

Snyder Tigers bag bi-district title

Schedule area date with archrival Sweetwater

By PHIL RIDDLE SDN Sports Editor PLAINVIEW — Sn

PLAINVIEW - Snyder's Tigers notched a 2014 come from-behind victory in their Saturday bi-district playoff game here on the strength of a 21-point third quarter offensive burst and the fact that the Black and Gold defenders held Pampa in check during the final 30 minutes.

"I'm really proud of these guys," said Snyder head coach David Baugh, whose Tigers advance to play archrival Sweetwater at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Area round of the Class 4A postseason playoffs.

Snyder is making its first playoff appearance in 12 years but the Tigers played like a veteran squad in the second half last weekend.

The Tigers were on the short end of a 14-0 score after two quarters and, according to Baugh, made some defensive adjustments at intermission.

The adjustments worked well because the Tiger defense limited Pampa to just 13 total yards and a single first down in the second half.

"We got some pretty big plays from our passing game," stated Baugh. "You've got to be able to throw the ball if you're in the playoffs."

Undoubtedly, the biggest play of the game for Snyder came with 11:02 left in the third period when senior quarterback Ed Rios found wingback Mark King on a short pass that turned into a 65vard TD connection and put first time in the game.

"You can't be in the playoffs

Waste hearing set for public Tuesday

SWEETWATER - Sen. Chet Brooks and Rep. Commissioners mull day care merger, budget admendment met briefly this morning to hear two requests, one pertaining to Snyder Child Day Care Center and the other to amend the county's budget.

Commissioner C. D. Gray Jr. presided as County Judge Bobby Goodwin was attending an executive board meeting at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Rodger Sullenger, speaking on behalf of the Snyder Child Day Care Center, informed commissioners about possible changes at the facility which would add services for county residents without costing the county more than the $5,000 included in the budget.

According to Sullenger, the day care center board and the Lincoln Community Center board have been discussing the possibility of a merger. The proposal originated with the Lincoln Community Center and a third meeting to discuss the feasibility of the proposal is planned for 4:30 p.m. today.

Sullenger said they have also been asked if they want to establish a Head Start program for Scurry County.

Head Start would not conflict with any of Snyder's school programs because it is an all day program designed for parents who need all day, instructional supervision for their children. Snyder's current pre-school program is for three hours for each school day and kindergarten classes are half a day only.

Other programs which Sullenger said the day care center board was looking into the possibility of starting here include public transportation, weatherization for low income housing and help with paying utility bills.

Eventually, Sullenger said they would also like to start an adult day care center which would be designed to care for elderly people during the day while they are at work.

In 1973, the Fullers went to Zaire in central Africa to test their idea for providing low-cost housing to the poor. It worked, and they returned to the United States in 1976 and founded Habitat for Humanity, based on the model they refined in Africa.

Since 1984, Habitat has had its most visible support from Carter and his wife, Rosalyn, who each spend at least a week per year onsite with their sleeves rolled up.

"Our battle cry is to eliminate poverty housing throughout the world," said Branson, who has spent most of his eight years with Habitat coordinating projects in Peru, Guatemala and the Solomon Islands.

In 1980, there were only 11 Habitat chapters throughout the United States. Now there are more than 400. The group has built or remodeled more than 4,000 homes since 1976.

Flores said the housing authority is studying whether to form a non-profit organization similar to Habitat that would provide low-cost loans to poor families to buy homes owned by the city.

He said 2,500 Corpus Christi families, at least one-third of them homeless, are on a waiting list for housing.

for writers established

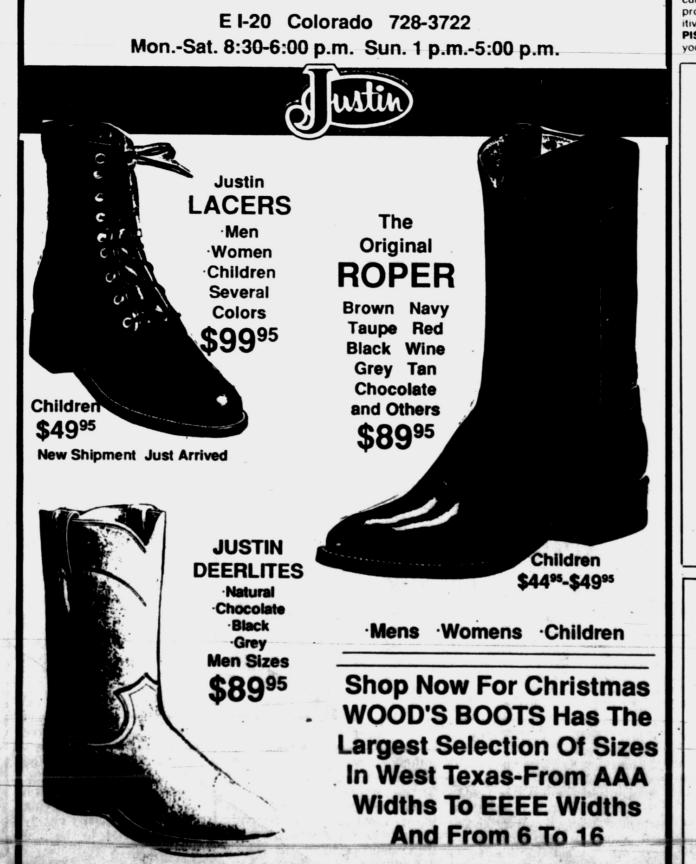

ABILENE - Abilene Writers Guild has initiated a Referral Service for Writers which will help Big Country organizations, businesses, and individuals find skilled, experienced and professional local writers to handle nearly any job involving the written word.

Anyone can use the free service to have interested writers contact them, or to obtain a list of writers who do the kind of writing they need. Other services such as typing, editing, photography and researching are also available. The service's goal is to get clients and writers together within 24 hours. All contractual matters, such as fees and deadlines, are between the writer and the client.

Writers can register with the service for a nominal fee that will be used to cover operating expenses. To locate a writer or to register a writer, leave a message for Ben Boyer, Referral Service Manager, at 673-0114.

The Referral Service for Writers is the newest community service provided by the Abilene Writers Guild. The non-profit organization has encouraged and promoted Big Country writers at all levels of achievement since 1969. The guild holds regular meetings on the fourth Thursday of each month at the Guild Building, 860 Hickory, and offers courses and workshops throughout the year. Each spr-ing, the guild sponsors a writing contest that is open to the public. Contest winners are announced at the annual Writers Guild Banquet, also open to the public.

If East played low, so should South. The only way that South could now lose his doubled contract would be if East got on lead with unusual trump length and came through the king of diamonds. Instead of leading the heart nine, declarer played a heart back to his ace, expecting the doubler to hold a trump trick. When West showed out, South was dead in the water. He played a club to dummy's king and led the heart nine. East covered, won the next heart trick and played a diamond. Declarer went up with the king; West won the ace and tried to cash the Q-J. Declarer ruffed the third diamond and now had no choice except to ruff a good club. draw East's last trump and then try the spade finesse. No dice. Down one. West's offside double should have warned declarer. Notice that letting the heart nine ride at trick two cannot lose the contract. If West wins the queen or 10, the A-K will subsequently pick up the suit. Declarer can then pitch two diamonds from dummy on the A-Q of clubs, and give up a diamond and a spade to make the doubled contract. Gorbachev and Bush are first to sign treaty

PARIS (AP) - President Bush and Mikhail Gorbachev led European leaders today in signing a historic treaty that slashes nonnuclear weapons in Europe and pushes the Cold War deeper into history. "What a long way the world has come," exulted the Soviet leader.

Scarcely had the accord been signed when Bush sought to cement European support for the continued effort to force Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait. "Our success here can be neither profound nor enduring if the rule of law is shamelessly disregarded elsewhere," he said in a speech to a 34-nation summit called to discuss European security in the post Cold War era.

Gorbachev followed Bush to the podium, and he, too, blended words of praise for East-West cooperation in Europe with the need to halt Iraq's aggression. "We're prepared to show pa tience in the quest for a political solution but we remain firm and determined in implementing the will of the United Nations, which has demanded Iraq's withdrawal, he said.

"During the last few days, we aboard Atlantis have circled the Earth many times," Air Force Col. Richard Covey, mission commander, said in a message released today. "Whenever we pass close to Saudi Arabia we superintendent George Lee, have cannot help but think of our Marines deployed there for Desert Shield. "As the holiday season approaches, the multiservice crew of Atlantis wishes those brave warriors peace and a speedy return home. Our prayers are for them and their families.' NASA spokesman Brian Welch said he didn't know immediately relayed to the troops. Atlantis had been scheduled to return between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. EST, but NASA decided to bring the shuttle home early because better weather is expected at that time. The space agency remained concerned about the possibility of high winds, but as of midday, landing remained set for this afternoon. Worse weather was expected Tuesday. "The crew is doing well and beginning landing preparations, satisfactorily," Mission Control spokeswoman Kari Fluegel said Sunday in announcing the new landing time. The brief announcement was characteristic of the military mission, which has been shrouded in secrecy since Atlantis thundered into orbit Thursday night. Sources speaking on condition of anonymity said the five astronauts on Friday released a satellite capable of spying on the Persian Gulf, including Iraq. The spacecraft reportedly will conduct photo surveys or eavesdrop on communications. Atlantis' flight is the seventh and last secret mission dedicated to the Pentagon, which will depend on unmanned rockets for classified payloads from now on. Although the military plans to use the shuttle two more times, those flights won't be secret.

News Brief

Insurance Board approves rate hike

AUSTIN (AP) - State insurance officials today approved a 15.2 percent increase in the statewide average residential property insurance rates.

The increase, which will take effect April 1, is the largest property rate hike in at least 10 years.

The State Board of Insurance passed the increase on a 2-1 vote, with board member Jo Ann Howard dissenting, saying she wanted a smaller increase.

The increase means homeowners insurance rates will go up an average 15.8 percent.

Insurance Board chairman James Saxton said the increases were necessary to offset rising property losses and decreased property values.

Milli Vanilli will forfeit Grammy

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The discredited front men for Milli Vanilli will forfeit the best new artist Grammy they won last year and hope it is given to the real singers on their hit album, a newspaper reported today.

Rob Pilatus and Fabrice Morvan, at the center of a music industry scandal since it was disclosed last week that they never sang a note on the album, said they would give up the Grammy at a news conference Tuesday, the Los Angeles Times reported.

'Fabrice and I want to give the Grammy back to the real singers," Pilatus said.

He and Morvan said they hoped the Grammy would be given to vocalists Johnny Davis, Charles Shaw - a Dallas native - and Brad Howell, who reportedly sang on the duo's only album, "Girl You Know It's True," which sold 7 million copies.

The lip-sync controversy erupted last week when Milli Vanilli's German producer, Frank Farian, disclosed that Pilatus and Morvan did not sing on the album. The photogenic, dreadlocked duo also lipsynced their way through live performances, including one at the Grammy Awards show last February, Farian said.

Music industry leaders already had announced plans to meet next month to decide whether Milli Vanilli should be stripped of the honor. The awards committee of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, which hands out the Grammys, was to meet Dec. 5 in New York.

Pilatus and Morvan have said that Arista Records, the label that distributed "Girl You Know It's True" in the United States, knew they did not sing.

Arista officials have denied that.

Hostages' relatives ponder latest offer

HOUSTON (AP) - Relatives of U.S. hostages held in Iraq and Kuwait say they would be pleased to see their family members home safely for Christmas, but are wary of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's offer to free all hostages.

"It would be a wonderful Christmas present," said Sarrah Amos of Gilmer, whose husband, Charles Amos, is in Iraq. " I would like to believe it.

Saddam said Sunday he might start freeing all 2,000 foreigners still held in Iraq and occupied Kuwait on Christmas Day, with the final hostages released by March 25 unless "something disrupts the climate of peace.'

Donnita Cole of Odessa, wife of hostage Johnny Cole, said she alcohol-related -- were made by wanted to take the news at face value.

"I prefer to believe this. I don't want to read anything into it or look for ulterior motives. I'm not going to analyze it," Mrs. Cole

The conditional nature of the rant for Class A assault. announcement angered Lynda Parker of Vidor, who called Saddam a "sadistic, hateful person." Mrs. Parker's husband, Bobby Gene Parker, is being held at an man.

"I'm very angry about this. If he hadn't put that 'if' in there, it would be different," Mrs. Parker said.

She said she believed the announcement was made to dissuade action against Iraq dur-ing the December to March period, the best time for an attack because sandstorms begin in March and summer heat returns in April.

"He's just trying to keep the U.S. from coming in and blowing him to Kingdom Come," Mrs. Parker said.

Mrs. Cole said she was concerned about what action President Bush would take.

"The largest variable is that our president could declare war," Mrs. Cole said. "We need to make our voices heard. Maybe then the politicians will get the message that most people are not for war. If we don't stop this madness, we're going to see a lot of our young people coming home crippled and maimed. And some will be in body bags."

cer. What do you think? DEAR READER: The answer to your question depends on your age, general health and level of cholesterol. For example, if you are active and in your 20s, a level of 120 milligrams although low would be normal Also, if you are middle-age and have been on a low cholesterol diet, your cholesterol leyel might well be below 200 milligrams; again, low but normal for you.

On the other hand, if you are over 60, have had high cholesterol in the past and don't diet or exercise, I'd worry that an unexpected low cholesterol level could indicate hidden disease. For example, in addition to cancer, many chronic diseases or infections are associated with low serum cholesterol.

Cholesterol level is not a precise indicator of cancer. Although patients with cancer often have low levels (below 120 milligrams), they also have other abnormalities, such as weight loss, fatigue and anemia that suggest poor health.

Your low cholesterol may be normal for you, provided you are otherwise in good health. Ask your doctor about this and request an explanation for your low level. To give you more information. I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Understanding Cholesterol." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. title DEAR DR. GOTT: What makes a child stammer? My granddaughter is the product of a split marriage and because her mother is a career woman, the child is placed in a day-care center during the day, only to return home to a busy mother and an uncaring live-in at night.

DEAK READER Stammering and stuttering are common abnormalities of speech that affect thousands of normal, healthy, well-adjusted people. The cause is unknown but is theorized to be a breakdown in the nerve pathways controlling fluid speech.

Many people, especially children. experience temporary stammering during periods of stress and emotional conflict, when the nerve pathways controlling speech may be upset. Once the anxiety is alleviated, speechreturns to normal. In your case, your granddaughter's stammering could have an emotional basis; I suggest that you discuss this with her pediatrician.

I suggest you write to the National Center for Stuttering, 200 E. 33rd St., New York, NY 10016 for further information, including a free 186-page book that explains the condition and how to treat it.

Bryant's Carpet Cleaning has served Snyder over 12 years. They have used or seen every type of carpet cleaning. Even though they could use a cheaper method, they prefer steam extraction. This method extracts the dirt and stains, whereas other methods leave the dirt in the carpet. For a clean and safe carpet, steam extraction is by far the best method.

Some methods leave the carpet wet, but they leave it only damp so it will dry in only a few hours. This is because they have the latest truck mount unit with more power than smaller units. The unit stays in the van and only the cleaning head goes into the house, eliminating spills in the home.

Most carpets need to be cleaned within a year, depending on the traffic. Not only can they be dirty, but after walking on the carpet awhile the carpet protector is worn off. They can clean the carpet and replace the carpet protector, which is similar to Scotch Gard.
