Q—Has there been any word yet on bids for the AJRA National Finals Rodeo next year?

A—No, but the local AJRA steering committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the chamber. Since bids are due by tomorrow, Aug. 31, it is anticipated some news may come out of Tuesday's meeting.

In Brief

Austin picked

AUSTIN (AP) — City officials are hailing a decision by Applied Materials Inc. to locate its new high-tech plant in Austin, saying it is expected to bring up to 2,000 jobs to the city by the end of the decade.

Applied Materials is a supplier of wafer fabrication systems to the worldwide semiconductor industry. The manufacturing plant in northeast Austin will employ about 500 people initially, eventually expanding its workforce.

Mayor Lee Cooke said the company's decision was a big boost for Austin's economy.

Travel flap

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A high school band that made arrangements directly with a hotel for a Cotton Bowl Parade performance on New Year's Day was told it must go through a Texarkana travel agent at almost twice the cost, the band director said.

The Tuloso-Midway high school band was the only Texas band out of 100 applicants chosen to perform in the parade the morning of the Cotton Bowl game.

Tuloso-Midway band director Mike Olson said the 180 members of his band and drill team raised the $20,000 it would cost for travel and lodging.

Preliminary figures...

Rise indicated in Scurry population

Scurry County's population increased only slightly over the past 10 years, but that's in contrast to most area counties which witnessed a reduction, according to preliminary figures released Wednesday by the U.S. Census Bureau.

Scurry's population grew 1.61 percent — from 18,182 in 1980 to 18,474 in 1990.

Statewide, population jumped 2.6 million during the last 10 years, giving Texas a preliminary count of 16.8 million residents. The 16.8 million figure is below a pre-census estimate of 17.1 million, but does qualify the state for three additional members in the House of Representatives, from 27 seats to 30.

Texas' 16.8 million people put the state as the third most populous state, behind California with 29.3 million and New York with 17.6 million.

Nationwide, preliminary estimates show a population of 245,837,683.

Counties bordering Scurry — Mitchell, Borden, Garza, Kent and Fisher — all noted decreases in population. Fisher showed a decrease of 17.3 percent while Mitchell was down 12.22 percent, Kent dropped 10.22 percent, Borden lost 7.33 percent and Garza lost 3.71 percent.

Among other area counties, Howard dropped 3.64 percent, Nolan fell 4.99 percent and Dawson plunged 13.16 percent.

Andrews County indicated an increase in population of 7.05 percent.

Taylor County, which includes Abilene, showed an increase of 7.14 percent while Lubbock County picked up 2.82 percent. Tom Green County, including San Angelo, was up 15.09 percent and Midland County — jumped 28.01 percent.

Counties showing the largest increase in population were Denton, up 88.82 percent; Williamson, up 81.80 percent; and Collin, up 81.27 percent. Those showing the largest decrease were Hall, down 30.43; Hemphill, down 30; and Dickens, down 27.58.

Below is a list of area counties, their 1980 census results, 1990 preliminary counts, and percentage of change.

Andrews: up 7.05 percent, from 13,323 in 1980 to 14,262 in 1990.

Borden: down 7.33 percent, from 859 in 1980 to 796 in 1990.

Dawson: down 13.16 percent, from 16,184 in 1980 to 14,054 in 1990.

Ector: up 3.27 percent, from 114,374 in 1980 to 118,113 in 1990.

Fisher: down 17.37 percent, from 5,891 in 1980 to 4,868 in 1990.

Garza: down 3.71 percent, from 5,336 in 1980 to 5,138 in 1990.

Howard: down 3.64 percent, from 33,142 in 1980 to 31,935 in 1990.

Kent: down 10.22 percent, from 1,145 in 1980 to 1,028 in 1990.

Lubbock: up 2.82 percent, from 211,651 in 1980 to 217,617 in 1990.

Midland: up 28.01 percent, from 82,636 in 1980 to 105,784 in 1990. (see CENSUS, page 8)

City count is down, however

While the U.S. Census Bureau indicated a slight gain in population for Scurry County, preliminary figures released show a drop in Snyder citizens.

Snyder had 12,705 residents according to the official 1980 census but has 12,023 now, based on the preliminary 1990 census. The difference is a decrease in population of 5.36 percent.

Figures released for Scurry County show a gain of 1.61 percent, based on 18,182 residents in 1980 and 18,474 in 1990.

Area communities Big Spring, Sweetwater and Colorado City all indicated a drop in population. Big Spring saw a decline of 7.85 percent, from 24,805 in 1980 to 22,857 in 1990; Sweetwater fell in population by 10.7 percent, from 12,242 in 1980 to 10,931 in 1990; and Colorado City dropped 12.69 percent, from 5,405 to 3,719.

Iraq holds up on evacuation; demands supplies in return

by The Associated Press
Iraq is delaying the evacuation of Western women and children and will allow planes to pick them up only if the aircraft fly food and medicine into the embargo-squeezed country, diplomats in Baghdad said today.

If flights can't be arranged, the Western evacuees will have to travel overland, most likely to Turkey, 370 miles north of the capital, said the diplomats, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Iraq's airspace is closed to all foreign carriers.

Red tape will prevent any release before Saturday, a senior diplomat said.

Iraq promised Tuesday that the thousands of Western women and children would be able to begin leaving the next day. But President Saddam Hussein has yet to fulfill the promise.

Of the 21,000 Western hostages in Iraq and Kuwait, 3,000 are Americans, including about 1,000 women and children.

The British Broadcasting Corp.

said a group of captive foreigners was paraded before the international press in Baghdad today.

"It was for some of them a rather distressing experience — children cried a great deal and some of the women cried," correspondent John Simpson reported. The nationalities of the foreigners involved was not known.

On Wednesday, Saddam denied seeking a deal for an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait despite mounting international military and economic pressure. Iraq seized the oil-rich emirate on Aug. 2 and later annexed it.

Solis conviction overturned

An appeals court has overturned the April 25, 1989, conviction of Jorge Seratto Solis and has ordered a new trial.

The 11th Court of Appeals in a ruling signed Aug. 23 said that Solis, charged with the robbery and stabbing of convenience store clerk in January, 1989, did not plead guilty to the charge of aggravated robbery.

Solis was charged with attempted capital murder and aggravated robbery and 132nd

District Judge Gene Dulaney sentenced the defendant to life in prison.

The appeals court said Solis entered a guilty plea only to the attempted capital murder charge and the trial judge found him guilty of the second charge of aggravated robbery, to which Solis did not enter a plea.

District Attorney Ernie Armstrong said his office will ask the appeals court to reconsider its ruling. If the ruling stands, Solis will be returned to Scurry County

Football, food slated for Tiger fans Friday

Local football fans will get to see the Tigers in action here Friday and top it off with a barbecue supper.

Snyder scrimmages Clyde at Tiger Stadium in its final tuneup for the 1990 season.

In area action, Ira scrimmages at Klondike this evening, while on Friday, Borden County entertains Grady and Hermleigh journeys to Wilson. All three area scrimmages begin at 6 p.m.

Snyder's action with Clyde this Friday begins at 5 p.m. with junior varsity squads. Varsity teams are expected to take the field about 6:30 p.m.

"We're just looking for assignment football," said Snyder coach David Baugh. "We want to see some aggressive players doing what we've taught them."

The controlled scrimmage will begin with each first-team offense running 20 plays against the other first-team defense, followed by the second units with 15 plays each.

First-stringers will return to the field for 10 more plays apiece, followed by a five-play stand at the goal line.

There is no charge for fans planning to watch the action.

Following the scrimmage, Snyder All-Sports Booster Club is sponsoring a barbecue supper in the high school cafeteria. Tickets, at $5 per plate, are available from the Diet Center, West Texas State Bank, or at the cafeteria door.

Snyder varsity opens the 1990 season Sept. 7 at Monahans.

Grandkids make grown people do some crazy things, and grandpa G.A. Parks is no exception. Granddaughter Whitney sometimes makes the easy-going G.A. shift into high gear.

Whitney, daughter of Whit and Traci Parks, was recently visiting G.A. and Aline. Like all grandchildren, Whitney knows where to find the cookie jar.

When asked if she could have a cookie, the grandmother regrettably informed Whitney that her grandfather had eaten up all the cookies.

Whitney looked up with her eyes still aglow from anticipation, "Is it okay if I eat the crumbs?"

You guessed it—G.A. rushed out and bought cookies to fill the jar.

With Snyder governmental entities working on budgets and setting tax rates for next year—it might be some comfort to know that things could be much worse.

In Snyder, the total tax rate for all taxing entities was $1.99.

President George Bush has a summer home in Kennebunkport, Maine. George got a tax rate cut this year, but only because of a pretty good jump in the appraised value.

Since land values in the area have more than doubled over the past few years, the latest assessment on the president's "home" jumped to $2.2 million from $892,000.

Prior to the jump in the appraised value, the city tax rate was $11, down from last year's tax rate of $22. The president will pay the town council just over $23,000.

Miller Robinson and family took a vacation to England this summer. Purpose of the vacation was "change and rest."

The Colonial Hill minister said it turned out different. "The bellboys got the change, and the hotel got the rest."

WTCOG sets meeting here to name directors

The West Central Council of Governments, Sub-Region II, will hold a noon meeting in Snyder on Thursday, Sept. 6, to select representatives to the council's board of directors and executive committee.

The meeting will be held at Golden Corral Restaurant. Sub-Region II includes Scurry, Nolan, Fisher and Mitchell counties.

Among the items of business will be the following:

—to designate a county representative to the board of directors;

—to select a county representative and an alternate from each county to the executive committee;

—to select two city officials from each county to the board of directors; —to select one school official from each county to the board of directors; —to select one official from each county to the board of directors representing water conservation districts; and,

—to select one official from each county to the board of directors representing special districts.

Elected and appointed officials of all governmental entities in the sub-region and their guests are invited to attend and to participate in the selection of representatives.

Also on the agenda will be a discussion of new programs and services to be implemented next year.

Army guide lists survival facts

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — An Army unit on the Kansas plain has produced a booklet to help U.S. soldiers in Saudi Arabia learn the life-or-death lessons of the desert.

"The desert can easily kill an unprepared soldier," warns the new manual prepared for Operation Desert Shield.

Filled with common-sense, plain-spoken language, the 25-page booklet is packed with a few basic rules of survival for those unprepared for desert climes.

"It's a basic training document if you've not had any experience in the desert," said Brig. Gen. James Lyle, the commander of the unit that put the publication together.

Some of its hints:

- You lose less water if you keep your clothes on!
- Don't play with snakes!
- Before putting clothes on in the field, check for critters!
- Wood shrinks in the desert — make sure axheads are secure before using!
- Check your feet daily — change socks frequently!

The booklet, "Winning in the Desert," was put together in four days. It uses information gathered from the Army's desert training center at Fort Irwin, Calif., from joint U.S.-Saudi exercises held during the past 10 years and exercises conducted by the Saudi Arabian National Guard, Lyle said.

The publication is brief and blunt about the dangers the desert can hold.

But it also points out that men have waged war in those harsh environs for centuries, some more successfully than others.

Knowledge of the desert is the key.

"Priorities may alter, techniques will vary ... but soldiers, leaders and units who are fit and well-trained to fight ... will have little difficulty adjusting to desert war," Lyle said.

The Army has printed 250,000 copies of the little manual, and 5,000 were flown to Saudi Arabia this week, Lyle said.

Lyle is in charge of the Center for Lessons Learned, the Army unit that gleans studies and reports from many Army exercises or activities — and then compiles a huge data base to help commanders teach their soldiers the best way to plan, organize and carry out their missions.

Former cashier given 15 years, fined $7,000

WACO, Texas (AP) — A former cashier at a Waco brokerage firm described by a prosecutor as a woman who made herself "Queen For a Day" day after day while embezzling more than $550,000 has been sentenced to 15 years in prison by jurors who rejected her plea for probation.

Jurors set the punishment Wednesday for Darlyne Laurel Lopez, 46, a former cashier at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, who was accused of stealing $565,069 over a five-year period.

It took the jury about an hour to decide to send the woman to prison and order her to pay a $7,000 fine. She had pleaded guilty Monday on a charge of misapplying more than $10,000 in property from a financial institution, a second-degree felony that carried a maximum 20-year prison term.

She disputed financial records that indicated she stole as much as prosecutors claimed, saying she did not keep daily records of how much she stole.

"I don't see how I could have taken what they say because I have nothing to show for it," she said. "I don't have any money hidden away."

Two jurors, who declined to give their names, said the jury never considered probation.

Prosecutor Ralph Strother commended members of the First Baptist Church of Woodway, who turned out to support Ms. Lopez. About 15 of them testified as character witnesses.

But the prosecutor urged jurors to prove that there is not a double standard of justice for white-collar criminals who live in Woodway and have nice friends.

Strother said her friends would be the first ones "pounding on the door of the police station or the district attorney's office demanding that something be done about crime" if their homes were burglarized.

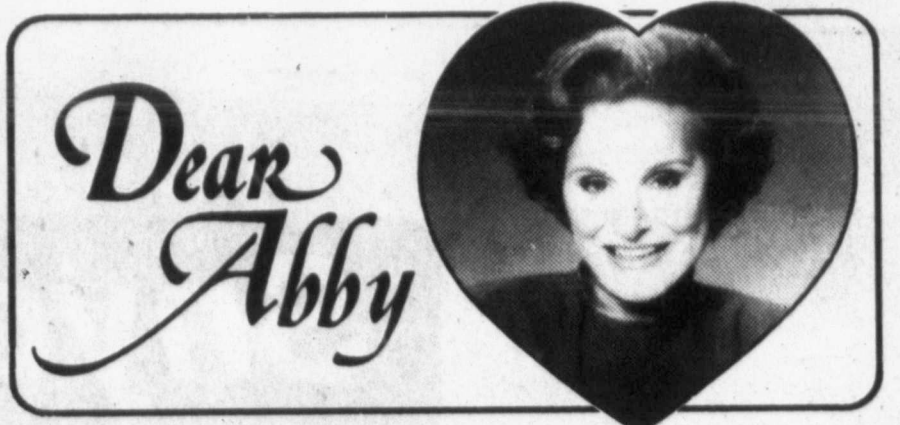

"But when we have somebody from their end of town who robs somebody blind, they are in here asking for mercy. Is there one standard of justice or two? You are going to tell us today," Strother told jurors.

Prosecutor David Sibley told the jury that Lopez reminded him of a 1950s game show, where women were chosen "Queen for a Day" and showered with gifts.

"In this case, Darlyne Lopez dubbed herself 'Queen for a Day' day after day, week after week, year after year, for five years, running through almost $600,000 in those five years. Anything her heart desired. She'd run to the computer and ring it up," Sibley said.

Sibley also disputed the defendant's claim that she has nothing to show for the money she stole.

"She has cars, her daughter has a college education, she has clothes, jewelry, cash. She was 'Queen for a Day,'" Sibley said.

Grandma Worries that Modern Women Are Dressing for Rape

The Best of Dear Abby by Abigail Van Buren
© 1990 by Universal Press Syndicate

EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.

DEAR ABBY: It's no wonder so many girls and women are raped these days. They go around without bras, wearing halters and skin-tight pants, and some of them even leave their whole midsections bare naked. They practically ask for it!

I'm not saying we should be easy on the rapists who commit these terrible crimes, but the way some girls dress I can understand how a man can be tempted beyond his ability to control himself.

GRANDMA IN GARDEN CITY, N.Y.

DEAR GRANDMA: The theory that girls "ask for it" by the way they dress is not valid. What's so tempting about a 10-month-old baby wearing a diaper? Or an 85-year-old woman in a housedress? Rapists are more interested in humiliating and degrading a female than in satisfying themselves sexually. Any female (of any age) will do.

One piece of advice to women on how to dress to protect themselves against rape: Wear shoes you can run in.

DEAR WITHHOLD: Tell your mother that Abby said a pain is nature's signal that something is wrong. And to kill the pain and ignore the warning instead of seeing a physician is not only foolish, it could be fatal.

DEAR ABBY: For five years now, I have been a therapist in a rehabilitation clinic. In my work I see drug addicts, alcoholics, and all kinds of men who can't work due to problems they've brought on themselves. I'm amazed to find that most of them have loyal wives and girlfriends to back them up.

I am a hardworking man of good character with no bad habits, and I'm still alone and single.

Abby, why would a woman ignore a man with my qualifications to stick by a drug addict or alcoholic? Sometimes I wonder if I am on the wrong side of the fence.

Isn't there a place in the social marketplace for a good, hardworking man with no bad habits?

DEAR DILEMMA: Most women who stick by the kind of men you treat do not see an alcoholic or drug addict; they see a man they love with a drug or alcohol problem. Obviously, those men must have done something to earn such loyalty and devotion.

And yes, there is a place in the social marketplace for a good workingman with no bad habits. Keep looking, but don't compete with your patients.

DEAR ABBY: My mother always has something the matter with her. It's either a "splitting headache," "dizzy spells" or eating something that didn't "agree" with her.

She eats painkillers like you wouldn't believe. If the directions say to take two, she takes four. She buys every kind she can get without a prescription. I've tried to tell her this is dangerous, but she won't listen to me. She reads your column faithfully and thinks you know everything, so maybe you can straighten her out.

I'm not exaggerating, and I'm not a child. I'm a 30-year-old married woman who loves her mother and is worried sick about her.

On national level... Dr. Bryan Cave joins child care campaign

Dr. Bryan Cave recently announced that he is taking part in the "The ABCs of Eyecare," a national campaign to stress the importance of annual eye examinations for children.

The ABCs campaign — for annual back-to-school checkups — is aimed at informing Americans that an annual eye exam performed as part of the back-to-school routine can contribute to a child's health and well-being.

"This may be the most important examination your child receives at this time of year," Dr. Cave said. "Good vision is essential for a child's healthy development."

The back-to-school campaign, coordinated by the Better Vision Institute (BVI), a non-profit organization based in the Washington, D.C., area, also will benefit Reading Is Fundamental (RIF), America's largest literacy organization.

The BVI will make contributions to RIF based on the number of visits that children from kindergarten through second grade make to a local eyecare professional's office during the back-to-school season. Contributions will be made for every child who is examined by an optometrist or who has a prescription filled by an optician.

Founded in 1966, RIF is working for a literate America by encouraging young people to read. The organization has put more than 100 million books in the hands of American children and boasts more than 96,000 volunteers.

Writer fancies America's great plains

NEW YORK (AP) — Ian Frazier is a young man who not only went West — he stayed there for nearly three years.

Weary of New York's high costs — "I got tired of sweating the rent" — Frazier, now 39, climbed into his van and drove to the Big Sky country, eventually setting down in a small town in Montana where he rented a two-story house "with a beautiful view for $225 a month, compared to the $700 I was laying out in New York."

From there he would cruise out into the Great Plains states, looking for the material he would eventually include in his entertaining and educational book, "Great Plains" (Penguin).

His van was equipped with bed and writing table, so that when Frazier set out on his long, searching drives he could be gone for weeks at a time.

"I'd sleep in the van for three or four nights and then I'd get a room because I'd be pretty grungy by then and I had to wash," he recalls with a laugh. "I always ate in restaurants. The longest I'd go out would be about 17 days and then my concentration would lag, so I'd go back to the house and work on the book."

For many people, the Plains are an area you fly over while going to California, but to Frazier, they are "the perfect place for fantasies. They're so big that you could never know all there is to know about them — your fantasies could never wear them out. Even the plural in their name seems to make them extend further into a distant romantic haze."

From 1982 into 1985, Frazier, a staff writer for The New Yorker magazine, estimates he drove about 25,000 miles as he crossed and recrossed the Plains states.

"The Great Plains are about 2,500 miles long and about 600 miles across at their widest point. The area they cover roughly parallels the Rocky Mountains, which make their western boundary. Although they extend from the Southwestern United States well into Canada, no single state or province lies entirely within them. The states of the Great Plains are: Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas."

Frazier says: "I'd leave town and make a big loop, going all over the place. I took it as it came. I set up no interviews. However, there were certain places I made a point of going to, like Crazy Horse's birthplace ('Probably at the foot of Bear Butte, near where Sturgis, S.D., is now.') and Lawrence Welk's hometown (Strasburg, N.D.)."

Another site he sought out was Mondak. Now mostly ruined and gone, it was once a most popular place. The reason: drink.

Explains Frazier: "In 1889, North Dakota went dry, so several men founded Mondak. It straddled the Montana-North Dakota state line, and the half of the town in Montana (which was wet) had nine saloons."

"A railroad line ran through the town and it's said more people were hit by trains in Mondak than anywhere else along the line. It's also said a spark from one of those trains set a building on fire and the whole town burned down. Now, other than a couple of rows of concrete cells which used to be part of its jail, there's nothing there. It's not a ghost town, it's a ghost site."

"There's lots of ghost sites on the Plains. Often, you'll be driving along and you'll see a big historical marker with all sorts of detailed information about a town that used to be there. So, you look at the area indicated and there's nothing there — just a grain field."

"Today, most travellers who see the Plains do it from 30,000 feet. A person who wanted to go from New York to California overland in 1849, with the Gold Rush, could take a passenger ship to Baltimore, the B & O Railroad to Cumberland, Md., a stagecoach over the Allegheny mountains to the Monongahela River, a steamboat to Pittsburgh, another steamboat down the Ohio to the Mississippi to St. Louis, another from St. Louis up the Missouri to Independence or St. Joseph or Council Bluffs, and an ox-drawn wagon west from there.

"If you left the East in early April, you might be on the Plains by mid-May, and across by the Fourth of July. Today, if you leave Kennedy Airport in a 747 for Los Angeles just after breakfast, you will be over the Plains by lunch."

North's jump to three hearts was just a limit raise, showing 10-12 in support points for the one-heart opening, and South could have passed with a dead minimum opening. But South had more than enough to bid on. Unfortunately South did not play the hand as well as he bid it, succumbing to "finesse mania."

On the opening lead, declarer put in dummy's queen of spades. Perhaps the king was with West, in which case it would be easy to make an overtrick by forcing out the king and ace of diamonds. That way the queen of diamonds in dummy could be used as a parking place for the losing club. Even when the spade queen lost to East's king, the contract was safe, provided East returned a spade. But East, who was uncooperative, led the club jack to the second trick. Declarer won, drew trumps and played a diamond. West won the king and continued with a club. So declarer's losers were a spade, two diamonds and a club.

The contract will succeed if declarer looks for a guarantee. With a little foresight he should realize that a losing spade finesse can lead to disaster. So declarer should win trick one with dummy's spade ace, draw the trumps as before and then play on diamonds. The tempo is thus preserved so that South cannot be prevented from taking 10 tricks.

Rangers swap DH Baines to Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Athletics expect Harold Baines to find his new surroundings to his liking. "He's an outstanding competitor. The more he feels the pressure the better he plays and the better he hits," Oakland manager Tony La Russa said. "And pressure follows this club around."

La Russa managed Baines for two seasons in the minor leagues — at Knoxville in 1978 and Iowa in 1979 — and for six with the Chicago White Sox. The two were reunited Wednesday when the A's acquired the four-time All-Star from the Texas Rangers for two players to be named later. Baines, 31, was batting .290 with 13 home runs and 44 RBIs in 103 games for Texas. He started 95 games at designated hitter and two in the outfield this season.

Adding another offensive threat became necessary after Oakland center fielder Dave Henderson was injured last week and underwent arthroscopic knee surgery. He may not be able to play again this season.

"We felt we were covered in center field, that we didn't need to add defense if we added offense somewhere else," said Sandy Alderson, Oakland's vice president of baseball operations. "Harold Baines is the perfect solution to our problems."

"... We think and hope that Dave will be back the last week of the season, but we're planning for the worst-case scenario, which is that he will not be available."

Alderson estimated he had been talking with Texas, as well as several other teams, for at least a month.

Post-season rosters must be set by Aug. 31. The Athletics, who won the World Series last year and two straight pennants, had been searching for an extra left-handed bat. Mel Hall of the New York Yankees and Kirk Gibson of the Los Angeles Dodgers were among those under consideration.

Alderson said the two players the A's gave up were not on the team's 25-man major league roster. In order to make room for Baines on their roster, the A's optioned outfielder Dann Howitt to their AAA affiliate in Tacoma.

"To tell you the truth, I'm surprised," Baines said.

Asked if he was disappointed about being traded for the second time in two seasons, Baines said, "No. I'm going to a good team with a good manager."

NFL roundup...

Contract holdouts digging in by The Associated Press After a flurry of signings earlier in the week, some remaining NFL holdouts could be digging in for a long haul.

Hopes that the most prominent holdout, New York Giants linebacker Lawrence Taylor, would be joining the team soon were dashed Wednesday. General Manager George Young again had discussions with Joe Courrage, Taylor's agent, but the two sides failed to reach a contract agreement.

Young said the parties would meet again today. Taylor is seeking to renegotiate his contract and wants to earn $2 million this year.

Also holding out for the Giants is starting defensive end Leonard Marshall.

Meanwhile, Seattle Seahawks president Tom Flores is narrowing the gap in negotiations with first-round draft pick Cortez Kennedy, but can't say when agreement will come.

Kennedy, a defensive tackle, is the highest selection among the four unsigned first-round picks. He was the third player taken.

"We're trying to get at least on the same ledge so we could maybe duke it out over the last dollar or two," Flores said.

The other unsigned first-rounders are No. 8 Chris Singleton of New England, No. 17 Emmitt Smith of Dallas and No. 21 Eric Green of Pittsburgh. Smith has re-enrolled as a student at the University of Florida.

Elsewhere on the holdout front, Los Angeles Rams linebacker Kevin Greene said his agent, Marvin Demhoff, met with the team Tuesday and Wednesday. It was not known how much progress was made.

At Pontiac, Mich., Lions nose tackle Jerry Ball blasted the team's management for its unwillingness to renegotiate his contract.

Ball, who has missed all of training camp, made his first Pro Bowl appearance last season and wants to be paid on a par with NFL's elite nose tackles.

"They don't pay us market value here," Ball said.

Chuck Schmidt, the Lions' chief operating officer, said the club will talk to Ball later in the season, but only after he reports. Until then, Schmidt won't talk money with Ball.

Redskins Still on the field for Washington is Mark Rypien, but his agent said the quarterback plans to play out his option because of a breakdown in contract talks.

Rodeo club to hold event

The Western Texas College Rodeo Club will sponsor an AJRA and open junior rodeo Sept. 1-2 at the County Rodeo Arena on West 30th St.

Admission to the event is $5 for adults and $2 for students of all ages. Pre-school children will get in free when accompanied by an adult.

Events in the rodeo include barrel racing, pole bending, breakaway roping, goat tying, steer and bull riding, tiedown roping, ribbon roping, team roping and steer wrestling.

AJRA members must pay their 1991 dues.

Information on when contestants will perform is available by calling 573-4393.

Ranger ace hints at returning next year

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Nolan Ryan has dropped a rather large hint that he plans to return to the Texas Rangers for another season, but the final decision will be up to the Rangers although it shouldn't be a tough decision for them.

The hint came Tuesday night after Ryan allowed only three singles while losing 2-0 to the California Angels.

Ryan was asked if it was his last game at Anaheim Stadium, where he played for eight seasons with the Angels.

"I certainly didn't think the last game I pitched in (a Houston) Astros uniform was going to be the last, but it worked out that way," Ryan told The Dallas Morning News. "I've learned you never know in this game, but I do hope I get another chance here."

Since the Rangers won't return to Anaheim again this season, Ryan would have to wait until the 1991 season.

The final decision on whether Ryan returns rests with the Rangers since they have an option on his services for next season at a salary of $3.3 million. He is earning only $1.4 million this season.

"I try not to get excited about what somebody else has to do," manager Bobby Valentine said. "But if he finishes strong, I'm pretty sure he'll come back. I don't have any concerns about that."

The Rangers have made it clear that they want the 43-year-old hurler to return. He is second on the team in victories with 12 and has held opponents to a league-low .198 average.

Plus there is the fan appeal. The Rangers are likely to draw two million at home for the second consecutive season. In the franchise's previous 16 seasons, all without Ryan, the Rangers never drew more than 1.76 million.

Ryan has been bothered with back problems this season, but he has pitched a no-hitter and reached his milestone 300th victory on July 31.

"I would still like to pitch in another World Series," said Ryan, who appeared with the New York Mets in the 1969 series. "That's always been a goal of mine. I think with our ballclub we're not too far from being in that type of situation."

"Some of the factors that come into play each year are how I'm holding up physically, my performance, the ballclub's attitude and my family situation, whether everybody's still enjoying it," Ryan said. "You also have to have the desire to play. I can honestly say to this point I've never had a problem with that."

Navratilova advances

Lendl claims Open win over Michael Stich

NEW YORK (AP) — Winning might not be everything, but it gets more precious with age.

"When you are 17 or 18, you figure you have 20 more U.S. Opens to go," Martina Navratilova said. "I don't have that many to go. Every one could be my last one, so it is precious."

The 33-year-old Navratilova, who captured a record ninth Wimbledon crown earlier this year, took another step toward her fifth U.S. Open singles title Wednesday when she breezed past Britain's Clare Wood.

Also thriving on the hard courts of the National Tennis Center is Ivan Lendl, who at the age of 30 is going after his fourth U.S. Open championship. Lendl advanced to the third round by downing West Germany's Michael Stich.

Today, the pretenders to the throne are much younger. Then there's the defending men's champion, Boris Becker, who battled Yannick Noah in his bid to keep pace with Lendl.

Michael Chang, who at 18 has one Grand Slam title, the 1989 French Open, played Jimmy Arias. In women's singles, 16-year-old Monica Seles, the No. 3 seed, took on Ros Fairbank-Nideffer in a match that was postponed by rain from Wednesday night, and No. 13 Jennifer Capriati, who at 14 is the youngest competitor in this year's Open, met Canada's Patricia Hy.

Tonight, the women's defending champion, Steffi Graf, plays Rachel McQuillan of Australia. "I play my own game," Lendl said after downing Stich 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3.

Lendl has won eight Grand Slam titles, including the Australian Open for the second time earlier this year.

John McEnroe also was victorious on Wednesday, defeating David Engel 6-2, 6-3, 7-5. But, unlike Lendl and Navratilova, McEnroe doesn't give himself much chance to win this year.

"It's a real long shot for this particular tournament," McEnroe said. "It's very difficult to win majors."

Two men's seeds weren't as fortunate. Luiz Mattar of Brazil eliminated fifth-seeded Andres Gomez, the French Open champion 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, and Paul Anacone ousted No. 16 Martin Jaite of Argentina 7-6 (7-5), 6-2, 6-2. Also falling was Natalia Zvereva, the women's 15th seed, to fellow Soviet Lelia Meskhi 6-4, 6-0.

"I wasn't really prepared for it at all," Gomez said of the Open. "You might come to the match poorly prepared as I was or have a great preparation like (Stefan) Edberg had."

Edberg, the reigning Wimbledon champion and No. 1 seed at the Open, also was upset in a first-round match.

Bengals

Two days after being traded to Cincinnati by the New York Jets, wide receiver Reggie Rember signed with the Bengals on Wednesday.

Colts

Eric Dickerson will miss at least the first six games of the NFL season after being placed on the non-football-related injury list.

General manager Jim Irsay also suspended the running back for four weeks of that period and fined him an additional week's pay. The fines come to nearly $600,000 — seven weeks' pay based on his $1.45 million salary.

Irsay said the penalties were for conduct detrimental to the team, which would include again refusing to take the team's required physical exam.

Cardinals

Phoenix traded tight end Rob Awalt, expected to be a starter, to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft pick.

SSA meeting is scheduled

Snyder Soccer Association's fall season kick-off meeting is scheduled for today at 7:30 p.m. in the West Elementary School cafeteria.

Coaches and parents are urged to attend the gathering. The upcoming fall season and the group's Sept. 10-25 fundraiser will be among discussion topics.

An under-14 coach is still being sought by SSA. Enough players in the age group have signed up to form a second team but only one coach has committed.

Interested coaches should call Tom Gonzalez at 573-8592 or 573-3290.

Mosbacher, Bullock tangle over budgets

AUSTIN (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock, defending purchases made by his agency, says his Republican opponent for lieutenant governor ought to pay more attention to his own department's budget.

GOP hopeful Rob Mosbacher, who chairs the Department of Human Services Board, on Wednesday accused Democrat Bullock of spending $137,000 on items "ranging from the strange to the opulent."

The list included $84 brass ashtrays, a $749 automatic icemaker, $3,991 worth of bronze lamps, 10 sets of stereo headphones for $491, and a $165 magnet shaped like a dollar sign and reading "Comptroller's Suggestions," Mosbacher said.

"There is simply a clear pattern of abuse of taxpayers' dollars for the personal convenience and comfort of Bob Bullock and his staff," Mosbacher charged.

Bullock said the purchases were legitimate and criticized Mosbacher for his direction of the fiscally troubled human services agency.

"If Rob Mosbacher spent half as much time studying his budget at DHS as he has on the comptroller's old records, he would have known about the $1 million in bonuses paid the DHS employees while the agency had an $800 million deficit," said John Bender, a Bullock spokesman.

Bender said the items purchased were for the use of comptroller staff, who collect state taxes.

"We're not going to debate these things with a state agency head who said (Tuesday) he doesn't have to defend his mismanagement and inefficiency because he has never claimed his office is well-managed," Bender said.

Mosbacher said his review of the comptroller's budget records had turned up "extravagant spending."

His examples included three $3,495 mobile telephones; 61 coffee makers totaling $8,219; a $429 portable oxygen system; a $1,303 riding lawn mower; 697 computer and calculator carrying cases costing $36,287, and three $89 portable electronic spellers purchased from The Sharper Image.

"Enough is enough," Mosbacher said.

Bullock's spokesman said the state would be better off if Mosbacher spent more time minding his own department's business. "If he spent half as much time on DHS child protective services, this state might be a safer place for our children," Bender said.

In other political news: — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards proposed a stepped up effort to preserve rural hospitals and health care.

"It's time Texas had a governor who thinks the problems of rural Texans are just as important as those of city folks. We need a governor who will fight for rural health care in Washington," she said.

— Democratic state treasurer hopeful Nikki Van Hightower renewed her criticism of GOP candidate Kay Bailey Hutchison, saying she should make public her income tax returns. "My opponent's refusal to release her tax returns raises one basic question. What is she trying to hide?"

Van Hightower asked.

Hutchison's campaign manager, Gary Bruner, said she has released her 1988 tax returns and soon will make public her 1989 return. "Nikki Van Hightower's latest exercise in whining, unsubstantiated charges and rhetorical questions about tax returns and ethics should go only one place — in the ash can," he said.

Pardoned man dies in shootout

MIDWEST CITY, Okla. (AP) — A man once pardoned in Texas for an armored car robbery has died of gunshot wounds he suffered in a shootout last month with police in Oklahoma.

Martin Kimsey, 50, of Waco, died of gunshot wounds at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday, said Jeaneen Pointer, Midwest City Regional Hospital spokeswoman.

He had been taken off a respirator on Sunday, said Maj. Brandon Clabes of the Midwest City Police Department. Kimsey was shot in the chest July 31.

"At this time, the medical examiner's office has been notified and the case is closed," Clabes said today.

Kimsey was serving a life sentence for a 1985 Garland armored car robbery when he was pardoned in May by Texas Gov. Bill Clements, after another man came forward and admitted the robbery.

Kimsey was charged July 17 with a holdup of an Austin grocery store and was free on $30,000 bail when he went to Midwest City, a suburb of Oklahoma City. There, a woman flagged down a police officer and told him Kimsey was an armed, escaped convict, Clabes said.

Police tried to stop Kimsey as he drove from an auto window tinting shop where he worked. During the chase, Kimsey wrecked his car and fled on foot through a residential neighborhood, Clabes said.

Several shots were exchanged and Kimsey was hit in the chest, Clabes said. He suffered brain damage following two heart attacks during surgery to remove the bullet.

"We presented charges ... of three counts of shooting with intent to kill to the district attorney's office, but he declined them because of (Kimsey's) physical condition," Clabes said.

Dallas County Assistant District Attorney Norm Kinne defended Kimsey's pardon, but warned he would not be out of prison long.

—U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, heading for talks in Jordan with Iraq's foreign minister, said today he seeks to apply Security Council resolutions — not to negotiate what has been decided. The main resolution calls for Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait.

"It is not my job, and I want to be very clear about it, to negotiate the resolutions," he said during a stopover in Paris.

Perez de Cuellar said he will meet with Tariq Aziz on Friday morning, according to U.N. officials in New York.

—The Arab League was meeting in Cairo today to hear a report on whether any progress had been made in implementing its earlier resolutions on the invasion, including a call for an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait.

—Turkey said today that it had rejected an Iraqi request to resume food shipments for needy Iraqi children, saying it will adhere to the U.N.-ordered embargo on trade with Baghdad.

—A U.S. diplomatic source confirmed reports that resistance fighters in Kuwait are receiving American logistical support.

—In New York, 36 expelled Iraqi diplomats and their families left early today on a plane for Jordan. Washington ordered them out in reaction to a series of Iraqi moves against the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait and its staff.

—Two Westerners made it to safety in Jordan today, one an American of Indian origin and a 17-year-old British girl of Arab extraction. They were among 185 evacuees who flew into Jordan aboard the daily Iraqi Airways flight.

WTC has space in 3 classes

Space is still available in bookkeeping, typing and Word Processing 237 classes at Western Texas College.

Students in the bookkeeping course (BUS 235) will learn to set up their personal books or books for a small business. They will do some work on the computer. There are no prerequisites for this course since it is a beginning course, Joann Snider, instructor, emphasizes. Classes meet from 6:30-9:20 on Tuesday nights.

Mrs. Snider will also be teaching beginning typing (BUS 130). This course prepares students to use the typewriter and computer keyboards. Classes meet from 9-9:50 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Lab time is arranged at the convenience of the student.

Students get hands-on experience with WordPerfect 5.1 and Lotus 1-2-3 in WP 237. WordPerfect 5.1 and Lotus are currently the best selling word processing and spreadsheet software in the nation. Lab time for this course is also arranged at the convenience of the student.

Late registration for fall classes at WTC will continue through Friday, Sept. 7. Students are urged to enroll as quickly as possible, however, to begin work with their classes. Information about Mrs. Snider's classes can be obtained by contacting her on campus or at her home.

Iraqi leader 'must be taken out'

DALLAS (AP) — The former chief of Israeli military intelligence says the Arab states' only hope of survival is for Iraq's Saddam Hussein to be eliminated, preferably by the Iraqis themselves.

"For the survival of all the Arab states, Saddam Hussein has to be destroyed ... Someone has to find him in his bunker and kill him," Maj. Gen. Shlomo Gazit said Wednesday.

"If Saddam Hussein is not destroyed, he definitely will continue with his nuclear armament goal," he said.

But Arab or U.S. forces would not do it, Gazit said told an international B'Nai B'rith convention here.

"It has to be done only by the Iraqis themselves, and I'm not sure they are ripe enough, mature enough to do it," he said.

Gazit said a major Israeli concern is the possibility that Saddam could turn the Arab-Iraq conflict into an Arab-Israeli conflict. Another concern is the survival of Jordan.

"If this conflict is not resolved quickly, this could mean the end of King Hussein's reign in Jordan," said Gazit.

Middle East political expert Barry Rubin, who also discussed Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and the prospects for war, said Saddam might agree to pull out of Kuwait for money or other considerations and grow even stronger.

"That's the greatest potential of an Israeli rift with the United States," said Rubin.

He called the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait "a totally traumatic situation for the Arab states."

"Three major rules were broken," said Rubin, who is part of a think tank for Mideast policy matters in Washington.

"No. 1, Arab states don't invade and take over other Arab states. This is the first time in modern Arab history that that's occurred.

"No. 2, Arab states are not supposed to call in non-Arab forces to protect themselves, but faced with this threat, Saudi Arabia called in the United States.

"And No. 3, no matter how serious the violation, Arab states are not to join in sanctions against another Arab state. That, too, has happened," he said.

Rubin said that Aug. 2, 1990, will be remembered as "the day that turned the Arab world absolutely upside down."

'Methodical maniac' sought in Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Investigators say the serial killer stalking Gainesville college students is a shrewd, "methodical maniac" with a talent for slipping inside windows or doors and a sick grudge against slim brunettes.

An army of investigators, including an FBI expert who worked on the Ted Bundy, Charles Manson and "Son of Sam" cases, has descended on this terrified college town in the hunt for the killer of four young women and a man.

The victims — students at either the University of Florida or Santa Fe Community College — were stabbed to death in off-campus apartments in three attacks discovered since Sunday. Police said three of the women were mutilated.

Police Chief Wayland Clifton said Wednesday the killer apparently tracked certain types of women and entered their apartments through unlocked doors or windows or by forcing sliding-glass doors.

"There is a similarity in physical appearance in the four female victims as far as hair color, eye color and general physical build," Clifton said.

But he warned that the killer could strike at other types or find other ways of gaining entry. "He can change his method of operations as he desires," he said. "We've gotten a rather shrewd individual on our hands."

"We do feel we have someone who is methodical about the way he handles things," Clifton said. "We believe the suspect had prior knowledge of the occupants of a dwelling."

Police have refused to say whether any of the victims were sexually assaulted.

The chief said police believed the killer was still in the area and that there was enough evidence to track him down. "Each passing hour, we feel much more confident that we will be able to bring this case to a successful closure," he said.

AF reservists to continue mission

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — As families mourned loved ones killed in a military plane crash, officials promised reservists at Kelly Air Force Base would press on with their volunteer missions to the Middle East.

"This is a terrible, stunning tragedy for all of us," Maj. Meade Warthen, spokesman for the 433rd Military Airlift Wing, said Wednesday. "We are in a state of shock, although not to the point where we're not functioning. We're carrying on the operation."

Nine reservists with the 433rd were among 13 killed when a C-5 cargo plane crashed Tuesday at Ramstein Air Base in West Germany. Ten of the 17 people aboard were from the 433rd, which is based at Kelly.

The huge aircraft was transporting food rations, medical supplies and other cargo as part of Operation Desert Shield.

"I just had a bad feeling," said Veronica Sheffield, 27, recalling hearing about the accident Tuesday night on television news. She later learned her husband, Staff Sgt. Edward E. Sheffield, 28, perished in the fiery crash.

"He was an easy-going, good guy," Mrs. Sheffield said. "I'm sorry he had to go like this. I was hoping we would have a long time together, but..."

The couple, who lived in San Antonio, have a 2-year-old daughter, Valerie. "She doesn't understand it," Mrs. Sheffield said.

Sheffield, a loadmaster on the mission, was making his first trip to the Middle East as part of Operation Desert Shield, relatives said.

Fund-raising tactic angers Democrat

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican Party campaigners say there's nothing wrong with a new fund-raising tactic that involves sending $25 checks to potential donors.

By endorsing and depositing the check, recipients are authorizing Republican fundraisers to draft $12.50 a month from their bank accounts. The $25 check is a two-month trial period incentive.

But some Democrats, including Norma Fink of Gonzales, don't like it.

"Why are they loaning me $25 just to get it back? I think it's a scam," Ms. Fink told the Austin American-Statesman.

Clean up tax on oil firms proposed

AUSTIN (AP) — Two major oil spills offshore from Texas should prompt a bipartisan effort to quicken the response time for cleanup operations, a state senator said.

"We have no policy in Texas for anything. We go from crisis to crisis ... and we can't mobilize support until we have a crisis," Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said Wednesday.

Parker and state Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, unveiled legislation to impose a 2-cent per barrel tax on oil shipped to the Texas coast and to place the state General Land Office in charge of cleaning up oil spills.

The lawmakers said their proposal is in response to the June 8 explosion of the Norwegian tanker Mega Borg and the July 28 collision between the Greek tanker Shinoussa and two barges.

Police make arrest; work prowler calls

One arrest was made by Snyder police Wednesday.

At 3:30 p.m., police responded to a call of one woman assaulting another woman. A 25-year-old subject was cited for disorderly conduct and arrested at 5:25 p.m. at 1204 20th for outstanding DPS warrants out of Abilene for a seat belt violation and failure to appear.

At 2:49 p.m., police received a

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have been diagnosed with asthma and suffer side effects from steroids. Is there any medication on the market for treatment other than steroids?

DEAR READER: Indeed, there is. As a matter of fact, steroids (such as cortisone) should be reserved for severe cases that do not respond to non-steroid treatment.

Asthma therapy was revolutionized by the introduction of aerosol bronchodilators, drugs that relax bronchial passages when inhaled in mist form. Primatene Mist is available over-the-counter for this purpose. Alupent (metaproterenol) and Proventil (albuterol) are two of the most popular prescription aerosols.

In addition, bronchodilators are available in pills and liquid. The oral bronchodilators are used primarily to prevent asthmatic attacks, while the sprays help relieve an attack in progress.

You may be interested to learn that prescription steroids are also available in aerosols. Vanceril is such a product. Inhaled steroids are largely devoid of the side effects caused by cortisone pills (diabetes, bone softening and cataracts). Thus, they are useful in preventing attacks.

Ask your doctor about some of the products I've mentioned. They may enable you to discontinue cortisone — or substantially reduce your need for it. Many anti-asthma drugs can be used in combinations. If your doctor is not familiar with these medicines, ask for a referral to a pulmonary specialist who can develop a program of treatment that will relieve the symptoms of this common affliction.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently read an article in a California newspaper regarding a "secret antigen formula" from the famous Romanian Rejuvenation Clinic. It referred to MAO, monoamine oxidase and its beneficial effect for people over 35. Gero Vita GH3 is available for $39.95, a single month's supply, up to $149.95 for six months. Is this safe to try, and is continued use necessary? I'm concerned this may be a scam, yet I am interested just the same.

DEAR READER: Forget it. The Romanians have enough trouble simply developing a modern economic system; they're hardly in a position right now to come up with any medical breakthroughs, especially an anti-aging compound. This smells like a scam.

In addition, monoamine oxidase (a naturally occurring enzyme that affects the metabolism of brain chemicals, such as norepinephrine and serotonin), is not a newly discovered substance. MAO inhibitors, such as Eutonyl and Parnate, are marketed in the United States as treatment for hypertension and depression. To my knowledge, MAO itself has no role in treating disease or in improving health. Don't use it.

Oil prices drive up farm costs

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Some Texas farmers will be forced to abandon their harvest and cut back planting for next year due to increasing oil prices spawned by Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, agriculture officials said.

"It does not look good," said Al Croix, a farmer and agriculture extension agent in Denton. "The farmers who suffered through heavy flooding or severe drought and are borderline whether to harvest will likely abandoned their crops because of the rise in oil prices."

"It simply would not be economical to harvest," Croix said. A preliminary study he conducted on wheat planting reveals farmers will lose significant profit growing wheat for next year. Winter wheat planting begins in North Texas in about a month, Croix said.

"A person in North Texas averaging 40 bushels of wheat an acre will lose $23 dollars an acre largely because of oil costs," Croix said. "If new policies permit farmers to plant less wheat I think that is what you will see."

Croix said bushels will sell for $3.30, which pales next to this year's $3.60.

After Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2, diesel prices climbed from around 70 cents a gallon to about $1.15.

Farmers will feel the pinch as they begin pouring the fuel into their tractors and combines to harvest cotton, corn, sugar beets, pinto beans and peanuts within the next two weeks.

"Diesel prices have already gone up 40 to 50 cents per gallon and we are not even in a fighting situation over there," Carl King, a farmer and president of the Texas Corn Growers Association in Dimmitt, said Wednesday.

"This has been the most expensive year I have ever seen in agriculture and right now the outlook doesn't look so good. If we get into a war over there, prices will shoot up even higher."

Don Ethridge, an agricultural economics professor at Texas Tech, said Wednesday there is no end in sight.

"We could see general farming production costs increase as much as five percent, which is a pretty hefty increase," Ethridge said. "If oil prices stay up where they are, it can only get worse for farmers."

Farmers in South Texas and the Coastal Bend completed much of their corn and grain sorghum harvest before the impact of the increased energy prices could be felt, said Noble Kearney, agriculture extension agronomist in Uvalde.

"Many of the farmers have oil stored on their farms," Kearney said. "So the cotton harvest, which is just getting under way in South Texas, should also escape the crunch."

Fuel intensive tractors and combines used for harvesting are only part of the problem, said Don Johnson, executive vice president of the Plains Cotton Growers. He said increases will also be felt in cotton gin processing and transportation.

"That's where the brunt of the costs will come," Johnson said. "Right now it is difficult to tell how much. But it will be a significant increase."

Bill Plapp, a toxicology professor at Texas A&M, said the prices of petroleum-based pesticides will likely also increase.

"Most of the pesticides and herbicides used in agriculture today are based in petroleum products," Plapp said. "The cost of fertilizers will probably also increase because oil is the energy source for isolating fertilizers."

All agree that a speedy resolution to the Middle East crisis is the only way to avoid prolonged increases in production costs.

"If prices stay up where they are, we could see a ten percent increase in production costs for farmers next year," said Ethridge. "Ultimately the consumer will pay for it."

Rape suspect has accepted plea bargain

DALLAS (AP) — A Hutchins man who pleaded guilty to a schoolgirl's rape has been given 10 years' probation by a judge who at one point threatened to jail him for hesitating in his plea.

Prosecutors presented the plea offer Wednesday morning to Donald Ray Gray, who considered his decision for nearly three hours while several dozen prospective jurors waited outside state District Judge Tom Price's courtroom.

After an agreement was made and Price prepared to approve the deal, Gray hesitated and declined to sign the paperwork that would have formally entered his guilty plea.

An angry Price then threatened to throw Gray in jail. Gray pleaded guilty to the charge of aggravated sexual assault about 20 minutes later.

Five girls last month testified that Gray abducted or tried to abduct them as they walked to school in Dallas' South Oak Cliff section.

"Basically, it boiled down to putting those little girls back through a trial," said Assistant District Attorney Jerri Sims.

The girls' testimony came in a trial before state District Judge Larry Baraka, who acquitted Gray in the case before him but urged prosecution of other cases.

Baraka had acquitted Gray in the Oct. 11, 1988, rape of a fourth-grader.

Stevie Ray Vaughan vigil planned

DALLAS (AP) — A candlelight service has been planned tonight in the hometown of blues guitarist Stevie Ray Vaughan, who was killed in a Wisconsin helicopter crash along with four others.

Investigators have yet to determine what caused the helicopter to crash early Monday.

Vaughan performed Sunday night at the Alpine Valley Music Theatre near East Troy with fellow guitarists Eric Clapton and Robert Cray before boarding the helicopter early Monday.

The chopper slammed into the ski hill shortly after takeoff as three other helicopters, carrying Clapton and other members of the concert entourage, flew safely to Midway Airport in Chicago.

Vaughan, a two-time Grammy winner, grew up in Dallas and gained much notoriety with his guitar-driven rocking blues after playing before crowds in Austin.

British rocker Clapton, who issued a statement after the crash mourning those who were killed, made no mention of Vaughan or the others when he performed Tuesday night at Bonner Springs, Kan. He refused all interviews and closed the backstage area to reporters and camera crews.

Vigils were held earlier in the week in Austin and San Antonio. Tonight's is planned in Kiest Park beginning at dusk.

Vaughan's publicist said there will be a private family funeral service with public graveside committal at noon Friday at Laurel Land Funeral Home in Dallas.

The family asked that donations go to the Stevie Ray Vaughan charitable fund of the Communities Foundation of Texas in Dallas. The fund, set up after his death, will be used for drug abuse programs, said Maggie Eckert of the Communities Foundation.

Vaughan is survived by his mother, Martha, and brother Jimmie Vaughan.

The others killed were members of Clapton's entourage: agent Bobby Brooks of Los Angeles, bodyguard Nigel Browne and tour manager Colin Smythe, both of London, and pilot Jeffrey W. Brown, 42, of East Chicago, Ind.

Waco Klan group can send publications to inmates

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Department of Criminal Justice has granted a Texas Ku Klux Klan group permission to mail such publications as "Negro Watch," "Jew Watch" and "Knighly News" to prison inmates.

The decision will allow mailings of Klan literature to subscribers among the prison systems more than 13,500 white inmates and will help the organization recruit members, Klan officials said Wednesday.

Civil rights groups, who said the publications would only fuel prison violence, immediately criticized the decision.

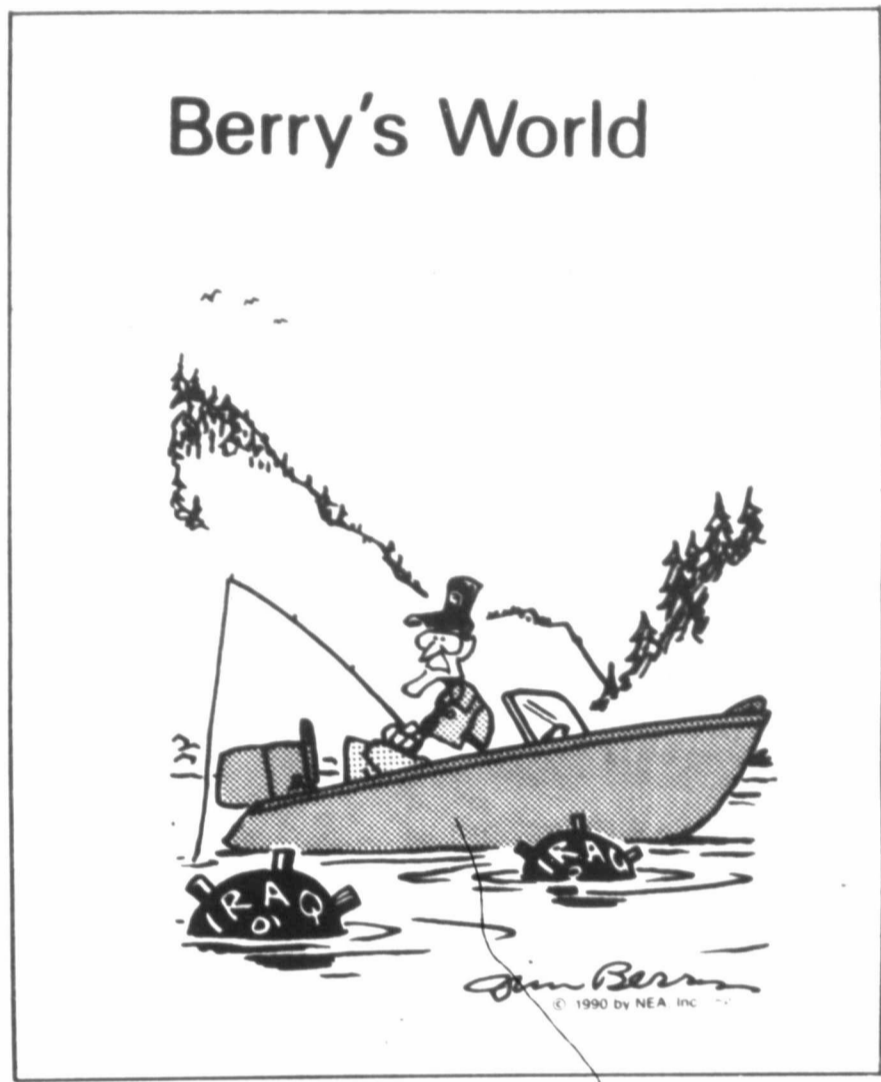

Loren Finkelstein, director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith's southwest regional office in Houston, said he was "concerned and disturbed" by the prison approval to mail Texas KKK materials to inmates.

"Racists, whether white or black, see the prisons as fertile soil for selling their hate," Finkelstein said. "The prisons are hotbeds of racial unrest. These publications must make a bad situation worse."

But prison officials said all periodicals sent inmates are subject to review on an issue-by-issue basis.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed an application with the Texas Public Utility Commission to introduce new optional services — Call Control Options. The initial service areas will be Laredo, McAllen and Austin. Expansion into other service areas will be based on availability. Customers in other areas will be notified when these services become available.

Call Control Options include six new services — Call Blocker, Call Cue, Call Return, Priority Call, Call Trace and Selective Call Forwarding. The features will be available to single-line residence and business customers.

Call Blocker — enables the customer to block incoming calls from a maximum of three specified telephone numbers and/or to block the last incoming call.

Call Cue — enables the customer to automatically redial the last outgoing telephone number dialed. If the recalled number is busy, equipment will monitor the line for a maximum of 30 minutes and will let the customer know when the call can go through.

Call Return — enables the customer to automatically redial the telephone number of the most recent incoming call. If the number is busy, Call Return will continue to dial the number for up to 30 minutes, or until it completes the call.

Priority Call — provides the customer with a distinctive alerting signal, ring or Call Waiting Tone (if the customer has subscribed to Call Waiting), when the customer is called from a maximum of three preselected telephone numbers.

Call Trace — enables the customer to initiate a trace of the last incoming call received. The number, date and time will be recorded by Southwestern Bell Telephone so that the call's origin can be identified.

Selective Call Forwarding — enables the customer to forward incoming calls from specified telephone numbers (maximum of three) to another telephone number.

Your Birthday

Aug. 31, 1990

Before moving onto any new endeavors in the year ahead, make sure the ones in which you are presently involved have nothing left to offer. I think you'll be pleasantly surprised.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others will find you compatible and easy to get along with today, but you can also be serious and dedicated if situations warrant it. Your managerial skills function well at all levels. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is a rather unusual day and you should be able to find appropriate openings to conclude several matters that are of importance to you. Each will be related.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) People with whom you'll have dealings today will innately sense you are not one who makes idle promises. Your intentions to deliver will be focused on your commitments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your financial prospects look rather promising today. It's possible you may receive gains through your own efforts or through an arrangement set up by someone else.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Taking situations at face value is not likely to be one of your frail points today. In fact, you're apt to be more interested in what is behind the facade than what's in front of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're in a good achievement cycle today, but you might not get what you go after on the first try. If you fall short of your mark, it's merely a signal to regroup and try again.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A bright idea might flash through your mind today as to how you can constructively revitalize a relationship that is presently devoid of vitality. Try it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your possibilities for achieving significant objectives are good today. You are easily motivated, especially if there is something of a material nature you can gain.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Present demands dictate you should be concerned with the immediate, but it is also wise at this time to project ahead a bit. Plan now for future action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not suffer in silence today if there is something you feel can be changed for the better. Make the adjustments yourself, instead of waiting for others to take the initiative.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's no use trying to sidestep difficult decisions today, because they won't be resolved by ignoring them. Look problems in the eye and take appropriate measures to remedy them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might have a few additional responsibilities to dispose of today, but they won't beyond your capabilities. Successful results will give a sense of pride.

Girl's death possible accident

DALLAS (AP) — Evidence that a 4-year-old girl may have accidentally drowned, instead of falling victim to a killer, was under review today by medical examiner's officers.

"There's no change yet," Bill Lene, chief field agent for the Dallas County medical examiner's office, said late Wednesday.

Tentative findings were that Sharie Chalmers was abducted, killed and placed in a swimming pool Monday. But homicide detectives on Tuesday asked medical examiner's officers to reconsider those findings.

"That was our initial finding at the time of the examination," said Lene.

He said his office has issued a pending death certificate, which he called a "not uncommon" situation.

"As the Dallas police continued their investigation, they came up with new information that we will have to review," Lene said. "They will look through these items and evaluate them for any reason to offer a different opinion."

Marks found on Sharie's face and neck may have come from attempts to revive the girl after she was pulled from the pool, Deputy Chief Ray Hawkins said. Pathologists interpreted the marks as signs of strangulation.

"We continue to investigate this case as though it were a confirmed murder," Hawkins, head of the department's violent crimes division said. "But there are very experienced detectives assigned to this case who have raised some questions whether this was a murder or an accidental drowning."

Sharie's mother found her body in the deep end of the apartment complex's swimming pool.

Texas hostages may lose paychecks

DALLAS (AP) — The families of four Texans stranded in Kuwait and Iraq may find themselves living without their loved ones' paychecks soon.

Houston drilling company OGE Inc. officials said Wednesday the company can't pay the hostages' families because OGE stopped receiving money from Kuwait Oil Co. after Iraq invaded Kuwait. OGE provided U.S. drilling crews for Kuwait Oil.

"Our contracts with these people ended by basis of ... an act of war, something beyond our control. Our contract with them ended the day of the invasion — Aug. 2," said OGE vice president Jay Simpson.

But family members in Texas said the employees were hired and paid as OGE workers and not as Kuwait Oil employees. At least one said she was angry that the company repeatedly has refused to tell her whether her husband's salary would be cut off.

"They don't have the guts to tell us," said Donnita Cole of Odessa, whose husband, John, is an OGE employee stranded in Kuwait. "They keep putting us off, but I feel the decision has already been made."

Simpson said the company is trying to find some means to help the workers, whose families were scheduled to receive a monthly paycheck on Sept. 1. He said the firm is trying to contact Kuwait Petroleum Co., the parent company of Kuwait Oil, but has not received any indication that money can be sent to the families of the stranded workers.

Kuwait Petroleum continues to do business from its new London base.

Simpson confirmed that OGE officials contacted the Texas Employment Commission last week to determine whether the stranded workers could qualify for unemployment.

"We're trying to gather all the information that we can to send to these families," he said.

Simpson conceded that the current position of the firm could present a public relations nightmare.

"We're very, very troubled by this, obviously. There is nothing that we can do," he said.
