Gordon Banks, chaplain for the Dallas Cowboys football team, will be the guest speaker for the Fourth of July Celebration Prayer Breakfast.

The breakfast will begin in Scurry County Coliseum at 8 a.m. on Wednesday, July 4. Tickets, available at the chamber of commerce, local churches and from prayer breakfast members, are $6 each.

Master of ceremonies will be Larry McAden, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church. Invocation will be by Rev. Raymond Dunkins, pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church.

Jason Cooper, Eagle Boy Scout from Snyder Troop 27, will lead the pledge of allegiance. Entertainment during the meal will be provided by the Emmanuel United Methodist Church Spanish gospel group. Escaped inmate indicted

An inmate who escaped last Monday from the Price Daniel prison unit was one of four persons indicted Monday by a Scurry County grand jury.

Travis Dale Gray, 31, was indicted for escape after leaving the unit in a van hauling furniture made at the Snyder unit. Part of his prison clothing was found inside the truck parked outside an Abilene motel.

The escape occurred about 1:15 p.m. June 20, and the suspect remains free while much of the around-the-clock search has centered in Howard County where Gray has relatives.

pastor of the First Assembly of God Church.

Banks played with the Cowboys as a wide receiver from 1985-88 after first playing two years for the New Orleans Saints and three years with the Oakland Invaders of the now-defunct USFL. A foot injury sidelined him as the Cowboys' starting wide receiver in the 1987 season, and he retired from football in the summer of 1988.

Banks has continued his work with the Cowboys as the team chaplain. He travels with the squad during the season, conducting Sunday worship services, and holds a weekly Bible study.

Amber Adams...

Local has lead in 'TEXAS'

"TEXAS," the annual extravaganza held in Palo Duro Canyon State Park, features a local girl as its lead actress.

Amber Adams, recent Snyder High School graduate, plays Elsie McLean, a "visitor from the east" and Uncle Henry's niece. She plays opposite lead actor Sherman Bass, a native of Dalhart, who plays Calvin Armstrong.

Adams gained most of her acting experience under Snyder High School drama director Jerry Worsham, appearing in four state One-Act Play Contests. She played in Hamlet, The Corn

County health insurance plan change opposed

A proposal to change third-party administrators for county health insurance resulted in strong opposition from Cogdell Hospital Administrator Tom Hochwalt today.

Discussion in the 10 a.m. commissioners court meeting resulted in a sharp rebuke by Precinct 4 Commissioner Ted Billingsley.

Hochwalt, who told the court that the hospital's change of plan last year will result in savings from $75,000 to $100,000, caused Billingsley to respond.

"Every time you come up here, you bring this up and I don't like it," Billingsley said. "You're hurting yourself. I get mad every time you come down here."

Hochwalt said it was not in his jurisdiction to suggest that the county change the plan, but to inform the court that the hospital is pleased with the current setup.

"We're entirely pleased. I see no need for change. We haven't given it (the current plan) enough time. It's too much change, too quick."

County Judge Bobby Goodwin noted that the county is not asking for a change in the plan, but rather seeking new proposals for a third-party administrator.

When the hospital changed last year, the hospital employee assumed a larger portion of the insurance premium, and Hochwalt said it placed the hospital's insurance program in line with most others in the community.

Billingsley reminded Hochwalt that hospital employees got a pay raise while the rollback election meant the proposed pay raise for county employees could not be implemented. "We can't take away their benefits, too."

Goodwin said he had worked with County Treasurer Rita Staton and Auditor Linda Franklin in trying to work out claims problems and administrative fees.

Mrs. Franklin said the current administrator, Alta, wanted additional fees for bookkeeping which currently is being per-

City council meets today

Snyder City Council will convene at 6:30 p.m. today in city hall for its regular monthly meeting.

Only two items are on the agenda — including an engineering update by Parkhill, Smith and Cooper of Lubbock concerning Snyder's wastewater treatment plant improvements.

A preliminary report in 1988 was prompted by certain changes in regulatory criteria, a need to renew the Texas Water Commission permit in 1990 and the current physical condition of the plant.

In other business, the council will also hear a report from Ron Skaggs, commander, concerning the mission and function of the Texas State Guard in Snyder.

Q—What is the route for the parade on July 4? Does it go around the square?

A—The parade stays in Towle Park. It will begin at Moffett Field, go east alongside the tennis courts and the Kiddie Park, circle the eastern edge of the pond and head back west until it reaches the National Guard Armory.

In Brief

Park gunfire

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — A second disturbance in a month at local parks has sent four young men to hospitals with gunshot wounds and required about 100 police officers to break up.

The state and local officers were called to this East Texas town Sunday night to control a crowd that apparently became hostile after the shooting of one man at 9:45 p.m. Sunday, officials said.

Deputy shot

HOUSTON (AP) — An off-duty Harris County Sheriff's Department deputy was in guarded condition after being shot on his way home from work early this morning.

The deputy, whose name has been withheld by authorities, was shot in the abdomen several times at about 4 a.m. in northeast Houston, officials said.

The deputy apparently returned to his car and tried to drive himself to the hospital, but smashed into a chain link fence surrounding an abandoned hospital.

He was in surgery at Ben Taub Hospital at 9 a.m., officials said.

Local

Art show

Entries for the annual Fourth of July Celebration Art Show will be taken until 7 p.m. today at Towle Park Barn.

Closed on 4th

Snyder Daily News will not publish a paper on Wednesday, July 4, and its offices will be closed.

July 4 is one of two traditional holidays for the paper. The other is Dec. 25.

Clarification

An article in Sunday's Snyder Daily News stating that state sales tax in Snyder was to go up from 7 percent to 7 1/4 percent was in error. State sales tax was 7 1/2 percent and rose to 7 3/4 percent on Sunday. A statement indicating that local taxes will rise to 8 1/4 percent if voters approve a 1/2-cent economic development tax in August was correct.

1991 appraisal budget facing board Tuesday

Scurry County Appraisal District board of directors will meet Tuesday at 7 a.m. at Willow Park Inn.

Topping the agenda will be the district's 1991 proposed budget totaling $365,019.

During the meeting, members will conduct regular business and discuss the proposed budget before reconvening at the appraisal district's office on College Ave. for an 8 a.m. public hearing. At that time, the public is invited to address the board regarding the budget proposal.

The proposed budget is available for public inspection at the appraisal district office.

Because of new legislation requiring the office to do additional mailings, the proposed budget holds significant increases in postage and forms and copies over the approved 1990 budget. If approved, postage will increase from $4,500 to $7,000 and forms and copies will more than double from $2,000 to a proposed $5,000 for 1991.

Immediately after the public hearing, the board will reconvene and is expected to approve the budget.

Wheels for Life event staged by local Jaycees

Snyder Jaycees will be holding a "Wheels For Life" Bike-A-Thon at Towle Park on July 7 to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Joe Hernandez is project chairman for the event, which will be held from 7 a.m. until 1 p.m.

This particular Bike-A-Thon is dedicated to Ellen Marie, a five-year-old who came to St. Jude Hospital in June 1986 suffering from a cancerous tumor in her abdomen. She underwent surgery, radiation and chemotherapy and is in good health. Although her tumor is not completely gone, she was taken off all therapy in January, 1987.

Bike-A-Thon participants are asked to secure sponsors who will agree to make a donation based on a per-mile basis. Donations are tax deductible.

Participants turning in $25 or more will receive a special T-shirt. Those who collect $75 or more will receive a certificate, a T-shirt and a tote bag.

Pledge sheets are available at the chamber of commerce. For further information, contact Hernandez at 573-4210.

St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, interracial and provides medical care for over 3,200 active patients. Founded by Danny Thomas in 1962, the hospital is the largest childhood cancer research-treatment-education center in America. Although located in Memphis, Tenn., the hospital has a local impact because area doctors and hospitals can use, at no cost, treatments and procedures developed at St. Jude.

Newspaper links Clements to 'hidden' finance holdings

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has repeatedly omitted from his public disclosure filings any mention of his ties to a $3.6 million family foundation, according to published reports.

Clements has listed the non-profit foundations with which his wife, Rita, is affiliated, but he has left the tax-exempt Clements Foundation off his public disclosure forms, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday.

Aides to the governor said that under state law, public officials do not have to report their non-profit business holdings.

That interpretation from the office of Secretary of State George Bayoud, a Clements appointee, drew fire from Tom Smith, Texas director of Public Citizen, a government watchdog.

Smith said the ruling "creates an incredible loophole" in state disclosure laws.

"The bottom line is that it provides a new way to hide business interests," Smith said. "Why shouldn't the governor be willing to list his family foundation?"

Smith is also unhappy that the Clements Foundation, which distributes charitable grants, directs people to call the governor's office phone. Most state agencies prohibit employees from using taxpayer-funded offices for personal business.

"What's most disturbing," Smith said, "is that the ultimate leader of the state is using his state office for work that benefits him personally — his tax-exempt family foundation."

An officer of the governor's security detail at the Capitol told The Associated Press late Sunday that no one would be in the office until Monday morning.

"I don't see any issue," Clements' press secretary, Rossanna Salazar, earlier told the American-Statesman. "The governor regularly reimburses the state for any business done in this office that's of a personal nature — foundation business and otherwise."

Under a 1974 law, the governor and other Texas officials are required to file annual disclosure statements detailing their personal finances. One section requires them to list all board posts and executive positions they hold in each corporation, firm, partnership or proprietorship.

Since Clements began his second term in 1987, he has listed nothing.

But on federal income tax returns, the Clements Foundation listed the governor as its president in 1987 and 1988. Clements signed both filings.

Roughneck need noted by drillers

HOUSTON (AP) — A meager, recent recovery in Texas' tattered oil and gas drilling industry is being threatened by a shortage of roughnecks.

Tens of thousands of trained rig operators have left the field, and the current shortage has caused many of the state's independent drilling companies to turn away work or use inexperienced crews.

Although the situation has not yet become a crisis, it has set off alarms in the industry as drilling activity increases.

"We have six rigs, but people for only four," said Ken McPeters, president of Ziadrill, a contractor active throughout West Texas. "If we get any additional work, we just won't be able to man the rigs."

"The personnel problem is going to be one of the critical issues to face our industry," said Bill Lang, manager of marketing research for Baker Hughes Inc. in Houston. "There's a lot of activity increase out there, and it's going to make it only worse."

Baker Hughes estimates that the number of working oil and gas rigs in the United States will grow to 1,225 by 1992, an increase of more than 200 from now. In Texas, the rig count is up about 90 in the past year alone.

The problem is limited to onshore rigs and is expected to be particularly troublesome in South Texas, where the use of horizontal drilling technology has sparked a flurry of activity, observers said. The Gulf Coast and far West Texas are other areas of concern.

"There's so many rigs out here right now that they're just screaming for hands. They're hurting," said Tim Miller, 28, who works on a rig near Edna, about 120 miles southwest of Houston.

Capsized 82-year-old 'hangs on'

DALLAS (AP) — Despite spending more than 13 hours in a lake hanging onto a small tree for dear life, 82-year-old Alphonso Foley says he will gladly get back in his boat and go fishing again.

"When I get another boat," Foley said Sunday night. "Right now, I don't have any fishing equipment. I lost it all when our boat went down."

Foley and fishing companion Matthew Blalock, who also is 82, clung to a tree after their boat capsized on Lake Fork during a storm Tuesday. A pair of passing fishermen finally pulled them from the lake, which is about 50 miles east of Dallas.

Jim Robinson, one of the rescuers, said he was amazed the elderly men were able to survive.

"They're tough old birds," he said. "But I don't know how much longer they could have held on. They were pretty tired and weak when we found them."

While in the water, Foley said he and Blalock had talked about their lives and they argued about how they had gotten into the predicament. They also wondered how much time they had left.

"At one time, he was criticizing my handling of the boat," Foley said. "And I was getting back at him for meddling. He said, 'I ain't never going to go fishing with you again.' I said, 'I don't care.'"

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Two years ago, I was diagnosed as having a crossover of scleroderma, polymyositis and lupus. I appear to be in remission now.

My rheumatologist does not answer my questions thoroughly. Can you tell me what I should expect from this? I'm currently taking methotrexate and prednisone.

DEAR READER: Scleroderma consists of scarring and vascular abnormalities in many tissues, especially the skin, the joints and the gastrointestinal tract. Polymyositis is a disease marked by inflammation of muscles. Lupus erythematosus is a chronic disorder affecting the skin and kidneys. All three diseases are part of a general classification of ailments called "collagen vascular diseases."

The cause(s) of these serious, sometimes fatal diseases is unknown, but they appear to be the result of autoimmune reactions, when the body becomes allergic to some of its own natural tissues and organs.

In fact, the phenomenon of "crossover" is so common in these cases that patients who exhibit characteristics of all three disorders are often said to have "mixed connective tissue disease."

The treatment of these afflictions is fundamentally identical: drugs to shut down the body's over-aggressive immune responses. Thus, prednisone (purified cortisone) and other medicines, such as methotrexate, which inhibit the immune system, are used to relieve symptoms. These drugs are powerful, however, and usually produce unwanted side effects, such as diminished resistance to infection.

In view of the seriousness of your diseases and their treatment, I believe you are justified in questioning your doctor until he or she fully explains your condition and the prognosis.

Obviously, patients can have mild forms of collagen vascular diseases

— as well as more advanced manifestations — so you may, in the future, be able to reduce or eliminate your medicines. Again, the doctor should be able to give you a clear picture of what to expect.

I am aware of two national organizations for patients with scleroderma and/or lupus: the United Scleroderma Foundation, P.O. Box 350, Watsonville, CA 95077 and the American Lupus Society, 23751 Madison St., Torrance, CA 90505. These organizations will gladly supply material if you write them and send a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

In addition, to give you more information about lupus, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Lupus: The Great Imitator." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Your Birthday

July 3, 1990

Bonds with someone with whom you're already deeply involved look like they will be further strengthened in the year ahead. Increased mutually shared devotion will benefit both parties.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) For the sake of expediency today, you might make an agreement without thinking through the consequences. Impulsive actions of this ilk could put you in an awkward position later. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your attention span might be rather limited today and this could create complications, especially if you're working on something intricate that demands total mental focus.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If someone who has never been overly friendly towards you in the past showers you with attention today, be on guard, because he/she might have ulterior motives.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you are lackadaisical today your achievement level will be extremely low. It will require both desire and dedication to achieve important goals or objectives.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Juicy tidbits you know are gossip rather than gospel should not be passed onto others today, even though they might be the most interesting things you'll have to talk about.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial situations could be rather difficult for you to manage today. You'll have a fair handle on the larger matters, but the small expenses might throw things out of kilter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Unless you are able to see things from the other guy's perspective today, both parties might find themselves in an arrangement where each thinks he/she is getting the short end.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Yesterday your hunches were reasonably reliable, but today they could lead you down the garden path. If you have to put stock in anything, make it your common sense and logic.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's best not to do things for friends today hoping they'll be able to do something for you in return. If your gestures have strings attached, you could end up being the one tied in knots.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your behavior will be under a magnifying glass in your dealings with your peers today. Keep everything out in the open so that your actions aren't deemed questionable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today if you're required to give verbal or written instructions to another, be sure what you write or say is very concise and easy to understand. Don't depart from your premise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be extremely selective today as to whom you reveal your confidential, financial information. There's a possibility you might be inclined to talk to the wrong people.

Giant Texas spring in danger

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas (AP) — Texas' largest spring is drying up, threatening species of endangered plants and animals and bringing threats of federal action.

The water that should be flowing out of Comal Springs is instead pumped onto lawns in San Antonio and intercepted for commercial use that also threatens other sources in Central Texas.

"Here, we are looking at the point of drying up our last major spring. To me, that's analogous to stopping Old Faithful or Niagara Falls," said Dr. Glenn Longley, director of the Edwards Aquifer Research and Data Center at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

"I just can't see us doing this to ourselves," he said.

Source of the crystalline Comal River, the springs have slowed from a discharge of more than 250 cubic feet of water per second to a trickle.

The Texas Water Commission meets Monday in San Antonio on a regional management plan for the Edwards Aquifer. The state is trying to avert federal action on the problem, officials said.

"The water we're not getting is going on the lawns of San Antonio," said David Whatley, New Braunfels parks and recreation director. "If they started mandatory conservation today, we'd see an increase in spring flow tomorrow."

San Antonio is the largest metropolitan area in the country to rely on an aquifer for its principal water source, said Longley. But so far, residents there are only rationing water voluntarily.

If a so-called index well monitoring the aquifer's level, currently at 623 feet above sea level, reaches 620 feet, it will trigger mandatory conservation in San Antonio — probably this week.

But Longley said that at 619 feet, there's no flow at Comal Springs.

Guadalupe fire said contained

GUADALUPE MOUNTAINS NATIONAL PARK, Texas (AP)

— Firefighters who have contained a stubborn, 6,014-acre blaze in this national wilderness park were attempting today to control the flames, using helicopters and tanker planes.

The blaze at Guadalupe Mountains National Park was declared contained at 6 p.m. Sunday, meaning that a fire line had been completed around it. Crews used two air tankers and a lead plane to drop fire-retardant material on the flames while six copters doused hot spots with water.

"It's not what you would call a normal, hard fire line all the way around the blaze," said Earle Rother, a fire information officer at the park. "In this case, it's partly a hand line, partly retardant drops, and sometimes it's also things like rock outcroppings.

"But for all intents and purposes, there is a line around the fire. The only flames burning are within that perimeter," he said.

Rother said an estimate of when flames would be brought under control has not been made.

The seven-day-old blaze was named the Frijole Fire after lightning struck Frijole Peak on Monday afternoon, triggering the largest fire in the park's history. It then burned into pristine McKittrick Canyon.

As the blaze was contained, 10 of the 26 firefighting crews at the park, from as far away as Alabama and North Carolina, were demobilized, said Rother, leaving 320 people at the scene.

The canyon's sheer cliffs, as high as 1,500 feet, have posed challenges for firefighters trying to stop the fast-moving fires.

The advance of flames into the pristine canyon this weekend was slowed by higher humidity, along with the helicopter and tanker drops and crews on the ground, said fire information officer Jim Payne.

The fire is just south of the New Mexico state line near Carlsbad Caverns National Park. Firefighters wanted to surround and cut off the flames before they reached too far into the canyon, endangering plants and animals at its bottom.

The fire so far has caused less damage than originally thought to an area called the Bowl.

Doctor loss means closing for Central Texas hospital

HUBBARD, Texas (AP) — After its last remaining doctor quit, a Central Texas hospital unexpectedly closed its doors, leaving patients wondering where to go for medical help.

Hubbard Hospital, which has been losing $15,000 a month, closed its doors Friday in the midst of plans to downscale into an emergency clinic, averting a total shutdown.

"The Hubbard Hospital Authority regrets to announce that the Hubbard Hospital closed at 7 a.m.," said a prepared statement. "Local residents needing emergency room or hospital services should seek this aid from other area hospitals and should not go to Hubbard, because there is no medical staff available at Hubbard Hospital."

The Waco Tribune-Herald reported Sunday that the shutdown also places the volunteer ambulance service's future in question, although emergency workers say they will continue to operate it as long as they can.

The struggling hospital's 30 employees said they were told Thursday the biweekly payroll could not be met and there were no promises of improvement.

Backed by Dr. Ricardo Javier, nurses said they would not work without pay and resigned. Javier's resignation followed, and the hospital closed within hours.

Javier, who also is a hospital board member, "has withdrawn from covering the hospital's emergency room and all other services," the statement said.

Employees said Javier left town and was not available for comment.

"The nurses quit," Dan Grice, a registered nurse, said. "They weren't going to work for nothing. We talked with the doctor, and the nurses said there was no way we could keep working for free. He understood, and he supported us."

Grice was among a dozen RNs and licensed vocational nurses at the hospital. His wife also worked there. Javier has been on call 24 hours a day since the last doctor left six months ago.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please address the problem of people who steal shopping carts. This is a national disgrace we can't blame on Russia, the drug pushers or Congress.

The elderly use them instead of walkers, kids use them for carrying their books to and from schools, residents in affluent neighborhoods keep them in their private garages or in the parking lots of their expensive condominiums or in their laundry rooms. Some are just abandoned at the curb or in an alley.

No one seems to take this stealing seriously, yet is this any different from picking up someone's unchained bicycle and taking it home for one's own use?

Abby, you reach millions of people, so please print a column about this alarming thievery going on daily, right under our noses.

Two-wheeled carts are available at nominal prices. They are sturdy, fold flat, easy to store and hold a lot. They also go up and down stairs, which supermarket carts may have trouble doing. I bought one for about $10 four years ago, and it's still going strong.

For once, let's point the finger at "us" and clean up our own garbage.

RUTH FREUND, ENCINO, CALIF.

DEAR RUTH: Thanks for an important letter. According to the Food Marketing Institute in Washington, D.C., cart theft in California alone costs the grocery industry about $14 million a year — and that cost is passed on to the consumer. The worst offenders are often the elderly or the poor, or college students who don't drive and live in apartments within walking distance of the stores.

There is a solution. If people did as you did — and bought their own carts — the problem would be solved, the grocers would pass the savings on to their customers, and we would be a kinder, gentler and more honest nation.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in desperation. My problem is the plague of computerized telemarketing calls. I know that I can hang up if I am at home, but believe it or not, I have missed several important messages this week because the cassette on my answering machine was filled with long-winded offers for cruise bargains, free gifts, marvelous prizes, etc.

I am really outraged that my answering machine has been abused to the point that it is rendered almost useless! To make matters worse, I then have to listen to these idiots all the way through in order to use my machine again the next time!

My telephone company tells me there is no law against it, and advised me to write to the Federal Communications Commission, but I doubt that one letter will do it. Abby, with your wide readership, if you were to publish this letter, you might see what kind of response you get from others. I'm sure I'm not alone in this suffering.

Who knows, if there are enough of us, we might even get some relief from this harassment. The message I missed because two of these calls filled my entire machine cassette one afternoon was a life-and-death matter. Can you see why I am outraged?

FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: I hear you — loud and clear. If anyone has a solution to this problem, I'll share it. Readers?

Abby's family recipes are included in her cookbooklet! Send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Oh where oh where did the roofers come from Oh how oh how can it be
Did they drive in by day, will they fly out by night
We'll have to just wait and see
Huray Huray New Shield Roofing's in town
It's time to relax you'll see
Cause we've been here before, and we'll always be back
To provide good service, you'll see

The roofer you choose is a decision you will have to live with for many years. Take your time and choose the best one for you. Here are a few helpful hints for choosing a Roofing Contractor:

1. Choose a roofer who was interested in Snyder before the hail storm, he is the one most likely to service your roof after the storm work is over.
2. Ask for several local references on roofs that are at least a few years old. And check those references.
3. If a roofer has had many roof problems, he will not use those as references, be prepared to ask questions.
4. Find out what area the roofer worked in last, and check them out with the Better Business Bureau in that area.
5. If a roofers price sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

New Shield Roofing Systems has many roofs in Snyder that are several years old, we were involved here before the storm.

We purchase our asphalt in 6,000 gallon semi-tankers, we are the only West Texas roofing company that does. That means we get a much better price on materials, we pass the savings on to you.

Area TKD students travel to FW event

Fourteen local youngsters will be competing in the 10th U.S. National Junior Olympic Taekwondo Championships in Ft. Worth's Tarrant County Convention Center July 5-7.

Local students of West Texas TKD Academy, including repeat performers at the national level Marco Hinojos, Tom Sanchez, Shane West, Greg McAnaw and Chris Post will represent the Snyder area.

Hinojos, Sanchez and West have all earned first degree black belts while Post has a first degree red belt and McAnaw boasts a Bodan red belt.

Other participants from the Snyder school include first degree black belt Brian Smith, Bodan red belt Jessica Brooks, first degree red belts Justin Box and Sean Duncan, third degree blue belt Debra Radican, Jared Thornhill, a fourth degree blue belt, fifth degree green belts Debbie Foster and Jennifer Kime and sixth degree green belt Jessie Martinez.

Instructors for the group are Greg and Donna Gafford. "We're fortunate that the meet is so close," said Greg Gafford. "Last year the nationals were in Minnesota and there were a lot of students that couldn't go."

"This year it's right in our backyard." Participants will compete in forms, free-sparring and fighting categories in divisions based on age and skill levels.

The Snyder team will leave town tomorrow, register and be weighed in at the Hyatt Hotel by 9 p.m.

SHS standout honored

Tony Degrate is selected to all-decade team

Snyder football standout Tony Degrate was among those recently selected to Dave Campbell's Texas Football's all-decade high school team for the 1980's.

Degrate joins area gridders Jerry Gray of Lubbock Estacado, Odessa Permian's Lloyd Hill and Mike Williams and Sweetwater's Mike Welch and Kenneth Norman on the squad.

Degrate, a 1981 graduate of Snyder High School played baseball as well as football for the Tigers before going on to gain national attention at the University of Texas.

The 6-4, 280 defensive lineman was honored as a two-time All-American, twice all-SWC and was the conference's 1984 co-defensive player of the year.

The Snyder talent wound up his college career as winner of the Lombardi Trophy.

Degrate was named last year to the All-Big Country SWC team comprised of players from the area in the Southwest Conference's 75 years of play.

Hill joined the first team as a wide receiver from Permian's 1989 Class 5A state champion team while Williams made the third team as a linebacker.

Gray, now a member of the NFL Los Angeles Rams, played in the defensive backfield for Estacado in the early 80's and made the first team defensive squad.

Welch was selected to the first crew following an outstanding high school career with the Mustangs as a 6-2, 180 defensive back.

The other Sweetwater gridders tabbed was Kenneth Norman, a 5-10, 180 DB who made the third

Levi fires 67 to win GHO

CROMWELL, Conn. (AP) — Wayne Levi wasn't concerned as he and several not-so-well-known players jockeyed for the Greater Hartford Open lead.

"I knew no one out of that group was going to run away from the field," he said.

He got a little nervous, however, when British Open champion Mark Calcavecchia reeled off six birdies over eight holes to grab a two-stroke lead.

Then came the 17th, where Calcavecchia found the water and took a double bogey.

"I said, 'That's just what I need,'" Levi said. "I said to myself, 'I make this putt, I've got it.'"

He rolled the putt in for his second straight birdie and went on to shoot a 67 Sunday for his third victory of the season. Twice a runnerup at Hartford, Levi completed the 72 holes at 13-under 267 to beat Calcavecchia and three others by two strokes.

"That turned the whole thing right there," Levi said. "Two shots is big on this course."

Levi, who had not won in five years, became the tour's first three-time winner this year. He captured the Atlanta Golf Classic and the Western Open over a three-week period.

MIGHTY SWING — Connie Fine of the West Texas State Bank Crushers smacks a base hit during softball action Saturday night at Winston Park. The game pitted the Crushers against the Bruisers of Snyder National Bank in a benefit game with the proceeds going to Snyder Neighbors Sharing. WTSSB won the contest 17-14 in come-from-behind fashion and SNS raised over $900. (SDN Staff Photo)

Becker, Lendl take victories

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Boris Becker turned a Centre Court meeting of champions into a rout and Monica Seles scored a quick and clean victory over an outmatched American to reach the quarterfinals at Wimbledon today.

Eight-time women's champion Martina Navratilova also won comfortably, making the quarters for the 16th consecutive year. Ivan Lendl had a tougher time before beating another U.S. opponent to reach the fourth round.

Becker, the defending champion and aiming for his fourth Wimbledon title overall, beat 1987 champ Pat Cash 7-6, 6-1, 6-4. Cash was a wild-card entry but had looked strong in the previous three rounds.

Seles, the 16-year-old from Yugoslavia, won her 36th match in a row, taking just 45 minutes to beat Ann Henricksson of Mill Valley, Calif., 6-1, 6-0.

Non-profit agencies see races as 'ducky'

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Duck-race fever is striking non-profit agencies hunting for a new blind for an old game.

"It was so crazy; it would work," says Rick Burgess, director of promotions for Loyola University, Shreveport, La. The duck race staged by the university was considered "one of the most successful special events that the city has ever had. We kind of became the envy of all non-profits because of all the promotions we got."

Economics being what they are in West Texas these days, area non-profits are searching for new ways to raise money.

Members of the Junior League of Midland were intrigued by the duck racing idea, but Midland had no river in which to stage the race.

The organization came up with an alternative — a swimming pool. Thus, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. July 4, the Mabee Memorial Swim Center, complete with electric fans, becomes the site of Midland's first duck race. The event, "Fab-DUCK-ulous Family Fun Fair," includes activities common to area residents as well as the not-so-common.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals need not be alert. Duck races are run with lightweight decoys. Not real McCoys.

Participants adopt a rubber duckie for $5. The participant's name and number is entered into a computer. The same number has been scanned onto the duck's underside.

"That's how we keep track of all those thousands of ducks and

Crews cut lines to sheriff's office

Telephone and radio communications to the Scurry County sheriff's department were being routed through the police department early Monday after water line crews at 26th and Ave. M severed telephone lines.

City crews called to repair a leak at the intersection accidentally cut the lines at 5:18 a.m. Monday.

Service was expected to be restored by midday.

people's names," Burgess says. "When the race day comes, all ducks are dumped out of a dumpster out of a crane into a river. Then they float down the river until they come into a chute. The first six popped out of the chute are the winners."

Around 45,000 fans watched Shreveport's first duck race, which had over 26,000 ducks in it.

The Mabee Swim Center will not hold quite that many fans.

Burgess leased ducks from the Great American Duck Races, based in Phoenix. Currently, the GADR has more than 175,000 in stock. None were available for rental when Midland's Junior League was in need.

"We had to purchase our 10,000 ducks from the Gerber Co.," says Mary Blake, chairman of publicity for the event. "They arrived by freight line and fill a quarter of a huge warehouse. It's amazing."

Acquiring 10,000 ducks, even small Gerber ducks, creates its own problems.

"What we are trying to figure out is how we are going to transport 10,000 ducks from the Junior League headquarters warehouse over to the City of Midland Swim Center. Fortunately, the majority of junior league members do drive the state car of Texas — a Suburban."

An advantage of racing inside is the opportunity to run heats within each division.

"When they purchase a ticket, they have the opportunity to have the duck participate in an adult race, a youth race or a child's race," Mrs. Blake says. "The event will feature separate heats for corporations who will help sponsor the day."

Prizes will be awarded in each category.

The proceeds from the event go to the "Building for a Better Midland" Capital Campaign for Headquarters Expansion of the Junior League of Midland Inc. The Junior League is working toward meeting a matching grant from the J.E. & L.E. Mabee Foundation Inc.

Duck racing didn't originate in the United States.

Michele Brown, event coordinator for The Great American Duck Races, explains that the organization's president took an old idea and made it new.

"The concept of the duck race originated in Ireland in the early 1900s. Eric Schechter made it into a fund-raising formula."

The first rubber duck races staged by the GADR in the United States was held in May 1988. In two years, the organization has raised more than $100,000 in Phoenix, Ms. Brown says. She adds that now GADR has made inroads into more than 100 U.S. markets.

"We've had a few that didn't make the money, but overall they really do come out above," Ms. Brown says. "Our lease fee on a duck is 45 cents. The average of adopting a duck is about $5 so they really make some money on that. The only fee they are paying us is the leasing fee so it's really a good deal."

"We give them a 400-page manual which gives them guidelines on what has worked in the past. They can go ahead and follow those guidelines, or they can be more creative and come up with something else."

In addition, the organization offers the leasing non-profit a basic computer program to use at no charge and holds a national conference in January for all of the racers. A more sophisticated computer program for the race can be purchased for $300.

Fireworks cause two fire calls

Snyder firemen responded to three fires during the weekend — one a car fire at the caution light at Hermleigh on U.S. 84.

The car fire occurred at 8:32 a.m. Sunday. The vehicle was owned by Marci Rodriguez of Snyder, and was a total loss. Cause of the fire was unknown, and it started while being driven down the highway.

Firemen were also called to extinguish two grass fires — both caused by fireworks. The first at 11:25 p.m. Saturday, seven miles south of Snyder in a pasture owned by Weldon Brooks.

The second fireworks-caused grass fire came at 2:18 p.m. Sunday at 2200 34th.

County commissioners formed by the auditor's office.

Franklin said another problem is having someone other than an authorized county employee writing a check on the county's insurance trust fund.

Hochwalt said the hospital would have to change insurance administrators if the county does because Alta will not service a group of fewer than 250 employees.

Goodwin said the insurance committee has been working with local agents on proposals and hopes to have five to seven for the court to consider.

In other business, the court briefly discussed the public hearing planned for 6 p.m. Thursday at the Hermleigh community center.

Interested citizens will be able to discuss a proposed Texas Community Development Program grant which would be used to upgrade the Hermleigh water system.

The proposed grant is for $250,000. Goodwin said the funds could be used for other projects such as streets, housing or flood control, but that the water system had been identified as the probable project.

A second public hearing is set for 5:15 p.m. July 12 in the county courthouse. Goodwin told the court that Jerry Gannaway had been supervising a survey of residents in the Hermleigh area to determine needs. The program funds must benefit a majority of low to moderate income families.

Goodwin presided at the meeting. Commissioners present included Duaine Davis, Tommy Pate, C.D. Gray Jr., and Billingsley.

1990 Census count reported nearing 99 percent complete

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau is closing in on the last 1 percent of American households that haven't yet been tallied.

The 1990 count has reached 99 percent of all homes, officials proclaimed Sunday, despite a disappointing start in April.

The door-to-door counting will continue at least through autumn in areas where the work is not complete, officials have said.

In many regions a "were you counted" campaign is starting in an effort to reach people who have been overlooked so far.

"Without the willingness of hundreds of thousands of Americans who volunteered and stuck with a tough job, we would not be where we are now," Commerce Secretary Robert A. Mosbacher said in a statement.

With more than 100 million households across the nation, the 99 percent mark means that 1 million homes remain to be counted.

Officials hope the new campaign will reach many of them through posters in stores and community centers, newspaper advertising and similar efforts. People will be encouraged to call or write the census bureau so they can be counted.

The results of the census, taken every 10 years, are used to reapportion seats in the House of Representatives and to distribute billions of dollars in federal money over the next decade.

With such high political and financial stakes, the effort has attracted close attention. Minority groups are concerned about being undercounted and cities have claimed that many of their people are missed, especially in hard to count inner-city areas.

A group of large cities led by New York has sued in an effort to get the final totals adjusted to account for this assumed undercount.

Census forms were mailed out to most Americans in March, but only 63 percent were returned because of delivery problems and apparent public confusion. Thus the door-to-door effort starting in April had to be increased, likely adding several million dollars to the $2.5 billion-plus cost.

Officials said more than 80 million of the completed census forms have been processed at census offices. In the 1980 census that processing didn't begin until August.

The bureau is required to report the population of each state to President Bush by Dec. 31, and Census Director Barbara Everitt Bryant said she is confident that deadline will be met.

Foreign debt burden surges up 25% in 1989

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's foreign debt burden surged 25 percent in 1989 to $663.7 billion as foreigners' holdings in the United States grew at a faster pace than Americans' assets abroad.

The new assessment, based on data supplied today by the Commerce Department, showed that the United States increased its lead as the world's largest debtor country.

Unlike past years, the department did not publish the actual net debtor position of the United States although it did supply enough information on the component parts that simple math allowed the number to be derived.

The Commerce Department report showed that U.S. holdings of overseas assets rose by $146.9 billion last year to $1.412 trillion, a gain of 11.6 percent.

The net debtor position is the difference between America's assets abroad and foreign assets in the United States.

That difference grew to $663.75 billion last year.

Weekend said very quiet

Law enforcement officers reported an extremely quiet pre-holiday weekend in Snyder and Scurry County.

Only two arrests were made, and there were two minor traffic accidents. However, city officers were kept busy with complaints of fireworks being discharged in the city.

At 3:07 p.m. Saturday, a 27-year-old female was arrested at 40th St. and College Ave. and charged with driving while license suspended and failure to identify.

At 11:41 p.m. Saturday, a 22-year-old male was arrested at 2012 27th St. for public intoxication.

The first traffic accident occurred at 2:08 p.m. Saturday in the 2300 Block of 41st St. Involved were a 1979 Pontiac driven by Jessie Guthrie of 2314 41st and a parked 1987 Pontiac owned by Emily Tucker of 2315 41st St. Damage was minor.

The second mishap occurred at 5:48 p.m. Saturday at Town and Country Food Store. Involved was a 1981 Ford driven by Van Sullivan of 2006 Ave. L which struck a guywire owned by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

At 10:30 p.m. Saturday, Jackson Brewster of Beard Van Lines reported the theft of diesel fuel from his location at 103 Old Lubbock Highway. At 8:28 p.m., Margaret Seaton reported a softball glove taken from 3001 40th St.

At 10:04 p.m. Saturday, officers were called to the bowling alley where juveniles would not leave the area when requested to do so. At 10:35 p.m. Saturday, police were told that a man had been bitten by a racoon at 2401 Beaumont.

At 1:19 a.m. Monday, Andrew Garza called the police department to report that a bicycle parked in front of Allsup's had been stolen.

Retarded man back on trial

Following 10-year time delay

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A mentally retarded man accused in the rape-slaying of a woman 10½ years ago returns to court this week where a jury will decide if he should be executed.

Johnny Paul Penry has been on death row since 1980, when he was convicted of capital murder in the death of Pamela Moseley Carpenter. The woman was found dead in her Livingston home.

After weeks of jury selection and pretrial proceedings, opening statements and testimony in Penry's retrial are set to begin today.

Penry, 34, came within hours of lethal injection in 1986. He already had been moved from his death row cell to a small holding cell adjacent to the death chamber when he received a stay.

The case eventually went to the U.S. Supreme Court, with Penry's attorneys insisting jurors should have been allowed to consider his retardation before imposing the death sentence.

Although the high court upheld the constitutionality of executing mentally retarded killers, it vacated Penry's death sentence two years ago, saying jurors should have been told about Penry's retardation.

Jury selection for Penry's latest trial went on for weeks after a change of venue from Livingston to Huntsville. The pretrial proceedings included a competency hearing for Penry at which reporters were barred from part of the testimony.

That action by State District Judge Joe Ned Dean prompted a lawsuit from the Houston Chronicle, which succeeded in getting a transcript of the closed testimony. Dean also has imposed a gag order, barring participants in the case from discussing it with reporters.

Mrs. Carpenter was stabbed repeatedly in the chest with a pair of scissors she was using to make a Halloween costume for her niece.

Before dying in a hospital emergency room, she provided a description of her killer to authorities.

Penry, born in Comanche County, Okla., had been on parole for about three months after serving two years of a five-year term for rape. His arrest record also includes arson.

A couple of weeks before the slaying, Penry and another man had delivered appliances to the Carpenter house.

"I was by the house the day they delivered the appliances when he observed her," Mrs. Carpenter's mother, Rossie Moseley, has said of Penry. "She had told me 'That guy just stared at me the whole time he was there.' It seemed to me, he just had it all planned from then: 'It kind of bothered her at the time.'"

On the day of the killing, according to prison records, Penry forced his way into the house under the guise of checking on the operation of the appliance.

"If I could, I would bring that person back alive, but that's impossible," Penry has said. "My crime that they said I did, it's bad. I'd do anything, if I could, to bring that person back alive."

"I told them I did it, but I didn't do it. I don't know who did it. All I know is I didn't."

Asked why he made a confession, he replied: "I don't know."

Joe Price, the district attorney who prosecuted Penry, has said he talked to Penry the day of the arrest and was present when Penry made his confession.

"He's not a mental giant," Price said.

Klansmen, skinheads are probed

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal officials are investigating the Ku Klux Klan and a Texas skinhead group for possible civil rights violations stemming from the 1988 desecration of two Waco synagogues.

The two synagogues sustained thousands of dollars in damages, which consisted mostly of broken windows and swastikas spray-painted on the walls, the FBI said.

Authorities said they have information that members of the Dallas-based Confederate Hammerskins and at least one known Klan member were driving through Waco when the synagogues were vandalized on the night of July 4, 1988, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday.

Earlier this year, 12 skinheads pleaded guilty and five others were convicted in Dallas federal court for violating U.S. civil rights statutes by attacking Jewish religious institutions and assaulting blacks and Hispanics. Two received sentences of more than nine years.

In addition to the federal investigation, Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock has begun checking reports that the Klan possibly violated state laws by selling books, paraphernalia and robes without registering as a sales agent and paying Texas sales or franchise taxes.

Penalty for nonpayment of sales tax is 5 percent of the amount owed on sales for the first 30 days.

Medieval art traced to state

DALLAS (AP) — Medieval art works stolen from a German church during World War II might not have been traced except that a Texas family tried to sell one of the items in 1988, says a German investigator who tracked the cache.

"It is very difficult to take a historical account and successfully trace a missing item to an individual," said Willi A. Korte. "Usually, you need some kind of postwar event — like someone trying to sell the art — and then you have a case. That's what happened here."

Korte followed a trail spanning half a century to the Texas hiding place of the multimillion-dollar trove belonging to the Quedlinburg Cathedral in East Germany.

Korte in May pinpointed a Whitewright bank as the place where a dead former U.S. Army officer's heirs were keeping the missing gifts of Germany's earliest kings.

Korte, 36, does research for the Prussian Cultural Heritage Foundation in Berlin, and says he digs up missing art for a living, but adds, "Please, don't call me Indiana Jones."

The looting of a secret Nazi cave, where the church treasures were stashed, was traced through Cold War intrigue, musty documents, rumors spanning two continents and even pure luck, he said.

Now, the art's original owner, the Lutheran Church of Quedlinburg, is suing the family of former 1st Lt. Joe T. Meador for return of the treasures. Meador died in 1980, bequeathing the artwork to his brother, Jack Meador, and sister, Jane Cook.

Lawyers for the church contend Meador stole the treasures in the final days of World War II, mailed them to the U.S. and kept them in his hometown of Whitewright, a town of 1,790 about 60 miles north of Dallas.

Korte said that if the effort to return them to Germany is successful, it will be as much because of luck as legwork. German officials want to bring the artwork home as a symbol of German reunification.

An East German who helped in the case, Gunter Wermusch, told The Dallas Morning News in a telephone interview from Berlin that Nazi officials hauled the cathedral's treasures into the cave as Allied troops approached in early 1945.

From that point on, the trail was lost.

Soon after Korte's search began, a London book dealer offered one of the missing treasures, a 9th-century illuminated manuscript, to Korte's employer.

Officials said the $9 million offer was rejected in late 1988 because of the price and potential problems from buying art taken from another country. But it provided a clue that the dealer apparently worked for a U.S. resident, they said.

Korte said he began looking for detailed accounts of Army units near Quedlinburg in April 1945.

Spending months in the National Archives records tracing U.S. operations, he then went to the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis, the military's service records repository.

More than 1,000 names of soldiers assigned to the area were found by Korte in over a week of research. He then turned to East Germans and medieval art experts for further clues.

Bavarian manuscript dealer Heribert Tenschert in February was offered the first manuscript, which had been in Europe without a buyer for two years, the newspaper said.

Houston is 'hot' for summit meet

HOUSTON (AP) — A local promotional campaign for next week's International Economic Summit proclaims: "Houston's Hot."

No kidding. If this is July and you're in Houston, it's 90-plus degree hot.

And as Houstonians are fond of saying: "It's not the heat, it's the humidity."

The weather is not expected to be comfortable just to accommodate President Bush and his world leader guests attending the three-day conference, July 9-11, in Bush's adopted hometown.

"The forecast will probably be hot and muggy. There's no way to avoid it," says Scott Kiser of the National Weather Service.

The likely steamy conditions already have altered the summit plans.

Bush conceded that Houston's sultry weather probably would melt his visitors so he asked the summit officials to scale back the arrival ceremony for the heads of state.

The opening rituals outdoors at Rice University are being shortened from 3½ hours to only about 90 minutes to allow more time for one-on-one meetings — in airconditioned comfort — involving the seven leaders of the world's largest industrial powers, summit director Fred Malek says.

Normal temperatures in Houston for July 9-11 are lows of 72 and highs of 93. But this summer, like much of the Southwest, Houston has been experiencing above normal temperatures. For nearly the entire month of June, high temperatures were well above 90 and often flirted with 100.

A 30-day outlook that includes the summit dates calls for above normal temperatures and near normal rainfall, Kiser says. That translates to temperatures of mid to upper 90s.

Adding to the heat misery will be a humidity level forecast for the 90-plus percent range during mornings before dipping into the 50 percent range by afternoon and heading back up again by evening.

Bush's decision last month to trim the official welcome for the leaders of Japan, Great Britain, France, West Germany, Italy and Canada was greeted with a fair amount of enthusiasm from summit organizers, many of whom have been sporting "Houston's Hot" lapel stickers.

"The goal is to turn a negative to positive," says Ken Lay, co-chairman of the summit host committee, when explaining the promotional theme. "Yes, Houston is hot — but for all the right reasons. That's the message we want to convey to a global audience. We feel this approach will be effective in getting that job done for our city, during the summit and beyond."

The real theme of the effort is to portray the city's recovery from the effects of the oil industry collapse of the mid 1980s.

None of the capital cities of the other summit nations is as hot and humid as Houston. As far as temperatures, Rome comes the closest, with highs nearly 88 for July.

Shootings rattle Houston cabbies

HOUSTON (AP) — Some local cab drivers are taking extra safety precautions in the wake of six slayings of cabbies this year, but others are concerned the measures could hurt their business.

"On the one hand, the driver wants to protect himself, but on the other, he doesn't want safeguards to alienate himself from his customers," said George Stiggers, manager of Square Deal Cab Co.

The sixth and latest victim was Yellow Cab driver Henry Carter, who died Thursday. He had been shot once in the head and his pockets were turned inside out.

The five other slain drivers were: United Cab driver Robert Fullilove, Jan. 30; Yellow Cab driver Reginald Earl Smith, March 17; Square Deal driver Kenneth Zachery, March 22; Liberty Cab driver Amy Mattingly, April 9; and Yellow Cab driver Jimmy Ross Jr., May 22.

Each driver was robbed but otherwise the killings were unrelated, police said.

United Cab's 232 drivers soon will have access to a radio transmitter that records any conversation they want to tape, said company vice president Ellis Houston.

"If taxi operators feel threatened, they can hit a switch and backup is on the way," he said.

Houston declined to discuss details about the devices but said officials began installing the $20,000 system two weeks ago and hope to activate it later this month.

United drivers, including 30-year veteran George Williams, have asked the company to install bulletproof glass shields between the front and back seats of their cars.

Passengers put fares through the metal grids that support the shields. "I didn't bother with (shields) until a couple of months ago, when trouble started," Williams said. "Now, at least I have something there," he said, gesturing toward the half-inch thick shield.

Yellow Cab officials hope on-duty police officers in unmarked cars will follow cabbies periodically to discourage attacks, said company vice president Rudy Bruhns.

But some cab drivers are reluctant to change the way they deal with passengers despite the recent killings.

Cabbie Gregg King said he does not want a shield in his cab because passenger discomfort and inconvenience may hurt business.

"The shield blocks air conditioning. People tear their clothes on the metal grids," he said.

Al Schoenemann, who rode with Fullilove less than 12 hours before the latter was slain, said he doesn't believe increased security can guarantee protection.

6,000-plus now seek flood relief fed funds

DALLAS (AP) — More than 6,000 victims of record Texas flooding met the Sunday deadline for requesting federal disaster assistance, becoming eligible for millions of dollars in aid.

More than $5 million in disaster assistance has already been distributed by the Federal Emergency Management Agency, which said it expects to pay more than double that amount on all the claims.

Texans applying after 6 p.m. Sunday for claims of damage from late spring flooding must justify the delay, said George Burgess, FEMA public information officer.

Since May 2, when President Bush made a disaster declaration, 6,034 Texas families and businesses have applied for assistance, said Burgess.

He said 2,642 of those were aided with a total of $2,287,046 in direct payments for temporary housing, while family grants totaling $2,852,957 went out from the Texas Department of Human Services to 915 families.

"This is about what we expected," said Burgess. "We got preliminary figures from the Red Cross, and this is about the ballpark figure of what we knew was out there."

He said temporary housing assistance provided rental payments or funds for emergency repairs so that victims could continue to live in their residences, while family grants were provided for long-term needs.

Applicants came from 65 Texas counties declared eligible for individual assistance to private businesses and families. Of those counties, 39 have also been declared eligible for public sector assistance for governments and other agencies.

However, Burgess said applicants were not required to live within those counties to receive aid.

Within five to seven days, victims who have already applied for aid are receiving checks averaging $300, said Burgess.

Hispanic teachers said tough positions to fill

DALLAS (AP) — A man assigned to recruit Hispanic teachers for the Dallas school system says it is a formidable task because of competition and teacher shortages.

"Sometimes I feel like I am at a dance and nobody wants to dance with me," said Hector Flores, a recruiting specialist with the Dallas Independent School District.

Flores has visited 20 cities and Puerto Rico this year in his quest to increase the percentage of Hispanic teachers in the Dallas district. But there are few Hispanic teachers and the competition for them is keen.

More than 50 of Dallas' 181 public schools do not have a single Hispanic teacher although Hispanic student enrollment stands at almost 44,000 — one-third of the total.

Only seven percent of the district's teachers are Hispanic, and most of them teach in the bilingual education program. A new state law requires Dallas to teach some students in English and Spanish.

The Dallas district is aggressive in its recruiting. It offers incentive packages including free airline tickets and discount coupons.

Flores said he regularly runs into recruiters from Los Angeles, Miami, Chicago, New York and Chicago.

Assistant Superintendent Rosita Apodaca said the number of new Hispanic educators available each year is extremely small.

If DISD hired every Hispanic graduating from college in Texas last year, we would still not have enough to fill our vacancies in bilingual education for next year," Ms. Apodaca said.

Victims face choices after flood subsides

DAYTON LAKES, Texas (AP) — More than a month after record flooding inundated low-lying subdivisions along the Trinity River, some flood victims still are debating where to rebuild or move to higher ground.

Dave Strong is one resident who has decided to go. He's calling it quits after 20 years on the river.

"There's going to be a bigger exodus this year than ever before. Lots have said they want out, whereas it used to be everyone was eager to come back. I've never seen that before," Strong said.

He and his wife, Kay Strong, said three record-setting floods within a year blotted out the beauty of the river, which has periodically left its banks for the Liberty County bottomlands.

After the latest flooding, Mrs. Strong, the Dayton Lakes' city secretary, and her husband boxed up two decades of memories and moved to higher ground.

Newly retired Dayton Lakes mayor Charles Follis and his wife, Marie, refused to bow to the persistent flooding, opting to rebuild their stilt house from scratch.

River flooding caused $8 million in damage to 1,400 homes on its six-week rampage through the county. There's no estimate yet of how many families forced from a dozen riverside subdivisions will be returning.

Many families are not qualifying for federal aid because they neglected to purchase required flood insurance after receiving flood assistance last summer.

"I never thought I'd say it, but I'm getting tired of this," said Strong, a carpenter who is disabled. "You can't have a garden. You can't have a house, really."

He built a two-foot concrete levee around his two-story frame house for protection after being flooded by 9 inches of water on the ground floor last summer.

This time, the levee didn't keep the river from dumping 26 inches of water into his newly refurbished home. The Strong's are moving upstream to Lake Livingston.

Bryant's served Snyder over 12 years

Bryant's Carpet Cleaning has served Snyder over 12 years and they have used or seen every type of carpet cleaning in that time.

Even though they could use a cheaper method, they prefer steam extraction. This method extracts the dirt and stains, whereas other methods leave the dirt in the carpet. For a clean and safe carpet, steam extraction is by far the best method.

Some methods leave the carpet wet, but they leave it only damp so it will dry in only a few hours. This is because they have the latest truck mount unit with more power than smaller units.

The unit stays in the van and only the cleaning head goes into the house, eliminating spills in the home.

Most carpets need to be cleaned within a year, depending on the traffic. Not only can they be dirty, but after walking on the carpet the carpet protector is worn off. They can clean the carpet and replace the carpet protector, which is similar to Scotch Gard.

In some cases they can clean the carpet as inexpensively as you can rent a machine. Many times when people try to do it themselves and the carpet won't come clean, they keep adding detergents to the machine. This results in the carpet becoming too wet.

Also, the detergents leave a residue in the carpet and the carpet seems to get dirty quicker. Bryant's doesn't leave a residue in the carpet because they pre-spray with cleaners and when they go over the carpet with the cleaning head, they use only soft, hot water.

regularly if anyone in your home has allergies and also if you are moving into a different home.

For those who want to save money and not go to the trouble of moving furniture, Bryant's can
