

Council calls election for sales tax to fund economic development

Snyder city council Monday night unanimously called an Aug. 11 election for a half-cent sales tax to fund economic development.

Meeting in its regular monthly session, the council approved the city-wide election on first reading and will consider the election on second reading on June 4.

Roy Baze, a member of the chamber's economic development committee, said he represented the chamber, EDC, industrial foundation, BCD and financial institutions in requesting that the city allow voters to decide on an additional half-cent economic development tax.

"Snyder's hope chest is empty," Baze said. "We have no site, no building and no money." He noted that eight cities — including Abilene, Amarillo and Brownfield — have already approved the tax. Baze said the fund is necessary if Snyder hopes to remain competitive with other cities in the state.

Last Saturday the issue was on the ballot of 39 other cities, and eight of 10 in West Texas approved the tax. The issue was defeated by one vote in Lamesa and more soundly defeated in Levelland. Area cities which passed the tax were Sweetwater, Big Spring, Brownwood, Early, Coleman, Rotan, Stamford and Breckenridge.

If approved by Snyder voters, the half-cent is expected to yield $380,000 which can be used only for industrial development.

Mayor Troy Williamson said he had explored the possibility of using one-quarter for economic development and one-quarter for reduction of ad valorem taxes, but that option does not currently exist in state law.

Councilman Ralph Williamson, in making the motion to call the election, said he had determined it is now time to establish a systematic and long-term program of funding future economic development projects.

If approved by city voters in August, the tax would become effective Jan. 1 with the first money to be received in March, Baze said. Upon approval, the council would be required to appoint a five-member board to oversee the non-profit corporation.

Favorable TEAMS results reviewed by school board

Snyder public schools board of trustees heard a favorable report on results of TEAMS testing for the district, reviewed a plan for an additional component to the accelerated math and language arts program at Snyder Junior High School and discussed a proposal for eighth grade cheerleaders during an afternoon workshop Monday.

The board also made note of agenda items for its upcoming monthly meeting, set for 5:30 p.m. Thursday. Trustees will meet in executive session from 5:30 until 7 p.m. to discuss percentage of SISD students showing mastery of the tests was above state average in almost every area.

Among the most extreme gains (see TEAMS, page 8)

sonnel and sealed bids. The regular meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and will include the administering of oaths of office to three newly-elected board members — two of whom are incumbents.

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Tom Scannicchio and Director of Curriculum Janice Brown reviewed results of Texas Educational Assessment of Minimal Skills (TEAMS) tests taken earlier this school year by students in the third, fifth, seventh and ninth grades.

Test results indicated that the dicted for involuntary manslaughter in the death of Kelly Ann Bloom of Snyder, the driver of a pickup truck that was struck broadside by a gravel truck operated by Burns.

The district attorney's office had filed involuntary manslaughter charges against Burns on April 27, and he has been held in Scurry County jail on a $25,000 bond.

Burns was also indicted for aggravated assault as a result of the accident for the injury to Mrs. Bloom's three-year-old son, Tanner, a passenger in the pickup truck. The indictment accuses Burns of using a deadly weapon, a motor vehicle, to cause serious injury.

Robert Lee Traylor, 40, of 3801 Muriel Dr., was indicted on two counts of criminal mischief. Traylor is charged with causing damage to a rent house owned by John Fenton by driving into it with a vehicle. The incident occurred on April 9.

The second indictment is for driving the same vehicle into an automobile owned by Lida Rhoades on the same date.

Two Snyder residents, Andres Gutierrez, 30, and his wife, Maribel Gutierrez, 28, were included in the accident for the injury to Mrs. Bloom's three-year-old son, Tanner, a passenger in the pickup truck. The indictment accuses Burns of using a deadly weapon, a motor vehicle, to cause serious injury.

City oks water line repair bid

A bid for water line improvements along 37th Street was approved Monday night during the May meeting of the Snyder city council.

A bid totaling $76,793 was awarded to Rhode Construction of Lubbock for replacement of the water line from College Ave. to Austin Ave. along 37th Street.

City Engineer Don Osborn said the work likely would begin in early June and be completed by late summer.

In other business, the council also approved a request for funding assistance for the AJRA Rodeo, considered three zone change requests and amended two ordinances dealing with charges for waste disposal.

One ordinance sets sanitation rates for the disposal of waste dirt, concrete, rock, bricks and other construction material.

The ordinance calls for a charge of $8 per ton when net weight can be determined or $10.80 per cubic yard, assuming a unit weight of 100 pounds per cubic foot or whichever is greater.

Sample charges would be $64.80 for a 6-cubic yard dump truck, $129.60 for a 12-cubic yard truck and $4 for a pickup or 8x8-foot trailer.

The second ordinance deals with the disposal of water associated with underground storage tanks, and the ordinance sets a rate of $2 per thousand gallons or a $6.90 per month minimum fee. Persons wishing to dispose of hydrocarbons would be required to purchase a $35 permit.

The council also okayed $7,200 request from the Snyder chamber to help fund the annual AJRA National Rodeo Finals. The request included $2,000 for scholarships. The request was identical to last year, and all funds would come from the city's hotel-motel tax fund.

Two of the zone change requests, from R-2 to R-3, were approved. (see CITY, page 8)

Anxiety 4th sale brings in $115,700

The National Anxiety 4th "Spring Fling Female Sale" held Monday in the coliseum annex was the best yet, grossing $115,780, according to the association president.

"This is the best sale we have had so far," said Leland Wallace, president of National Anxiety 4th Hereford Association. The association has been holding sales for 43 years and has been in Scurry County since 1976.

National Anxiety 4th sales are held twice each year. The annual bull sale is held in February. The female sale is held in May.

The sales attract buyers from across the United States.

The highest price paid for a pair was $2,500, consigned by Pied Piper Farms of Hamlin. The cow, "RCR Ms L1 Mark 180G," and her calf were sold to Brad Pendleton of Edgewood. The calf (see ANXIETY, page 8)

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's easy to admire the wisdom and good judgment of those who come to us for advice."

After putting a half dozen new balls into the lake, a Snyder fellow was asked why he didn't use an old ball while playing WTC's No. 5.

"I've never had an old ball."

C&W singer Willie Nelson has the right idea about the game of golf and has made up his own rules:

—A ball hitting a tree shall be deemed not to have hit the tree. Hitting a tree is bad luck and has no place in a scientific game. The player should estimate the distance the ball would have traveled and play the ball from that point, preferably from atop a firm tuft of grass.

—There shall be no such thing as a lost ball. The missing ball is somewhere on or near the course and will be eventually found and pocketed. It thus becomes a stolen ball. You should not compound the felony by charging yourself a penalty stroke.

—If a putt passes over the hole without dropping, it is deemed to have dropped. The law of gravity holds that any object attempting to maintain a position in the atmosphere without support must drop. The law of gravity supercedes the law of golf.

—Same thing goes for a ball that stops at the brink of the hole and hangs there, defying gravity. You cannot defy the law.

—Same thing for a ball that rims the cup. A ball should not go sideways. It violates the law of physics.

—A putt that stops close enough to the cup to inspire such comments as "you could blow it in" may be blown in. This rule does not apply if the ball is more than three inches from the cup.

After all, golf is a game of skill—and for gentlemen.

Q—Will there be any special "alcohol free" parties or events this year for high school graduation?

A—Yes, parents and students are currently planning such activities for the night of graduation, June 1.

Jurors sentence man to death for murder

DALLAS (AP) — Jurors who sentenced Genaro Ruiz Camacho to death by injection in a Pleasant Grove man's execution-style slaying were told by a judge that the case was akin to that of Charles Manson.

The jury deliberated a little more than six hours Monday before sentencing Camacho in the death of David Wilburn, who unwittingly walked into a house where Camacho was preparing to kidnap a woman and her 3-year-old son.

After the sentence, State District Judge Ron Chapman told jurors that the trial featured "the most grotesque and bizarre set of facts ever heard in a courtroom in this nation since the Charles Manson killings in California."

Chapman also said that he has presided over six capital murder cases and "every single one of them has had a common denominator, and that's been drug abuse.

"Every (capital murder) defendant has committed his crime while high on drugs," Chapman told the six-man, six-woman jury. Several jurors had cried as the judge delivered the punishment.

Camacho, 35, showed little emotion and made the sign of the cross as he was escorted from the courtroom by sheriff's deputies. He was convicted April 26 of capital murder in Wilburn's 1988 slaying.

Police said the 25-year-old Wilburn was shot once in the back of the head after he entered a house where Camacho was preparing to kidnap 31-year-old Evelyn Banks and her son, Andre, in May 1988.

Jurors in the two-week trial also heard testimony that Camacho killed a Dallas topless dancer and a South Texas man, and ordered the deaths of Ms. Banks and her son.

Assistant District Attorney Hugh Lucas, during closing arguments in the trial's punishment phase Monday, showed enlarged photographs of all five victims, both as they appeared alive and after death.

Photos included that of the remains of dancer Pamela Miller, 23, whose body had been fed through a tree mulcher after she was beaten to death.

Last week, an accomplice and witness told the jury that Camacho ordered the woman's body dismembered and fed through the tree mulcher in a field outside Stephenville after he became angry about a failed drug deal.

But Julius Whittier, a defense attorney, urged jurors not to let the photographs anger them into assessing the death penalty. He said most evidence against Camacho was questionable testimony from former accomplices.

Whittier also reminded jurors of earlier testimony from a former parole board member who said Camacho probably would be in his 60s before he became eligible for parole if he were sentenced to life in prison.

But Lucas, pointing at Camacho from just a few feet away, told the jury that Camacho deserved no leniency.

Bill would make lab break-ins fed crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas Tech researcher whose lab was destroyed by animal rights activists says he favors legislation in Congress that would make it a federal crime to steal animals from farms or universities.

"We're back working at great cost," said Dr. John Orem, a physiologist whose study of infant sleep disorders was disrupted for nearly 10 months by vandalism and theft of research animals.

An underground group called the Animal Liberation Front took credit for the theft of five research cats and $70,000 in vandalism to Orem's lab last July 4.

A bill by Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, would make breaking into facilities such as Orem's a federal crime punishable by up to three years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

"The entire biomedical research effort in the United States is under constant pressure from these groups," Stenholm said Monday.

"Local law enforcement agencies were confronted with a terrorist act. The perpetrators were members of a national, if not international group. To counter these requires involvement of agencies that are national in scope," Orem said.

"The extremists you've got to fight. The only way you fight extremists is on their battleground," Stenholm said.

But a leader of the nation's largest animal rights organization said Stenholm's bill and others pending in Congress on the issue are "inflammatory."

Ingrid Newkirk, national director of People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, urged lawmakers instead to create an adequate way to review allegations of animal abuse.

"What really is needed for everybody's sake is some oversight system," Ms. Newkirk said.

Though not included in his bill, Stenholm said he favors creation of a panel that would investigate such allegations and give protection to the whistleblowers who make them. He said he planned to discuss such a panel with officials from the Humane Society.

Another animal research bill, which may be debated with Stenholm's in a House Agriculture subcommittee next week, would give legal standing to persons who want to file lawsuits on behalf of animals covered by the Animal Welfare Act.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., would penalize the theft of research animals, except those taken "temporarily, for the purpose of documenting that violations of Federal regulations ... have occurred."

Stenholm said he thinks his bill has a better chance for passage.

"I doubt there's going to be a majority of members of the House who are going to give animals legal standing," he said.

But Ms. Newkirk said such standing would help create the faith that federal agencies enforcing animal welfare laws are doing their job.

Rose was campaigning in North Carolina and could not be reached for comment.

Stenholm said his bill also includes penalties for thefts from farms because large feedlot operations have become the target of some activists.

Lomas reports quarterly loss

DALLAS (AP) — Lomas Financial Corp., operating under protection of federal bankruptcy court, says it suffered a $500 million loss in its most recent quarter.

More than half of the loss came from a $286 million write-down of the value of the company's real estate investments, which are now valued at less than 50 percent of their original value.

For the nine months ended March 31, Lomas said it lost $651.4 million, the company's performance compares with a profit of $5.7 million for the same nine-month period a year earlier, and a loss of $12.4 million in the quarter ended March 31, 1990.

In its latest quarter, Lomas also wrote off some of its portfolio of real estate loans, investments in operations it is shutting down and the price of replacing old computer systems, the company said Monday.

Lomas filed last September for protection under Chapter 11 of the bankruptcy code after talks broke down on restructuring the company's debt.

The write-down in real estate values reflects the inability to sell those assets, chairman Jess Hay said Monday.

A risk worth taking

Good defense requires the alert defender to make certain assumptions. The normal objective is to defeat the contract, and frequently the way to do so is to find a certain card in partner's hand. But risks abound, and in many instances the hope of finding partner with a certain card can present declarer with an extra trick. East set today's contract by making a right assumption.

When the six of diamonds was led against four hearts, East could easily have cashed his A-K, but that would have simply resulted in the contract succeeding. Instead there was a simple, clear-cut defense that would defeat the game, but a slight risk was involved. Of course it's always easier when one is looking at all four hands, but here the dummy and the bidding were enough for East to come up with the right play. After winning the king of diamonds, he returned his singleton club at trick two. Declarer won in dummy and played a trump, ducked by East. When declarer played a second round of trumps, East took the ace and underled his ace of diamonds. West won the queen and played a club, ruffed by East. The assumption East had to make to beat the contract was that West held the diamond queen. And the risk? Simply that declarer would make an overtrick when he held that diamond queen. That was a risk well worth taking — giving a possible overtrick as opposed to setting a game contract.

Artist demonstrates acrylics

Snyder Palette Club met April 12. Ruth Lambert Jackson of Abilene was the guest instructor. Jackson did two demonstrations in acrylics. One was a street scene with a large pot of flowers in the foreground and the other was a country lane with lighting from the background. Jackson is a former Snyder resident. At one time she worked at the newspaper office. She has done pastel sketches at the club's annual July 4 Art Show for a number of years. Hostess for the meeting was Anna Bell Drum.

The calories and fat in a salad are usually concentrated in the dressing, but most of us don't like salad without the flavor boost a dressing gives. This salad has an easy creamy dressing made with yogurt that provides a delicious answer to the high-fat dressing problem. To enjoy the dressing with vegetable salads or greens, substitute a pinch of dried dillweed or crushed basil for the ginger.

Area standouts ink with Sul Ross State

Snyder senior Jody Iglehart has recently signed a letter of intent to attend Sul Ross State University according to a release from Lobo head football coach Ralph Micheli.

Iglehart was one of 23 schoolboy gridders to ink with the scarlet and gray including Ira's Greg Box and three District 4-4A football players.

"We're looking forward to having both Greg and Jody on our football team," said Micheli. "They are both good kids."

"They both, especially Jody, have a chance to get some playing time," the coach continued. "Greg and Jody will need to spend a good bit of time in the weight room to help them grow and bulk up."

Micheli said that the transition for Box may take a little longer coming from a six-man football program but he is confident the Ira senior can make a contribution.

Iglehart, playing on the offensive and defensive lines set a new SHS record for quarterback sacks last season with 11.

The 5-11, 210 pounder was named first team all-district and was tabbed all-area and all-South Plains for his efforts.

He is the son of Marvin and Carol Iglehart of Hermleigh.

Box, a 5-10, 165 pound tailback and defensive back was an all-district pick on both sides of the ball. His parents are Billy and Jackie Box of Ira.

Also included in the list of SRSU grid signees are Harvey Granado of Monahans, Rudy Quintella of Ft. Stockton and Jimmy Shaeffer of Big Spring.

Shaeffer is a 6-0 178 pound tight end while Granado, 5-8 and 170 played at fullback and linebacker and Quintella was an offensive and defensive lineman at 6-1, 210.

Tigers entertain Big Spring

Snyder to face Steers in District 4-4A baseball finale

The Snyder Tigers baseball team will suit up for the last time in the 1990 season tonight at 7 p.m. as they host the Big Spring Steers in a District 4-4A battle for third place.

Andrews and Pecos have already clinched the top spots as well as the district's two playoff berths.

Snyder seniors Toby Goodwin, Willie Garcia, Jamey Morton,

Gilbert Hernandez, Randy Morris and Jason West will all play in their final game for Snyder tonight.

The All-Sports Booster Club for Snyder will present each player before the first pitch tonight.

Snyder is coming off a 7-0 shut out of Ft. Stockton Saturday.

Catcher Blair Williams, who had had a designated hitter bat in his spot in the lineup early in the season, powered a grand slam home run in the bottom of the second inning against the Panthers to boost the Snyder lead to 5-0.

The homer, Williams' second this season and the second against Ft. Stockton, came on the Tiger catcher's birthday.

Designated hitter, Chad Fox, pounded a double and a single to lead Snyder hitters with a two of three effort. His hits were credited to Hernandez in Monday's report on the game.

Morton was the winning pitcher Saturday, striking out 10 Ft. Stockton batters, walking just four and scattering six hits in moving to 11-4 on the campaign.

Morton will start on the mound against the Steers in the season finale for Snyder.

He is carting an ERA of 2.75 in 81 1-3 innings with 120 strikeouts and 32 walks having given up just 59 hits.

The Tigers are led on offense by Morris who is hitting at a .448 pace and Garcia who is batting .419. First baseman John Wright carries an overall batting average of .339 but boosted that to .432 since beginning district play.

Eight of the Tiger regulars are currently hitting .300 or better.

Big Spring is fresh from an 8-3 win over Monahans Saturday.

Snyder's overall record is 16-8 and the Steers sport a mark of 18-8. Both squads' loop slate is 8-5.

Missouri basketball program is facing NCAA investigation

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Two of the 15 allegations against Missouri may put Norm Stewart's basketball program in particular peril.

As expected, the NCAA is charging the Tigers with having an agent help them recruit a specific area. The area would presumably be Detroit and could constitute a serious violation since so many of Stewart's finest players have come from there.

Secondly, NCAA-watchers learned long ago the Enforcement Department dislikes being lied to. And allegation No. 13 says a member of the athletic department "... provided false and misleading information ... acted contrary to the principles of ethical conduct ..."

And, "... demonstrated a knowing and willful effort on his part to operate the university's intercollegiate men's basketball program contrary to the requirements and provisions of NCAA legislation by his involvement in this case."

All names were carefully blacked out in the copy of the inquiry distributed at a news conference Monday. But all key staff members on hand during the years in question, roughly 1985-89, are still in place.

Congressional Democrats debate budget talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' top Democrats are debating whether to join President Bush in deficit-reduction talks that the White House says can include discussion of possible tax increases.

Republican congressional leaders planned to discuss next year's budget with the president at a meeting today. Several insisted Monday that such bargaining is the only way to break the fiscal logjam, and they predicted that Democrats would eventually agree.

"I believe the answer will be in the affirmative," said Senate

Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan. "We need to do it."

Democratic leaders of the House and Senate, meantime, planned to meet with rank-and-file members to gauge their feelings about budget bargaining in an election year.

Sixteen top Democrats met for an hour Monday in a closed-door session.

"We've had different views expressed," House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., said afterward.

Pressure has been building for action on the budget because of the slowing economy and the increasing cost projections of the federal bailout of the savings and loan industry.

The weaker the economy, the less revenue the government can expect to collect and the greater the federal deficit.

As a result, the amount of budget cuts the administration says will be necessary for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 has ballooned from $36 billion to $56 billion or more. This has led many lawmakers of both parties to argue that those savings can only be achieved by considering higher taxes and cuts in benefit programs.

"You sure aren't going to get that without starting this process and having the right people there arguing all of it on the table," said Sen. Pete Domenici of New Mexico, ranking Republican on the Senate Budget Committee.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said there would be "no preconditions" to holding the negotiations. Republicans denied that such a statement is inconsistent with Bush's campaign pledge of "no new taxes."

"There isn't any president who hasn't tried to make good on his promises. There's no president who hasn't lived through times that change, and maybe outdated some promises," said Rep. Bill Frenzel of Minnesota, top Republican on the House Budget Committee.

Frenzel said he favors a package paring next year's deficit by $55 billion, including some form of new taxes would be "the only way (Bush) can do the job," Frenzel said.

Domenici said he would want to reduce the shortfall by between $42 billion and $50 billion. Higher taxes should be open to negotiations, he said.

Last week, the House passed a Democratic-written spending plan that includes $36 billion in deficit reduction. The Senate Budget Committee approved another Democratic plan containing $43 billion in savings. Both proposals would give the military nearly $10 billion less next year than Bush wants.

Bush proposed a budget in January that claims to shrink the shortfall by $36 billion to just under $64 billion. The Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law requires that next year's budget gap not exceed $64 billion.

TEAMS results reviewed by board were those made in the seventh grade, where results showed 91 percent of local students showed mastery in the mathematics, reading and writing portions of the tests in 1990 as compared to 70 percent in 1989. The statewide average for 1990 was 80 percent.

Results also indicated sharp improvement in TEAMS results by ethnicity.

In other workshop discussion, the board heard a proposal to institute a special class at the junior high to address the needs of accelerated students. A component to the advanced math and language arts curriculum, the class would be made up of the top 5 percent of the students, based on select criteria. Junior high Principal Gary Patterson said details of the program were still being worked out.

Also discussed was a plan to allow cheerleaders at the junior high next year. As proposed, the program would be limited to eighth graders only, who would cheer only at home football games. They would also cheer for home seventh grade football games.

Cheerleading candidates could be taught yells by the high school cheerleaders. A judge would review and narrow the field of candidates, from which the student body would select a final group of cheerleaders.

Presently, the district does not allocate funds for apparel or equipment for junior varsity and freshman cheerleaders and would not for junior high representatives either.

Approximately 270 third graders, 275 fifth graders, 245 seventh graders and 245 ninth graders were given the three-part TEAMS test in February.

Results showing the percentile of students mastering the tests were as follows:

Third grade: Mathematics, 1989-93 percent, 1990-94 percent, statewide-91 percent; Reading, 1989-87 percent, 1990-90 percent, statewide-85 percent; Writing, 1989-84 percent, 1990-86 percent, statewide-77 percent; Overall, 1989-78 percent, 1990-79 percent, statewide-74 percent.

Fifth grade: Mathematics, 1989-93 percent, 1990-95 percent, statewide-90 percent; Reading, 1989-90 percent, 1990-91 percent, statewide-87 percent; Writing, 1989-92 percent, 1990-89 percent, statewide-87 percent; Overall, 1989-84 percent, 1990-85 percent, statewide-77 percent.

Seventh grade: Mathematics, 1989-87 percent, 1990-100 percent, statewide-91 percent; Reading, 1989-87 percent, 1990-96 percent, statewide-89 percent; Writing, 1989-79 percent, 1990-94 percent, statewide-86 percent; Overall, 1989-70 percent, 1990-91 percent, statewide-80 percent.

Ninth grade: Mathematics, 1989-86 percent, 1990-84 percent, statewide-86 percent; Reading, 1989-78 percent, 1990-88 percent, statewide-82 percent; Writing, 1989-74 percent, 1990-76 percent, statewide-70 percent; Overall, 1989-65 percent, 1990-67 percent, statewide-68 percent.

Seventh grade results were also broken down by ethnicity. Those results indicated that 100 percent of the black students showed mastery in all three parts of the test in 1990, in contrast to 1989, which showed 85 percent mastery in reading, 69 percent in writing and 69 percent in math.

Percentages of Hispanic students showing mastery in 1990 were 89 percent in reading, 91 percent in writing and 100 percent in math as compared to 73 percent, 65 percent and 79 percent, respectively, in 1989.

Percentages of white students showing mastery in 1990 were 100 percent in reading, 95 percent in writing and 100 percent in math as compared to 95 percent, 88 percent and 93 percent in 1989.

Beginning in October the TEAMS test will be replaced by the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TASS) test. The new TASS is expected to be a more complex test designed to measure a broader range of skills, including higher-level thinking skills.

Jack Benjamin Pittaway, 40, of Route 3, Snyder, was indicted for indecency with a child. The incident is said to have occurred on April 25.

Indicted on two separate counts Monday was Elio Garza Jr., 24, of 4400 Ave. U, Apt. 2C7. Garza was indicted for aggravated sexual assault of a child. One incident occurred on Oct. 31, 1987, and the second occurred March 15, 1984.

Two other persons were also indicted Monday, but had not yet been taken into custody by the sheriff's office.

1 were Jack Denman, Bill Hibbes, George Vicary, Sam Bruner, Carl Williams and Charles Henderson. A total of 446 votes were cast.

Trustees were told that the elevator in the Student Center is broken and that bids had been requested for repair. College President Dr. Harry Krenek noted that a new sign had been erected at the entrance to the campus.

He also reported that the correctional officers graduation would be held tonight, and that college commencement ceremonies would be held Friday night.

With regard to planned summer school activities, the college will offer 39 off-campus courses, 10 courses at the Price Daniel unit and a six-week day and nine-week night session on campus.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Baze was presented a plaque in appreciation of his seven years of service to the college.

Monday police activity light

Monday was a relatively quiet day for Snyder police officers.

At 11:30 a.m., officers were called to 1900 Ave. I where a woman filed a misdemeanor assault report against her husband.

At 12:21 p.m. police were called to a minor accident in the 4000 Block of Austin Ave. where a 1984 Buick driven by Shawn Travis Cowan of 4101 Midland struck a cable fence owned by the Snyder Independent School District. Damage was minor.

Two calls, one at 5:17 p.m. and another at 5:41 p.m., told police of persons causing dogs to fight in the northern part of Snyder.

City police arrested Elio Garza Jr., 24, on two warrants from Scurry County, and he was transported to the county jail.

At 7:43 p.m., officers received a report of a motorcycle making a noise disturbance in the 2500 Block of Ave. A.

Deputies investigate Monday disturbance

Sheriff's deputies were called to a reported "shooting" in north Snyder about 9 p.m. Monday, but found that two men had been fighting. One reportedly had an injured mouth but did not want to file charges.

The sheriff's office also received a report that a check reported stolen had been passed at Rip Griffin's Truck Stop.

There are 7,800 mobile homes in Anchorage, Alaska. That's one of every 12 housing units in the city.

Clements may face choices

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis said he hopes lawmakers will send Gov. Bill Clements a school finance reform measure by the end of the week that could present the governor with difficult choices:

— Vetoing the bill and possibly putting reform in the hands of a judge.

— Approving the bill without new state education funding, which could shift money from property-rich to property-poor school districts.

— Breaking his vow to veto new taxes and allowing the $555 million funding level lawmakers want for next school year.

The Democrat-controlled Legislature wants to help pay for school reform with a half-cent sales tax increase, which the Republican governor vetoed in the last special session that ended last week.

"The governor will just have to do what he feels is necessary, as we feel we have to do what we feel is necessary," Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Monday. He said the choice is between a higher state tax or higher local property taxes.

Fire on U.S. destroyer kills one, injures 11

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A fire broke out early today aboard the guided-missile destroyer USS Conyngham about 80 miles off North Carolina, killing a crew member and injuring at least 11 others, the Navy said.

Five of the sailors had injuries serious enough to require evacuation to shore, Capt. Paul Hanley, a U.S. Atlantic Fleet spokesman, said.

The Conyngham was conducting routine operations with about 360 crew members when the fire broke out at 5:35 a.m. in the ship's engineering area, officials said. Fleet spokesmen had no information on the extent of the blaze or damage to the ship.

Hanley said three Coast Guard cutters were standing by along with the Normandy and the destroyer USS Briscoe as the Conyngham crew fought the blaze.

"The cause of the fire is unknown at this time. The primary fire is out. The crew is fighting secondary fires," Air Force Maj. Tom Johnson, joint duty officer at the Norfolk naval base, said at mid-morning.

Hanley said the ship was able to move under its own power toward port at about 3 mph.

The 437-foot ship, commissioned in 1963, has two five-inch guns, torpedoes and a number of surface-to-surface missiles, Hanley said.

"Obviously when you have a fire at sea, one of the first issues that the crew addresses is the security of the magazines," where the ammunition is stored, he said.

In 1988, an Irish stowaway was discovered aboard the ship as it made its way back from Ireland. The teen-age girl was found in a 2½-foot-by-15-foot passageway where she had hidden for 10 days. Four of the ship's crew were court-martialed in the matter.

Dear Abby

Woman in Affair Can't Decide If She Must Pay or Still Play

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: About six months ago, a guy I work with asked me to go out with him. Knowing he was married, I told him no, but he kept begging me, so against my better judgment, I finally agreed to go. (I planned on showing him a lousy time so he wouldn't ask me out again.) Well, we had a great time and became very close friends in the next couple of weeks. Within two months, we were more than friends. I never thought it would happen, but I really fell in love with him.

Somehow his wife found out about us and threatened to kill herself if he didn't quit seeing me. I found out later that she was eight months pregnant at the time. Needless to say, he stopped seeing me. I was heartbroken.

Three weeks ago, he started calling me and coming to see me. I tried to play it cool because I didn't want to get hurt again, but we went out one night and ended up in bed!

He told me he never meant to hurt me — he still cared for me and wanted to keep seeing me. He said he wasn't happy at home, but if I would be patient, one day we would be together. He also said he couldn't file for divorce because he's afraid he'd lose his two children. Abby, I'm not sure if I should try to forget about him, or be patient and let him try to work things out for us.

Please help me, Abby. I'm confused.

IN LOVE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR IN LOVE: I'm glad you asked, because it's time you realized you have no future with this man. He will keep seeing (and using) you as long as you let him. Furthermore, you know he was married when you started seeing him, so if you are "hurt," you asked for it.

Back off. You can't build happiness on the misery of others. And if he were finally to divorce his wife and marry you — what kind of prize would you get? A man who cheated on his wife, then dumped her for somebody else.

Residents claim their water is contaminated; plan tests

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — They're not toasting National Drinking Water Week with a glass of water in the poor West Texas village of El Ranchito.

In fact, they don't even drink the water in the village of 200 because residents fear the water is polluted with toxic chemicals.

"We don't even use the water to sprinkle our grass, it's so bad," said Eufemio Ramirez, a 56-year-old resident of El Ranchito.

"You can smell the water. It's bad," he said. "And when you bathe in it, you get a rash. But us being working people, we don't have enough money to do anything about it."

Midge Erskine, an independent environmentalist who is advising El Ranchito residents, said she has arranged for a university to conduct a number of free spectrometer tests of the water beginning in about three weeks. She would not name the university.

"I don't think the public is aware that the (Texas) Water

DEAR ABBY: I recently saw a local TV show featuring a panel of women who had had breast cancer. The host of the show was a male who stated that the show was for women since the subject was breast cancer.

Ironically, I was watching the show in an out-of-town motel room as I was preparing to go to the hospital to visit my husband, who had had surgery the day before for breast cancer! He had a modified mastectomy in which the nipple, some nodes and some chest muscles were surgically removed.

Although it's rare, breast cancer can happen to men. Fortunately my husband saw his doctor immediately after he discovered the lump. As with female cancer, some lumps are malignant and others are benign. My husband's was malignant.

Abby, please encourage your male readers to examine their breasts and underarms. Breast cancer is not exclusively a female concern.

A WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Thanks for a worthwhile item. Women, tell the man (or men) in your life to check for lumps. Gentlemen, a word to the wise.

DEAR ABBY: I am also a twin, born on Dec. 22. If we didn't hear, "This is for your birthday and Christmas, too," we heard, "This is for both of you."

Sound familiar, twins?

JIM DENSMORE

DEAR JIM: Sounds familiar.

Terry Anderson, hostages make games

WASHINGTON (AP) — Terry Anderson, the longest held of the 16 Western hostages, helped fellow prisoners make Scrabble and Monopoly games to amuse themselves, according to a newly freed captive.

His guards are giving him and other hostages plenty of diversions, according to an account given by former hostage Frank Reed to Anderson's sister, Peggy Say.

"They have a lot of things which was encouraging to me; at least they did at the time Frank was there," Mrs. Say said. These included boxes of books, writing materials and dominoes.

Although Anderson, 42, is in good physical condition from plenty of exercise, he is tired and needs dental care, Mrs. Say said.

She said the hostages are blindfolded and chained in line with their preference.

"Frank preferred a chain on his wrist," she said. "Terry preferred a chain on his ankle so that his arms are free to write and play cards."

The closest she and Reed were able to calculate that he last saw Anderson was somewhere between a year and 18 months ago. Reed spent 20 months with Anderson and Thomas Sutherland in Lebanon. For a period of time, the three American hostages were together with two others, John McCarthy and Brian Keenan.

Reed, the director of the private Lebanon International School, was freed April 30 after being held for 44 months. He is undergoing medical checkups at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland and met with Mrs. Say Monday night.

Anderson is the chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press and is in his sixth year of captivity. Sutherland was a dean at the American University of Beirut. McCarthy is a British television journalist. Keenan, who is Irish, taught English at American University.

Reed said Anderson could pick up some things in Arabic from the radio and have at least some idea of what he thought was going on in the world. But his guards have made a concerted effort to keep from him news of the deaths of his father and brother, both from cancer, within four months of each other in 1986. Mrs. Say said she believes that he still does not know.

Children's shooting deaths are on the rise

HOUSTON (AP) — Accidental shootings blamed on unsafe gun handling and a lack of parental supervision have claimed the lives of more Houston children so far this year than in all of 1989, authorities say.

Debbie Mcmenhemy, who keeps homicide division statistics for the Houston Police Department said Monday that two youngsters were shot to death by youngsters Sunday, bringing this year's total to eight, compared with seven such juvenile slayings during all of 1989. Four of this year's victims accidentally shot themselves, she said.

In the most recent killing, 18-month-old David Rosales was shot in the head by his 3-year-old brother at their home.

Police said the father took his .380-caliber semiautomatic pistol out of a closet and placed it on the floor. While he returned to the closet to retrieve a bullet from the floor, the 3-year-old picked up the pistol and it discharged.

The boy died early Monday at Ben Taub Hospital.

In Sunday's other incident, a 12-year-old boy was shot in the chest by a playmate who thought he was handling an unloaded weapon.

The victim, Kendrick Darton, was lying on a bed when a 13-year-old boy picked up a .25-caliber pistol from a dresser and began to play with the weapon. Police said the boy pulled the ammunition clip from the pistol and pulled the trigger. The boy died later at Ben Taub Hospital. The 13-year-old apparently was unaware a bullet remained in the firing chamber, officers said.

Homicide Capt. Bobby Adams blamed almost all accidental shootings on people's failure to secure firearms safely in their homes.

NASA's 2 tragedies to be united for eternity

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The charred remnants of America's two worst space tragedies, the 1967 Apollo fire and the 1986 Challenger explosion, will soon be united in an abandoned missile silo miles from any plaque or memorial.

The Apollo capsule will be moved from NASA's Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va., where it has been in a shipping container for 23 years, and buried atop the remains of the shuttle.

No ceremony is scheduled when the capsule, its heat shield and 31 cartons of hardware and investigative material arrive on a flatbed truck around May 20. No marker is planned.

"It's not as if by putting this in the silo we have forgotten the contribution these guys have made to the program. There are memorials" elsewhere, said NASA spokesman Mark Hess. "We didn't think it was really appropriate that we do anything special or make some kind of a public event out of this."

People will remember, regardless of what happens to the spacecraft remains, Hess said. "They will remember that as long as there is a space program," he said.

The families of the Apollo astronauts had no objections to the plan, said John Lawrence, chief of congressional affairs for NASA's Office of Space Flight.

The agency never seriously considered putting the capsule or other material on display, he said. "Quite frankly, everybody found the notion repugnant," Lawrence said.

Derek Elliott, curator for the National Air and Space Museum, part of the Smithsonian Institution, said he is interested in acquiring the burned capsule, even though that seems unlikely at this point.

"We're not thinking in terms of display. Our job is to collect and preserve historic artifacts," Elliott said.

Astronauts Virgil "Gus" Grissom, Roger B. Chaffee and Edward H. White II died on Jan. 27, 1967, when fire engulfed the capsule during a countdown rehearsal for the first manned Apollo mission. The fire, in a cabin filled with 100 percent oxygen, was triggered by a spark when a broken or bruised wire beneath Grissom's couch contacted metal.

After the accident, the capsule and other remains were placed in a locked container at Langley and surrounded by a chainlink fence. Until about 10 years ago, the corrugated metal container was kept in a low-pressure nitrogen atmosphere to minimize corrosion. The container has since developed small leaks.

NASA said it decided to move the more than 17,600 pounds of material to the missile silo at Cape Canaveral Air Force Station, next to Kennedy Space Center, to avoid the necessary maintenance and to free up space at Langley.

About half the silo, which is 90 feet deep and 12 feet in diameter, is filled with Challenger debris. Challenger remains also fill another missile silo a quarter-mile away, as well as an underground equipment room at each site.

The 215,000 pounds of material salvaged from the Jan. 28, 1986, explosion, which killed seven astronauts, was lowered by crane into the waterproofed steel cylinders in 1987. Each of the approximately 5,000 items was catalogued and their location noted for future retrieval.

NASA twice has gone into the silos to remove engine pieces for analysis.

A similar procedure will be followed with the Apollo remains. NASA wants the items accessible on "the off-chance that maybe there will be new investigative techniques developed or somebody claims it was sabotage," Lawrence said.

The two silos were used from 1961 through 1970 for Minuteman missiles. The Air Force, which lent the deactivated silos to NASA, uses the area for combat training.

About eight miles away, also on Air Force property, is the launch platform on which the Apollo craft burned. Weeds fill the cracks in the brick and concrete pad.

A bronze plaque was attached to the platform last fall by a former volunteer at the nearby U.S. Air Force Space Museum who was concerned by NASA's failure to recognize the spot, said museum historian Ernest Malnassy.

The plaque reads: "They gave their lives in service to their country in the ongoing exploration of humankind's final frontier. Remember them not for how they died, but for those ideals for which they lived."

Every year on Jan. 27, someone — no one knows who — places a wreath at the site.

Jewish leaders plan ceremony at villa used by Nazi officials

WEST BERLIN (AP) — In a solemn ceremony at the picturesque mansion where Nazi leaders plotted their "Final Solution," the World Jewish Congress is paying tribute to the 6 million Jews killed in the Holocaust.

The ceremony at the Wannsee villa comes on the final day of a three-day conference that some Congress delegates declined to attend, considering a trip to the heart of Nazi tyranny to be too traumatic.

"The most important thing about going to Wannsee is what we are going to say there, which is: 'Aside from how horrible you were, we lived,'" the president of the congress, Edgar M. Bronfman, said Monday.

He described the villa as "the head office of all concentration camps."

A formal declaration written by Nobel Peace Prize winner and concentration camp survivor Elie Wiesel was to be read at the ceremony, which falls on the 45th anniversary of Germany's unconditional surrender in World War II and is designed to keep alive the memory of the victims.

"If the past is suppressed, then there is an even greater danger that things will happen in the present that also must be condemned," said Michel Friedman, a leader of the Frankfurt Jewish community.

The decaying Wannsee villa is where SS security chief Reinhard Heydrich and others planned their systematic efforts to achieve Germany's "Final Solution."

Heydrich detailed plans to use Jews as slave laborers and to build concentration camps, gas chambers and crematoria.

But even before the Wannsee conference on Jan. 20, 1942, Nazi troops had been slaughtering Jews in occupied Polish and Soviet territory.

Today, the once-elegant villa is in a state of disrepair, and the city of West Berlin has started work to turn it into a Holocaust memorial.

Outside the villa's high gates, a plaque reads: "In this house in January 1942, the infamous Wannsee conference took place. To the memory of the fellow human beings slain by the Nazi tyranny."

At a news conference at the heavily guarded West Berlin Jewish Community headquarters, the Jewish congress leaders on Monday discussed their concerns about German reunification.

"The Jewish people have something to say to the new Germany that is going to be created in a short time," Bronfman said.

He said Sunday that a unified Germany must "forever teach" about the Nazi Holocaust, "the lowest point ever reached in man's inhumanity to man."

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister

Yitzhak Shamir said it was Israel's duty to demand that "in a united Germany there would be a perpetual educational effort, so that the generation growing up there would remember. In all parts of Germany, the government must wage a war against anti-Semitism."

The Polish-born Shamir escaped the Holocaust, but his parents and two sisters were killed.

The leaders of the Jewish Congress pointed to signs of growing anti-Semitism in Eastern Europe, which they said was exacerbated by economic hardship.

"Unfortunately, as the economic situation worsens, particularly in the Soviet Union, and the search for scapegoats goes on, the age-old scapegoat, the Jew, again takes his place in the forefront of those to be kicked around," Bronfman said.

State rests case in Treaty Oak trial

AUSTIN (AP) — Defense witnesses are expected to take the stand today in the trial of a man who faces life in prison if convicted of poisoning the historic Treaty Oak.

The state rested its case against Paul Stedman Cullen on Monday after a chemist testified that 11 of 14 samples taken from Cullen's truck contained the herbicide used to poison the giant centuries-old tree.

Also on Monday, a drug counselor testified that Cullen had sent her a love letter several months before the tree was poisoned. That testimony bolstered the state's contention that Cullen poisoned the landmark in a ritual designed to rid himself of his love for the counselor.

Today, attorneys for Cullen, 46, will present testimony that is expected to include a chemist who will challenge the findings of the Du Pont chemist who said Cullen's truck contained numerous traces of the herbicide Velpar. Treaty Oak was poisoned with Velpar last year and is now clinging to life.

Du Pont chemist Richard Summers testified that several soil samples, paper, a garden spade and a frying pan in the bed of Cullen's pickup all contained various levels of Velpar.

"It will leave a trail of death wherever it is poured," said Summers, who works at the La Porte plant, the only place the herbicide is manufactured.

Cullen's attorneys would not say Monday whether they expect Cullen to testify.

Earlier Monday, Suzanne Coers, the counselor with whom Cullen supposedly had fallen in love, gave her testimony. Cullen had signed a release allowing her to discuss information that otherwise would be considered confidential.

Of the love letter Cullen had written, she said, "It scared me. It made me feel uncomfortable."

State witness Cindy Blaco, who received methadone treatment at the same clinic that Cullen did, concluded her testimony Monday saying she agreed to secretly tape a conversation with Cullen "because a wrong has been done ... and it needs to be corrected."

When the defense cross-examined Blaco, Jenkins tried to suggest she made the tape in an effort to collect $11,000 in reward money. Blaco received $500 from the Crimestoppers tip program but the $11,000 has not been distributed. The defense also attempted to show that Cullen was attracted to Blaco and was claiming to have poisoned Treaty Oak to impress her.

Also Monday, prosecutors had a librarian read a portion of a book titled "The Black Arts" that details occult practices.

Parents of slain girl indicted

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — An Ector County grand jury has indicted the parents of an 8-year-old girl whose body was found in an abandoned field on charges of abuse of a corpse and misdemeanor charges of providing false information to law enforcement authorities.

The indictments were returned Monday in the case of Gloria Castillo, who was strangled and dumped in an abandoned field last month.

Jose Francisco Castillo, who was reported to be the victim's putative father, and Ninefa Castillo, the victim's mother, were each charged with abuse of a corpse when they were alleged to have illegally moved the victim's body away from their trailer house in West Odessa.

They also were charged with making false reports to law investigators and lying while under oath, according to Michael Griffin, a prosecutor in the Ector County Criminal District Attorney's office.

The grand jury also indicted Donald Wayne Bleckler, 31, of Stamford with two counts of aggravated sexual assault against another child. Griffin confirmed that the aggravated sexual assault victim was another Odessa child, but not the deceased.

Gloria Castillo was reported missing from her West Odessa home on April 14 by her mother. The girl's decomposed body was discovered a week later in a vacant field. An autopsy showed that the girl had been strangled, and authorities said a rope was around the girl's neck when her body was found.

Bleckler was a trailer maintenance man at the mobile home park where the Castillos resided, Griffin said. Grand jurors also returned abuse of a corpse and making a false report indictments against Bleckler.

He remained in Ector County Jail Monday night in lieu of a $250,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace R.G. Hungerford.

Griffin declined to further elaborate about the case, but said the investigation is on-going.

The Texas Department of Human Services has custody of Mrs. Castillo's minor children, but would give no other details, Griffin said.

Officials were originally told that Gloria Castillo had been abducted, but investigators do not believe the report was valid, according to Ector County District Attorney Gary Garrison.

New program may benefit rural communities in Texas

Austin — Rural Texas communities in need of health professionals stand to benefit from the Outstanding Rural Scholar Recognition and Forgiveness Loan Program recently announced by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

Created through legislation sponsored by Sen. Steve Carriker, this program encourages students from rural communities to become health professionals and work in their hometowns.

Students nominated by their community will compete on a statewide basis for designation as an Outstanding Rural Scholar. Selected scholars will be eligible to participate in a special loan forgiveness program. They also will receive a certificate of recognition and community support, and their name will be included on a list of outstanding students mailed to Texas colleges and universities for recruitment purposes.

Candidates for this program must be Texas residents willing to enroll at least half-time in a course of study to become a health care professional needed in a rural community. They may be high school seniors, persons with a high school diploma or its equivalent, students enrolled in their last year of college prior to entering a health professions program, or students already enrolled in a health professions program.

Applicants must be in the top quarter of their high school class or earning at least a 3.0 grade point average on a 4.0 point scale in a nonprofit post secondary institution.

School boards, hospital boards, city councils, county commissioners or other boards of trustees responsible to the local community may serve as community representatives in sponsoring a rural scholar. The community will provide the Coordinating Board with a portfolio on each student nominated. The sponsoring community also must agree to pay all or part of the student's cost of education at a postsecondary institution.

Interested communities should contact the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board for program and application guidelines. The number of forgiveness loans awarded each year will depend on the availability of funds appropriated by the legislature for that purpose.

For more information, contact the Coordinating Board's Division of Student Services (512) 462-6325.
