Commissioners court...

Delegation seeks to keep pool at Towle Park open

A delegation of 14 people appeared before Scurry County Commissioners Court this morning seeking reconsideration of the court's decision not to operate the public pool in Towle Park this summer.

No decision was made, but County Judge Bobby Goodwin said he would appoint a study committee to look into the possibility of opening the pool this summer.

In other business, the court made three appointments to county boards, created a department for shared precinct equipment, approved a budget amendment and voted to take bids for lease of the old terminal building at the airport and bids for a proposal to conduct the 1990 county and hospital audit.

Appointed to the library board was M.J. Merritt, widow of D.V. Merritt, a long-time library board member who died recently.

Appointed to the child welfare board was Anita Brown, replacing Lana Hataway, who resigned. Steve Smith, who resigned from the county welfare board, was replaced by Karen Pevehouse.

On a split vote, the court approved the the creation of a road and bridge budget department for precinct equipment that is shared. This would include purchase, lease and repair of the equipment.

Each precinct currently has a $10,000 contingency fund, and the new department would include those funds. Use would require court approval. Also scheduled to be put in this department are funds from the recent auction of surplus equipment.

Commissioners C.D. Gray Jr. and Tommy Pate were joined by Judge Goodwin in approving the motion. Negative votes were cast by Commissioners Ted Bill- (see POOL, page 8)

Nursing board will review ADN proposal on Tuesday

A group of local hospital staff and board members are scheduled to go before the Board of Nursing Examiners at 10:45 a.m. Tuesday in Austin, seeking approval of an Associate Degree in Nursing (ADN) program at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The ADN program was approved by the hospital's board of managers in October. It is in conjunction with Howard College in Big Spring and is designed to compliment the Licensed Vocational Nurse (LVN) program at Western Texas College. Cogdell plans to recruit and hopefully retain ADN students after they receive their RN license.

Among those planning to attend Tuesday's hearing are Tom Hochwalt, hospital administrator; Lana Chambers, RN, director of nursing; Chris Bane, RN, ADN program coordinator; Velma Clay, RN, MSN, instructor for Howard College; G.A. Parks Jr., board chairman; and Roy McQueen and Dr. Jim Palmer, board members.

Attending from Howard College will be Al Blount, RN, director of nursing at the college, and Dr. Andy Hicks, vice president of vocational education.

State Rep. David Counts will also be at the hearing.

Under the agreement with (see ADN, page 8)

School advisory group ready for first meeting

In an effort designed to promote interaction between Snyder public schools and the community, the community-wide school advisory group will hold its first meeting today at 7 p.m. in the business administration building.

Today's meeting will be to familiarize the group with a number of topics, including:

—the school reform movement in Texas,

—the educational thrust of Snyder ISD, including district program improvements and the Effective Schools effort,

—the district's guiding benchmarks which are the State Board of Education goals, Snyder board of trustees goals and Snyder ISD educational goals,

—the district and campus planning guide for setting campus improvement goals,

—the campus survey of Effective Schools correlates and faculty responses, and —the advisory group's purpose and responsibility, including the need for community-school input.

Advisory group members include SISD Trustee Terry Martin, Superintendent Dalton Moseley, Assistant Superintendent Tom Scannicchio, Stanfield Elementary Principal Bob Travis, West Elementary teacher Irene Masters, Snyder High School teacher Sammie Harrison and Snyder Junior High School counselor Kellye Starnes.

Parents representing the various campuses include Joe Alvarez, Mrs. Joni Gonzales, Mrs. Michael Post, Mrs. Patricia Anderson, Mrs. Jack Gorman (see ADVISORY, page 8)

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers and Gov. Bill Clements' staff met until early this morning in the effort to reach a compromise on overhauling the school finance system and prevent a court-written reform plan.

But Rossanna Salazar, Clements' press secretary, said prospects didn't look good: "I don't think they're going to come to an agreement."

House Speaker Gib Lewis said late Sunday night there had been some headway. But he and Mike Toomey, Clements' chief of staff, said some controversial issues — such as paying for reform — hadn't been addressed.

Future costs under lawmakers' funding formula remained one concern, said Ms. Salazar, although legislative negotiators had made concessions that brought the maximum five-year cost from about $8 billion to about $6 billion.

"Our contention is the way it is structured now would result in an income tax in the future" to pay (see FINANCE, page 8)

Promotions announced at Daniel unit

Four promotions have been announced at the Price Daniel unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice by Warden Leslie Woods.

Two persons have been promoted to lieutenant, one to sergeant and a fourth has been named chief of unit classification.

Those promoted to the rank of lieutenant are Manuel Tarango and Edward Baese. Beverly Hicks has been named sergeant and Darrell Woods has been appointed to the classification position.

Tarango, 32, has been with the department since 1979, beginning his career as a correctional officer in the Ferguson unit at Midway.

Tarango has been at the Daniel unit since its opening last August. He came to Snyder from Huntsville where he worked in transportation.

A native of El Paso, he is a graduate of Irving High School. He and his wife, Marina, have one child and are expecting another. They are members of the Catholic Church.

Lt. Baese, 42, has been with TDCJ for five years, and also has been part of the Daniel unit staff since its opening in 1989.

He began as a correctional officer and transferred to Snyder

Reorganization slated as topic before WTC board of trustees today

Western Texas College trustees will reorganize the board and swear in a new member this evening, as well as consider hiring an accountant for the business office and discuss the college farm during their regular board meeting.

The 5:45 p.m. meeting will have on its agenda a discussion of increasing meal costs in the cafeteria and repair of the golf course sprinkler system.

In one other item, approval to seek bids to repair the student center elevator will be sought.

Trustees will elect a new president, vice president and secretary during the meeting, and hold oath-of-office ceremonies for incoming Place 2 board member Carl Williams.

They are expected to approve the hiring of an accountant to work with Controller Charles Meek in the business office, as advised in the college's year-end audit performed by Vestal & Co.

Trustees will also discuss increasing the price of meals at the cafeteria by five percent, and will consider having the electrical golf course sprinkler control system repaired. Currently, the course must be watered by hand.

The college farm is the topic of two discussions. Trustees are to consider bids for construction materials, and will also learn of a grant from the ASCS to help grub up mesquite and brush from the farm and prepare the soil for (see COLLEGE, page 8)

Q—Why is Western Texas College not participating in the student loan program?

A—The college has been participating, but may not next fall. That decision will be made in a board meeting this summer. The program may be dropped because of its default rate. In short, too many loans are not being repaid. If the default rate rises above 30 percent, the college stands to lose some $450,000 in federal funding. Only about 10 percent of that funding is applied to the student loan program, so the college would be risking 90 percent of the funding. The college does have several other options open to students to help them receive an education.

Police probing death of teenaged witness

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Police are investigating the torching death of a 14-year-old boy who relatives and authorities suspect was killed because he witnessed an altercation in which his stepfather was stabbed.

Michael Simmons was attacked, doused with gasoline and his body set afire Saturday, police said.

The 8th-grade boy was attacked early Saturday morning while he was washing his track uniform in a laundry shed behind his home. He was preparing to go to a regional meet in Austin that afternoon.

Simmons' family told police they suspected a next-door neighbor charged with stabbing the stepfather was the culprit in the boy's death.

Simmons had agreed to be a witness for the prosecution in the aggravated assault trial of Felipe Jesus Urrutia, 28, the man charged with stabbing Simmons' stepfather in the throat Jan. 13. The stepfather, 22-year-old Richard Holloway, survived the stabbing.

No arrests had been made in the boy's death as of Sunday night.

A second fire was reported Saturday afternoon next door at Urrutia's home, police said. Nobody was at home, but the damage nearly gutted the house. "Looks like it's war," said Mark Luitjen, lead prosecutor in the 175th State District Court, where a pretrial hearing in the case against Urrutia had been scheduled for Monday.

Recalling the Jan. 13 incident, Luitjen said, "There was a fight between the kids of the two families, and Simmons' stepfather was stabbed in the throat with a four-inch, lock-blade knife."

Simmons was set to be a key witness in prosecuting his stepfather's alleged assailant, Urrutia.

"He (Michael) saw everything," said the victim's mother, Henrietta Simmons, in an interview with the San Antonio Light. "He was there, and the man made threats against Mikey and said he would be next on his list."

Police said they were investigating reports that Urrutia was seen jumping a backyard fence Saturday about the time Simmons was attacked and his body set afire.

Simmons' testimony in the assault case, though given once to police in the form of a signed statement, is now "worthless" because it was not formally presented at an examining trial, Luitjen said.

The prosecutor said the boy's statement is now the legal equivalent of hearsay.

Simmons' body was found between a washing machine and a hot water heater, said District Fire Chief Arthur Westhoek. "It was a ball of fire."

Ex-LULAC chief dies of cancer

DALLAS (AP) — Roberto Ornelas, a former national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, died Friday in a Dallas hospital of cancer. He was 58.

Ornelas, who was the Dallas regional director of the Department of Labor's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs, served as LULAC's national president in 1967-68.

A funeral Mass was scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday at All Saints Catholic Church with burial in Restland Memorial Park.

Ornelas had been a member of LULAC since the age of 14 and served in many local and national positions for the organization, including in McAllen, Houston and San Antonio.

Following his two-year term as national president, Ornelas served on LULAC's national board of directors until 1985.

Born in San Antonio, Ornelas was director of Mexican-American programs for the Department of Defense from 1965-66. In 1967 he was assigned to the White House to coordinate the first White House Conference on Hispanics for President Lyndon Johnson.

He became the regional director of the Office of Federal Contract Compliance in 1969.

Ornelas is survived by his wife, Norma Ramirez Ornelas; a daughter, Cynthia Brown; and a son, Bobby Ornelas, all of Dallas; and sister, Irma Solar of Des Moines, Iowa.

Wright said enjoying life after politics

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Jim Wright, once the most powerful Democrat in Washington, is not as busy as in his days as House speaker. But there are his grandsons and garden, and the speaking engagements.

For Jim Wright, there is life after politics.

It's been nearly a year since Wright left office amid a House ethics committee probe, shaken by scandal and months of public scrutiny.

The hard-driven Democrat, who represented the 12th congressional district in Fort Worth for 34 years, now has a more relaxed schedule and frame of mind.

The 67-year-old Texan who once plotted strategy day and night now spends his time speaking on college campuses, completing a book on Central America, indexing his voluminous archives at Texas Christian University, and discussing geopolitical changes with former colleagues or administration officials.

But he gets a bit impatient answering questions about accusations brought forth in December 1987 by congressman Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., that ended Wright's tenure as speaker. Wright's resignation from the House last June ended the ethics probe 18 months after Gingrich first predicted he would topple Wright.

"I just accept what has happened as another phase of my life and development," Wright told the Dallas Times Herald. "Betty (Wright's wife) is convinced and my doctors are convinced that I am going to live longer as a result of it."

Wright said he considered the attacks on him "unfair and cruel," adding that the perceived wrongs "were not being righted in the public perception by my apparent inability to communicate effectively through the media."

The ex-speaker insists he did nothing wrong, despite the House ethics committee's findings that it had reason to believe he broke House rules 69 times in connection with a book-publishing venture and a job and other benefits Fort Worth businessman George Mallick apparently gave to Wright's wife.

But these days, Wright is doing what he wants to do, when he wants to do it.

"I suppose I didn't realize the degree to which I was badgered and totally consumed by demands on my time," he said. "It was a constant daily grind of choice between the critical, the urgent and the merely important. ... That's enough to make you nervous. It just gnaws away at your transpire."

He and his wife sold their house in suburban Washington and bought a colonial-style home in southwest Fort Worth, where Wright spends time stocking his new rose garden with Tyler roses.

Report: medic ill prepared

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The Army medic responsible for readying a 9-year-old girl for a failed December helicopter hoist never received training that would better prepare her for such a mission, according to the Army's investigation of the accident.

The Army's accident investigation board did not directly blame the medic — Sgt. Nancy G. Wiles — for the accident. But it said flight medics from Fort Bliss should be given more opportunity to attend the Army's advanced Flight Medic Course.

Wiles said Sunday that she has been instructed not to discuss the accident.

Debbie Baisa of El Paso was critically injured Dec. 9 when she was flung 30 feet to the ground while being lifted to an Army helicopter. She had sprained her ankle while hiking in the Franklin Mountains.

Debbie has been released from the hospital and is recovering at home.

The Army released minutes of the accident investigation board's meetings and witnesses' statements to the El Paso Times last week in response to a request under the federal Freedom of Information Act.

Maj. Carmen Rinehart, commander of the Fort Bliss helicopter rescue platoon, told the board that Wiles and six of the unit's other seven medics haven't been formally trained in their jobs.

Lt. Col. Jim Lawson, a Fort Bliss spokesman, said Sunday that most of the medics in the helicopter rescue platoon learn through on-the-job training.

The Flight Medic Course, which would have given Wiles and other medics in-depth instruction in the use of hoists and litters, is "desirable but not required," Lawson said.

A summary of Rinehart's statements to the accident investigation board said, "The (training) slots are difficult to obtain and the unit is low on the priority list."

The board ruled Feb. 9 that the girl fell because she was improperly secured to the basket used to lift her to the Army's hovering helicopter on the west slopes of the Franklin Mountains.

The Army board said most of the fault in the accident belonged to the police Mountain Rescue Team, although the Army helicopter team made some mistakes.

City officials have declined comment on the case because Debbie's family has said it plans to file a lawsuit.

Peace negotiations between the United States and North Vietnam opened in Paris in 1968.

DEAR ABBY: Please permit me to add my own experiences to those of the woman who signed herself "Itty-Bitty Betty in Boise," who wrote about the problems she encountered because she is only 4 feet 10 inches tall. She said she'd been accused of trying to "sneak" into R-rated movies — and needed two IDs to go to a bar.

Please don't feel disadvantaged by your small stature and youthful appearance. I am 5 feet 1 1/2 inches tall and couldn't get a girl to dance with me in high school. Neither could I play football or basketball, but I did win the 100-yard dash! My dream was to join the U.S. Marine Corps, so upon graduation from high school in 1946 (and after nine months of unsuccessful attempts to enlist), I received a height waiver from Gen. A.A. Vandergrift, then commandant of the Marine Corps. I became the shortest man in the Marine Corps. In 1947, I was stationed in Hawaii with the tallest man in the Marine Corps. He was 6 foot 9 inches!

During the Korean Conflict, I got two field promotions. I finished nine years in the Marine Corps as first sergeant when I got an appointment as a federal correctional officer at Alcatraz Island in 1955. Yes — all 5 feet 1 1/2 inches of me!

I became a black belt in judo, then a judo instructor. Subsequently I was a deputy sheriff in Jacksonville, Fla. I'm no hero, but I wore 17 ribbons on my Marine uniform, and at 62, nobody takes me for a day over 50.

DEAR J.J.V.: At 5 feet 1 1/2 inches, you have a lot of guys looking up to you. Semper Fi, Sarge!

DEAR ABBY: I always thought conversations between social workers and clients were strictly confidential — like doctor-patient relations.

Eight years after my graduation from high school, I was a "suspect" in a paternity case and was interviewed by an old buddy who later blabbed it all over town. She did not mention that a second guy was also a suspect and was also interviewed. Nor did she consider my constitutional right to be presumed innocent until proven guilty.

Abby, how can anyone in this situation clear his name after what this blabbermouth said?

Unfortunately, my innocence was proven later — when the girl gave birth 10 months and three days after my last date with her.

LONGTIME READER

DEAR READER: You could sue for defamation of character, but that would require proving that the gossip damaged you. You would also have to provide witnesses to testify that "the old buddy" blabbed.

If it's any consolation, you're in prestigious company. In 1863, Abraham Lincoln said:

"If I were to read, much less answer, all the attacks made on me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the very best I know how, the very best I can, and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If that end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, then angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Appearances are of utmost importance today, so be sure your behavior is positive if you hope to inspire or control others. To be a leader, you must first look like one. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your intuition and hunches are moderately valuable assets today, provided they are assessed in a logical fashion. Taken alone, they may count for nothing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When socializing with friends, be open minded and receptive. Conversations might be more meaningful than usual today and valuable information could be exchanged.

Success in a particular deal frequently depends on which side must first play a key suit. Today's deal from a team-of-four competition shows how precise defense can avoid an end-position trap.

West led the king of hearts. When East followed with the six-spot, West switched to the two of diamonds. East played the queen, and South took the ace. South then drew two rounds of trumps and played another diamond. East won the king, and played jack and another heart. Declarer ruffed. Eventually, when declarer got around to playing clubs, he could not avoid another loser.

At the other table West was careless. After the king of hearts, he cashed the heart queen. Since his partner had followed with the six and 10, he knew the jack was with East. He now switched to a diamond, but look how the defensive play differed from the play at the other table. Declarer won the diamond ace, played a spade to dummy's jack and ruffed a heart. He then played a second spade to dummy's king and ruffed the last heart. The defenders were now exhausted of trumps. South played a diamond, won by East's king. East was forced to play a club. Declarer played the opponents for split club honors and brought in the suit without a loser.

Residents in East Texas town reluctant to talk about verdict

HEMPHILL, Texas (AP) — Residents in this East Texas town are reluctant to talk about the recent murder conviction of three white former lawmen in the beating death of a black jail inmate.

Locals say they're unwilling to talk about the incident because they want to prevent more "unfair" and "exaggerated" news stories in a town besieged by reporters from cities such as Tyler, Houston, Shreveport and even New York.

Others say they just don't want to stir up racial tension.

Loyal Garner Jr., 34, from Florien, La., was beaten at the Sabine County Jail on Christmas Day 1987 after being arrested on a drunken driving charge. He died of head injuries two days later.

Local reticence, observers say, is part of an unwritten code of silence — an unofficial news blackout to outsiders sparked by a murder trial that placed a national spotlight on the town of approximately 1,300.

Some residents say the fatal beating gives a tragic glimpse of law enforcement harassment and beatings in Sabine County.

Earlier this month, an all-white jury in Tyler sentenced former Hemphill Police Chief Thomas Ladner, 43, to 28 years in prison. Former Deputy Sheriff James "Bo" Hyden, 36, got 14 years in jail and former Sabine County sheriff's Deputy Bill Horton, 60, got 10 years imprisonment.

Blacks make up 20 percent of the county's population, but there's only one black city councilman and no black county commissioners, police or sheriff's deputies.

Hemphill Mayor Richard Bass, 61, praised the records of the three former Hemphill lawmen.

"They were good police officers for 12 to 15 years and then they slip and the news media blows it out of proportion," Bass said. "You can't judge a community by one incident."

Bass is hopeful the three former lawmen will win on appeal.

Now pending is a federal court case in which the three claim the Tyler trial represented double jeopardy, because they were tried and acquitted of violating Garner's civil rights in an earlier trial in Hemphill.

Bass said the trial hasn't caused racial flare-ups. But Hemphill Mayor Pro Tem Donald Powell disagreed.

"There is racial tension in this community, but there is racial tension everywhere," Powell said.

He said the trial "brought the community together. It spurred greater dialogue between the races."

Forty million years ago, parts of Antarctica had a moist, temperate climate that supported dense forests and animal life, National Geographic says.

Suns take series lead Lakers face elimination from NBA playoffs

by The Associated Press
Even with 3-1 leads in their respective best-of-7 NBA playoff series, coaches Cotton Fitzsimmons and Chuck Daly aren't taking anything for granted.

"We haven't done anything yet. We just narrowed this down to a three-game series," Fitzsimmons said after his Phoenix Suns took a 3-1 lead in their best-of-7 Western Conference semifinal by defeating the Los Angeles Lakers 114-101. "I do think we have a shot at winning this series, but we are going to have to work very hard."

Daly said essentially the same thing after his defending champion Detroit Pistons' 102-90 victory over the Knicks in New York, with Game 5 scheduled for Auburn Hills, Mich., on Tuesday night.

"Our job isn't done yet," Daly said. "You've got to get four, and it's going to be a hard thing to get. The Knicks are going to come at us again so they can bring it back home."

Elsewhere, Michael Jordan scored 45 points and the Chicago Bulls opened the fourth quarter with a 22-6 spurt to beat the Philadelphia 76ers 111-101 for a 3-1 lead in their Eastern Conference series, which resumes Wednesday night in Chicago.

The Portland-San Antonio Western Conference series is tied 2-2, with Game 5 scheduled for Portland on Tuesday night.

Suns 114, Lakers 101
At Phoenix, Kevin Johnson scored 11 of his 30 points in the final 10:14 — he also had 16 assists — and the Suns survived a late rally by the Lakers. Tom Chambers added 27 points and Jeff Hornacek 23 for the Suns, who have never beaten the Lakers in six previous playoff series, including last year's 4-0 sweep.

The Suns shot 13-for-17 in building a 14-point first-period lead and led 62-48 at halftime on 57 percent accuracy. "We have to try to win it right away, even though it's on their home court," Hornacek said. "We feel confident. The last two games have shown us what we can do."

Pistons 102, Knicks 90
Detroit took advantage of Patrick Ewing's first-half foul trouble to take the lead for good — it was 51-42 at the intermission — and then put on a second-half defensive clinic.

Ewing, who scored 45 points in Saturday's victory, was scoreless in the first half while playing only six minutes because of foul trouble and taking only one shot. He scored 30 points in the second half.

"There's no use crying over spilled milk, but it might have been a different game if I had played the first half," Ewing said. "Every time I came down they would hold me, then I'd fall back and they'd call a personal foul. It's got to be called the same on both ends of the floor."

Detroit forced the Knicks into missing 16 of their first 21 shots in the second half.

Bulls 111, 76ers 101
Jordan scored 18 points in the final period as Chicago rallied from a nine-point deficit to take a 91-90 lead. The Bulls stretched their lead to 99-92 before Philadelphia scored five straight points to make it 99-97 with 3:42 left.

Tribe slips Hough defeat in Arlington

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers bring out the best in Cleveland right-hander John Farrell, and Charlie Hough brings out the best of the Indians hitters.

Farrell (3-1) raised his lifetime record against Texas to 4-0 Sunday night, shutting the Rangers down on five hits over eight innings in the Indians' 4-1 victory.

Hough is 0-4 in his last six starts against Cleveland, after beating them 13 straight times.

With four starters missing from his lineup due to injuries by game's end, Rangers manager Bobby Valentine was dealing from a short deck.

But the way Farrell was pitching, the Rangers at full strength still would have experienced problems scoring runs.

Farrell (3-1) was able to throw his fastball for strikes and that made his slider and change-up more effective as he lowered his lifetime ERA against the Rangers to 2.43.

"They're a free-swinging team," Farrell said. "If you get them swinging early in the count you can get good quality location and they won't get the meat of the bat on the ball. If I throw strikes early in the game, I can work off that."

Farrell struck out four and walked three, then gave way to major league save leader Doug Jones in the ninth. Jones yielded one hit in converting his 12th save in as many opportunities.

Farrell lost his shutout bid when Gary Pettis hit his first home run with two out in the eighth. Nevertheless, the Rangers continued their dismal performance against right-handed pitchers. Before Sunday, they were batting .219 against them.

Offensive problems continue for Astros

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Houston Astros may have had good intentions of cooling off the Pittsburgh Pirates, but the one word Manager Art Howe didn't want to hear after being swept in the three-game series was intentional.

The Pirates not only scored all their runs in Sunday night's 5-1 victory following intentional walks, but the Astros lost a run because of a rarely called intentional interference call.

No wonder Howe is wondering when the Astros are going to run into some good luck, because all they ran into Sunday were two outs at home plate — and the hottest team in baseball.

"We're just not putting any runs on the board," said Howe, whose Astros scored only five runs in the series. "I'm concerned over the offense. We've got to start generating something. We have the players to do it but we're not getting it done."

Name any Pirate and he's probably doing a job on opposing pitching. For example, Jose Lind drove in two runs following intentional walks and Barry Bonds, who's hitting .442 in his last 14 games, scored three runs, had two hits and an RBI.

Banquet set for Tuesday

Ira's 1990 sports banquet is slated for Tuesday at Reta's Cake Shop in Snyder at 6:30 p.m.

The function will honor the efforts of Bulldog and Lady Bulldog athletes during the school year.

A photographer will be on hand from 5-6:30 p.m. for pictures of couples in attendance.

Tickets, which may be purchased at the school office, are priced at $6 for adults and $3 for children under 10.

and Bob Walk's career high-tying eight strikeouts, and it's easy to see why the Pirates have won eight of nine, 14 of 17 and 17 of 21.

"We're contagious right now... everybody's playing well and everybody is feeding off everybody else," said Walk (3-3). "We're playing great defense and doing the little things you have to do to win ballgames."

Bonds, who has at least one RBI in seven consecutive games, is regularly batting fifth these days, but he's still a dangerous leadoff hitter.

Bonds walked and stole second in the fifth inning and, after Mike LaValliere was intentionally walked an out later, scored on Lind's ground single into left field. Shortstop Rafael Ramirez broke for second on the play and Lind slapped the ball right where he'd been.

Bonds doubled off Bill Gullickson (2-2) to start the seventh, moved up on a groundout and, again after LaValliere was intentionally walked, scored on Lind's sacrifice fly.

"He's probably zeroed in and focused in... better than he's ever been," Manager Jim Leyland said of Bonds, who has 23 hits in his last 14 games. "He's maturing as a player and he's coming of age."

"I'm not taking any game lightly or any pitcher lightly," Bonds said. "In the past sometimes I'd be happy when I was doing well and I'd get too comfortable. Now I'm going from game to game and never giving in."

The Pirates broke the game open in the eighth, scoring three times on Bonds' RBI single and LaValliere's two-run single after Reynolds was intentionally walked with two outs. In the top of the eighth, Reynolds threw out Casey Candaele at the plate on Craig Biggio's two-out pinch single.

The Astros lost another run in very unconventional fashion in the third. Gullickson walked and advanced on Casey Candaele's walk, then broke for the plate on Glenn Davis' two-out single to left.

Supreme Court rules...

States cannot sue asbestos makers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to let 30 states including Texas sue 26 manufacturers in the nation's highest court over removal of asbestos from public schools and other government buildings.

The court, without comment, refused to hear arguments that the manufacturers should pay for such removal.

Today's action does not preclude the 30 states from suing asbestos manufacturers in their respective state courts.

But the states first went to the justices, hoping to head off a competition among themselves for monetary damages from the asbestos makers.

In an unusual move, the states asked the court to invoke its "original jurisdiction" so this big-stakes dispute could be consolidated and resolved before any lower court considers it.

The request was denied. Asbestos has been used for decades in the construction of buildings and ships. The inhalation of asbestos fibers has been linked to various diseases.

Tens of thousands of personal-injury lawsuits have been filed against asbestos manufacturers by shipyard workers. Hundreds of asbestos-in-buildings suits also have been filed.

The justices were told that eight states have sued asbestos makers in their state courts, seeking to have them pay the costs of removing the substance from public buildings.

The eight states are Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia.

In response to the request acted on today, lawyers for one asbestos maker, W.R. Grace & Co., said, "There is no national or even interstate issue involved here. Plaintiffs may turn at any time to their own state courts as have their eight sister states."

The case is Alabama vs. W.R. Grace, 116 Original.

ingsley and Duaine Davis. The court voted unanimously to allow a budget amendment for precinct 3 for the payment of a lease on a roller-packer.

The court also authorized the county to advertise for bids for lease of the old airport terminal building. The lease would be subject to continued weekly use of Snyder Palette Club. Bids will be opened at 10:30 a.m. June 4.

Commissioners will also seek bids, to be opened at 10:30 a.m. on June 11, for proposals to perform the county's 1990 audit.

Auditor Linda Franklin made the request earlier this year so the figure can be used for budget planning.

Appearing before the court concerning the swimming pool were several members of Snyder Kiwanis Club. Spokesman Terry Bowden said they were interested in knowing the basis for the decision to close the pool and what, if anything, can be done to assist the county in providing a public pool this summer.

The decision to close the pool was made last year following the presentation of petitions calling for a roll-back of county taxes. Judge Goodwin said the pool operated at an approximate loss of $17,000.

Goodwin said the court has been under pressure to reduce expenditures, and that declining use of the pool indicated a lack of interest.

Commissioner Gray concurred, saying only two people attended a meeting concerning the possibility of offering the pool for lease.

Bowden said it was his understanding that the meeting was for potential pool operators, and noted that citizens are interested in having a place for youth to go during the hot summer months.

Bowden said he feared closing of the pool would result in problems such as increased vandalism with the youth. He said people looking at locating a business here would receive a negative message to a closed pool in the park.

Several Kiwanis Club members, as well as two representatives from the Lions Club, said local civic organizations likely would be willing to help fund or hold fundraisers to assist with operation of the pool.

Bowden said he personally wanted the county to operate the pool this summer with good cost-accounting and then see if any funds need to be raised.

Sheriff Keith Collier and Deputy Joe Cheyne said they believed young people of the community need a public pool and that its unavailability could have an adverse impact on law enforcement requirements.

Kiwanis Club member Art Feinsod echoed this thought. "When we have 105 and 107 degree days, kids need a place to vent their energy or some of them will get in trouble."

Lions Dan Hicks and Don West said they believed their club would be willing to help the county with funding for the pool.

Businessman Richard Dupree asked if costs could be reduced if the diving boards are removed. Rick Hall of Snyder Insurance said most companies who write liability insurance will require removal of both the diving boards and slide.

Last year the pool operated with a manager and four life guards.

Pair arrested for resisting arrest Sunday

Police making a routine traffic stop early Sunday morning arrested two persons not involved in the traffic check for resisting arrest.

Anabelia Lopez Lujan, 32, was charged with aggravated assault, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and abusive language. David Lopez, 26, was arrested for interfering with the duties of a public servant and for resisting arrest.

The incident occurred at 1:09 a.m. Sunday in the 2900 Block of Ave. D. Both were taken to the Scurry County Jail.

At 10:47 p.m. Saturday, a 36-year-old male was arrested in the 2600 Block of College Ave. for driving while intoxicated.

Three arrests for public intoxication also occurred during the weekend. One occurred at 1:37 a.m. Sunday in the 1300 Block of 23rd St. involving a 25-year-old male. At 4:15 a.m. Sunday, city officers arrested 63-year-old man for public intoxication. At 1:06 a.m. Saturday, a 24-year-old female was arrested in the 1300 Block of 28th St. for public intoxication and failure to identify.

At 10:28 a.m. Saturday, a Class A theft was reported at Jack's Used Cars on 25th Street. Reported missing was an unknown amount of cash from the firm's office.

At 7:42 a.m. Sunday in the 100 Block of 25th St., Lee Costillo reported that someone had tried to break into his vehicle. At 3:57 p.m. at 1101 30th, Paul Luera reported that stereo speakers has been stolen from his pickup. At 5:44 p.m. Saturday, Bill Sherrill reported that a camcorder had been stolen from his vehicle while parked at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Other weekend police activity included numerous reports of noise disturbance, to include barking dogs and loud music. Two domestic disturbances and two reports of wreckless drivers were taken — one in Towle Park and one in the 2800 Block of 47th St.

At 8:07 p.m. Sunday, a caller reported finding a bicycle at Logan Field in Towle Park. The bike was taken to the police station. At 10:28 p.m. Saturday, the department received a report that subjects had thrown unknown liquid at his vehicle.

for reform, said Ms. Salazar. Under measures passed by the House and Senate and sent to a conference committee, school districts would be guaranteed a certain amount of money if they levy local property taxes at a particular rate, as under the current system.

Ms. Salazar said the governor believed property tax rates could "skyrocket" by 1995 as school districts sought the maximum state aid available under lawmakers' plan.

"The governor just can't support that," she said. Backers of the Legislature's plan have said school districts would gain additional state funding even without going to the maximum property tax rate, and so many districts wouldn't do so.

They also said Clements' plan would force local property tax increases because it wouldn't pump in enough state aid for reform.

"At this stage of the game, the sticking point is that they (the governor's office) want us to abandon all standards of equity," said Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, one of the legislative negotiators.

"We can satisfy the governor's office by doing that. But then we can't satisfy the court, so what good does it do us?" Colbert asked.

If by June 1 lawmakers and Clements don't come up with a funding reform plan as ordered by the state Supreme Court, court master William Kilgarlin will propose one that could be imposed on Texas schools.

Howard College, Cogdell will provide clinical experience, classroom space, office space and secretarial support for the program in addition to guaranteeing a salary subsidy for the instructor, Clay.

During a February board meeting, Chambers and Hochwalt told managers that Cogdell should have no trouble filling the class, which would total 12 students. If the class is full, Cogdell will not have to subsidize the salary for the course instructor.

Hochwalt said this morning that the Board of Nursing Examiners will review all information submitted to them and interview officials from Howard College. He said he and Rep. Counts also plan to address the board.

"It is my understanding they will then discuss the issue and make a determination tomorrow at the hearing itself," Hochwalt said.

Court refuses to reinstate award

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to reinstate a $22.5 million award against an insurance company stemming from a tug-of-war game in which two Texas children suffered severe injuries.

The court, without comment, let stand a ruling that threw out the award.

The accident occurred Feb. 5, 1981, at an elementary school in Katy, Texas.

April Hall lost three fingers and Nichole Wyatt lost fingernails and skin from her fingers when they were unable to let go of a rope tied around their hands.

Two minor wrecks occur over weekend

Two minor wrecks occurred in Snyder during the weekend.

The first was reported at 1:59 p.m. Saturday in the 3900 Block of Denison. A parked 1980 Chevrolet pickup owned by Glendal Garvin of 3000 39th St. was struck by a 1972 Ford driven by David Stewart of 3003 40th.

There were no injuries, but a wrecker was called to separate the two vehicles which sustained moderate damage.

Dolphin prices up due to demand, capture ban

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — One of the most valuable investments these days may be a Flipper lookalike.

Dolphin prices are soaring. One reason is an unexplained Dolphin illness in the Gulf of Mexico, a prime frolicking ground for the intelligent mammals, which has forced a ban on dolphin captures there.

Moreover, demand for dolphins has jumped markedly from tourist businesses, which range from swim-with-the-dolphin theme park attractions to aquariums and even a casino.

Federal officials say they've recently heard of offers made for top performing dolphins from $50,000 to $100,000 apiece, but exact figures are guarded industry secrets.

"So long as they are captured and cared for under the law, I don't care how much money they make," said Chuck Oravetz, protected species coordinator for the National Marine Fisheries Service branch in St. Petersburg. "Economics is not something we delve into."

But the stakes could keep climbing because the Gulf of Mexico, where nearly all dolphins for display are captured, is off limits until scientists can determine what has caused the 237 known dolphin deaths so far this year.

A 90-day federal moratorium on captures was scheduled to last through mid-June but may be extended if the dolphin deaths continue.

Even when captures are resumed, new quotas will be in effect to further restrict how many dolphins can be taken from the wild. That will make those in captivity much more valuable.

"It's a matter of the laws of supply and demand," said Nick Brown, director of the non-profit National Aquarium in Baltimore, which plans to open a $35 million marine mammal facility by this fall. "We're having a hard time keeping up."

In the past year, the National Aquarium's budget to procure dolphins has jumped from $300,000 to more than $1 million because of increased demand, Brown said.

Nine facilities, which also include Disney World and the Indianapolis Zoo, have permits to capture a total of 36 dolphins from the Gulf this year. Those plans are on hold. But it's the latest entry into the business that is causing the most controversy — dolphins will soon compete with showgirls and slot machines at the Mirage hotel and casino on the shimmering Las Vegas strip.

"Whenever a facility has never held dolphins before, there's controversy, especially when it has a lot of money to spend," said Ann Terbush, chief of the fisheries service's permit division in Silver Spring, Md. "I think the Mirage has had an effect on increasing the price of dolphins."

Behind the Mirage swimming pool, workers are putting the finishing touches on a 1.5 million gallon display that is set to open with six dolphins in September.

"We have a 20,000-gallon tropical fish tank, a rain forest and a display of tigers — now we'll have a state-of-the-art facility for dolphins," said Mirage spokesman Alan Feldman. "It's another attraction that makes the Mirage a special place."

He emphasized there are no plans for the dolphins to perform tricks and it will not be a swim-with-the-dolphins attraction. "The primary purpose is to help educate the public about dolphins."

As a new dolphin display, the Mirage has a federal permit restricting its acquisition to animals already in captivity.

Although Feldman would not elaborate on the bids the Mirage is making for dolphins, he said money wasn't the prime concern.

"It's not like something you walk into Sears and buy," Feldman said. "Yes, it's expensive to the extent we are willing to buy dolphins that have been well cared for and that are healthy."

In April, the Mirage purchased its first dolphin, an 8-year-old female performer named Sigma, from the recently closed SeaArama in Galveston, Texas, fisheries service officials said.

"Price is confidential," said SeaArama dolphin supervisor John Dellanera, adding that it was less than the rumored $100,000. "It was a more than fair price."

The trading of dolphins as just another marketable commodity galls activists such as Richard O'Barry, a former trainer for the Flipper television series who now runs the Miami-based Dolphin Project, an organization dedicated to protecting dolphins. "It's a very sleazy business," said O'Barry, who has protested the Mirage facility.

"A casino is no place for dolphins," he said. "It's going to be 'Dolphins for the Rich and Famous.'"

The Dolphin Project follows the activities of known dolphin trappers and attempts to track the prices paid for dolphins.

O'Barry said some marine veterinarians routinely charge approved facilities $20,000 to capture dolphins from the wild, while dolphin stars trained to leap for fish and jump through hoops command prices up to $100,000.

Jay Sweeney, a San Diego marine mammal veterinarian who has trapped dolphins for several facilities, said the price he charges for the service varies, but it is around $10,000 plus expenses for his boats and crew of eight. Opponents of Dolphin trading say regulation is not tight enough because of the inherent conflict of interest in the Marine Mammal Protection Act. The Commerce Department and the National Marine Fisheries Service, empowered to protect the interests of business, are also in charge of protecting dolphins.

But the fisheries service contends there is a misperception about how many dolphins are actually captured and in captivity.

Of the estimated 45,000 dolphins in the Gulf of Mexico, the fisheries service reported only 25 captured last year. The quota allowed to be taken this year, if the capture ban is lifted, will be lowered from 31 to 35. There are 351 dolphins in captivity in the United States, fisheries service figures show.

Those numbers pale in comparison to the estimated 100,000 dolphins that have died annually in the nets of tuna fleets fishing in the eastern tropical Pacific. Tuna companies selling brands such as Starkist, Chicken of the Sea and Bumble Bee have recently announced they've switched to fishing methods that won't kill the dolphins.

Regardless of the emphasis on commercialization, the National Aquarium's Brown says dolphin displays not only satisfy the national fascination for the creatures, but also promote understanding.

"I don't see the silent majority out there jumping on this bandwagon that targets dolphin displays as an issue like the homeless or abortion," he said. "Being able to go some place and see dolphins goes a long way toward making people aware of their environment and conservation efforts."

Some colleges now help seniors learn their way around 'the real world'

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — To paraphrase those harried parents in the 1960 musical "Bye Bye Birdie": What's the matter with college kids today?

How about fear of fatal sex, soaring inflation, debt, anxiety and vague notions of the real world? And that's just the start, say college administrators who are trying to help by offering courses that ease graduating seniors into adulthood.

One such program, "The Last Six Weeks," is offered at Assumption College, a Catholic school of 2,000 students set amid rolling lawns and quiet woods. Until he signed on, senior Paul Irish stared into the abyss of life-after-graduation and worried.

"Money was a big thing — how you make ends meet, getting a car, getting an apartment," said the 22-year-old from Auburn. He knew he wanted to be a history teacher. But he was sketchy on the details of adult survival.

"I thought willpower was everything," he said. Now he knows better.

"The Last Six Weeks" is an optional, non-credit course of structured late-night chat and pizza that gets into the nitty-gritty of the necessities like shelter and transportation, such as how much they cost and how to avoid scams.

Students learn about picking a career and shopping the job market, from writing a resume to dealing with sexual harassment and learning about corporate culture. The last class is about getting the most out of saying goodbye to college friends.

Why college students these days need such help isn't clear.

Members of the "me generation" may have become so self-absorbed they forgot to look around, suggested Brian McCoy, assistant director of residential life at Assumption. He helped design the program.

"Students don't explore as much as they used to," McCoy said.

Schools also feel pressure to do better, said John N. Gardner, a vice chancellor at the University of South Carolina in Columbia.

"A number of corporate leaders are very unhappy about what we're producing," he said. "This year we're spending $110 billion on higher education for 13.2 million people. That's about one-third of what we spend on national defense."

"There is a tremendous increased public pressure for accountability in colleges and universities."

One result is that Gardner has focused his attention on the transitions into and out of college. In March, he organized a national conference in Atlanta called the "Senior Year Experience" to look at what schools are doing about it.

Regis College in Weston offers a course in leadership for students planning management careers. Carroll College in Waukesha, Wis., sends its seniors to work as consultants to businesses to get them past "job shock." Seniors at the University of Hartford can take a course called "Pluralism Revisited" to expose them to the diverse world they are about to enter.

Unlike college kids in the days of "Bye Bye Birdie," graduates these days have a harder world to take on, Gardner said. "Sex can kill," he said. "It costs more money to buy a home. There are far fewer barriers for women and minorities, but on the other hand there are more personal threats to your health and more violence.

"Students are graduating with staggering debt. You add that all up and college graduates are a lot more anxious and they count on a lot fewer certainties than their parents."

Marianne Tavares works in human resources at Waters Chromatography in nearby Milford and encounters naive college grads all the time. The ones who make her chuckle say they intend to be managers making $40,000 in 18 months.

Teen reaches perfection on college-entrance examination

DALLAS (AP) — Joshua Breslau doesn't think his perfect score on the national Scholastic Aptitude Test is anything special, saying that on most of the verbal skills questions he "just had to make an educated guess, I guess."

The 16-year-old Skyline High School student was rather matter-of-fact about scoring 1600 on the college entrance exam. "I was very happy with it," he said.

His mother, Sharon Breslau, wasn't surprised by her son's feat — attained by fewer than 10 of the approximately 1 million high school students who took the test.

"We've known him since he was a baby, and Josh is Josh — he's very bright," Mrs. Breslau said. "It's really delightful to live with somebody like that."

West winners announced for May 5 Jr. Olympics

Everyone was a "winner" at the First Annual Junior Olympics Festival staged May 5. The event was sponsored by the West Elementary Parent Council Association.

Over 350 students from West participated in the track and field events including 50 and 100 yard sprints, low hurdles, running broad jump, long distance runs and softball throw.

Students, faculty and family members had a wide variety of fun booths to choose from including testing their skill at basketball toss, horseshoes, golf punting and fish pond.

Crazy races were also very popular and drew crowds of onlookers who cheered the contestants as they competed in gunny sack races, three-legged races, parent-child relays and the tug-o-war which proved to be one of the most popular events.

Other popular booths featured face-painting, and logos of the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and New Kids on the Block.

Helen Lovett and Candy Payne, co-chairmen, report that over $1,450 was raised for improvements and playground equipment for West Elementary.

Since this first-time effort was such a "huge success," plans are already underway for next year's Junior Olympics Festival with may be expanded, if possible, to include competitors from the five other elementary schools in Snyder.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 24-year-old female with asthma. I've recently heard of Proventil in pill form and wonder if it might be more effective than the inhaler. What role, if any, do sinus play in asthma?

DEAR READER: Asthma is characterized by excess mucous secretions in the respiratory tract, coupled with attacks of bronchial spasm, leading to wheezing and an inability to rid the lungs of stale air. Bronchodilators, drugs which relieve bronchial spasm, are the traditional, mainstay treatment of asthma.

Proventil (albuterol sulfate) is such a drug. It is available in several forms: aerosol, pills and liquid. In my experience, the aerosol is effective in relieving asthma attacks, whereas the pills (and liquid) are useful in preventing bronchospasm.

If you have only mild, occasional wheezing, the spray is probably more appropriate when used as directed at the first sign of an attack. On the other hand, if you are constantly troubled by asthma, the pills would be a good option. Ask your doctor about this.

I might add that other equally effective medicines are also available in aerosols and pills. Therefore, you need not be limited to one product. Depending on the severity of your condition, your doctor might choose to prescribe Proventil pills for prevention and another spray, such as Alupent (metaproterenol), for treatment of acute attacks.

Proventil spray and tablets should not be used together because the combination could result in overdose, marked by nervousness, tremor, headache, hypertension and angina.

Sinus problems play at least three roles in asthma. First, sinus infection (especially if chronic) can spread to the bronchial tree, causing bronchitis, which is itself a major contributor to asthma.

Second, sinus inflammation often reflects an acute allergic reaction, indicating that both the sinus congestion and the asthma have an identical cause. Inhalational allergies — to dusts, pollens and other air pollutants — are frequent causes of asthma and sinus inflammation.

Third, sinus congestion, with the ubiquitous discharge of mucus down the back of the throat (postnasal drip), commonly causes coughing. As most asthmatics know, periodic coughing (as well as sneezing, laughing or shouting) can precipitate an acute asthma attack.

I have several patients who develop asthma when they have colds or hay fever simply because their coughing triggers bronchospasm. In such cases, antihistamines and/or cough medicine are extremely useful in preventing wheezing and difficulty breathing.

If you have a sinus problem, it — along with your asthma — should be addressed by your doctor.

To give you additional information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Bryant's prefers to use steam extraction

Bryant's Carpet Cleaning has served Snyder over 12 years. They have used or seen every type of carpet cleaning. Even though they could use a cheaper method, they prefer steam extraction. This method extracts the dirt and stains, whereas other methods leave the dirt in the carpet. For a clean and safe carpet, steam extraction is by far the best method.

Some methods leave the carpet wet, but they leave it only damp so it will dry in only a few hours. This is because they have the latest truck mount unit with more power than smaller units. The unit stays in the van and only the cleaning head goes into the house, eliminating spills in the home.

Most carpets need to be cleaned within a year, depending on the traffic. Not only can they be dirty, but after walking on the carpet awhile the carpet protector is worn off. They can clean the carpet and replace the carpet protector, which is similar to Scotch Gard.

In some cases they can clean the carpet as inexpensively as you can rent a machine. Many times when people try to do it themselves and the carpet won't come clean, they keep adding detergents to the machine. This results in the carpet becoming too wet. Also, the detergents leave a residue in the carpet and the carpet seems to get dirty quicker. Bryant's doesn't leave a residue in the carpet because they prespray with cleaners and when they go over the carpet with the cleaning head, they use only soft hot water.

Carpets should be cleaned regularly if anyone in your home has allergies and also if you are

Flooding hampers Mother's Day

CAMILLA, Texas (AP) — Tina Lapaglia spent Mother's Day with her husband and two children at the campgrounds at Lake Livingston. But the day was no picnic.

"We've been moving up until last night," said Mrs. Lapaglia, 30. "We put everything in storage and we're leaving."

The Lapaglias settled their children with neighbors staying in a two-man trailer at the campgrounds and then the couple stayed with friends in Shepherd. Their own home in Camilla Twin Harbors was left abandoned as rising waters from the rain-swollen Trinity River threatened to destroy it for the second time in less than a year.

"The last time, there wasn't any warning," Mrs. Lapaglia said. "We had lots of time this time and we took it. All the furniture and all the clothes — everything possible to start a new household."

Tina and Junior Lapaglia had rebuilt since last June when flood waters ravished what was once their weekend retreat and had been their full-time home for more than six years.
