Green Vegetables and Shorts

The people of the United States have had so many necessities, conveniences and luxuries made available to them by private enterprise that they take them for granted as they do air, light and water. They expect to find them wherever they go whether it be to a big city or a town in the desert-the same kind of razor blades, the same kind of coffee, the same kind of practically everything.

Three forces have made such service possible: first, production in quantities to supply every part of the country; second, transportation methods that put the goods in every city, town and hamlet: third, a retailing system that makes the articles available to the buvers.

Nothing has done more to get a uniform quality of merchandise to customers throughout the nation, at reasonable prices, than has the chain store method of operation.

It has made clothing, food and variety items, which only our city grandparents could purchase locally, available to virtually every farm boy and girl and man and woman. Green vegetables from the south and southwest reach the northern and ea tern states in the dead of winter. Bathing suits and shorts from the northern factory become available in the latest styles for southern vacationers in January,

And so it goes with all products. The chain method of mass merchandising at minimum prices sees to it that the public is served as never before.

An item in the 60 years ago column of The Free Press last week told of the schedule of the mail and passenger hack between Haskell and Stamford. operated by, J. L. Baldwin.

The hack met the 5 p. m. passenger train in Stamford, and transported mail and passengers to Haskell, arriving here at 7:30 p. m. It was advertised as the 'fastest time of any hack between the two towns." a matter of two and one-half hours.

Kermit Thornton of Tracy Calif., who was here recently to visit relatives and friends, told of traveling from California to Dallas by jet airliner. Time required for the trip was 212 hours from LA to Dallas-hack from Haskell to Stamford Kermit said the "jets" fly at about 30,000 feet. He said that shortly after take-off for Dallas, the attention of passengers was called to points of interest visible from the plane. At one point, on one side of the plane Lake Tahoe could be plainly seen, while on the other sid e some outstanding land feature was visible from the plane's height of almost five miles. From the sky he said the two points appeared fairly close together, while actually they were seperated by a distance of more than 500 miles!

Kermit's discussion of the ets called to mind for his brother, Kenneth Thornton, and PPT some of the first barnstorming planes to visit Haskell in the period following the first World War.

Kenneth recalled his first plane ride was in one of these War one vintage ships.

Reviewing the incident of some 40-odd years ago, Kenneth can rightfully claim the title of having served as one of the world's youngest plane navigators!

On this particular occasion pilot of the barnstorming plane had landed on the Pinkerton farm west of town. despite the fact that the most favored spot ! was an open glade or prairie just north of the M. S. Shook home on the north city limits. The almost perfect landing field is now a choice residential

But back to Kenneth's role as navigator:

When the plane circled town and came down on the Pinkerton farm, interested townsfolk flocked to the scene, with many teenage boys in the group.

The pilot planned to spend several days here carrying local people on flights. He began asking questions as to how long since a plane had been here etc., and if there was any other place to land. Several youths spoke up quickly and mentioned the Shook place. When the pilot asked if anyone would volunteer to guide him to it. Kenneth spoke up for the job.

Climbing into the seat behind the pilot, Kenneth waved the same time required 60 nervously to his friends as the of the controver- , take baptism very seriously, and that is why we do recognize all three forms. We know it is a symbol. Neither the condition of the minister nor the name of the Church can help or hinder the process. Neither s salvation dependent upon it, nor is a person lost without t. The Bible does clearly substantiate this fact.

The same is true of infants. We baptise them because we believe that they are part of the covenant family of God and are saved if they die in infancy. and this by the grace of God.

Here again, we cannot prove onclusively that this was part of the New Testament practice. We do find, however, that several families were baptized by the Apostles - Cornelius and his house (Acts 10:2, 44, 48): Lydia and her household (Acts 16:15); the Philippian jailand his house 16:33): Crispus and his house Acts 18:8); the house of Stephanas (I Cor. 1:16). In some if not all of the households there must have been children, and these children were not excluded from the sacrament

Baptism in the New Testament took the place of circumcision in the Old Testament as the "sign and seal" of God's covenanted mercies. The one serves exactly the same office as the other. As the one was applied to children. it is a natural inference that the other should be applied to children also.

There is another truth that we must face, and that is that Christ did not expect His church to remain stagnant, try-ing to be forever like the Church of the first century. If we were to follow this reasoning to its logical conclusion, we would have to wear sandals,
long, flowing white garments, ride donkeys to church, destroy our air-conditioning and electric lights, and on and on into an even more ridiculous and im-possible condition. We must un-derstand that God is the only unchangeable entity in this changing world. We are to hold fast to the basic tenets of our Christian faith as we have come

THE DIFFERENT SOFT DRINK DOES IT AGAIN!

Dr Pepper does it again...the different soft drink is having another different contest! Where else can you win a solid gold dinosaur and $10,000 in

So enter, friends. As often as you like. Surely you can use $10,000. And the dinosaur is an original by Johnny Hart, creator of the comic strip "B.C." (He also created the two characters above, Harmon and Bunion, and the other friendly caveman types we hope you're enjoying in our current advertising.)

In case you've wondered, we once we gave away a Diamond Doorknob, last year a Tropical Island—to remind you that Dr Pepper is an unusual soft drink. Not a cola, not a reot beer, it's a happy blend of many fruit flavors. Try it. See why almost everyone says,"It's different—I like it"!

GIVE THIS POOR CREATURE A HOME! It breaks our heart to part with this handsome fellow, but we know someone will give him the home he deserves. He's no trouble at all -and not life-size (how would you get him into the house?)! Actually, this Johnny Hart-designed original stands 4' tall and will be the perfect conversation piece on your mantel or book shelf. Hand-crafted of 10-karat solid gold (weighted), he comes complete with his favorite possession—a min-iature Dr Pepper bottle (we had to get the commercial in someplace).

You'll find an official entry

Due to the Haskell-Graham Little League Baseball District 9 play-off game here Friday night, July 27, the Lions-Rotarian softball game which had been set for that night has been postponed indefinitely. So Free Press readers are asked to watch the paper for the reset date of the Lions-Rotarians

How time does fly. Vacation time will soon end for Haskell students. It's just about a month now until school bells will ring again and of course that means the football season is just around the corner.

Haskell, Winters, Stamford, Ballinger, Anson and Hamlin will comprise District 6-AA, in a strong, well-balanced district. Haskell "racked-up" an 8-2 record last year and with some 14 lettermen returning should be among the contenders for the district this year With such outstanding returning players as John Kimbrough, Pobby Herren, Perry Pogue. Leslie Wooten David Anderson, Phil Bowers, Lonnie Decker. Joseph Thigpen, plus others, the Indians could be plenty tough.

The Indians will open play this season against Seymour which reminds us of a large sign at a road intersection near the West Texas town that reads: "SLYMOUR - MUNDAY" . . and that by-the-way reminds us of this little pun on West Texas towns. It all came about this way. During the Stamford Cowboy Reunion, Mr. Wright had a special railroad car sidetracked at Stamford, which he used as headquarters during the reunion. Among his guests included Dr. T. W. Williams of Haskell, who was invited to inspect the spacious car, In the meantime Dr. Williams invited Mr. Armstrong to become member of the Haskell's Sheriff's Posse.

Recently Dr. Williams wrote Armstrong, enclosing a badge bearing the name of the Haskell Sheriff's Posse and again inviting him to become an lene, and Jimmy Gordon and honorary member of the local Mr. Armstrong replied he was very happy to that have been made a member of the local riding club.

So, the Haskell County Sheriff's Posse now has a new member-an honorary onebut who knows he may be an active member one of these days, since he is up for retirement in the near future.
