We Haven't Stumped Our Toe

It's heartening to know through something as tangible as last week's ample ad paid for "personally" by the Mayor and the City Council, that this newspaper is meeting its responsibilities through its availability to the entire citizenship.

We were beginning to feel that the points we have had to make in carrying forward our steadfast belief in the dire need for an adequate surface water supply had gone unnoticed. We now know for sure that they have not escaped attention, which is well.

After having mentally digested the verbal vitamins offered by the Mayor and City Council, there is no offense intended—in fact we can't help but respect the doggedness of this group despite the mounting case that is being constructed in behalf of a cause they do not espouse—but we are more inclined than ever to believe we have not stumped our editorial toe in sizing up the water situation here in the columns of this newspaper on July 18.

We appreciate the enlightening set of statistics which was presented by this group of public servants with sharp comparisons, contrasts being drawn, between going the Miller Creek route or the Lake Stamford route for water. Unlike our beloved predecessor who carried a similar torch high and valiantly in behalf of a surface reservoir to serve four communities in dire need of water in our territory, we haven't been branded misinformed, nor have we even been branded uninformed—only colorful and exaggerated.

But this colorful and exaggerated writer has been through three water battles of major dimensions in as many different places, and there is one thing with which we feel we may speak with authority, and that is the "trafficability." If that be a word, of revenue bonds. And, to be brief about it, there is nothing more grossly incorrect than the statement made in last week's paid "personally" advertisement in this newspaper than that the bonds money with which to build Miller's Creek would be hard to come by as a result of the methods by which the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority was employing to sell them, or that they would not have a fair market climate.

To get to the marrow of the issue, it will be hard to secure buyers for the bonds so long as one of the most peculiar situations which ever plagued a community continues to exist. We speak of an elected few holding a community back from progress and development on the pretense of protecting the pocketbooks of the people they serve.

We predict the day of continuing to bleed the issue on our acute water needs is about to pass for all time.

And, how, may we be so inquisitive as to ask, is the City Council in any position to compare the respective merits of Miller Creek water or Lake Stamford water in the first place? Haskell's City Council is no closer to the acquisition of one than it is to the other.

These duly elected officials were directed in an election several months ago by the people whom they serve, to look into the matter of obtaining water from Lake Stamford. We may be uninformed, but if one overture has been made to the citizens of Stamford whose domain this would be, or any public announcement been made about such overture, we have not heard of it. It is logical to assume that we, the citizens, served by our City Council, would hear had there been any action, one way or the other, as to Lake Stamford.

It is safe to assume that a reply to the foregoing will be that the City Council felt it is in no position to approach anyone on the Lake Stamford situation until the Miller Creek dilemma is solved. This is the kind of by-play that has been heard about this town for four years.

There is one thing we DO know about bond buyers and their interest in buying them, and the City Council knows it, too, which is the basic reason why they have played this long and tenuous game of delaying the very game they are playing. That is, so state, no bond buyer could touch the Miller's Creek project with the proverbial ten-foot pole.

But as to the soundness, financially, for this town, the future of which is in the balance, and we're glad the Council agrees, of the Miller Creek project, we are willing to decline or debate the issues anywhere or any time.

We'll rest our case for the time by saying here the facts in our water dispute seem to have eluded our City Council quite as often as our varmint has eluded those who have sought him over the countryside.

We thank God at this point that a free press and a free people are inseparable.

With the U. S. Air Force and Army Somewhere in South Carolina (Special)—When this is perused, and we can always HOPE that it is, by the populace, just remember that the Pencil Pusher is tuggin' at the leash waitin' to get unmanacled from the military to see how things are in Haskell. This livin' like a Spartan in the vicinity of Spartanburg has to stop shortly.

No tellin' what could have happened. Guess we better make a checklist to get up to snuff on our news beat. Any sign of the varmint? How did Roy Wiseman's Redskins do at Irving? Are the Little Leaguers still in the running? What about industrial prospects? Are Ray Overton's boys in shape? Is Tommy Ray Foster's Haskell Livestock Auction gonna open on the announced date, Saturday? How about Mr. Bass Powell's big feed lot operation north of Rule? Understand he will handle 3,500 cattle to start when operational. His enterprise and Tommy Ray's should fit hand-in-glove, and be great things for the Haskell country.

More meanderings of the mind after a cottonmouth snake steak washed down with pile red Carolina mushmelon. What's new on the water front? Sure a lot of it out here, but it's stagnant, like the minds of some of the folks who can't see projecting into the future some solid plans for an ample water supply for a town we want to see grow. Probably shouldn't have said that True, though. Wonder if the Mayor and the City Council ever got around to asking Stamford how THEY felt about our using water out of their lake. Seems like that might be the thing to do. After all, it has been many months now since the voters of Haskell directed their duly elected officials to do just that. Oh well, why worry about that out here in South Carolina? Can't help worrying, though. If we don't get a water supply assured for the future, as any logical-thinking West Texan knows, all the other things we want to fall into place won't.

Reckon it's as hot in Haskell as it is here. Temperature wise, yes. Humidity, no. It's a strength sapper all right.

Wonder if there have been as many marriages this month in Haskell as the last two. If so, of Reliable Al Hinds has had a workout. Something about writin' up weddings. Never did it before coming to Haskell. Sorta got to delegate THAT authority before now. It's intriguing in a way. You kinda feel partly responsible for the knot gettin' tied properly and startin' things off in the right way. And in so doing, you wanta please. And that's where society reportin' is a realm all to itself. We were curious about this, bein' new to this realm, so we asked a cracker jack sassiety writin' gal who is smart as a ouija board about the pinnacles, perils, and pitfalls of society reportin'. You don't wanta hear about our soiree (ha!) in South Carolina anyway, so here's something closer to home:

We asked this dear lady, who is the epitome of grace and charm, and whose name is withheld for security reasons, if she ever pre-wrote, as so many Saturday ceremonies are for Sunday papers, a wedding that didn't go off as scheduled. She said, "How could you put such a terrible idea in my mind? I mean, after we write them down to the last seed pearl?"

Fortunately, says the sharp sassiety scribe, all weddings she has handled have taken place on schedule. But, all has not been rosy. Her greatest problem, she says is "brides and their mothers." (We want to

Haskell County History

30 YEARS AGO

(August 17, 1921)

First bale of 1921 cotton was brought in Monday by A. M. Williamson who is farming the Kemp place east of town. The bale was ginned at Haskell Co-Op No. 1 and weighed 400 lbs. It was purchased by the gin at 9 cents a pound. In addition Mr. Williamson received a $33 premium given by Haskell businessmen.

George Holmesley and Arthur Brown returned the first of the week from old Ft. Griffin, where they had been on a fishing trip. They report excellent luck, with their biggest catch being a 50-pound yellow catfish. This is one of the largest taken in recent years. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ratliff, who have been living in Louisiana for the past few years, are here visiting his parents, Judge and Mrs. L. D. Ratliff.

County Judge Charles M. Conner has been notified by the State Highway Department that Haskell County will be required to make a tax levy sufficient to take care of the county's part in the amount of $23,890.10 coming due next year. Based on current valuations, this will require a 35-cent levy for this purpose, the county official estimated.

Trustees of Brushy school district awarded a contract this week to S. S. Dishough, local contractor, for a new school building at Brushy. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bradley and family are visiting relatives in Georgia. They expect to be away from home several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. French Robertson and daughter, Emily, left Saturday for Houston to be gone about 10 days visiting Mr. Robertson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Robertson.

Jack Kimbrough was a patient in the Stamford Sanitarium the first of the week where he had his tonsils removed. Mr. and Mrs. "Red" Henshaw are rejoicing over the arrival of a little daughter in their home Saturday, August 12. The little lady will answer to the name of Carolyn.

Everybody wants the most prominent spot on Page One, Society, we were informed, and there aren't that many prominent spots to go around. The things that would make a real good story in the society columns must remain unsaid, we concurred, speaking wisely. But our informer is taking notes on them, and plans "one of these days to get fearless, put them in print, then run for my life."

Now THIS situation to some extent the Pencil Pusher does share in common with said Society Editor. And no truer words were ever spoken. We quote: "We have to please (and never do, or hardly ever) hundreds of women. EVERY club is the most important in town. EVERY picture is the most important in town and should be at least four columns wide. EVERY bride is the most important, every party, and so on."

Like we said, the Pencil Pusher hasn't had any mother and bride troubles. He's had some "every club is the most important in town" trouble, but has lived over it, and can understand the feeling of those concerned. It's a "He that toucheth not his own horn getteth it not rooted" type of thing. Still and all, we go along, too, with our lady editor, who said in conclusion, "In spite of all this, it is exciting and fun. The fact that it is giving me ulcers and turning my hair white is of no consequence." Amen. Ain't nothin' like this newspaper business. Which brings us to an Oakescript: Haven't been workin' out here but 14 hours a day. But, shucks, they say leisure is a beautiful garment. Just won't do for constant wear. That's the reason we better be gettin' back to Haskell, where we can REALLY log some workin' hours. JVC to the contrary, notwithstanding.

50 YEARS AGO

(August 16, 1913)

The beautiful club rooms of the Elks were open to the many friends of Mrs. S. W. Scott on Thursday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. H. A. Tandy, of Plains, Texas.

We are informed by S. W. Scott that a contract has been let for the drilling of an oil well at the junction of Paint Creek and California Creek. The contract for the first well has been let to Mr. E. W. Morgan, of Wichita Falls, an experienced driller with a heavy California rig. A carload of coal has been ordered by wire for fuel and inside of ten days, three carloads of derrick timber, drills and machinery will be unloaded at Haskell, and by the time the coal arrives, the drills will be ready to go to work. Arrangements already have been made for the transportation of the derrick and machinery by wagon from the railroad to the place where the first well will be drilled.

Mr. Homer Arbuckle, who has been in the mechanical department of the Free Press this summer, worked this week on the Enterprise at Goree.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Finkerton in this city, on August 10, at 5 p. m., Mr. F. Sapp and Miss Annie Emerson were united in marriage by Squire J. S. Post.

The Famous Ford—1914 Model—Announcements: Five passenger touring car delivered at $610. Two passenger runabout, $560.

The prospect for oil is brighter than it ever was in Haskell County. The Bunkby well in the southeast part of the county is down about 1300 feet, and some oil has been obtained. Mr. A. D. English was down there Saturday and reported that the drill was down to the oil strata.

Daniel Brandon of Gainesville who has been visiting the Solomons and Garniers has returned to that city.

County Commissioner W. F. Watts sold his farm last week to Mr. High from the eastern part of the state. There was about a section of land in the deal and the consideration was about $4900.

Miss Jennie Reeves of Munday is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collins. C. A. Pinkerton and G. W. Hutto of the Wildhorse neighborhood were in town Thursday. They report a fine rain in their section Wednesday.

Having concluded the Jones County term of district court, Judge H. R. Jones is spending a brief vacation from his duties at home with his family.

D. G. Hisey, one of the best farmers in the Paint Creek neighborhood, had business in town Wednesday.

W. D. Garren, a leading farmer and stockman of the west side, had business in the county capital Thursday.

Last Tuesday when the Munday section of the county was deluged with wheat, the wagon onto the ground and the wheels ran over the hay.

The accident happened 4 miles south of Bolander immediately the boy to Haskell him in the lumber care of a physician.

The young fellow had to be moved to a day evening and thinks he will be all right.

The bundlers are busy in all the county, and most should be turned next week to the

She discussed the beliefs, habits and places of the four religions, contrasting their false ideas with the teachings of God's Holy Word.

Mrs. Couch said that Buddhism is spreading rapidly in the United States and adapting itself to the American environment in order to propagate its message more effectively. According to Bahai World Faith, religion must be in accord with science and reason. Islam is the religion founded by Mohammed.

Mr. Robertson said so much is to be done by the Christians in our churches to combat these false teachings and religions.

Mrs. Elmer Turner gave the call to prayer for the many Missionaries in different fields. With Mrs. A. C. Pierson as pianist, and Mrs. Troy Ash leading the song, the congregation sang, "How Firm A Foundation."

"Thoughts Along the Way"

(By Mike Campbell)

Floyd (Satch) Lusk has a strong sense of humor, and he has pulled some amusing stunts in the past, but he has another side to his nature — he likes children. It isn't unusual to see Satch on a warmup run on a fire truck with a small boy seated beside him getting a thrill out of his first ride on something he had only seen from the sidelines.

When William Jennings Bryan was a young Senator he attended a National Convention. He and a Republican Senator were exchanging a little friendly banter in a hotel lobby, when the G. O. P. Senator asked, "Mr. Bryan, why are you a Democrat?" Bryan replied: "My grandfather was a Democrat, my father was a Democrat, so naturally I am also a Democrat." The Republican grinned and asked: "Suppose your grandfather had been a horse thief, your father a horse thief, would you be a horse thief?" Bryan answered: "No sir, I would be a Republican."

Buster Hunt is a hunter of varmints of long experience, and he runs a pack of hounds that brings down the coyotes. Buster says from the description of the wild animal that has been seen by various individuals, it is undoubtedly a large wildcat. He says as it is reported to have a long tail, and its color, leads to his belief.

During the early days in the West, three bandits held up a stage coach. The passengers were lined up, and the leader of the trio ordered one of his men to collect their money and jewelry. As the robber confronted one of his victims, the passenger asked: "Surely you are not going to rob a minister of the gospel?" The bandit leader snapped, "What church?" "Presbyterian," the minister replied. "Give the preacher back his valuables, I'm a Presbyterian myself."

At a colored church the minister was exhorting his members on sin: "If any member of this church is full of sin, let 'em stand up." A large colored woman arose to her feet. "Why, Sister Johnson, does you mean to 'knowledge that you is full of sin?" "Parson, Reverend, I thought you saw 'em."

Jet Drops Fuel Tanks Deep In 'Varmint Country'

A jet aircraft, presumably from Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, dropped a couple of wing tanks deep into this county's "varmint territory" 16 miles southeast of Haskell, Sheriff Garth Garrett reported recently.

"Sure would have been a favor if one of those tanks had knocked our varmint on the head," the Sheriff said. "However, it probably would have thrown the tanks back at the airplane."

A pickup crew from Dyess Air Force Base came to Haskell County to retrieve the two ejected 320-gallon jet fuel tanks with Carswell AFB identification on them. The driver had asked the Sheriff to direct him by phone to the spot on the L. B. (Tubby) Jones Ranch, two miles east of Lake Stamford, where the tanks were found in a pasture. The site is rugged, "brakey" country due east of Fish Haven on the shores of Lake Stamford.

"Don't think I can direct you. Better lead you out," the Sheriff told the pickup crew.

After the tanks had been taken in tow, "those boys from Dyess understand better now why we haven't caught that vanishing varmint yet," the Sheriff reported.

DR. SPENCER IS MIRACLE MAN WITH SCALPEL AT UK CENTER

Ten years ago this summer, in 1953, a 27-year-old doctor from Haskell, then a boyish-looking Navy lieutenant, Frank C. Spencer, cheated death of its rightful victim in one of the most amazing stories of medicine to come out of the war in Korea.

Lieutenant Spencer, who received the Navy's Legion of Merit for his work in the combat zone, made front line medical history using a spectacular new operation to reduce amputations by two-thirds, and scores of leathernecks and ex-leathernecks are walking today, using arms and hands normally who might be depending on artificial limbs.

His miraculous delicate life-saving operations, performed while on active duty with the First Marine Division in Korea, were accomplished with the almost-always deadly punctures in the left ventricle chamber of the heart. The work of Lieutenant Spencer was told to the world in wire service dispatches that graphically describe also his plugging gaping holes in the hearts of two American Marines, one of which had stopped beating. The young surgeon from Haskell calmly and skillfully sewed the torn edges of the wounds together, plugged open holes through which blood spurled six feet in the air, and saved both men's lives.

Having saved the first man's life after the heart stopped beating, Lieutenant Spencer a short time later, cut into the chest of another wounded Marine and found another case of a victim having a hole blasted in the vital left ventricle, the chamber which pumps fresh blood into every part of the body. On the battlefield, he gained invaluable experience in performing delicate open heart operations, always successfully completing the challenges before him. He also developed other new surgery methods in handling war wounded, which included artery grafts, the performance of which prevented countless amputations.

The surgical skill in which then Lieutenant Spencer took the lead as chief surgeon of Easy Medical Company, 1st Marine Division, was credited with arterial graft work reducing amputations by two-thirds.

Today, 10 years after first hewing a path over unknown medical terrain, Dr. Spencer is now in his 38th year, and still wearing that boyish look that not even the horrors of more than a year on the frontline could erase, is Professor of Surgery at the now two-year-old University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington, Kentucky. He accepted the appointment on August 1, 1961, going there from the associate professorship of surgery at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore. He went to Johns Hopkins in that position soon after Korea.

The esteemed doctor's mother, Mrs. Frank Spencer, of Haskell, not long ago returned from a visit with her son at UK's new medical center, which is rapidly gaining Johns Hopkins stature under her son's guiding hand. Reports of his colleagues to her while there that he is "still performing miracles" with the scalpel in life-saving techniques that have the deft Spencer touch. And the people are brought to him in Lexington from all over the globe.

Mrs. Spencer, a justifiably proud and winsome lady, quick of manner and manager of her own farm operation in north Haskell County, said her son asked her to watch at close hand some of his heart surgery while she was recently with him. "He's improving all the time," she declared with quiet humility. Dr. Spencer also has a sister in this area, Mrs. George Tyler, of Albany.

Folks in Haskell say you wouldn't know the sprightly, still-youthful man who heads out to the farm each time he gets home, reaches for his favorite target rifle, and goes jackrabbit hunting with limited zest, and the white-coated surgeon known around the world for his skill under the force of his hand, with whom Dr. Spencer slips off when home, to do a little bass fishing, too, at the old holes they haven't forgotten, says the famed surgeon is equally at home with scalpel, rod, or gun. Familiarity with and equally deft use of the latter two items are "just the West Texas in him, and that don't change," folks here say. Dr. Cadenhead is inclined to agree.

Airport Project Has Support Of The City Council

Plans for the improvement of Haskell's airport facilities and paving of the road leading to the airstrip off Highway 277 are "moving right along," Dr. Frank Cadenhead, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's New Projects Committee, announced at a report meeting of the group.

Mayor J. E. Walling and the Haskell City Council, following an appearance before the governing body by Dr. Cadenhead and Abe Turner, chamber of commerce president, enthusiastically endorsed a proposition recently made by J. H. Strain, Haskell citizen, to furnish men and equipment from his prime moving firm to pave the airstrip and road if the City of Haskell would furnish the materials.

Dr. Cadenhead said the City had agreed to provide the materials. Cost of the project was announced as $2100. Strain is expected to begin the job soon.

Martin Issues Appeal for Check On Screwworm

A plea for a close check by livestock producers in this area of all animals for possible screwworm cases has been issued by Frank Martin, Haskell County Agricultural Agent.

County Agent Martin renewed his appeal that all suspected cases be reported without delay to him or to the Southwest Screwworm Eradication officials at Mission, Texas.

The program directors in the Valley are asking all producers in this area, Martin reports, if at all possible to spray all livestock over 4 months of age with one of the following materials: Co-Ral-0.25% (4 lbs of the 25% wettable powder to 50 gallons water) at 1/4 qt., depending on the size of the animal; or Korlan 0.5% (8 lbs of the 25% wettable powder to 50 gallons water) at 1/4 quart depending on the size of the animal.

"The widespread use of approved insecticides for screwworm prevention properly applied and repeated every two or three weeks, where practical, will greatly facilitate the eradication effort," Martin pointed out.

"The insecticide cost, he said, for a single application of one of these materials is approximately 10 to 40 cents per animal depending on its size. Control normally will last two to three weeks. These materials also will control horn flies, ticks, lice and reduce populations of all types of flies, Martin said.

"Horn flies, he warned, left uncontrolled, will cost the producer 50 pounds beef per animal during summer months and cattle grub will cost the producer $1.50 to $2.50 dockage on grubby animals going to slaughter, plus loss in weight gain during heel fly season. These are solid reasons why control and prevention will pay."

Both youngsters are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. H. Russell, of Haskell. The babies were born less than three hours apart.

Mrs. Russell has just returned from West Texas where she visited with her "new grandchildren."

Fish have pretty good memories. But usually one must be hooked five or six times for the experience to register.

What the Bible Teaches About Revivals and Evangelism

By Odis Carruth, Pastor, Southside Baptist Church

It is not my purpose to enter into a debate with anyone concerning revivals and evangelism. However, since we are making plans for a revival meeting at Southside Baptist Chapel, August 18-25, I would like to make the following statements:

It is true that the words "revival" and "evangelism" have become synonymous in our thinking today, even though they do not have the same meanings at all. Evangelism is the proclamation of the gospel for the purpose of winning the lost souls to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. Revival is a work of the Holy Spirit of God among God's own people whereby they get right with God and with each other.

Regardless of the synonymous thinking of men today on the subjects of revival and evangelism, strictly speaking, the word "revival" is an Old Testament term: "Wilt Thou not revive us again?" "Revive Thy work, O Lord." The New Testament word for revival is "repent."

Revival is for Christians and means a self-examination, repentance, confession of sin, renunciation of sin, restitution, submission to the Lordship of Jesus Christ, and separation from the carnal desires. Read the 31st Psalm. A revival breaks the power of the world and of sin over Christians.

Revivals should not be necessary. God never intended for His people to have periodic spells of backsliding and repenting, and as long as we have such a malarial brand of Christianity, a fever and a chill, we will need revivals.

When we study the history of revivals, we realize the revival movements and the voices of evangelism in America have made a worthy contribution to the religious life in our land.

Revival is more than an emotional upheaval. A true revival will destroy the charm of the world. Revival time is a time when the power of sin is broken and overcome in the Christian's life.

Too many revivals begin with the assumption that the present church membership is in good shape. When we look at the statistics we find in Haskell, however, we see that about 200 people in Haskell attend the Wednesday evening prayer services, or about 5% of the population. When we find less than one-fourth of the total population of our town attending Sunday School, we see how

Would you be interested in boosting your cotton yields from 125 pounds of lint per acre to 250 pounds or more on dry-land? This can be done by use of winter cover and green manure crops in your rotation.

E. A. Baty, cooperating with the Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation District says it is not impossible to produce a 500 lb. bale of cotton per acre following a cover crop such as Austrian Winterpeas. He has included winterpeas in his rotation for the past four years and plans on planting more this fall. Mr. Baty stated that the use of winterpeas has improved his land to the extent that weed competition is now lower than it has been in the past. He said winterpeas had helped his land to take up and hold more rainfall.

Many other farmers in Haskell County realize the necessity of winter cover and green manure crops in their cropping systems. They readily see the benefits to be derived from their use. Bob Melton and Norris Anders of the California Creek SCD, and V. M. Meadors and W. B. Hill of the Wichita-Brazos SCD are planning to devote some acreage to winterpeas this fall.

Austrian Winterpeas are not a miracle crop. Winterpeas cannot be grown one year and dropped from the cropping system the next if the maximum benefits are to be derived from their use. Winterpeas and other cover and green manure crops should be planted on one-fourth or more of the land each year and rotated to cover all the land in four years. This, or a similar land treatment is necessary to maintain and improve the fertility of Haskell County cropland.

Cover and green manure crops add organic material to the soil both in the root system and the top growth. Their use helps to cover up our most valuable resource, the soil during the winter and spring months when the soil is in the greatest danger of being eroded by wind.

Soil is not permanent. Under many conditions it is unstable. We can use it wisely and save it by carrying out sound soil and water conservation treatments or we can destroy it by unwise use. The choice is yours. Use it wisely means money in the bank. Conservation doesn't cost, it pays.

Woody Turnbow Back From Officer Training

Cadet Woody W. Turnbow, a student of Midwestern University, Wichita Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Turnbow and husband of Mrs. Georgia Turnbow, of 1205 N. Ave. L. in Haskell, was one of more than 1800 Reserve Officer Training Corps candidates attending the general military science ROTC camp at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, to become future Army officers.

The Haskellite began intensive training on June 17 and has learned to load and fire mortars, rocket launchers, and other weapons as well as operate radios, and to master techniques of mine warfare.

Major General L. S. Griffing, post commander at Fort Sill, told the cadets at the beginning of their training period, "This experience should be exciting and rewarding." He added, "Here you will be tried and tested to see whether you have it in you to become a good Army officer."

The camp was completed July 26th, and 123 of those cadets who have already completed their four-year college military science studies were commissioned second lieutenants.

A. R. Eaton Returns To Presidency Of Seed Group

A. R. (Pete) Eaton, of Rule was re-elected president of the Texas Planting Seed Association at the annual stockholders' meeting of that group recently. Some 250 persons attended.

Other officers elected were R. A. Graham, of Greenville, vice president; and Jack Fry, of Ballinger, secretary-treasurer.

Lee Elwood, manager of the association for 20 years, resigned and was replaced by Bruce Ashworth, of La Feria, Texas.
