For prison healthcare...

Cogdell, Tech agree on one-year contract

Cogdell Memorial Hospital has reached an agreement, in principle, to provide healthcare for the Price Daniel Unit again, Tom Hochwalt, hospital administrator, announced Friday afternoon.

"We are proud to enter into our second year of partnership with Texas Tech University Health Science Center and the Texas Department of Criminal Justice," said Hochwalt, after reaching the agreement with James Lewis, TTUHSC executive vice president.

Hochwalt stressed that Bernhard T. Mitemeyer, M.D. and provost of TTUHSC, will have the final authority of the contract approval. Dr. Mitemeyer is expected to give his approval prior to the signing of the contract, which is scheduled to take place Wednesday afternoon in Snyder.

Cogdell subcontracts the healthcare services through Tech's Health Science Center, which receives its contract through the TDCJ.

Under the contract, Cogdell and Texas Tech will split a $15 per-inmate decrease in the capitation allocation. Under the present contract, which expires Aug. 31, TDCJ pays $1,517 per inmate, of which Cogdell receives $1,224. Under the new contract, TDCJ will pay $1,502 per inmate and Cogdell will receive $1,216.50. Based on 930 inmates, Cogdell's capitation revenue will be cut some $6,975 over last year.

Gross revenue from the capitation portion of the contract will be $1,131,345, based on 930 inmates.

Through the contract, Cogdell provides nurses, support staff and supplies and pharmaceutical services for the Daniel Unit clinic, infirmary-level care for inmates needing hospitalization, out-patient care treatment at the hospital and transportation.

In addition, Cogdell provides emergency room service to inmates at the hospital's usual charge and acute hospital care for inmates by the physician on call or specialists on a set-amount basis.

Jobless rate slides to 4.3 percent here

Unemployment in Scurry County dropped to its lowest mark in over a year during July, according to estimates released by the Texas Employment Commission.

The county's unemployment rate for July was 4.3 percent, down from 4.9 percent the month before and at its lowest rate in over a year. The year's previous low was 4.5 in May.

In 1989, Scurry County's lowest rate of unemployment was 5.2 percent, which occurred in October.

July's rate is based on a civilian labor force of 10,499, of which 10,049 were employed. According to TEC estimates, 450 people were unemployed but seeking employment, which amounts to 4.3 percent of the labor force.

Scurry County's civilian labor force had risen by over 1,900 since the first of the year before dipping slightly in July, according to the employment commission. The county's labor force was estimated to be 8,709 in January and rose to 8,937 in February, to 9,104 in March, to 9,463 in April, to 9,719 in May and to 10,625 in June. July's estimate of 10,499 showed a loss in the manpower force of 126 workers, or less than 2 percent.

Statewide, unemployment in July was at 6.3 percent, compared to 5.5 percent nationwide.

The Bryan-College Station area boasts the state's lowest unemployment rate among metropolitan statistical areas, with 3.8 percent unemployment. The McAllen-Edinburg-Mission area has been the hardest hit region with 16.2 percent unemployment.

July unemployment rates in area counties include the following:

Sexual assault trial Monday

A jury panel of 120 persons has been summoned Monday for possible jury duty in the trial of a 31-year-old Snyder man charged with aggravated sexual assault and indecency with a child.

Kenneth M. Bailey of 601 34th St. is charged with the Dec. 15 offense of indecency with a child and the Jan. 10 offense of aggravated sexual assault of a child. Bailey was indicted by a Scurry County grand jury in March.

The case will be heard in 132nd District Court with Judge Gene Dulaney presiding. District Attorney Ernie Armstrong will prosecute the case and defense attorney is Pat Barber of Colorado City.

School starts Monday

It's time to set the alarm clocks again.

No, it's not for the twice-a-year jump to and from daylight savings time. It's time to go back to school.

After a week of teacher in-service this past week, Snyder, Ira and Hermleigh public schools open their doors Monday for the first classes of the 1990-91 school year.

Western Texas College students begin registering Monday, and will begin classes Wednesday.

At Snyder High School, all students and staff will report to Worsham Auditorium at 8:30 a.m.

Snyder ISD students will see 29 new staffers when they report Monday. Hermleigh hired seven new personnel over the summer and Ira added one.

Western Texas College added one new instructor and three business department employees.

Sophomores and evening students planning to attend WTC will register Monday, while freshmen register Tuesday. Sophomores with last names beginning with A-G should register from 1-2 p.m. Monday. Those with H-T names register from 2-3 p.m. and U-Z students (see SCHOOL, page 13A)

SISD session addresses purchase of computers

Snyder public schools board of trustees discussed the purchase and placement of 35 IBM computers and 17 printers during an afternoon workshop Friday.

The equipment, which will be put in use at the high school, has already been budgeted at about $64,000.

School officials told board members that a computer network system has been put on hold for a year or two. A network system — where a mainframe accepts software for a number of terminals — had been considered earlier in the year. However, officials explained a network system would not be feasible at this time because most of the 35 computers would be used in classes where students input their own programs.

Eighteen of the computers will be in the math and business departments, seven will be used

DARE PARTY — Local young people enjoyed an evening swim Friday in Towle Park Pool at the DARE "Back to School Swim Party" sponsored by Sheriff Keith Collier and Deputy Sheriff Charlie Reynolds. The party was held for Snyder seventh

Council okays military action to enforce economic embargo

by The Associated Press
The United Nations Security Council voted Saturday to put military might behind economic sanctions on Iraq, while diplomats inside embassies in Kuwait played a tense waiting game with Iraqi troops surrounding some of their compounds.

U.S. officials said electricity to the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait was cut off Saturday but Iraqi troops around the American compound have not attempted to close it.

The Security Council vote came after the United States — which has dozens of warships in the Persian Gulf — sought U.N. authority to use force in stopping trade with Iraq. The embargo is aimed at pressuring Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to end his 3-week-old occupation of Kuwait.

Iraq denounced the Security Council move as illegal and warned it could lead to all-out war.

"This use of force by the United States or any of its allies or puppets will lead inevitably to a number of explosions which will burn all in their path," said Iraq's U.N. ambassador, Abdul Amir Al-Anbari.

Meanwhile, Japan's Foreign Ministry said Saturday that Tokyo's ambassador to Iraq had protested the moving of about 20 Japanese from a Baghdad hotel to an unknown destination. A Foreign Ministry official said the Japanese nationals were put on a bus Saturday with about 20 other foreigners, mostly Caucasians.

Saddam has repeatedly threatened to use trapped foreigners as human shields to protect Iraqi installations against attack.

In the embassy standoff, a European envoy had said Iraq threatened to forcefully remove diplomats remaining at their posts in Kuwait Saturday.

But diplomatic sources said it was unlikely that Baghdad would make such a move while Austrian President Kurt Waldheim was in the Iraqi capital for talks with Saddam.

Waldheim arrived Saturday and Saddam himself was on hand to greet him at the airport.

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Give some people an inch and right away they think they're a ruler."

The word is getting around about Scurry County, and the law enforcement community is pleased.

Deputy Sheriff Darren Jackson was over at the Mitchell County jail a couple of weeks ago talking to some inmates about some burglaries in Scurry County.

The inmates told Deputy Jackson, "No sir, we don't steal over there. The juries give out too many life sentences."

Such a comment was interesting in view of last Wednesday's life sentence handed down in 132nd District Court — the fourth in less than a year.

Last week's life sentence given by a county jury for aggravated assault was "stacked" on a previous life sentence given the same defendant in May for aggravated robbery.

District Attorney Ernie Armstrong and assistant DA Dana Cooley argued successfully that the sentences be stacked to prevent "two crimes for the price of one."

Cooley, in making her arguments before District Judge Gene Dulaney, said such a stiff sentence would send a message to both criminals and would-be criminals.

In the case of Raymond Medrano Jr., 42, the two life terms mean that he must serve a minimum of 15 years each or a total of 30 years. That is a strong message.

In May, Liborio Oliva got a life sentence for aggravated sexual assault of a child and in October of 1989, David Medrano was given life for attempted murder.

Other jury trials during the past year includes five years for felony DWI, 60 years for forgery by passing, and 40 years for felony theft.

Being tough on crime is a reputation about Snyder and Scurry County that we hope continues to spread.

Augustine always wanted to become Catholic priest

By Joyce Jones
SDN Staff Writer

Fr. Joe Augustine decided at the age of 16, when he graduated from high school, that he wanted to become a priest. He wanted to do something good with his life, to help people and to serve God.

Fr. Augustine is the priest at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church, located at the corner of 13th and Ave. K., and is a member of the Diocese of Lubbock.

He entered the seminary in 1965, studying for 10 years, and became an ordained priest in 1975. The length of time a student has to study depends upon the seminary he attends, he explained.

He is a native of India, coming from the town of Kottayam in the state of Kerala, which is in an agricultural related area. He has been in the United States for two years and three months. Fr. Augustine's family, consisting of his mother, one brother and three sisters, are all still in India.

Fr. Augustine said "I had a choice of coming to the U.S. or going to Sri Lanka, and because I had a friend living in Lubbock, I decided I would like to come here."

When asked how he likes this area, he replied "I think the people are fine and I enjoy living here and serving them." He said the religious sectors differ quite a bit in India, however. The country is made up of 90 percent Catholics, and Hindus, Moslems, Buddhists, a few protestant sects and other religions account for the other 10 percent.

Before Fr. Augustine came to the church, the parishioners did not have a resident pastor, so he has a lot of work to do and a lot of people to help.

On-campus apartments available

For students who meet specific criteria, WTC offers on-campus apartments rather than the traditional dormitory housing.

The apartments are available to students enrolled in quarterly rather than per-semester programs; to foreign students; and to students living out-of-state or in-state students living a far distance from home.

If there are openings after these students have been placed, other students will be considered for apartment housing.

Meal tickets are not required for apartment residents. These may be purchased if the student wishes to eat in the school cafeteria.

These meal tickets may be purchased for an entire semester or in increments of five meals. These are sold by American Food Services.

Each apartment is fully furnished except for a television. Students provide linens and other personal items.

To rent an apartment, a deposit of $110 is required. The cost of the apartments is $495 per semester, which must be paid in full at registration.

An apartment file must be completed before the student may move in. This includes the deposit amount and filling out an apartment contract, medical form, proof of insurance coverage and immunization records.

College officials recommend that students consider an updated immunization for measles due to outbreaks of this normally childhood disease throughout the state.

The apartment director is Debra Vantine. She and her family reside in Apartment 2B.

Mayor loses bet; shark swim next

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mayor Sidney Barthelemy says he'll swim in a tankful of sharks after losing a bet that New Orleans' Aquarium of the Americas wouldn't open on schedule on Labor Day weekend.

Students can choose daytime classes, meeting from 12-12:50 p.m., or evening classes on Tuesdays from 6:30-9:20 p.m.

Barthelemy said he'd pay on Tuesday the bet he made with Ron Forman, the aquarium's executive director, that the $40 million aquarium wouldn't be completed by its Sept. 1 deadline.

Irishman freed after four years in captivity

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Irish hostage Brian Keenan was freed by his Lebanese captors Friday after more than four years in captivity, the official Iranian news agency said. He was the fifth Western hostage released in five months. A brief dispatch from the Islamic Republic News Agency cited informed sources as saying Keenan was released in Beirut. Almost all hostages that have been freed from captivity in Lebanon were handed to Syrian officers there and then escorted to Damascus overland — a trip through winding mountainous roads that takes 2½ to 3 hours. Earlier Friday, Ireland's ambassador to Saudi Arabia, Declan Connolly, arrived in Damascus. IRNA reported Thursday that a European hostage held in Lebanon would be released soon. On Friday, Iran's deputy foreign

New software slated for class

Word processing students in WP 237 at Western Texas College this fall will be using Word Perfect 5.1 for the first time. This is currently the best selling word processing software package in the nation, and will replace the 5.0 version which has been used in the word processing lab recently.

WP 237 students will also be introduced to Lotus 1-2-3, a spreadsheet program. Students must take this course before taking WP 238 which will go into desk top publishing.

Morning classes will meet from 9:30-10:45 on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Night classes will meet from 6:30-9:20 p.m. on Mondays. Lab times will be arranged with the instructor, Joann Snider. Students who have computers at home can do their assignments there. For more information contact the instructor.

Speights graduates

Airman Gregory L. Speights has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base. He is the son of Wain W. and Betty J. Speights of Columbia, Miss. He is married to the former Kerri Morton, daughter of Jack and Connie Morton of Snyder.

He graduated from Columbia Academy in 1987.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the Air Force.

minister, Mahmoud Vaezi, told the Tehran Times newspaper that Keenan would be released and said: "We are thankful to the Islamic groups in Lebanon who once more showed their goodwill toward the West."

In the interview, Vaezi said the release resulted from "several months of efforts of the Iranian officials and Islamic groups in Lebanon."

"We expect that the West will take similar steps for the freedom of Lebanese prisoners and Iranian hostages," Vaezi said. "Such a move will make our efforts for the freedom of a hostage easier."

Keenan, 39, was kidnapped April 11, 1986 in west Beirut while walking to his job as an English teacher at the American University in Beirut.

Thirteen Westerners are still believed held by extremist Moslem groups in Lebanon. They include six Americans, four Britons, two West Germans and an Italian.

The longest held is Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, who was abducted March 16, 1985.

Iran has linked the fate of the Western hostages to that of four Iranians kidnapped by Christian Lebanese Forces militiamen in July 1982. Although the four are widely believed to have been killed, Iranian leaders have repeatedly stressed that they would use their influence to secure the release of Western hostages in exchange for help in freeing the Iranians.

"I hope in the future all the hostages will be released," Vaezi was quoted as saying. "We will try our best, no matter which nationality they are, we will try our best for their freedom."

"We should make our efforts to pave the way for the use of our influence in this direction so that all may be freed," he said.

Keenan spent most of his life in strife-torn Belfast, and he dismissed the dangers of Beirut when he went there to teach English in 1986.

WTC's Image program gears up for fifth year

The Image women's program at Western Texas College will be entering its fifth year with the start of classes on Sept. 11, Pat Blakely, director, has announced.

Registration for Image will be held at 7 p.m. on Sept. 4 at Snyder Savings and Loan. This is a very informal meeting, Mrs. Blakely said, and women who would like to know more about Image are invited to come and ask questions.

Image classes will meet from 9:30-11 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays at WTC through Nov. 20. Women enrolling in Image do not have to be high school graduates or hold a GED. There is no charge and free child care will be provided for women attending the classes. Enrollment will be limited to 20 this fall.

Working with Mrs. Blakely will be Don Osborn, counselor at WTC, who will be the instructor. Various faculty members will meet with the group to describe the courses they teach and there will be tours of the campus. A field trip is also planned.

"About 300 women have gone through the Image program," Mrs. Blakely said. "The program is open to women of all ages. We want to help them know more about family relationships and themselves. The classes provide a good opportunity for women to get acquainted with others and to explore the possibilities open to them in education and the job market. We encourage those who have not graduated from high school to work toward a GED. Several of our students have gone on to graduate from WTC or go through the cosmetology or vocational nursing courses."

For more information call Mrs. Blakely at 573-8511, ext. 322, or 573-0907; or Osborn at 573-8511, ext. 275.

Berle's son does not know his dad

NEW YORK (AP) — Milton Berle has an illegitimate son he sometimes runs into at Hollywood parties, but the comedian has never disclosed their relationship, an associate confirmed.

"My son always comes up to me and says, 'Hello, Milton. How are you?' Little does he know he's talking to his father," the National Enquirer quoted Berle as saying in its Sept. 4 issue.

Parker to head WTC's Adult Basic Education

Adults who want to prepare for GED tests are invited to enroll in free Adult Basic Education classes meeting this fall at Western Texas College.

The first class meeting will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday in the WTC Resource Center. Classes will meet there from 6-9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays throughout the fall semester. Students can enroll at any class meeting. All books and supplies are furnished.

Gerri Parker has recently been named coordinator for the Adult Basic Education program at WTC. She replaced Howard Sawyer, who resigned to move from Snyder. Esther Clarady and Elizabeth Jenkins will be returning to work with students in the program.

Mrs. Parker is also planning to offer Adult Basic Education in daytime classes and asks that anyone interested in morning or afternoon classes meet with her at WTC at 1 p.m. on Sept. 4. The daytime classes will be scheduled to meet the needs of the greatest number of students and will meet one day per week.

"I am looking forward to working with our Adult Education classes," Mrs. Parker said. She served as a teacher and principal in public schools for 26 years before she retired a short time ago and had most recently been principal at West Elementary. She holds the Bachelor of Science and Master of Education degrees from Hardin-Simmons University and received her administrative certificate from Abilene Christian University. She also holds counseling and guidance certification. She worked as a volunteer in teaching in an adult education program in Sweetwater while she lived there before moving to Snyder 14 years ago.

Adult Basic Education classes offer instruction in math, natural sciences, social sciences, literature and English usage. Persons enrolling are tested to find their level of attainment so they can begin their work at that level. They work at their own pace with the assistance of Mrs. Clarady, Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Parker.

Financial Focus

Most people like a bargain, and mutual fund investors are no exception. But what may look like a bargain could contain hidden fees.

One fee that has recently become the subject of some hot debate is the "load" or acquisition cost. If you pay a fee to purchase a mutual fund, it's called a load. The load may be as high as 8.5 percent of the offering price or less than 1 percent, and it's generally based on how much you invest as well as the pricing structure of the fund you buy. This cost is explained in the prospectus.

If a fund charges fees when you sell shares or adds a fee each year for the expense of running the fund, it would be called a "no-load."

Sam Chandoha, senior vice president of Shareholder Communications Corp. (SCC), a shareholder relations consulting firm, predicts that a new type of mutual-fund pricing, called dual-pricing, could gain acceptance during the 1990's. Dual-pricing gives shareholders the option of paying their fees either when they make their purchase or when they sell shares.

According to Chandoha, load funds that do not switch to dual-pricing could suffer competitively. He was quick to add, however, that many shareholders are suspicious of the dual-pricing structure.

Shareholder concern is understandable. One could argue that by eliminating the front-end charge, all your money goes to work without first extracting the load. On the other hand, if the mutual fund performs as expected and assets increase, you'll pay a percentage of a larger amount at withdrawal. Unfortunately, at the time of purchase, there's no way to determine which option will be most beneficial.

Despite what anyone may tell you, everything has a price tag. Mutual funds are business enterprises, and like all businesses, they offer a product and a service for which they receive reasonable compensation. From that they pay the bills, meet the payroll and, hopefully, have some profits left over.

It's hard to resist the temptation of a free lunch. But if that's the promise you're hearing, take it upon yourself to carefully read the prospectus and understand mutual fund fees.

Raiders in Oakland?

Sources say NFL team will return for 1990

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — With denials pouring in from all sides, an Oakland city official said Friday he expects the Los Angeles Raiders to become the Oakland Raiders sometime this season.

"I believe we've just about got everything wrapped up," Oakland City Councilman Wilson Riles Jr. said in a report in Friday's edition of The National. "I feel very confident they are going to play here this year ... at least some of their games here."

Raiders owner Al Davis earlier this week denied an ESPN report that the team would be moving, but a newspaper report Thursday said a Raiders player who asked not to be identified said Davis said he was "100 percent certain" that the team would be playing its home games this year in Oakland.

Raiders executive assistant Al LoCasale said the newspaper report was inaccurate.

The Raiders have two years remaining on a lease with the Los Angeles Coliseum. However, the team has sold only 22,600 season tickets for the 1990 season at the 90,000-seat stadium that lured the Raiders from Oakland in 1982.

Richard Riordan, a former president of the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission who is still a member of that group, said the subject of moving this season has not come up in discussions with Raiders officials.

"Al LoCasale denies that the Raiders are leaving Los Angeles," Riordan said. "Secondly, we have had zero negotiations with the Raiders about leaving Los Angeles this year. We are still talking to them."

"I don't know how it's going to come out. He's still talking to Oakland, and he's still talking to us."

The Raiders have been negotiating for more than a year with the city of Oakland and Alameda County to work out a return to their original home. Davis has until the end of the month to accept or reject the city and county's latest offer.

Riles said the Raiders' first two home games — against Denver on Sept. 9 and against Pittsburgh on Sept. 23 — would be played at a location other than the Oakland Coliseum, but that the Raiders' remaining six home games would be played there.

"There is too much money to be made by the Raiders and the NFL by them coming (to Oakland)," Riles said.

The Sept. 9 game could not be played in Oakland because of a "New Kids On The Block" concert scheduled at the Oakland Coliseum the night before. The Oakland Athletics are scheduled to play Minnesota at the Coliseum that day.

A report that the "New Kids On The Block" concert scheduled for the Coliseum on Sept. 8 had been cancelled is wrong, said Boston sports attorney Bob Wolfe, who serves as the group's business manager. He said the show will go on as scheduled.

"I've had calls saying that a report that the Raiders were definitely returning to Oakland and the proof was that the New Kids On The Block were cancelling their show," Wolfe said Friday by telephone from his Boston office.

Aggies, UT decide to remain in SWC

DALLAS (AP) — Southwest Conference Commissioner Fred Jacoby said he believes Texas and Texas A&M are sincere in their pledge to stay in the conference.

Speculation that the SWC's biggest schools would leave for greener pastures was tempered Friday when the schools' presidents said they would stay in the league they helped form 76 years ago.

But the schools said the league must be strengthened in order to survive. Suggestions included better fan support and more flexibility in scheduling to allow the schools to make more money.

Jacoby said the announcement "gives our conference something to springboard off of."

"I think it's a positive, sincere statement and will enable us to make the internal and external changes that we hope will take the conference to a higher level," he said.

Presidents William Cunningham of the University of Texas at Austin and William Mobley of Texas A&M University said in the joint statement they "are committed to doing everything possible to strengthen the conference and make it successful."

Their statement left open the possibility for expansion of the SWC or alliance with other non-SWC schools.

The speculation about the schools leaving the SWC started when Arkansas, the only non-Texas school in the nine-team league, announced it would join the Southeastern Conference next year. Most conference officials predicted doom for the SWC if UT and A&M had followed Arkansas' lead.

Baylor football coach Grant Teaff, a leading critic of Arkansas' decision, said the news enables the SWC "to pull back in our great traditions and it leaves our state with pride."

Texas Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds said speculation about a possible further breakup of the SWC had "reached such a crescendo that the presidents of the two institutions felt we should ... make a decision and get on down the road and get things back to normal."

Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis, who had said he would slash appropriations to the schools if they left the SWC, said he was pleased by the presidents' decisions.

But state Sen. Bob Glasgow, whose State Affairs Committee has scheduled a Sept. 8 meeting on the SWC, said, "The problem is, I think what they're saying to you is, 'We're not leaving now.' But I know they're still having meetings."

Rangers win, 2-0...

Kunkel double drives in two

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Texas Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said he couldn't have asked for more from two reserves.

Jeff Kunkel broke a scoreless tie in the seventh inning with a two-run double and Craig McMurtry, a spot starter, scattered two hits over five scoreless innings as Texas beat Minnesota 2-0 Friday night.

It was the Twins' ninth straight loss.

"On the whole, the night was more than we expected," said

Valentine.

Kunkel, after all, was 1-for-14 in his last six games before the big hit, and McMurtry had an ERA of 4.88, had thrown 4 2-3 innings in the past 32 days and was 0-10 in his last 17 major league starts.

Kunkel started in place of Steve Buechele, who began a three-game suspension for charging the mound during the Chicago series. Mike Jeffcoat, who scratched Friday afternoon due to recurring back weakness, and McMurtry was handed the ball three hours before game time.

John Barfield (3-0) relieved McMurtry and picked up the victory with two innings. Brad Arnsberg finished for his fifth save.

Texas solved starter Mark Guthrie (4-7) in the seventh after leaving two on in the fifth and sixth innings.

Harold Baines beat out an infield hit and was sacrificed to second by Mike Stanley. After Guthrie walked pinch-hitter John Russell, he struck out Gary Pet-

World Series of Golf...

Olazabal nabs 9-stroke lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jose Maria Olazabal continued his record-breaking assault on one of America's most difficult courses and threatened to run away from the winners-only field in the World Series of Golf.

The 24-year-old Spaniard added a 3-under-par 67 to his opening 61. Olazabal reached the tournament halfway point Friday with a 128 total and an incredible 9-stroke lead.

The huge 36-hole lead may or may not be the largest in the history of the PGA Tour.

"We simply don't know," said Tom Place, the tour's director of information.

"I know everyone else is saying it is now mine to lose," said Olazabal, the brightest young star on the European circuit but an infrequent competitor in this country.

"With a 9-shot lead, I should win. But I could lose. I've played for a while now and I know anything can happen in this game."

"Maybe I shoot three over par tomorrow and somebody shoots five under and it's very close," he said.

His closest pursuers are U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and Larry Mize.

The best 72-hole score is 257, one more than Olazabal's current pace.

Olazabal's total is 12 under par and — by three strokes — the record for two rounds at Firestone.

The 36-hole score also is — by two strokes — the best of any of the 34 PGA Tour events played this season. It's only two strokes off the tour's all-time record for the first two rounds.

Irwin and Mize shared second at 137, Irwin with a solid, 3-under-par 67 and Mize with a scrambling 71.

Payne Stewart, Lanny Wadkins and Donnie Hammond were at 138. Wadkins shot 68 and Stewart struggled to a 73.

Hammond improved from a tie for 33rd to a tie for fourth with a bogey-free 65, the best round of the day.

No one else was within 10 shots of the runaway leader. Fred Couples, with a 68, and Craig Stadler, 69, were tied at 139 and were the only others in the 47-man international field under par.

Olazabal, winner of an English tournament and the Irish Open earlier this season, had a 4-stroke advantage when he started and wasted no time expanding it.

He dropped an 18-foot birdie putt on the first hole and two-putted for birdie on the second.

Olazabal had a 3-foot birdie putt on the 12th that gave him a 7-stroke lead. He went to eight in front with a 22-foot putt on the 14th and dropped another 6-footer on the 17th for the final margin.

Bunkowsky jumps into Northgate lead

BROOKLYN PARK, Minn. (AP) — Seven-year pro Barb Bunkowsky found herself in a strange position after the first round of the $375,000 Northgate LPGA Classic.

For the first time in 191 career starts, she was leading.

Even in her only career victory, at the Charity Classic in 1984, she shot a 66 on the final day to come from behind.

On Friday, the Canadian tied her career low round with a 7-under-par 65 to take the lead in the three-day, 54-hole tournament at Edinburg USA.

Bunkowsky didn't realize how well she was playing until she approached the 17th green at 5 under.

"When you're playing well, you don't get nervous until you start to know how well you're playing," she said.

Her nervousness didn't affect her play. She made a 15-foot birdie putt on 17 and a 25-footer on 18 to take the lead from Beth Daniel, Chris Johnson and Cindy Rarick, each of whom finished earlier at 66.

Bunkowsky had eight birdies, most on long putts. In addition to her last two putts, she holed out from 10, 15, 20, 30 and 25 feet.

"I have been playing well, but I wasn't making anything," Bunkowsky said. "I thought sooner or later the putts are going to fall. I just had to get out and golf the ball, like my caddie says."

Meanwhile, Daniel and Rarick were two of the most distracted golfers.

Daniel played well despite spending much of the week in LPGA Executive Council meetings and playing just 27

Cardinals nip Astros in 11

HOUSTON (AP) — Vince Coleman singled home the go-ahead run in the 11th inning Friday night to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

Tom Pagnozzi led off the 11th with a single to left and continued to second when left fielder Mark Davidson misplayed the ball for an error. Pinch runner Dave Collins was sacrificed to third by Jose Oquendo and after Milt Thompson walked, Coleman lined a run-scoring single to right off reliever Dave Smith (4-5).

Scott Terry (2-6) pitched two innings for the victory. Lee Smith got the last three outs for his 22nd save.

The Cardinals broke a scoreless tie in the sixth when Terry Pendleton singled off Mike Scott, Willie McGee hit a ground-rule double to center and Todd Zeile singled to score both runners.

But Omar Olivares, making his second major league start, lost his shutout in the bottom of the sixth.

Bill Doran and Ken Caminiti started the inning with singles. Doran scored from second when first baseman Zeile fielded a grounder by Franklin Stubbs and threw wildly to second base while trying to force Caminiti.

The Astros tied it in the seventh inning on a wild pitch by reliever Ken Dayley.

Casey Candaele walked to start the inning. He was sacrificed to second by Rafael Ramirez and went to third on Dave Rohde's groundout. Dayley's wild pitch on ball four to Davidson allowed Candaele to score the tying run.

Kentucky dominated the boards in a 1964 basketball game against Mississippi, coming down with 108 rebounds.

The famed 18th century heavyweight champion, Daniel Mendoza, weighed only 160 pounds.

practice holes on a course unknown to her.

Rarick posted her 66 despite suffering from what is believed to be a bladder or kidney infection, which kept her in bed most of Wednesday and Thursday with a 103-degree temperature.

"I feel a little better today," Rarick said. "My husband said, 'You should be so sick all the time.'"

Griffeys may play together

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — First, son followed father into the major leagues. Now Ken Griffey Sr. and his son, Ken Jr., could become the first father-son combination on the same major-league team.

The Cincinnati Reds placed the elder Griffey on waivers Friday, making him eligible to play for another team this season. And that team could be the Seattle Mariners.

"We have an interest and we're looking into the possibility," said Woody Woodward, the Mariners' vice president for baseball operations, who attended Friday night's game between the Mariners and Royals in Kansas City.

Woodward said because the waiver would not be effective for three business days, he had no other comment.

"He's still the property of the Reds," said Dave Aust, Mariners director of public relations. "I don't see us doing anything before September first, if we do."

Ken Griffey Jr., who suffered a slight hyperextension to his knee in Friday night's loss to the Kansas City Royals, had no comment about his father.

The move to place Griffey, 40, on waivers followed several days of discussions among his agent, the Reds, the Mariners, the National League office and the players union, according to a source familiar with the talks.

The Griffeys became the first father-son combination to play in the major leagues at the same time last year when Ken Jr. was promoted to the Mariners and Ken Sr. played for the Reds.

Smith enrolls in UF classes

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Six months after bidding a tearful farewell to the University of Florida, Emmitt Smith is back as a student.

The most prolific running back in school history has been unable to reach contract terms with the Dallas Cowboys, who drafted him in the first round of the NFL draft, and followed through on his word Friday when he re-enrolled at Florida for fall semester classes.

Smith, who set 58 school records before deciding to leave school with a year of football eligibility remaining, said he signed up for 12 hours of classes and is prepared to remain in Gainesville if he and the Cowboys can't reach accord.

The Cowboys reportedly have offered Smith, the 17th player drafted, a five-year deal worth $3.2 million. Smith, represented by agent Richard Howell, is seeking a three-year, $2.3 million package.

Smith, who is 42 hours shy of a degree in public recreation, would not comment on his contract situation.

WCT tennis...

Chesnokov in quarterfinals

NEW YORK (AP) — Andrei Chesnokov outlasted the rain, which is more than the WCT Tournament of Champions can say.

Chesnokov defeated Christo van Rensburg 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 Friday to move into the quarterfinals of the exhibition tournament at the West Side Tennis Club, a warmup event for next week's U.S. Open.

The second-round match began Thursday afternoon before rain washed out other matches. At that time, the Soviet was leading 6-2, 2-1.

On Friday, Chesnokov and van Rensburg took turns posting streaks in between the frequent showers that sent the final second-round match to an indoor court in Bethpage, N.Y., 26 miles away from Forest Hills. Aaron Krickstein outlasted Czechoslovakia's Petr Korda 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

In the only quarterfinal match completed Friday, Spain's Emilio Sanchez crushed Patrick McEnroe 6-3, 6-1.

Henri Leconte of France wasted three match points in his battle against collegian Todd Martin of Lansing, Mich., before a heavy mist made the courts too slippery, and play was suspended for the night.

Leconte won the first set 6-0 and led the second-set tiebreak 6-3 when Martin, a student at Northwestern University, won three straight points. The final one came on Leconte's serve when the Frenchman appeared to have wrapped up the victory with a shot into the open court.

When Martin, trapped inside his service line, started to his right, he slipped. But Leconte's shot hit the net, giving Martin enough time to reach the ball and hit a passing shot down the line.

Martin immediately complained about the slippery court and time was called — eventually for the night.

Chesnokov and his South African opponent began at 11:20 a.m. EDT Friday and played just nine points before the court became too slippery to continue.

Bulldogs tie B'well in tilt

Coach Don Jones had to do without six players, five seniors, as his Ira Bulldogs' tied Blackwell 2-2 in the first scrimmage for each team this season Thursday night.

Running backs Mike Hughes and Tom Sanchez each scored on short runs to account for the Ira scoring.

"We had to kind of revamp at the last minute," said Jones.

"Sturdivant (James) was out due to an illness in the family, Brad Robinson and Dave Holmes were out sick and quarterback Brian Martinez has an injury to his throwing wrist."

Junior Chris Haynes filled in at QB for the 'Dogs and according to Jones "did a good job".

"We started out a little timid," Jones reported. "But our young kids did real well the last series." The Bulldogs hit the gridiron for their last preseason tuneup Thursday at 6 p.m. in Klondike.

Ira's regular season opener is at home against No. 5 Guthrie Sept. 7.

Connie Chung booed, hissed in absentia

NEW YORK (AP) — Connie Chung got booed and hissed in absentia when she sent a videotaped apology to a journalists' convention where she was to have given the keynote address.

The 44-year-old Chung last month put her CBS-TV series, "Face to Face With Connie Chung," on hold, saying she wanted to try to have a baby.

Judge vindicates Judas Priest

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A subliminal message of "do it" exists on an album by the British rock band Judas Priest but it did not cause two young fans to kill themselves, a judge ruled Friday.

Washoe District Judge Jerry Carr Whitehead said that while messages can be found on the band's 1978 "Stained Class" album, they were not intentional and did not cause the fans to form a suicide pact.

Whitehead said the words "do it" on the song "Better By You, Better Than Me," were the result of a "chance combination of sounds," but constituted a subliminal message nonetheless.

"Our immediate reaction is obviously one of great relief," said Rob Halford, the band's lead singer. "It's a great day for Judas Priest."

Speaking with The Associated Press from an undisclosed location in Mexico, Halford said, "We simply just want to get on with what we do, playing rock 'n' roll and heavy metal music."

"I am pleased with the result on the basic issues of the case. I think we were completely vindicated," said defense lawyer Suellen Fulstone.

The defense maintained that the "do it" sounds were a huff of breath by Halford, combined with the sounds of guitars.

But in clearing the band of any liability in the case, Whitehead said that co-defendant CBS Records refused to properly comply with his order to find the original multi-track recordings of other songs on the "Stained Class" album. He ordered the company to pay $40,000 to the plaintiff's attorneys to reimburse them for the cost of bringing the lawsuit.

He said the defaults were not caused by the courtroom lawyers, but by in-house counsel of CBS.

Whitehead added that even if the master tapes had been found, "the court does not believe that the ultimate outcome of the trial would have been any different."

The families of the two suicide victims sued the band and CBS records, claiming messages hidden in the crashing music touted Satanism and promoted suicide.

Raymond Belknap, 18, died from a single blast from a shotgun held in his mouth Dec. 23, 1985. James Vance, then 20, blew away the lower portion of his face but survived three more years before his death on Thanksgiving Day 1988 of complications from his injuries and a reaction to medications.

Attorneys for the families sought $6.2 million in damages at the conclusion of a four-week trial.

They said the subliminal message "do it" and purported backward phrases glorifying death spurred the shootings.

The defense maintained the alleged blasphemous phrases were "phonetic flukes," given credibility only by the power of suggestion.

The judge reluctantly agreed, saying, "The power of suggestion may serve to make the listener think he hears a certain phrase when the singing is played backwards, even though he probably would not have perceived the phrase without the power of suggestion."

While attorneys for the families raised "grave suspicions in the mind of the court," Whitehead said there was no credible evidence that the messages were intentionally placed or that they could be perceived even if they were.

"I'm a little bit disappointed about that," Halford said.

New speech activity course offered at WTC

An opportunity to practice and receive instruction on any type of oral presentation will be provided by a new speech activity course offered for the first time this fall at Western Texas College.

"In Speech 111 textbooks and tests are not necessary," explains Jan McCathern, speech assistant professor who will teach the course. "It's designed to be a practical hands-on experience laboratory with grades based solely on participation. A teacher may take the course to practice lecturing; a businessman may choose to practice a presentation he must give; a student may work on a speech for a speech class; a salesman may give his presentations; an unemployed person may practice interviewing; or a speaker may practice a banquet address. Participants will give presentations and evaluate other presentations."

Both oral and videotaped evaluations will be used to help participants improve their speaking abilities. The course may be taken four times for transferrable college credit.

Low-impact aerobics set

Students can have fun while getting into shape in Cathy Reed's evening aerobics class at Western Texas College this fall. The class will meet from 6-7:15 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Shock comic cancels Dallas concert

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shock comic Andrew Dice Clay would rather avoid Texas than risk violating the state's strict anti-obscenity law, says his publicist, Michael Levine.

Clay canceled the Sunday show because "we feared the possibility that Dice might be subject to arrest, embarrassment and subsequently jailed."

Clay, whose comedy act includes graphic descriptions of sex and who describes women as "whores" and "pigs," said in a statement: "America is where people have always come for freedom, and it's a shame that a noisy minority is now attempting to tear down the right of free speech."

Before the cancellation was announced, Dallas County Assistant District Attorney David Pickett said investigators would not attend the Clay concert, but would wait to see whether complaints were made before taking action that could lead to criminal charges.

Sweetwater cattle auction market reported

The market was steady and active on a large run of cattle for the Wednesday, Aug. 22, sale. Lightweight stocker steers and heifers were steady with heavier end showing some weakness. Cow and calf pairs and bred cows steady with packer cows $2-3 higher and packer bulls steady.

misdeemeanor obscenity charges against the music store chain Sound Warehouse for selling the rap group 2 Live Crew's recording, "As Nasty As They Wanna Be."

Said publicist Levine: "Nobody could guarantee us that there would be no problems in Dallas."

Prior to the cancellation, the management of the city's Starplex Amphitheatre announced that no one under 18 would be admitted to the performance, even if they came with a parent.

General Manager Larry Fontana said the decision was made on the advice of lawyers and after a warning from the Dallas County District Attorney's office that Clay's performance might violate state obscenity laws.

Members of several local civil rights groups promised to protest Clay's appearance. On Monday,

Beaver to teach coed aerobics

A noontime coed aerobics class will be taught by Margaret Beaver in the fall semester at Western Texas College. This class will be an opportunity for people who work and would like to work out during their lunch break, she said.

"We will begin the class with a 5-minute warm-up and continue with a 20-25 minute aerobic workout, then close with a 5-10 minute cool down," she said. "We will do an aerobic workout two days each week and on the third day we will do toning with weights and rubber bands."

IBM computers added to lab

Students in Word Processing 137 at Western Texas College this fall will be introduced to the IBM computers in the word processing lab.

"This is actually a beginning computer course," Tammy Wesson, instructor, points out. "Students learn the terminology so important in using any computer and get hands-on experience."

WP 137 classes will meet on Tuesday nights from 6:30-9:20 p.m. starting Sept. 4. Evening students will register on Monday night.

the last local sponsor of the concert, radio station KTXQ-FM, withdrew its support.

Larry Fontana, manager of the Starplex Amphitheatre, said the cancellation is "just one of the things that happens in this business."

He estimated promotion losses will be "in the low five-figures." Six thousand of 7,000 tickets available had been sold by Friday afternoon, he said. The $22.50 tickets went on sale July 28.

Earlier this year, cast member Nora Dunn and Irish pop singer Sinead O'Connor refused to appear with Clay on NBC's "Saturday Night Live." Clay currently appears in the film "The Adventures of Ford Fairlane," but 20th Century Fox has decided not to release a planned Clay concert film.

The Dallas chapter of the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation had planned to protest Clay's performance. The group had asked that a statement be read before the show condemning mental and physical violence against women, ethnic minorities and gays and lesbians.

Gibson to teach art history class

For individuals interested in art, Western Texas College will be offering an art history evening class this fall.

It will be taught by John Gibson, chairman of the Fine Arts Division, and will meet Monday nights from 6:30 until 9:20 p.m.

"It's not just a class for art majors," Gibson said. "Anyone interested in art will appreciate it."

He said the study begins with cave art and ends with the Renaissance period.

"It's a general survey of art and we try to have fun with it," said Gibson. "For students, it's also a good fine arts elective."

The class is listed for the fall term as Art 136.

Support groups formed to aid Prozac survivors

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Disturbing side effects that patients blame on the popular antidepressant Prozac have resulted in several multimillion-dollar lawsuits, and a group of women have formed a support network for those who feel adversely affected by the drug.

"It's a very dangerous drug, especially since people aren't being warned about its possible side effects," said Janet Sims of Noblesville, Ind., who linked her suicide attempt to the drug and in May founded the Prozac Survivors Support Group.

Since then, support groups have been formed in at least seven states. An estimated 2 million people worldwide have taken the drug. Depression afflicts an estimated 4 percent of American adults.

Prozac, a member of the class of drugs known as fluoxetine, has been promoted as a miracle drug with few and minor side effects, according to Sims and other patients.

But they say it can induce violent and persistent suicidal and homicidal tendencies in people who never have experienced such thoughts before. The manufacturer and federal officials defend Prozac.

This summer, two patients sued the drug's manufacturer, Eli Lilly and Co. of Indianapolis. Both allege Prozac can prompt suicidal or aggressive behavior and that Eli Lilly failed to warn doctors about the possibility.

Eli Lilly has not commented on the lawsuits.

In her suit, Rhonda Hala of Shirley, N.Y., said that within two weeks of beginning to take Prozac, her thoughts turned to suicide. During 18 months on the drug, she slashed herself with razor blades and dug scissors and screws into her flesh about 150 times, she said. She tried six times to kill herself, she said.

"I thought I had someone else's brain in my body," said Mrs. Hala, a 40-year-old school secretary.

When she stopped taking the drug, she said, her life returned to normal.

Investigators look for cause of plane crash that killed 3

HOUSTON (AP) — It could take months to determine what caused a twin-engine corporate plane to crash during takeoff from Houston Intercontinental Airport, killing three, federal investigators say.

National Transportation Safety Board officials on Friday searched through the wreckage of the Gulfstream G-159, which apparently veered suddenly to the left before crashing Thursday.

Three men in the cockpit, including the pilot and copilot, were killed, and 12 passengers were injured.

The plane, owned by a subsidiary of Houston-based Rowan Drilling Co., was ferrying offshore oil workers to New Orleans who had completed a regular two-week tour in the North Sea.

"Obviously, we won't know what caused this accident for months," Warren V. Wandell, chief air safety investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board said Friday.

"Based on initial witness statements from controllers, it appears to us that for some yet undetermined reason there was a loss of control shortly after liftoff," Wandell said.

It appeared the plane got 30 to 50 feet off the ground, then veered suddenly to the left, Wandell said. Its left wing tip touched the ground, crumpling the entire wing.

Then the propellers came off and the rest of the aircraft slammed to the earth, scattering wreckage for about 150 yards, he said.

"From this point on, things are going to develop slowly," he said. "We've got a lot of wreckage to go through."

Wandell said weather and structural failure already had been ruled out as causes. Federal Aviation Administration records show the plane was 21 years old, but NTSB regional director Tommy McFall said the aircraft's age was not necessarily a factor.

"Age and years in an airplane are misleading," he said. "It depends on how many hours it's been flown and how it's been maintained."

Wandell said the Gulfstream model had a good safety record. Although the plane carried no flight data or cockpit voice recorders, tapes of conversations between the pilot and the control tower show no indication of trouble, Wandell said.

At the time of the crash, it appeared the landing gear was in the process of being raised, he said.

"There's many, many explanations that could cause the veer to the left," Wandell said. "We're going to have to eliminate each one of those as we go and we're not anywhere close right now.

"There's nothing really unique about the accident. Nothing jumps out at you that would lead you to an assumption or certainly lead us to the cause."

He said officials were interviewing survivors and would be moving the wreckage to a hangar for further investigation.

At least four NTSB investigators were heading the probe and were being joined by FAA officials and representatives of the plane manufacturer, engine builder Rolls Royce and the maker of the propellers.

On Friday, investigators poked through the twisted fuselage, which nearly broke in half in front of the wings. The crushed cockpit was at a 90-degree angle to the rest of the plane.

A taxiway remained littered with debris, including large pieces of propeller, and was closed to traffic for about a half-mile.

Airport spokesman Hoyt Brown said the runway nearest the crash was reopened to normal traffic Friday afternoon.

Survivors said the plane left the runway quickly, dipped unexpectedly and then plummeted to the ground before catching fire. The crash site is about a mile south of the airport's main terminals.

Killed were pilot Billy Jack Keefeauver, 60, of Houston; copilot Wayne D. Kay, 49, of Katy, Texas; and Gregory Hunter, 30, Covington, La., said Harris County Deputy Medical Examiner Jay Evans.

Keefeauver and Hunter were thrown from the wreckage on impact, while Kay's body was trapped inside the cockpit.

The injured men, all from Mississippi and Louisiana, were taken to four Houston-area hospitals.

Scurry County Folks

By Shirley A. Gorman

The "highlight" of Rachel Wilson's summer occurred in June, but she almost missed out on the fun-filled learning experience because she thought the last thing she ever wanted to do was serve as a page for the state Republican Convention held June 28-30 in Fort Worth.

Wilson, who will be a senior at Snyder High School when the fall semester begins Monday, was one of two teenagers in District 31 (where Snyder and Scurry County are included) who was picked to serve as pages for those three days in June.

Prior to that, she said she had always taken being a Republican "for granted" because that is the party her family supports, but after meeting and hearing so many candidates speak she said she now views her political affiliation in a "new light."

Wilson said her experience as a page has already given new meaning to the fall election when she will be casting her first vote. She particularly enjoyed getting to listen to the candidates she will vote for.

"The candidates I met not only listened to me, but they were also interested in what I had to say," Wilson said. "My access to the floor was terrific. I just enjoyed seeing everything for the first time so much."

She said she is "drawn to politics" by the "people involved" rather than by the "political process itself."

All the pages attended a general meeting on the first morning of the three-day convention. As a page, Wilson had access to the convention floor as well as back stage and "anywhere else she cared to go." Her page's badge gave her "carte blanche" so to speak.

Wilson said being on the convention floor was "exciting" because of all the people present, including media representatives.

Day One duties included checking credentials at the stairway which led to the convention floor. All those with badges or a business card which said "Admit to Floor" were allowed to enter, but some 17 or so ineligible people were denied admittance.

Wilson said the first day was the most "fun-filled" because it also included things like all the pages getting to carry banners during Sen. Phil Gramm's speech.

In addition, she said they helped hand out flyers and pamphlets on the convention floor.

Meetings and caucuses dominated the second day, and by noon Wilson said the speeches had begun. In addition to Gramm, she also heard President Bush's son, George W. Bush, speak and Buster Brown, Rick Perry, and Beau Boulter, just to name a few.

Since Day Two was not filled with "as many duties as the previous day," Wilson said she was able to relax, sit for a while, and observe the political process in action.

The second day climax occurred when the pro-life and pro-choice factions wanted to be able to express their opinions at the convention.

Since the issue was not brought to the convention platform, she said the "pro-choice supporters felt slighted."

In addition to working in Boulter's booth that day, Wilson helped pass out more flyers. She also became acquainted with Boulter's son. One night she attended a party, along with her aunt, Mary Strelecki of Snyder, who had accompanied her to the convention. Strelecki, an active Republican, represented Scurry County.

If not for her aunt, Wilson might not have been picked as a page. It was she who suggested that her niece fill out an application "because you might get picked."

Applicants have to be 16 or 17 in order to be eligible for selection.

A couple of months went by before Wilson was notified that she had been selected. And now that she is more "politically aware" she said she is looking forward to serving as a page for Rep. Troy Fraser (from Big Spring) at the Capitol in Austin during spring break.

Fraser was one of many speakers whom Wilson heard while attending Camp RYLA (Rotary Youth Leadership Award) July 22-27 in Taos, N.M. She said he spoke about the free enterprise system, but the focus of his talk was on "building leadership qualities."

Once he heard about her page experience, she said he invited her to come to the Capitol during spring break.

Camp RYLA included four days of little seminars which featured both men and women speakers. Emphasis was placed on assertiveness training, communication skills, decision making skills, the most effective way to present yourself and how to weigh the issues before making a career decision, just to name a few.

Mornings were usually devoted to speakers but after the noon meal, Wilson said they all either relaxed or took part in other camp activities.

More speakers were booked for evening sessions.

During a short goal-setting seminar, Wilson said she focused on her tendency to procrastinate. She learned that she needs to make a plan or have a guideline that she can follow and then change as necessary.

She also learned the imporance of setting harder goals and working towards achieving them, even if she can't achieve all of them.

"I was very motivated by that camp and I am looking forward to applying some of what I learned when I start classes again Monday," Wilson said.

Camp RYLA participants met in Lubbock where they then boarded buses bound for Taos. In spite of the rain which fell during their arrival, all girls received a "warm welcome."

She said she went into it "blind" because she really didn't know what to expect, but she said she got a "lot out of it" and feels it will also help her when she enrolls in college a year from now.

Wilson applied to RYLA Camp through the local Rotary chapter and some two to three months later she learned first that she "was being considered," then came the notification that she had been accepted, along with another Snyder girl, Emily King.

Wilson has been a member of the National Honor Society and served on the Student Council at Snyder High School in addition to participating in tennis since the 9th grade. She also serves as the historian for the Lucky 13 Club.

She said she will probably attend either the University of Texas or A&M, but has made no definite career decisions yet.

She is the daughter of Bill and Nancy Wilson of Snyder.

In double-ring ceremony

Stout and Martin united in marriage

Terri Dianne Stout became the bride of Randall M. Martin, in a double-ring ceremony on June 2, at the Victory Baptist Church, with Rev. Pat Githens officiating. The bride is the daughter of Herbert and Ruby Stout. The groom's parents are Kenneth and Patsy Martin.

The couple exchanged vows before a white trellis accented with blue roses, greenery and two heart shaped scones containing blue candles and centered by a white paper ribbon bow.

length royal blue satin dress with puffed sleeves and a bow in the back at the dropped waistline. She wore a matching bow in her hair. Her cascading bouquet, also created by the bride, contained white, royal blue and pale blue roses and rosebuds, pale blue stephanotis, illusion puffs, pearl sprays and pale blue ribbon streamers.

Church decorations included six white paper-ribbon pew markers and an arrangement of white gladiolas and blue roses on the piano. Two brass plant stands containing greenery flanked the communion table that held a blue floral arrangement.

Flower girl was Mimi Stout, niece of the bride. She was dressed identical to the matron of honor. She carried a white wicker basket edged with lace and decorated with a royal blue rose surrounded by white rosebuds with ribbon streamers. The basket contained white silk flower petals.

A tape of "Time In A Bottle" was played immediately after the mothers were seated. Pianist Elaine Githens played the wedding march and soloist Dawn Waller sang "I'll Still Be Loving You".

Jeremy Stout, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Dressed in navy shorts with white shirt, suspenders and navy bow tie, he carried a heart-shaped ring pillow of royal blue satin overlaid with lace and a wide lace border.

The bride was escorted by her father and given in marriage by both her parents. She chose a white satin bridal gown, featuring a Queen Anne neckline with a high lace collar with cascading tear drop points and large puffed sleeves gathered above the elbows, fitting tightly toward the wrists, ending in lace points on the hand. The fitted bodice was embellished with lace and pearls and formed a basque waistline. The full skirt extended to a chapel length train and was edged with wide lace.

Best man was Scott Engel of Roby. Ushers were Darrell Stout, brother of the bride, and Todd Sorrells, brother-in-law of the groom.

Her floor length illusion veil fell from white flowers on a white satin hat.

The groom was attired in a gray pin stripe suit, accented with a white shirt, black and silver tie, and a white rose boutonniere.

The cascading bridal bouquet was created by the bride and contained white, royal and pale blue roses and rosebuds, white stephanotis, illusion puffs and pearl sprays. White, royal blue and pale blue streamers completed the arrangement.

Theresa Jones registered guests. The registry table held a crystal heart shaped candle holder decorated with lace, royal blue ribbon, blue flowers and a brass butterfly.

Kathy Baum, sister of the bride, of Wichita, Kans. was matron of honor. She wore a tea

The reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The reception area was decorated with white wedding bells and blue streamers. The tables were covered in white and held three grapevine wreaths decorated with blue flower candle rings and blue candles. Martha Davis and Martha Henry, aunt of the bride, of Paris, served hor d'oeuvres.

The bride's table was covered with a white fitted cloth, accented by two small white wedding bells with blue curled streamers on the corners. The print punch bowl. Sheila Sorrells, sister of the groom served at the groom's table. It was covered in blue, overlaid with lace, and held a German chocolate cake.

The three tiered heart-shaped wedding cake, covered with white frosting and accented with royal and pale blue roses, was created by Ruth Green. It was suspended on five inch columns over a heart shaped mirror base, holding a long stem royal blue rosebud and butterfly. Each layer of the cake featured a different flavor. The cake top, borrowed from the bride's sister, was three white wedding bells. Two heart-shaped chocolate satellite cakes were placed on opposite sides of the main confection. One was decorated with blue flowers and pearls, and the other held a comic bride and groom.

Following a wedding trip to Arkansas and Missouri, the couple is at home in San Antonio.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Snyder High School and was employed with West Texas State Bank.

The groom is a 1983 graduate of Snyder High School and a 1985 graduate of Western Texas College. He is a union electrician with the IBEW.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in the fellowship hall of the church.

Out of town guests were from Paris, Dallas, San Antonio and Abilene.

Bollworm egg-lays infesting cotton crops

by Deanna Holladay
Ext. Agent-Entomology

Bollworm egg-lays began to increase last week and the continuance of new eggs can be found this week. Eggs from last week are hatching. Some fields are reaching boll weevil thresholds. Aphids continue to infest fields and there is still evidence of beet armyworms.

Turn-row meetings will be held Tuesday, Aug. 28, at 7:30 a.m. at Co-op gin; Tuesday, Aug. 28, at 11:00 a.m. at Fluvanna Gin; Thursday, Aug. 30, at 7:30 a.m. at Inadale Community Center and Thursday, Aug. 30, at 10:30 a.m., at Dunn Community Center.

Many fields received another bollworm egg-lay last week and they have continued this week. Eggs from last week are hatching so fields should be continually checked. Also, fields which have previously been sprayed, should be checked to make sure residual control is still working.

Treatment should not be done without checking the fields, first. There may or may not be worms, they may be large or there may be very little fruit left on the plant. Spraying cotton which has already been heavily damaged and has little yield potential is not advisable.

Budworm moth trap catches are beginning to go up slightly and they are more difficult to control than bollworms. The differences in the two pests are microscopic.

Some cotton in areas where the rain has not been as heavy is trying to cut out. It is possible that worms will not establish in fields with low numbers of squares, even though the eggs hatch. In fields where the excessive amounts of rain has fallen and cotton is still actively fruiting, worms should have no trouble establishing. At this point some of the fruit they are feeding on does not have a chance to make, but they should be kept out of the fruit that will be harvested. Checking for boll weevils should be continued. Some fields have reached treatment thresholds. Squares should be pulled twice a week to check for punctures. If cotton is still actively squaring, 13rd grown squares should be pulled and examined for boll weevil feeding and egg-laying punctures. If 15 to 20 of these are punctured and adult weevils are present in the field, they have reached a threshold. If there are more bolls than squares, small bolls should be pulled and a little lower threshold used. A boll is relatively safe from weevils after it is approximately fifteen days old.

CUTTING CALORIES AT PICNICS

Nothing could be greater than to enjoy a summertime picnic of Southwestern foods in one of the beautiful state parks.

With summertime already upon us, picnics conjure up thoughts of all-American favorite foods such as fried chicken, hot dogs, hamburgers, fajitas, potato salad, cakes, cookies, ect. How can you eat according to dietary guidelines when so many foods are high in fat, sodium, sugars and calories? Here are some suggestions:

- Grill chicken instead of frying it; remove the skin. If fried chicken is served, skip the skin.
- Grill hamburgers, fajitas, and steaks so the fat runs off during cooking.
- Trim visible fat from steaks.
- Go easy on salt and butter or margarine added to corn-on-the-cob, baked potatoes and other vegetables.

— Load up on mixed green salad or vegetable relishes. Eat smaller helpings of coleslaw, potato salad and macaroni salad made with lots of mayonnaise or prepare a lighter version of the salads by substituting light mayonnaise.

— Liven up your lean hamburger with lettuce, tomatoes, onions, or other vegetables. Go easy on barbecue sauce, catsup mustard, relishes and pickles.

— Enjoy fresh melons, bananas, grapes, cherries, peaches, plums, berries and other fresh fruits.

— Choose fruit juices or unsweetened iced tea rather than soft drinks.

In addition to keeping picnics healthy, also keep them safe. Keep hot foods hot, cold foods cold, and keep them covered until eaten. Use ice chests, thermos bottles and airtight containers for food safety.

Heroic stories of declarer play often begin with a favorable opening lead. So it was in today's hand.

West led a spade against two hearts. East won the ace and returned a spade. He hoped his partner held the spade king and would switch to a heart. But dummy's queen won the trick. Declarer South was certain of the location of the diamond ace because of East's repeated takeout doubles, so he led a low diamond from dummy. East ducked and declarer grabbed the king. Now a spade was ruffed, dummy's A-K of clubs were cashed (South throwing his remaining diamonds) and a club was ruffed. Declarer played the king of spades, and West ruffed, forcing dummy to use the king of hearts. But declarer was able to ruff another club to his hand and play trumps. East could take only the A-Q, and declarer had made 10 tricks — a good score in tournament pairs competition.

A better choice of opening lead would be a diamond. If East has strength in both unbid suits, it is probably better for West to lead from strength. It's unusual to see the opening lead make a four-trick difference, but just imagine. East would take the diamond ace and return the suit. Declarer would surely finesse his jack. West could take the queen and now play a heart. East wins the A-Q and plays another diamond. Eventually, when declarer gets around to playing the spade suit, it is very likely that he will lose three spade tricks. That's seven tricks to the defense — a lot better than the paltry three tricks they took after the ill-fated spade lead.

Mullis and Miller exchange vows

Joy Lynn Mullis became the bride of Tommy Miller of Sweetwater, in a double-ring ceremony at 4:00 p.m. on June 30, at the First Baptist Church Chapel in Snyder. Rev. Don Taylor, pastor officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Mullis are the bride's parents. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miller of Sweetwater.

The church was decorated with Boston ferns, accented with peach bows. The pews were marked with silk ivy and peach bows.

Barbara Chapman, accompanied by Cherry Stewart on the piano, sang "Flesh of My Flesh" and the "Lord's Prayer".

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She chose for her wedding attire, a gown fashioned of white matte taffeta and re-embroidered Alencon lace, adorned with seed pearls. The floor length gown featured a sweetheart neckline and dropped waistline. Her finger-tip veil was trimmed with white seed pearls and silk embroidered flowers. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with white tulle streamers on a lace covered Bible, given to her by her parents.

COMPUTER COURSE SET AT STILES FARM THRALL—Producers interested in learning an inexpensive, user-friendly cash record-keeping program, should plan to attend a Sept. 25-27 training session on the Quicken program at Texas A&M University's Stiles Farm Computer Center.

Quicken, by Intuit, is a checkbook register-based system that many Texas farmers and ranchers have adopted to improve their record-keeping skills. With a small investment in software and up-front time, producers can set up a record-keeping system that will help monitor closely the financial health of a farm business.

The computer center is one mile east of Thrall on Highway 79 in Williamson County. The program cost is $125, which includes educational materials and four meals. Software will be provided for the duration of the course. No prior computer experience is required.

Participants will write and print checks, make entries in the register, track income and expenses, and produce reports based on enterprise and or whole-farm information. Tips for speeding repetitive transactions and other short cuts will be demonstrated. Payroll, reconciling, setting up and installing Quicken, interfacing with Lotus, and closing out a year will also be covered. There will be ample time for any questions or special applications.

The short course will begin at 1 p.m. Sept. 25 and conclude at 2 p.m. on the 27th. Registration will be limited to 14 to insure hands-on participation. For more information, contact the local county agent or Dr. Jackie Smith at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in Lubbock, (806) 746-6101.

Fall fashions will feature shades of red

By Francine Parnes AP Newsfeatures

As fall fashions roll in with a high-voltage blaze of color, they bring with them a whole new way to wear red.

It is combined with incendiary shades such as hot pink, orange and purple, and no one is saying they clash.

Oscar de la Renta put paprika to plum in a wool jersey dress with matching short coat, Isaac Mizrahi mixed innumerable shades of red in one outfit, and Bill Blass showed tomato red skirt, stockings and shoes with fuchsia jacket.

Designer Christian Francis Roth, who likes to combine red with other brights, created two playful numbers for fall: a Crayola suit with big scribbles of colored fabric and the word "red" on the sleeve, and a "little red schoolhouse" dress, a very short cotton velvet chemise with a schoolhouse appliqued on the pocket.

Red once had a Jezebel connotation, but Nancy Reagan "made it classy," according to Marguerite Schaefer of Fred Hayman boutique in Beverly Hills. Vogue's Diana Vreeland surrounded herself with it.

"Red is a very elegant way to bring attention to yourself," says Tom Fallon, publicity director for Bill Blass.

"When a man wears black tie at the Carlyle, it's a wonderful foil for anything a woman wears," says Frank Bowling, manager of the Manhattan hotel, a gathering place for the social elite. He cites Nancy Reagan, who popularized the elegant red suit.

Mrs. Reagan used to say it was important to wear red because when she arrived people would simply search the crowd for a red spot, says Adolfo, who also designs red dresses for Claudette Colbert and socialite Betsy Bloomingdale.

"Red conveys 'I feel pretty good about myself, and you, too, can look,'" says Betsy Carter, editor in chief of New York Woman magazine.

Jana Glass, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Best man was Chuck Deckard of Sweetwater. Ushers were Jimmy Mullis and Jay Mullis, brothers of the bride, both of Odessa.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo coat and black pants accented with a white skirt and black cummerbund.

Shelly Holsey of Sweetwater, sister of the groom, registered the guests.

A reception was held in the Garden Room of the First Baptist Church.

Serving at the bridal table was Denise Overton and Barbara Chapman. The table was decorated with a silver candelabra holding the bridal bouquet. Almond punch was served from a silver punch bowl. The traditional three-tiered wedding cake was accented with fresh flowers. It was decorated by a family friend, Linda Freeman of Roscoe.

The groom's table was decorated with a white satin table cloth and held a red velvet chocolate cake accented with a red and white mustang on the top. Charity Reed, cousin of the groom, of Big Spring served the cake.

The couple is at home in Odessa.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and attended Western Texas College and Odessa College. She is employed by Dunlaps in Odessa.

The groom is a graduate of Sweetwater High School and attended Western Texas College and is presently employed by LSI in Odessa.

Buffalo Reef

By Bill McClellan

You come in every morning, punch up the latest wire stories on the Persian Gulf crisis, read where an explosion has left 12 workers dead, an earthquake has killed 1,000 more, another S&L is down the tubes, taxes are rising, they can't even begin to balance the budget, murder is up, crime is up...and another child is missing.

So you look to the sports news and you find that a former hero has been sent to prison, ex-collegians want $1 million a year before they lace their shoes as a pro, the so-called world's fastest man had chemical help, one university snubbed its conference 76 years and two or three others ready to bolt and run.

It can get real depressing on a day-to-day basis.

So last weekend after work, I drove out to Uncle Elber's place. Not to fish. But to forget that the real world is sometimes pretty surreal.

Elber hasn't caught up with the real world yet. Oh, he's got a few modern conveniences; like a telephone for emergencies, a radio for the weather report and a color television set for Cowboys games.

SDN Opinion Page

Columns - Cartoons - Look Back - Letters - Quotables

Unlike the real world, Elber wouldn't dream of heating up a TV dinner in a microwave oven. Doesn't own an electric coffee maker, a weed-eating machine or a VCR and wouldn't have the slightest idea of what to do with a computer.

He doesn't own a real suit and doesn't even have a real dog; just an old mut, aptly named Chicken.

He doesn't have central air like people in the real world. He turns on the cooler only in August and sleeps with at least one window open, even on the coldest night of the year.

The man's never bought an electric razor. Aunt Clorey gave him a cordless one a few Christmases ago and he used it, but only until the batteries wore out.

One convenience he does have is an ice maker built into a refrigerator he bought a few years back. He takes the ice and dumps it into an old, metal Coca Cola ice chest to keep his beer cold. If he doesn't have ice, well, cowboy cold is fine.

If you stay for supper you won't get mushroom pizza or stuffed zucchini. If he knew you were coming you might get beans and sweet cornbread, jalapeno chili with crackers or pork roast and navy beans. If you just showed up, you might have to settle for scrambled eggs, biscuits and gravy or plum jam, even at night.

Civilized folks who accept an invitation to stay over might be shocked to find themselves on a cot out on the screened-in porch when the weather's good.

And along about dusk, after a ritual of mending the chicken coup, weeding the garden and such, you might sit on the porch and talk with Smitty Thompson or one of the other local boys about how the cotton crop's coming along or Lonnie Wagner's new pickup, or debate how many games the Cowboys are going to win this season.

Probably you could get some opinions on the Persian Gulf crisis, the state of education in American, politicians and the crime rate. But you couldn't expect much. After all...this isn't the real world.

Thank God for that.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

I'm going to write about something rather grim today, but I don't apologize for it. My only regret is that I didn't write about it sooner.

I heard on the news last night that a baby died in an area hospital for no readily discernable reason. However, the mother had been severely beaten just three days before the infant's birth. Authorities are awaiting autopsy reports, and if they can prove that the beating directly resulted in the baby's death, they are going to press murder charges on the father. It will be a history-making case.

If I were blindfolded, I could tell you what happened: the batterer brutally kicked his pregnant wife in the stomach.

Through five years of working with the Noah Project, I can't tell you how many times I've heard of this happening. And not just there, either. When I was in the sixth grade, my best friend's step-father did the same thing to her mother, who was then eight months pregnant with twins.

It seems that it's not enough to beat a woman when she is at the most vulnerable and defenseless period of her life. Savage kicks to her swollen belly then compound her anguish, because from then on she worries herself sick that something may be wrong with the baby. Not only that, but with the skin stretched so tight and thin, there are few blows more excruciatingly painful.

And if her pregnancy is advanced, the baby's head and possibly face are positioned right at the most prominent part of the abdomen, which means the batterer is probably kicking his own unborn child right in the head.

My most favorite movie Western of all time is "Destry Rides Again," with Jimmy Stewart and Marlene Dietrich. At the end, there is a powerful, splendid scene unlike any I've seen in any other movie. All the men of the town are shooting it out — fighting for their lives and the survival of the town — against the town hoodlums, who are holed up in the saloon. These bullies have terrorized the town for months and taken away from many of the citizens their ranches and homes.

While the gentle sheriff (Jimmy Stewart) assists in the fight, the brazen saloon girl (Marlene Dietrich), tells the frightened women of the town that there is something they can all do to help. In the next scene, hundreds of women — all the wives of the embattled men — come marching boldly down the middle of the street, clutching hoes, shovels, picks — whatever weapons they can find.

In a wave, they sweep into the saloon and its stunned captors, overpowering the armed men and beating them senseless — thus saving the town.

If any helpless newborn infant is found to have died a brutal death because its own father beat it "safe" in the womb, here is what I would like to do: I would like to gather up all the women of the town to march down the middle of the street — armed with nothing but bare fists and maybe a few pairs of cowboy boots — straight to that man's house, drag him out onto the lawn, and beat the holy you-know-what out of him.

Even better, I'd like him to be cradling in his arms one of his other babies, so that he'd have to cower helplessly over the child, terrified that it might get hurt during the battering.

Now, all my friends in law enforcement know that I am a strong supporter of law and order, and that I'm not the type of person to go running around advocating vigilante justice.

But I tell you what; in this case, I'd be willing to go to jail awhile myself, just for the sweet privilege.

SDN Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

School is again upon us and I want to do something that I had intended to do months ago. That is to write an open letter expressing my appreciation to Representative Charles Stenholm. When I was a teacher in Boyd, Texas, Congressman Stenholm and I became acquainted, and although our politics did not exactly agree, I believe we developed a mutual respect — I respected him for his efforts to accurately reflect the wishes of his constituents, and he respected me for my efforts to educate the children about our nation and its government.

After coming to Northern Virginia, I discovered that it was with great difficulty that I could persuade my Virginia congressman to visit my school and discuss the issues of the day with my (very intelligent) students. In fact, it was a three year effort, despite the fact that he could have talked to the students as early as 7:30 a.m.!

Last year, I contacted Charles Stenholm to visit our school and discuss the governing process and his feelings about the difficulties facing our nation. He gladly came to J.E.B. Stuart High School and his manner reflected well on those who elected him. He did not talk down to the students in any way, and stayed for more than half an hour after his scheduled time to continue discussions with various interested students.

During these times when our elected representatives seem to have time only to speak to influential and highly funded organizations, it is refreshing to have a few "on the Hill" who still recognize that educating our children for democracy is an important role that no one else can do quite as effectively as they. I commend Charles Stenholm and feel fortunate that I have had the opportunity to know him as a congressman and as a friend.

Sincerely,

Real-estate auctions bid for buyers

By the Editors of Consumer Reports

For many Americans, real-estate auctions conjure up images of the Great Depression, when mortgage lenders put thousands of foreclosed homes and farms on the block.

Today, the auction business is booming once more, this time as developers, lenders and the government look for ways to sell property, including thousands of newly built homes, in a slow real-estate market.

Developers are the major force behind this auction renaissance. In many parts of the country, they're saddled with properties that can't be sold. Each month, interest and other carrying costs reduce their potential return on investment by about 2 percent. Their choice is often between an auction and letting the bank foreclose.

Some bidders at auctions come away with a good house at a bargain-basement price. But others fall into costly traps. They may pay too much in the overheated air of bidding. Or they may lose sizable deposits when they find they can't cover their bid with a mortgage loan. Or they make mistakes because they don't understand the rules.

If you are considering buying at auction, attend a trial run first. Don't worry, you won't get stuck with a house by absentmindedly tugging at your ear. Bidders must register and get a number, which is commonly displayed on a wooden paddle. Once the auction begins, the auctioneer should point out the high bidder and make sure everyone knows what the bid is. If this isn't clear, you should not be bidding.

Most auctioneers provide information about the properties long before the auction. At least a month in advance, you should obtain copies of the sales contract, rules of the auction, viewing information, details about financing, a map and legal description, tax bills and assessments, condo fees and any liens or attachments (all properties should come with a guarantee of clear title).

Before an auction, visit the open house. Make detailed notes — get a copy of the floor plan and make notes on that. Don't be shy about asking questions: This may be the only chance you'll have. Take along a camera or camcorder so you'll have a visual record. This is crucial when viewing more than one property; otherwise you may find it difficult to verify that the place has all the features you saw when you attended the open house.

To determine your bidding limit, estimate the market value of the property. Study past sales prices for similar properties in the neighborhood.

Go to the city, town or county office that keeps property records. Ask for the files that list information for each property, including the legal description of the land and building. Look at the data for homes next door, on the same street or in the same complex. You'll find the name of the current owner, the date that the property was last purchased, and possibly the sale price.

A professional appraisal or inspection of the property, which will cost several hundred dollars, may be advisable, especially if you're considering an older single-family or multi-family property. If the seller isn't willing to make the property available for inspection, steer clear of the deal.

And shop for a mortgage before the auction. Ask a lender to work out how large a monthly mortgage payment you qualify for. Many banks will commit to a specified loan amount before you start looking. Even if you don't want or can't get a commitment, at least you'll know how much financing is likely to be available to you.

At the auction, bidding may start at either a minimum advertised price that cannot be lowered or at a suggested opening bid. The auction company sets the tone for the event. Auctions range from carnival-like to quite reserved. No matter what the auctioneer does to stimulate excitement, bidders are advised to stay cool. Excitement breeds competition — and higher prices.

If you're bidding and you're not sure of something, stand up and ask loudly. If signals get crossed in the course of bidding, yell out "mistake."

Above all, set your limit and keep to it. Auctions aren't for everyone, particularly househunters who are very picky or very cautious. Auctions can eliminate negotiating, the most nerve-racking aspect of buying a house for most people. But every auction is different, and there's no way to tell in advance whether it's going to be worth the time, the effort or the considerable risks.

Dear Abby

The Best of Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© Universal Press Syndicate

EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.

DEAR ABBY: I am an older woman living alone in a small apartment. Sometimes a neighbor or a not-too-close friend will stop by to visit, which I appreciate. I always offer her a cup of tea. If she accepts, I turn on the TV in the living room so she can watch it while I go into the kitchen to prepare the tea. Does she stay put in the living room and watch TV? No. She follows me into my kitchen and stands over me. I have to ask her to please move so I can open the door of the cabinet.

Abby, when I get unexpected company, there may be a few dirty dishes in my sink and the place isn't as tidy as it could be. This is very embarrassing and nerve-wracking. Will you tell your readers to please stay out of people's kitchens unless they're invited?

WANTS TO BE ALONE

DEAR WANTS: I have the perfect solution for you. Clip this poem and tape it to the door of your kitchen:

STAY OUT OF MY KITCHEN
by Susan Sawyer

Please stay away from my kitchen
From my dishwashing, cooking and such;
You were kind to have offered to pitch in
But thanks, no, thank you so much!

Please don't think me ungracious
When I ask that you leave me alone;
For my kitchen's not any too spacious
And my routine is strictly my own.

Tell you what: You stay out of my kitchen
With its sodden, hot, lackluster lures —
When you're here, stay out of my kitchen
And I promise to stay out of yours!

DEAR ABBY: Will you join me in nominating for "Boob of the Year" those perfectly healthy, active (and usually young) individuals who park their cars in spaces clearly marked "Handicapped"?

ANAHEIM

DEAR ANAHEIM: A "boob" is one who makes a stupid mistake. An able-bodied person who would deliberately deprive a physically handicapped person of a more convenient parking place is worse than a boob. He's an inconsiderate, selfish hog. (P.S. He's also "handicapped"; he has a character deficiency.)

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, and getting along with their peers and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my late 50s who has been keeping company with a bachelor my age for three years. My problem is I still haven't met any of his family members.

He lives on a farm with his mother and two sisters. I've never been to his house because his mother is senile and both his sisters are crazy.

He doesn't work and says he has no income, but he owns a little property and drives a nice car. He's asked me not to phone him because he has a party line, which he says everybody listens in on, and he doesn't want people knowing his business.

Last year his brother died, but he didn't tell me until after they buried him because he said it was a private funeral and his brother was crazy. I'm beginning to think insanity runs in his family.

If I weren't so darned lonesome, I'd forget him, but he does play a nice game of gin rummy. How do you and your experts figure him?

MINNIE IN W.VA.

DEAR MINNIE: My experts suspect that your gentleman friend is either married, crazy or both. And my advice is to determine his marital status, find another gin rummy partner or take up solitaire.

DEAR ABBY: I took your advice and acted like a liberated woman by calling up a guy and arranging a date with him.

Well, it just didn't work out. You said a man would feel "flattered" to have a girl call him and tell him up front she thought they would enjoy each other's company.

This guy was flattered all right, but his ego got to be too much by the end of the evening. He couldn't buy the idea that I didn't want to get him between the sheets. (I really didn't.)

I'm afraid the average man still likes to take the initiative when it comes to dating. Or did I just happen to get a dud?

GUESSED WRONG

DEAR GUESSED: I think you got a dud. Just because a man asks a girl for a date doesn't mean he wants to take her to bed. And the same applies to women who take the initiative.

DEAR ABBY: I work for the Bureau of Vital Statistics. Since quite a few people have had sex change operations recently, they have been requesting that their names be changed to agree with their sex change. We are having difficulty in writing to these people.

They usually have their names legally changed before having the sex change operation.

For example: A man named James Black has changed his name to Virginia Black. By rights he is still a male with a female name.

When writing to him, should we address him as "Dear Mr. Black," since he is still a biological male, or "Dear Miss Black," since his name has been legally changed?

BALTIMORE DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: Address him (or her) by his (or her) legal name.

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Bill Cosby says he's ready to take on 'The Simpsons'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Cosby doesn't care for smart alecks like Bart Simpson, and says the Huxtables are ready to take him on.

Beginning this week, Fox TV moved its runaway hit, "The Simpsons," from Sunday nights to a Thursday night slot, pitting it against NBC's hit "The Cosby Show."

Cosby posed for the cover of Entertainment Weekly wearing a T-shirt with Bart Simpson on it declaring, "Yo, Bill!" But he had little praise for the animated series.

"The mean-spirited and cruel think this is 'the edge,' and their excuse is, that's the way people are today," Cosby said in an interview being published next week. "But why should we be entertained by that? TV should be moving in a direction from the Huxtables forward, not backward."

Cosby said he's been reenergizing "The Cosby Show" with nine new writers, as a matter of principle.

"I'm working harder and enjoying it more. And whether the audience is there in the numbers or not, I am proud of what we've done," Cosby said.

"All of the changes were made B.B. — Before Bart," he said.

The French national anthem, "La Marseillaise," was composed by Claude-Joseph Rouget de Lisle in 1792.

Zapata to sell 90% stake in drilling rig fleet for millions

HOUSTON (AP) — Zapata Corp. says it has reached an agreement to sell a 90 percent interest in its drilling rig fleet to a European group for about $280 million.

The Houston-based drilling rig company on Thursday also said it has reached an agreement in principle with its bank lenders to restructure about $560 million of senior secured debt.

A cash tender offer for the company's subordinated debt will be the final step in Zapata's restructuring, the company said.

"I am very encouraged by the progress we have made, but we still have a third, essential step — bondholder acceptance of our tender offer — to complete," Zapata Chairman and Chief Executive Officer R.C. Lassiter said in a statement.

"If the tender offer fails, it is likely that the company will be forced to file for protection under the bankruptcy laws. In this case, the value received by everyone involved would likely be considerably less than the value that would be received through voluntary restructuring," Lassiter said.

The cash tender offer will be made within the next few months, he said.

Zapata spokesman Barney White said the fleet would be sold to a group of European investors who were forming a new company specifically for the purchase. He would not name the principals.

Lassiter said negotiations of specific terms relating to the sale were proceeding, and a final agreement was expected within days.

Zapata's 10 percent equity in the fleet and a continuing management role "will ensure that our current contract commitments and our valued customer relations will not suffer any interruptions," he said.

Besides operating the rig fleet,

Zapata produces oil and natural gas and has commercial menhaden fishing operations that produce fish meal and edible oil.

Zapata also is the largest shareholder in Zapata Gulf Marine Corp., the world's leading operator of marine service vessels.

Under its restructuring deal, approximately $560 million in debt would be reduced to $115 million with banks receiving at least $160 million in cash and 80 percent of the company's common stock, including shares already owned by the banks.

Zapata's senior lenders hold liens on all the company's assets, so most of the proceeds from the rig sale will be used to repay $53.6 million of rig debt and then restructure the company's senior bank indebtedness, Lassiter said.

"Despite recent developments in the Middle East, the fundamentals of the market for offshore drilling services remain unchanged. In addition, the company's marine protein division is experiencing another very disappointing year with its performance well below our expectations," Lassiter said.

"It is time for Zapata to take decisive action to resolve its debt situation," he said.

Baron Manfred von Richthofen — the German ace known as the "Red Baron" — was killed in action in 1918 during World War I.

Technological breakthrough announced

AUSTIN (AP) — The high technology consortium Sematech Friday announced the development of a super-small circuit for computers that officials said represented an industry breakthrough.
 The group of leading United States electronics firms has produced a device that is one-half micron thick, or one-half of 1 millionth of a meter.
 The device means that 2½ times more information can be stuffed onto the same size computer chip than the previously smallest 0.8 micron device.
 "Half-micron technology is leading edge and state of the art," said Peter Mills, Sematech's chief administrative officer.
 Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, and U.S. Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Texas, were both on hand for the announcement.
 Gramm said the new technology would help the consortium members produce better and cheaper products.

 "This is another milestone that indicates that the investment the American taxpayer has made here is a good investment," Gramm said.
 "This is an important morning for the world to know that we have achieved this level of productivity. This achievement will be recognized by the industry as a national and international discovery," Pickle said.
 Sematech was created to regain U.S. superiority in the semiconductor industry.

Slain woman's son, friend charged

RAYMONDVILLE, Texas (AP) — The 16-year-old son of a Raymondville woman found shot to death last weekend and his 17-year-old friend have been charged with capital murder, officials say.
 Scott Flores, son of Vivian Flores, and Tony Sanchez, both of Raymondville, were in custody late Thursday, officers said.
 Willacy County Sheriff Larry Spence said no motive has been given by authorities for the killing of Mrs. Flores.
 Bonds were set at $100,000 each. Sanchez was remanded to the Willacy County Jail while Flores was turned over to juvenile authorities.

 Officers said Mrs. Flores reportedly was taken from another location to the bridge, where she was shot at point-blank range.
 County authorities said they will seek to have Michael Flores certified to stand trial as an adult.
Roseanne Barr sued by ex-husband
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roseanne Barr's former husband filed a palimony lawsuit seeking at least $15 million from the comic and $3 million from her new husband, Tom Arnold.
 William Pentland's 14-year marriage to Miss Barr ended in divorce in January. In a lawsuit filed Thursday in Superior Court, Pentland claimed he is entitled to half her property as well as support payments.

 Miss Barr and Pentland, a writer, were married in 1975. Their three teen-age children live with Miss Barr.
 A divorce and custody hearing was scheduled for Sept. 18.

Now AmWest can give you something few banks can...

A good night's sleep.

Now AmWest has "DreamSaver"—a savings program designed to bring peace of mind to all those who worry about saving money.

Here's how it works: You tell AmWest how much you want to save every month, (as little as $25 if you like) and they'll deduct it automatically from a free checking account (that's right, free checking) and put it into a CD account. Keep your money there for a full 12 months and it will earn a high-interest CD rate. Take it out early, and you'll get a penalty — three months interest or $50.

So "DreamSaver" not only helps you save money on a regular monthly basis — it helps you keep your hands off it too. And with a little money in savings — a good night's sleep will come a whole lot easier.

Put Your Money on Texas.

Substantial penalty for early withdrawal. Interest paid quarterly. Rates subject to change without notice.

Robber posing as a cop fatally stabbed after chase

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of angry neighbors chased down a robber posing as a policeman, beating and kicking him as he slashed his victim before someone fatally stabbed him.
 After the stabbing, the crowd of Bronx neighbors dispersed and police were unable to identify those involved, Lt. James Malvey said Thursday.
 "They're tight-lipped," Malvey said of residents in the crime-ridden neighborhood. "They saw a group of people struggling, period. They don't want to get involved."
 The dead man, found with stolen jewelry in his pocket, was identified as Jose Abreu, 49, of Queens, police said.
 The victims, Carlos Rosario and his wife, let two men into their apartment late Wednesday after the robbers yelled "Open up. It's the police."
 Threatened with a gun, the couple was robbed and the thieves tried to tie them up. A struggle between Rosario and the robbers ensued, allowing his wife to flee through the fire escape.
 Her screams alerted neighbors and the robbers fled, followed by Rosario. The two men split up and Rosario followed the one he believed had his wife's jewelry, Malvey said.
 About 10 men joined in the chase and descended on Abreu after Rosario caught up with him about two blocks away. Rosario said Abreu slashed him on the shoulder during the scuffle, prompting him to roll out of harm's way.

 Rosario told police he did not see who stabbed Abreu and witnesses declined to help investigators, although officers believe the killing was justified.
 "They are very wary of getting involved with anything that has to do with someone's death," Malvey said. "At this point in the investigation, there is no reason to believe anything other than this is a good Samaritan act."
 The other robber got away. Rosario was treated for a knife wound at a nearby hospital.

In 1792, a highwayman named Nicolas-Jacques Pelletier became the first person under French law to be executed by the guillotine.

The United States declared war on Spain April 25, 1898.

Curious crowds flock to tree to see supposed Jesus image

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Hundreds of curiosity-seekers have been visiting a San Antonio house to view what they believe is an image of Jesus Christ on a tree trunk.

A Roman Catholic priest who also has been to see the tree says he told the visitors to look for Christ in their hearts and in the Christian faith community.

"I blessed the people gathered there, quoted a verse of scripture and told them if they cannot see Christ in the Eucharist and in our community celebration, they cannot find him on a tree," said the Rev. Thai Trihn, associate pastor at St. Joseph's South San Catholic Church.

Luis Rodriguez Sr., 52, an airport maintenance worker, said crowds have been coming to his house since Saturday, when the image was first noticed. Dozens showed up again Thursday night.

"My grandson was the first one to see it," Rodriguez said. The image is about 3 feet high, starts about a foot above the ground and depicts the head of a man with a beard and mustache and large dark eyes. The head tilts to the left.

Rodriguez said word spread quickly about the image, and people have been coming to the tree day and night. Some stay as late as 2 a.m.

"Some people feel drawn to the tree. They pray. They say they feel a happiness. My wife says the same thing," Rodriguez said.

Trihn said he visited the tree Wednesday night and sprinkled holy water on it and blessed it "as a creation of God." But he added:

"I carefully avoided sprinkling water on the image itself, and I spent a lot more time blessing the people than the tree."

The priest said he admonished the curiosity-seekers not to take the image too seriously.

"I have no authority to say whether the image is authentic or not, but I personally do not believe it is authentic," he said.

Developments could occur in the year ahead that will prove to be exciting diversions from your usual routines. When these welcome changes occur they may also benefit your life in material ways as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A fruitful idea might be presented to you today, however, in order to take advantage of it, you may have to think of a way to extricate yourself from another involvement. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions continue to look encouraging for you where your material interests are concerned. Keep your eyes peeled for developments that could prove profitable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The types of situations you are likely to enjoy the most today will be the ones in which you'll have a hand in running. You'll know how to have fun and be sure others do as well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A relationship with a dear friend could become a trifle complicated today. You might have to shoulder some of this person's responsibilities, but you won't object to being imposed upon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Relax and enjoy yourself today, but try to count what you're spending as you go along. There's a chance your extravagance could quickly get out of hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be rather good in competitive situations today, especially if there is some sort of reward or prize at stake. You're not apt to fare as well when unmotivated.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't underestimate yourself today, because persons from whom you feel you'll be learning something will also gain knowledge from what you have to tell them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) People upon whom you might not be counting could come forth today and help spur your efforts onward, while those from whom you are expecting support may remain silent.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There is a possibility you might be a trifle indecisive today, especially where your social interests are concerned. If you change plans at the last minute, don't forget to cancel previous arrangements.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Accolades could be in order for you today for one of your achievements. However, let associates offer the praise, so you won't look like you're tooting your own horn.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This could be an exciting day for you where you put into action an adventurous plan you've been contemplating. Don't let your intentions be regulated by those with less bold spirits.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might be the target for manipulation by a rather shrewd acquaintance today. If you see the web being weaved, let this individual know you're onto the play.

Your financial prospects should undergo an improvement in the year ahead. Your usual sources could be increased and perhaps a side venture might even turn profitable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might be luckier than usual today in being able to bring meaningful matters to a successful conclusion, but you may not be as skillful in the management of your social life. Major changes are ahead for Virgo in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't lower your expectations today if early indicators aren't as promising as you hoped they would be. You're in a lucky cycle, so think positive and proceed optimistically.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In your commercial affairs today, make the important evaluations yourself, then be doubly sure others involved follow your blueprints.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A situation that has been causing you concern can be turned around today to produce advantages instead of adversity. All of a sudden these solutions should become obvious.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You can get what you go after today, but it might require some fancy maneuvering on your behalf. Instead of meeting obstacles head-on, try to circumvent them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you are involved in something at present you feel you cannot handle on your own, discuss it with friends, especially those to whom you've been helpful recently.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An opportunity of considerable size might develop for you at this time where your work or career is concerned. Be on your toes, so you'll recognize the early signals.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could be rather fortunate today through people who are not directly associated with your work or your primary interests. Side diversions may prove the most beneficial.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you're involved in something today you feel could make you a profit, stay on top of the deal until it is locked down. Don't wonder off on tangents.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Know exactly what you're getting into if you contemplate a partnership arrangement today. Make certain your counterpart can offer that which you lack.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Tenacity is essential today, so hang in there if you are involved in something important that doesn't look too good at the onset. Conditions should get better as you go along.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Lady Luck tends to favor you today in situations that have elements of chance. However, she's might withdraw her support if you're inclined to take outlandish risks.
