Ann Richards Friday.

But, said Austin teacher Andy Drewlinger, "Even though a tax increase is not going to be popular with most people ... I think it's very important we adopt this."

New Braunfels teacher Pat Gajewski said Clements is right, however, in saying more fat can be trimmed from existing budgets.

"I believe the money is there. They are playing games," said Marilyn Kolacek, also of New Braunfels. "There's fat in the state budget, there's fat in every local budget. There's ways to cut."

"I think a lot of people are forgetting it wasn't Clements that got us in this position. It was (former Gov.) Mark White," she added.

Asked to describe the best possible outcome of the funding fracas, Dickinson teacher Susan Wilcox said: "Clements could get kidnapped."

Last year, the Texas Supreme Court ruled the current $13.5 billion school finance system unconstitutional after it was protested by a group of property-poor school districts.

Justices threatened to cut off state education aid if action wasn't taken by Tuesday, and a number of lawmakers say failure to meet that deadline could close some schools.

However, few teachers said they believe the current stalemate will result in a school shutdown.

"School will remain open," said North Forest district teacher Jim Stevens. He said the teachers have initiated a letter-writing campaign urging legislators to override Clements' likely veto.

While the educators are urging the approval of the $555 million package, few believe the money would be sufficient.

"I don't ever think we'll have enough, but it's a step in the right direction," said La Marque teacher Paul Henry Bland.

Clear Creek district teacher Nancy Harvey said high school seniors are afraid they won't graduate on schedule if the schools close.

The teachers apparently are not concerned they will not be paid.

"Our superintendent has said we will be paid if he has to borrow the money," said North Forest teacher Judy Hoya.

And, said Austin teacher Doris Fresch, "I haven't been concerned about it, because we are under contract."

Wharton teacher Ethel Davis said the state already has dispatched paychecks to school districts for May, giving teachers a one-month cushion.

"I think the governor is definitely not thinking about teachers or students," said Wharton teacher Iris Maysback.

"It should never have come to this," said educator Mary F. Triplett of La Marque.

Hostage release expected

did not elaborate. The Iranian ambassador in Damascus, Mohammad Hassan Akhtiar, said after a meeting with al-Sharaa: "I expect a release during the next 24 hours."

In Washington today, the State Department said it has received word from the Syrian Foreign Ministry that another hostage will be freed in Lebanon.

The State Department hostage reception team "will probably be leaving sometime this morning" for Wiesbaden, West Germany, said a U.S. official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Iranian state radio, meanwhile, accused Washington of damaging efforts to free 17 Westerners held in Lebanon by not reciprocating to the April 22 release of American Robert Polhill after 39 months in captivity.

Earlier today, Hussein Musawi, a Shiite Moslem leader, raised doubts about statements by kidnappers Sunday promising to release Reed within 48 hours.

The group said Reed would carry a message for the Bush administration. It made no demands for his release.

Reed, 57, director of the Lebanese International School, was kidnapped Sept. 9, 1986, near Beirut airport.

Musawi, along with Syria and Iran, played a key role in Polhill's release. He said he had "not heard of this American hostage or the kidnap group" before Sunday.

"No Islamic organization loyal to Jerusalem and following Ayatollah Khomeini's line will hand the Americans a new gift after its support of the Jerusalem resolution," he said.

He referred to a non-binding resolution passed by the U.S. House of Representatives last Tuesday endorsing a united Jerusalem as the capital of Israel.

next Monday a proposal to raise user fees at the Scurry County Coliseum.

In other business, the court approved transfer of $1,952.87 from the contingency fund to the sheriff's department building maintenance fund to pay for new locks and door switches in the jail.

Precinct 2 Commissioner Tommy Pate asked auditor Linda Franklin to ensure that the department head is present to explain future transfer requests. Mrs. Franklin added that the contingency fund is limited, and that the fund must be used conservatively for the remainder of the year.

Commissioners also approved the quarterly county treasurer's report and noted that interest earned during the first quarter was down some $35,000 due to the rollback election.

During payment of bills, Precinct 4 Commissioner Ted Billingsley questioned a $3,210 bill for a court-appointed attorney from Colorado City. County Judge Bobby Goodwin also asked if there is any reason for the increased utilization of out-of-county, court-appointed attorneys. Mrs. Franklin said she would try to get that information for the court.

Attending the meeting were Goodwin, Pate, Billingsley and Commissioners Duaine Davis and C.D. Gray Jr.

Hubble Telescope still troubled by antenna

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Discovery's astronauts say, the Hubble Space Telescope they left behind in orbit 380 miles above Earth will revolutionize beliefs about creation as it searches the heavens for new worlds.

The space shuttle swooped out of orbit Sunday morning and landed with new brakes on a concrete runway at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. The five crew members returned home to Houston that afternoon.

After having today off, the astronauts will report back to work at the Johnson Space Center to begin a week of briefings about their five-day mission.

On Sunday, they expressed satisfaction in successfully deploying the $1.5 billion telescope, even though controllers have continued to struggle with one high-gain antenna.

"We had a spectacular mission — an incredible opportunity to be a part of what I think will be one of the most historic events the space shuttle program has ever figured in," mission specialist Kathryn Sullivan said.

"That telescope we think will revolutionize the way people look at the universe and astronomy from here on," added Commander Loren Shriver.

After the shuttle landed, controllers at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., continued the months-long process of checking out systems on the 12½-ton telescope.

They also were figuring out how to fix one of its two high-gain antennas, which right now can't point in all the directions it should.

"Our hope is that we'll be fully operational within a week," said deputy project manager Jean Olivier. "The first pictures, I still feel, are approximately a week away."

Scientific data will follow in a month or two.

If engineers cannot fix the problem completely, it would somewhat limit the information the telescope can send back to Earth, Olivier said.

Candidates still sparring over finances

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sheffield Nelson released a financial statement and documents showing his dealings with friend Jerry Jones, and urged the media to get his Republican gubernatorial rival to disclose his own financial statement.

The documents — which also included tax returns from 1978 through 1988 — were released Sunday at a news conference. Also released was a letter from the accounting firm of Rasco Burris & Winter saying that an extension until August had been obtained on filing Nelson's 1989 return.

Nelson urged the media to lean on his Republican gubernatorial opponent, Rep. Tommy Robinson, R-Ark., to release his own financial statement, showing how much he owes and to whom.

But Robinson, who has already released tax returns from the same period, said it's Nelson who's still hiding some of his finances.

Nelson noted a suit filed by a Chicago savings and loan against Robinson over a $75,000 loan. The loan, made in 1985, is in default.

Discovery pilot Charles Bolden said it may take time but the results will be worth the wait.

"The hard part for (the telescope) is now in progress. You won't see anything in a week, you won't see anything in a month that's worth while. But over the next few months, the next few years, you're going to see some absolutely amazing things, I think," Bolden said.

"My personal belief is that it will create more questions than we ever dreamed," he said.

Choking back tears, Bolden praised the work of about 300 NASA workers who had gathered at Houston's Ellington Field for the shuttle return Sunday afternoon.

Shriver guided the shuttle to a 6:49 a.m. PDT touchdown after a slackening of 40 mph winds that had threatened to delay the landing. About 20,000 people gathered at the Mojave Desert base to cheer their return.

The other crew members are mission specialists Bruce McCandless and Steve Hawley.

It was the first time a shuttle used new carbon brakes similar to those on passenger jetliners. The new brakes, believed to last longer and slow shuttles more quickly, are a stepping stone toward NASA's plans to eventually land shuttles at Florida's Kennedy Space Center.

William Lenoir, NASA's associate administrator for space flight, said Sunday the brakes worked very well.

Discovery blasted into orbit Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., after being delayed for two weeks by a faulty hydraulic power unit on the orbiter.

A day later, the crew deployed the 12½-ton telescope, which had been waiting to take its place in space since 1983. It had been delayed by technical problems and the 1986 Challenger accident.

Hubble's lens was uncovered in space for the first time Friday, but that action and the movement of one of the two-high speed antennas moved the telescope too much and an automatic system shut down the electronics. It took more than a day to restore them.

Discovery had been in orbit 380 miles up, 70 miles higher than any shuttle has ever flown. The orbit was dictated by the need to put the telescope above Earth's distorting atmosphere.

Astronomers hope to use the telescope to look back to almost the beginning of the time.

Pat Gray offers expert collision repair

"We try to put ourselves in the customer's place," says Pat Gray, owner of Pat Gray Body Works. "When your car has been in a collision, you're just thinking about one thing: get it fixed. Get it fixed as quickly as possible and get it fixed right."

That's why Pat Gray Body Works has invested in state-of-the-art equipment for every step of your job from computerized estimates through high tech collision repairs systems to the final factory-perfect finish.

"And we provide written guarantees on our work," says Gray.

While the customer waits, Pat Gray prepares computer-generated estimates "that are speedier and much more accurate than hand-written estimates." The computer scans the latest catalogues of OEM (Original Equipment Manufacturer) parts, then computes time and labor costs for specific repairs, producing quick, accurate estimates. Insurance companies will act on these estimates, says Gray, moving your job forward quickly.

Collision repairs at Pat Gray's start with the Kansas Jack Magna Rack III, a revolutionary system for unibody cars that literally reverses the collision action by pulling it out the way it went in and then squares and aligns each section of the car. With its advanced gauging and analysis system, the machine can achieve repair results that are correct within one of two millimeters.

The next step is the Hunter computerized four-wheel alignment system. This impressive machine features a rack equipped with four sensors, one for each wheel so they can be adjusted individually. The machine operator is given precise analysis through computer-screen readouts. The ultimate in precision, the Hunter relates all four wheels to a common centerline to insure precise alignment and a perfectly centered steering wheel.

The final step is repainting. Pat Gray Body Works is the only body shop in the area equipped with the Blowtherm Ultra Spraybooth Oven, which is described as "the finest automobile refinishing machine made." Gray stocks factory tinting formulas but custom mixes the paints as needed to achieve any variances caused by sun and other factors, thus matching any car's finish perfectly.

Written warranties are provided for all repairs: Lifetime Warranty on workmanship and five years on paint jobs. The shop backs new parts warranties from the manufacturer.

Pat Gray Body Works, located at 700 N. Benton in Big Spring, offers free wrecker service on collision repair jobs in the area, including service to Snyder, Lamesa, Colorado City and Sweetwater. Phone (915) 263-0852 or 263-2374.
