Dunbar dumped, 35-12

Snyder's Tigers defeated Dunbar 35-12 Friday night to keep alive playoff hopes and post their first winning season since 1979. At 5-2-1 now and 2-1 in district play, Snyder will find itself in postseason action if the Tigers can defeat Frenship on Nov. 2 and longtime rival Lamesa on Nov. 9. Friday's victory was accented by another touchdown from the Tiger special teams as Shelby Bufkin blocked a Dunbar punt and Blair Williams fell on it in the end zone for a 7-0 lead before the SHS offense ever got on the field. It was the fourth TD of the season from Snyder's special teams. Mark King put Snyder ahead 14-0 with a 10-yard run that stood until halftime. The Tigers made it 28-0 on touchdown runs of 10 yards from Paul Anderson and 11 yards from Bryan Brunson in the third quarter. Anderson, who had 74 yards on just eight carries for the night, raced 42 steps for Snyder's final TD in the fourth period. Brunson kicked all five PATs. At right, deep-snapper Bay John Long is congratulated at the sideline by Jack Dorsett, defensive coordinator.

House approves deficit-reduction by a 228-220 vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nearly $250 billion deficit-reduction package of tax increases and spending restraints supported by President Bush and Democratic leaders was approved by the House early Saturday over the opposition of most Republicans.

The 228-220 vote sent the bill to the Senate, which was to consider it later in the day.

"The American people have had enough of ... (being told) that somehow we can confront the deficit and it doesn't involve pain," Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., chairman of the House Budget Committee, said in pleading for support. "The fact is that it does and that is what this package is all about."

"By doing this, we have reduced the debt on each of our kids by $2,000," said Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

Republicans complained that the plan, which includes the second biggest tax increase in history, was being considered in the middle of the night without (see HOUSE, page 15)

CROP walk officials advise of time change

CROP walk participants are being advised that the annual fundraiser has been moved up in time from 2 p.m. until 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Participants are asked to begin registering at 1 p.m. at the courthouse, and be ready to start the walk at 1:30 p.m.

The event is held to help provide funds for agriculture development and disaster relief. Walk organizers say 25 percent of the funds collected will go towards the Scurry County Food Bank.

Over 100 county residents are expected to participate in the event, which is sponsored locally by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance. Dr. Tim Griffin, pastor of First Christian Church, will head the effort.

Those participating have obtained donor forms, which lists sponsor's pledges.

CROP's funds, administered through Church World Service, help people in crisis all around the world in agricultural development and disaster relief.

It is stressed that Church World Service emphasizes self-development, underscoring the need to eradicate the basic causes of hunger and shelter problems.

There are more than 1,600 walks nationwide, involving some three million people as participants and sponsors.

Kirkpatrick to speak at garden convention

Zoe Kirkpatrick, well-known authority on wild flowers, will be the guest speaker during the District 8 Garden Club Fall Convention, scheduled here on Friday, Nov. 2.

The convention is sponsored by the Snyder, Roby and Colorado City garden clubs.

Local garden club members are expecting about 150 District 8 garden club participants to attend the convention. District 8 is a part of the Texas State Garden Club. The theme for the convention is "Call of the West."

A pre-convention dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 1 at Snyder Country Club. Cindy Nix will provide entertainment.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. Friday at Scurry County Museum on the college campus. An executive board meeting will be held at 8:30 a.m., and a general assembly will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Mrs. Jack Bryant, District 8 director from Abilene, will preside.

The assembly will be followed by a luncheon at Martha Ann Woman's Club and will feature Mrs. Kirkpatrick as the speaker.

She spoke at Wildflower Day at

Full agenda faces county

Scurry County commissioners face a full agenda in their 10 a.m. Monday meeting at the county courthouse.

The court will hear a request from Monte West and George Page regarding a Little League practice field in Towle Park.

County Agriculture Extension Agent Marvin Ensor is scheduled to address the court concerning his position as county agent.

Commissioners will also hear the third quarterly report from the county treasurer and a request from the county auditor to advertise bids for the purchase of road materials.

WTC theatre season opens with production of Candida

Western Texas College theatre department opens its new season with the production of George Bernard Shaw's "Candida" on Thursday in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus.

The show will be held nightly at 8 o'clock through Saturday, Nov. 3. Tickets, on sale now at the box office, are $5 for adults, $4 for senior citizens and $3 for students.

"Candida" is a popular play which touches the audience's emotions.

"I think it will remind the audience of their own first 'calf love,' more than a crush, that emotion that brought on a pink flush," said Jim Rambo, director. "And the ending will probably prove to be a surprise."

Amber Adams, an award-winning high school actress while at Snyder High School, has been cast as Candida. Adams played the lead role in "Texas" last summer.

Jeff Hicks, a sophomore student from Mulshoe, portrays the Rev. James Morrell. Nicole Lancet, a newcomer to WTC from Seagraves, appears as Prosperpine Garnett.

Adams, Hicks and Lancet were recipients of Roy and Geleska Baze drama scholarships this year.

Other members of the cast are Frank Romeo of Roby as Alexander Mill, Jerry Vizena of Thorndale as Mr. Burgess and Kenn Kern of Hurst as Eugene Marchbanks.

Assistant directors are Jennifer Hatley of Vernon and Sherri Cribbs of Hawley, who also understudies. Galen Price of

Snyder has designed the set and lighting and Tom Reeves of (see CANDIDA, page 15)

Jury called for Monday

Jury selection is scheduled to begin Monday in 132nd District Court in the trial of Encarnacion Villa, charged with aggravated sexual assault of a child.

Villa, 37, of 1801 15th St., is charged in connection with a March 15, 1989, incident involving a 13-year-old girl. He is represented by Jesse Mendez of Lubbock.

Prosecuting the case will be District Attorney Ernie Armstrong. District Judge Gene Dulaney will preside.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "You can always trust a fat man because he'll never stoop to anything low."

Election day is Tuesday, and our best advice is to be a ticket splitter.

At the top of the ballot we recommend Sen. Phil Gramm's re-election to the U.S. Senate. For governor, Republican Clayton Williams is an easy choice. There is some voter discontent with both major candidates for governor, but voters do have a clear choice between a conservative businessman or a liberal bureaucrat. The conservative would surround himself with other conservatives and the liberal lady would appoint other liberals and ACLU lawyers.

For Lt. Gov., we have to go with Democrat Bob Bullock who perhaps has run the most efficient operation in state government as state comptroller.

We've been on the fence in the attorney general's race between Republican Buster Brown and Democrat Dan Morales. However, when Morales praised current AG Jim Mattox, it turned the tide in favor of Brown.

John Sharp, a Democrat, is our pick for comptroller and Kay Bailey Hutchison, a Republican, is recommended for state treasurer. West Texan Rick Perry is our choice for ag commissioner against the liberal Democratic incumbent, and Beau Boulter gets our nod for railroad commissioner.

Incumbent Supreme Court Justice Tom Phillips is worthy of re-election along with John Cornyn for place one on the court. Both are Republicans. For place 2 on the supreme court, we recommend Democrat Bob Gammage.

There are five spots on the court of criminal appeals. We support Democrat Frank Maloney for place one and Republican Oliver Kitman for place two. For place three, we favor Democrat Bill White over his Libertarian opponent. For place four, incumbent Republican David Berchmann is worthy of re-election. For place five on the court of criminal appeals, Republican Louis Sturns is an easy choice.

The most important thing, however, is to vote...

Barry still seeks council seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Marion Barry says he plans to proceed with his campaign for a city council seat even though he was sentenced to a six-month jail term for cocaine possession. "For the next few months, I will manage the District (of Columbia) government and also continue my campaign for city council," said Barry in a brief meeting with reporters after Friday's sentencing.

Asked whether he should continue his bid for a city-wide council seat, Barry responded, "Absolutely. Why not?" He attributed the jail term to the inequities of "the American injustice system." Barry is locked in a close battle for second place in an eight-way contest for a council job. The top two vote-getters will win council posts, and recent polls show that Democratic nominee Linda Cropp has a sizable lead. The final seat is expected to be won either by Barry or incumbent Hilda Mason of the district's Statehood Party.

Barry dropped his Democratic party affiliation and registered as an independent to run for the seat less than two weeks after being convicted of the misdemeanor possession charge. He had ruled out running for a fourth term as mayor in advance of his drug trial.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson could have sentenced Barry to probation as a first offender, but he said the mayor's "breach of public trust alone warrants an enhanced sentence."

The judge stayed the sentence, which also includes a $5,000 fine, pending resolution of an appeal filed by defense attorney R. Kenneth Mundy.

Jackson also placed Barry on one year of probation and ordered him to submit to random drug tests during that period.

SDN home-delivery prices adjusted effective Nov. 1

Higher fuel costs has necessitated a rate adjustment in home delivery prices of the Snyder Daily News.

Effective Nov. 1, the monthly home-delivered price of the newspaper will be $6.05. The three-month rate is $17.25 while the six-month rate is $34. The annual subscription price will be $65.75 or 21 cents per day.

The SDN announced the rate adjustment is caused by the increased cost of fuel faced by carriers on a daily basis. Production costs also have been impacted by higher costs of petroleum products to include newsprint, ink and graphic arts supplies. These costs are further impacted by freight-cost surcharges.

"GOODWIN for GOOD GOVERNMENT"

Improved emergency response is coming to Scurry County. 911 will be a life-saver for many county residents. As your county judge I have cooperated with all emergency-related agencies in the county in preparation for 911. It was first estimated that the start-up cost would be $30,000, but the cooperative efforts have substantially reduced that amount. Therefore, in 1991, $5,000 instead of $30,000 was added to the county judges' budget for 911 development.

Skinny-dipping allegations dog gubernatorial candidate

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Auditor Arne Carlson, who lost to gubernatorial candidate Jon Gruneth admitted during a televised debate that he had "wild years," but denied swimming nude with girls.

As Gruneth debated two challengers Friday, fellow Republicans pressured him to quit the race, fearing his troubles could drag them down to defeat.

"I can't say, Jon, you have to get off the ticket. . . I don't have that kind of power," said U.S. Sen. Rudy Boschwitz. "But I can talk to him and tell him I think he has a future and he should not endanger that future by running in a three-man race and coming in third."

Gruneth is trying to unseat incumbent Gov. Rudy Perpich, a Democrat seeking an unprecedented fourth term. State Auditor Arne Carlson, who lost to Gruneth in the Republican primary, began a write-in campaign after Gruneth became entangled in the nude-swimming allegations.

During Friday night's debate, Gruneth said he went through "wild years" a decade ago when he was separated from his first wife and later divorced. But he said the allegations he swam nude with teen-age girls at a 1981 pool party are untrue.

"The legend of Jon Gruneth has been grossly exaggerated," he said. "There are things I've done in my life I wish I hadn't done. That's not unlike most of us."

Perpich blasted Gruneth during the debate for having said the governor was behind the allegations two young women brought against Gruneth.

The Cleveland Browns won all four All-America Conference titles in the four years of its existence, 1946-49.

Lord's Acre Festival set Nov. 3

First United Methodist Church will host the first "Lord's Acre Festival" starting at noon Saturday, Nov. 3, at Scurry County Coliseum. Over 100 members of the congregation have been working on the project since its inception.

The festival will consist of booths which will feature a variety of items for sale including, pottery, quilts, handmade furniture, clothing, handmade Christmas items, baked goods and much more.

Activity booths for children are also planned as well as a snack bar. Door prizes will also be given away each hour. A barbecue dinner will be served that evening, beginning at 5:30 p.m. Barbecue tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for children 6-11 and children under six eat free.

Barbecue tickets may be purchased at the coliseum or in advance from any member of the church. An auction will cap the day's activities, beginning at 7 p.m. Items to be auctioned will include a quilt, handmade BBQ smoker and pit, six place setting of handmade pottery with highest bidder to choose color, a western sculpture by Kenneth Wyatt and an oil painting.

All proceeds will be used for the FUMC's youth ministry program.

Senior Center planning Halloween party

Games and prizes are planned for senior citizens at the Senior Center's Halloween Carnival Wednesday morning. The party will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue until about 11:30 a.m. Costumes will be judged at 10 a.m.

A domino tournament is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Monday in the center. Senior citizens who enjoy card games are invited to arrange games of their choice as well.

Textile painting is taught in classes meeting on alternate Thursdays at the center. The class this Thursday will begin at 9 a.m. A modified exercise class meets in the center at 11 a.m. each weekday morning and an aerobics class for women meets at 3 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday afternoon.

Volunteers who work with commodity distribution are required to participate in a training session to be certified each year. The next session will be held Nov. 8 at 10 a.m. in the center's conference room and everyone who would like to help is asked to attend that meeting.

Senior citizens re-elected Ruth West as the center's representative to the Advisory Council in voting last week. The Advisory Council will officially welcome new members and officers at its November meeting.

Senior citizens who have checked large print books out of Scurry County Library are asked to check their reading materials to see if they have overdue books. A list of overdue books is posted in the dining room in the center for reference.

Pilots sentenced to prison

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The first commercial pilots to be convicted for flying a jetliner while intoxicated were sentenced to prison Friday by a judge who reproached them for risking lives and breaking the trust of passengers.

"Who can comprehend an entire crew alcohol-impaired?" U.S. District Judge James Rosenbaum said. "It is a crime against our sense of security. In that sense, all of us are a victim of this crime."

Rosenbaum indicated he reluctantly followed federal sentencing guidelines in ordering year-long prison terms for Robert Kirchner, 36, of Highland Ranch, Colo., who was flying the plane, and flight engineer Joseph Balzer, 35, of Antioch, Tenn. The flight captain, Norman Lyle Prouse, 51, of Conyers, Ga., was sentenced to 16 months.

"I have grave doubts that the guidelines fit the crime," said

Rosenbaum, who considered stiffer sentences.

Kirchner and Balzer were freed pending their appeals. Prouse didn't ask to be freed pending an appeal, but the judge gave him five days to file a request.

The sentences also bar them from flying planes with passengers for the three years of their subsequent probation.

- Lower yielding packer bulls, $58 to $63 per pound.

Terry Anderson, the longest-held among 13 Westerners missing in Lebanon, was to turn 43 on Saturday, his sixth birthday in captivity.

Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped at gunpoint in Moslem west Beirut on March 16, 1985. There has been no indication that his pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem captors plan to free him.

Former hostage Brian Keenan of Northern Ireland, who was released on Aug. 24, said he spent part of his more than four years in captivity with Anderson.

He said Anderson, whom he last saw "some time ago," suffered from a digestive ailment and was frequently in pain.

But Keenan noted that Anderson bore his pain stoically because "in truth, all pain and illness was generally dismissed by our keepers, although they would eventually supply us with some form of antibiotics."

He said Anderson, who with other hostages was kept in chains and blindfolded much of the time, suffered "periods of despair and would seek solace in his family."

He noted that Anderson has been allowed to receive letters from his family and has a photograph of his youngest daughter, Sulome, 5, who was born three months after he was kidnapped.

"Terry and myself would sit through those long nights and speak with great pain and remorse and longing for his daughter," Keenan said.

On Saturday, Lebanese newspapers plan to publish letters to Anderson from Sulome, her Lebanese mother, Madeleine, and Peggy Say, his sister.

Apart from Anderson, the missing Westerners include five other Americans, four Britons, two West Germans and an Italian.

Financial Focus

Although bonds are generally considered one of the simplest ways to invest, there are still several key terms you should understand before turning over your money.

Basically, a bond is an IOU that promises to return your deposit at a specific time and pay you regular interest until then. Of course, there is a lot more to know if you expect to be happy with your bond purchase. Here are some terms that are your key to making a wise bond purchase.

The BID is the highest price a buyer will pay for a specific bond at a specific time. The ASK is the lowest price a seller will accept. The SPREAD is the difference between them. The BID-ASK is the quote given to you by a broker. You generally add his commission to that.

A CALL is the issuer's option to redeem your bond prior to maturity. Because the call deprives investors of future interest payments, the issuer generally pays a 2 percent to 3 percent premium over the face value of the bond when a bond is called.

The COUPON is the interest payment you receive. A $10,000 bond with a 9 percent coupon, for example, would pay $900 in interest annually.

The INDENTURE is the contract outlining the provisions of the bond issue.

LIQUIDITY is the ability to sell a bond in the market prior to its maturity.

The FACE VALUE, or PAR VALUE, of a bond is the amount the bond will return to the holder at maturity. The face value of most corporate bonds is $1,000; tax-exempt municipal bonds, $5,000.

The SINKING FUND is money accumulated on a regular basis in a separate custodial account that is used to redeem the bond issue. Often the INDENTURE requires a sinking fund to assure investors greater security.

ZERO COUPON bonds are sold at deep discounts from their face value. They pay no regular interest but rather appreciate each year until maturity. At that time the entire face value of the bond is refunded.

Money invested in bonds is generally serious money put away to earn safe, reliable income. There is no reason this cannot be accomplished unless one blindly ventures into a situation without adequate knowledge. These terms will not only help explain your investment but also provide enough knowledge to enable you to ask pertinent questions about bonds before you invest.

Unless you satisfy yourself as to risk, income and holding time, you haven't given bond investing enough study.

DID YOU KNOW THAT IT IS PUBLIC RECORD?

There is documentation and approval by the department head, auditor, and Commissioner's Court of each purchase before being paid.

Both the present and prior Commissioner's Courts have examined the benefit, if any, the Unit System might have for Scurry County. To date none can be found and it could possibly result in additional costs to taxpayers.

In Precinct 2 I have cut my employees from 6 to 4, resulting in a substantial savings.

With the Commissioner's Court approval I paid off, this year, the balance on a motorgrader early, saving the taxpayers over $7,000.00 in interest.

The present Commissioner's Court has had 2 public auctions in the past 4 years to reduce inventory.

I have not, nor will I, accept any campaign funds from anyone. I am not obligated to any special interest group or person. I am dedicated to continue representing the citizens of Scurry County in a CONSERVATIVE way. I AM EXPERIENCED, QUALIFIED AND CONCERNED.

I ask for your vote and support in the Nov. 6 Election.

Hays helps TJQHAT capture first place in NYATT competition

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Shawn Hays of Snyder is a member of the Texas Junior Quarter Horse Association Team which won the National Youth Activity Team Tournament (NYATT) during the Oct. 15-28 All American Quarter Horse Congress in Columbus.

The Texas team competed against 64 other teams and 550 young horsemen from the United States, Canada and Australia. Each member won a bronze Congress trophy and medallion, a pair of Justin Boots, a halter and a tack bucket for the combined top team score.

Hays also placed second in trail for 15-18-year-olds and sixth in NYATT horsemanship.

Team advisor is Skip Parker of Carrollton. Other members of the team include John Boegner of Bryan, Quincy Cahill of Madisonville, Katri Call of Fort Worth, Jeanette DeBerry of Wylie, Jeffrey Fox of Plano, Steward Guzman of Del Rio, Lacey Hardy of Madisonville, Monty Holcombe of Olney and Joanna Lyn Huffaker of Wichita Falls.

NYATT teams of two to 12 youth — representing state, area and regional quarter horse associations — compete in showmanship, horsemanship, western pleasure, reining, hunter under saddle and barrel racing for class winners as well as overall points. Two exhibitors per team compete in each event. Ten places are awarded in each event with first place receiving 10 points, second place nine points etc. After tabulating class points, the team with the most points becomes tournament champion.

The 24th annual All American Quarter Horse Congress, sponsored by the Ohio Quarter Horse Association in Richwood, Ohio, is the largest single breed horse show in the world and the largest convention in Ohio.

The two-week extravaganza features 5,000 horses and 10,000 exhibitors competing for more than $1.3 million in cash and prizes. Exhibitors attend from all 50 states, Australia, Canada, Mexico, England, France Italy and South America.

Perry points finger at Hightower for losing fingertip

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower is inept because he recently lost his fingertip in a lawn mower accident, his Republican rival Rick Perry charged Friday.

"This incident fully emphasizes his total lack of common sense," Perry said.

Hightower's campaign responded, saying, "It's unbelievable Perry is trying to make this a campaign issue."

"It is an indication that Perry doesn't have serious programs and ideas to talk about," said Brigid Shea, Hightower's campaign spokesman.

Last week, Hightower cut off the tip of his finger while mowing.

BOB DOOLITTLE for County Judge

The County Budget Should Be a specific outline of services provided to the citizens for the coming year.

The County Budget Should Not Be amended at the end of the year just to make all the budgeted amounts come out equal to the actual expenditures !!

This gives a completely false picture of what really happened, misleads the taxpayers—and the county—and defeats the usefulness of the budget as a tool for planning, control and evaluation.

Mrs. Bush stumps for J.E. Brown

HOUSTON (AP) — First Lady Barbara Bush said Friday she has met no resistance from Republican candidates at any state level who fear her husband's declining popularity could hurt their election chances.

"That's absolutely ridiculous," Mrs. Bush said, taking issue with reports earlier in the week from New England that local candidates were less than enthusiastic about appearing with the president. "That was sort of funny reporting," she said after speaking at a fundraiser for Texas Republican attorney general candidate J.E. "Buster" Brown. "George had a great day in Vermont and New Hampshire and Connecticut that day. It was the biggest event they ever had in Vermont. "This year, truthfully, we have a really qualified, good ticket," she said.

Founder of CBS is dead

NEW YORK (AP) — William S. Paley, who founded CBS, the media giant that brought such diverse programs as Edward R. Murrow documentaries and "I Love Lucy" into millions of homes, has died at age 89.

Paley, who had been ill with pneumonia, died Friday night at his Manhattan home, said CBS spokeswoman Ann Morfogen.

A cigarmaker's son, Paley bought a fledgling radio network for $400,000 in 1928 and turned it into the $3 billion-a-year communications conglomerate known as CBS Inc.

The broadcast pioneer controlled the Columbia Broadcasting System for more than half a century as president or board chairman of its radio and television networks and its film, publishing, recording and other subsidiaries.

"He was a giant of 20th century business, a man committed to excellence," CBS anchorman Dan Rather said in a statement. "Among his many accomplishments was being present at the creation of broadcast journalism, and he remained passionately interested in the news up to the time of his death."

Years after normal retirement age, Paley continued to run his media empire from his sumptuous office atop "Black Rock," the black marble-faced tower in midtown Manhattan that houses CBS headquarters.

Paley's CBS brought viewers such distinguished journalists as Murrow, Walter Cronkite and Eric Sevareid, as well as such hugely popular shows as "I Love Lucy" and "All in the Family."

In 1990, according to Forbes magazine, he was worth $460 million.

Mills, a graduate of Texas A&M, has helped area ranchers with feed and annual nutrition as well as all other aspects of range management.

Costners to open casino in Deadwood

DEADWOOD, S.D. (AP) — Actor Kevin Costner has put up nearly $1 million to help his big brother open a casino in Deadwood.

Dan Costner, 39, plans to turn a clothing store on Main Street into a casino, restaurant and bar called the Midnight Star. Kevin, 35, and the clothing store's owners will be minority partners, Dan Costner said.

Dan Costner said his brother, star of "Field of Dreams" and "The Untouchables," provided most of the $1 million used to buy the property.

The older Costner said he and his brother fell in love with the Black Hills last year during the filming of "Dances with Wolves," which Kevin Costner stars in, co-produced and directed.

Students will keep Rebel flag

NORTH RICHLAND HILLS, Texas (AP) — Students here vowed the Confederate battle flag will always fly over their high school, no matter that a nearby Fort Worth school has been ordered to abandon their Rebel mascot.

Fort Worth school trustees this week ordered Southwest High School in Fort Worth to abandon its Rebel mascot following a confrontation Oct. 19 between black and white students at a pep rally.

But Richland High School students say they have no plans to abandon their flag.

Local NAACP officials predict their organization will ask Richland to change its flag within 30 days.

Bridge pieces crash into inlet

WANCHESE, N.C. (AP) — Thousands of people were stranded without power Friday on Hatteras Island after gale-force winds tore a dredge from its moorings and slammed it into the Bonner Bridge, toppling a 369-foot segment.

The 2½-mile span — the only road link between the mainland and Hatteras — may be closed for months.

No injuries were reported.

State Highway Patrol Sgt. A.C. Joyner rushed to close the bridge early Friday after it was struck by the dredge Northerly Island. The wind was blowing at 45-50 mph and gusting to 60 mph when the collapse occurred less than an hour later.

"You could see both of the guard rails move toward the west and then it just snapped," Joyner said.

"Nothing's built for that kind of stress," said Clayton Jenson, superintendent of McLean Contracting of Chesapeake, Va., which built the 26-year-old bridge. Another section of the bridge was unstable, Jenson said.

"It's just a guess, but I think it's going to take five to six months to fix the bridge," Jenson said.

The accident, combined with storms that kept ferries in port, stranded thousands of people on the island and without power.

Cars lined up at the ferry landings on Hatteras and at Ocracoke, waiting for service to resume.

The accident came at the peak of the surf fishing months, said Gene O'Bleness, director of the county Tourist Bureau. He estimated that if the bridge was closed for three months, it would mean an $18 million to $20 million loss to the Hatteras' economy.

Gov. Jim Martin declared a state of emergency after flying to the coast to survey the situation.

State Transportation Secretary Thomas Harelson said the state was looking at landing points for ferries and was planning to set-up a temporary crossing of the bridge.

I Want The Voters Of Precinct 2 To Know!

In September 1987 I purchased a motorgrader on a lease purchase contract. After making 28 monthly payments, I requested from the Commissioner's Court their cooperation in paying off this indebtedness from our equipment budget line item.

In December 1989 a check was written for this purpose.

This, along with every other check written is documented and approved by the head of department, auditor and Commissioner's Court.

This action resulted in a savings to Scurry County of over $7,000.00 in interest payments.

Law officers seeking identity of this man

Law enforcement officials are asking Scurry County residents for help in identifying a man whose body was found in Nolan County about five miles west of Roscoe on Sept. 17 of this year.

The body, described as that of a Hispanic male, 40 to 50 years of age, was found approximately one mile north of IH 20 on FM 1230 near the intersection of County Road 124 in a caliche pit area. The man was 5'8", 196 pounds with dark brown, graying hair and brown eyes.

The left eye appears to have a blue-gray tint, possibly caused from the separation of the lens after death. No surgical scar, marks or tattoos were evident. There is, however, a small circular scar on the right knee cap. The deceased has a chipped front tooth with a gold-colored metal cap and two fillings. The first is a gold metal-colored filling to the third molar on the upper left side and the second filling is white metal in a lower canine tooth.

The man was dressed in a beige pullover short sleeve shirt, Rustler brand blue jeans size 38x30, a reddish brown leather belt with silver colored buckle, white underwear with blue and gold stripe at the top, brown socks and black Coaster brand loafer-type shoes with metal brads across the top. The deceased had a small rope-type gold necklace around his neck. A gold-colored metal medallion was found near the body. It was made in a circle with an eagle on the inside and handcrafted similar to those found in border town shops in old Mexico. A pair of commercial type work glasses with smoked gray frames were also found near the body.

Anyone having information regarding the identity of the individual is encouraged to contact Texas Ranger Johnny Billings in Snyder at 573-2550, Nolan County Sheriff Jim Blackley at 235-5471, or the Texas Department of Public Safety Missing Persons Clearing House at 1-800-346-3243 in Texas or 512-465-2810 outside of Texas.

Mother of murdered woman thinks judicial system unfair

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — This month, Marcia Wheatley marked the third anniversary of the discovery of her daughter's decomposed body in the El Paso desert and she is still wondering whether the justice system works.

As the trial approaches for the man accused of killing her daughter and five other young women, Ms. Wheatley is trying to understand the justice system that she believes is working against her more than it is working for her.

David Leonard Wood is scheduled to go to trial Jan. 14 on a serial murder charge that falls under the state's capital murder statute. If he is convicted, he could be given the death penalty.

The body of Desiree Wheatley, 15, was found Oct. 1987.

Ms. Wheatley said Friday she can't help feeling left out of the process of bringing the man she believes is her daughter's killer to justice.

"In the state of Texas, a crime of this magnitude, of murder, is the state of Texas versus whomever they're charging," Ms. Wheatley said. "In essence, it is a crime against the state of Texas. It's not a crime against me and I'm the one that lost the daughter."

What Ms. Wheatley complains is unjust is that the man accused of killing her daughter will be seated next to his attorneys during the trial and will be able to participate in his defense.

Ms. Wheatley isn't even sure she'll get to attend because she likely will be called as a witness. Witnesses usually are kept out of the courtroom during the trial until they are called to testify.

"It's part of the healing process to watch justice, so to speak, unfold, in the same way a funeral is part of the healing process," she said. "Other people will say, 'Why do you want to know all of this?' My daughter has been murdered. People don't understand that this is the worst thing that can happen to a parent."

Earlier this year, Ms. Wheatley visited the desert area where her daughter's skeletal remains were found for the first time since the discovery Oct. 20, 1987. She said the principal thought in her mind was whether her daughter knew she was going to die and whether she suffered.

Mom pleads guilty to charge

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — State welfare officials will decide next week whether to reunite a moonlighting single woman with the 5-year-old daughter she locked in a car while she worked.

Chante Fernandez, 24, of Elizabeth, says she couldn't find a baby sitter she trusted nor get government care services. Prosecutors agree she didn't neglect her daughter.

Ms. Fernandez pleaded guilty Friday to a disorderly persons offense, was given a $100 suspended sentence and was spared probation. She had faced up to 30 days in jail and a $500 fine.

"I was only trying to get us out of the situation we were in," Ms. Fernandez told Superior Court Judge Robert Figarotta. "I hope somehow you can understand."

Ms. Fernandez was initially charged with criminal restraint and spent two days in jail before posting $5,000 bail. She faced up to five years in prison and a $7,500 fine, but Middlesex County Prosecutor Alan Rockoff reduced the charge after his office was flooded with calls from supporters of Ms. Fernandez.

"She has lost her child in the last several days, she has been in the trepidation of feeling she was destitute without a job," Rockoff said. "I think that's punishment enough."

After the hearing, Ms. Fernandez and defense attorney Kenneth Weimer said they were surprised by the lenient sentence and would concentrate on reuniting Ms. Fernandez with her child, Anjuli.

Ms. Fernandez was arrested Saturday after police found her pajama-clad daughter in the back of her car at a shopping mall where she worked part-time on weekends.

Ms. Fernandez said she left her daughter in the car because she couldn't find a trustworthy baby sitter nor get local or state child care services.

She said she checked on her daughter during work breaks and left the rear seat folded down so Anjuli could sleep in the trunk area.

Anjuli is being cared for by the state Division of Youth and Family Services. A hearing is scheduled for Oct. 30 to decide whether she should be allowed to go home.

New economic decrees allow 100 percent foreign ownership

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign investors will be allowed to own companies in the Soviet Union under a new set of decrees issued

Friday police activity heavy

A 15-year-old male was taken into custody and later released in connection with the Friday morning burglary of Bargain Center at 25th St. and El Paso in which miscellaneous jewelry, locks and pocket knives were taken.

The juvenile is the second suspect taken into custody in the case. Samuel Ruiz, 18, of 905 27th St., was arrested Friday and charged with burglary in the incident.

The case will be forwarded to the district attorney.

Two juveniles were identified in the burglary of the Charles Teague residence at 2201 43rd St. in which an undetermined amount of money and candy were stolen. A 15-year-old male was released into the custody of his parents and a 13-year-old male was released to Texas Youth Correction authorities.

At 9:17 p.m., Tammy Castillo of 2400 Ave. M reported finding a bicycle at the residence. The bicycle was transported to the police station.

At 11:28 p.m., several officers responded to a fight in progress call at Kingswood Apartments. Four subjects were taken into custody, all for public intoxication and one with an additional charge of disorderly conduct. Arrested were three males ages 24, 19, and 16 for PI and a 16-year-old male for PI and disorderly conduct.

At 11:44 p.m., a 15-year-old male was arrested at 100 East 37th St. for PI.

An assault Class C report was filed after police received a call at 1:37 a.m. Saturday that a woman was assaulted by her common-law husband in the 100 block of 33rd St. She was transported to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder EMS where she was treated and released.

At 4:48 a.m., an 18-year-old male was arrested at 29th St. and Ave. K for PI and minor in possession.

by President Mikhail S. Gorbachev to help move the Soviet Union to a market-based economy in two years.

The decrees issued Friday also sharply devalue the ruble.

They were announced as Gorbachev opened a three-day state visit to Spain, where he hopes to obtain further economic aid and increase trade with the West.

The national legislature voted last month to give Gorbachev far-reaching power to order economic changes by decree.

Although the legislature has not yet approved a detailed blueprint for the transition from a centrally planned economy to a market one, it has generally agreed on the concept.

One decree announced Friday says foreign investors can establish enterprises in the Soviet Union, either in joint ventures with Soviet firms or with 100 percent foreign ownership. In the past, Soviet firms had to retain majority control.

The decree also permits Soviet citizens to buy shares in enterprises, purchase bonds and hold other securities, either singly or in registered groups, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Profits of foreign investors can be reinvested or transferred abroad under rules promulgated by the Soviet legislature, the decree said. It did not say when the new rules would be announced or when they would take effect.

The decree on stock ownership will have little immediate impact, because the Soviet Union does not yet have a stock exchange.

SO investigates stolen dog report

David Camacho advised a Scurry County sheriff's deputy at 1:29 p.m. Friday that a registered Siberian husky valued at $500 was stolen.

At 1 a.m. Saturday, Department of Public Safety troopers arrested a 63-year-old female for driving while intoxicated at Ave. U and Moncrief.

A 28-year-old male was taken into custody in Hermleigh for DWI at 3:18 a.m.

Woman escapes injury in rollover

Local police were called to the scene of a one-car rollover at 6:50 a.m. Saturday on the East Highway.

According to police reports, Jenna Marie Bennett, 19, of 700 East 37th St. blacked out as she attempted to turn left onto the East Highway from Apple St. and instead traveled across the highway and into the parking lot of Key Brothers Implement where she struck a plow. The vehicle then flipped and came to rest upside-down.

The impact sent the plow into a nearby fence.

Bennett was not injured in the accident. Damage to the plow was estimated at $1,500 and the fence sustained approximately $150 in damage.

The pickup was towed from the scene.

A minor accident was investigated at 9:07 a.m. Friday at East Highway and Ave. E. Involved were a 1975 Ford driven by Jerry Bradley of Duncan, Okla., and a 1981 GMC pickup driven by Robert Payne of 812 28th St.

members even having a chance to read it. And they said the tax increases would just lead to more spending.

"Deficit reduction? It's almost an obscenity to call it that" because the deficit would continue to rise, said Rep. Craig James, R-Fla.

For all the bill's problems, said House Republican Leader Robert Michel of Illinois, "The American people would rather have imperfect progress than perfect paralysis."

The new bill, the heart of a plan expected to shave $496 billion off the federal deficit over the next five years, includes higher taxes on gasoline, tobacco, alcoholic beverages and certain luxury goods. It would reduce spending for Medicare by about $44 billion, curtail farm subsidies and shift a sizable portion of the federal tax burden onto the well-to-do.

Snyder ISD will include more students in breakfast program

Breakfast will be available for the morning kindergarten and four-year-old students in Snyder Independent School District beginning Monday.

The price of a school breakfast, including milk, is 50 cents. Parents who have not applied for the free and reduced meal program may wish to pick up an application at their child's elementary school. Applications should be returned to Mrs. Elida Garza at Central Elementary as soon as possible.

Since breakfast was not offered to these students last year, it is important that parents bring their students to school at the appropriate times. Breakfast is served each day beginning at 8 a.m., and morning kindergarten and pre-kindergarten begins at 8:25 a.m. Parents are urged to follow this schedule closely, since students arriving after 8:15 a.m. may not have enough time to eat.

Snyder public schools began offering lunch to both morning and afternoon kindergarten and four-year-old students last fall, and this lunch schedule will remain the same.

Scurry County Folks

By Shirley A. Gorman

Stan Paregien likes people. That's why communication is so important to him and that's what has kept him perfecting his skills since he began to preach in a small California Church of Christ while still in high school.

Communication. That's an important word to Paregien, and one he does not take lightly. That's why when the small church he attended as a teenager sometimes was without a regular minister he would preach during services.

He studied speech communication in college, earning both an undergraduate and masters degree at David Lipscomb University in Nashville, Tenn. and the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque, N.M., respectively.

After graduation, Paregien preached full time for eight years, serving congregations in several states including Texas. He's served as editor for three weekly newspapers at the same time.

He's been a radio announcer and freelance writer who has numerous magazine article sales and five non-fiction books to his credit and has completed two western novels in past years. Paregien refers to the first one "as a learning experience," while the second he hopes to market someday.

He may not sell a novel, but if he doesn't it won't be because he didn't try.

Other ventures in writing include cowboy poetry which began in 1974 with a poem written in a motel room by a man who missed his wife and children while he was on the road. Selling two poems didn't bring in much money, but, as another way to communicate, they are invaluable. And that's what's important to Paregien.

His interest in cowboy poetry increased through attending Cowboy Symposiums like the one held in Lubbock last summer.

He is also a member of Western Writers of America where he not only finds support for his love of western fiction and writing, but also other opportunities to interact with people.

In addition, Paregien recently assumed the post of director of Scurry County Mental Health Center. Currently, he is busy "learning the ropes" of his new position.

As a minister, he had served as both a marriage and family counselor; valuable experience which he recently said helps him with his new job.

He first started working for the center as a case worker in February of this year. In his new position, Paregien is responsible for screening people who seek the services offered by the center.

After conducting an in-depth interview with the prospective client, he then recommends, when appropriate, whether the person sees the psychiatrist or the psychologist.

Paregien said he is excited about his new job because "psychiatry and medicine in the mental health field has changed a lot." That means he has a lot to learn, such as familiarizing himself with some 110 regulations related to this field, but it also gives people who qualify a better chance of being helped.

Some require just one visit. Others have weekly sessions with either the psychiatrist or psychologist who staff the clinic once a week. Some receive daily medication at the clinic.

The clinic serves the chronically ill, with some 20-25 percent classed as seriously ill.

The nature of this job will keep Paregien more office bound, at least in the beginning, but he said he likes this field and decided to apply for the director's post when it became available.

The center's main goal is to help people be able to function in the community and he is pleased to be able to do something to help bring it about.

Paregien likes "to interact with people" and if he can also help "to heal the hurt of those in need" he considers that time well spent. He has always been outgoing and through this job he "gets involved with people, their families and problems." But, he also has to be realistic because not "every case works out."

"I learned years ago when I was active in the ministry not to bring the job home at night. If I forget that then I will end up getting burned out and if I'm burned out I can't help anyone," he explained.

Paregien came to Snyder with his family in 1987. He was a radio personality and operations manager at KSNY radio. He helped put on a morning show for years.

The move to Snyder was prompted by his wife, Peggy's, transfer here by Oryx, the company she still works for. They have a son, Stan Jr., who lives in Oklahoma City and a daughter, Stacy, who lives here.

Just prior to moving here, Paregien and his family were living in Woodward, Okla. where he was a radio personality at KWOX for two years. In 1986, he served as the editor for three weekly newspapers. As such, he was a "staff of one" who wrote all the stories and took all the pictures.

When Paregien chose to major in speech communication in college, he said he had considered becoming a speech teacher, but because he was also interested in

PROLIFIC WRITER — Stan Paregien, the new director at Scurry County Mental Health Center, is also a prolific writer. He has sold numerous articles throughout the past few years, has had five non-fiction books published, and is currently trying to sell his first western novel. In addition, he is not only a member of Western Writers of America, but currently serves as both historian and publicist. He has compiled a 1990 edition of "Who's Who In Western Writers." He also has written some cowboy poetry. While learning the ropes of his new job, Paregien said his writing and research will probably be put on hold for awhile. (SDN Staff Photo) doing mission work in the U.S. he ended up becoming a full time minister. After graduation, Paregien's first church to serve as a full time minister was at Las Cruces, N.M., with some 400 members.

But after eight years, Paregien, who describes himself as an "independent thinker" chose to give up the ministry, but he is still active in church work and currently attends East Side Church of Christ.

He also is a very firm believer "that no one has to stand in the pulpit to minister to people." Explaining, he said he believes in the "priesthood of believers" which essentially means that "every Christian can act as a minister."

Paregien said he "always enjoyed preaching" and in fact many of his sermons eventually became magazine articles so he feels that he has been able to reach even more people this way. He spoke at a recent SHS senior banquet also and eventually turned that talk into another article.

Double-ring ceremony unites Williamson and Stephens

GRAPEVINE — Jacqueline Deanne Williamson became the bride of Brian Owen Stephens in a double-ring ceremony, at 6 p.m., Aug. 4, at the First Baptist Church of Grapevine. Falis Hallway, a friend of both the bride and groom, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Jo and Jimmy Williamson of Midland, formerly of Hermleigh. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Burt Williamson of Snyder, and Russel and Alene Savage of Roanoke.

The windows of the church were decorated with white bows and ribbons, and each window held two long candles, with a small bouquet of peach roses, accented with blue flowers. The pews were decorated with satin peach bows and ribbons.

Six, nine-candle, brass candelabras were placed at the front of the church, at the altar. They were decorated with peach roses, small blue flowers, greenery and satin bows and ribbon. In the background, were two, nine-candle, candelabras adorned with greenery. The unity candle, decorated like the candelabras, was placed within the brass archway. Two fan arrangements of blue anemones, were placed on the top of the fourth step at the altar on each side.

The piano and organ each held a spray of peach satin roses with blue anemones. At the back of the church, peach bows and ribbons, accented with mistletoe, were hung above the entry doors. The registration table held a peach, feathered, quill pen and the guest book. Hanging behind the table, were two shotguns, labeled "The Williamsons," and "The Stephens." A picture of the bride and groom was placed between the two guns.

Brandon Williamson, nephew of the bride, and Mathew and Dusty Stephens, nephews of the groom, were candlelighters. They were attired in Lord West black tuxedos with diagonal cummerbunds and black bow ties.

John Antonisse and Shirley Steger sang the musical selections: "Sunrise Sunset," "Shower Me With Your Love," "Looking Through the Eyes of Love," "Flesh of My Flesh," "One Out of One Another," and "Household of Faith."

Jo Williamson, mother of the bride, escorted by her son James Williamson, lit the Williamson's family candle.

Audrey Stephens, mother of the groom, lit the Stephen's family candle.

The bride was escorted by her father. She chose a Jessica McClintock bridal gown of white satin with a fitted, seamed bodice and a Victorian style collar. Rose lace appliques covered the open V cut front bodice, the open V design on the sides of the full, puffed sleeves, and the lace trimming around the cuffs of the sleeves. The open back was detailed with loop and button closing, accented with a satin bow, two drapes and wing tips, and outlined with lace trimming. The full skirt was gathered to the bodice at the waistline and featured an attached petticoat.

The Jessica headband rested on the bride's head, and was made of embroidered white leaf clusters, satin floral clusters of pearl trumpets, baby roses and white pearls. Attached to the headband, was a veil made of three layers of white tulle, trimmed with pearls and lace, around all three layers. The first layer of veil was attached to the headband and was accented with rose appliques; the second layer of veil, also attached to the headband, was chapel length and had white satin flowers on the end of the train; the third layer of the veil, accented with rose appliques, large flowers and pearls, was attached behind the bow on the dress and flowed over the length of the train.

The bride carried a long cascading bouquet, fashioned of white silk rambler roses, silk peach and white rosebuds, sprays of white silk candytuft, white silk iliac with buds, white lily of the valley clusters, white clusters of forget-me-nots and peach and white pearls.

In the tradition of something old, the bride wore her mother's wedding shoes; something new was her gown; something borrowed was the shoes; and something blue was her garter belt. She placed a new 1990 penny in her left shoe for good luck.

Trinda Mulkey, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kathy Saucedo; Lori Williamson, sister-in-law of the bride; and Wanda Ashton, sister of the groom. The bridal attendants were attired in three-quarter length royal blue satin gowns, with matching satin pumps.

Jennifer and Stacey Williamson, nieces of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. They each wore a white, three-quarter length dress, with a round neckline, fitted bodice, puffed sleeves and gathered skirt, trimmed in white lace. They wore satin hairpieces, trimmed in white satin flowers. They carried small bouquets of white satin roses and forget-me-nots, accented with lace and white satin streamers.

Jamie Ashton, Carrie Stephens and Bobby Jo Stephens, nieces of the groom, were flowergirls. They each wore a peach satin three-quarter length dress with lace covering and white satin belts. They carried baskets that held peach roses and white forget-me-nots, accented with peach and white lace, and peach streamers, flowing from the baskets.

The ring bearer was David

MR. AND MRS. BRIAN OWEN STEPHENS

Justin and Dustin Williamson, nephews of the bride, were junior groomsmen. They were attired in Lord West white tuxedos with full dress tails, accented with diagonal cummerbunds and white satin bow ties.

The ushers were Joe Don Williamson, James Williamson and John Williamson, brothers of the bride. They wore Lord West black tuxedos with diagonal cummerbunds and black bow ties.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The theme for the reception was, "A day at New York Central Park." The park setting was made up of park benches, a popcorn machine, helium balloons, trees, ceramic swans, a punch fountain and a Westminster cathedral wedding cake. The cake was made of round and square tiers, for meaningful, monumental tribute to the sanctity of marriage.

The groom's cake was a trio stairway of tiny rolled fondant, intriguing lacy-look sotas and lush orchids for elegance.

The couple spent three days of their honeymoon aboard the Star Ship Majestic of the Premier Cruise Line at Fort Canaveral, Fla., and the remaining four days at Orlando, Fla., at Walt Disney World and Epcot Center.

The bride is a graduate of Hermleigh School and received her RN degree from Cook County College, in Gainesville. She is presently employed with Health Economics Corporation in Dallas.

The groom is a graduate of Grapevine High and is attending Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, working on his masters degree in Marriage and Family Counseling. He is presently employed with Software House in Dallas.

The couple is making their home in Roanoke.

Stephens, nephew of the groom. He was attired in a Lord West black tuxedo, with a black diagonal cummerbund and black bow tie. He carried a white satin pillow, trimmed with pearl lace, and holding two gold rings, two white doves, and a spray of peach flowers.

Earl Stephens, brothers of the groom, and Keith Ashton, brother-in-law of the groom. They each wore a Lord West, black wool tuxedo, accented with a white pleated shirt, a black diagonal cummerbund and a black bow tie.

The groom wore a Lord West, white wool, shadowweave stripe, full dress tail tuxedo, accented with a white diagonal cummerbund and a white satin bow tie. His boutonniere was made of mini peach clivias and silk peach heather.

Charles Stephens, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Edward and

MR. AND MRS. JOHN CURTIS MAGNESS

Paregien and Magness exchange nuptials

Stacy Evelyn Paregien and John Curtis Magness exchanged nuptials in a 2 p.m. ceremony, Sept. 29, at Reta's Cake Shop, with W.W. Allen, the bride's grandfather, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Paregien of Snyder. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Magness of Snyder.

Janice Moore, pianist, provided the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore her mother's wedding dress and veil. The dress was floor-length, white lace over satin and featured tiered scalloped ruffles.

Becky Paregien, sister-in-law of the bride, of Edmond, Okla. served as matron of honor. Maid of honor was Gina McWhirter of Snyder. Flower girls were Jodi Paregien, niece of the bride, of Edmond, Okla., and Lindsey Mitchell of Snyder.

Best man was James Magness, the groom's brother. The groom and his attendants were attired in black tuxedos, accented with pink cummerbunds and pink bow ties.

Jode Clawson of Snyder, registered the guests.

The reception was held at the cake shop, following the ceremony. The wedding cake was a three-tiered floating cake, created by Reta's Cake Shop, decorated with white frosting and pink roses. Deborah Rodgers and Naomi Stephens served at the bride's table.

The couple is at home in Kilgore.

The bride is a 1989 Snyder High School graduate. The groom attended high school in DeQueen, Ark.

During novelist and Nobel laureate William Faulkner's brief enrollment at the University of Mississippi, he made a D in English, and one of the school's literary societies refused him membership, says National Geographic.

Through magazine articles, Paregien feels he can greatly expand his "ministry," even though he no longer is a practicing minister.

Paregien became "hooked" on writing articles because as a college student he sold his first article which qualified him for an A in his Christian journalism course. He likes writing Christian articles because "I never know where one will end up or what effect it may have." But the potential is there and that is good enough for Paregien, who writes about a variety of topics.

Articles based on personal interviews are his favorite because he likes "to find a diamond in the dirt."

Paregien liked ministry work, but after eight years of serving churches in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Iowa he decided to give up his job and entered the field of radio. First, was a job in sales and then the position at KWOX.

Paregien's love of westerns, especially those by Louis Lamour, eventually turned into a desire to write his own. "Lamour made it look easy so I decided I might be able to write one my own," he explained. "I knew that he did a lot of research and I admired that."

In 1985, Paregien attended his first Western Writers of America convention at the invitation of Jory Sherman, well known author whom he had met at a writers' seminar. At first, he said he felt somewhat intimidated to be in the same room with noted western authors, but then he reminded himself that they had all had to make their first sale too.

In 1988, he was asked to become WWA's first historian and publicist. He was also presented a "Spur Award" for a series of magazine articles he wrote on various Western writers.

Roy Hogan, another western writer, gave Paregien a complete set of "Roundup," the official publication of the WWA, from which he was able to compile biographies of all members dating back to the 1950s.

As publicist, Paregien is responsible for compiling the biographies of all new members which are published as a directory every two years.

This past June, he was also honored with the Presidential Award for his work as both historian and publicist.

Like Lamour, Paregien said he believes in doing lots of research before he starts to write, but he is aware of the danger of getting bogged down with too much research.

He prefers the 1860s-1870s usually, but a third novel he has started is set in Scurry County in the 1960s and is about a Spanish Texas Ranger.

Since Paregien considers research important to his work, he utilized all the resources available to him while living in Oklahoma. He has followed that tradition here as well, but since taking on a new and challenging job, he said he realizes that his research and writing may have to wait awhile while he familiarizes himself with his new job. But since writing westerns and cowboy poetry is so different from what he does today, he feels both will be a nice "change of pace."

In addition to his other roles, Paregien is a past member of the advisory board for the Noah Project, a shelter for victims of spousal abuse. He is also on the board of directors for Scurry County United Way, is a board member and second vice president of the Lions Club, is a member of the chamber of commerce, and serves as the secretary-treasurer of the chamber's Goldcoat organization.

Progress possible in curing male baldness

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Should everyone be aware of salt intake, or is it just a problem for people with high blood pressure? My husband and son both have low blood pressure, and after trying for years to keep the saltshaker off the kitchen table, I'm writing to you for clarification.

DEAR READER: Healthy people don't have to worry about excessive salt intake, normal kidneys readily excrete additional salt that is not vital for proper body functioning. Many individuals mistakenly assume that salt is harmful for everyone, but it isn't. Having said this, I must qualify the generality. Patients with kidney disease, hypertension or heart disorders should reduce dietary salt because it often worsens these conditions.

A liking for salty foods is, to a large degree, an acquired taste. A typical Western diet is rich in salt, and we soon learn that salt tastes good, as well as enhancing flavor. As people age, they are more likely to develop heart disease, high blood pressure and kidney deficiencies that require salt restriction. Therefore, the primary value in exercising salt moderation when we're young is to develop healthy eating patterns, which will require little, if any, alteration as we age.

Salt does not cause the diseases I mentioned, but salt-lovers usually have difficulty limiting salt later in life if they have become accustomed to eating salty foods.

I have a colleague who is a "blind salter." Before tasting his food—even in a fancy French restaurant—he invariably reaches for the saltshaker and applies a liberal sprinkling. This is purely a habit. In my opinion, it makes more sense to taste first, then add a little salt for flavor, if needed.

It's OK for you to put the saltshaker back on the table, at the same time, insist that your family show discretion in its use.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm an RN in Arizona and care for an emphysema patient who tells me he has Valley Fever. Can you explain?

DEAR READER: Valley Fever (coccidioidomycosis) is an infectious fungal disease that is very common in the southwestern United States, particularly in the San Joaquin Valley. People become infected by breathing in the fungal spores, which are plentiful in soil and dust.

Valley Fever initially causes a respiratory infection, with fever, cough, chest pain and malaise that usually disappears without treatment, leaving telltale spotty shadows and scarring that are visible on chest X-rays.

In some cases, the disease is more severe, causing pneumonia, weight loss and weakness. Infrequently, coccidioidomycosis progresses to life-threatening lung disease with infections in bone, liver and brain.

The diagnosis is established by isolating the fungus from sputum or other body fluids, such as the spinal fluid. Mild Valley Fever requires no treatment, but patients with progressive forms must be given powerful anti-fungal drugs, such as amphotericin B.

The disease is not spread by person-to-person contact, except in extraordinarily rare circumstances, such as virulent pneumonia and meningitis; therefore, you are not at risk caring for your patient who, evidently, had a past infection that either caused emphysema or co-exists with it.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

People seem to exhibit a sadly amusing and insidious urge to share the most intimate details of their lives by putting into print anecdotes about their illnesses which, several years ago, would have been considered poor taste. I call this literary diversion Medical Confessions and, I suppose, it shares many characteristics with religious confessions, except that it is public—sometimes embarrassingly so.

It's hard to find a magazine or a book today that doesn't contain explicit descriptions of an author's health problems, his reaction to them, their meaning and his Olympian struggle to conquer (or surrender to) them.

Almost any disease is fair game: AIDS, of course—but also heart disease, obesity, emotional disorders, substance abuse and cancer. The public, with an inexhaustible appetite for the curious and anomalous, snaps up publications containing Medical Confessions. The reasons for this are unclear. It's more than a desire to learn about sickness and how to cope with it; rather, public preoccupation with such matters often takes on a meta-physical flavor: an attempt to understand the meaning, the significance of disease.

For example, consider "Doctor Talk To Me," an article in the Aug. 26 New York Times Magazine, written by Anatole Broyard, a former editor of The New York Times Book Review.

Much of the article concerns an in-depth description of the author's prostate cancer: how he felt when unable to urinate normally, how he found a doctor, why he didn't like the doctor and how he changed physicians. A lot of Broyard's meanderings are related to his perception of the ideal doctor.

For instance, his first doctor wore two surgical caps during cystoscopy, which made the author turn "irrevocably against him." The surgeon wore the caps "absolutely without inflection or style, with none of the jauntiness that usually comes with long practice. To my eyes, this doctor simply didn't have the charisma to overcome or assimilate those caps, and that finished him off for me. I realized that I wanted my doctor to have style—which I think of as a dash of magic—as well as medical ability."

Good grief. What sort of defense can a busy surgeon mount against this kind of criticism? (Surgeons note: Wear your caps at a jaunty angle.) But Broyard has more to say: "There was no sign of a tragic sense of life in him that I could see, no furious desire to oppose himself to fate. I realized, of course, that what I was looking for was extravagant, that I was demanding nothing less than an ideal doctor, yet isn't that what we all want?"

My esteemed colleagues, if this is what the public wants, we are in trouble. I'd always believed that the kind and benevolent physician did all in his or her power not to oppose fate, but to help patients accept the inevitable when necessary.

Broyard wants more. He demands

Chief deputy, dispatcher arrested

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Texas Department of Public Safety officers said the chief sheriff's deputy of Banderita County and a Navarro County sheriff's dispatcher have been arrested on charges of possessing 100 pounds of marijuana.

Officers said Farris Theodore Brooks, 49, of Banderita, and Charlotte Bidy, 32, of Corsicana, were charged Thursday with aggravated possession of marijuana from 50 to 200 pounds.

Brooks was later identified as a retired Department of Public Safety narcotics officer.

They were being held in the Bexar County jail late Thursday in lieu of $25,000 bond each, officers said.

Authorities said two DPS officers observed Brooks and Ms. Bidy leaving San Antonio International Airport Thursday. The two were followed to the parking lot of a motel, where the trunk of to have a practitioner who can enter his condition, "mingle his daemon with mine" and "brood on my situation." Furthermore, he does not want an "anonymous illness. I'd much rather think I brought it on myself than that it was a mere accident of nature." The author concludes by admitting that he would "like to discuss my prostate with my urologist not as a diseased organ but as a philosopher's stone."

I found Broyard's thesis distressing, with all the talk of tragic sense and brooding. It sounds more thespian than medical. For doctors who know pitifully little about the cosmic significance of disease, his recipe for success is too tall an order. Healers are imperfect human beings, sometimes lacking style, who usually do not understand the meaning of illness (any more than the average citizen does) or why good people get sick and bad people don't—always. Isn't it enough to know how to diagnose and treat prostate cancer? Over and above genuine caring and a wish to ease pain and treat the patient as a whole person, where is there a place for the theatrics and persona for which Broyard yearns?

In my opinion, some subjects are best left private; intimate details are more appropriate to the consulting room than to public Medical Confessions. Struggle and resolution are desperately personal issues rarely settled as well in print as in the soul.

the car was opened and four large cardboard boxes were transferred to another car parked adjacent to it, DPS reports said.

When the other vehicle drove away, it was stopped and searched by two DPS officers who said boxes in the trunk contained about 100 pounds of marijuana in brick form.

The man driving the car was not arrested, officers said.

Banderita County Sheriff Steve Forest said Brooks is a retired DPS narcotics officer who had been with the Banderita department since January 1989.

"He had more than 20 years experience with DPS," Forest said. "He had impeccable credentials, that's why we hired him."

The sheriff said Banderita County narcotics officers often participate in drug investigations with officers from the Navarro County Sheriff's office.

LONDON (AP) — Human hair has been grown in a test tube for the first time, and the discovery could lead to a cure for baldness by the year 2000, a Cambridge University scientist said.

"This is the real thing," said Dr. Terence Kealey, leader of the research team at the Department of Clinical Biochemistry. "We have for the first time succeeded in getting hair to grow in vitro."

The balding scientist stressed in a BBC radio interview that growing hairs in a test tube "is not in itself a cure for baldness," but it does provide the perfect arena for experiments.

The next step, he said, is to find out why the normal "kickback" mechanism that triggers the growth of new hair when existing hair follicles come to the end of their normal growth cycle stops working in many middle-aged men.

"I hope that within 10 years we could come up with a cure for baldness," he said.

He said the successful growth of test-tube hair came after a team member, Dr. Michael Philpott, devised a method for extracting hair follicles from the skin without damaging the hair roots.

The two top layers of skin have to be carefully sliced away before removing the follicles with fine tweezers, he said. The follicles are then grown in a synthetic blood substitute maintained at body temperature.

Watching human hair growing in a test tube is "an amazing sight," Kealey said. "It grows absolutely identical to normal hairs — at the same rate of 0.012 inches a day and in the same shape."

He said his team will now expose the test-tube hair to a variety of different biological materials and observe the results.

The team's research, funded by the Anglo-Dutch consumer giant Unilever and Britain's Science and Engineering Research Council, will be published in next month's issue of the Journal of Cell Science.

Kealey said the research could also produce a much more effective depilatory for women to remove unwanted hair.

He explained that hairs grow for about two years and then spontaneously shed. "If you can promote... that process up, you have a natural depilatory," he said.

"In fact what we can do now in the laboratory is persuade hairs to shed in this very natural manner and so we hope that we might quite quickly start trying to work on improved depilatories as well as a cure for baldness."

HEALTH TIP from DEAN Stinson Drug. BLOOD PRESSURE. It is known that hypertensives will live longer if their blood pressure is reduced to normal by diet and/or medicine—but reduced too far is also dangerous. Researchers in the U.S., England, and Sweden agree that lowering the blood pressure below 85 mm of mercury (the lower, diastolic pressure) can lead to heart attack or fatal cardiac arrhythmia.

FDA approves cancer drug for treating women's illness

CHICAGO (AP) — A drug newly approved for fighting a painful and fertility-threatening condition among millions of women also may help treat premenstrual syndrome, benign breast tumors and other ailments, doctors say.

The drug, Lupron Depot, was approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration this week for treating endometriosis, a sometimes painful condition that occurs when tissue lining the womb migrates to the abdomen and pelvis. If it develops in the ovaries or fallopian tubes it can cause blocking, scarring and infertility.

Lupron Depot previously had been approved only for use as a prostate-cancer medicine, but doctors had for years prescribed it to women suffering from endometriosis because they knew it worked.

Insurance companies, however, refused to cover its costs — $252 per monthly injection, typically administered for six months — because it did not have approval for that use.

Doctors said this week's OK could also encourage its use in many other gynecological applications.

"These agents (in the same class as Lupron Depot) are clearly effective for a number of other diseases, such as premenstrual syndrome, uterine fibroids, and polycystic ovary syndrome," said Dr. Robert L. Barbieri, chairman of obstetrics and gynecology at State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Premenstrual syndrome is marked by irritability, tension or depression in possible combination with breast tenderness, fluid retention and headaches; fibroids by the growth of benign tumors in the womb; and polycystic ovary syndrome by the growth of cysts in the ovaries.

Dr. Edward L. Marut, director of reproductive endocrinology and infertility at Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center in Chicago, said Lupron Depot also may be useful in treating benign breast tumors.

In combatting endometriosis, the drug suppresses production of the female hormone estrogen, which controls the growth of the tissue lining the womb, called the endometrium.

An estimated 2 million to 5 million women have endometriosis. It is mild or symptom-free in some people but in others it can cause severe menstrual cramps, pain during sexual intercourse, painful urination or painful bowel movements.

Doctors say side effects of Lupron Depot resemble those of menopause, including hot flashes, but the effects are not permanent and may be relieved with other medication.

Barbieri said the only other drug products approved for endometriosis treatment are Synarel, a nasal spray that has a similar biological mechanism as Lupron Depot and costs about the same, and Danazol, a derivative of the male hormone testosterone that costs about half as much.

Synarel has the disadvantage of requiring twice daily doses for six months and being poorly absorbed by the body, he said. Danazol has the disadvantage of causing women to develop male traits — a deepening of the voice, facial hair, oilier skin and upper body muscles.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: When I was a teenager, you printed a column about how to tell if you are really in love — or if it is just infatuation. My mother clipped it out for me, but I can't seem to find it. I sure could use it just now.

NANCY C.
IN SANTA ANA, CALIF.

DEAR NANCY: I'm frequently asked how my mail has changed over the years, but some questions never change, and this is one of them:

IS IT LOVE? OR ISN'T IT?
It takes a level head to control a foolish heart.

Can you love someone at first sight? This crazy mixed-up version is better known as infatuation at first sight. Infatuation can possibly be the first step toward love, but in itself, it is not love.

Love itself is built on inner realities. Through experience and a few more infatuations, one acquires a second and better sight. So, mature love should be called "love at second sight."

Mature love means liking a person as well as loving. If the most important part of your relationship is physical (making out) and you don't seem to have much to talk about, face it, it's just a physical attraction, and you're really not a very good combination if you're thinking of a lifetime relationship.

How do you know if you're in love? To ask if it is love indicates doubt. Love is sure.

Don't confuse enduring and lasting love with puppy love. (That's the kind that usually gets you into an emotional doghouse.) Love is giving, not taking. It wants the best for the one you love.

Love is on the go. It makes you want to charge out into the world and do as well as think big. It doesn't keep you inert, day-dreaming and cooped up with only one person.

Love wants to share. To the one you love, you give your thoughts and your dreams. A new happiness comes with sharing them. Mature love is honest and open.

Love doesn't know what time it is. During your teens, you will have had a litter of puppy loves. But as time goes by, and you learn more about the object of your affections ... and your love seems to grow not weaker but stronger ... maybe the real moment has come.

DEAR ABBY: I am an airline pilot, which requires me to be away from home two or three nights at a time.

When I am on one of these trips, the crew, both male and female, sometimes dine together. Meanwhile, my wife and six children are at home. I employ a full-time housekeeper to help my wife.

I think it's OK for my wife to go out with her friends at night for shopping, dinner and movies, but I say no when it comes to her going to a disco without me.

She says she enjoys going to discos to dance and listen to the music. I say she can wait until I get home so we can go together. She says she trusts me on my overnights and I should trust her. I do trust her, but why look for trouble?

Do you think I'm being unreasonable?

CORAL SPRINGS, FLA.

DEAR CORAL SPRINGS: No. In my view, a married woman with six children and a husband out of town doesn't belong in a disco listening to music and dancing with strangers.

to hundreds of thousands of outstanding young men and women who proudly wear our nation's uniforms.

With deepest gratitude to you, your staff and your millions of readers for all your love and concern.

CAMPAIGN

DEAR READERS: In the past, you have proven to be generous beyond belief, and I hope that this year you will again open your hearts to our servicemen and women who will be far from their families for the holidays.

Your cards, letters and goodies can be tremendous morale boosters to these dedicated young people. Some wonderful friendships have been formed — and some found romance, too!

Those individuals or groups interested in adopting a unit or ship, please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: America Remembers/Operation Dear Abby, c/o Taco Bell Corp., 17901 Von Karmen, Irvine, Calif. 92713.

P.S. I'll publish specific addresses for servicemen and women before Thanksgiving.

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." ## Training, safety need to balance

ATLANTA (AP) — Federal health authorities, reporting 45 hospitalizations and two deaths in police training in Massachusetts and firefighter fitness tests in New York, called for a balance between training and safety.

In a report Thursday, the Centers for Disease Control did not criticize the programs or the public safety officials involved. But the Atlanta-based agency did warn that the programs can be dangerous.

"The need for physical performance testing must be balanced carefully with the safety of persons participating," the CDC cautioned.

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday
Sunday, Oct. 28, 1990

Your Birthday
Oct. 29, 1990

Friends will play vital roles in your affairs in the year ahead. You will assume a new importance in their lives and they, in turn, will be given more prominence in yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If someone comes up with a new idea or concept today, you are exceptionally well equipped to mentally evaluate it quickly and correctly. Flaws not apparent to others will be obvious to you. Major changes are ahead for Scorpio in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are not apt to respond favorably today to people who make demands of you. However, when moved by your own feelings of empathy, you are likely to be generous to a fault.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your greatest asset today is your ability to deal comfortably with people from all walks of life. Anyone who meets you for the first time will be impressed and eager to know you better.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is a very unusual day and, if you apply yourself, it is highly probable you could achieve several important objectives simultaneously. Don't impose self-limitations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Hopes and expectations have good chances of being fulfilled today, but not necessarily in accordance with your game plan. If things are running smoothly, sit back and enjoy the ride instead of rocking the boat.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Focus your efforts and energies today behind endeavors in which you share a vested interest with another. Determination and dedication could contribute to substantial accomplishments.

Doberman attacks and kills boy

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A 10-year-old boy was attacked and killed by a Doberman pinscher in the backyard of his home, police say.

It was the second incident in which a child was killed by a dog in Texas this week.

Dr. Henry Tom, director of the Odessa-Ector County Animal Shelter, said David Manuel Ontiveros was playing in the backyard Thursday when the dog became agitated and attacked him.

The boy was pronounced dead at Medical Center Hospital, said Odessa Police Lt. Bill Anderson. Justice of the Peace R.G. "Dick" Hungerford said he pronounced the boy dead and ruled the death as accidental.

The dog was shot twice with a shotgun after Odessa Police officers responded, but managed to crawl under a car. He was shot several more times, Tom said.

Police evacuated neighbors from their homes for a short time because they feared the dog might go on a rampage, Tom said.

A dog attack that results in a death is unusual, said Sgt. Pete Frankson, a longtime veteran of the Odessa Police force.

Plan to ban imports of U.S. meat criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan by the European Community to ban imports of U.S. meat on grounds it is produced under unsanitary conditions is seen by industry and Agriculture Department officials as a flagrant example of a non-tariff trade restriction.

Besides infuriating U.S. officials, the EC plan puts a further snarl in Uruguay Round negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which are supposed to conclude by the end of the year.

One of the goals of the GATT talks is to bring some kind of order to international health standards for food and agricultural products.

But the 12-nation EC, a major player in the GATT talks, plans to announce soon a ban on imports of U.S. pork, beginning on Oct. 31, and beef imports by the end of the year.

The plan was outlined by Ray MacSharry, EC commissioner, in a letter this week to Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter.

MacSharry said the long-simmering issue over U.S. meat products had not been resolved to the satisfaction of the community.

Further, he said, many of the sanitary problems noted by EC authorities still exist in U.S. slaughter plants, including "insufficient general hygiene and veterinary control, insufficient post-mortem inspections and trichinella treatment or inspection."

MacSharry continued: "I am afraid that these results show that no matter how much patience and goodwill is shown on the part of the (EC) there remains an absence of commitment on the part of the U.S. authorities concerning establishments producing fresh meat for the community."

Yeutter, who was in South America this week, replied in a statement issued by his office that the EC's intention to ban meat imports was an "absurd" idea.

A 1989 restriction on imports of U.S. beef products because of potential hormone contamination was eased, but not until the United States had countered with high tariffs on imports of EC agricultural products.

Yeutter said USDA has been working with the EC the past two years to make regulatory requirements and technical methods acceptable to both sides.

"While we and the U.S. meat industry do not agree with the EC's allegations, many U.S. companies have made changes within their plants to comply with the EC requirements, even though these changes do not result in a superior or safer product," he said.

Yeutter added, "It is exasperating that the EC has ignored the attempts by the U.S. meat industry to comply with its requirements and has taken this action to stop U.S. meat exports into the EC."

Meat makes up a relatively small part of the total U.S. agricultural exports to the EC, which last year totaled about $6.57 billion, according to Agriculture Department trade statistics. Meat and meat products were put at $147.7 million, or about 2 percent of the total.

However, Europe is an important market for "variety" meats, the edible offals such as livers, tongues and other organs not in great demand among American consumers.

According to Yeutter and others close to the GATT talks, agreements are being sought "to ensure that sanitary and phytosanitary rules are used for legitimate food safety purposes, not to build trade barriers."

Current GATT rules state that the 97 member countries of the agreement have the right to adopt any measure considered necessary to protect human, animal or plant life or health.

But the rules are so vague that many countries use "health requirements" to shut out certain imports when they choose to do so.

"This is an artificial trade barrier, not a food safety issue," said

Mike Wehler, president of the National Pork Producers Council.

"This is one more example of the EC's fortress mentality when it comes to trade barriers that protect its pork industry," he said.

Under procedures being developed during the GATT talks, a country would be able to challenge another's claim that health-related import regulations were necessary to protect domestic human or plant life or health. The challenge then would be settled within the GATT framework.

Each nation would still be able to set its own food safety standards based on its definition of acceptable risks. However, international standards would serve as a reference for settling a dispute under GATT proceedings.

The idea is to formulate food safety standards based on scientific evidence and science, and to eliminate their use as trade barriers, according to a USDA background report.

Three international scientific organizations would serve as the basis or initial reference point for settling disputes within the GATT:

- Codex Alimentarius Commission, established in 1963, with a membership of 135 countries. It is concerned with protecting the health of consumers, ensuring fair practices in food trade, and promoting the coordination of food standards.
- International Office of Epizootics, with 106 members. It is concerned with health and sanitary requirements for animal imports and exports. It was founded in 1924 and is the oldest international veterinary organization.

New series is no 'Murder He Wrote'

NEW YORK (AP) — "It skews old," Madison Avenue will say. "It's 'Murder, He Wrote' on the Left Coast," critics may say. But Friday's two-hour premiere of CBS' "Over My Dead Body" had two major assets. Its stars.

Edward Woodward, formerly of "The Equalizer," is one of the best actors working today and his co-star Jessica Lundy, a newcomer to series TV, is a perfect foil for this hour-long blend of screwball comedy and mystery.

He plays Maxwell Beckett, a successful-yet-blocked crime novelist with a shadowy background at Scotland Yard; she plays Nikki Page, an obituary writer and would-be crime reporter for a San Francisco newspaper.

Woodward, who won raves for the title role of the film "Breaker Morant," got Emmy nominations in each of his four years in "The Equalizer," as McCall, the enigmatic, emotionally exhausted former counterintelligence agent.

Woodward gives us a much more complex character in Max Beckett, who emerges as an entire man, by turns irritable, gallant, petulant, brave, supercilious and maudlin. It's a fuller performance, and Woodward must be enjoying it.

screwball efforts to secure his assistance.

Once Max was convinced of her sincerity (or sufficiently apprehensive of this newest loose cannon in his life of divorce papers and writer's block) he joined her investigation.

They were unlikely buddies at best, and slowly revealed themselves to each other and the comedy of their older man younger woman relationship really started.

Reservist named deserter by Army mixup

BLUFORD, Ill. (AP) — The Army reservist that military officials mistakenly listed as a deserter and a female is neither.

Pfc. Layern Fay Johnson is willing to serve. And he's a man.

Army officials said Thursday they mistakenly identified Johnson, 26, of Bluford, as a female deserter Wednesday while discussing the case of Spec. Stephanie Atkinson of Murphysboro.

Atkinson, who has refused to report for duty with the 300th Adjutant Postal Company, says she has become a conscientious objector and opposes the U.S. military buildup in the Persian Gulf.

"Someone erred," said the Army's Fort Sheridan spokesman, Maj. Bob Host. "He has been removed from the classification of deserter."

Army officials said they discovered the mistake Thursday while looking up more information on Johnson in response to a reporter's questions.

Johnson, who was working with a carnival in Florida, couldn't be reached for comment. But his mother, Dorothy Johnson, said he had already made plans to report for duty and had been told to "stay put" until he was needed.

"He said some time ago that if his unit went to Saudi Arabia, he would go," his mother said. "His younger brother already is over there in the Army."

She said she hadn't been told about the mix-up involving her son, but was glad to hear it had been resolved.

If Woodward "skews" toward older viewers, younger viewers will skew toward Miss Lundy, a New York-trained stage and cabaret actress who made her film debut in the inauspicious "Bright Lights, Big City" and followed it with "Caddyshack II." A newcomer to series TV, she's a real find.

Her Nikki rides a motorcycle and looks great in leathers, but she's kind of vulnerable. She's smart, capable and can be blitheringly ditzy, but she exudes a wholesome, well-scrubbed sexiness that should be universally appealing.

The "Murder, He Wrote" charge might come closer to sticking. The series was created by David Chisholm and William Link, a co-creator of "Murder, She Wrote." Beckett surely is the male counterpart to Angela Lansbury's Jessica.

If you expected the grim, silver-lit New York fables of "The Equalizer" you were disappointed by the golden California tones that suffused "Over My Dead Body." It was much lighter, sillier, but stylish and engaging.

In Friday's two-hour premiere Nikki witnessed the murder of a woman in an adjoining apartment building and intervened. The problem was that there was no body or evidence of a crime and the police weren't interested.

Nikki turned to Max but failed to enlist his aid in investigating the mystery. Much of the first half-hour consisted of her

Prosecutors win case in S. Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Federal prosecutors won convictions in the first South Carolina Statehouse corruption trial.

State Rep. Luther Taylor, one of 10 lawmakers indicted after being snared in an FBI sting, was convicted Thursday of accepting $4,300 in bribes for his support of a pari-mutuel betting bill. He faces up to 120 years in prison and a $1.5 million fine.

The 40-year-old Columbia Democrat was convicted of six counts of violating the Hobbs Act, a federal anti-bribery law. An indictment accused him of accepting five separate bribes and conspiring to solicit those bribes in exchange for his support of the pari-mutuel bill.

Four other lawmakers caught in the sting, labeled "Operation Lost Trust," pleaded guilty to bribery charges and resigned their seats. One lawmaker pleaded guilty to drug charges and resigned. A lobbyist caught in the sting also pleaded guilty to drug charges.

The remaining four lawmakers face trial in November and December.
