Bush orders reserves to active duty Soviet support in crisis appears to be wavering

By The Associated Press

The United States pledged today to defy Iraqi orders to close down its embassy in conquered Kuwait, and cracks appeared in what had been unprecedented U.S.-Soviet unity in the 3-week-old Persian Gulf crisis.

In the gulf, the military buildup intensified.

President Bush today ordered military reserves to active duty. And the U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga steamed through Egypt's Suez Canal toward the Red Sea to join a growing American flotilla, a canal spokesman said.

In Moscow, a Soviet official disclosed today that military experts sent to Iraq before its invasion of Kuwait continue to work for the Iraqi government despite a Kremlin pledge to go along with sanctions aimed at isolating Iraq.

Col. Valentin Ogurtsov said the 193 Soviet experts have been training Iraqi soldiers to use Soviet-built weapons, repairing and maintaining those weapons, and building test ranges. But he said the advisers were not involved in military operations and did not provide advice on the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The Soviets were also slowing U.S. efforts to get U.N. approval for a military blockade, Western diplomats said. The diplomats (see BUSH, page 8)

TASP test signup due at college

Students planning to take the TASP test at Western Texas College on Sept. 22 must register by Friday, school officials note.

Application forms are available in the counseling office at the Student Center.

There is a $24 fee for TASP testing whether the student is taking all or part of the test.

Students who received three semester hours of credit prior to the 1989 fall semester are exempt from the TASP test. Students enrolled in selected certificate programs rather than degree programs are also exempt. All other students are required to take the TASP test before attaining 15 college credit hours. Students who have attained 15 semester hours of college credit and have not yet taken the TASP are allowed to take only developmental classes.

Non-exempted students are required to pass all three sections of the TASP test before they can enroll in credit courses at the junior level. Students who fail one or more sections of the test are required to be continuously enrolled in those developmental areas until all sections of the test (see TASP, page 8)

Head Start being considered

People for Progress, Inc., of Sweetwater, is looking into the possibility of instituting a Head Start program in Scurry, Nolan, Fisher and Mitchell counties.

The program, for young children of income-eligible families, will be provided at no cost to participants.

The purpose of Head Start is to provide children from ages 3 to 5 with a comprehensive program to meet their emotional, social, health, nutritional and psychological needs to prepare them for entrance to public schools. Children will be attending classes for six to eight hours a day and will be provided with breakfast, lunch and two snacks.

Children receive a complete examination, including hearing and vision tests, identification of handicapping conditions, immunizations and a dental exam. Follow-up treatment is provided for identified health problems.

Studies have shown that Head

Start children score higher than comparable non-Head Start children in preschool achievement tests.

Handicapped children and their families can receive Head Start developmental services also. In addition, Head Start members work closely with community agencies to provide services to meet the special needs of the handicapped child. Through participation in classes and workshops on child development and through staff visits to the home, parents learn about the needs of their children and about educational activities that can be carried into the home.

Anyone interested in Head Start should contact People For Progress at 1-800-592-7433 or (915) 235-8455 or go by 301 West Arkansas St. in Sweetwater before Friday, Aug. 31.

People For Progress must have a count of eligible and interested children before the state will give approval for the program.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's better to let folks wonder why you didn't talk instead of why you did."

Western Texas College starts each school year with an awards dinner for faculty and staff. It is interesting to see the number of long-time faculty members.

Dr. Gil Fleer, counselor and professor of psychology, noted that the group had just about outgrown the cafeteria facility. Fleer was one receiving a 15-year service award. WTC folks also come and stay. Noted Fleer, about 10 staffers have bought homes in Snyder within the past year.

Honored just days before his retirement after 19 years of service was Billie Giles, who works in WTC's maintenance department.

In making a few remarks about his association with the college, Giles drew a big laugh over something he had been wanting to say.

City to terminate sewer services at Western Company

The City of Snyder has advised The Western Company that it will disconnect sewer service on Aug. 31 for alleged violations of the city's industrial waste discharge ordinance.

The decision stems from the illegal disposal of petroleum wastes into the sewer system in May and June which officials believe can be traced to Western Company through lab analysis.

"We have recently received the analysis performed by an independent laboratory...which indicates identical characteristics of discharges at the Sewage Treatment Plant and the Western Company sewer manhole — which is located at the end of a sewer line," states a letter from the city which was sent to The Western Company on Aug. 15.

"Be advised that the City of Snyder will disconnect sewer service only on Friday, Aug. 31, 1990, at 4 p.m. to your facility located at 309 and 311 old Lubbock Highway in accordance with the City of Snyder's Industrial Waste Discharge Ordinance," the letter further states.

The letter also advises that reconnection at a future date could be considered only after a method of pretreating and monitoring is installed at the expense of Western Company and approved by the city, the Texas Water Commission and the Environmental Protection Agency (see SERVICES, page 8)

Medrano found guilty Second time in three months

For the second time in three months, a 132nd District Court jury has found a 42-year-old Snyder man guilty.

Tuesday afternoon, a 5-man and 7-woman jury found Raymond Medrano Jr. guilty of aggravated assault. Medrano, who is serving a life sentence in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, was being tried for the Sept. 9, 1989 stabbing of Ralph Torres Jr.

The trial began Monday morning in Judge Gene Dulaney's court with the selection of jurors. Testimony began Monday afternoon. At 2:25 p.m. Tuesday, jurors began their deliberations and returned with the guilty verdict at 3:35 p.m. The punishment phase of the trial started at 4:35 p.m. Tuesday and was continuing through the noon hour today.

Assistant District Attorney Dana Cooley prosecuted the case. The defense attorney was Mark Piland of Colorado City.

On May 23, another 132nd District Court jury found Medrano guilty of attempted capital murder and aggravated robbery. Medrano was assessed a $10,000 fine and life in prison — the maximum penalty.

In this case, Medrano was found guilty of the Sept. 9 stabbing and robbery of Gilberto Jimenez.

WTC placement tests set Thursday evening

Western Texas College will give placement tests Thursday, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

Officials note the testing will take approximately 1½ hours and requires a $10 fee.

The testing is for students planning to enroll this fall but who do not have either an ACT or SAT score. Placement tests are given to evaluate the student's skills in math and English composition.

Results of the tests are used to determine what classes the student may enroll in. Those scoring below specified skill levels must take developmental classes before being allowed to advance to regular freshman-level college work.

Placement tests will also be given at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 27, but college officials are asking students to take the test Thursday if possible. They stress that completing the test prior to class signup will speed up the registration process.

Ask Us

Q—Is there a 30-day waiting period after a divorce before a party can remarry, and if so, what are the legal rights of the ex-spouse if the other party remarries before the 30 days?

A—There is a 30-day waiting period. If a person remarries before the waiting period is over, they are in violation of the Texas Bigamy Statute and the marriage is not valid by law. However, if the divorce is not appealed, a judge may rule the marriage valid. The ex-spouse does not have any extra legal rights that pertain to this situation.

In Brief

Oil lease sale

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The federal government's sale of offshore oil and gas leases in the Gulf of Mexico off the Texas coast stirred limited interest today despite concerns about oil in the Mid East.

One hundred oil and gas companies qualified to bid and submitted 465 offers on 307 of the 4,792 tracts up for lease.

Last year, there were 676 bids on 488 tracts by 107 companies.

Jail suit

AUSTIN (AP) — A judge today ordered Texas to pay more than $100 million to 12 counties for holding state prisoners in their jails. He said the state must raise the money needed to pay the bills.

"The counties have demanded that respondents (prison board members) perform their duty to take inmates and respondents have unjustly refused and still refuse to take or make provisions for the inmates," State District Judge Joseph Hart said in his written order.

Hart ordered the state to pay $40 a day for each state prisoner held in the counties' jails for more than seven days.

Local

Breakfast

The local chamber of commerce will host Snyder public school teachers in a breakfast scheduled for 6:45 a.m. Thursday in the high school cafeteria.

Hermleigh

Hermleigh will stage a "back to school night" on Thursday at the Hermleigh football field immediately following the Cardinals' 6 p.m. scrimmage with Highland.

Teachers will be introduced and cold watermelon will be served. Everyone is invited.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Tuesday, 93 degrees; low, 69 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Wednesday, 69 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1990 to date, 20.52 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Tonight, fair with isolated evening thunderstorms. Low in the upper 60s. Rain chance less than 20 percent. South wind 5 to 10 mph. Thursday, sunny and very warm with high in mid 90s. South wind 10 to 15 mph.

But still low...

Recent rains boost Lake Thomas level

Recent rains have netted a foot and a half of water or some 4,000 acre feet into Lake Thomas, the area's water supply. This brings the lake back to the level it was in mid-June, according to Colorado River Municipal Water District secretary-treasurer Joe Pickle.

Pickle said the lake's current level is 22 23.30 above sea level. Thomas currently holds 35,000 acre feet of water, about 3 billion gallons. "The lake is low but not critical," said Pickle.

Things would have to get "really desperate" before the area's water supply is threatened he said.

Thomas is in good shape to meet the water demands for Snyder, however, Pickle says that if the lake doesn't catch another 4-6 feet by late September or early October — the last chance for any substantial rain until spring, noted Pickle — that an alternative supplementary water supply for Odessa will be used.

The water for the Odessa-Midland area comes primarily from Lake Spence. Water from Spence is diluted with some from Thomas as a "quality control method," according to Pickle.

The CRMWD has purchased five sections in Winkler County where they could drill 10 wells as an alternative to using water from Thomas for diluting Spence water. The project would cost approximately $4.4 million and could pump 24,000 gallons of water a day through a 20-mile pipeline. Pickle feels that most of the project could be financed with "in-house funds."

In a recent meeting, CRMWD board approved of 4,000 feet of 21-inch pipe along 37th St. as the widening project for the street is underway. The pipe runs from a terminal storage tank west of the city.

"That pipe is 40 years old and we felt it might not stand all the heavy machinery and traffic (as part of the widening project)," said Pickle.

The old pipe will be left in the ground because it has little or no salvage value to justify digging it up, Pickle said.

Cost for the new pipe is estimated at $175,000.

Agronomist escapes from Kuwait danger

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Several Americans trapped in the Middle East are "surviving pretty well" and keeping a low profile, said a 57-year-old Houston agronomist who escaped from Kuwait on Tuesday.

Ed Daly recounted his all-day journey to freedom after arriving in Saudi Arabia and told of Americans being rounded up by Iraqi soldiers.

"They cleared the hotels right away," Ed Daly told a San Diego Tribune reporter in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia.

Daly said he knew of at least two American colleagues who were rounded up by Iraqis.

Daly had been in Kuwait City less than two months when Iraqi forces invaded the city Aug. 2. He said he fled Kuwait in a caravan of cars early Tuesday and that the vehicles were shot at numerous times by Iraqi soldiers.

"I was afraid because I was told they (Iraq) were told to shoot to kill," Daly said.

The caravan arrived at the Saudi border six hours later and was greeted by cheers.

Daly was dressed in traditional flowing white Arabic robes when he arrived at Le Meridien Gulf Hotel in Dhahran. He said the Iraqis didn't realize he was an American.

"I'm sort of in a daze," he said.

Thousands of Americans remain in Kuwait and Iraqi President Saddam Hussein says Americans are now being placed near strategic targets that the U.S. military would likely attack in the event of armed conflict.

Daly said that in the days following the invasion he roamed the areas of Kuwait City with which he was familiar and concentrated on eluding Iraqi troops. He said he didn't have the opportunity to keep track of most other Americans.

"There's water in most of the town, but food is getting very difficult," Daly said.

He said he thinks there is sporadic Kuwaiti resistance to the occupation because gunfire could be heard every night in the late hours.

Daly said Iraqi soldiers continue to loot homes and stores. He also said anti-American propaganda drones the airwaves. "The propaganda is horrendous," he said. "Every other word is 'Americans this' and 'Americans that.'"

Daly's daughter, Heatherly Daly of Houston, said her father is "brave."

"I knew he'd probably try (to escape) if he had the chance," she told The Houston Post.

Daly said he hoped to return to Houston to celebrate his birthday Friday with his family. In addition to his daughter, Daly has a wife, Dorothy; a son, Kenneth; and a grandson, Jacob.

"I really can't wait to get back to my family and friends," Daly told The Post. "I feel bad about the others I left behind, but I did what I had to do."

"Now I'll do what I can to make people aware of the others there. I'll try to help see that they get home safely too."

NURSES RECEPTION — Cogdell Memorial Hospital honored vocational nurses from Western Texas College and Texas State Technical Institute of Sweetwater with a reception in the doctors' lounge at the hospital. Also in attendance were instructors from both schools. Iana Chambers, director of nurses, and G.A. Parks, chairman of the board of managers at Cogdell, welcomed guests. (SDN Staff Photo)

Baptist author: I am a 'victim'

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Baptist professor says he won't lose hope that his 100-year history of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board will be published some day, although for now he's lost his contract to write the panel's history.

Trustees of the Sunday School Board awarded Leon McBeth an $18,000 commission to write the book two years ago, but canceled its publication last week and ordered all but one copy of the 400-page manuscript shredded, apparently because of criticism from fundamentalists.

The book was to be published by Broadman Press, the Sunday School Board's publishing arm. "I feel as though I have suffered a literary abortion and for no good cause," McBeth told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

McBeth has been a professor of church history at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth for 30 years. He has written eight other books, including a major Southern Baptist history in 1987.

One fundamentalist trustee, Dr. Larry Holly of Beaumont, said McBeth's latest manuscript was "totally skewed toward the liberal side." An outspoken Baptist fundamentalist, Holly has written several articles for the "Southern Baptist Advocate," a fundamentalist journal.

He said McBeth reached conclusions without interviewing current trustees about recent controversies.

"This is not book-burning or censorship," Holly said. "It is correction of serious errors."

One such controversy, McBeth said, was his treatment of a school board trustees meeting last year in which Holly tried to have the current board president fired. Holly's motion was tabled.

"There was nothing wrong with the manuscript," McBeth said. "I just got caught in the crossfire of a power struggle at the board."

McBeth said he had interviewed trustees and spent hours reviewing board minutes and archives of the Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tenn.

Two Baptist Press editors have been fired in the controversy. "I'm terribly concerned," said the Rev. James Pleitz, pastor of Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas.

Study finds value in trail in valley

AUSTIN (AP) — A new feasibility study says a 200-mile trail linking key cultural and historical attractions from Brownsville to Laredo would be a boon for tourism in the Rio Grande Valley.

With the aid of a $160,000 Meadows Foundation grant, historians have begun a survey of significant sites — Spanish missions, forts and historic buildings — along the proposed trail, said Mario Sanchez, an architect with the Texas Historical Commission.

Sanchez said a Lower Rio Grande Heritage Trail would include "everything to illustrate the exploration of the area by the Spaniards in the mid-18th century, the Civil War, and the ranching heritage and agricultural development" of the region along the U.S.-Mexico border.

He called the proposal a "one-of-a-kind project, and the first and only historical and cultural corridor that would be shared by the two countries."

The route eventually could rival Virginia's Independence Trail and the restored colonial town of Williamsburg, Va., Sanchez said.

"The object would be to restore some of the historical structures, as well as to develop museums and heritage sites," he said.

The state is taking inventory of the Rio Grande route, he said. "We are now surveying places and noting events of outstanding importance to the region." About 200 locations have been designated as historic sites.

The Rio Grande Valley, he said, is filled with "buildings that meld not only the Mexican and Anglo cultures in the architecture, but also the European influences, like enclosed courtyards."

Sanchez said the trail might include such sites as:

— The Palo Alto battlegrounds 10 miles north of Brownsville. That is the site of the first battle in the Mexican-American War of 1846 that took place on U.S. soil.

— Roma, a historically rich border town, sometimes called the "Hispanic Williamsburg," that boasts the last suspension bridge across a U.S. border.

— Los Ebanos, where a ferry still operates across the international boundary.

Once the survey is completed and officials decide which structures to restore, officials will seek funding for the project, he said.

Arab-Americans say discrimination and stereotyping increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The incidents are isolated, but the fears of the Arab-American community are pervasive.
 A young Palestinian in Chicago is attacked and told to go back to Iraq. An Arab-American newspaper editor in Detroit is warned in a phone call he will die if Americans in Kuwait are harmed. A San Francisco Arab-American professor receives death threats after telling a newspaper he favors a negotiated settlement to the Middle East crisis.
 In Cleveland, an Egyptian grocer involved in a minor dispute with some local kids is thrown in jail for a night, and police yell ethnic slurs at him. In Toledo, a white racist group beats up an Arab-American who refuses to sell his business.
 Arab-American organizations and leaders who related these incidents said they are symptomatic of anti-Arab actions that occur whenever tensions rise in the Middle East.

national renegade. It's unfair to stereotype all Arabs," said Jawad F. George, executive director of the National Association of Arab-Americans. A letter from George's organization calling for the immediate withdrawal of Iraqi troops from Kuwait was printed in a full-page ad in the Washington Post on Tuesday.
 Arab-Americans complain of television comedians, radio talk shows and political cartoons depicting "Ay-rabs" as ugly, hook-nosed, burnoose-draped sheiks or terrorists. Radio rock music shows are promoting songs with anti-Arab lyrics.
 Jim Zogby of the Arab-American Institute said that because Arabs have always been depicted in movies as sinister and lacking in humanity, "people don't know who we are. It's terribly troubling to our community."

Blond woman with long-barreled revolver sought

KILGORE, Texas (AP) — East Texas authorities are searching for a slender woman with bleached-blond hair who has used a distinctive long-barreled revolver in the holdups of three convenience stores in the past 10 days, officers say.
 The latest robbery in which the woman is suspected was at the Fast Stop convenience store on Monday night, according to Sgt. Maxey Cerliano of the Kilgore Police Department.
 Cerliano said the woman was described as being in her early 20s, about 5-4, 110 pounds, with a slender build. A clerk at the store said the woman was wearing a baseball cap, a blue long-sleeved sweat shirt and a blue bandana around her neck.
 The woman pointed "a long-barreled revolver with designs on the wooden grip" at the clerk and demanded "Give me the money," Cerliano said.
 "Which, naturally, the clerk did," he said.
 Authorities did not reveal how much money was taken.

Committee endorses use of videodiscs to teach science

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas elementary school students could learn science through "videodiscs" — like compact discs with pictures — rather than textbooks under a recommendation from a state committee.
 The State Board of Education in November will consider the unanimous recommendation of the State Textbook Committee, which endorsed the videodisc science program for use beginning in the 1991-92 school year in elementary grades.
 If "Windows on Science" wins final approval, Texas would be the first state to adopt a videodisc-based curriculum as an alternative to recommended textbooks, according to the Warren, N.J.-based Optical Data Corp.
 The adoption would mean Texas school districts could use state textbook money to buy the videodisc program. Videodiscs already are being used in about 400 schools in the state, and more than 4,000 nationwide, the company said.
 The program is "a better mousetrap," said William Clark, the company's president. "I think this will become a model throughout the country for literally redefining the textbook industry."

 Rather than relying solely on a book to provide information, the program uses still and moving pictures to illustrate scientific concepts and principles. It also outlines "hands-on" activities for students to use.

 For example, a videodisc program on weather and air includes video of a Minneapolis tornado captured by a television photographer.

Theatre where Oswald was captured has been sold

DALLAS (AP) — The theatre in which Lee Harvey Oswald was captured following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in 1963 has been rescued from a possible date with a wrecking ball.
 The historic building will be sold to the Texas Theatre Historical Society by United Artists Theatres Inc. for $175,000, according to Bob McElearney, president of the Oak Cliff Chamber of Commerce.
 United Artists closed the 1,350-seat theatre in December for financial reasons. Since then, the historical society has been negotiating with the company, searching for a way to save the landmark in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas.
 "We came up with a deal that we both could live with," said McElearney, who was asked by the society to handle the negotiations.
 The purchase will be final at the end of September, "but we do have it under contract," he said.

The historical society has collected about $30,000 in donations for the building's purchase and renovation, he said.
 The society has not decided how it will use the theater, but the group wants "to make it operate as it operated in its heyday," McElearney said. That would include live performances and occasional screenings of classic movies, he said.
 The theater will be run as a non-profit organization, society president Dennis Hamilton said.
 The Italian renaissance structure at 231 W. Jefferson Blvd. was built by billionaire Howard Hughes and opened in 1931. It was hailed at the time as one of the finest theaters in Texas.
 The society was formed after UA announced plans to close the theater. Many feared that it would be sold and torn down to make way for some other type of business.

Maximizing the play

By James Jacoby

West's best opening lead would be a club, but South put up a bit of a smoke-screen when he bid two clubs on three small cards, on his way to four hearts. So West led a heart. That positioned declarer to maximize the play. He played dummy's heart 10, and East was wise not to cover with the king. South overtook with the jack anyway and led the 10 of diamonds. West covered with the king, and dummy's ace won. Next came the seven of hearts. East played low and so did declarer. That left the lead in dummy. A low diamond was played; East could not resist playing the nine, and declarer noticed the six from West as he ruffed.
 Declarer now played ace of hearts, collecting East's king. He followed with a spade to dummy's king. Remembering that six of diamonds from West, declarer played West to have only the eight-spot left. So he led the diamond jack from dummy. East covered with the queen, declarer ruffed, and West followed obligingly with the eight. Declarer could now return to dummy with the club ace and cash the seven and three of diamonds to take 12 tricks.
 It's hard to fault West for choosing a trump lead based on this bidding, but it's worth noting that leading trumps on defense just because there's nothing better to do is usually a losing strategy.

Snyder, area teams set scrimmage tilts

Area football teams, including the Snyder Tigers get their first tastes of competition Thursday and Friday as SHS, Ira, Hermleigh and Borden County all have scrimmages scheduled.

Snyder will travel to Stanton High School Thursday where it will face the Ft. Stockton Panthers in its first preseason test.

The Tigers, now a part of the newly created District 2-4A, faced Ft. Stockton yearly as members of the old 4-4A.

Snyder dumped the Panthers 34-12 last season in Ft. Stockton.

Ira has a scrimmage planned with Blackwell in Bulldog Stadium and Hermleigh hosts Highland in six-man action Thursday. Both games are scheduled to begin at 6 p.m.

Hermleigh will host a watermelon feed and a "meet the teachers" following its scrimmage.

Borden County entertains Sands in a 6 p.m. contest Friday marking the beginning of new grid coach Bobby Avery's first season.

All four teams begin the regular season Sept. 7.

Snyder will go against No. 18 Monahans there, Ira hosts fifth-ranked Guthrie, Hermleigh squares off versus Sands on the road and Borden County sees New Home in Gail.

Walen walks away following meeting

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Mark Walen walked out of the Dallas Cowboys facilities at Valley Ranch after meeting with coach Jimmy Johnson to discuss a second position change in a week, sources said.

Walen was not happy last week when Johnson moved him from defensive tackle to offensive left guard last week. Sources said Johnson told Walen Tuesday that he was being moved from offensive left guard back to defensive tackle.

Walen, the Cowboys' third-round draft pick in 1986, was not happy with the original move. He was not expected to be able to make the team's 47-man roster at defensive tackle. He has started only two games in four seasons and missed all of last season following a knee injury in training camp.

One player, who asked not to be identified, said Walen remarked, "Last week they moved me to offense, and this week they moved me to defense. I don't have a chance to make this team."

Another player said Walen told Johnson he wanted to be traded.

Johnson told reporters Walen was not at practice Tuesday afternoon because he was excused from practice.

"That's all I will say," the coach said. He would not answer questions about whether he had moved Walen back to defense or whether Walen had asked to be traded.

WTC to host golf tourney

Snyder drops opener

Lady Tigers lose at home to Brownfield

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Snyder's Lady Tigers volleyball squad lost their season opener 6-15, 9-15 to the visiting Brownfield Lady Cubs Tuesday night in the SHS gym.

"They were definitely a different team from the one in the scrimmages on Monday," said spike coach Patty Grimmitt.

"The girls were tight, really tense."

"They relaxed a little in the second game and we saw some

"Maybe their jitters are behind them."

Camille Thompson scored four for the Lady Tigers followed by Liz Greathouse, Freida Clay and Amber Bowlin with three each and Robbie Braziel with two.

Snyder's JV squad took a 15-5, 16-14 match victory to initiate new junior varsity coach Laura Holt.

The Snyder crew was behind in the second game 13-5 before coming back on an 11-1 run to claim the victory.

"The girls did and excellent job," said coach Holt.

"They played together very well. They started the second game a little slow and missed 11 serves but pulled everything together and came back."

Julie Johnson led all JV scorers with nine points. Angela Good contributed six while Stephanie Fambro and Melody Sargent snagged four each.

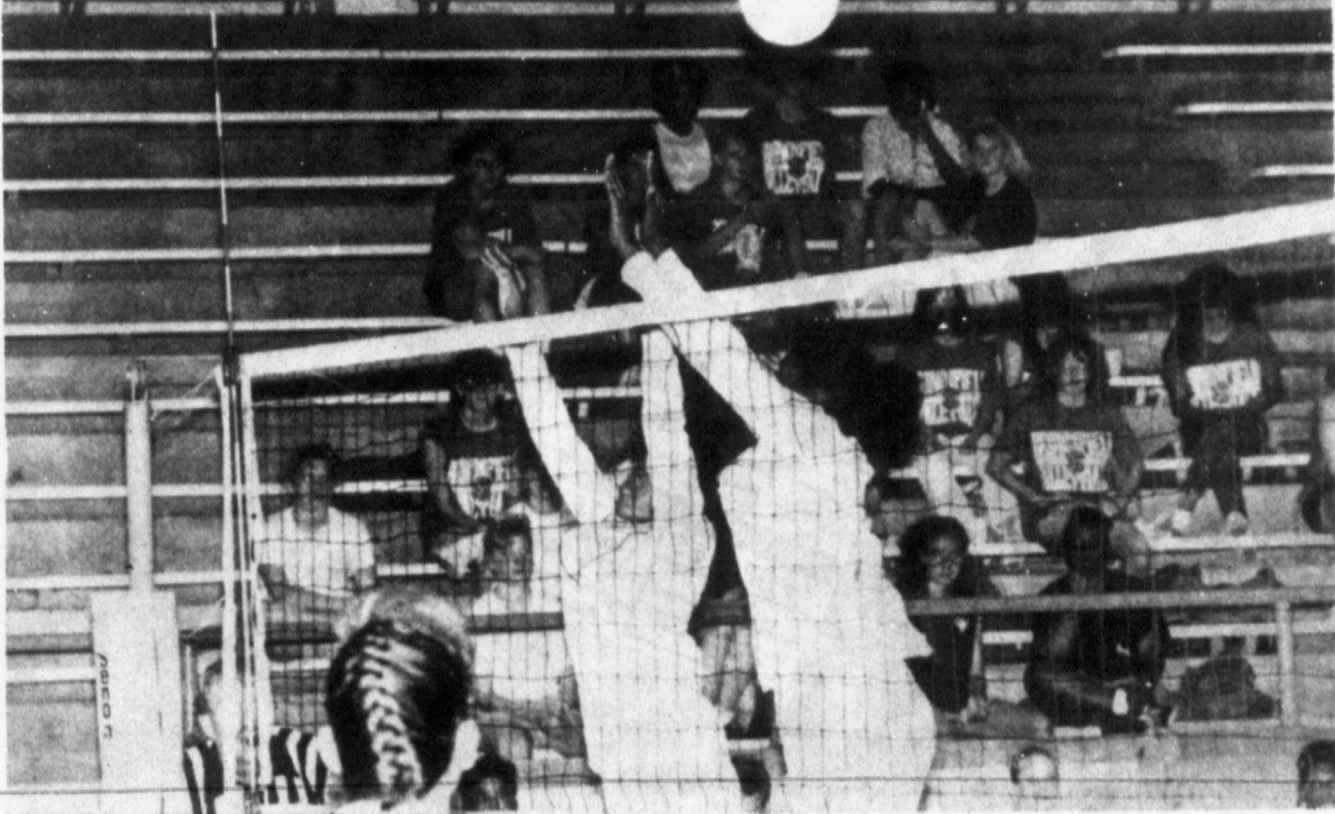

The Snyder freshmen lost to Brownfield 6-15, 10-15.

The Lady Tiger varsity squad will be in Monahans Friday and Saturday for a tournament there.

Snyder begins pool play with an 11 a.m. contest against El Paso Bowie on Friday followed by a 1 p.m. meeting with host Monahans and a 7 p.m. match with Odessa High.

Junior varsity spikers are slated to compete in Saturday's Key City Tournament at the Abilene Cooper High School Gym.

Snyder will play San Angelo Central at 11 a.m. in its first tourney match.

Former N.D. player alleges steroid use

NEW YORK (AP) — A former Notre Dame lineman labeled a quitter by Coach Lou Holtz said he has plenty of things to say in response, alleging steroid use at the university.

Steve Huffman, who had two brothers who starred as linemen at Notre Dame, claims in this week's Sports Illustrated, that there was widespread steroid use on the football team and that Holtz "had to have known" about it.

Huffman says that "almost half the lettermen at Notre Dame used steroids at some time." He also claims that some players sold the muscle-building drug, which is banned by the NCAA.

"I saw the boxes of 40 or 50 bottles in guys' rooms. Bottles of pills, bottles of injectables," Huffman says in the first-person article. "I've seen the bottles in their rooms, and I've seen take a strong stand against the drugs, which are known to have dangerous side-effects.

"I'm told that other players say that Holtz directly warned them not to use steroids, but I never heard it," says the 6-foot-5, 270-pound Huffman. "All I ever heard him say was, 'Be careful with steroids.' Whenever I was around, that's all he ever said."

Holtz was not immediately available for comment. But Notre Dame officials denied Huffman's charges in a written statement issued by the university.

"Any inferences, suggestions or accusations that the University of Notre Dame football squad suffers from anabolic steroid or street drug abuse is categorically false," said Dr. James Moriarity, the team and university physician.

Moriarity said Notre Dame players are subject to random, year-round drug testing by the school and have also been tested by the NCAA at bowl games.

"No Notre Dame athlete has ever been found to test positive by the NCAA," Moriarity said.

Swede beaten in WCT event

NEW YORK (AP) — While everyone else is preparing for next week's U.S. Open, Mats Wilander is keeping his eye on next May's French championship.

"Six months from now I want to be top 20, top 10," said Wilander, who in 1988 won three of the four Grand Slam tournaments and was ranked No. 1 in the world. "If that doesn't happen, then I've got to think about things."

"The middle of next year, after the French Open, after the clay-court season, that's when I've got to be up there. And if I'm not there then, then I have to sit down and (ask myself), 'Do I enjoy not being there?'"

The Swedish right-hander, who took a five-month sabbatical from the sport earlier this year, is currently ranked 58th in the world and falling fast. On Tuesday, Wilander fell to Todd Martin, a Northwestern University student, 0-6, 6-4, 7-5 in an opening round match at the WCT Tournament of Champions.

"I'm worrying about my own game so much I don't enough have space in my mind to worry about the big points," Wilander said. "I'm trying to keep the ball in play."

In other first-day matches at the WCT Tournament of Championships, being played on the hardcourts at the West Side Tennis Club, Patrick McEnroe surprised Andrei Cherkasov of the Soviet Union 7-6 (8-6), 7-6 (7-1), Australian Pat Cash averted another upset by stopping Steve Bryan, the reigning NCAA champion 5-7, 6-1, 7-5, Spain's Javier Sanchez defeated Alexander Volkov of the Soviet Union 6-2, 7-5, Robert Seguso eliminated Ivan Baron 6-4, 6-2, Sweden's Anders Jarryd stopped Jim Grabb 6-2, 6-4 and Czechoslovakia's Petr Korda downed Elliot Teltscher 7-6 (7-2), 7-6 (7-1).

Today, defending champion Ivan Lendl makes his debut when he takes on Cash in a night match. Earlier, Emilio Sanchez of Spain will play Jarryd and Tim Mayotte will take on McEnroe.

Martin broke Wilander's serve to begin the second set, then battled through four deuces before holding his own service for a 2-0 advantage. When he broke Wilander again in the fifth game, he had increased his lead to 4-1.

Steinbrenner's USOC status now questioned

NEW YORK (AP) — George Steinbrenner can't run his team anymore.

Today, he'll start to find out if the U.S. Olympic Committee wants him out, too.

USOC president Robert Helmick said Tuesday he wants to quickly settle the question of Steinbrenner's USOC status because the issue has started to "distract us from talking about athletes."

Steinbrenner's vice presidency is expected to be a key topic at the USOC executive committee's two-day meeting that begins this afternoon in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Helmick said he wouldn't make an official recommendation about Steinbrenner to the 16-member executive committee. But he hoped a decision would be reached before the meeting ended.

Steinbrenner, who quit Monday as general partner of the New York Yankees, was found to have acted against the best interests of baseball by Commissioner Fay Vincent because of Steinbrenner's association with and $40,000 payment to gambler Howard Spira.

Steinbrenner has said he agreed to give up control of the Yankees instead of accepting a two-year suspension in hope of preserving his USOC role. But since that ruling, Steinbrenner's Olympic role has been questioned by the USOC.

"Half my days have been taken up with this issue rather than policy matters," Helmick said in New York before traveling to the meeting. "This issue has begun to take out time and distract us from talking about athletes. We have to find ways we can remove ourself from this issue and get on to other matters."

Steinbrenner is part of the 16-man executive committee and of the USOC board of directors. The 120-man board, which next meets in October, can remove Steinbrenner by majority vote. The executive committee only can make recommendations.

Helmick said Steinbrenner told him that if "a majority of the board asked for his resignation, he would do that, although sadly." Helmick said they did not discuss what Steinbrenner would do if the executive committee asked him to step aside.

Stanford president nips expansion talk

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP) — Expansion of the Pac-10 Conference seems to be just about a dead issue — for the time being at least.

Unanimous approval of conference presidents is required for expansion, and at least one — Stanford president Donald Kennedy — has not kept secret his opposition to an expansion plan.

And after discussing the possibility of expanding the conference at two meetings last month, the top officers of the schools decided Tuesday that the conference is not prepared to expand its current membership.

"After studying the data developed by the conference's directors, senior women administrators and faculty representatives, the chief executive officers determined it was not in the Pac-10's best interests to actively pursue expansion at this time," commissioner Tom Hansen said in a news release issued Tuesday.

"There is opposition generically to expansion, not to any institution which may have been mentioned, and addition of a member requires a unanimous vote of all 10 members of the conference," Hansen said.

The presidents and chancellors of the Pac-10 met Tuesday by conference call to review information submitted by athletic administrators in meetings earlier this month.

Dear Abby

Mom Not in a Greeting Mood To Welcome Uninvited Guests

The Best of Dear Abby by Abigail Van Buren
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.

DEAR ABBY: Our only son, Sammy, is a wonderful young professional man who practices in another state. He recently became engaged to a girl who lives where he practices. We have met her and think she's a nice young woman, but we're wondering what kind of family she comes from.

Sammy telephoned last week, saying he wanted to bring the girl and her mother here to meet us. I discouraged him, saying it was too soon — that I preferred to wait until after summer to have them here.

Today he called again to say they are coming! I was shocked to think that this girl and her mother would set aside formalities and come without my personal invitation. (I'm sure they pressured Sammy into it.)

Of course I'll be hospitable, but what do you think of people who would come without a personal invitation from the hostess?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: After a couple has announced their engagement, it is never "too soon" for the families to meet. (In fact, it's customary to meet before.) I suspect you aren't too keen on Sammy's girl; your preference to "wait" reveals your reluctance to accept her.

If you don't want to lose your "wonderful son," you'd better mellow fast, Mother, and forgo the "formalities."

***

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend asked me if he could borrow my car, so I said OK. (His was in the shop.)

When he brought it back I noticed a cigarette butt with lipstick on it in the ashtray. I asked him how it got there, and he said he didn't know.

Do you believe it's possible that he doesn't know how it got there? Or do you think he's lying to me?

Your answer is very important to me, so please give it some thought.

HURT

DEAR HURT: One swallow doesn't make a spring, and one cigarette butt shouldn't necessarily hang a man. I would have to know more about your boyfriend and his record of reliability before expressing an opinion.

***

DEAR ABBY: Our widowed daughter, approaching 50, recently remarried and moved halfway across the country. When we visited her recently, I noticed only two pair of pajamas in the laundry and none in their drawers.

Doesn't it strike you as odd, if not improper, for middle-aged people to wear night clothes only when they have guests?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: What people wear (or don't wear) to bed is between them. The only impropriety I see here is your concern about something that shouldn't concern you.

New Jersey senator...

Presidential waters are tested

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)

New Jersey Sen. Bill Bradley knows about making the right moves when he sets foot on the farm soil of Iowa.

Almost 40 years ago, as a Little Leaguer from Missouri playing baseball in a regional championship in Ottumwa, Iowa, he stepped off first base and was tagged out. The sting of being caught off guard has stayed with him.

A more careful Bradley recalled the early misstep this week during his third trip to the state since 1988.

Bradley's visit to the home of the nation's first Democratic presidential caucuses raised questions asked any time a politician of national repute steps into the Iowa limelight.

"I don't know that much about him," said Elaine Baxter, Iowa's secretary of state. "I feel good about the things I've heard — the respect of his colleagues, a very substantive person, able to reach out to those voters in the middle. I would need to see where he stands on women's issues, economic issues and foreign policy."

Standing on a flatbed truck, a relaxed Bradley addressed a group of Democrats — weaving tales about his pro basketball past with a campaign boost for Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin, a fellow Democrat.

The crowd looking up from picnic tables applauded. They laughed at his jokes. And many walked away wanting to know more about the 6-foot-5 New Jersey senator.

"As a speaker, I thought he was really a surprise," said Gloria Sullivan of Des Moines, who anticipated a dry delivery.

Bradley's appearances in Winterset, Des Moines and Cedar Rapids were read as testing the waters. But Arthur Davis, chairman of the Iowa Democratic Party from 1985 to 1987, said the real question is whether Bradley returns to Iowa after this fall's Nov. 6 election.

"If we see him after November, it will be because he's interested in exploration," Davis said.

Bradley insists he wants to serve another six years in the Senate.

"To anyone who says anything about the presidency, I say, no, I'm not running for president," the two-term incumbent said.

Given his insistence, Bonnie Campbell, the Democratic candidate for Iowa attorney general and past state Democratic chairman, said Bradley's appearance amounts to good strategy.

"If you even had anything on your mind down the road, what would make Democrats think more warmly toward you than helping one of the most popular senators in Iowa?" she said.

Davis cautioned that Iowa might have trouble with a Bradley candidacy.

"Are we going to go East again? Although Iowa did go for Governor Dukakis, does the salvation of the party lie in Eastern liberals?"

Bradley's Iowa visit was one of his few this election season on behalf of fellow Democrats.

He spent Friday in Texas with Ann Richards, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. He's also helping raise money for Dianne Feinstein, who is running for governor of California, and Harvey Gantt, who is running for the Senate from North Carolina.

Bradley's opponent, Republican Christine Todd Whitman, has accused him of neglecting New Jersey interests while in Iowa.

Bradley argued that he was there "so I can collect my chits" with Harkin, who as chairman of a Senate appropriations subcommittee holds the purse strings for several Bradley health and education bills.

Two suffer minor injuries in recent shark attacks

ARANSAS PASS, Texas (AP)

Two shark attacks near Mustang Island over the weekend are no cause for alarm, but should remind people to be careful at the beach, officials said.

Neither attack caused serious injury.

Jimmy Allen, 18, one of the shark-bite victims, says he'll fish from a boat from now on.

Allen said a shark bit him in about seven feet of water between two sandbars where he was fishing for speckled trout about 1:30 p.m. Sunday near Port Aransas.

"I felt his skin rub against my leg before he attacked me, so I guess I made him mad," Allen said Tuesday. "I felt the teeth, so then I knew what was going on. By then, I was getting out of there."

He didn't see the shark, but said he recognized the texture of shark skin from his experience shark fishing.

Allen said he swam for shore, about 50 yards away.

"When I got back to the beach, I didn't know I was cut, until I saw the blood," Allen said.

He described his injuries as "sort of like razor blade cuts" on a five-inch area of his right calf.

They did not require stitches, but he said he plans to have a tetanus shot.

Allen said he doesn't intend to wade-fish any more.

"I'll probably go out there in a little boat," Allen said.

Greyhound drivers determined to continue with strike effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Greyhound strike grinds well into its sixth month with no resolution in sight, drivers are using odd jobs, their savings or unemployment checks to scrape by.

"The old-timers ... some of them are having a hard time finding any other work," said Darrell Horn, president of a drivers union local in Portland, Ore. "They're very despondent. But they're not going to go back to work under these conditions."

The bus line's 6,000 drivers walked out March 2 over a dispute in wages and job security. Drivers contend they only wanted to regain ground they lost after taking pay cuts over the past decade that dropped their salaries from $31,000 to $24,000.

Now, the bus line, currently under the protection of bankruptcy court, has told those drivers their jobs no longer exist because it has resumed "business as usual" with 3,000 strikebreakers it hired.

"We still consider Greyhound as our company, the one we built, the one we gave up our wages for and vacations for, just to keep the company afloat and give it a chance to breathe," Bob Beard, a Greyhound driver for 29 years, said from his home in suburban Washington.

Greyhound contends the union created its own problems with excessive wage demands. It blames the company's financial trouble on security and legal costs stemming from initial strike violence it contends was orchestrated by union leaders.

Drivers have found a variety of ways to make ends meet. Jim Gajdos has a job hawking $1 programs at a minor league ballpark in Boise, Idaho. For Jerry Reidell in Bellingham, Wash., the dispute has meant switching roles with his wife: He's now at home with their two children while she works at the Postal Service.

Other striking drivers have taken temporary and part-time jobs with tour or charter bus companies. Some have been forced to use their savings or are trying to survive on unemployment and $50-a-week strike benefit checks.

Most drivers enjoyed their jobs, despite the pay cuts, because of the independence and cross-country trips, strikers said.

"People don't really think of us as cowboys, but we're kind of the stagecoach drivers of the '90s," Gajdos said. "There's a certain romance to the job."

Gajdos and Reidell have both dipped into their savings to help in the pinch of lost paychecks. Gajdos said that because his Greyhound pay had dropped over the years, he's used to a life without the extras.

"I guess you could say we've been introduced to poverty on the installment plan," Gajdos said.

Many local unions have food banks set up where grocers and charities donate canned goods and cereals for drivers.

GOP phone solicitor had Klan connections

HOUSTON (AP) — A telephone solicitor honored in 1989 as the top telephone solicitor for the Texas Republican Party has been fired for his alleged Ku Klux Klan connections, party sources told the Houston Chronicle.

William Ronald Neal, 37, who raised $71,000 for the Texas GOP during the past three years while working in the party's Austin-based phone bank, said Tuesday he was fired by party officials without explanation.

"I demanded to know why I was fired," Neal said, moments after his termination Monday evening. "But my boss, Jim Loessberg (head of the phone bank operation), said he couldn't tell me."

Loessberg and other party officials declined comment, the newspaper reported.

Party sources who asked that their names not be used for fear of reprisals said party officials feared Neal's suspected Klan involvement could damage Republican candidates' images during an election year.

Neal denied any Klan connections.

"I would never do anything like that because it's an illegal criminal organization that kills people," Neal said.

Neal said he was shocked to learn that a telephone tape purporting to recruit for the Klan featured a voice that sounded "the same" as his own.

Telephone company records indicate the recording, which solicits funds in exchange for information about the Klan, originates at a phone located at Neal's home address in Austin.

Neal also said he was surprised to learn that the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan had a post office box next to his own.

"It sounded like me," Neal said after calling the taped message and listening to the recording.

"Why would anyone make a tape that sounds like me?" Neal asked after placing the call at a reporter's request. "Why would anyone do this to me? It just sounds like a bizarre plot against me."

It may have been outspokenness and his membership in the John Birch Society that led to his firing, Neal said.

"Maybe I've angered some people by saying (President) Bush was a traitor by leading our country into a hopeless war in the Middle East," Neal said. "That might have been it."

Klan leaders would neither confirm nor deny Neal's involvement in their organization.

"He may be a real Klan member or he may be just a scam," said Michael Lowe, 41, the exalted cyclops of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in Waco.

"But would any political party fire a person who is homosexual or has strong religious beliefs?" Lowe said. "Why should they fire him for being a member of the Klan?"

According to legend, Rome was founded in 753 B.C.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 57-year-old male in reasonably good health. Prior to 1987, I exercised regularly, jogging five to seven miles a week. Now other demands have taken priority, and exercise is not regular. While trying to jog recently, I felt a spasm in the middle of my chest that has repeated on many occasions. Then I began having indigestion at night. My doctor did an EKG, brief exam and drew blood. He says it is not my heart. What could be the cause of the spasm and indigestion?

DEAR READER: You could be experiencing angina, cardiac-muscle spasm from inadequate oxygen supply to the heart, caused by arteriosclerotic plaque in your coronary arteries. I am not as confident as your doctor is that your "indigestion" comes from other sources. An examination, resting cardiogram and blood tests are not enough, in my opinion, to reach that conclusion.

First of all, you are a middle-aged male. In our society, this places you at risk for heart disease. This risk is accentuated if you are diabetic, overweight, sedentary, a smoker, have a high cholesterol level or a family history of heart disease.

Second, coronary artery disease may not be evident on a standard cardiogram, taken when you are lying down. In my view, you need a stress test, during which you have a cardiogram while exercising. Such a test may give unequivocal evidence of oxygen deficiency while your heart is working harder. You should insist on a stress test.

Third, if you are having anginal pain while jogging or at night, you are in definite danger of a heart attack. The angina may be a warning you should not ignore. Stop exercising until the doctor tests you further and, if necessary, prescribes medicines, such as nitrates.

I hope your doctor is correct and that your stress test is normal. If so, you'll want to investigate your symptoms by directing attention to your intestinal tract. The pain of gastritis, peptic ulcer and acid reflux can mimic angina. Therefore, an upper gastrointestinal X-ray (GI series) may be in order. Or your doctor may choose to refer you to a gastroenterologist for endoscopy, during which the specialist examines your stomach (and portions of the small intestine) with a lighted instrument.

In any case, you need a rational and coordinated approach to your symptoms. If your doctor seems unwilling to go the course, ask for a referral to a colleague for a second opinion. To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Eating Right For A Healthy Heart" and "Choosing A Physician." Other readers who would like copies should send $1.25 for each report to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title(s).

Chemical protection sent to some soldiers in Dhahran

DALLAS (AP) — Military personnel who are stationed in Saudi Arabia without anti-chemical gear will receive the protective suits by the end of the week, a Pentagon spokesman said.

A U.S. Air Force sergeant stationed at an air base in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, contacted The Associated Press over the weekend to complain that he and 120 others had not been provided the protective gear.

Others at the base, which is located about 165 miles south of Kuwait, told an AP pool reporter that they were worried that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein might use chemical weapons.

The impression that the Air Force "stuck these people out there on the front lines totally defenseless and unprepared ... is not the case at all," Air Force Lt. Col. Don Black said Tuesday night.

Black said chemical gear for the 120 people affiliated with the military training mission at the base was shipped out Tuesday.

Master Sgt. Johnnie Bratton, a native of San Marcos, Texas, said Saturday that he and the other members of the training mission, many of whom have been stationed in Dhahran for up to two years, lacked minimum protection, yet were sitting "in the front seat of Armageddon."

Bratton, who has been in Saudi Arabia almost 10 months, said Saturday that he turned to the media after his request for protective gear was not granted by his superiors or congressional leaders.

Black said that Bratton's request was immediately acted upon, but had to go through military channels.

"Apparently when Sgt. Bratton had brought it to his commander's attention... the commander did in fact (relay) that

Troops set for possible Mid East tour

Trains bearing the armament and equipment of the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment rolled away from Fort Bliss Tuesday night, headed toward the Texas Gulf Coast.

Hometown soldiers supported

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — World War II veteran Paul Berry remembered being served coffee and doughnuts before he went to war and wants hometown soldiers to receive the same kind of support before going to the Persian Gulf.

So with the help of a friend at El Paso radio station KTSM-AM, he has put together a 30-second radio spot that wishes Fort Bliss soldiers "Godspeed, success and safety."

"We hope that the American people would become aware that those are our neighbors and Americans over there," said Berry, owner of Wyler Industrial Works. "We feel very strongly about it. I feel strongly about it having been in a war myself and having had a lot of support from the American people."

With the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" playing in the background, the radio spot informs listeners that men and women from Fort Bliss "have answered the call to defend freedom, wherever it is threatened."

"The employees of Wyler Industrial Works support our soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines ... and wish them Godspeed, success and safety in their mission — for America," the announcer says as the music crescendos.

Members of the 11th Air Defense Artillery, stationed at Fort Bliss, already are in the Persian Gulf. Col. Doug Starr, commander of the 3rd Armored Cavalry, said Monday that all 4,500 soldiers in the 3rd Armored will be dispatched to the region.

"We ought to be behind our local military installations," said Berry, a former Marine who served in the Pacific. "Those are our neighbors. Some of those folks live next door to you or me around town."

about 11:30 p.m. CDT.

The 4,500 soldiers of the 3rd Armored Cavalry were ordered to the Middle East last week as part of the massive U.S. buildup in Saudi Arabia. An unknown number of troops from the 11th Air Defense Artillery Brigade at Fort Bliss also have been ordered to the Middle East. Some already are in Saudi Arabia.

The 3rd Armored Cavalry is expected to act as a flank guard or as a scout, doing reconnaissance and feeding intelligence to other units. Fort Bliss officials refuse to reveal when the unit will actually move.

For the past 10 days, crews have been loading tanks, anti-aircraft weaponry and other armored vehicles from the 3rd Armored Cavalry onto trains at Fort Bliss.

The trains that left Tuesday night are believed headed to Beaumont, but the Army has refused to confirm or deny the destination.

A military transport ship has been docked in Beaumont for several days, but port officials have refused to discuss its mission.

Meanwhile troops from Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene and Fort Hood near Killeen continued preparing Tuesday to move out.

Maj. Mary Beth Kilgore, a Dyess public affairs officer, confirmed that a tanker squadron from Dyess had flown its first missions in support of the Persian Gulf troop and equipment buildup Monday.

She declined to reveal how many of the KC-135 Stratotankers were involved and where the refueling missions took place. Dyess has only one tanker squadron, the 917th Air Refueling Squadron. It usually has 17 KC-135s assigned.

Still awaiting orders on when and where to send its C-130 cargo planes, however, was the 463rd Tactical Airlift Wing.

"Other wing personnel and equipment have been tasked and are just awaiting transportation," Ms. Kilgore said. But the equipment doesn't include the wing's major weapons system, the B-1B bomber, she said.

Carswell Air Force Base officials Tuesday confirmed deployment of some KC-135 refueling tankers. The tankers refuel planes in flight at a rate of 1,000 gallons a minute.

Carswell, in Fort Worth, has a fleet of 18 KC-135s, which are part of the more than 600 aircraft in the Strategic Air Command that can refuel. Officials refused to say when or how many of the planes were deployed.

But Col. Julian B. Hall, commander of the 7th Bomb Wing at Carswell, said: "We're ready to do whatever the president asks us to do."

So are an undisclosed number of Air Force reservists who have volunteered to provide airlift support for the 433rd Military Air Wing at Kelly Air Force Base near San Antonio.

The 433rd has 3,700 members in Texas and Oklahoma; 3,400 of those reservists are assigned to Kelly, said wing spokesman Maj. Meade C. Wharton. It is one of several military units assigned to Kelly.

None of the reservists has been called to active duty, which would require authorization from Congress.

The air wing flies the C-5A "Galaxy," designed to airlift cargo and personnel.

About 125 miles north in Killeen, troops at Fort Hood were "still preparing to go," a base spokeswoman said. Elements of the 2nd Armored Division and the 1st Cavalry are expected to be deployed, but the spokeswoman said she could not say when they are going to leave.

Now AmWest can give you something few banks can...

A good night's sleep.

Now AmWest has "DreamSaver"—a savings program designed to bring peace of mind to all those who worry about saving money.

Here's how it works: You tell AmWest how much you want to save every month, (as little as $25 if you like) and they'll deduct it automatically from a free checking account (that's right, free checking) and put it into a CD account. Keep your money there for a full 12 months and it will earn a high-interest CD rate. Take it out early, and you'll get a penalty — three months interest or $50.

So "DreamSaver" not only helps you save money on a regular monthly basis — it helps you keep your hands off it too. And with a little money in savings — a good night's sleep will come a whole lot easier.

Put Your Money on Texas.

Substantial penalty for early withdrawal. Interest paid quarterly. Rates subject to change without notice.
