Mitchell County TAP group hosts hazardous waste expert

Texans Against Pollution — the Colorado City-based environmental group organized to fight the construction of a hazardous waste incinerator in Mitchell County — will host Dr. Paul Connett in a 7 p.m. meeting Thursday in the auditorium of Colorado High School.

Dr. Connett is a renowned scientific expert on hazardous waste. He currently serves as a member of the advisory panel to the Office of Technological Assessment (OTA), Washington, D.C., for the study of solid waste and as a member of New York State Senate Solid Waste Advisory Council.

His research centers around the health risks of hazardous waste, including exposure to dioxins through food chains, the chemicals hazards of ash disposal and alternative resource and waste management strategies.

He has published several papers on these issues and has appeared on television and radio programs including Donahue and McNeil-Leher Report.

Connett has been recognized with a number of citizenship and environmental awards for his work on hazardous waste.

He is currently associate professor of chemistry at St. Lawrence University in Canton, N.Y. He holds a bachelor's degree in natural sciences from Cambridge University and a Ph.D. in chemistry from Dartmouth College.

After his meeting in Colorado City, Connett will fly to Los Angeles to meet with celebrity environmentalists and then to Canada to present a paper on his research.

In Snyder, over 1,300 signatures have been petitioned against the proposed Mitchell County site and county commissioners have made resolution of their opposition to the site that would be located within 15 miles of the Mitchell-Scurry County line.

Iraq requests food be sent immediately for foreign 'guests'

by The Associated Press
Iraq has asked Western countries whose citizens it holds to urgently send food for them, increasing concern that Saddam Hussein may not intend to free all remaining women and children hostages as promised.

The request was another sign that Iraq is feeling the crunch from the trade embargo ordered by the United Nations after Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait. Iraq also suspended payments on its foreign debt on Monday.

In the Persian Gulf waters, meanwhile, U.S. Coast Guardsmen boarded the Iraqi-flagged freighter Zanoobia in the Gulf of Oman today in line with the tightening embargo on Iraqi trade, naval and shipping sources said.

It would be the first reported case of U.S. forces boarding an Iraqi-flagged vessel since the U.N. embargo was imposed on Iraq last month.

Also today, Jordan's crown prince criticized the international community for doing little to help thousands of Asian refugees from Iraq and Kuwait, some of whom are dying from exposure in a squalid makeshift camp in the desert while they await transport home.

In the Soviet Union, Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze proposed an international conference on the gulf crisis that would also take up the Arab-Israeli conflict and the civil war in Lebanon.

In a major foreign policy address, Shevardnadze also said Sunday's superpower summit in Helsinki, Finland, would mark "a major milestone on the road toward resolving the crisis in the Persian Gulf."

In another development, Iraq suggested setting up an international "people's court" to try President Bush for defiling Islam and for human rights violations. The state-run Iraqi News Agency said today the idea was discussed by the nation's union for lawyers and human rights association.

The West looked in vain over the weekend for large-scale, follow-up flights after hundreds of Western and Japanese women and children were allowed to leave on Iraqi jetliners on Saturday.

But there was a report that 138 Westerners — about two dozen of them Americans — would be allowed to fly out to Jordan today.

'Meet Tigers' event tonight

Snyder sports fans will have an opportunity to meet the local high school athletes tonight during an annual "Meet the Tigers" covered dish supper.

The event begins at 7:30 p.m. at Towle Park Pavilion.

Adults are asked to bring a covered dish. Drinks and utensils will be provided.

Following the supper, fans will go to Tiger Stadium for the introduction of the Snyder High School football, volleyball and tennis athletes, and members of the Lady Tigers golf team. The high school band will also perform.

Booster club members — both new and former members of the All-Sports Booster Club and the Band Booster Club — are encouraged to arrive by 7 p.m. to help decorate.

"Meet the Tigers" is sponsored by the high school all-sports booster club.

Midwest 52nd meeting is scheduled Thursday

Midwest Electric Cooperative will hold its annual meeting at Scurry County Coliseum on Thursday, beginning at 6 p.m.

Attendees of the 52nd annual meeting may register at that time and will be entertained by Cindy Nix prior to the barbecue meal, scheduled for 7 p.m.

The business meeting of the cooperative, including the election of two directors, will conclude activities.

Midwest serves a nine county area from east of Anson to Gail, and from Sweetwater to Post.

Director nominees, running unopposed, are Mike Herron of Sylvester, Place 1; and Carl Williams of Hermleigh, Place 2. Other directors include Mickey Sterling of Ira, Bobby Gruben of Rotan, and Jerry Upshaw of Roby. Other board members include James Beaver of Fluvanna, president; Williams, vice president; Herron, treasurer; and Melvin Clements, board secretary. Dan Cotton serves as Midwest Electric's consulting attorney.

Vesta L. Orr of Roby is the cooperative's manager. All members are urged to attend and participate in the business of the member-owned electric cooperative.

County meet is routine

Scurry County commissioners approved the payment of routine bills in the only agenda item this morning.

County Clerk Frances Billingsley reported that Oct. 7 is the deadline for persons to register to be eligible to vote in the Nov. 6 general election.

No-fault absentee voting in the election begins Oct. 17 and ends Nov. 2.

Local contested races include the offices of county judge, precinct 2 commissioner, and district clerk.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin presided at the meeting. Attending were Commissioners Duaine Davis, Tommy Pate, C.D. Gray Jr. and Ted Billingsley.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Success is getting up just one more time than you fall down."

School has been in session just one week, and already the kids and teachers have enjoyed their first holiday.

Everything we do, including school, works better if we approach it with a positive attitude. Such was the case of the teacher who put this sign in her classroom. In big letters it read: "Free every Monday through Friday — Knowledge. Bring your own container."

We're always impressed with the guy who can handle adversity with a good outlook. Perspective seems to be the key, and such is underscored with the story of good luck and bad luck.

We heard about an independent grocer in Dallas who accidentally hit and injured an old lady while making a delivery in his truck.

The woman sued and was awarded an amount large enough to drive the grocer out of business.

After difficult times, the grocer managed to overcome and accumulated enough to try again. But just a few months later, he clipped an elderly man crossing the street. The man sued and collected big damages, and again the grocer faced financial ruin.

One day he was sitting at home contemplating the unfairness of his life. Suddenly, his son ran in and said, "Dad, Dad, mom just got hit by a great big bus."

The grocer's eyes filled with tears. "Thank the Lord," he said. "At last, our luck has changed."

Holiday weekend...

33 die on Texas roadways

by The Associated Press
Thirty-three people lost their lives on Texas roadways during the 78-hour Labor Day weekend, the state Department of Public Safety reported today.

The final figures were issued at 10 a.m. today.

The DPS estimated that 40 people would die over the holiday counting period, which extended from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

"We're very elated that we didn't reach that 40 estimated traffic fatalities," DPS spokesman David Wells said today. "Part of the reason, we believe is there were a number of motorists out there obeying the traffic laws, being careful and not drinking and driving."

Fifty-two people died in traffic accidents last Labor Day weekend. Most were involved in accidents related to drunken drivers or speeding, and more than three-fourths of the victims weren't wearing seat belts.

The DPS said it put all available troopers on the highways for the holiday.

The last fatality reported was that of 25-year-old Isaac Ruiz of Houston. Ruiz was killed in a two-car collision at 1:15 a.m. Saturday in Houston. He was not wearing a seat belt.

Julian Paul Lehoski, 40, of Houston, died from injuries suffered in a one-vehicle accident at 9 p.m. Sunday near New Braunfels.

He had been riding in a pickup bed but was thrown out after the truck went off the road.

Cornelia George, 70, of Mathis, was killed when her car went off the road and landed upside down in a ditch in Corpus Christi about 4:14 p.m. Monday, police said.

Other fatalities included Guadalupe Martinez Edison, 46, of Goliad, who was a passenger in a car that collided with a tractor-trailer rig early Monday on U.S. Highway 59 south of Victoria. DPS said the driver of the car lost control on wet pavement and skidded into the path of the truck. The driver was seriously injured.

James Edward Johnson, 32, of Tyler died late Sunday in a collision at the intersection of two rural roads about 10 miles east of Tyler. Johnson was not wearing a seat belt.

Eucebio Rendon, 61, of Katy died in a two-car accident in rural Harris County. Five others were injured.

SDN Football Contest debuts in paper today

The 1990 SDN Football Contest makes its debut in today's issue — the first of 10 weeks where readers get a chance to play "armchair quarterback" for cash.

To play, simply clip out the entry blank (page 10 in today's paper), locate the corresponding advertisements on the page, and write down your prediction in the appropriate space.

After including your name, address and telephone number, send it to Football Contest Editor, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, or bring it to the office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in by 5 p.m. each Friday. Remember that games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or it will be considered a miss.

A perfect score nets $250. Otherwise, first place each week is worth $50; second place $25; and third place $15. When two or more entries have the same number of correct predictions, the tie-breaker goes into effect.

Football fans of all ages are eligible to enter; however, only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person.

Each weekend's results will be published in the following Tuesday's paper, along with that week's new contest.

A—The prison pays its own utilities each month.

In Brief

U.S. access

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several smaller Persian Gulf states are shedding a traditional reluctance for close military links with the United States and allowing U.S. combat airplanes on their bases, Pentagon sources say.

This source said Defense Secretary Dick Cheney was able to negotiate "a variety of agreements" with the nations on the Arabian Peninsula during his trip there last month.

Cheney was able to extend those relationships to include other Persian Gulf states, such as Bahrain and Oman, as well, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity. The sources did not have specifics on their aircraft deployment.

A&M leads

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M University supporters buying up collegiate license plates have earned the university top honors as the first school to surpass the total each participating institution guaranteed would be purchased.

More than 1,500 students, graduates and other Texas A&M supporters have bought the special plates. That total exceeds the number purchased so far by supporters of the 12 other schools participating in the statewide program.

Egypt's debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush has decided to ask Congress to forgive Egypt's entire $7 billion military debt because of its leadership in standing up to Iraqi aggression, the White House announced today.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said forgiving the debt "recognizes the strategic importance of Egypt" in the multinational effort to enforce the United Nations' trade embargo against Baghdad.

Pilgrim's application angers residents

DALLAS (AP) — East Texas chicken czar Lonnie "Bo" Pilgrim has asked permission to increase the amount of wastewater from three processing plants in Mount Pleasant.

But neighbors say the area smells bad enough already, and they're raising a stink about the application.

"There's a sour smell from time to time," said Lola Barrett, who has lived about 1½ miles from the plants since 1964.

"There's been foam in the (Tankersley) creek and, at times, red water that looked like blood," she said. "It's been yellow and gray at times."

Pilgrim has asked the Texas Water Commission for permission to increase the wastewater output from the three plants from 2 million gallons a day to 3 million gallons.

Four people spoke out against the request at a hearing Thursday. They said others are upset but are afraid to come forward.

"People in town will tell you they don't like it, but they have relatives ... working for (Pilgrim) and they don't want to jeopardize their jobs," Ms. Barrett told the Dallas Times Herald.

Last week, Pilgrim acknowledged that his plants have had problems in the past — especially with excessive pollutants in their wastewater — but said he has spent "millions of dollars (to) comply with environmental laws" and believes the problems have been curbed.

"You're always going to have, from now until we see Jesus, these complaints," Pilgrim told the Times Herald from his Pittsburg headquarters in East Texas. "In some cases its something we may be behind on, but in most cases its just overreaction."

Vernon Row, vice president of engineering for Pilgrim's Pride, said the company has spent about $5 million in the past three years to expand and upgrade its Mount Pleasant wastewater treatment plant.

Earlier this year, Pilgrim's Pride was fined $55,000 by the water commission and $50,000 by the Environmental Protection Agency for violating discharge limits for certain contaminants in the treated effluent that enters Tankersley and Cypress creeks.

Four years ago, the Texas attorney general's office, acting on behalf of the Texas Air Control Board, slapped Pilgrim's Pride with a $52,000 civil penalty for several "nuisance" odor violations, said board spokesman Steve Davis.

The firm was fined $2,000 in 1987 for creating an odor problem by dumping chicken manure, Davis said, and other "enforcement actions (are) pending" after a June board inspection.

Those contesting Pilgrim's permit application before the water commission say they are tired of the continuing violations and the continuing promises.

"This dude, he hasn't done anything but cause us problems," said Kenneth Jackson, who keeps cattle on a 300-acre ranch about four miles south of the Mount Pleasant complex.

Tankersley and Cypress creeks join on Jackson's property, and he said the creeks have been "tremendously black" at times with "a terrible scent."

Another nearby resident, Evelyn Burke, said buzzards sometimes converge on her property when chicken entrails and feathers are discarded outdoors.

"We have to go out and guard our cows with a shotgun while they're calving," she said.

Pilgrim made headlines last year when he handed out $10,000 checks to eight legislators on the floor of the Texas Senate two days before a crucial vote on a workers compensation bill.

Pilgrim later said the action had been "a bone-headed mistake."

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter-in-law recently had a tubal pregnancy. I'm concerned this might happen again. Is it likely?

DEAR READER: Ectopic pregnancy (pregnancy outside the uterus) occurs in less than 1 percent of diagnosed pregnancies. It is common in the Fallopian tubes, the muscular tubes that lead from each ovary to the uterus, because the ovum is fertilized in the Fallopian tube and, if it fails to descend normally into the uterus, it will attach to the tubal lining and grow. This is extremely dangerous, as the Fallopian tube is not adapted to pregnancy and, in time, will burst, causing peritonitis and death.

Although the cause of tubal pregnancies is not known, they appear to be more frequent in women who have had tubal infections or previous tubal pregnancies. Treatment is always surgical; the product of conception must be removed and, if possible, the tube repaired.

Although your daughter-in-law is at higher risk for having another tubal pregnancy, her doctor should be able to give her some indication of what her future risks are. However, there is nothing she can do to prevent this from happening, unless she chooses to avoid pregnancy altogether. Nonetheless, if she is conscientiously monitored by an obstetrician, she can attempt to become pregnant again. The chances are good that the next pregnancy will be normal; if not, it can be discovered early (by blood tests), monitored by ultrasound examinations and treated.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm in my 60s and trying to grow old gracefully. I'm in relatively good health and still part of the business world. Recently, I've noticed a ringing in my left ear. At times, it's so loud I find myself wondering if the person next to me can hear it also. There's no pain, and the hearing isn't impaired. Is this anything I can rectify, or is it a forewarning of things to come?

DEAR READER: The ringing in your ear (tinnitus) is due to an abnormality of the acoustic nerve, actually a complex network of nerve fibers that transmits sound from the inner ears to the brain. Tinnitus is often caused by chronic exposure to loud noises and may be associated with loss of hearing, too.

Some people experience tinnitus from excessive ear wax; the ringing is easily cured by removing the wax. Other people may suffer from Meniere's disease, a poorly understood affliction marked by deafness, tinnitus and vertigo (the sensation of spinning). Other causes of tinnitus include ear infections, ear damage from certain drugs (such as antibiotics and aspirin), hypertension, anemia and head injuries. While many causes of tinnitus can be treated and cured, other causes (such as damage from head injuries) cannot be. The cause of most tinnitus is unknown.

Any patient with severe tinnitus should be examined by an otolaryngologist (ear, nose and throat specialist) to determine if the symptom is treatable or curable.

Tinnitus can be disabling. Treatment often involves helping a patient to cope with or adapt to the disorder, if it can't be cured, by using soothing sounds to mask the tinnitus. The American Tinnitus Association sponsors nationwide support groups and publishes pertinent literature. You can obtain information from this organization by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the American Tinnitus Association, P.O. Box 5, Portland, OR 97207.

In addition, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Ear Infections and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Freed hostage says he was nearly left behind

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Lloyd Culbertson, who thanked Jesse Jackson for his freedom and criticized the State Department following his flight home from captivity in Kuwait, says he was nearly left behind with other hostages.

Jesse Jackson told Culbertson that the El Pasoan was among the last of the 47 U.S. hostages that Saddam Hussein agreed to release.

"It started off with (Saddam) and every body had a chore to do. Mine was to clean one of the bathrooms there, and at night I guarded the back gate," he said.

Ambassador W. Nathaniel Howell and his staff did their best to keep spirits up, Culbertson said.

"They constantly smiled, and told us, 'Everything will be OK,' like we were a bunch of kids, but we knew better," he said.

Culbertson said life inside the embassy compound was tough. Water from the swimming pool was brought in to flush toilets, and much of the food spoiled when the Iraqis cut off electricity.

He said up to 25 people remained in the embassy.

Since his return, Culbertson and his wife Florence have been fielding calls from people who were angered because Culbertson said Sunday the Bush administration wasn't doing enough for those still trapped in the Middle East.

"I don't care who heard it, I was speaking the truth. I want people to know the truth," Culbertson said, adding that he didn't mean to criticize the United States.

"If I was still there, I'd be heartsick. It would be terrible. I know my wife would be sick with worry," he said.

Culbertson and the other freed Americans arrived in the U.S. Sunday at Washington-Dulles International Airport aboard an Iraqi jetliner.

The former hostage looked refreshed but still weary Monday. He had shaved the ragged beard that grew during his captivity, but Culbertson said he only had slept about five hours since returning to El Paso Sunday evening.

Culbertson was among more than 3,000 U.S. citizens trapped in Iraq and Kuwait after the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion.

He soon moved from his hotel to the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait city, where he spent 21 days before being allowed to leave Saturday.

During his stay in the embassy, he and other U.S. citizens passed the time by doing chores, talking to each other and praying.

"I read the Bible and prayed, and everybody had a chore to do. Mine was to clean one of the bathrooms there, and at night I guarded the back gate," he said.

Ambassador W. Nathaniel Howell and his staff did their best to keep spirits up, Culbertson said.

"They constantly smiled, and told us, 'Everything will be OK,' like we were a bunch of kids, but we knew better," he said.

someone at the table makes at least one grievous error. So it was in today's deal. After North and South had overbid slightly, the defenders underplayed, and declarer South took full advantage.

Declarer played low from dummy on the diamond lead, and East won the jack. Not wanting to lead from the Q-J-9-8 club sequence (South might hold K-10-x), East returned the heart five. West won the queen when South played low, and continued ace and a diamond. (It would have been better to play a club.) Assuming that West would be short in spades, declarer led dummy's spade nine and played low from his hand. A spade back to the queen was followed by a club to dummy's ace. Dummy's A-K of spades were cashed, declarer throwing a club and a heart. Meanwhile, on the spades West had thrown two hearts and two clubs. When South returned to his hand with the king of clubs, West had to reduce to only three cards. So he let a low diamond go. When declarer led the 10 of diamonds, West had to win and lead away from the K-9 of hearts into South's A-J.

Most students prefer stone-washed jeans

Midwest college students say they wear jeans from 90 to 99 percent of the time, according to the latest Levi's 501 Report conducted by the Roper Organization, sampling 1,024 students from 100 colleges across the country. That beats the national average of 56 percent. The marketing poll also shows that students most prefer their jeans to be stone-washed (67 percent) or worn and faded (62 percent). Levi's says it was surprised to find the third most preferred are dark blues (40 percent); acid-washed jeans are fourth (34 percent). Other preferences indicated in the poll—the sixth annual survey conducted by Roper for Levi Strauss & Co.—are loose-fitting jeans, (61 percent), tight-fitting jeans (33 percent) and baggy-fitting jeans (28 percent). The new "anti-fit" jeans are favored by only 8 percent of the poll group. The poll, looking beyond jeans, found campus preferences for the clean-cut, athletic look (87 percent), oversized baggy clothing (73 percent), bicycle shorts and other spandex clothing (67 percent), multiple earrings in the same ear (61 percent) and little black dresses (57 percent).

T-shirts find their way into fashion

AP Newsfeatures

When Warren Beatty showed up time and again for "Dick Tracy" press interviews wearing a gray double-breasted suit and black T-shirt, style watchers took note.

T-shirts have become bona fide men's fashion.

Sure, they started in the street as walking advertisements, vacation souvenirs, personal statements. One of the hottest right now is a bootleg Bart Simpson tee—with a black Bart. But we're talking upscale, as in Warren Beatty chic.

T-shirts represent a $2.6 billion annual market in America, and the average retail consumer buys 6.6 per year, according to a recent survey by the Nike shoe people. They should know. They do the "Bo Don't Know" shirts.

"Beatty wasn't the first one to wear the look," says Larry Hotz, "but he certainly might be the catalyst to induce a lot more people to pick up on it." Hotz, a spokesman for the Men's Fashion Association in New York, says the trend started in big cities like Los Angeles and New York where fashion non-conformity is more prevalent. But there are differing opinions of just how it started.

Robert Bryan, fashion editor of M Inc. magazine, says that "while nobody likes to think it came from 'Miami Vice,' the show certainly did popularize it." The difference, he says, is that now men are wearing softer colors in the same range, rather than contrasting colors.

Kimberly Cihlar, fashion editor of Daily News Record, a trade newspaper covering men's fashion, says part of the credit has to go to The Gap.

"The Gap showed us that you could take an ordinary Hanes-type T-shirt, combine it with a sportcoat, and you're pretty much dressed," says Cihlar. "You could almost wear it to the office. Come to think of it, people who have some leeway on the job do it."

With all the variations on the T-shirt theme, there's much more than Hanes and The Gap out there. T-shirts are coming from the drawing boards of well-established designers.

For those who seek a quick, inexpensive style update, Cotler has a T-shirt at about $13 with large embroidered crest in olive, mustard, burgundy and gray. Rough Hewn, priced at about $48, offers a washed pique with a yacht club insignia in hunter, teal, dark red and purple.

For upper-end customers, there's Giorgio Armani, who counts T-shirts as a major part of his collection. For next summer he has cotton, cotton-linen and silk-linen blends, ranging from $100 to $300. They're ideal with an Armani slouch suit.

For cooler days ahead, look for Armani's long sleeve woolen polos. They range from $250 for a woven knit to $700 for cashmere.

Many covering choices for new kitchen floors

AP Newsfeatures

If you are thinking about installing a new floor to complete your kitchen remodeling, you'll be confronted with a long list of choices.

Beginning with vinyl tile, the field expands to include both cork and rubber tiles, glazed and unglazed ceramic tiles, hardwood strips and parquet, slate, marble and even granite. Each choice has its advantages and disadvantages.

Quarry tile has long been the floor of choice in restaurant kitchens, and, with a wide choice of new colors, textures and patterns, it can add a wonderful decorative touch to residential kitchens as well. About the only limiting factor affecting your choice in tile is your imagination, as you can create interesting borders and break up the filed tiles into many different mosaics.

In order to establish the tile layout lines, set out tiles across both the length and width of the room, allowing for proper spacing. Then balance the layout so there will be equal-size tiles along opposing walls. Mark the floor at the edges of the tile, one or two courses in from the perimeter.

Snap a chalkline, parallel to Likewise, you can keep warm with a dark wool polo shirt from Studio 000.1 by Ferre, $270. Another cold-weather option comes from designer Tommy Hilfiger, who offers a long sleeve crewneck T-shirt in heavy cotton jersey. It comes in eight colors for around $39.50.

Axis is introducing all-cotton T-shirts with 1940s photos of athletes screened onto them. The photos were culled from the Library of Congress. Available next February in stylish shades of kiwi, spice, lapis, gold, terra cotta and storm gray, as well as black and white, they'll retail for about $24-$28.

Martin A. Weening, president of Axis, says the tees can be worn equally well with jeans, jacket or sack suit. "That's our generation's alternative to structured clothing," he says.

Designers are also coming up with T-shirts reflecting concern for the environment, an important theme this season.

The Falke Group has the Eco-T. Designed by graphic artist Eileen Toohey, the all-cotton tees in bright colors will be available Sept. 22 at about $25. In one, Albert Einstein stands atop the world and says, "You don't have to be a genius to figure it out: pollution pollutes."

Joe Boxer, an American menswear designer, has a cotton T-shirt with the slogan, "If this T-shirt was a rain forest, its gonna be a tank top in no time." About $18.

For spring '91 Boxer will offer whimsical T-shirts, around $18, some with laundry soap box messages such as "Makes dull people fun."

New club chapter established in June

Members of Xi Alpha Alpha Theta, Beta Delta Phi and Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi held their annual 'Beginning Day' on Aug. 30., at Towle Memorial Park.

During the summer, Xi Alpha Alpha Theta had the pleasure of sponsoring the organization of a new Ritual of Jewels Chapter in Snyder. Beta Delta Phi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was organized on June 21 and officers were installed on July 10.

Members, family and guests participated in an 'old fashioned' picnic with hot dogs and all the trimmings. Hostesses for the gathering were the social committee.

Xi Alpha Alpha Theta's first meeting will be September 7, at 7:30 p.m., in the home of Dena Ellis, 4503 Garwood.

Legumes make meatless dinners more appealing

AP Newsfeatures

A bigger variety of legumes, grains and vegetables makes meatless main dishes more interesting and appealing than ever. And with nutrition authorities stressing the importance of eating more fruits and vegetables, a meatless dinner at least once a week is a health-smart choice, too. Almonds, linguine and Parmesan cheese provide the protein in this meatless main dish.

Pesto Primavera
1 cup water
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons instant vegetable bouillon granules or 2 vegetable bouillon cubes, slightly crushed

1 tablespoon olive or cooking oil
2 cloves garlic, minced
8 ounces fresh asparagus, cut into 1-inch pieces
2 medium carrots, very thinly bias-sliced (1 cup)
1 medium onion, chopped (½ cup)

One 6-ounce package frozen pea pods, thawed and halved
2-3rds cup sliced almonds or chopped cashews

¼ cup snipped fresh parsley or 1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
2 tablespoons snipped fresh basil or 1½ teaspoons dried basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon pepper

6 ounces linguine or other pasta, cooked (2½ cups)
1-3rd cup grated Parmesan cheese

In a small bowl stir together water, cornstarch and bouillon granules; set aside. Preheat a wok or large skillet over medium-high heat; add oil. Stir-fry garlic for 15 seconds. Add asparagus and carrots; stir-fry for 2 minutes. Add onion; stir-fry for 2 minutes more. Add pea pods, nuts, parsley, basil and pepper. Stir-fry about 1 minute more or until vegetables are crisp-tender. Remove vegetable mixture from wok.

Stir cornstarch mixture; add to wok. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir for 1 minute more. Return vegetable mixture to wok; toss to coat. Heat through. Spoon vegetable mixture on top of pasta. Top with Parmesan cheese. Makes 4 servings.

border tiles and finish laying full tiles that will fit beyond the border.

Most tile supply houses will either loan or rent tile-cutting equipment when you purchase tile. Straight cuts near the center of the tile are easily made by scoring with the tile cutter, and snapping the tile on the score line. Irregular cuts, or straight cuts near an edge, must be made with a tile nibbler.

After the tile has set for at least 24 hours, you can grout the joints. Mix the grout with water, according to package instructions, and let it set for 10 minutes before using.

Be sure all plastic spacers are removed from the joints. Then, work the grout into the joints using a rubber squeegee, also available at tile supply houses. Hold the squeegee at a 45-degree angle to the floor to remove excess grout from the tile surface.

When the grout has set for approximately two hours, use a damp cloth to wipe away any grout left on the tiles. Rinse the cloth frequently in clean water for the quickest and best results.

Because grout is actually a cement-based product, it requires a slow curing to achieve full strength. So, cover the floor with craft paper for several days, to retard the drying process. You can use the floor after the grout has cured for at least 24 hours.

Cowboys welcome RB

Highsmith, coach Johnson are reunited

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys finally got their highly touted, top-rated running back, but it wasn't Emmitt Smith.

Alonzo Highsmith, a powerful fullback who played for Coach Jimmy Johnson at the University of Miami, was traded to Dallas by the Houston Oilers for draft picks on Monday.

The move sent a message to Smith, the Cowboys' first-round draft pick who has become the longest holdout in team history.

The Cowboys still hope to sign Smith, but acquiring Highsmith soothed concern over a stagnant running game during a 1-3 exhibition run.

Head scout John Wooten said Highsmith could be the missing ingredient the Cowboys need to get their running game going.

"I like this guy second only to breathing," Wooten said. "He can play."

Highsmith was the third player taken in the 1987 NFL draft, but fell into disfavor with the Oilers. First-year coach Jack Pardee's run-and-shoot offense left Highsmith the odd man out.

"Alonzo is a talented player, a hard worker, and will fit into our system perfectly," Johnson said. "He's a great blocker and has a great attitude and he knows the system."

The Cowboys plan to play Highsmith on Sunday in the regular-season opener against the San Diego Chargers.

Dallas gave Houston second- and third-round draft picks.

"Alonzo is the best blocking fullback in the league and a winner through and through," Johnson said. "Now we only have one piece of the puzzle left."

"It feels good to get back to Coach Johnson again," Highsmith said. "He's running the same offense we had in college. I know what he is all about. His main thing is to win."

Johnson said he knew of no immediate movement in talks with Smith, who is asking $700,000 a season on a three-year contract. The Cowboys are offering about $600,000 with a $1 million bonus.

Smith, an All-American running back from Florida and the 17th pick in the NFL draft, has enrolled in classes at his old school.

Highsmith was Houston's leading rusher in 1989 with 531 yards, but he had only 35 yards on five carries in exhibition play.

Highsmith said he didn't like playing for Jerry Glanville, who left as coach of the Oilers to take over the Atlanta Falcons after last season.

"I've regressed since I went to Houston," Highsmith said. "My pass receiving and running skills went down. All they wanted me to do was block."

Highsmith passed the Dallas physical although he is bothered by a sprained foot.

SHS squads to see court action today

SHS Lady Tigers to entertain Plains

Snyder's Lady Tigers are home tonight to face Plains in non-district volleyball action.

Coach Levon Webb's freshman unit will battle Plains at Snyder Junior High at 5 p.m. The JV squad of coach Laura Holt begins at the same time at SHS followed by the varsity team of coach Patty Grimmett.

The varsity will compete in this weekend's Key City Tournament in Abilene while the freshmen and JV both host the Snyder Tourney Saturday.

The frosh crew will be back in Snyder Sept. 17 while the varsity and JV remain out of town until Sept. 25 when they host Seminole.

District 2-4A competition begins Saturday, Sept. 22, when the Lady Tigers travel to Lubbock Dunbar.

Tiger netters to take on Big Spring

Snyder's tennis Tigers travel to Big Spring today to tangle with the Steers in non-district net play at 3:45 p.m.

The Tigers, coached by Charlie Chrane, were defeated 18-0 in a team-format match Saturday at the hands of Abilene High in the season opener for SHS.

Snyder has a pair of matches scheduled for its home court Saturday with the San Angelo Lake View Chiefs coming in for an 8:30 a.m. meeting followed by Brownfield at 2 p.m.

Loop competition in District 2-4A begins Sept. 15 at Lubbock Estacado.

Dykes says SWC is 'alive and kicking'

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes says the Southwest Conference is alive and kicking as evidenced by its hard-nosed football on opening day.

Twelfth-ranked Texas A&M downed Hawaii 28-13 in Honolulu and Baylor held tough against No. 8 Nebraska before falling 13-0 in Lincoln, Neb.

"The Southwest Conference looked all right out there," Dykes said. "I hope those teams start playing worse by the time they play us. They looked tough."

Washington State dampened

the weekend with a 21-3 victory over Texas Christian. But Rice beat Wake Forest 33-17 for a 2-2 SWC mark.

The SWC went through some rough times this summer. Arkansas, a charter member of the 76-year-old conference, announced it would join the Southeastern Conference.

Texas and Texas A&M were feared to be next, then both schools decided to stay and help strengthen the league.

Dykes said it was good to see the SWC getting some good headlines for a change.

"I'll tell ya, going in, Baylor had no business even being on the same field with Nebraska, but they played a great defensive game," he said. "They have got a heckuva defensive line. Their front four could go bear hunting with a switch."

Dykes, who is preparing the Red Raiders for their season opener at No. 17 Ohio State Saturday, said he would like to "take a page out of Baylor's book when we play the Buckeyes."

Dykes is counting on his defense, which features eight returning starters from last year's 9-3 team, to anchor the Red Raiders until a young offensive line can mature.

"We are not going to shut out Ohio State, but we have to contain their offense which features some of the best players in the Big Ten Conference," Dykes said.

"I believe our players are ready for (the Ohio State) game," Dykes said.

Becker and Graf advance in U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Boris Becker found a way to win. Steffi Graf made a tough match easy.

And that's why both defending champions are still in the hunt in the U.S. Open.

"I knew that it wasn't going to be easy against her," Graf said of her fourth-round matchup against 13th-seeded Jennifer Capriati. You wouldn't know it by the score — 6-1, 6-2 in 53 minutes.

"I had to find a way. I was trying to find a way, and I did it finally," Becker said after beating back unseeded Darren Cahill 2-6, 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 on Monday to advance to the men's quarterfinals.

Becker will next play eighth-seeded Aaron Krickstein, a 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 winner over Amos Mansdorf. The other quarterfinal pairing in the bottom half of the men's draw sends No. 4 Andre Agassi against unseeded Andrei Cherkosov of the Soviet Union.

On Monday, Agassi defeated No. 13 Jay Berger 7-5, 6-0, 6-2 and Cherkosov eliminated Christo van Rensburg 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Other fourth-round winners in the women's draw were No. 4 Zina Garrison, No. 6 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario and No. 12 Jana Novotna. Garrison defeated Nathalie Tauziat 6-1, 7-5, Sanchez Vicario downed No. 16 Barbara Paulus 6-4, 6-3 and Novotna stopped No. 7 Katerina Maleeva 6-4, 6-2.

That sets up the quarterfinal pairings of Graf vs. Novotna and Garrison vs. Sanchez Vicario.

Two women's quarterfinals were on tap today: No. 8 Mary Joe Fernandez against No. 9 Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere, and No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini against Leila Meskhi tonight.

Graf, who has dominated this Grand Slam tournament for the last two years, played almost perfectly in reaching the quarterfinals, dazzling the 14-year-old Capriati with powerful ground strokes.

"I was pretty nervous," Capriati said. "I didn't realize how nervous I was until I got out there. In the beginning I couldn't hit a ball on the court."

Graf's victory was complete in every respect, handing the ninth-grader a tennis lesson, although Capriati had a plan.

"Keep moving her. Just don't hit to her backhand. Maybe break down her forehand and come to the net and attack her a lot. Serve well," Capriati said. "But nothing worked."

On the other hand, everything worked for Graf, who was very gracious in victory.

"She didn't play as well as she can play, I think everyone realizes that," Graf said. "There was a lot of pressure on her — and on me, too."

What the crowd, and Capriati, saw was Graf in high gear.

"She's definitely still at another level," Capriati said.

The victory capped Graf's 160th consecutive week as the top-ranked player in the world, a record for both men and women.

NFL squads make final cuts

by The Associated Press
The final cut was the unkindest of all for a lot of NFL players — especially the Morris family.

They lost two, Joe and Jamie.

"I think Joe Morris has made a very significant and continuous contribution to this club, and to the Bill Parcells regime," Coach Bill Parcells said Monday of the Morris who rushed for 5,296 yards in eight years with the New York Giants. "In the length of time that I have been here he is one of several guys who has driven the car and not been a passenger."

Jamie, signed by New England from Washington as a Plan B free agent, was also cut on Monday. The third-year running back out of Michigan ran for 336 yards last season with the Redskins.

Keena Turner, a member of San Francisco's four Super Bowl teams, was also among the flood of players released Monday as NFL teams trimmed down to the 47-man roster for the opening of the season. The casualties also included Jim Fahnhorst, Gary Hogeboom, Matt Bahr and Cris Carter.

"This is the worst day of the year in football," New York Giants linebacker Gary Reasons said.

Final cuts day also affected running back Alonzo Highsmith, the Houston Oilers' No. 1 draft pick in 1987.

Highsmith, underutilized in an offense that had four players competing for one position, was traded to Dallas, where he'll try to fill the running back void the Cowboys have had since Herschel Walker was traded last season.

Some of the other big names were just waived, although some could be recalled. Many teams cut players, then re-claim them after they clear waivers.

The Los Angeles Raiders, for example, were left with only one quarterback, Jay Schroeder, after cutting Vince Evans and Jeff Francis. However, they signed holdout Steve Beuerlein, got a roster exemption for him, and may bring back one of their cuts later.

Morris, the Giants' career rushing leader, fell victim to a youth movement, as was the case with many teams.

Morris' release wasn't unexpected, but waiting for the cut after eight seasons with the Giants had been tough throughout training camp on Morris, his teammates, and Parcells.

"He was an integral and key part to the success that this organization has enjoyed in the 80s," Parcells said.

The problem for Parcells and ultimately Morris was that the Giants are heading into the 1990s, and that didn't leave much roster room for a soon-to-be 30-year-old who missed all of last season with a broken foot.

"I just felt I had some young players who could do what he could do," Parcells said.

In his prime, Morris did more than any other Giant running back. The 1982 second-round draft choice out of Syracuse ran for a team-record 48 touchdowns.

Turner, a linebacker, was one of the five 49ers who played on all four Super Bowl winners. The others are quarterback Joe Montana, safety Ronnie Lott, cornerback Eric Wright and wide receiver Mike Wilson.

"I still feel that I can play," Turner said.

Utah man is slain in subway

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight teen-agers accused of stealing to get night club admission money were charged in the subway slaying of a Utah tourist who came to the aid of his mother when she was punched in the face, police said.

Five were picked up for questioning at the Roseland Ballroom after the fatal attack Sunday night, Capt. Steve Davis said. The other three were arrested Monday.

Killed was Brian Watkins, 22, of Provo, Utah. The former college tennis player was in town with his family for the U.S. Open tournament. He was stabbed once in the chest after intervening when his mother was punched.

He collapsed on the subway platform at 53rd Street and Seventh Avenue after starting to chase the fleeing thieves, Davis said.

"Brian jumped in to help me when one of the muggers hit me in the face," Karen Watkins said. She was treated for a mouth cut.

The slaying reinforced New York's image as a hotbed of urban crime. It was the 18th killing in the city's subways this year. In Watkins' hometown, one homicide was recorded for all of 1989, Provo police records secretary Bobbie Ferguson said.

The Watkins family, tennis fans who have visited New York for the past five years to see the U.S. Open, had spent Sunday at the tournament and were on their way to dinner when they were attacked.

Their hotel is near the subway station where Watkins was stabbed and the Central Park restaurant they were headed for is located just two subway stops away.

Watkins was waiting for a northbound train with his father, Sherwin, his mother, his brother Todd and Todd's wife Michelle, when a group of young men approached, one carrying a knife, another wielding a box cutter.

Sherwin Watkins' pants were slashed and thieves took a money clip containing about $200 and some credit cards. One punched Mrs. Watkins in the face.

The brothers interceded and one of the men stabbed Watkins, police said. He died later at a nearby hospital. Watkins' father was treated for a leg cut.

The dance club is less than a block from the subway station where Watkins was stabbed. Davis said "most kids who get off at that stop are going to Roseland," and that it was "logical" to investigate there.

Souter's views...

First Amendment advocates encouraged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defenders of First Amendment rights lament the retirement of Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan but say the views of his prospective replacement, David H. Souter, on freedom of speech and the press are somewhat encouraging.

"No one could conclude he has an ax to grind against the media or against First Amendment claims," Henry Kaufman of the pro-media Libel Defense Resource Center said of Souter. "Arguably, we will get a fair hearing. But he's no Brennan."

Brennan retired in July after a 34-year career as the high court's leading voice of liberalism. He wrote a 1964 landmark opinion giving the news media broad protection against libel suits by public figures and recently authored opinions barring criminal prosecution of those who burn the American flag in protest.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is scheduled to begin hearings on Souter's nomination Sept. 13. Most of what is known of his views have come from his writings as a New Hampshire state judge.

President Bush named Souter to the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston this year.

Some who have studied the handful of opinions Souter wrote on First Amendment issues during his seven years on the New Hampshire Supreme Court say they are heartened that Bush didn't choose someone with apparent rigid ideas that could limit free expression.

"I think he's been very balanced on free-press issues," said Claudia Haskell of the First Amendment Congress. "He's in the mainstream."

However, the advocates said they don't expect Souter to be an ardent defender of free expression if he wins confirmation.

Criminal mischief reports filed

The Labor Day holiday found Snyder police investigating 11 cases of criminal mischief.

At 11:29 a.m. Monday, Wanda Miller of 3205 Ave. A reported that the emblem key cover on her 1984 Cadillac had been stolen. This was the first of 10 such reports received by local police from individuals within a four block area.

Also reporting car emblem thefts were Lester Anderson of 203 34th St., 1981 Pontiac; A.C. Weaver of 221 34th St., 1983 Oldsmobile; Wayne Parmer of 212 34th St., 1982 Oldsmobile; J.W. Browning of 203 33rd St., 1977 Chevrolet; Mettie Caperton of 224 33rd St., 1977 Mercury; Jean Howell of 202 34th St., 1990 Mercury; Lois Eades of 217 35th St., 1984 Chrysler; Erma Devers of 216 35th St., 1979 Cadillac; and Patsy Nin of 214 35th St., 1979 Chrysler.

At 9:38 p.m., police took another criminal mischief complaint. A woman in the 2200 block of Ave. T reported that a padlock on a door of her residence had been broken.

Police were called to a fight at 12:47 a.m. today at Eastridge Apartments. Police arrested a 22-year-old male for public intoxication and disorderly conduct.

At 2:18 a.m., an attempted burglary at Snyder Janitorial Supplies, 2210 25th St., was investigated. Two plate glass doors had been broken out, but nothing was missing from the business, according to owner Tommy Davis.

At 2:38 a.m., police were called to the 2400 block of Ave. I where a man advised that there was a male subject lying on his porch. Police took into custody a 33-year-old male for public intoxication.

He was a member of First Christian Church where he was a church leader, a member of the choir and had been installed as Elder Emeritus on June 2.

Survivors include his wife, Johnnie Lou of Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. Steven E. (Joni Lyn) Withrow of Midland; two sisters, Mrs. Cecil (Charlene) Cox of Abilene and Mrs. Herman (Shirley) Workman of Lubbock; two brothers, Col. James Avery of Valrico, Fla., and Bobby Avery of El Paso; seven nieces and two nephews.

Memorials may be made to the Jerry Avery Memorial Fund at First Christian Church, 911 Goliad, Big Spring, 79720.

At 10:30 a.m. Monday, Linda Smith of Abilene reported that items had been taken out of a house at Hargrove and Ave. R in Hermleigh.

At 5:33 p.m., deputies received a call from one-half mile east of Willow Park Inn concerning a domestic dispute. Deputies arrived and resolved the situation.

ADMISIONS: J. Joyce Hibbs, 4515 Galveston; Josie Muniz, 1303 18th; Willie Mason, 3404 Kerrville; Bryan Flowers, Tye; Jimmy Lloyd, Colorado City; Yolanda Solis, Loraine.

DISMISSALS: Lerline Cogdell, David Guzman, Mary Moffitt, Daniel Holley, David Clinkinbeard.

Bread lines form in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Bread, one of the few foods Soviet consumers have been able to obtain easily, is now in short supply in Moscow for the first time since the early 1960s.

Despite a record grain harvest this year, many of Moscow's bread stores were empty on Monday, and there were long lines at others.

Some irate consumers blamed President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's economic reforms.

"That's perestroika — we're not moving forward, we're going backward," said Viktor Lyubeznov, a 52-year-old electrician who went to four Moscow bread stores before finding a loaf.

"Now we think freely, we speak freely, but the economic situation is more severe than ever," said Irina Samoruppa, 65.

Russians have long been accustomed to shortages of fresh vegetables, fruits and meat. They have no microwave foods, and no 24-hour convenience stores. But heavy Russian bread, baked in central factories and sold at subsidized prices, has always been fresh and plentiful.

The last time people remember long bread lines was under former Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who was ousted in 1964.

If the shortage continues, it will be especially hard on retirees. Some receive pensions of just 30 to 60 rubles ($48 to $96) a month and survive largely on bread, which costs just 15 to 25 kopecks a kilogram (11 to 18 cents a pound).

Arrested was Yull Garry Morales, 18, of Queens, who police said stabbed Watkins.

Also arrested and booked for investigation of murder and robbery were: Johnnie Hincapie, Anthony Andersen, Louis Fernando Montiero, Ricardo Lopez, Emiliano Fernandez, all of Queens; Pascual Carpenter, of Long Island and Ricardo Nova, address unknown. All are 18.

Three toopers hurt at pigeon shoot

HEGINS, Pa. (AP) — An annual Labor Day pigeon shoot involving birds released from cages was "American as apple pie," one advocate said, but dozens of animal-rights activists didn't agree and clashed with shooters.

Three state troopers suffered minor injuries and 25 people were arrested during the 57th Annual Fred Coleman Memorial Shoot at Hegin, 40 miles northeast of Harrisburg.

Several fistfights broke out, a skunk was thrown at protesters and a demonstrator kicked out the windshield of a car.

Animal-rights activists from Pennsylvania, California, Maryland, Kansas, Illinois, New Jersey, West Virginia, Virginia, Texas and Florida picketed the all-day community fund-raiser, billed as the largest live pigeon shoot in the world.

Competitors using shotguns stood about 20 yards from the birds, which were released one at a time from cages.

After a group of birds was shot, a group of young "trapper boys" ran onto the field to retrieve them. Some birds were only wounded and the children would wring their necks or pull their heads off. Dead birds were collected to be used in fertilizer, shooters said.

An estimated 4,800 birds were killed Monday, organizers said. "This is as American as apple pie and Chevrolet," said one burly man, wearing a Jack Daniels baseball cap. "There's a lot more worse things than this. Go to Saudi Arabia and protest the oil prices."

"It's deplorable that these men get their kicks out of this," said Paula Murphy, an elementary school teacher from Ashland.

Fourteen animal activists with fake blood dripping from their mouths charged onto the field at different times attempting to free the caged birds. Spectators chanted "shoot" as state police tried to handcuff the demonstrators.

The people who rushed the field were charged with criminal trespass. An additional 11 demonstrators were charged with disorderly conduct.

Community members jeered, shouted obscenities and homosexual slurs at the demonstrators. They said the activists should leave them alone because the shoot is legal.

Shooter Jack Keating said the shoot is simply "killing rats with wings." Protesters carried signs that read "Small Men, Big Guns," "Stop the Slaughter," and "Killing for Fun is Sick."

Faith's parents await homecoming

DALLAS (AP) — A Burleson couple is anxiously counting the days until their baby daughter, one of a handful of infants who have survived a rare fetal surgery, can leave the hospital.

Faith Nicole Alexander was born 2½ months prematurely Aug. 5 at a Fort Worth hospital, a month after undergoing experimental surgery while in her mother's womb.

Her parents, Teri and Mike Alexander, can hardly wait to bring their child home.

"I went to the hospital on Wednesday, and I held her in my arms," Mrs. Alexander told The Dallas Morning News in today's editions. "It was very emotional."

The baby is expected to remain hospitalized at Harris Methodist-Fort Worth Hospital for another six weeks.

In the meantime, the Alexanders are remodeling a room for the baby.

"We still need to put on the wallpaper, arrange the room and do other little things," said Alexander, a DART mechanic. "We need to get busy. Before you know it, she'll be here."

Faith is the third child in the United States, and the first from Texas, to survive the surgery, performed at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco. Six others did not survive.

The surgery corrected a rare and often fatal prenatal defect known as congenital diaphragmatic hernia, which causes the stomach and intestines to crowd the heart and lungs.

The defect occurs in about one in 2,220 fetuses. A newborn with the defect has about a 25 percent chance of survival and usually suffers serious complications.

Mrs. Alexander, 30, said she wants to work to make more people aware of the surgery.

"I don't think a lot of people know about this, not even some doctors," she said. "We need to get the word out so that other expectant mothers facing the same problem can have the same choice."

"I would tell another mother to do it for her baby. I know it's painful, but it's all worth it."

Lora Scott, 26, of Tacoma, Wash., agreed.

"I'm glad I went through it, and I want to pass the word too," said Ms. Scott, whose daughter underwent fetal surgery March 3. Hers was the second successful fetal operation in the United States.

Autopsies reveal teens were stabbed

LAMPASAS, Texas (AP) — Three Bell County teen-agers found dead along a railroad line apparently were fatally stabbed before being hit by a train, authorities said.

A preliminary autopsy report showed the two boys and a girl had been repeatedly stabbed and were dead prior to being struck by the Santa Fe Railroad train.

Complete autopsy results were expected later today, authorities said.

The victims were 15-year-old Christopher Kelsey Hagerman, of rural Bell County, and two 16-year-olds from Copperas Cove, Joshua Post and Manessa Fawn Cartwright.

The investigation is centering on the Kempner area, where the three were last seen alive, around 4 p.m. Saturday, said Lampasas County Sheriff's Office spokeswoman Alma Van Winkle.

Santa Fe engineers noticed the bodies about 12:35 p.m. Sunday, eight miles east of Lampasas.

Authorities said the three were hit by a train that passed through the area traveling west around 4:30 a.m. Sunday. The bodies had been hurled a considerable distance from the tracks.

The engineers on the 4:30 a.m. train had no indication the train had struck the three teens, said Santa Fe spokesman Robert Gehrt in Chicago.

Police officer kills DeSoto man

DeSOTO, Texas (AP) — A man was shot to death by a DeSoto police officer during what police said was a struggle for the officer's gun.

Police and the Dallas County Medical Examiner's Office have refused to release the name of the man, who died about 6 p.m. Monday.

An official at Methodist Medical Center, where the victim died, said the 43-year-old DeSoto man was shot twice in the upper back.

The officer involved in the shooting was treated at Charlton Methodist Hospital for a minor concussion, abrasions and a twisted ankle.

Captain J.D. Horvath of the DeSoto Police Department said late Monday that the officer's name would not be released because officials had not yet questioned him about the shooting.

The incident occurred about 5:20 p.m. Monday after the officer pulled the man over for running a stop sign, DeSoto police said. Horvath said witnesses told police that after the man got out of the car, he and the officer began struggling for the officer's gun. At some point in the scuffle, the man was shot.

Jerry Lee Avery

1938-1990

BIG SPRING — Services for Jerry Lee Avery, 52, of Big Spring are set for 4 p.m. today at First Christian Church with Rev. Steve Comstock officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home. Cremation will follow.

Mr. Avery died Friday at a Big Spring hospital.

He was born in Big Spring and moved to Abilene as an infant. He attended Abilene schools. He returned to Big Spring in 1966 and worked as a sales representative for West Texas Wholesale Supply of Abilene from 1957 until his retirement in April of this year. He was well known in the Snyder business community, because that city had been a part of his sales route for the past 30 years.

He was a member of First Christian Church where he was a church leader, a member of the choir and had been installed as Elder Emeritus on June 2.

Survivors include his wife, Johnnie Lou of Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. Steven E. (Joni Lyn) Withrow of Midland; two sisters, Mrs. Cecil (Charlene) Cox of Abilene and Mrs. Herman (Shirley) Workman of Lubbock; two brothers, Col. James Avery of Valrico, Fla., and Bobby Avery of El Paso; seven nieces and two nephews.

Memorials may be made to the Jerry Avery Memorial Fund at First Christian Church, 911 Goliad, Big Spring, 79720.

Campaigns hit homestretch

AUSTIN (AP) — Clayton Williams enjoyed a double-digit lead heading into the final leg of his campaign for governor, but opponent Ann Richards says she's confident the lead will diminish.

Williams, Richards and candidates for other offices traversed Texas during Labor Day weekend, the traditional start of political season.

Republican Williams, a Midland oilman and rancher, holds a 10-point lead in most polls over Democrat Richards in the Nov. 6 general election.

But Richards, the state treasurer, said she is encouraged because Williams' lead hasn't grown despite his television advertising blitz.

"My feeling was that if we could hold our own against all of his wealth and his millions into television through Labor Day, then we're going to be competitive," Richards said at a dove hunt.

Williams displayed the confidence of a front-runner drawing from a huge cache of campaign money as he stumped West Texas with other Republican candidates.

"I'm not going to declare victory, but you know the part of the leader is to define your objectives and define your goals. And my goal is for these men and women to win in a landslide," Williams said.

On Monday, Williams rode a horse in the Jaycee Jubilee Parade in Garland and then went on a campaign trip to South Padre Island.

Richards started the day at a labor group breakfast in Houston and then attended state Sen. Carl Parker's annual Labor Day picnic in Beaumont before heading

AIDS total in Texas passes 10,000

DALLAS (AP) — The number of AIDS cases in Texas has surpassed 10,000 during the past two months and health department officials warn the total could double in 1991.

Recent statistics by the Texas Department of Health show there have been 10,493 cases of AIDS reported since records were first kept in 1981.

That figure doesn't surprise local health officials, who projected that the 10,000 mark would be reached in 1990. They also estimate that 20,000 cases could be recorded by the end of 1991.

"We see no evidence that the numbers are falling off," Christie Reed, director of the AIDS-HIV division of the Health Department, told The Dallas Morning News.

Texas is fourth in the country in reported AIDS cases, behind New York, California and Florida. New Jersey, which has the fifth highest incidence of AIDS, probably will surpass 10,000 reported cases in a few months, the newspaper said.

Because the incubation period for the virus that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome can range from six to 10 years, new cases transmitted before 1985 will continue to surface for several years, officials say.

to West Texas. Last spring, Williams was damaged by a series of gaffes. But Richards has failed to form a coherent message for voters, political analysts say.

Williams compared foul weather to rape, saying "if it's inevitable, just relax and enjoy it." He later apologized, but then admitted to being "serviced" by prostitutes as a young man. He also said he would be uncomfortable running against a woman.

The Williams campaign has tried to paint Richards as a liberal, linking her to gays and lesbians and Hollywood actress Jane Fonda. The Richards campaign responded with television ads questioning Williams' business ethics.

Despite a state budget crisis looming when the Legislature meets in January — estimates run from a $3 billion to $5 billion budget shortfall — both Williams and Richards have said new taxes aren't the answer.

Williams took the tax question a step farther, saying that if elected he would veto any tax increase. The Richards camp responded by saying that Gov. Bill Clements, also a Republican, had broken a similar promise.

Lawmakers will return to full agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has a lot to get done when it returns to work this week.

"Bananas. It's going to be bananas," says Rep. Martin Frost, a Dallas Democrat.

Lawmakers will be racing to craft a 1990 budget, hammer out differences in a five-year farm program and a clean air act, and make decisions on scores of individually-sponsored bills before an election recess or adjournment in late October.

In addition, the Persian Gulf crisis will wrest lawmakers' attention and time from some pieces of legislation.

And, for the members of Congress who face opponents in the November election, including 13 from Texas, the next two months will be especially hectic. Many will fly home every weekend to campaign.

The House resumes formal sessions this week and the Senate next week.

The House Foreign Affairs committee scheduled a hearing Tuesday with Secretary of State James Baker for an update on the Iraqi conflict.

But there will also be a lot of attention on the budget this week. The so-called budget summit between lawmakers and the administration is moving from Capitol Hill to Andrews Air Force Base just outside Washington.

President Bush called the summit in May to forge a compromise on the $1.23 trillion budget he proposed for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Participants have made little progress so far. Failure to cut the government deficit could trigger up to $100 million in spending cuts under the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

A key player in those talks, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, returned from Texas last week to put the final touches on a budget proposal he intends to make.

"I think very strongly we still should go with a $50 billion reduc-

Man's Heart Aches Each Time Woman Cries on His Shoulder

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago, my wife of 22 years divorced me without explanation. I have dated half a dozen women since. The first five were as self-centered as my wife, but I really fell for the sixth. We dated for eight months, then she decided I wasn't the one, so she dumped me.

She has dated and slept with five guys since she dumped me. How do I know? She calls every week to confide her problems and ask my advice, sometimes crying and carrying on for an hour or more. (The latest is that she fears she might be pregnant.) How do I tell her that it really hurts when she does this because I still care for her?

Also, where do I go to meet women who care about something besides themselves? Please don't tell me churches, social clubs, dancing classes and all the other "nice" places you advise women to go to meet "decent men." Those are the very places where I met not only my ex-wife 29 years ago, but also the women I've dated since the divorce. The bar scene leaves me cold, too.

Please do not publish my name or location. I'm a fairly well-known professional in this community. Everyone seems sympathetic when women have problems with men, but men who have problems with women are laughed at. I'm not in a laughing mood right now. I hurt, and don't want to hurt in return.

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: The next time "No. 6" calls to dump on you, tell her that you are unable to be objective about her problems because you still care for her. As long as you permit yourself to be used as a trouble dump, this woman will continue to dump on you, which will only add to your depression.

If you want to meet "selfless" women, start looking where selfless women go. You will find them volunteering their extra time to good causes: feeding and sheltering the homeless, caring for disadvantaged youth or the elderly, or working for victims' rights, AIDS support groups or battered women.

A final thought: A divorce (with or without explanation) after 22 years must have been devastating. Since you are obviously still hurting, please consider professional counseling.

***

DEAR ABBY: I hope this letter makes your column because I'm sure I'm not the only one with this complaint.

With each passing year, older family members break up their homes to move to smaller quarters. And what do they do with their family heirlooms? They hand them down to their children, grandchildren, nieces, nephews, etc.

I never receive any of these things. Why? Because I have no children to pass them along to. Consequently, I am deprived of the pleasure of enjoying family heirlooms while I'm alive. If I were to receive any of these treasures, I would give them to family members who were graduating from high school, college, getting married — or even celebrating a 16th birthday.

Every time I hear an older family member say, "I'm giving my fine china (or good silver or linens) to so and so because she has children," I want to scream!

Please print this, Abby. I'll buy a dozen newspapers, cut the column out and mail it to my relatives. Thank you.

LEFT OUT

DEAR LEFT OUT: Here's your letter. It's a first. Let's hope it changes a mind or two.

Your Birthday

Sept. 5, 1990

In the year ahead be alert for an unusual venture where you'll be able to transform something outmoded into a profitable endeavor. It will be in your area of expertise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not demean opportunities that appear to promise only small rewards today, because they can be transformed into something larger. One of your breaks might come from what another has cast aside. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. For your personal horoscope, lovescope, lucky numbers and future forecast, call Astro-Tone by dialing 1-900-454-3535 and entering this newspaper's access code number 000; 95 cents per minute.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions in general appear promising for you today, primarily because of your abilities to overcome difficulties. You can accomplish the results you envision.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't let an associate slip in and try to assume control today of an arrangement you're better equipped to manage. It could prove undesirable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your innate business acumen could be the asset that will put you in the profit column today. You'll be adroit at watching both the pennies and the dollars.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others will find the example you set is the proper one to follow today, because you'll take your responsibilities seriously. This will encourage them to conduct themselves similarly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Be compassionate and charitable when dealing with persons today who are less fortunate than you are. However, also be practical regarding the extent to which you are able to help.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Don't be surprised today if friends are inclined to lean on you when they have problems with which they can't cope. They picked the right person, because you'll know how to resolve things.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll have a slight edge over your adversaries in competitive developments today. However, your margin for success is rather thin; so don't push your luck too far.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It could prove beneficial at this time to reestablish communications with an old friend who presently resides in a distant location. Something mutually advantageous might result.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your possibilities for achieving your objectives are likely to be better now than they will be tomorrow. Don't shelve important matters that could be easily taken care of today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Pay heed to your mate's suggestions today if a decision has to be rendered regarding a matter of mutual concern. Your mate could have clearer perspectives than you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something in which you're presently involved with another has promising potential, but both parties must be patient, because the anticipated rewards could be slow in coming. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

chairs. "We have to make some incredible reductions. Hopefully that will get some interest rates down."

Bentsen declined to discuss specifics of his summit proposal. Two Texas Republicans, Sen. Phil Gramm and Rep. Bill Archer of Houston, are also participants.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, the San Antonio Democrat who chairs the House banking committee, plans to continue his investigation of the savings and loan crisis this week.

On Thursday, a banking subcommittee led by Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill. will hear testimony from leaders of Silverado Savings and Loan, the failed Colorado thrift for which Neil Bush, the president's son, was a director.

Gonzalez has asked President Reagan's closest economic advisers and policymakers to testify later this month about their role in the thrift crisis.

Texas in Congress this week will also be watching for a new cost estimate from the Energy Department for building the superconducting super collider.

DOE officials postponed the announcement last month after one of its four estimating teams reportedly said the collider would cost $11.7 billion, $3 billion more than any previously mentioned figure.

Congressional critics say such a jump could kill the project. The House capped collider spending at $5 billion over the next five years.

The final estimate is due from the DOE on Friday. Land acquisition has already started at the collider site in Ellis County.

Clerical mistake causes pair to lose lifetime possessions

AUSTIN (AP) — An Austin couple is suing an asset management company that says it threw away 35 years worth of their possessions and memories — because of a clerical error.

According to a lawsuit filed by Kenneth and Marjorie Glaser in state district court in Austin, workers from J.B. Goodwin Asset Management Corp. threw away five rooms of their possessions when they went to the wrong house to pick up property foreclosed by HUD.

The workers took the Glasers' belongings to a dump "where they were bulldozed, covered and summarily destroyed."

The Glasers lost antique furniture, family photographs and silver they got for their 25th anniversary — items they say are worth more than $60,000.

"At first it was such a shock," Marjorie Glaser, 53, told the Austin American-Statesman. "We had our things there, our memories and stuff. That's why it was so upsetting."

J.B. Goodwin has a contract with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to take possession of homes that HUD has foreclosed because the owners failed to make their house payments.

In the lawsuit, the Glasers are seeking $60,000 to replace their belongings and $3 million in punitive damages.

Randy Allen, president of the asset management company, said he could not comment on the suit except to say that the company's insurance carrier is dealing with the problem.

"The contractor went to the wrong house," said Ralph Hernandez, supervisor of property disposition for the 57-county HUD district office in San Antonio.

"The way I understand it, somebody took (the address) down wrong," he said. "We were contracted by Mr. Glaser and we contacted the contractor (J.B. Goodwin) and told them immediately to remove the lock. At that point, they hadn't taken any furniture."

HUD notified J.B. Goodwin last year that a house at 5319 Harmon Ave. had been foreclosed and needed to be secured, according to the suit and HUD officials. Instead, J.B. Goodwin took down the address as 5311 Harmon, HUD officials said, and the Glasers' nightmare began.

On Dec. 8, 1989, Kenneth Glaser found an FBI sign on the house he and his wife had lived in for 35 years telling him that it belonged to the U.S. government and he could not enter.

Glaser said he knew something was wrong because he had paid off the loan on his house about 25 years ago.

The Glasers had been living for several months at a family ranch near Georgetown.

Third countdown for shuttle is preceding uninterrupted

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Columbia and the observatory inside its cargo bay were pronounced trouble-free as the clock ticked on toward a Thursday launch and NASA's first shuttle flight in more than four months.

It is the third countdown for the astronomy mission, which was delayed by fuel leaks in May and telescope problems last week. Liftoff is set for 1:20 a.m. EDT.

"We've had some trouble, but responding to trouble, fixing problems, is our strong suit," test director Mike Leinbach said Monday. "We've been disappointed several times, of course, but Thursday morning we hope that's all behind us."

Columbia was supposed to have lifted off May 30 with the $150 million observatory, but the launch was scrubbed because of a hydrogen leak. Atlantis was found a month later to have a similar problem, and NASA temporarily grounded the three-shuttle fleet.

NASA replaced Columbia's leaky hydrogen lines and rescheduled liftoff for Saturday, but that attempt was abandoned because of communication problems with Astro's 1,500-pound X-ray telescope. The problem was fixed over the weekend.

Four of Columbia's seven astronauts are astronomers who will take turns operating Astro's three ultraviolet telescopes around the clock. The X-ray telescope will be managed from the ground.

The nine- to 10-day flight will be the first shuttle mission in five years devoted entirely to scientific research.

NASA plans to move Discovery to the other shuttle launch pad tonight for a flight in October with the Ulysses spacecraft, which will be sent on a five-year journey to explore the sun's polar regions.

That mission will be followed in November by Atlantis' classified Pentagon flight, originally scheduled for July.

NASA had hoped for nine shuttle missions this year but so far has flown only three.

The last shuttle flight was in April, when Discovery carried the Hubble Space Telescope into orbit. The $1.5 billion observatory later was found to have a flawed mirror that produces blurry images.

Astronomers have been waiting 4½ years for the Astro mission.

Columbia originally was scheduled to lift off with Astro in March 1986 to study, among other things, Halley's comet. The mission and all others were postponed after the Challenger disaster.

On its revamped schedule, Astro will examine some of the hottest objects in the universe, including a supernova and Comet Levy, which is making its first recorded pass through the solar system.

The observatory will remain on board and return to Earth for possible re-use.

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Snyder Daily News, Box 949, or bring it by the news office at 3600 College Ave. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 5:00 p.m. Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the total points of the score for that game and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second and third place winners. In the case of a perfect score, the formula would apply for that cash prize.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disqualify all that person's entries. Entries must be on the official entry blank (No Copies Please). Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the winner's story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the SDN and their families are not eligible to enter.
