AUSTIN (AP) — A $528 million reform package Friday after a would: order to make more money

Besides pumping extra money into the $13.5 billion-a-year school finance system, the funding package of cuts and tax increases would raise an extra $100 Tuesday, the second day of this million to bail out financially strapped social service pro-

Besides addressing funding, the reform bill would make a number of changes designed to improve education performance and accountability.

It would allow expansion of the pre-kindergarten program to 3year-olds in the 1991-92 school year, at local option and given sufficient state funding; increase testing of students; and give the governor the authority to appoint the state education commissioner. Significant increases in these two areas, explained Peveler, are needed because of new legislation requiring the district to do additional mailing. According to Peveler, the district is preparing a mailing of 20,000-25,000 within the next few weeks.

Budget decreases include $2,000 less in appraisal programs and $2,500 in appraisal services.

Salaries make up the largest budget expenditure, at $187,098. Employee retirement amounts to $26,194.

A public hearing is required before the budget can be approved by board members.

The hearing is scheduled for 8 a.m. July 3 at the appraisal district building. Board members will meet at 7 a.m. for their regular monthly meeting and then reconvene after the hearing to approve the budget.

In other bussiness Tuesday, the board approved minutes and bills payable and adopted a general policy.

Board members in attendance were John Reed, Doug Flynn, Mickey Sterling and Juluis Roemisch. Board member Bill Voss was not present.

Department Store Discovers Customer Isn't Always Right remember the casebearer has

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A rather unusual happening occurred in our department store recently. Our store is quite a tourist attraction, founded by our parents 79 years ago.

One day a clerk spotted a set of dentures (false teeth) grinning at her from the table on which lingerie was displayed. After checking thoroughly with various customers who were in the store that day, we traced the dentures to a lady from San Francisco who was visiting friends in Hoquiam. We were able to obtain her address, so we wrote to her asking if she had left her dentures in our store. She answered immediately, asking us to please send the dentures at once as she was having difficulty eating and talking. We carefully wrapped the dentures, marked the package "fragile," insured it and mailed it promptly to the lady in San Francisco.

Abby, she never acknowledged that she had received her dentures, let alone thanked us for having sent them. Reimbursement for the postage and insurance was incidental, but we did expect a note of thanks.

My question: Was it our duty to take our time and effort to locate the owner of the dentures? I can still see those teeth grinning.

LA VOGUE DEPT. STORE

MANAGER, HOQUIAM, WASH.

DEAR MANAGER: You were more than generous to have tracked down the owner of the dentures in order to return them. The San Francisco lady could use a refresher course in manners. She's "couthless" as well as toothless.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's parents live less than a mile from us, and they want our children (their only grandchildren) to visit them often. Our children are 2 1/2 and 4 years old.

The grandparents are loving and well-meaning people, but they have an unprotected swimming pool in their backyard that worries me. They have assured me and my husband that they will watch our children every minute if we leave them in their care, but, Abby, as you know, accidents do happen.

I hate to come off looking like a "nervous Nellie," but I simply can-not bring myself to leave my children with these grandparents. I doubt if they realize that they are slowing down with age, and they've forgotten how fast little ones can be.

Please tell me I'm not paranoid. My friends (almost all of them) think nothing of dumping their kids with their parents for overnight visits and even weekends. Of course, I can't sign my name to this, but I'd appreciate an answer in your column. ME IN ARIZONA

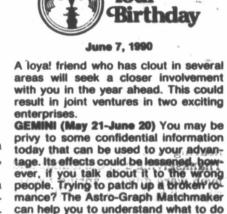

DEAR ME: You are not paranoid; all parents should have your sense of responsibility. Since you have doubts about your children's safety while they are in the care of your in-laws at their home, do not send them, take them to visit their grandparents, or invite the grandparents to your home.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine is being married soon, and she had several showers given for her. She said she received a lot of shower gifts she doesn't like (wrong color or just plain not her taste) and she plans to take them back to the store where they were purchased and ask for the

Lengthy civil suit has ended

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - It took seven months of testimony and a month of jury deliberations to settle it, but a state court jury has decided that the owners of a San Antonio bank are owed between $1.5 million and $2.8 million because their building

The end of the longest trial in Bexar County history came Tuesday evening when jurors an-nounced that they had found in favor of Kelly Field National Bank and Seattle First National Bank in a suit filed against Associated Indemnity Corp. and Fireman's Fund Insurance Co., two firms that held the performance bond on the building.

Steve Stewart, a lawyer representing the Seattle bank, owners of the building where the San Antonio bank is located, said lawyers for all sides will have to analyze the 82-page verdict before it is clear what the actual damage figures will be.

The building owners had sought more than $32 million in damages, primarily punitive. Jurors also awarded the banks $1.25 million in attorney's fees, half of what they sought.

Defense lawyer James Baumgartner Jr. said he will likely appeal the verdict.

After the verdict was read in District Judge Carleton Spears' court, the courtroom decorum degenerated into a party atmosphere as defense lawyers passed out T-shirts reading: "I did it for 8 months . . . Survived the longest trial in Bexar County history.

The judge got his share of applause when he told jurors he would see that the 12 were excused from jury duty for as long as he retains his bench.

Both Baumgartner and Stewart praised jurors for their dedication to the lengthy case.

"The jury and their efforts is where the real news lies," Stewart told reporters. "They made a lot of sacrifices during this trial."

Jurors in the case were tied up hearing the case during last Thanksgiving and Christmas and By James Jacoby even were given a spring break. They all had a recess while their foreman's wife had a baby.

It could have been worse. They were not sequestered, meaning they could go home at times when court was not in session.

Juror Eloisa Guerrero, 56, a mother of eight, learned that she has been laid off from her job as a quality inspector at Levi Strauss. Another Levi Strauss employee, Mary Frances Rodriguez, 43, who worked as a final inspector when she began her jury duty, said she has learned that she will not have the same position when she returns to work today.

William Allen Barber, an employee of Kelly Air Force Base, said one of the most serious problems for him while serving as a juror in the lengthy case was staying awake.

The jurors were paid $6 a day for a total of about $1,000. They will be paid their final $342 Friday, court officials said.

SNYDER—Electronic hearing

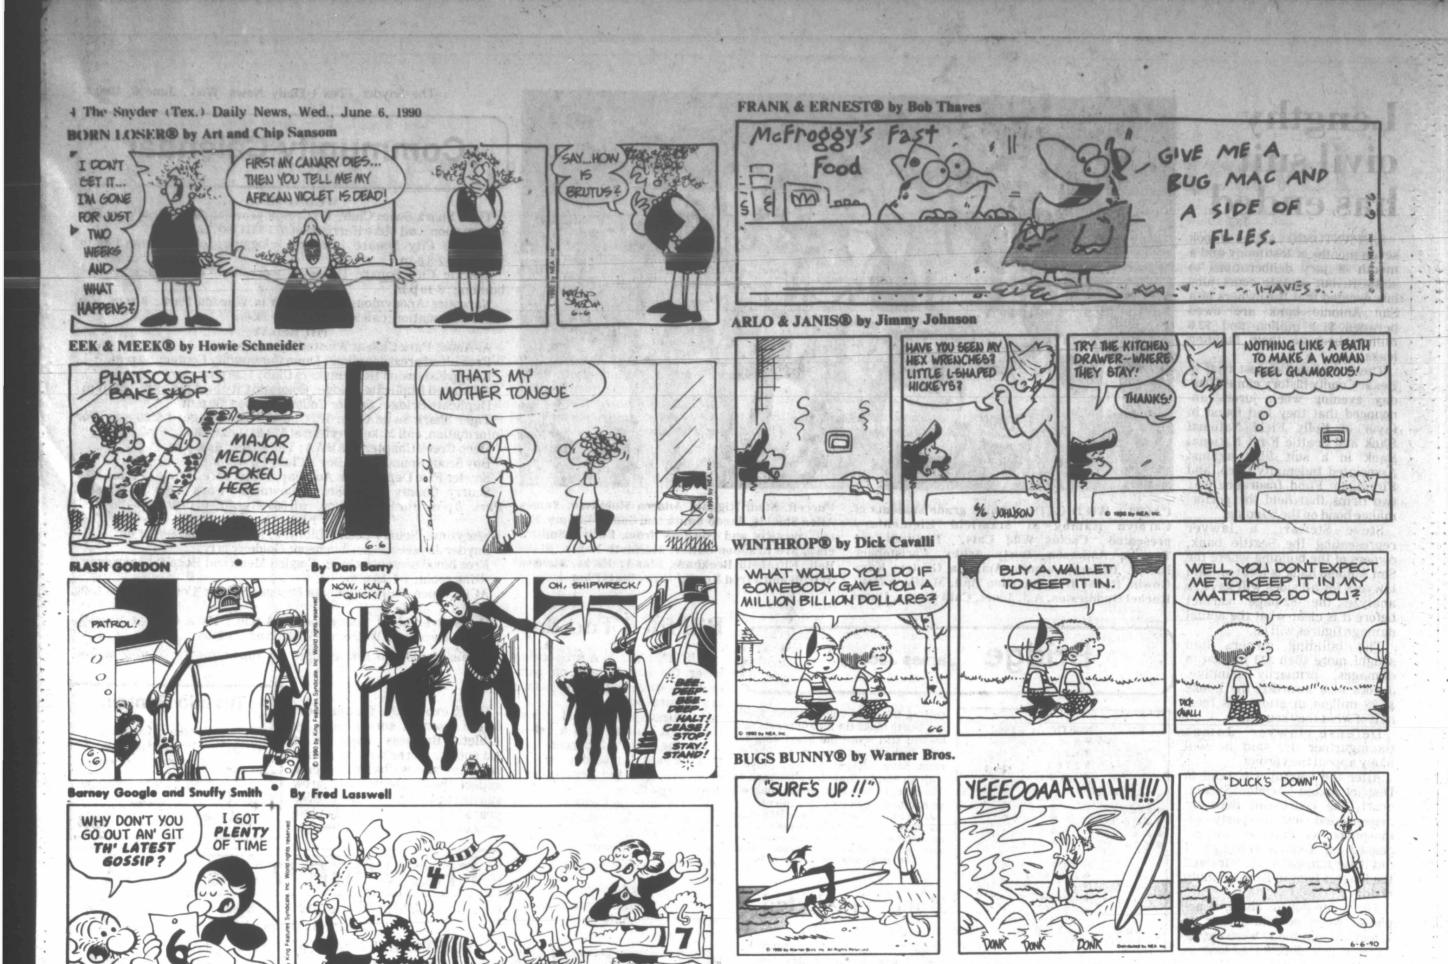

J. Wampler, Hearing Instrument Specialist, will be at 2603 Ave. M to perform the test.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if the loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have hearing test at least once a year-even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them. Only a hearing test can determine if you are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The free hearing tests will be given Friday, June 8th, from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon at the Senior Citizen's Center, 2603 Ave. M. If you can't come in, call for in-home service.

Feinstein to face Pete Wilson in California

By The Associated Press

Dianne Feinstein reached out for Democratic unity today after winning her party's nomination for governor of California and criticized Republican "caretaker government." North Carolina Democrats picked a black man to try to dethrone GOP Sen. Jesse

A half-dozen other senators gained nominations for new terms. Democrats Bill Bradley of New Jersey, Howell Heflin of Alabama and Max Baucus of Montana easily overcame challenges within their party, while Democrat Tom Harkin of Iowa and Republicans Larry Pressler of South Dakota and Pete Domenici of New Mexico were unopposed.

Incumbent governors in Alabama, Iowa and South Dakota also were renominated.

But it was the California Democratic primary for governor that drew most of the nationwide attention, both for the size of the state and because the next governor will play a large role in determining which party benefits from a census that may increase the state's congressional delegation by a half-dozen seats.

Sen. Pete Wilson breezed to an easy primary victory on the GOP side, and said he'd keep the governor's office in Republican hands. He decided to run for the job when two-term GOP Gov. George Deukmejian declined to seek a third term.

"My friends in the Democratic this is your last victory party of the 1990s," said Wilson, who is expected to raise close to $20 million for his campaign.

Feinstein praised Van de Kamp in her victory speech and said the fall campaign will be a choice between two Californias. "One ... with a declining quality of life, more crime, more traffic...It is content with caretaker government," she said. "But our

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said he does not think the reform bill will meet the Supreme Court order to design a constitutional school finance system.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Lewis said they think the legislation will pass court muster. And Clements dismissed criticism from some black and Hispanic legislators who said the school finance reforms did not go far enough.

"I don't know anybody that's happy with the bill. The fact that everybody's unhappy about it makes it probably a pretty good bill," Clements said.

But the next day, a second horseshoe was discovered missing from the pit.

At first, it wasn't clear what had happened, but now the mystery has been solved.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said Tuesday that Mrs. Gorbachev, who was with her husband when he pitched his ringer, put the second horseshoe in her purse.

"They took both," he said.

Social service spending ok'd

AUSTIN (AP) — A $100 million infusion of funds to social service agencies will prevent immediate cuts in important programs for the needy, but a key lawmaker says it's only a stopgap measure.

"We will still need an emergency appropriation next year," said Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, head of the Senate Finance Committee.

The Senate on Tuesday approved a $100 million bailout for the financially strapped departments of Human Services, Mental Health and Mental Retardation, and Health.

The funding boost for social services — part of an approximately $630 million bill that includes money for public school finance reform — was sent to the House for consideration.

The measure includes state budget cuts and fund transfers to help pay for school finance reform and social service needs.

Both the House and Senate have approved a quarter-cent sales tax increase and other fee increases to help pay for the pro-

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 56-yearfemale who suffered extensive left-hemisphere brain damage 36 years ago in a car accident. Due to emotional stress at my job, I've begun having attacks everyone calls TIAs, or small strokes. During these ep sodes, I'm unable to talk, and only animal sounds come out. There's no paralysis or other symptoms indicative of a stroke, yet my doctor says this is a form of stroke or could lead to one. What's your opinion? My job is at stake!

DEAR READER: First of all, temporary strokes (transient ischemic attacks) are not caused by stress. They are caused by tiny blood clots that break off from the roughened lining of arteries and are carried to the brain where they produce temporary neurological malfunction, such as weakness, confusion and difficulty speaking.

TIAs are treatable. One aspirin tablet a day will sufficiently retard blood coagulation so that small clots are less likely to form and cause symptoms. Also, other anti-coagulant medicine, such as heparin or Coumadin, can be used in more advanced cases. Finally, an operation called endarterectomy, to ream out the rough deposits in a diseased artery, may be necessary as a last resort to prevent a permanent stroke.

Your case is complicated by the fact you had a severe brain injury many years ago. I do not know what role this accident has played in causing your present symptoms.

In my opinion, you need an examination by a neurologist. Ask your doctor to refer you. The specialist will very likely order tests, such as a CT scan of the brain, to assess the degree of damage, establish a diagnosis (are you, in fact, having TIAs?) and recommend treatment

I am particularly concerned because, based on the information in your question, you may be on the verge of suffering a more disabling and permanent stroke, unless something is done right away. More than your job may be at stake. Ask your doctor to approve the aspirin therapy; insist on a neurological consultation. Please let me know what the specialist concludes

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Help I — Physical Illness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland. OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it possible to develop flu-like symptoms and edema of the feet after donating a pint of blood? Two days after donating, I experienced body aches, nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite, headache and fatigue. Is there a connection?

DEAR READER: Donating a single pint of blood is unlikely to cause the symptoms you mention. Ordinarily, blood donation causes no symptoms whatsoever, although some donors can experience weakness, headache and lassitude for short times

I suspect that, like anyone else, you picked up a flu bug causing symptoms that only seemed to be related to the blood donation. Remember that giving blood is not associated with any illness; rather, it's the receiving of blood products that is associated with disease, such as hepatitis and AIDS, unless the transfusion has been assiduously screened.
