Using advance registrations and reservations for Saturday night's barbecue supper as a yardstick, Homecoming officials expect a record attendance at this year's event. If weather conditions are favorable.

Although Paint Creek is one of the area's small rural high schools, it has a background linked with the pioneer development of Haskell County. The present district includes through consolidation some of the first schools established in the county, and the present-day Paint Kimbrough scored two TDs and carried 15 times for 63 yards gain. Thigpen, while scoring but one TD and a 2-point conversion on a pass reception, was the game's leading rusher, picking up 145 yards in 17 carries.

Haskell's first TD in the second quarter, came after the Indians took over on their own 25 and drove 75 yards in 14 plays, with Kimbrough powering over from the one. Try for extra point failed.

Fires Are Failures

Every hour 66 American homes are destroyed or damaged by fire.

Every hour and one quarter, one person—most frequently a child or elderly person—dies in a dwelling fire.

These figures, from National Fire Protection Association research, are the measure of our failure to heed fire hazards, and the measurable result of our failure to correct them.

The causes of most home fires are no mystery. A carelessly discarded cigarette is left to smolder in an overstuffed chair, electrical circuits are overloaded and overfused, uncleared rubbish becomes a breeding place for fire.

There is nothing mysterious about the causes of most fire deaths in homes. They occur when the simple rules of safety from fire are violated—from smoking in bed, leaving children alone in the house, allowing youngsters to play with matches.

A critical failure is being unprepared for fire emergencies in the home—no family planning of escape routes, no periodic family fire drill to make sure that both adults and children can act quickly and without panic.

Fires represent failures.

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13, is a time to recognize this fact, and to act—to correct hazards, to exercise care, to be prepared.

The Bible Builds Bridges—Not Walls

Every day we read of the importance of commerce and industry in our lives. Our system of free enterprise produces more than enough to take care of our needs in all respects, and to help supply deficiencies in other countries. By way of contrast, the "planning" in the communist sphere is not good enough to even furnish its people with sufficient food.

The blessings of a government of, by, and for, the people are many. Not the least is freedom of worship, guaranteed in our Constitution.

The 22nd annual observance of National Bible Week takes place Oct. 15-21, sponsored by the Laymen's National Committee, Inc., an all-faiths organization. This year's theme for the Week is as timely as it is significant: "The Bible Builds Bridges—Not Walls." The eternal goal of the people of this nation must be to keep building the bridges, and to see that the walls that destroy freedoms—religious, economic, political—can never be erected.

Principal Irene Stewart of the Sagerton School system will be recognized as the only woman football coach in Texas, and possibly the nation, in an article which will appear soon in the magazine section of The Dallas Times-Herald.

A Grand Jury session on the order of those "old timers" talk about was the four-day meeting of the investigating body last week, a check of court records shows.

Between 55 and 60 witnesses appeared before the Grand Jury, and 30 indictments were returned, a record number for recent years.

A number of the matters investigated by the Grand Jury involved Latins, and they were much in evidence in the courthouse Monday and Tuesday. A Latin summoned as a witness by the Grand Jury would be accompanied by his entire family, including aunts and uncles, and possibly several friends and neighbors, it seemed.

Youngsters had a ball chasing each other through the courthouse corridors and up and down the stairs. Then they would take time out trying out the water fountain whether thirsty or not.

The throngs flocking in and out the courthouse caused County Clerk Bill Reeves to remark: "I have always had the impression that when the Grand Jury met, a lot of people left town. Now it seems they all come to town."

Sunday was another big day at the courthouse, when children and grown-ups marched through the hallway during the afternoon taking their Sab-in polio vaccine.

Jaycees and Haskell physicians, along with a corps of volunteer workers, had everything set up by noon. The program was scheduled to get underway at 2 p. m., and at that time a line of men, women and children three and four abreast had formed at the east door and extending to the sidewalk curb. A steady stream of this size continued for more than an hour before lessening.

County Clerk Reeves remarks about people leaving town when the Grand Jury met in the fact that the church was thriving and growing in membership. Also, the Haskell minister was in demand as an evangelist in neighboring towns.

As Mayor, he headed an active administration and many improvements were carried out, at least to the extent that city finances would allow, tax collections being rather slow due to the hard times. He also served as judge of the City Corporation Court.

In addition to being an active minister and mayor of the city, Thurman also owned and operated a bakery here which required all the time he could spare to it.

His multitude of duties sometimes created a "jam" for "Preacher" Thurman, as he was popularly known, but somehow he managed to take care of them and always came out smiling.

We recall one such occasion when "Preacher" almost had more than he could do.

His bakery had an order for several thousand loaves of bread for a picnic in a neighboring town the following day, and "Preacher" and the whole crew at the bakery were working like bees.

Then came a call from the City Hall. A sewing machine salesman had been brought in by City Marshal Sebo Britton, charged with selling without having paid an occupation tax. He wanted an immediate hearing before the Mayor.

"Preacher" Thurman took off his bakery apron and cap, and headed for the City Hall to assume his judicial role. An hour later he had settled the case and collected a $25 fine for the city.

Back at the bakery he was getting into high gear again when a young couple came in and interrupted him.

They had a marriage license and wanted him to perform the ceremony. Asked if they wanted to go to the church for the rites, the couple expressed no preference just so they were married by a minister.

The wedding was held there in the bakery, with workers halting their work long enough to witness the rites and wish the young couple well.

Then "Preacher" went back to work, and the out-of-town bread order went out on schedule.

The City Marshal at the time, Sebo Britton, also worked part time at the bakery, making deliveries of bread and bakery products early each morning throughout the business section.

The deliveries were made a-foot. Britton hoisting a large box of bread and other products on his shoulder, to make the delivery to each store. Then back to the bakery for another load. He would start about 5 a. m. and finish around 7 a. m. He covered the entire business section in this manner each morning, delivering to all stores within a distance of one or two blocks of the square.

Britton, a strapping man 6 foot or better and weighing more than 200 pounds, always trotted or ran in making his deliveries. He was an amateur boxer and this was one of his methods to keep in shape, he told friends.

During the daytime, he patrolled the business section and school zone as traffic officer, also afoot.

Britton had a simple solution for the double parking problem, which existed then as now. Tickets were not given for the first offense, but Britton simply put his shoulder to the car and pushed it by main strength to a parking place, sometimes half a block away.

Peter Chandor, who can be described as one of Haskell's most distinguished citizens, and a man who has made many firm friends during his residence here, plans to return to England soon. There, he will devote his principal time to writing.

Haskell friends know Mr. Chandor as a man with a keen interest in state and national politics as well as world affairs. He is forthright in expressing his views, and he has the respect and confidence of all, including those who disagree with him. As an illustration, at a County Democratic Convention two years ago, his address opposing a proposed resolution was roundly cheered, although his stand failed to gain the vote of delegates. Personally, we regret to see our friend Chandor leave Haskell. We know he has many other friends who feel the same.

The world's deepest oil well, in Pecos County, Texas, reaches 25,240 feet below the earth's surface. Nickel alloy steel drill pipe was used to reach that depth.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cain, 1107 South Avenue E., observed their 50th wedding anniversary with a catered luncheon and open house at the American Legion Hall on Sunday, Sept. 23rd.

The couple's six children were hosts for the celebration which was attended by approximately one hundred relatives and friends.

The children, all of whom were present for the occasion, are: Mrs. W. R. Sellers, Wichita Falls; Roy L. Cain, Jacksboro; Mrs. W. B. Field, Albany, N. Y.; Mrs. W. E. Wiseman, Hobbs, N. M.; Mrs. E. G. Brown, Pasadena, Texas; and Mrs. D. D. Johnson, Elvasville, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Cain chose to repeat the wedding vows in a candlelight ceremony officiated by Rev. W. C. Kimbler, pastor of the South Side Baptist Chapel. Mrs. Kimbler, wife of the minister, played the traditional wedding march.

For the nuptial vows, Mrs. Cain selected a royal blue wool crepe suit with matching accessories, and carried a white Bible topped with a nosegay of white carnations nestled in a bed of antique lace and 59 stems of lily of the valley with white streamers tied in traditional love knots. The nosegay was made and presented to her by a granddaughter, Mrs. J. E. Adcock. Mrs. W. R. Sellers, eldest of the children, attended her mother as matron of honor.

Roy L. Cain, only son of the couple, served his father as best man. Charles Brown and Tony Carl Richey, both grandsons of the couple, were candelighters.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple was honored with an open house.

Miss Teresa Cain registered guests at a small table covered with a satin cloth, overlaid with gold net and featured a single gold candle and the honorees nosegay placed on an open gold Bible.

Other assistants were Miss Betty Ann Richey and Miss Amelia Cain, granddaughters of the couple and were appropriately attired in gold and white and each wore a corsage of bronze pom chrysanthemums.

The refreshment table was covered with a draped gold net cloth over gold satin and centered with an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums flanked by brass candelabra holding gold colored candles and featuring an open Bible anniversary cake. Wedding mints were served from an antique gold heirloom dish which has been passed to three generations.

Railroad Warns Against Hunting Along Tracks

With the approach of the hunting season, a reminder that railroads must prohibit trespassing on their property in the interest of safety is issued by R. W. Brewer, chief special agent for the Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company. Pointing out that hunting and fishing licenses do not convey the privilege of trespassing, Mr. Brewer said the ban is strictly enforced by all railroads in order to protect sportsmen and the public generally, and to prevent damage to railroad facilities from careless use of firearms. Firing at game near telegraph, telephone and signal installations frequently results in gun shot damage to these facilities and could precipitate a major disaster on a busy rail system, since interruptions of signals and communications jeopardize the safety of train crews and passengers, Mr. Brewer stated. He also warned that trespassers run the risk of being trapped on treaties or caught between rails and ties in the path of high-speed trains. For these reasons, he noted, it is important that the growing number of hunters and fishermen be cautioned that they are expected to observe the "no trespassing" signs along the railroads' right-of-way.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere gratitude for every kindness shown in our time of sorrow in the death of our daughter and sister, Mrs. Ora Mae Blackwell. The food, flowers, kind deeds, and the kind words spoken are deeply appreciated. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lankford and family. 40p

Local Cancer Society Will Take Resources Survey of County

By Chapter Reporter

The Haskell County Chapter of the American Cancer Society is planning a survey of the county to locate all available equipment and services needed in case of sickness or accident.

This information will be given in printed form to every church, physician, civic organization and humanitarian agencies. The information will be of the greatest value to any organization when in need of the items or services.

Equipment and items to be inventoried in the survey will include the following: Patient lifter, bedside commode, crutches, canes, oxygen sets, bed rails, hospital beds, wheel chairs over-bed tables, invalid walker, traction equipment, folding bed rests, patient restrainer, whirlpool bath.

Many times when families have lengthy illnesses they need outside help badly. It's only after we have been through these times ourselves that we can fully appreciate how much it helps to have someone come over and get the washing, or do the ironing or clean the house.

Some patients have no way of getting to the doctor or maybe need to go out of town for treatment not available here. Then there is the need for someone to sit with the patient, or tend the children for a few hours, perhaps during a crisis when the parents are so badly needed at the bedside or a loved one, or during a funeral.

If you would be willing to offer your services, even once a year, for any of these services, please give your name to the local Cancer Chapter and designate which service you would like to render.

The A. S. C. dressings room is open Thursday afternoons from 2 until 5 p. m. Please come by and tell us about any of the items listed earlier in this article you would loan or which service you would render. In Haskell you can call Mrs. Lee Brown at 864-3273, in Rochester Mr. and Mrs. Felix Mullino; in Rule, Jim Norman; in Sagerton, Irene Stewart; and in Weinert, Wanda Vojkufka or Mrs. Pete Rich.

Please make your contacts before Oct. 15 as all information will go in for printing on that date.

Mail Collection Box Flattened By Hot-Rodder

The Post Office mail collection box located on the corner in front of Sherman's Floors & Interiors, at the intersection of North 1st St. and Avenue E, became a casualty of a fast-wheeling motorist Saturday night.

A car, reportedly driven by a teen-age hot rodder, bounced up the high curb and clipped the concrete post on which the box was mounted. A metal strap by which the box was attached to the post was also broken.

Postmaster Spain estimated the damage, based on replacing the post and box, would be between $30 and $40. Postmaster Spain told the damage paid. No charges filed in connection with the incident.

From A Pastor's Study

By DOUGLAS B. FINCH

Pastor, First Presbyterian Church Haskell, Texas

Recently I read the opinion of a news columnist who was convinced that a dislike and contempt of women prompts a certain type of man to become a dress designer. Much of women's fashions, this writer said, seem almost a conspiracy against their femininity, a way of humiliating them and making them pay "through the nose" for the experience.

It does seem evident that what passes for "style" is often a ruthless and purposeful exploitation of women. Many designers seem to express their repugnance for the female shape. Dresses like the famous "sack" dress of recent popularity made of women simply "animated wire hangers."

The question I am pursuing here is not one of women's styles. The question is concerned with what motivates certain men and women to follow certain paths in life. Sometimes because of love—but sometimes for less worthy motives.

An intern in a hospital some years ago almost flunked his oral exams. One of the standard questions the board asked was, "Why did you decide to become a doctor?" He knew that the official answer has something to do with "service toward humanity" or something of the sort, but he decided to be perfectly candid and honest, and replied: "Because I'm short, and I want people to look up to me."

Needless to say, his examination was a close thing. The examiners were puzzled, hurt and shocked—and the intern squeaked by only after reassuring them that his motives included loftier ones as well.

The fact is that there are hidden or submerged psychological factors involved in the choice of a profession or vocation. The desire to play God is more prominent than we realize.

Once a drama critic for a large newspaper confessed that he had a destructive turn of mind and enjoyed sitting in judgment upon people.

Even preachers need to check their motives from time to time (and I say "even" preachers because we allow them a rather choice and unquestioned place in society sometimes). We are often more in need of "revivals" than our people are.

Oftentimes our manner of preaching indicates that we use the pulpit to vent our wrath rather than to proclaim God's Word. Too often our ministry is one of condemnation (or... almost as bad... indoctrination into narrow denominational notions) rather than proclamation. We are more occupied with the wrath of God than the love of God. Gentleness and sweetness are unknown quantities in many of our churches. A "good sermon" for many of our deluded people has become one in which the preacher yells the loudest, talks the fastest, and sweats the most (the fact is that we yell the loudest when we have the least to say). We indicate that we often have "spastic tongues," by saying what we "do not mean." This means that our tongues are not in accord with our minds, and we are handling God's Word carelessly.

The same is true of our laymen. It seems that many people who bear the name of Christ on their lips use "religion" as a sort of weapon to lash out at people... often viciously. Whether found in ministers or laymen, it is a psychological phenomenon called a "negative personality" which does not reflect the Spirit of Christ.

Too many of us have an analytical and destructive turn of mind, and enjoy playing judge, jury and executioner to the human race.

Most of us will agree with the old saying that "beauty is in the eye of the beholder." Few people will admit that ugliness is too!

Eagles played their first ball game last Friday afternoon, and were defeated by a score of 27-6 by Mattson.

The first meeting of the Sagerton 4-H Club was held Wednesday, Sept. 26, and the following officers were elected: president, Dora Macias; vice-president, Yvonne Ross; reporter, Linda Perez; secretary-treasurer, Frances Perez; council delegates, Irene Elias and Vicki Teichelmann. The next meeting will be October 24.

Mr. and Mrs. August Angerman spent last weekend in Waco visiting with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Frels of Dryum and Mrs. Minnie Koch and her mother of Lueders were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Koch Jr. Saturday.

Mrs. William Knippling, mother of Mrs. F. A. Stegemoeller and A. C. Knippling, who has been in the hospital, has returned home, and is doing nicely.

Mrs. C. E. Stegemoeller has her foot in a cast after she broke one of the small bones in her foot recently. She is doing fine.

Prattle

By AL HINDS

I don't believe brunettes have any sweeter dispositions than blonds. The wife has been both and I can't see any difference.

Don't suppose the weaker sex is often the stronger sex, because of the weakness of the stronger sex for the weaker sex.

Column writing is kinda like fishing. Once you get the hook wet it's mighty hard to quit. Which reminds me of the old saying... "Old gardeners never die—they just spade away."

Today's youths ambition: Junior has ambitious views, he wants to fill his father's shoes; but Mary wants to do much better; she wants to fill her mother's sweater.

Food for Thought: Consider the turtle... he doesn't make any progress until he sticks his neck out.

Some of the letters newspapers receive are about as hard to read as a doctor's prescription written with a postoffice pen in the back seat of a second-hand car.

Every era has its cowboy movie stars, but back when I was a "pup" the cowboy could ride hard and shoot straight, seldom ever got to kiss his gal, he would rather kiss his horse... and could not get a lick... that was in the time of such stars as William S. Hart, Hoot Gibson, Harry Carey, Buck Jones, Ken Maynard, Yakima Canutt, Tom Mix, etc. Yep! those cowpokes had it kinda rough... going through several reels of chasing down the 'baduns' while the old player piano beat out its rhythmic tune.

Today's cowboy movie and TV stars dress "fit-to-kill," and if they can't out-shoot the villain... they can sing him to death.

It was a great day back when I was a lad to come out of the cotton patch at noon on Saturday... get all slicked-up and head for the movie-house. There wasn't any cinemascope, technicolor, dynamation, etc... back in those days, but "movie fans could count on getting their money's worth. For a dime I could see a Western featuring my favorite cowboy star, at least two comedies, a serial... and back in those days of no radios or TV's... what more could a lad ask than to spend a whole Saturday afternoon down at the "Movie House."

Of course the "movie fan" in those days would have to overlook the fact that Hoot Gibson could slug it out with the villain for several "reels," and never lose his hat. Pearl White could fall off a 100-foot cliff, and never smudge her pretty face, ruffle her pretty dress, or lose her hat. But always it was good, clean entertainment. The "good-uns" always managed to win... even at times when it seemed impossible to do so.

Scientists are doing wonders these days... who knows maybe someday they will cross a chicken with a Centipede... then everybody can have a drum stick.

With tall Texas Tales... It's definitely hard to get a Texan's goat. But figures don't lie and according to information this scribe received while reading a farm paper... is that Texas is a prolific producer... but a poor consumer of goat meat, as well as mutton.

The Missus, along with brother-in-law, Jetty Clare, framed me... and I do mean framed! One day a number of years ago they slipped a glass of goat's milk on the table with my lunch... I drank the milk and thought it was good. Of course I did not know that I was drinking goat's milk, or I would have rebelled.

And on another occasion I remarked I would not touch goat meat, with a ten-foot pole... then I was invited to a big ranch-style barbecue down in Coryell County... was served a very delicious barbecue dinner, and more than ate my fill. Then later on in the day I found I had partaken of chevon. So, the old saying goes, and evidently holds true... that what you don't know won't hurt you.

Some people never forget a favor if it's done for you. For Ladies Only: The latest thing on reducing exercises—After one month a lady reported she took three inches off the waistline and two inches off the bust and hips by just sweeping.

Every era has its cowboy movie stars, but back when I was a "pup" the cowboy could ride hard and shoot straight, seldom ever got to kiss his gal, he would rather kiss his horse... and could not get a lick... that was in the time of such stars as William S. Hart, Hoot Gibson, Harry Carey, Buck Jones, Ken Maynard, Yakima Canutt, Tom Mix, etc. Yep! those cowpokes had it kinda rough... going through several reels of chasing down the 'baduns' while the old player piano beat out its rhythmic tune.

Choir of First Baptist Begins Christmas Music

The Christmas Cantata for this year at the First Baptist Church is "Canticles of Christmas," written by Dr. T. W. Dean of Southwestern Seminary of Fort Worth.

The Church Choir began rehearsing on it last Wednesday evening, and church leaders feel it will prove to be an enjoyable experience, both in rehearsing and presenting. This cantata will incorporate the use of the First Baptist Junior Choir and will be presented Sunday morning, Dec. 16.

The Church Choir presently has around 45 members, and rehearses every Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

A cantata is a vocal work of music with instrumental accompaniment, consisting of solos, choruses, duets, etc. A sacred cantata has Biblical words.

Indian B Team Whips Albany, 36 to 6

Behind the running of full-back Gary Conner, the Haskell B team whipped the Albany B, 36-6, down in the Lions' den, at Albany Thursday night, Sept. 27. After playing to a scoreless first quarter, the Indians marked first with Quarterback Ronnie Jeter around his own left end from 12 yards out. Jeter passed to fullback Conner for the two points.

Showing great defensive power, the Indians held Albany to only two first downs in the first half.

Just before the half ended, Jeter again scored from five yards out. On the try for point after touchdown, Jeter faded to pass, found himself trapped, picked up some fine blocking from the Indian line and carried over himself for the two points. Score at the half, Haskell 16, Albany 0.

Albany came right back after the half to score, the try for point failed. When Albany kicked off, the Indians caught fire. For James Perkins took the ball on his own 35 and raced 65 yards for the TD. Tailback Eddie Hester ran the extra point. Score at the end of the third quarter, 24-6 Haskell.

During the fourth quarter, Fullback Gary Conner was quite a work horse, carrying the ball eight straight times and finally driving over from the three. Try for point failed.

With two minutes left to go, quarterback Jeter started around his own right end but when he was hit he flipped the ball to Conner who raced 70 yards down the side line to pay dirt. That was the ball game, with Haskell 36, Albany 6.

The B team is now 3-0 for the year. This week the B team is open but will resume play on Oct. 11, meeting Knox City at Haskell.

Last Rites for Guy Collins, 62, Held Thursday

Final rites for Guy Collins, 62, retired Haskell businessman, were held Thursday, Sept. 27 at 3:00 p. m. in the Church of Christ, with Rogers Durham, minister of the First Christian Church, officiating.

Burial was in Willow Cemetery under direction of Holden Funeral Home.

A resident here since 1935, Mr. Collins was a member of the I. O. O. F. and Masonic lodges and the First Christian Church.

New "Heritage" Gas Range Has Many Features

The new Caloric "Heritage" line of Gold Star gas ranges is equipped with the most modern, easy to use automatic control system ever devised to keep food at serving temperature until mealtime.

An exclusive feature of Caloric's control system is its automatic meat probe (thermometer). With the new meat probe the cook never has to guess at any pre-arranged time setting. Simply set the dial to the degree of doneness desired and insert the meat probe into the center of the roast. When the interior temperature of the meat reaches the specified level, the roast is done. The oven then automatically switches to "Keep-Warm" temperature.

Another Caloric quality extra is the new "Keep-Warm" oven system. This new system, the ultimate in fully-automatic cooking, operates equally well with time settings or internal temperature settings. As soon as the food is cooked to your specifications, the oven automatically switches to "Keep-Warm" and holds the food at serving temperature.

The Caloric line of ranges is now available at Lone Star Gas Company.

Damp Weather Is Slowing Cotton Harvest in Area

Damp weather continues to slow the harvest of cotton in the area serviced by the USDA Cotton Classing Office at Munday, Texas, according to A. D. Peebles, acting chairman.

Sample receipts for the week were 3,752 as compared to 3,476 last week. On this date last season the office had classed 22,604 samples with 8,670 being the total for this season.

Micronaire readings improved this week to give 80 percent reading 3.5 and higher.

Grades improved over last week on cotton harvested during dry weather, SLM LT Spots made up 44 percent of the weeks classing and LM LT Spots accounted for 25 percent.

Market activity is slow with SLM LT Spot 1 inch bringing around 39.35 cents and LM LT Spot 1 inch around 29.00 cents per pound.

Largest olive importer and packer in Ohio is located at Vermillion.

BURSTING WITH NEWS... '63 MERCURY

NEWS-MAKING ROOF FROM MONTEREY. The advantages of Monterey's distinctive styling go far beyond its beauty. This is elegance that works. See how the recessed rear window slants inward? It stays clearer in rain or snow. On hot days, it opens for breezeway ventilation. The overhanging roof shades rear-seat passengers the sun, gives more headroom, keeps glare off the rear window for better visibility. More good news: a Mercury Marauder 390 V-8 is Monterey's standard engine.

SPARKLING NEW MODELS FROM METEOR. For 1963, Meteor is the hot brand. Meteor is the sparkler with a whole new line of models in the low-price field—sleek new low-to-the-road hardtops, sedans, and three new station wagons. Feel sporty? Try the racy Meteor S-33 hardtop, with individually adjustable bucket seats and a console. For brilliant performance to match Meteor's sparkle, a new Lightning V-8 is available in every model. And you save on upkeep with Mercury service-savers.

THE LID'S OFF COMET. Now a jaunty new convertible joins Comet's all fun line. This sleek, rakish beauty comes in two models: the Custom and the dashing S-22, with bucket seats and optional stick shift. All Comets now have a complete package of service-savers like self-adjusting brakes. And Comet still heads its class with the best trunk, longest wheelbase, and best resale value record. See Comet's whole '63 line-up: convertibles, sedans, station wagons. Fun-test your favorite Comet.

Resident Recalls Many of Earlyday Weinert

John E. Robertson, was in the general merchandise business there in Haskell on the west side of the square, with his father, S. L. Robertson. My father took me with him in our buggy to Weinert at the time mentioned above. He was going to the new town prospecting for a location to go into business for himself.

We drove north out of Haskell and at old Ballew School went into a pasture gate and continued through mesquite pasture to within a mile of Weinert. We stayed overnight at the new hotel. We had a front corner upstairs room. The hotel out in the rear had a barn and lot to accommodate patrons' saddle horses and teams.

This hotel had a varied and active history. Among the various operators were the May-fields and Butch Myers. It was popular with traveling men, prospectors and local boarders. It had for many years a family style dining room. The food was of the meat, potatoes and biscuit variety—it was substantial and more than adequate in quantity.

But the hotel finally came to an unglamorous end. Good roads and cars carried the traveling salesmen back to their homes, and the prospectors became a thing of the past as the country grew and all land was "taken up."

There is one sidelight on the history of the hotel in later years when it was unoccupied—I bought two vendor's lien notes secured by the property.

I could find no purchaser so I offered to take anything of value in trade. As a result I made a trade with Pete Rich. I gave him the notes for a slightly used Hudson Super-Six automobile. My recollection is that Pete demolished the old building in the mid-20's for the salvage.

By way of addition to the businesses mentioned, Weinert had two barber shops, a meat market and ice house, a grain and feed elevator, a two-story lodge building, a hardware store, two lumber yards. Bob mentioned the two drug stores—one was owned by Dr. E. E. Cockerell, the other by Dr. De la Costa Nolen. Nolen was a brother of Dick Nolen who you mention occasionally in PP&T. Dr. Nolen for years held the time record for buggy travel from Haskell to Weinert. He had fine horses, cars and buggies.

Also, in the early days of Weinert there were three dry goods and grocery stores. The D. Jeff Jones store, the store operated by two brothers on the first floor of the lodge building, and the one owned by my father.

The hardware store was owned by Mr. Rickelman. Earnest "Butch" Myers ran the meat market and later the hotel.

My father's first store was of "box" construction, and was located across the street from the hotel. He occupied this location for three years, and during this time added a "lean-to" type room and organized and established the Weinert State Bank. He later sold the bank to G. R. Couch and associates. One of his sons, Alvy Couch, ran this bank for many years.

In 1910 my father built the first brick building in Weinert. It was a double type structure, with a grocery store on one side and dry goods on the other—with an arch doorway at either end. He was a successful merchant and a real pioneer. He always had a warm spot in his heart for his old Weinert friends, most of whom like him, have passed on to their eternal reward. In fact, the ranks of my generation are thinning rapidly.

I could write on and on about Weinert, but am afraid I have taken too much space already.

Retail Merchants Assn. Adds 1,000 Names to Files

The Retail Merchants Association of Haskell has recently added 1,000 new names to its records, giving it a total of approximately 20,000 persons in the Haskell trade area whose credit rating is on file.

The list includes residents of Haskell, Knox and Stonewall Counties, and new credit information is added daily through contacts with merchants and business establishments in the three counties.

Also, court records are checked every three months in order to keep tab on property transfers, mortgages, court cases, and other transactions affecting credit.

The local credit association is associated with the Associated Credit Bureau of Texas and the national association which operates in 50 states.

Herbert Ray is manager of the local RMA, and the association now has 24 local members and two out-of-town clients. Members are entitled to oral or written reports and collection aid. Ray explained.

Water is still the recommended agent for moistening and cleaning the spindles of mechanical cotton pickers, says B. G. Reeves, extension cotton ginning and mechanization specialist.

Terrace Systems Constructed on Several Farms

Constructing of terrace systems on small grain lands has come into full swing the past few weeks with several systems being established. In several respects, this is the best time of the year to construct terraces. Fall and winter rains aid in conditioning the soil in and around the terrace so that a spring crop can be grown the following year.

Clay Smith and Ben Charlie Chapman, cooperating with the California Creek Soil Conservation District, have completed a terrace system on all cultivated land on their farm three miles west of Haskell. This farm had not previously been terraced or contour farmed which resulted in severe damage. Soil and water losses will be reduced to a minimum now that they have terraced the cropland.

Burnell Gilliland, who is also cooperating with the California Creek Soil Conservation District, has recently completed the layout and construction of a terrace system on his farm eight miles east of Haskell. Gilliland constructed the terraces with a whirl-wind type terracer and farm tractor.

Cliff Berry of Haskell recently received assistance from the Soil Conservation Service technicians at Haskell in the developing of a Basic Conservation Plan on his farm. His plan included the construction of a pit-type pond to provide permanent livestock water, and to facilitate the management of grasslands. This pond has already been constructed. Technical assistance is available to all landowners and operators in developing farm and ranch conservation plans, and in carrying these plans out.

1963 Plymouth Has Look To Match Go

One of 26 new models which Plymouth introduces in the low-priced field for 1963 is the Sport Fury 2-door hardtop above. All Plymouth models have an appealing new styling with a wider, longer look to match the car's famous get-up-and-go performance. Fully unitized bodies are made even better this year by additional corrosion protection, seats are more comfortable and durable, and surer starting at low temperatures is assured by an improved starter.

There are four series, Savoy, Belvedere, Fury and Sport Fury. The engine line-up includes the 225 cu. in. inclined Six, the 318 cu. in. Fury V-800, both standard power plants and both retaining their celebrated economy features; a new 361 cu. in. power pack engine, and a high-performance 383 cu. in. Golden Commando V-8 engine. All 1963 Plymouths will carry a new warranty for five years or 50,000 miles on major power train components.

Planned conservation is applied to their farms in the California Creek Soil Conservation District.

Milton Christian, cooperating with the Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation District recently constructed a pit-type pond for livestock water on the Bertha Simmons farm north of Haskell.

Jack Chapman of Mattson has recently completed terracing two fields on his farm and one on his brother Willie's farm south of where Jack lives. All of Jack's fields but two have now been terraced.

Howard Reding and A. H. "Johnny" Becker of Haskell, George Mullino of Rochester and L. L. Carroll of Weinert have recently developed basic conservation plans on their farms in the Wichita-Brazos District.

A. A. Stiewert, Lewis Thomas and Tom Roberson (the A. W. Cox farm) of Haskell, L. F. Hooker of Abilene, and Doyle Norman of Rule, have recently developed basic conservation plans on their farms in the California Creek Soil Conservation District.

One day or ten, whatever time is needed to get results. Want Ads keep working.

Peat can be used to make paper, though it is less economical than pulp wood.

One of the most outstanding programs in the 11-year history of the Texas Farm and Ranch Credit School, scheduled for Nov. 26-28, at Texas A&M College, is rapidly taking shape, reports Dr. Tyrus R. Tim, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology. Early registrations are recommended.

While waiting for help, mo-their cars or nearby in a safe position off the traveled road-

State Fair Auto Show First of "Big Three"

The Automobile Show at the 1962 State Fair of Texas in Dallas, October 6 through 21, is the first of the nation's automotive shows at which all manufacturers will officially show off their 1963 models.

Introduction of all makes in time for the State Fair of Texas show has been the goal of manufacturers, who class the Dallas show as one of the nation's top three events.

This statement comes from the manager of the show, Jas.
N. Whitehurst, who is general manager of the sponsoring Authorized New Car Dealers of Dallas.

"This State Fair show is 46 years old. The event at the Fair draws more than two million people, a larger attendance than at any other auto show in the nation.

"For this reason it draws industry participation as great as that given the nation's two other automotive shows, those at Detroit and Chicago," says Whitehurst.

The 46th annual Southwestern Automotive Exposition, official name of the State Fair Automobile Show, will feature under one roof some $5 million worth of exhibits, plus free entertainment for fairgoers.

COOPERATION

Two donkeys, so the story goes,
Were tethered each to each,
When lo, they neared two cocks of hay
That seemed within their reach.

Each sought his own, the rope grew taut,
As tho each would apply
His utmost strength to take his share,
Or know the reason why.

They pulled, and scraped and pawed and
Kicked, As tho indeed insane,
But not by such fool stunts could they
One merest bite obtain.

Till, wearied, turning face to face,
They talked the matter o'er,
And mutually agreed that they
Would thus behave no more.

At peace, they soon one cock devoured,
Then ate the other, too;
How good their joint refreshment seemed
None but these donkeys knew.

Ye humans, crude and stubborn-willed,
Respect the common tether;
Be wise, confer, agree, co-work,
And take your joys together.

better citizens.

What is a DAY of my time in comparison to the suffering it will ease —the GOOD I can do for others—I will not know the difference in a week—Those I help will!

Youthful Mishap Victim Sets Fine Example In Fighting for Recovery

(The following story recently appeared in The Snyder Daily News concerning "Yogi" Gilleland, former HHS student and nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Phelps.)

As the little cannibal said when he had trouble digesting the missionary — "You just can't keep a good man down." And so it is with Ronald Eugene Gilleland, better known to his friends and acquaintances as "Yogi."

Tragedy came into the life of 16-year-old Gilleland six weeks ago, but he has taken it all in stride and with a cheerfulness that would put most of us who are "in the pink of health" to shame. A member of the Colt All-Star team which was traveling to Lovington, N. M., on July 30 to play in the sectional series, he was seriously injured in a car-truck accident that day, and was hospitalized at Cogdell Memorial Hospital, paralyzed from the waist down.

Since then he has made of himself a "model patient," and carries a built-in smile that flashes freely. As an example his hospital stay has been so exemplary that during his stay there he has never been known to ring the convenient buzzer located at his bed which summons a nurse for special help. He is not letting his involuntary confinement interfere with his studies, either. He is classified as a junior in Roby High School, and his father, Gene Gilleland, brings his books and lessons to him daily from his home town so that he may keep abreast of them.

Yogi is also a little prank prone, as are the nurses and "candy stripe girls" who attend him and visit with him, so that it's nothing unusual for them to play harmless tricks on each other during the course of the day.

With a constitution such as his, the chances would seem excellent for him to return to the ball diamond at a future date. Right now, though, he's helping to brighten the Cogdell Hospital interior.

$1,015 Budget Program OK'd For Christmas

A budget of $1,015 has been approved to cover cost of Haskell's annual Christmas Program, and members of the Planning Committee will be calling on local merchants in the next few days for their support in financing the program.

The Christmas Program will open in Haskell Saturday, Dec. 8. A Children's Pet Parade will be held at 4 p. m. and Santa Claus will fly into Haskell in a helicopter with candy for all the children. Bands will play and there will be other features.

The popular Merchants Christmas Festival again will be held with two big drawings for $200 in cash.

Winter pastures can provide the green forage needed by livestock and it is time to plant them, says Ted Trew, extension pasture specialist. He suggests a visit with the local county agent for information on the best adapted varieties and the proper soil preparation and treatment. A soil test is a logical beginning, reminds Trew.

There are about 2,500 pounds of nickel in the four engines of a typical modern jetliner.

Bargain hunters check the Want Ads. If you have something to offer let them know with a result-getting ad.

Yogi Gilleland, though unable to be "up and around" at present, endeared himself to the entire staff at Cogdell Hospital in Snyder, where he was hospitalized following a car-truck accident. Mrs. Ivan Bookout of the Hospital Auxiliary is pictured with him, and the guitar on which he practices daily is partly shown. The youth, a former student in Haskell schools, is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Phelps of Haskell. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gilleland of Roby, former residents of Haskell. Today—Wide-Track Pontiac '63

Obvious, isn't it, that Pontiac's come up with another beauty this year. Freak over-and-under headlights, clean profile—but you can see that. There's a wider Wide-Track, too, and a full line of Trophy V-6's. [That ought to be enough to make these other cars turn green.] And we haven't mentioned such happy touches as self-adjusting brakes. So what, gray tall, could be keeping you from a new Pontiac of your own? A small suggestion. Pull down to see one. Gallop! Wide-Track

Use of Enzymes Began Early In Man's History

By F. W. Martin, County Agent

(Part 1 of 2 parts)

For centuries, man has made use of enzymes in everyday life. Dating back to ancient Egypt, there is evidence that enzymes were involved in the making of a primitive type of beer. During the period dating from ancient Egypt up to the 17th century, man made use of enzyme reactions in the preparation of bread, cheese and wine, the tanning of leather, the preparation of textiles and numerous other uses.

At the present time, the use of enzymes has expanded greatly. It is estimated that approximately $10,000,000 are spent annually in the United States on enzymes for food, pharmaceutical and various industrial applications. Although a great amount of dependence had been placed on enzymes for hundreds of years, there was no real understanding as to what agent was involved in any of these miraculous transformations until the 17th century.

The earliest work which eventually led to the recognition of enzymes, was mainly concerned with digestion and fermentation. For example, Van Helmont in the early part of the 17th century, suggested that digestion was not a simple mechanical process but that instead it involved a chemical transformation of food by "ferments." The use of this word was evolved from the similarity of digestive action and that of wine fermentation.

More than a century later, Reamur in 1752, developed a unique method to show that food could be digested by chemical alteration. He took advantage of the fact that birds of prey regurgitate articles of food they cannot digest,

He filled perforated metal tubes with food fed them to these birds and examined the condition of the food after the tubes had been ejected. He concluded that stomach juices had the power to solubilize certain foods. Ten years later, Spallanzani confirmed Reamur's work on birds and extended it to other kinds of animals including man. In recent years, the housewife has made use of papain, a protein-digesting enzyme which aids in tenderizing poorer cuts of meat. Further research has shown that the injection of certain protein-digesting enzymes into the blood stream of beef cattle prior to slaughter, will produce meat which is more juicy and tender.

By the beginning of the 19th century, scientific chemistry had advanced to the point where new developments came rapidly. In 1812, Kirchoff found that starch could be changed to a simple sugar, glucose, by dilute acids. Two years later, Kirchoff also found that an extract of wheat would produce the same conversion. In 1833, Payen and Persoz made what may be considered the first clear recognition of an enzyme. They found that an alcohol precipitate obtained from malt abstract contained a heat sensitive substance which converted starch into sugar. This substance was called diastase, taken from the Greek word meaning separate, because of its power to separate soluble dextrin from insoluble starch. These finds have been put into modern usage in various industries. For example, the candy industry has found that corn starch is effectively converted into a sweet, sugary syrup by means of certain enzymes.

Urban or Rural, Homeowners Have Stake in Soil Conservation

By J. C. YEARY, JR., Soil Conservation Service

No matter where you live, in town or in the country, if you have a home with its own yard, you are a "land user" in your own right.

As such, you are responsible for the care of your tract of land, whether your own, lease or rent it. You have the opportunity and the need to practice soil and water conservation.

The first essential is to realize how dependent you are on the land. Your home's foundation rests on it, your shade and fruit trees are rooted in the soil as are your garden vegetables, flowers and lawn grasses. The stability of your buildings and the success of your plantings, therefore, depend on the nature of your particular piece of land. The behavior of run-off water from rain and snow is governed by the type of soil and the slope of its surface.

You can lose your good top soil by erosion as well as the farmer can. Your flower beds may be cut to pieces by the discharge from the roof gutter, or by concentrated run-off from the adjoining lot. Your soil and water problems are not confined to your lot, but are only part of those of the surrounding landscape.

City dwellers sometimes forget how much they owe to the land, but they are doubly indebted to it. Not only is it the foundation and the scene of their habitation, but the source of all their foodstuffs, clothing and shelter.

Active attention to the care of your own plot of ground, no matter how small, may help to refresh your partnership with the nation's farmers and ranchers as stewards of the land.

Time nor space will not permit detailed information concerning the care of your soil, nor the solving of your soil and water problems. The Soil Conservation Service has trained technicians to assist landowners and operators in developing plans and installing measures to conserve soil and water. Many publications are now available for home study.

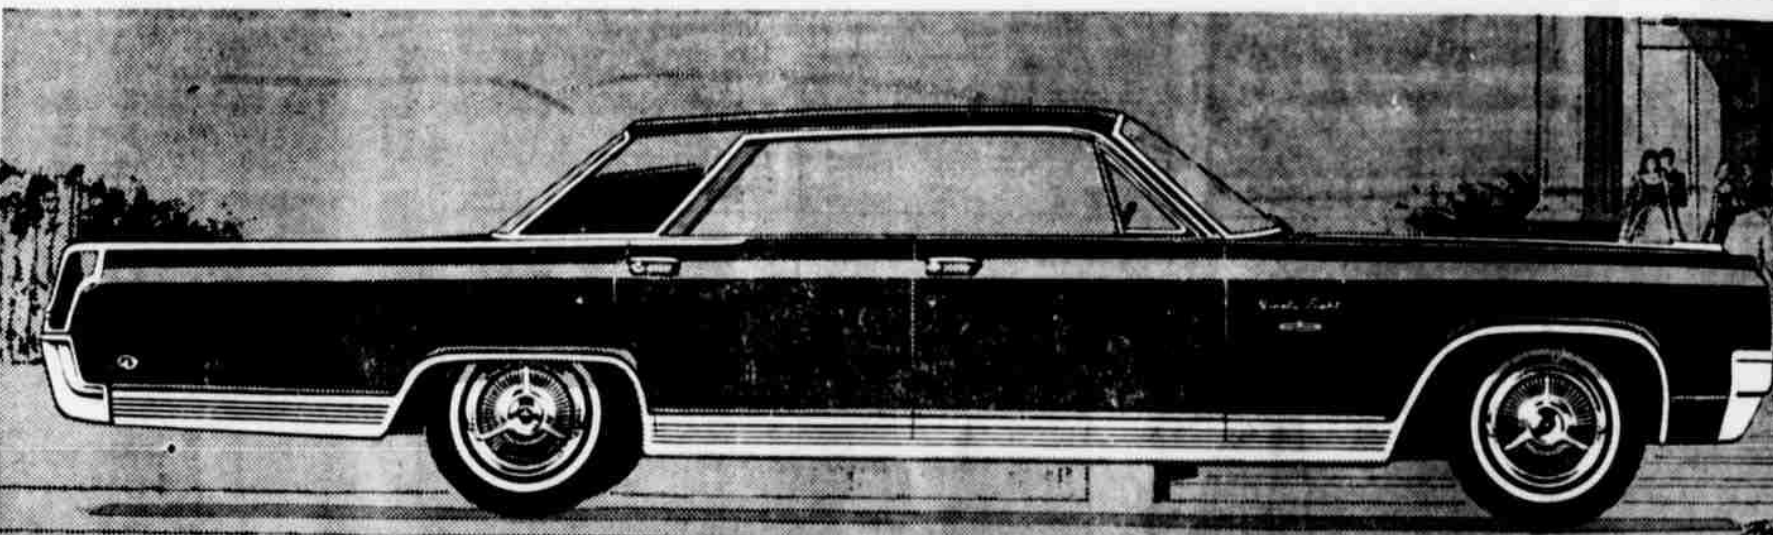

Crop Residues Protect Against Wind Erosion

Make use of crop residues and stop wind erosion before it starts, stated Hinds McGowan Jr., of the Soil Conservation Service. The proper management of crop residues is a necessary part of conservation farming. Wind erosion season will soon be here. Farmers should be taking steps to be prepared for it. Crop residues such as grain sorghum should be left on the surface of the soil from now until about April 1.

Recent rains have once again proven the value of crop residues left on top of cropland. The moisture holding capacity is greater than that of bare ground, and the rate the soil takes up water is higher. The breakdown of crop residues helps maintain a good supply of organic matter in the soil and thus increases the ability of air movement in the soil and reduces surface crusting. All of which increases chances of getting a good stand of seed.

Cecil Pittman, J. L. Cameron and O. L. Crouch of Haskell and Doyle Norman of Rule plan to manage crop residue on top of the soil until about April 1.

If we are to preserve our land for future generations, "then for the land's sake and our children's, let's keep it covered."
