

Richards, Williams bring out top guns

DALLAS (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards criticized her rival, Clayton Williams, for not paying federal income taxes in 1986, then putting millions of dollars into his campaign for governor. Richards also asked voters

Sunday to remember President Bush's veto of the civil rights bill when they cast their ballots on Tuesday.

Republican Williams made no public appearances Sunday other than to attend church with the president and make a brief stop at a GOP phone bank in Houston.

Bush planned to make appearances with Williams today in Tyler, Waco and Houston as the hotly contested race for governor enters its final hours with polls showing the race is a tossup.

Richards also planned several appearances across the state.

CLAYTON WILLIAMS

ANN RICHARDS

Richards visited four black Baptist churches in Dallas and appeared at a rally in Waco with former Congresswoman Barbara Jordan and Virginia Gov. Doug Wilder, the nation's first elected black governor.

Richards told the crowds that Bush's veto of the civil rights bill and Williams' admission last week that he didn't pay any federal income taxes in 1986 were evidence that the GOP was the party of the rich and white.

"He tells us he didn't pay any income tax in 1986 and yet four years later he writes a personal check for over $8 million to try to buy the governor's race in Texas," Richards said of Williams.

"If the wrong person is there," Wilder said, "they'll handle the state money like they handle their own, and I don't have to tell you what that means."

Scurry County voters head to polls Tuesday

Several contested county races and some key statewide campaigns could pull a sizeable voter turnout for Tuesday's general election, though absentee totals are below that of the 1988 presidential election.

commissioner and district clerk. The office of peace justice in Precinct 2 is also being challenged by a write-in candidate.

1,494 people cast their ballots during the absentee voting period which ended last Friday. Some 20 mail ballots were still out.

Polls open at 7 a.m. for Tuesday's election. Contested races in the county include those for county judge, Precinct 2 county

The near-1,500 figure is short of the 1,843 absentee ballots cast by Scurry County voters in the 1988 election. "It may not be as good as it was two years ago but I think we'll have a good turnout because we have those contested (county) races," said County Clerk Frances Billingsley.

GAIL — Eighty-one Borden County residents took advantage of the absentee voting period, leading up to Tuesday's general election, according to Dorothy Browne, who serves as county and district clerk.

The Lady Dusters, under the direction of coach Kelly Chadwick, begin the new season at home against Cisco Junior College while coach Tony Mauldin's Westerners are in Dallas to tip off their season versus Cedar Valley College.

Resolution honors Ensor

Scurry County commissioners passed a resolution recognizing outgoing County Agriculture Extension Agent Marvin Ensor today during their weekly meeting at the county courthouse.

There are only two "local" races in Borden County and both involve write-in candidates.

The Dusters, led by sophomores Jill Forrest, Tracy Edmunds and Kelsey Koester, are coming off a 16-11 season in 1989-90. A preseason poll has them pegged to finish sixth in the seven-team Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

Ensor will be leaving his position with the county at the end of this month to be county agent for Gaines County. The resolution recognized his "distinguished service rendered to this community" and said that Ensor had served "with wisdom and dedication." In addition to the resolution, County Judge Bobby Goodwin presented Ensor with a plaque of appreciation.

In the race for commissioner of Precinct 4, Democratic incumbent Hurston Lemons Jr., faces write-in candidate Don Massingill. In the other race, that of county-wide constable, incumbent Royce Nance is being opposed by write-in candidate Edward Zepeda. Nance is finishing out a term after being appointed by the commissioner's court.

Mauldin's men's team, picked fourth in what figures to be a hotly contested conference race, are led by returning sophomores Allen Smith, Jacoby Garmon, Dominic Byrd, Jeff Shelley, Doug Brown and Lewis Wesley. Transfer players who figure to

The only other action taken by commissioners was approval of the minutes and bills payable.

Water line woes key topic before Snyder City Council

City water pipe problems will top the agenda in tonight's 6:30 meeting of Snyder City Council at city hall.

budgeted for general water system improvements.

The council is currently considering a contract with In-Place Linings of Fort Worth to lease equipment that would clean and then line with cement city water lines. The process is supposed to increase water pressure and solve the "red water" situation now faced by some Snyder residents.

Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell will address the council concerning the process of the county's 911 system. Mayor Troy Williamson is expected to sign an interlocal agreement during the meeting. January of 1992 is the target date for the system to become operational. It will be housed at the local police station.

Ask Us

Q—I know soccer has been growing across the United States but I heard the other day that the number of people playing soccer is just behind football and baseball. Can that be true?

A—The only figures we've been able to find come from the National Federation of High School Associations. Their figures show that soccer ranks sixth among boys' high school athletics with 220,777 participants nationwide and sixth among girls' with 111,711 participants. Participation leaders among boys' athletics are football (947,757), basketball (517,217) and baseball (413,581). Girls' participation leaders are basketball (389,668), track and field (308,810) and volleyball (293,688).

Your Birthday

Nov. 6, 1990

It looks like there will be some exciting social life in the offing for you this year ahead. However, when things start to accelerate, make sure you don't neglect SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Brilliantly conceived concepts could be altered to your disadvantage if you abide by the advice of unqualified counselors today. If you're seeking suggestions from wise heads, be sure they qualify. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial conditions could be a mixed bag for you today. You have a strong trend for accumulation that might be weakened by an equally strong trend of imprudence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do nothing today that could jeopardize a long standing association, such as making promises or commitments you know you'll be unable to fulfill.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conditions pertaining to your career look favorable today and key objectives should be achievable. However, if your efforts are thwarted, it could be due to the ineffective tactics you personally employ.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) People in general are likely to treat you in a favorable fashion today, but you might have to deal with a testy individual. Don't let this person sour your outlook where others are concerned.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take nothing for granted in the commercial world today. Agreements that appear to be airtight and sewn up might suddenly spring a leak in the least expected seam.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might be the perpetrator if there is an absence of harmony in a valued personal relationship today. To be on the safe side, bend a little extra to keep the alliance on track.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's imperative you strike while the iron is hot if you are toying with a financial opportunity today. Delays on your part could spell loss or at least a substantially diluted return.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're apt to be rather successful today in managing developments that are of a significant nature, but you might not be equally as competent in dealings with others on a purely one-to-one basis.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An important objective can be successfully achieved today, provided you proceed in an orderly fashion. Rushing ahead too quickly could disrupt your timing and lessen your possibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a favorable day to launch a new venture, provided you don't bring incompetent associates into the act. Inferior assistants could sabotage your project from within.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Strive to be prudent in your financial dealings today. First look to protect that which you already possess before extending yourself in hopes of accumulating more.

Dickinson cares for ill sister

NEW YORK (AP) — Angie Dickinson says she and her two sisters were never close while trying to survive life in North Dakota with an alcoholic father.

But all that has changed for the 59-year-old actress now that she's taking care of her sister Mary Lou, 61, who has Alzheimer's disease.

"I'd made my own diagnosis of Alzheimer's. I'm a news junkie and I read a lot of medical stories," Dickinson said in the Nov. 12 issue of People magazine. "In 1986 I told Mary Lou that I thought she might have Alzheimer's. I hope I didn't frighten her." The Los Angeles-based actress oversees the care required by Mary Lou, who has lost the ability to bathe, dress and feed herself.

Dickinson also has persuaded her sister's three adult children to enroll in support groups for families of Alzheimer's victims. And she takes her to movies and baseball games even though "I know she can't see the ball or the batter."

"But she enjoys the ambience, being there with me," the actress said. "It's all very momentary, but the moments are worthwhile."

Nighttime air raids in Iraq may be first move

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American-led offensive to drive Iraq out of Kuwait probably would begin with nighttime air strikes inside Iraq to sever Saddam Hussein's links to his huge occupying army, military planners and private analysts say.

Such a campaign, launched with the allied forces now arrayed against Iraq, would seek to exploit Iraq's weaknesses in air power and its apparent vulnerability in Kuwait to a seaborne assault and to naval bombardment from the Persian Gulf.

President Bush has said repeatedly in recent days that he is growing impatient with Saddam's continuing occupation of Kuwait, though he has not decided to resort to military force. He has stressed, however, that force remains an active option and that he will not permit the Iraqi army to stay indefinitely in Kuwait.

U.S. military officials won't discuss specific war plans, and they stress that Bush, for now at least, has not changed their mission: It remains the defense of Saudi Arabia and enforcement of United Nations economic sanctions against Iraq.

Military officials' recent comments make it clear they are not enthusiastic about taking the offensive against Iraq any time soon.

A major reason for the reluctance is Iraq's apparent success in fortifying its defensive positions in Kuwait, where at least 200,000 Iraqi troops are dug in.

They are supported by an estimated 150,000 elite Republican Guard troops along key resupply lines between Kuwait's northeastern border and the Iraqi city of Basra.

Iraq's defensive position in Kuwait is described by military officials as elaborate. It includes multiple layers of infantry and barriers such as mine fields, earthen mounds and anti-tank ditches. Behind these are mechanized units that can quickly reinforce the front-line infantry and cover its flanks. And behind these are mobile "ready reserve" units capable of counterattacking or blocking a move by Saudi-based ground forces to go around Kuwait.

If Bush ordered an attack any time soon, U.S. commanders in the field would have a wide array of firepower on which to draw in combination with a variety of air, ground and naval forces deployed by Britain, France and about 20 other nations.

About 240,000 U.S. forces are now in the Persian Gulf area, and allied forces total more than 100,000. The Pentagon said it plans to send as many as 100,000 more troops, but it would be several weeks before they get there and get ready.

Business bad for military town

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — War has always hit close to home in this Central Texas city.

It's taking a licking now that thousands of soldiers from nearby Fort Hood are in the Saudi Arabian desert to quell Iraq's aggression.

Without the soldiers' dollars, which have given birth to hundreds of enterprises, the city's businesses are bracing for an especially bad Christmas season.

Already, traffic is light at area shopping malls, nightclubs and restaurants, all feeling the pinch of Operation Desert Shield.

Rob Morris, who owns a jewelry store in Killeen Mall, said business is bad even on military paydays.

"Normally on a day like today, I'd have 20 customers," Morris said. "Today, I've had five. We're hoping for the best."

Fort Hood's 38,000 troops — plus another 55,000 Army spouses and children — provide a livelihood, directly or indirectly, for an estimated 120,000 civilians around Killeen. The post accounts for about 75 percent of the regional economy, officials said.

Carlene Carter finally makes it big

NEW YORK (AP) — It took six albums over 12 years, but country singer Carlene Carter is finally making it big like the rest of her famous family.

"I always thought it would work out," Carter, 35, said in the Nov. 12 issue of People magazine. "But I didn't think it would work out so late in life."

Carter is the daughter of June Carter Cash and '50s Nashville crooner Carl Smith.

But not even her stepdad — Johnny Cash — or her third husband — British rocker Nick Lowe — could jumpstart a career that saw her first five albums go nowhere.

Now she's back to country music and has a No. 1 hit, "I Fell in Love," and a Top 20 album of the same name.

"There was a period where I was a little scared that I'd blown my chance," she said. "But I think everything that I did, every step I took, every wrong turn led to this."

Johnny Cash's daughter, Rosanne Cash, is also a popular country performer.

Cotton bounces back from adversity

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Tap-rooted cotton, known for hardiness, has proved its mettle this year on the High Plains, showing exceptional toughness in the face of adversity. A crop that bordered on becoming a disaster early in the summer has blossomed into potentially the third largest output of the last decade. The turnaround has amazed many in the industry. The crop, bolstered by rains ahead of the normal spring turbulence, got off to a fast start, with most of the plantings of almost 3.3 million acres in the Lubbock-area completed by the middle of May or earlier. But the normal spring rains failed to materialize. Then, temperatures from the hottest June since 1911 began to shrivel crop prospects, especially in the big dryland areas. "This crop at that time really looked like a bust," recalled Dr. James Supak, area cotton agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock. "There was just no way that even many of the irrigated producers were going to be able to keep up with the water demands."

But widespread rains in July and August not only saved a lot of dryland cotton but provided essential supplemental moisture for the irrigated acreage.

"This speaks well for the old cotton plant," Supak said. "A lot of our dryland cotton just seemed to have hung in there forever. We could see the crop declining on a day-by-day basis, but it finally hit a low point and held on..."

Then, when we finally got those summer rains, the cotton just shot right back into action," he said. Heat in September and October helped late-set fruit, which at one time wasn't given much of a chance to produce an open boll of cotton. "It developed enough to be taken to the gin. The crop turnaround, however, has been far from uniform.

Nat'l economic slowdown could hit North Texas

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Layoffs by big-name U.S. companies will hit closer to home today when thousands of employees of the General Motors Corp. assembly plant go to a week-on, week-off schedule.

It's just the latest in a series of layoffs that have sparked worries about job security and a national economic slowdown.

GM officials said the Arlington plant will cut back to one rotating shift beginning today because of slow sales. That move was announced before GM said Friday that it would idle more than 27,000 workers nationwide.

General Dynamics Corp. announced last week that it would lay off between 700 and 1,000 research and engineering personnel in January. The defense contractor has said it expects to cut up to 7,000 jobs at its Fort Worth Division by the mid-1990s because of declining government defense spending.

Texas Instruments in Dallas has lost 950 of its 22,000 workers in its Defense Systems & Electronics Group for the same reason.

Some are concerned by cuts in defense spending.

A study by an economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas shows that defense companies account for 18 percent of Fort Worth's total economic output. Defense work is so important to the local economy that each job eliminated by a defense contractor will also bring about the loss of one more job somewhere else in the Fort Worth-Dallas area, the study showed.

Thursday, Dun & Bradstreet Corp. said business failures rose 14.5 percent nationwide and 18.1 percent in Texas in the first nine months of the year. New England and the Middle Atlantic states, hard hit by failures in service businesses, insurance and finance, led the way with failure increases of 193 percent in New England and 65 percent in the Middle Atlantic.

You Can Make a Difference If You're Registered to Vote

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because you can reach millions of people, and there are millions who need to be reached. Two-thirds of the voting population is not registered to vote! Please, Abby, help reach those people. It is so important for everyone to get involved and to be aware of what is going on in our country.

With November elections right around the corner, this would be a great time to make a plea to the majority who are not registered and are, therefore, not voting. Think of the difference they could make.

WENDY NELSON, NORTHGLENN, COLO.

DEAR WENDY: I wish you had written sooner, because even though the deadline for voter registration varies from state to state, it's already too late to register to vote in tomorrow's elections.

According to the League of Women Voters, two-thirds of the voting population is registered to vote — but a very important one-third is not.

Susan Lederman, president of the league, says: "A huge number of registered voters change their place of residence each year, which means they must re-register before they are eligible to vote. Many of them postpone or forget to re-register. Finding out how to register is as easy as calling your local election board, listed in the telephone directory under 'City Hall.'" Readers, don't put it off another day.

DEAR ABBY: Nearly 50 years ago, my husband and I "had to" get married. In order to save face with our three children, we back-dated our wedding date by three months. We've had a good marriage and raised three great kids and now have 10 grandchildren.

Our children want to give us a nice family celebration, which we will graciously accept. My husband feels guilty about the date, and I say telling them the truth now would really upset everyone, so we should just leave things as they are.

Our pastor says, "Forget it and stick with the date you originally told them, as it is not a major lie." Then he added, "Some things are better left unsaid."

I have written a letter to each of our children; to be opened after I die, explaining the situation, trusting they will understand.

May we please have your opinion?

FIFTY YEARS LATE

DEAR FIFTY YEARS LATE: I vote with your pastor. You are to be congratulated on a successful marriage that lasted for 50 years. Silence is golden, and so is this anniversary, so give yourselves an anniversary gift — your golden silence.

As for those personal letters to your three children "explaining the situation" — destroy them. Your very wise pastor gave you sound advice when he said, "Some things are better left unsaid."

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Had Enough in Wisconsin," whose husband of 40 years always introduces her with, "Meet my wife — but please don't laugh."

You may get through to this insensitive clod by introducing him in the following manner: "Meet my husband — but please don't laugh; he was much better looking when I married him."

If you print this, please don't use my name. Sign me ... ASSERTIVE IN TEXAS

WJCAC golf event won by Westerners

Western Texas College's golfers took advantage of their home links with a first place finish in Saturday's Western Junior College Athletic Conference match held on the par-70 WTC course.

"Overall, this was one of our best showings of the year," said WTC coach David Foster.

"When you take into account the wind and weather it was an excellent outing. Our guys kept their composure and worked as a team for the win."

The Westerners fired a team-total 289-145-434 in the 27 hole event to outdistance Midland College's 297-150-447, Odessa's 297-150-447, New Mexico Junior College's 293-156-449, and defending WJCAC champion New Mexico Military Institute's 301-151-452.

Sweetwater sophomore Tony Lara paced the Western Texas attack. Lara fired a 69-36-105 to win medalist honors in the tournament. He was trailed by NMJC golfer Patrick Johanssen, who carded a 68-39-107, and Midland's Mike Keiner who registered a score of 107 on rounds of 71 and 36.

The win boosts the Westerners from a tie for fourth in the conference standings to third place with nine points.

Midland still leads the league with 13 points for the fall season followed by Odessa with 11, WTC, NMJI's eight and five for NMJC.

The Westerners will wind up their fall schedule with a trip to Pensacola, Fla. for the Nov. 15-18 National Intercollegiate Match Play Championships at Stonebrook Country Club.

Jets bomb Dallas, 24-9

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — As a rookie, Terance Mathis knows enough to listen to his elders, and to do what they say.

JoJo Townsell, whose place Mathis has taken at receiver and as a kick returner, was studying special teams films with Mathis last week. The injured Townsell noted a flaw in the Cowboys' coverage.

"I told him he had a chance to break one, a big one," Townsell said. "I told him he had a chance to make a big play on a punt return."

Ever the attentive student, Mathis remembered his lessons Sunday. He fielded Mike Saxon's 60-yard punt over his shoulder at the Jets' 2, burst up the middle untouched, cut right and went 98 yards for a touchdown. Not only did Mathis tie an NFL record with the 98-yarder, he sparked New York to a 24-9 victory. It was the Jets' first win in five tries against Dallas (3-6).

The Cowboys weren't any luckier or better when they got near the end zone. They managed only field goals of 37, 35 and 32 yards by Ken Zim. Despite outgaining the Jets 321 yards to 187 (226-71 in the air), the Cowboys self-destructed inside the Jets' 20.

"A year ago, maybe I would have been satisfied with how we moved the ball," Troy Aikman said after going 25-for-40, throwing two interceptions and being sacked three times. "But I'm not pleased with it today."

"We have to get points on the board when we move the ball."

Added rookie Emmitt Smith, who rushed for 55 yards but had a touchdown called back by a motion penalty early in the fourth quarter:

"There's no excuse to be down there so often and come away with only three points."

Leading 10-9, the Jets finally got moving with the ball. Helped by a pair of roughing-the-passer penalties, New York had drives of 65 yards in 13 plays and 48 in seven in the final period.

A personal foul on James Washington aided the first drive, which culminated in Brad Baxter's 2-yard touchdown run. Jim Jeffcoat got the other roughing penalty, forcing Ken O'Brien from the game for one play; and Baxter's runs of 19 and 13 yards set up Freeman McNeil's 1-yard TD.

"I thought I had two steps," Washington said of his penalty. "His arm was up. It wasn't like he was sitting there and I came out of nowhere. This is tackle football, not touch."

Warren, Hess nab 1st place

COLORADO CITY — Jason Warren and Michael Hess teamed up to win first place in the A Division of boys' doubles competition in Saturday's tennis tournament here.

A Division consists of 4A and 5A squads while JV teams and 3A and under varsity crews played in B Division.

Warren and Hess knocked off the Ballinger team of Tom Poindexter and Chad Campbell, 6-4, 6-1 in the event's finals for the title.

Other Snyder winners included Kevin McMillan in A boys' singles, Robin Cave in A girls' singles and Hope Papay in B girls' singles.

McMillan, who captured second place, lost in the finals to Big Spring talent Steve Sims, 6-2, 6-1.

Kathy Sevey of Big Spring halted runner-up Cave in the championship round, as well, 6-2, 6-2 and Papay wound up in second position after falling to Big Spring's Molina Martinez in the title match, 6-2, 6-2.

Snyder's tennis team will wind up its fall schedule Saturday with an 8 a.m. appearance at the Abilene Tournament.

Frosh knock off Lee, 30-6

SAN ANGELO — Snyder's freshman football team whipped San Angelo Lee, 30-6, last Thursday with running back Keith Orosco scoring three touchdowns.

Orosco pulled the Tigers even at 6-6 with his 9-yard run in the first quarter.

Jim Pat Griffin's 2-point conversion put the Tigers on top to stay.

Orosco added a 7-yard run for a score in the second period and a 24-yarder in the fourth.

Griffin contributed a 34-yard ramble for paydirt, as well.

David Krenek recovered a fumble and Terrell Jones snagged an interception for the Snyder defense.

"It was a real good effort," coach Milton Ham said of his 3-2-2 Tigers. "Lee had a good football team, we just hustled and played well."

The SHS frosh will wind up its grid season with a Thursday meeting with Lamesa at Tiger Stadium.

SWC roundup...

Hogs drop another SWC tilt

by The Associated Press
 Now they really, really, really, really, really want to leave the Southwest Conference.

The two-time defending champion Arkansas Razorbacks, who are bolting to the Southeastern Conference in 1992, dropped their fifth straight SWC game Saturday, 19-11 to Rice.

The loss ensured the Hogs (2-6) of their first losing season since 1967. The Razorbacks hadn't lost five straight SWC games since 1945.

But while the league continues to glow over the first-to-worst Razorbacks, the Texas Longhorns and Houston Cougars are preparing to battle for the SWC's real bragging rights. Texas (6-1, 4-0) and Houston (8-0, 7-0) face each other Saturday at Texas Memorial Stadium in Austin.

The Longhorns, who haven't been to the Cotton Bowl since 1983, cleared a major hurdle over the weekend by whipping the Texas Tech Red Raiders 41-22 in Lubbock, a sweet homecoming for Longhorns coach David McWilliams, who used to coach there.

Houston survived an NCAA record 690 yards and five touchdown passes by Texas Christian backup quarterback Matt Vogler in a 56-35 victory over the Horned Frogs.

Also Saturday, Darren Lewis ran for 207 yards and four touchdowns as preseason favorite Texas A&M mauled Southern Methodist 38-17. Baylor took the day off.

The Longhorns possess the only unblemished SWC mark with Texas A&M and Baylor a length

Baker meets with exiled emir of Kuwait

By The Associated Press
The U.S. secretary of state met today with the exiled emir of Kuwait, and Iraq was allowing some British and American hostages to call home.

Also today, the USS Midway entered the Persian Gulf, the second U.S. aircraft carrier to do so in four weeks. Like the USS Independence, which left the gulf last month after a few days, the Midway's presence was apparently intended as a show of force.

The British Foreign Office said today at least 30 British hostages held in Iraq called their families in Britain during the weekend.

The Foreign Office condemned the calls as another "cruel and calculating Iraqi ploy."

Martin dead at 76

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mary Martin was remembered upon her death for a tomboyish charm and vibrancy that lit up the stage whether she flew high in "Peter Pan" or sang to children in "The Sound of Music."

Martin, one of the New York theater's leading ladies for more than 30 years, died of cancer Saturday at age 76 at her home in Rancho Mirage.

The actress captivated audiences with her spunk and her joyous singing in such Broadway musicals as "South Pacific," "The Sound of Music," "I Do! I Do!" and "Leave It to Me."

Hundreds of foreigners have been held in Iraq and Kuwait since Saddam Hussein's troops overran the emirate on Aug. 2. Saddam has offered to let relatives visit during the Christmas holidays — an offer reiterated in weekend phone calls by some hostages.

Other hostages told their families not to give in.

"He said the telephone call was being recorded but he didn't give two monkeys and to let the government know that the hostages want no negotiations with the terrorists and they are 100 percent behind them," one Briton said of his hostage son. British officials did not identify the father and son by name.

In Brockton, Mass., however, a 44-year-old woman whose twin brother is a hostage said she'll go to Baghdad for Christmas, despite the opposition of the U.S. government.

"If this helps John's morale, so be it," Mary Trundy said of her twin, John Stevenson.

Voters head to polls

Among local races, Republican Bob Doolittle is battling Democratic incumbent Bobby Goodwin for county judge.

Another Democratic incumbent being challenged is Precinct 2 Commissioner Tommy Pate. Pate is running against Republican Roy L. Idom.

Voting boxes in the county commissioner's Precinct 2 race are 5, 6, 17 and 18.

The office of district clerk is being sought by Democrat Elois Pruitt, and Republican Patsy Williams. In the only other contested race, write-in candidate D.M. Foree is going against Democrat H.M. Lomax for justice of the peace in Precinct 2.

Box 13, Hermleigh Community Center, is the only voting box which will include the JP race.

Among the unopposed races in the county, County Attorney Pete Greene, County Clerk Frances Billingsley and County Treasurer Rita Staton, all Democratic incumbents, are seeking reelection.

Jerry Gannaway is unopposed for county commissioner in Precinct 4 and Wanda Rushing is unopposed for justice of the peace in Precinct 1. Both are Democrats.

Voting boxes which include commissioner of Precinct 4 are 10, 11, 12 and 13. Voting boxes which include JP Precinct 1 are all boxes except 13.

Of particular area interest is the 78th District State Representative's race, in which Democratic incumbent David Counts of Knox City is being challenged by Republican John Pennington of Sweetwater.

Three thefts and a possible business burglary were reported to Snyder police during the weekend.

The three thefts were reported Sunday and the burglary of a building was discovered about 3:41 p.m. Saturday. Don Atwood of Continental ENSCO reported that forced entry had been made into the building at 1001 College Ave. Nothing was believed to be missing.

It was not known if the offense was connected to the burglary of three Snyder businesses reported earlier Saturday. Forced entry had been made into the West Texas Animal Clinic, Union Oilfield Supply and the Texas Highway Department office. More than $1,600 was taken in the three burglaries.

At 3:04 p.m. Sunday, Neal Carter of 2511 35th St. reported the theft of a tool box taken out of his pickup while parked at the Scurry County Coliseum.

At 3:13 p.m., Jana Smith reported that a plastic tool box containing horseshoe equipment had been taken from her pickup.

At 6:28 p.m., Ben Bishop reported the theft of a hydraulic jack and highlift jack from his pickup at 2803 38th St.

Johnson, guard Michael Richardson and post Isaac Davis.

The Lady Dusters begin at 6 p.m. at Scurry County Coliseum.

Tickets for the WTC-CJC women's matchup will be available at the door for $2 for adults and $1 for Snyder school students. Senior citizens with valid Senior Center ID cards will be admitted free as will WTC students.

The Westerners tip-off at 7 p.m. in Dallas.

Richardson recalled the civil rights protests of the 1960s as a crowd of about 1,000 supporters cheered at the Martin Luther King Jr. Community Center Gymnasium in Dallas.

"I invoke those old days because it must be called forward every once in a while," she said, "because of what we saw take place with the civil rights act and its veto only a week ago. We know how precarious our freedoms are."

Ms. Jordan told the crowd, "I would hope that on Tuesday we are going to recapture citizen politics. This country is governed by citizens, by each and everyone of us."

"We are black and white and red and all colors," she said. "We are not to be purchased by any millionaire cowboy."

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I bruise very easily, simply by banging a leg or arm against something. What causes this? Is the one aspirin I take daily thinning my blood too much and causing the problem?

DEAR READER: Normal blood clotting depends on a complex series of chemical reactions. As an integral part of this series, tiny blood cells, called platelets, play a crucial role: The platelets stick together to provide a super-structure that supports the clotting chemicals.

When platelets lose their adhesiveness and fail to aggregate, a blood clot is prevented from forming.

Aspirin (and similar compounds) disrupt platelet stickiness. Therefore, these inexpensive drugs are often used to prevent common diseases, such as stroke and heart attacks, that are related to inappropriate blood clotting. As little as one baby aspirin a day (one-fourth the strength of an adult aspirin) will significantly reduce the speed with which blood coagulates.

I suspect that the aspirin is the cause of your bruising tendency; this is a common reaction in patients taking aspirin. It is not harmful, although a bruising tendency can be annoying at times because of discomfort and the obvious cosmetic effects.

If your doctor has told you to take aspirin, you will simply have to put up with the bruising. If you are taking aspirin regularly on your own, I suggest you discontinue it — and see if your susceptibility to bruising disappears.

I should add that spontaneous (non-traumatic) bruising may indicate a serious clotting disorder that is not related to aspirin therapy; such diseases include leukemia and thrombocytopenia, a primary disease of platelets. Therefore, while I suspect your bruising is a predictable consequence of aspirin treatment, you may wish to check with your doctor to make sure no serious ailment is causing your problem.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Blood." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Airline trying to shake debt and fuel costs

DALLAS (AP) — Passengers who rely on Continental Airlines' fares and service hope the financially-troubled carrier can overcome the immediate threat from high fuel prices and more long-term danger from debt.

But few analysts are betting that the Houston-based carrier will become healthy, at least any time soon.

"I know what Continental wants to do, and they know what they want to do, but how they get there, I don't think anyone knows," said airline industry analyst Mark Daugherty at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc.

Continental must improve service, control rising fuel costs, reduce debt and clean up its heavily leveraged balance sheet to look better to investors, Daugherty said.

"How they do that in this environment is very difficult," he told The Dallas Morning News in Sunday's editions.

Continental, like other airlines, is struggling with jet fuel prices that have more than doubled since the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait — adding an extra $80 million to Continental's operating costs in October alone — and a budding recession that threatens to keep travelers at home.

The difficulty of its task became evident after word leaked out Oct. 23 that Continental had considered seeking Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection.

Continental now is talking about selling assets to raise cash, including possibly some or all of its international routes or one of its smaller hubs. If it reduces its route system, it may also sell airplanes.

Hollis Harris, the former Delta Air Lines Inc. president who became Continental's chief executive officer in August, told a Houston audience Thursday that the airline is "prioritizing away from asset sales or any move that will hurt our people."

Tracking oil stockpile not easy task

NEW YORK (AP) — What does an oil trader do when the industry says the nation's supply of crude is falling by about a million barrels and the government says it's rising by about a million?

When this happened last week, futures players on the New York Mercantile Exchange used the bullish numbers from the industry to push prices higher. They paid less attention to the government numbers, even though some in the industry believe the government usually comes closer to the mark.

Others have their doubts as they analyze weekly petroleum reports that are generally released Tuesday evenings by the leading industry group, the American Petroleum Institute, and Wednesday evenings by the independent statistical branch of the Department of Energy.

"A lot of people feel the DOE numbers are more correct, but at the same time you have to remember they have that government influence on them," said Thomas P. Blakeslee, an energy analyst with Pegasus Econometric Group Inc., in Hoboken, N.J. "Are they receiving better information, or are they simply trying to paint a better picture? A lot of people figure if they have a chance to paint a better picture, they will."

The government disputes the contention that its numbers are anything but the most accurate it can compile, and many industry observers doubt the DOE numbers are manipulated for political reasons.

Analyst Bob Baker of Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. sees such a charge as the type of cynicism that leads some people to believe anything negative they might hear about the government.

"These numbers are so open for inspection that it would be pretty hard to bugger them," Baker said.

Nonetheless, during the Persian Gulf crisis that has now entered its fourth month, the discrepancies that have shown up between the two statistical reports have tended to show higher stockpiles for crude and gasoline in the federal reports.

In last week's reports, the API showed gasoline stocks falling by 2.2 million barrels and crude oil stocks falling by 900,000 barrels. DOE showed gasoline stocks rising by 1.4 million barrels and crude stocks rising by 1.2 million barrels.

Those swings were larger than usual, analysts said, although Baker points out they were smaller than the gap that showed up a few years back when a difference of 8 million barrels of crude raised questions about the ways the government and the industry try to keep track of oil.

Baker said he puts more faith in the government numbers, saying that months after the fact, when the statisticians release modified reports that are supposed to be more accurate, the API generally adjusts its figures in the direction of the DOE numbers.

He also pointed out that the API report contains a "fudge factor," showing a discrepancy in all the barrels of oil and refined petroleum products that didn't quite add up from week to week. Last week, it was 405,000 barrels.

"On imports, sometimes they don't get a tanker counted when it lands," Baker said. API statistician Edward Murphy acknowledges it's easier to keep track of refineries than tankers, so sometimes the giant ships are left out and oil imports can be the trickiest number to estimate.

Still, oil traders are more likely to respond to the API numbers, which those in the industry refer to simply as "APIs." The API report has been around longer. It comes out first, giving it a definite edge in potential to move a market that often jumps at the latest shred of information floating in.

API waits until the Mercantile Exchange closes each Tuesday before it even compiles the numbers. Once they are compiled, they are released immediately, so no one ever has access to any unreleased information, Murphy said.

The API numbers are the "industry's bellwether," according to senior oil analyst Ann-Louise Hittle at Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc.

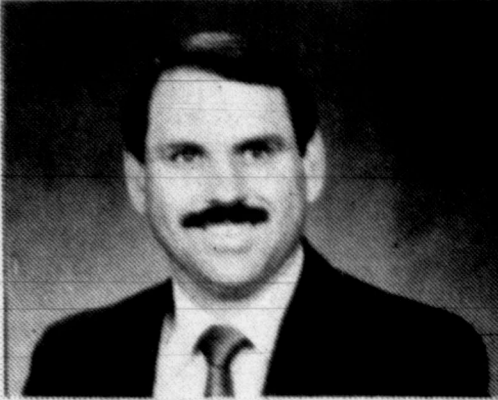

Statisticians from API and the Energy Information Administration, which compiled the government numbers, agreed it's hard to say why they sometimes chart crude stocks moving in different directions.

If you're tired of higher taxes, losing local control of our schools and losing the war on crime and drugs, elect a State Representative who is prepared to solve the problems and be our strong, clear voice in Austin:

John Pennington

Senator Phil Gramm is for John Pennington:

"I'm for John for a lot of reasons. I've known John for many years, but just let me tick some of them off. Number one, he's not a lawyer, he's a businessman. He's saved up his money and went into business for himself. For five years, through tough economic times, he's paid the rent and met the payroll and that's exactly the kind of experience we need in Austin, Texas."

"I'm for John because he didn't sit around and complain about the problem. He got involved in juvenile justice here in his home county and two other counties and as a private citizen, he's gotten out and worked with young people that are involved in the juvenile system and in our state in 1990 that means drugs."

"He knows what drugs do to our young people; and I know that he is going to work with me everyday in every way to help rid our state of illegal drugs and that's very important to me and I know it is important to you."

—Senator Phil Gramm

Clayton Williams is for John Pennington:

"I have concrete plans to fight drugs, rebuild the quality of our schools, create jobs, and reduce the high cost of government. But I can't do it alone. I need good men and women in the legislature to help me. Men like John Pennington."

"I encourage you to send John to represent you in Austin, and together we will fight to make Texas great again."

John Pennington will vote the West Texas Way!

What can one man do to stop the rising tide of problems in our state government? It took only one man at a time to create the problems and they can be undone the same way. Every additional Republican like John Pennington that we elect to the Legislature is another rock in the dam holding back a flood of government spending, prisons with revolving doors and ever-higher taxes.

Will election affect Congressional leaders?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tuesday's elections will affect the next Congress beyond the marginal changes in the balance of power between the two parties.

Within the small world of the Capitol, the nationwide balloting will be seen as a referendum on the Democratic and Republican congressional leaders.

Whether he deserves it or not, House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., will find his stature enhanced if the Democrats, as expected, take some seats away from the Republicans.

In the Senate, where the Democrats now hold a 55-45 majority and little change is anticipated, the results will boost either Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine or Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas, even if the lineup shifts by only a seat.

The electoral glow — or pall — will in subtle ways color how the Democratic-controlled Congress deals with President Bush over the next two years. Less subtly, the changes could make it easier or harder for Congress to override the president's vetoes.

Foley, Mitchell and Dole will adjust, adapt and survive the changes. There's no evidence that the outcome will shake them from their perches.

That's not so in the ranks of the House Republicans.

Rep. Don Sundquist, R-Tenn., is running to unseat Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., as chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee.

But is Vander Jagt the real target? Not likely. Ambitious GOP members are setting up for 1992, when many expect House Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., to retire after 12 years as leader. With the nationwide redistricting, Republicans will stand their best chance in a decade for a big gain in seats.

That makes the NRCC a potentially great place to be, even if Vander Jagt has never managed to take advantage of it. The chairman of the committee gets to know all the potential new members in a very intimate and positive way — he hands them money for their campaigns.

So what is Sundquist's ultimate goal? Who is his ultimate target? He won't say. But he doesn't have to.

Sundquist's quest was unveiled last week not by Sundquist, who intended to keep it quiet until after the election, not by Vander Jagt — but by the staff of House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich.

Gingrich would be Michel's natural successor. But he was elected as the No. 2 Republican last year at least partly because of his long-term plans for wresting control of the House from the Democrats. A bad election result would be bad for Gingrich — unless he can blame it on someone else.

Will sell painting

LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor will sell a van Gogh painting that could bring her nearly $20 million, Christie's auction house says.

The painting cost about $257,000 when the actress' art dealer father bought it on her behalf in 1963.

The painting, "A View of the Asylum and Chapel at Saint-Remy," was done in 1889. It depicts the asylum the artist entered after cutting off part of his ear. Van Gogh killed himself the following year.

When Miss Taylor was married to actor Richard Burton, the painting hung in the couple's home in Gstaad, Switzerland, and in the salon of their yacht.

The painting will be sold at auction Dec. 3 in London, Christie's said Sunday.

Duchess visiting

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Britain's Duchess of York toured a children's hospital today on the first official engagement of a four-day visit to Australia.

The wife of Prince Andrew was invited to Australia by the Royal Flying Doctor Service, which brings medical supplies and care to the country's outback.

The duchess stopped to talk with dozens of children, speaking in French at one point to a 6-year-old girl.

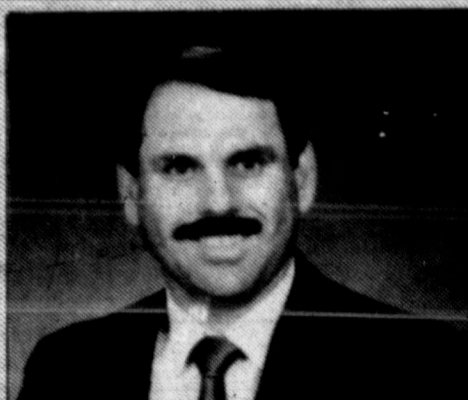

She will travel to Melbourne on Tuesday for the Melbourne Cup horse race, Australia's biggest turf event.
