Daniel Unit completion on schedule

By BOB CAMPBELL
SDN Staff Writer
The Texas Department of Corrections' new Price Daniel Unit five miles east of Snyder is 45 percent finished and should be completed by the target date of June 27, project administrator David Ritter said last week.
"We are basically right on schedule," he said.
The HCB Contractors of Dallas official explained that the more major aspects of the project are generally ahead of schedule, with a peak work force of 160 to 200 men to be reached around mid-January as dry-wallers, plumbers and electricians move on-site.

This work will be inside the numerous cinder block buildings that have already been substantially erected.
When the roof is put on the administration building next week, for example, the building will be ready for inside completion work to begin.

Ritter said it was imperative for job to get off to a strong start last summer and fall and that the contractors and sub-contractors have frequently been working on Saturdays and Sundays so as not to fall behind schedule.
He noted that although Snyder's was the first of the TDC's four new 1,000-man units to be started, construction is also underway now at two of the others, at Marlin and Dayton, with work to begin soon on the fourth, at Woodville.

Erected at the job site now are the four multi-level 250-inmate housing units and the vocational and educational training building on the east side of the grounds, on which workmen were laying metal sheeting on the broad, sloping roof late last week.

Also substantially up is the building that will have administrative segregation and solitary confinement cells, along with line administration and supply offices.
Ritter said five to six thousand yards of the 10,000 yards of concrete to be needed in the project have been poured, with daily "pours" in various parts of the job.

Drawings released for completed unit

As the Price Daniel Unit begins to take shape northeast of Snyder, construction officials have released the artist conception of what the completed 1,000-man TDC prison will look like.
The "Key Plan" identifies each of the buildings shown above. To align the two maps, the facility's industrial building, identified by the letter M on the Key Plan, is shown in the upper right corner of the artist's drawing.
Other buildings or key points around the site include:
—A: entrance.
—B: administration building.
—C: educational-vocational building.
—D: food service, medical, dental and laundry building.
—E: maintenance building.
—F: supply, line administration, administrative segregation and solitary confinement building.
—G: vehicle entrance.
—H: recreational building.
—J 1 through 4: 250-man housing units.
—K 1 and 2: elevated guard posts or pickets.
—K 3 and 4: open air shelters.
—M: industrial building.

Auditor names deputies

Office to have all new staffers

The final two appointments have been made in the county auditor's office, with a new slate of employees to enter the new year.
Recently appointed auditor Linda Franklin said Saturday that Gail Dixon and Chloe Ann Lindsey, both longtime Snyder residents, will be deputy auditors, replacing Ann Walton and Joy Howell.
Franklin said Howell was asked to stay on but declined, citing health reasons.
Dixon, 39, has worked for Beneficial Finance and was office manager at Key Brothers, gaining experience with computers, payroll and other aspects of office work, Franklin said.
Lindsey, 44, former owner of the Express It shop downtown, was manager of Beneficial Finance for seven years and worked in the city water department.
Outgoing will be former auditor Bernhard Bartels, who was not reappointed by District Judge Gene Dulaney.

1988 ends with eye on judge's race

The final two months of 1988 began with voting decisions from Scurry County voters as likely the most widely discussed political race in recent years—the contest for 132nd District Judge—was decided.
Incumbent Republican Gene Dulaney was returned by a 52 percent margin, but events occurring both before and after election day Nov. 8 kept 1988's final two months interesting.

Also on Nov. 8, the county received both a new state representative and reaffirmed its choice for a new state senator.
Other changes for a county elected office, that of county attorney, were afoot also as incumbent Mike Line announced Nov. 28 that he would be leaving the office. On Dec. 19, commissioners appointed Pete Greene to replace him.
Other changes affecting local citizens during the year's final months were the switch Dec. 1 to 17 additional channels over the local cable TV company; the announcement of a 16 unit expansion for Golden Terrace Village; and the announced closing of the local branch for Southwest Savings Association, to be consolidated with its Colorado City office.

On a positive note, the Texas

Department of Corrections updated its staffing numbers on Dec. 28, and the indication was the number of jobs available at the prison will increase to some 290-plus when the unit is complete.
The following is a chronological listing of news events occurring here during November and December of 1988.

Monday closings due to observe New Year

Monday will be a holiday for many as the New Year's weekend is extended.
All federal facilities will close and there will be no mail posted at the Snyder post office Monday, either in boxes or on residential routes.
Since it is a federal holiday, all of Snyder's financial institutions will be closed also.
Other federal offices to be closed will include the Ag Service Center and its related ASCS and SCS offices.
Both Snyder City Hall and the Scurry County Courthouse will be closed as well. Other county facilities to close Monday will include the Scurry County Library and Health Unit.
The Scurry County Appraisal

District offices will close also.
Monday is not a state holiday and state facilities will be open to include the Texas Employment Commission and the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.
The driver's license office in the county jail building will be closed, however.
Monday will also mark the final day of holiday for public school students. Classes will resume at their normal time Tuesday for Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira ISDs.
Administrative offices at Western Texas College will also be closed Monday to reopen after the Christmas break on Tuesday.
Registration for the spring term at WTC will be Jan. 16-17.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The fellow on Deep Creek says, "Happy New Year."

It's that time of year—again. We've resolved to take a second helping of black-eyed peas in hopes that our wish for 1989 comes true.
At the beginning of the holiday season, someone asked what topped our wish list. The answer was simple—go the entire year without needing the services of a lawyer.
While thinking about all the opportunities of the new year, there are a few resolutions worth keeping. Resolved:
—never walk out on a bad movie, especially if it's being shown on an airplane.
—never gargle with Drano.
—never complain about the high cost of dental care while the dentist is standing over you with a drill.
—never sign up for a free Jimmy Hoffa getaway vacation.
—never invite T. Boone Pickens to your annual meeting.
—never wear a H. Ross Perot T-shirt to a teacher's appreciation banquet.

—never tell the IRS agent you're so shrewd that the government will end up owing you a refund.
—never ask a person who says, "I'll tell you what" to go ahead.
—never believe a doctor if he tells you the lower G.I. procedure has been vastly improved.
—never bet on a sure thing—like the horses, an oilwell, precious metals or even a March sandstorm.
—if you want peace and happiness, never suggest to the caller you may know someone who wants to invest.
—never believe the guy from the government is really trying to help.
—never ask if they have recent pictures of their grandchildren.
—never admit it, even if the waitress asks, if the coffee tastes funny.
—never buy your wife a dress that's too large.
—never ask the highway patrolman if he wants to race to the JP's office.
—never make your resolutions public.

Q. — What are the religious affiliations of the individuals who represent Texas in the U.S. House and Senate?
A. — Thirteen of Texas' 27 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives are filled by United Methodists. In the House, there are also five Roman Catholics, four Presbyterians, two Baptists, one Lutheran, one Christian Scientist and one Jew. In the Senate, Lloyd Bentsen is a Presbyterian and Phil Gramm is an Episcopalian.

In Brief

Soviet-Afghan

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today its troops will join a cease-fire in Afghanistan on New Year's Day, but U.S.-backed rebels vowed to keep fighting.
President Mikhail S. Gorbachev had called for the truce in an address to the United Nations, but the United States rejected it.
On Friday, Alexander Bessmertnykh, a first deputy Soviet foreign minister, met U.S. Ambassador Jack Matlock in Moscow to make another push for U.S. support.
Afghan President Najib on Friday offered the anti-communist guerrillas a truce beginning Jan. 1, and the Soviet Foreign Ministry said today.

Close call

GATESWOOD, Ala. (AP) — A single-engine airplane carrying a Texas family home from a trip to Walt Disney World crash-landed in a south Alabama field, forever changing their vacation plans.
The aircraft, piloted by Tom Mitchell and carrying his wife and two small children from the Orlando, Fla., resort, passed between two closely spaced pecan trees. The plane missed a house by about 50 feet, struck a fence and came to rest in a field in the Gateswood community of 200.

Local

Due oaths

A swearing-in ceremony is planned for 2 p.m. Sunday for county office holders beginning new terms effective Jan. 1.
The ceremony will be at the commissioners courtroom and the public is invited.

Court agenda

A proposal to advertise for bids for a dump truck trailer to be used in commissioner's Pct. 3 is the only item of business on the 10 a.m. Tuesday commissioners court agenda.
Pct. 3, the southwestern quadrant of the county, is represented by Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr.

Newspaper: bomb put on in Frankfurt

LONDON (AP) — Authorities investigating the explosion of a Pam Am jumbo jet have told police the bomb that destroyed it was placed aboard Flight 103 in Frankfurt, West Germany, a British newspaper reported Saturday.

Also Saturday, officials said security at Asian airports has been increased after a warning that Palestinian terrorists plan to attack a commercial jetliner in that region by Jan. 10.

On Friday, crews extended their search for wreckage to an inlet about 20 miles from the Scottish town where most of the Boeing 747 fell to earth Dec. 21. All 259 people aboard the plane were killed and 11 others missing on the ground are presumed dead.

American news agencies received a call Friday repeating a claim that the Guardians of the Islamic Revolution terrorist group bombed the plane and threatened further attacks.

The Times of London, citing unidentified sources, reported that investigators have told Scottish police a bomb with two separate detonating systems was put on Flight 103 in Frankfurt and it said the hunt for those responsible is centered in that West German city.

It said the use of two detonators was developed to frustrate decompression chambers installed at some airports, including Frankfurt, to neutralize air pressure-sensitive devices.

The newspaper said investigators are certain that luggage loaded on Flight 103 in Frankfurt and flown to London's Heathrow airport was transferred at Heathrow to the forward cargo hold of the doomed jet. Flight 103 originated in Frankfurt, changing planes at Heathrow.

The Times said scientists have established the bomb exploded in that hold, causing the New York-bound plane to disintegrate six miles above Scotland.

The newspaper, without making any specific accusation, pointed to a terrorist cell that it said is known to be part of Ahmed Jibril's Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command.

It said the cell is known to have been operating in Frankfurt for about 18 months and to have carried out two bombing attacks on U.S. military trains that serve Frankfurt.

The newspaper said Scottish police officers are in Frankfurt and may talk to a Palestinian man arrested by West German security forces two months ago. It said the man is suspected of being a senior figure in the organization.

The Palestinian group in a statement in Damascus Friday denied any connection with the crash.

Manila, Philippines, a spokesman for Philippine Airlines said the airline received information from Air India on Dec. 21, the day of the Pan Am bombing, warning Palestinian terrorists may try to hijack an Asian airliner by early next month.

The spokesman, Rolando Estabillo, said the airline had relayed the report to its offices worldwide. The Dutch newspaper De Volkskrant reported the warning urging security officials to watch for "portable radios" as a possible hiding place for explosives.

1989 Maid of Cotton is selected

DALLAS (AP) — Gay Daughdrill says she entered the 1989 Maid of Cotton pageant because it stressed communication.

And Friday night, the senior English major at Rhodes College in Memphis, Tenn., was chosen to be the cotton industry's 51st goodwill ambassador to the world.

"I knew it would be an honor," Miss Daughdrill said, clutching the cotton-boll bouquet she was presented upon winning. "I can't believe it."

Miss Daughdrill and 17 other finalists were evaluated by a panel of five judges at the Majestic Theater in downtown Dallas in the areas of personality, poise, communications skills, and appearance.

"I've never been this excited before," said Miss Daughdrill, 21, who wore a black cotton gown with strikingly large, red puff sleeves. "I'm just thrilled."

Earl Sears, executive vice president of the National Cotton Council, said the pageant is much more than a beauty contest, because the winner must be someone who can best represent the industry.

FROM THE FURR'S FOUNDATION — Noah Project director Linda Scalf last week accepted a $1,000 contribution from Furr's assistant manager John Greer in behalf of the Furr's Foundation, which has been raising money for more than 60 organizations in Texas and New Mexico through the sale of teddy bears in its Share Bear Project. From each bear sold for $9.99, $5 goes into the project, which has raised almost $1 million. (SDN Staff Photo)

Year-end farm prices are up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices paid to farmers for raw products ended the year 14 percent higher, on average, than at the close of 1987, according to government figures.

The Agriculture Department's agricultural statistics board said Friday in its final report of the year that preliminary figures showed December's prices were up 0.7 percent from November.

In part driven by the summer's drought, prices received by farmers rose throughout most of 1988 until September, when the increase leveled off, and then dipped in October before rising again in November and December.

Officials said higher prices for hogs, lettuce, oranges and cattle in December were partly offset by lower prices for tomatoes, turkeys, sweet corn and strawberries.

"Hog prices increased substantially from last month's relatively low levels, while cattle, milk, broiler and egg prices each increased slightly," the report said.

"The all-wheat price was at the highest level since May 1981. Soybean and corn prices increased slightly since November," the report added.

Further, revised figures showed the price index also increased 0.7 percent in November from its October average. A month ago, the preliminary figures showed a decline.

Prices of livestock and livestock products as a group were up 2 percent from their November average and were up 9.2 percent from December 1987, the report said.

Prices of feed grain and hay as a group rose 0.8 percent from November and averaged 46 percent above the year-earlier level. Commercial vegetables were down 2.1 percent from November and averaged 21 percent less than in December 1987. Sharp declines for tomatoes and sweet corn more than offset a large increase in the price of lettuce.

Although the projections are subject to change, USDA economists say net cash income of farmers may be in the range of $55 billion to $60 billion this year, compared with the record level of $57.1 billion in 1987. That is the difference between cash receipts and cash expenses during the calendar year.

Preliminary figures show that 1988 retail food prices rose an average of about 4 percent and that a similar increase is expected in 1989.

With Howard Jones as coach, Southern California won five Rose Bowl games without losing any between 1930 and 1940.

Lampooned state commission finally receives some respect

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A commission on self-esteem that gave the nation another reason to poke fun at California when the panel was created two years ago is finally getting some respect.

Research, a growing mailing list and testimony by educators, counselors, police, AIDS victims and gang members are lending legitimacy to the commission's founding premise:

Poor self-esteem is closely linked with alcoholism, drug abuse, crime and violence, child abuse, teen-age pregnancy, prostitution, chronic welfare dependency and failure of children to learn.

Since the laughter died over Gary Trudeau's "Doonesbury" comic strip naming the "Boopsie" character to the panel in early 1987, the task force has started a series of public hearings, nurtured the formation of 42 local commissions and served as a clearinghouse for information on self-esteem.

A survey of research by seven University of California professors has been accepted for publication by the university press.

"I think we're now gaining a great deal of credibility," said Bob Ball, executive director of the three-year, $750,000 California Task Force to Promote Self-Esteem and Personal and Social Responsibility.

Forty-two of California's 58 counties have formed local self-esteem task forces, including conservative rural counties in the Sierra Nevada and the farm belt of the Central Valley.

Trudeau's "Boopsie," called the task force "the first official study of New Age thinking."

But legislation forming the task force received the blessing of Republican Gov. George Deukmejian, a former state attorney general with a tough-on-crime and "common sense" administration. Republicans comprise a slight majority of the task force's 25 members.

The task force's second annual report to the Legislature is due Jan. 15. Its final report in January 1990 will make public policy recommendations.

Wilbur Brantley, a Sacramento real estate agent, former police officer and one of 13 Republicans on the task force, said the panel has no illusions about curing all social ills, but may recommend new policies and programs that address low self-esteem as a cause of many problems.

"You're going to find a lot of people who say, 'We knew that all along,' but if we really knew it why do we keep pouring money down the so-called rat holes?" he said. "We keep spending money on crime and violence. We keep spending money on drug abuse."

The panel's hearings have drawn testimony by small-business owners in the timber-fishing town of Eureka near the Oregon border, AIDS patients in San Francisco, and masked members of rival street gangs in Los Angeles.

Backers of the task force talk about its mission in a combination of self-help psychology, social reform and bottom-line economic terms.

"To settle for simply treating symptoms ... is to abandon hope," Assemblyman John Vasconcellos said when he sponsored legislation to create the task force.

According to the 1986 bill, the state's 2 million adult alcoholics and its $3 billion illicit drug trade cost the state millions of dollars in medical expenses, lost productivity, law enforcement and corrections.

The state attorney general estimated that crime cost Californians $6 billion in 1985. California has the nation's second highest teen-age pregnancy rate of 14 percent, and highest teen abortion rate, 6.9 percent.

Nuke power reactor restarted

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — The Pilgrim nuclear reactor began low-power testing Friday after receiving final federal clearance nearly three years after being shut down and labeled one of the country's worst-run power plants.

Boston Edison Co., the owner, said the restart began about 6 p.m. with the withdrawal of control rods in the reactor.

Opposition to Pilgrim's restart has been intense, with state officials pledging to do everything they can to keep the plant from operating and protesters planning to demonstrate at the plant gates Saturday.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission cleared the way Friday for low-power testing of the 670-megawatt reactor for up to 5 percent of its capacity.

The restart began a test program intended to take the plant gradually to full power in about four months, said Ralph Bird, Boston Edison senior vice president for nuclear power.

Bird said the utility would continue to work with state and local officials to complete and improve an emergency evacuation plan for towns around the plant. State officials have called the plan inadequate despite revisions, and they also say the plant should not reopen until a study of leukemia rates in the population surrounding the plant is complete.

Mayor admits 'poor judgment'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An apologetic Mayor Marion Barry, under federal investigation for visiting the hotel room of a former city employee suspected of drug dealing, said Friday, "I'm guilty of poor judgment, no question about it."

Barry denied he used drugs and said he would submit to a drug test "under the right conditions" — but not a series of tests — to try to erase what he acknowledged is an embarrassment to the nation's capital.

His New Year's resolution is "to be a better mayor."

Trucker arrested after accidents on interstate

HONDO, Texas (AP) — A truck driver accused of running dozens of cars off the road in an 80-mile rampage, injuring at least two people, is now in police custody on charges of possession of cocaine, authorities said.

Stephen Odell Dillard, 41, of Coolidge, Ga., was charged with possession of cocaine and was in the Medina County Jail late Friday in lieu of $50,000 bond while authorities in other counties prepared other charges against him, officials said.

The driver was involved in at least three hit-and-run incidents on Interstate 10 before reaching San Antonio, and 18 more — some involving more than one vehicle — inside the traffic-congested city during morning rush hour, authorities said.

An exact number of accidents in Kendall, Bexar, Atascosa and Medina counties related to the episode was being determined early Friday afternoon. "I was doing about 85 after him and I was about five car lengths behind him," said Rene Davila, who followed the trucker and tried to stop him.

"If you were in his way and didn't move, he'd hit you," Davila said.

A group of citizens surrounded the suspect when he pulled into an Interstate 35 rest area about 40 miles southwest of San Antonio near Natalia. Law officers who were chasing him then made the arrest.

Lytle Police Chief Leo Thormann was the first official to reach the rest stop and talk to the suspect.

"He didn't say anything," Thormann said. "To me he didn't appear that he knew that anything had happened. He was very calm, very cooperative."

DPS troopers who surrounded the rig, which was transporting vegetables from California to Florida, later found about four to five grams of cocaine inside the cab of the Peterbilt tractor-trailer, officials said.

The rig, with its damaged bumper barely hanging on to the rim, was seized by DPS narcotics officers who were going to search its cargo.

Among those injured in the rampage were Mary Herrera, 53, and Mercedes Luna, 62, who were in serious condition at Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center at Lackland Air Force Base late Friday, said hospital spokeswoman Lt. Col. Karen Wetzel, declining to release the extent of their injuries.

The first hit-and-run incident was reported shortly after 8 a.m. on Interstate 10 near Comfort in Kendall County, about 40 miles northwest of San Antonio, said DPS trooper Alvin Schacht. He said the trailer sideswiped a vehicle driven by Boerne resident Robert Etlinger, who was run off the road. When the trucker didn't stop, Etlinger gave chase but couldn't catch him, Schacht said.

The trucker "was running between 85 and 90 and he (Etlinger) couldn't catch him," Schacht said.

As he drove toward San Antonio, the trucker hit two other cars, including one driven by Donald Kite of Hunt, the trooper said.

"He took the whole back end of my station wagon," said Kite, who was driving to work in San Antonio when he saw the truck come up behind him. "All of sudden, there was a KAWHAM, and I almost started going back under his trailer," he said.

Kite believed he spun around two or three times before stopping in the median.

"You see it all in front of your eyes real quick," Kite said.

The truck continued to ram cars on Interstate 10 through San Antonio before it headed to Interstate 35 where more cars were hit before the rig stopped at the rest area.

Shah's son says yes...

Is Khomeini 'frantic' about opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heir to Iran's defunct throne said that if Iranian terrorists were responsible for last week's bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 it would show the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini was "frantic" about opposition to his continued rule.

Investigators probing the Pan Am wreckage in Scotland have concluded that a bomb caused the Dec. 21 crash, but they have reported no evidence that Iran was involved.

Reza Pahlavi, the oldest son of the late Shah of Iran, issued a statement Friday after several news organizations in London received anonymous telephone demands that the United States deport him or risk another terrorist bombing like the one that destroyed the Pan Am jet. All 259 people aboard the plane were killed.

The caller claimed to represent a terror group known as Guardians of the Islamic Revolution, which, in similar calls last week, took responsibility for the air disaster over Scotland.

"If this is true, it is clearly a fresh indication that Khomeini's terrorist agents are still hard at work around the globe," Pahlavi said.

"It is also another indication that the Khomeini regime, faced with growing popular resentment, is becoming increasingly frantic about its future," the statement said. It cited a recent wave of executions of dissidents in Iran as further evidence.

In a related development Friday, a U.S. official speaking on condition of anonymity, said an Iranian intermediary has approached the United States offering to reopen diplomatic talks between the two countries. The official said the State Department was holding out for "a substantive, up-front" proposal.

The official said the offer was channeled through an Iranian-American professor.

The United States and Iran have had no diplomatic relations since 1979 when militants seized and sacked the U.S. embassy in Tehran, taking the Americans there hostage.

Iranian authorities appear uneasy about a recent campaign by the 28-year-old Pahlavi seemingly designed to foment opposition to the Khomeini government.

West Germany recently denied Pahlavi permission to enter the country for a speaking engagement, after a request from Iranian authorities to German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher.

Earlier this month Iran complained to the British Broadcasting Corp. about a broadcast by Pahlavi on Dec. 2.

"I am confident that the United States government as well as other governments ... will stand firm and will never surrender to terrorist pressure," Pahlavi's statement said.

Pahlavi lives behind a veil of secrecy and security at a palatial home in suburban Washington.

Pahlavi, a trained jet fighter pilot, knows he is vulnerable to terrorist threats.

"When you know you are the number one target of the number one terrorists in the world, that doesn't make you really very comfortable," said Pahlavi in a recent interview.

The young prince left Iran in 1978, eight months before his father was ousted by Khomeini's Islamic revolution. Pahlavi, who declared himself the legitimate monarch of Iran when his father died of cancer in 1980, has been rallying exiled supporters in recent months in the United States and Europe.

Pahlavi, who has a degree in political science, wants to see the monarchy restored in his ancient land, with himself as head of state rather than head of government.

Pahlavi's mother, the Empress Fara Diba, and his three younger siblings, also live in the United States. The family fortune has been estimated as high as $15 billion, including real estate in California.

Testimony by Reagan and Bush is sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House and Justice Department officials are examining the legal issues raised by subpoenas ordering President Reagan and President-elect Bush to be defense witnesses in the Iran-Contra trial of Oliver North.

The officials said it would be "premature to speculate on the final decision" on how Reagan and Bush will respond to the subpoenas they got Friday.

North, the fired White House aide charged with conspiracy for his role in the Iran-Contra affair, called for testimony from the nation's two highest-ranking elected officials in subpoenas delivered to the Justice Department.

North's trial is scheduled to start Jan. 31, or 11 days after Bush takes over for Reagan.

While declining to state directly whether they would contest the subpoenas, spokesmen for the White House and for Bush signaled they would not automatically accept them. The Washington Post in today's editions quoted unidentified Justice Department and White House officials as saying they would fight them.

Statements from the White House and Bush's office called it "unprecedented" for a sitting president to testify in court, said they were reviewing the legal issues, and noted that historical precedent would call for the witnesses to testify in writing rather than take the stand.

In Palm Springs, Calif., where Reagan is on vacation, a White House statement acknowledged North's subpoena, "seeking the president's testimony at the criminal trial of Oliver North. The subpoena also seeks the discovery of certain personal records of the president."

The subpoenas were anticipated, it said. Aides to both Reagan and Bush told them Friday morning that the documents would come that afternoon, their spokesmen said.

White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said Reagan had known of the likelihood since Wednesday.

"It raises significant legal and constitutional questions which are currently being reviewed by the Department of Justice and counsel to the president," the White House said in language similar to a statement released by Bush spokeswoman Sheila Tate.

"It would be unprecedented for a president to appear as a witness at a criminal trial and it's premature to speculate on the final decision that will ultimately be taken, but historical precedent suggests any relevant information could be provided through written questions and answers."

North, a retired Marine lieutenant colonel who worked for Reagan as an aide to the National Security Council, faces trial Jan. 31 for charges stemming from the U.S. arms sales to Iran and diversion of proceeds to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

He is charged with conspiring with former national security adviser John Poindexter and arms dealers Albert Hakim and retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord to illegally divert more than $12 million in U.S.-Iran arms-sales profits to the Contras.

Justice Department spokesman Loye Miller said the subpoenas were received at mid-afternoon.

Bailout business nears end

HOUSTON (AP) — United Savings Association of Texas, one of the state's largest thrifts, became the last of 87 Texas savings and loans to be bailed out in 1988 by the federal government.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas called a late-night news conference Friday to announce that Hyperion Partners L.P., an affiliate of New York investment firm Ranieri Wilson & Co., Inc., was acquiring United Savings.

United Savings is one of the largest thrifts associations in Texas with assets of $4.4 billion.

All of United Savings' 19 branches — 13 in Houston and one each in Austin, San Antonio, Wharton, Harlingen, McAllen, and El Campo — will reopen Tuesday as branches of United Savings Association of Texas, F.S.B., a newly chartered federal stock association. All deposits were transferred in full.

The acquisition brings the total number of resolutions in Texas under the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's so-called Southwest Plan to revitalize the state's thrift industry to 87.

George Barclay, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas, said Friday's acquisition would be the last this year under the Southwest Plan.

Barclay said 87 of the original 104 insolvent thrifts involved in the Southwest Plan have been addressed. An additional 51 thrifts were declared insolvent since the Southwest Plan was enacted, meaning 68 Texas savings & loans must be addressed in 1989.

Barclay said he expects the remaining thrifts to be bailed out by mid-1989.

The government tried to wrap up as many acquisitions by year's end as possible because investors' possible tax writeoffs in 1989 will be only half as much as if the deals were consummated in 1988.

United Savings experienced increasing operating losses over the past three years, largely due to significant levels of non-earning assets that have been attributed to loan underwriting deficiencies, including a failure to maintain appraisal reports, poor maintenance of books and records, and insufficient internal routines and controls.

In addition, an excessive amount of interest-bearing liabilities over interest-earning assets and a high cost of funds have accelerated the institution's decline.

Hyperion will initially invest $90 million in cash and has arranged for the placement of an additional $110 million through the issuance of subordinate debentures.

With Hyperion's investment, the bank board has attracted $1.1 billion in capital to resolve insolvent thrifts through the Southwest Plan.

Lawrence Connell, president of United Savings, expressed confidence in the future of the thrift now that it has gained a solid capital base.

Nose cone crack cancels AA flight

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An American Airlines flight from Des Moines to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport was canceled Friday when a crack was discovered in the fiberglass nose cone of the Boeing 727 jetliner during a preflight inspection, an airline spokesman said.

Passengers of Flight 364 were transferred to later flights and the empty plane was ferried to Chicago, where mechanics were to replace the nose cone before the aircraft is returned to service, said American spokesman John Hotard in Fort Worth, Texas.

The crack was discovered during a routine preflight check by one of the members of the cockpit crew before the scheduled departure at 5:20 p.m. CST, Hotard said.

The cone covers radar equipment on the nose of the plane and is not a part of the pressurized fuselage, he said.

"Those things crack," Hotard said, adding that such damage could be caused by the cone being struck by a bird.

"They occasionally crack and we took the aircraft out of service. You don't want it to crack further and hit the body of the plane during flight," said Hotard.

Freeman File awards for 1988

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS (AP) - The envelope please, it's time for the eagerly awaited, tongue-in-cheek Freeman File awards for 1988:

ROY ROGERS WHITE HAT - To Dallas coach Tom Landry for withstanding with good humor the barbs of the Dallas media during the Cowboys' second losingest season in history. A class act all the way.

RRWH II - To the Cotton Bowl's Jim Brock, who keeps the New Year's Day Classic interesting with his hustle and hullabaloo.

RRWH III - To Texas golfer Ben Crenshaw, who has become the state's best goodwill ambassador through his international travels, play and knowledge of the game.

JACK ELAM BLACK HAT - To Houston Astros' owner John McMullen for letting free agent Nolan Ryan go to the Texas Rangers to finish out his incredible career. (There will be other Jack Elam awards this year; read further).

JEBH II - To Dallas Cowboys' majority owner Bum Bright for never returning a telephone call.

JEBH III - To major league baseball owners for not letting Edward Gaylord go ahead and buy the Texas Rangers from Eddie Chiles.

JEBH IV - To the school administrators for the big academic mess at Dallas Carter High School, home of the state Class 5A state football champions until March.

GENE AUTRY CUP OF COURAGE AWARD - To Texas A&M President William Mobley for bucking some members of the board of regents to clean up the mess created by songbird George Smith and Jackie Sherrill, who resigned as athletic director and head coach when he couldn't get Mobley's backing. Mobley is still trying to get to the bottom of the "hush" money payments Smith said he got from Sherrill before he later recanted same.

CUP OF COURAGE II - To Red Oak's Louise Ritter for winning the women's Olympic high jump medal after her critics had dismissed her long ago as being unworthy of champion consideration in big meets.

RIVER BOAT GAMBLER SILVER GOBLET - To Texas Rangers' general manager Tom Grieve for setting the baseball world on its ear with a dizzying series of trades at the winter baseball meetings, capped by the signing of Ryan.

THE SHIRLEY TEMPLE GOOD SHIP LOLLYPOP LAUREL - To Dallas Mavericks' owner Donald Carter, who never saw a television camera or a reporter's notepad he didn't like. Carter kept himself in the news by trying to buy leftover tickets to the Cowboys' final game for $5. Now, he wants to own the team for the ego trip.

THOMAS EDISON BRIGHT IDEA AWARD - To Texas coach David McWilliams for reinstating the old 2001 "smokers" before and after Longhorn home football games, taking a page out of Darrell Royal's smart ways to operate 20 years ago.

TEBI II - To SMU administrators for moving the Mustangs' football program back to Ownby Stadium on campus. If SMU went back to Texas Stadium, home of the professionals, the critics would say the Mustangs were back to their old ways of play for pay.

QUOTE OF THE YEAR AWARD - To embattled Dallas coach Landry, who quipped after Mayor Annette Strauss showed up at his final press conference in a show of support: "Whew, I thought you came here to give me my gold watch."

Aikman not only QB in Cotton Bowl; Arkansas' Grovevey is impressive, too

DALLAS (AP) - Some people may be surprised to learn that there are two quarterbacks in Monday's Cotton Bowl with high-falutin' credentials.

Everybody knows about UCLA's Troy Aikman, who completed 64 percent of his passes for 2,599 yards and 23 touchdowns during the season. Aikman, third in the Heisman Trophy balloting, is under even more intense scrutiny this week because the Dallas Cowboys figure to make Aikman the first pick in the NFL draft. Even Dallas Coach Tom Landry has attended UCLA practices.

The other quarterback led the nation in yards per completion, was first in the Southwest Conference in passing efficiency and would have ranked No. 3 nationally if had attempted enough passes.

His name is Quinn Grovevey and he plays for Arkansas.

"Every time you turn on TV, you see Aikman doing all the interviews," Grovevey said. "He can have all the publicity and be drafted No. 1, I just want a victory."

Grovevey said the Aikman hype doesn't bother him.

"I've just got to sit back and relax and do the best I can to try to get prepared for the game," Grovevey said.

Offensive coordinator David Lee said the Razorbacks have taken advantage of the lengthy bowl preparation to put in an extensive game plan. That means an even bigger load for the quarterback, but Grovevey is confident.

"Coach has all his players really prepared," he said. "He gives us enough advance time to learn all this stuff, then he runs it at us in practice. He shakes it up and tries to trick us with it so that, by game time, we've seen everything they've got."

Among others, Arkansas beat Oklahoma in the recruiting battle for Grovevey, who was considered the top high school player in Oklahoma.

"He can do things that go past coaching," Lee said.

He said that he and other assistant coaches traveled the country after last year, gleaning ideas to help Grovevey.

"We have, we've put him on the corner with bootlegs, with waggles, with full sprints, we drop back, we play-action," he said. "It's hard for UCLA to say, 'That's where he's gonna be.' The guy is lethal throwing on the run, he throws on the run as good as anybody. He has a hard time setting his feet because of a lack of arm strength, but when he gets some momentum behind him, he can get the ball to a receiver in a hurry."

Grovevey completed 62 of 98 passes for 966 yards and was the Razorbacks' second-leading rusher with 515 yards on 110 attempts.

The 5-10, 183-pound sophomore started nine games this year - all victories - and is 12-0 as a starter. Against Houston, John Bland guided Arkansas to a 19-14 lead but the Razorbacks were on their own 5 with 9:19 left when Grovevey

Berndt changes Owl 'coop'; leaves Rice for Temple post

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - He's still Owls coach Jerry Berndt, but the former Rice football coach now is the head man at Temple.

Temple officials Friday hired Berndt, who is riding a personal 18-game losing streak, to rejuvenate a stalled program the way he did six years ago at another Philadelphia school, Division I-AA Penn.

"I feel sadness because we worked so hard here and didn't get done what we started out to accomplish," Berndt said in Houston. "But I also feel great excitement because it's like going home."

The 50-year-old Berndt, for the past three years athletic director and head coach at Rice, accepted a five-year pact reportedly comparable to the annual $175,000 salary he was paid at Rice.

Berndt won commitments for improved facilities at Temple, including a bigger weight room and more indoor training space.

"I didn't need the promises so much as I needed a commitment to work towards what I want," said Berndt, who was 6-27 in three seasons at Rice after his Penn Quakers won or shared the Ivy League title in four of his five seasons.

"Workable office space for the coaching staff that provides them with a better teaching area is a No. 1 priority. And some of the equipment needs updating. We need computers for scouting and recruiting. We need to modernize that whole program. Beyond that, I'm not ready to say what we need."

Temple Athletic Director Charles Theokas said alumni would raise at least $500,000 to support the program, and that

Millard says Candlestick Park is second home to Minnesota

by The Associated Press
Minnesota defensive tackle Keith Millard isn't worried that the Vikings are on the road at Candlestick Park.

"It's almost like a second home for us," he said.

Minnesota, which plays San Francisco on Sunday in an NFC wants to get back and give it our best shot and not let it come down to one play," Minnesota cornerback Carl Lee said. "We were in control and let it get away."

San Francisco has lost three consecutive playoff games and is coming off a 22-point loss to the Los Angeles Rams in the last game of the regular season.

"Backs against the walls. We're like scared dogs," cornerback Tim McKyer said.

In Sunday's other game, Houston is at Buffalo in the AFC. Saturday, Philadelphia played Chicago in the NFC and Seattle visited Cincinnati in the AFC.

Buffalo, in the playoffs for the first time since 1981, is playing its first home playoff game since 1967. The Bills started the season 11-1 but lost three of their final four.

"I've seen this team play way up on that ladder, maybe up on the top, and I've seen us on the other end of the ladder this year also," Buffalo center Kent Hull said. "But in a playoff game, playing at home in front of 60,000 people, I don't look for us to be down at the bottom. I look for us to be at the top."

Buffalo was 8-0 at home this season. Bills safety Leonard Smith said playing at home is something special.

"When you do something and the whole crowd goes, 'Wooooo,' that means you've really done something, you've caught their attention," he said.

Houston beat Seattle 23-20 in last year's AFC wild-card game and then lost at Denver 34-10. It was the Oilers' first time in the playoffs since 1980.

Oilers' linebacker Johnny Meads thinks Buffalo quarterback Jim Kelly will be the key.

"He's still got that courage everybody talks about," Meads said. "He's got the mentality of a defensive player. Last year, J.D. (free safety Jeff Donaldson) hit Kelly so hard it knocked his helmet off, but he got right back up for more."

On top of the world...

Odessa bull rider is Sharp

ODESSA, Texas (AP) - Two years ago, they called Jim Sharp a rookie - rookie of the year on the pro rodeo circuit.

Last year, they called him fifth-fifth in the world in bull riding.

This year, they call him world champion.

In mid-December in Las Vegas, Sharp rode his 10th bull in the competition without being thrown at the National Finals and rode his way into history at the same time.

No one had ever done that until Sharp, 23, who started riding steers at age 9 in Kermitt.

"I never was scared of the bulls," said Sharp, who now lives in Odessa when he's not on the road. "I've been a little nervous. You respect them and know they can hurt you. But when you get scared, that's when you get hurt."

Sharp wasn't thinking about getting hurt when his final ground came up, and he wasn't nervous. He "took it like just another bull. I guess it (being in that situation) could get to some guys; they'd think about it and fall off."

Not Sharp. His coolness under fire may have been what put him in position to set the record.

Especially in the moments just before his 10th ride, when Sharp heard an announcement that provided a little more incentive.

A company offered $3,000 and a $2,000 belt buckle to the first man to ride 10 bulls in a competition. Seconds later, it happened, just as Sharp had predicted it would.

He didn't predict it to the world in the manner of a Joe Namath. He kept it between himself and Jim Watkins, rodeo coach at Odessa College.

"He called me from Las Vegas. It was his ninth one he was about to get on. He told me, 'If I get by him, I'll be the first man to ride 10 bulls.'"

As he has for more than 10 years, Sharp told Watkins about the bull he was to ride and asked for advice. Watkins, who competed on the pro rodeo circuit before becoming a teacher, offered his expertise to Sharp before the ninth and 10th rounds.

"It's his first world championship, and I'm certain it won't be his last," Watkins said.

Sharp has been getting advice from Watkins since he was 12, competing in the 12-and-under division at American Junior Rodeo events.

"He always asked pertinent questions," Watkins said, "and I tried to give him the right answers."

Sharp won two national championships while at Odessa College, and he has been on the professional circuit for three years. To make a living on the circuit, a rider has to be in the top 25 in his event.

Sharp competes in about 150 rodeos a year, but most aren't as lucrative as the National Finals Rodeo. Sharp collected $40,000 for winning the bull-riding title, $15,000 from Wrangler and the $3,000 for a $58,000 weekend, not counting the buckle.

Sharp said the magnitude of his feat still hasn't quite sunk in.

His soft-spoken manner belies his excitement, just as his 5-8, 150-pound body belies his power.

Watkins said Sharp's physical condition sets him apart from other riders, and his attitude keeps him in the right frame of mind.

Greenwood outguns Tigers

BROWNWOOD - Coach Larry Scott says Snyder's guards will have to play above their abilities if the Tigers hope to make a challenge in District 4-4A play.

The Tigers will visit Big Spring on Tuesday, hoping to regroup from the loss of another key player and a 67-52 defeat at the hands of Midland Greenwood.

"It seemed like everybody down there (at the Brownwood Classic) had bigger and stronger guards. We'll probably hit the same thing in district," said Coach Scott. "Our guards are going to have to play above their heads everytime and everybody else is going to have to hold their own."

Here Friday, with 6-2 senior post Dewayne Clinkinbeard injured and leading scorer Tracy Braziel sidelined because of foul trouble, Greenwood zipped off a 16-2 run on the Tigers.

"It was a combination of things," said Scott. "Dewayne didn't play at all because of his ankle. They've got a real strong team. Their shortest player is 6-0 and at times they would just shoot over us. We still held our own pretty much and had a six-point lead at one time."

But Braziel got in foul trouble and had to sit out and Greenwood made its big rally. Later, Greenwood packed the middle, forcing Snyder to shoot from outside - something that has not been a Tiger strength this season. The victors also hit seven of seven free throws in the final period.

Braziel, an all-tournament selection here, led the Tigers with 24 points. Tyrone Durst scored 10 and Jeff Franklin added eight.

Greenwood was paced by all-tourney choices Randy Donnell, with 24 points, and Tom Martin, with 10.

Scott was able to see a positive side to Friday's loss.

"We had 13 turnovers which was probably our low for the year. They (Greenwood) had 15 and that's one of the few times the opposing team has had more than us."

Snyder had committed 23 turnovers in each of its previous two games. The Tigers also hit 12 of 17 free throws and out-rebounded Greenwood 39 to 33. Franklin led Snyder with 14. Braziel had 13.

In other action here Friday, Brownwood pushed its record to 17-2 overall and won the tournament with a 96-49 trouncing of Lampasas. Roosevelt Duffie led the Lions with 31 points. Tournament MVP Chet Byerly added 21.

Byerly is the son of Brownwood coach George Byerly, a former Snyder High School basketball and football coach.

Snyder, 7-7 now, will resume District 4-4A play Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Big Spring. The Tigers, nearing the end of a 13-game road stint, will travel to Fort Stockton next Friday, Jan. 6.

Scott said he did not know if Clinkinbeard, who injured the ankle in the first quarter of Thursday's 58-53 loss to Lampasas, would play next week.

Jayton jams SHS girls, 57-42

JAYTON - Host Jayton placed three girls in double figures to defeat Snyder in the semifinals of the Jayton Tournament here Friday night, 57-42.

Tiffany Bryant tossed in 22 points, Bambi Ferguson 11 and Rebecca Brown 10 as the Lady Jaybirds won their ninth game in 13 outings this season under Coach Randy Courtney, a native of Snyder.

Snyder, which was led by Anne Osborn's 12 points, fell to 6-8.

Holly Fuller added 10 for Coach Ken Housden's Lady Tigers, who were outscored 21-6 in the first quarter and never recovered.

Jayton's win put the 'Birds in Saturday's 7 p.m. championship game against Crosbyton, a 51-49 winner over Paducah. Snyder was to play Paducah for third place at 4 p.m.

In other action here Friday, Snyder junior varsity ripped Jayton 73-49 to reach the consolation finals in the boy's division. Hayward Clay poured in 19 points and Edward Rios added 18 for the Tigers. Toby Goodwin scored 16.

Jayton got 16 points from Steve Daniels and 10 from Marc Morales.

Snyder JV was to play Crosbyton at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the consolation final.

Saturday's championship game in the boy's division was to pit Tahoka against Spur at 8:30 p.m.

Snyder basketball teams resume District 4-4A play next Tuesday. Housden's girls will entertain league-favorite Big Spring at 7:30 p.m. in the SHS Gym. The junior varsity boys will play in Big Spring at 6 p.m.

Grovevy just wants a victory

The week before, against Texas, he suffered a shoulder injury.

"I knew John was ready to play against Houston. We knew we were playing for the championship, but they had hit him so much he was starting to get heavy-legged a little bit," Lee said. "Quinn didn't respond until late Thursday of that week. We didn't think he was going to play. He is the looest guy I've ever coached."

"I'm intense. He is loose. But when you get to the game and the people come, the guy's eyes get big and everybody around gets ready. That's what happened down there. On Friday, he said, 'Coach, I'm ready to practice.' I said, 'Quinn you haven't thrown a ball.' He said, 'Coach, I'm ready to play.'"

Eventually, Grovevy guided the Razorbacks 95 yards in 16 plays for what proved to be the winning touchdown in a 26-21 victory. He got the drive going with a 20-yard run from his 7.

After that play, Grovevy maneuvered through Houston's defense on the way back to the huddle.

"He walks right through their huddle and tells them, 'You guys ain't going to keep us from winning.' Tim Horton told me that," Lee said.

"That's the way he believes. He's uncommon. I haven't had a quarterback like that before. He believes in himself."

"One of the reasons why we're confident is because of our quarterback," said Horton, a wide receiver. "Quinn Grovevy is the most confident football player in America. If you don't believe me, go ask him."

Sports briefs

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - The game-tampering conviction of Atlanta sports agent Jim Abernethy was thrown out by a state appeals court that said prosecutors "utterly and completely" failed to show a law was broken.

The Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals, saying the state's own evidence showed Abernethy innocent, held that he could not be retried on the charge.

The case stemmed from Abernethy's contacts with former Auburn cornerback Kevin Porter, who received $2,900 from Abernethy during his senior season in 1987. Because he accepted money in violation of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules, Porter was declared ineligible for Auburn's Sugar Bowl game with Syracuse.

NEW YORK (AP) - Madison Square Garden designated four sections containing 412 seats as alcohol-free areas, coming into compliance with a New York State law that goes into effect Sunday.

NEW YORK (AP) - Boxer Mitch Green, whose driver's license already has been suspended 54 times, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated and a drug possession charge, police said.

Weddings and First Night celebrations bring in year

by The Associated Press
Revelers will count down the seconds, pop corks on bottles of bubbly and holler "Happy New Year" while some say "I do" at a mass wedding and an undertaker hopes to hear "No, thanks" to his free funeral offer.

So-called First Night celebrations focusing on the arts will mark the ripping of the last page from the calendar in 23 U.S. cities.
Parades and fireworks also will ring in 1989, as police brace for drunken driving, crowded streets and hearty partying that goes overboard.

More than 500,000 people were expected to mill around Boston's streets Saturday as 1,000 artists were to take to public plazas and storefront stages in the 13th annual First Night celebration.

The festivities, originally launched in 1976 to close out the year's bicentennial events, have spawned similar festivals across the nation.

"A lot of people are tired of New Year's Eve and have nothing to do. I know I never did," publicist Lisa Jacobson said. "But this is a unique and educational way to ring in the new year."

Officials portray the event as an urban celebration with a small-town bent.

The marathon begins this afternoon with a family festival that includes dance, theater, puppetry and storytelling. It extends into the evening with a costumed procession and late-night avant-garde exhibitions that will include neon sculpture, Chinese acrobatics, a multimedia installation on Boston City Hall's facade and 16-foot ice sculptures.

Miami will welcome the New Year with the King Orange Jamboree Parade tonight followed by some salsa dancing in downtown Miami overlooking Biscayne Bay. And those who can afford it will fork up $750 to hear Spanish singer Raphael at Miami Beach's Fontainebleau.

In Woonsocket, R.I., people will gather on Social Street to watch a glittering ball drop down the city's tallest building, while in New York the most famous ball will be dropped at the stroke of midnight in Times Square before an anticipated crowd of 400,000.

This year, however, things will be different in the Big Apple.

The wrought-iron ball replaces the red apple used in recent years "because it's a more universal symbol," said Tama Starr, president of Artkraft Strauss Sign Corp., which created the new ball.

The Empire State Building will offer an hour-long light show beginning at the stroke of midnight; not to honor the new year but to celebrate the centennial of the Eiffel Tower.

President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, will be spending their 21st New Year's holiday at the desert estate of publisher Walter Annenberg in Palm Springs, Calif. President-elect George Bush and his wife, Barbara, were spending a long weekend at Camp David, Md.

In Tennessee's Smoky Mountains, at least 100 couples are planning to start off the New Year by getting hitched, according to the Rev. Ed Taylor, dubbed the "marry-thon" minister of the Smokies.

"This takes the cake," said Taylor, who performed 113 marriages last Valentine's Day.

Financial Focus

The only certainty in the stock market is uncertainty. No one has yet been able to accurately predict market movement, direction or timing consistently.

The idea is to buy stocks at bargain prices. Buying stocks this way is like "buying your straw hat in winter." Since not everyone can do this, most are satisfied with reasonable prices.

One way to increase your chances of buying at a reasonable price is to invest in regular installments over the next year or two. Then, once you complete your planned investment, leave it where it is for at least five years before you begin withdrawals. By planning both payments and withdrawals over an extended period, you reduce your chances of major market surprises.

One mutual fund that aims for long-term growth and income illustrated this technique by using its investment experience over the past 38 years. You might ask your fund, or any fund you plan to buy, to do the same through a simple computer illustration.

This mutual fund took $100,000 and invested it over an 18-month period beginning January 1973, the top of a bull market. Five years after beginning the first installment, the account had grown to more than $148,000.

At this point, the shareholders began regular withdrawals of 8 percent. That first year withdrawals amounted to $11,877. The following year the principal had grown so that the same 8 percent withdrawal was not $12,392. Last year the annual withdrawal was $29,310. By the end of 1987, 15 years after the program started, all withdrawals plus the remaining balance totaled $545,000, more than five times the amount invested.

The fund made calculations for each of the 22 other 15-year periods since it began in 1950. Some results were better than others, but even in the worst case, 1960-1974, there was still $94,000 left after withdrawing $120,015.

The fund is quick to point out these are not guarantees, but "a disciplined program of regular investments and withdrawals can provide the growing income most people will need in the future."

Dollar cost averaging is nothing new. The difference is that most dollar cost averaging is done with small regular amounts over many years. Here, a lump sum is dedicated to invest.

The dilemma is when to invest. For anyone afraid to jump into a volatile stock market with one lump sum, the advantages of spreading the investment over regular installments makes sense. Once the decision is made, it's important to adhere to that schedule. Otherwise you again risk the impulse to try to predict the market.

With installment investing you may not always buy your straw hat in winter, but you stand a good chance of getting a reasonable price. More importantly, your money will probably be there when you need it.

Disastrous ice storm led to emergency plan overhaul

DALLAS (AP) — A gentle rain suddenly turned into a freezing torrent early on the morning of Dec. 31, 1978, and before the thaw a week later, at least six people died in storm-related incidents, triggering a major overhaul in Dallas' emergency response plans.

Dallas was coated with up to two inches of ice that shut down all major roads and freeways. More than 2,000 people were injured, more than 320,000 people were left without electricity and 100 water mains were ruptured.

"We've never had one like that," said Earnie Taft, an emergency preparedness specialist for the city of Dallas, on the 10-year anniversary of the disastrous storm.

"We need to remind people, 'Don't ever forget what it was like,' and maybe it (our mistakes) won't happen again. It may have become a fond memory, but it was actually ... very freaky, very scary," Taft said.

Van Simpson, then a lineman for Dallas Power & Light, recalls the start of the storm.

At approximately 2 a.m., Simpson could see flashes of greenish light from his vantage point. He knew they weren't fireworks or acts of nature.

"One of the guys working with me said, 'Look at all that lightning.' I said, 'That's not lightning. Those are power lines going down.' I said we were probably going to be in for a lot of work," Simpson told The Dallas Morning News.

Simpson didn't return home for four days.

Among those killed in the storm was an 8-year-old boy who was fatally shocked when he picked up a live power line that had been downed by the ice and reported two days before to DP&L.

Thousands of residents spent hours huddled around the fireplace, trapped in homes without light, heat or telephone service. Plumbers did a land-office business.

For Dallas officials and executives of Dallas Power & Light, now part of TU Electric, the ice storm resulted in a serious review of the city's emergency plan and led to substantial changes.

"I think it was good for us," Taft said. "It forced the city to recognize a multitude of problems that fell beyond the range of traditional emergency planning."

Electric company crews and municipal sanding trucks were called out almost immediately after the freezing rain began falling, but the city's response was criticized as too slow and uncoordinated.

Cleanup costs eventually rose to $35 million, but the city's initial estimate — issued Jan. 2, after the ice had begun to melt — was just "several hundred thousand dollars."

City officials didn't ask for state or federal disaster relief until Jan. 11. "A lot of things fell through the cracks," Taft said.

The response was hampered by two problems: the freakish nature of the storm, which surprised forecasters as well as city officials, and the lack of a coordinated emergency-response plan, which was then on City Hall's drawing board.

"Our forecast was for rain, changing to sleet or snow," said Jim Hallman, the city's street operations manager, "and no one — no one — was prepared for what happened."

The storm cut a 160-mile-long icy swath across North and Central Texas — from Gatesville to Paris — but Dallas bore the brunt of the damage. Fort Worth, inexplicably, was mostly spared.

Hallman and his crews from the Street and Sanitation Services Department were among the first called to battle the worsening weather. But even then, they weren't prepared for ice. Their initial job — shortly after midnight — was to mop up minor flooding in the underpasses along North Central Expressway.

"That began to turn to ice, and we got out the sanding trucks," Hallman said. "By daybreak, we were trying to get all the chain saws out because we were trying to cut the trees that were covered with ice."

To coordinate its response better, Taft said, the city has organized its Emergency Operations Center and plan around lessons learned 10 years ago.

The lessons included: — Providing a work space at the Operations Center — in the City Hall basement — for each city department and utility, to aid communications.

— Adding police patrols, which would be based out of predetermined command posts.

— Creating four citizen assistance centers during crises, staffed by city officials who can help with less-pressing problems. The centers are expected to help residents with emergency plumbing and electrical repairs; to provide aid to the elderly and transportation; to check reports of missing people; and to monitor downed power lines.

"These are things that the Police Department was being called on to do, or plain weren't being done," Taft said.

The storm also prompted the electric company to accelerate a tree-trimming program, which previously had met with public reluctance. Falling trees were blamed for most of the downed power lines. "We now go back to each location every three years," said Lawrence, the TU Electric spokesman.

Japan gets 2nd Justice Minister

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita appointed his second justice minister of the week Friday as his scandal-buffed government lurched toward the end of what commentators are calling a gloomy year in Japanese politics.

Takeshita had to reach outside the world of politics to name a new justice minister, picking Masami Takatsuji, 78, a former Supreme Court justice with experience in drafting legislation as a bureaucrat in the 1960s and 1970s.

On Tuesday the prime minister appointed Takashi Hasegawa, a 76-year-old member of parliament, to the justice portfolio.

But Hasegawa lasted only 60 hours — said to be a postwar record for short Cabinet tenure — as it became known he had received donations for years from Recruit Co., which the Justice Ministry is investigating on suspicion of bribery.

At the root of Japan's political gloom is the scandal involving the Recruit conglomerate, whose founder sold unlisted shares of a subsidiary at bargain prices to politicians, their aides and business leaders. The share prices more than doubled when they were publicly listed in 1986, and the holders made fat, tax-free profits when they sold.

The Recruit scandal has been dubbed the top story of the year by Japanese media, rivaled only by the similarly downbeat story of the illness of Emperor Hirohito, 87, who has been bedridden with intestinal hemorrhaging since Sept. 19.

"The year 1988 was an indescribably gloomy one for Japanese politics, and one that calls for much soul-searching," commentator Minoru Tada wrote in Friday's Japan Times. He said Japan's leadership "is deeply tainted by money power."

An editorial Friday in the Asahi Shimbun, another newspaper, said the just-concluded session of parliament "showed Japanese politics at its ugliest and most corrupt."

As Hasegawa gave up the justice portfolio Friday, some opposition leaders and analysts said Takeshita should resign his entire government and call elections.

NCNB expects good return on its investment in Texas

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — NCNB Texas National Bank is expected to earn $153 million next year — 17 percent more than Charlotte-based NCNB Corp. had estimated four months ago.

But the upbeat profitability prediction hasn't changed NCNB Corp.'s plans to take five years to complete its acquisition of NCNB Texas, an NCNB vice president said.

Senior Center will close for New Year's Day

Activities at the Senior Center will resume at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday following the Monday closing for the New Year holiday.

Senior citizens who celebrate birthdays in January are invited to be special guests for a birthday party sponsored by McDonald's on Tuesday afternoon. All senior citizens are invited to attend the party which gets underway at 2:30 p.m. The party is a monthly special activity in the center.

The center's Pool Association will hold sign-ups for a tournament scheduled Jan. 9-13. The association will hold its monthly meeting at 11 a.m. Thursday. The drawing for partners and positions in the tournament will be held on Friday.

Senior citizens interested in participating in a weight control program are invited to meet with a group at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Participants weigh in and keep records of their weight.

Hoss Clayton and his band will present a program of country-western music starting at 11 a.m. Tuesday morning in the center's dining room.

Bowlers will meet at Snyder Lanes at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Women are invited to an aerobics class in the center at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Friday's Sing Along, featuring favorite songs, will get underway at 11:30. Blood pressures are also checked on Fridays.

The Senior Center is located at 2609 Avenue M and more information can be obtained by calling 573-4035.

Bank analysts with Robinson-Humphrey Co. of Atlanta forecast that NCNB will complete the acquisition in 1992, or a year earlier than expected.

But NCNB hasn't changed its plans to spread the purchase over five years, said Susan Carr, vice president for investor communications. For now, NCNB plans to increase its ownership to 51 percent at the end of 1991, 80 percent at the end of 1992 and 100 percent at the end of 1993.

Federal regulators selected NCNB among five bidders in late July to lead the rescue of First RepublicBank Corp. NCNB agreed to put up $210 million in capital to acquire 20 percent of the bank, now NCNB Texas.

"The progress we have made is three to four months ahead of what we anticipated in August," said Timothy Hartman, NCNB Texas' vice chairman and architect of the takeover of Texas' largest bank. "We are very gratified with what we see. We're excited about the forecast for 1989 and beyond."

NCNB had estimated that NCNB Texas would earn $131 million in 1989, or $22 million less than its new forecast. By contrast, the Southeastern bank alone is likely to earn about $260 million next year, analysts forecast.

"In August, we were making a forecast using only public information" without reviewing First RepublicBank's loans or operations, Hartman said. "Now we've had four months. We have had a great deal more information available to us."

The Texas bank is likely to add just 4 percent to NCNB's overall earnings in 1989. But the company and analysts believe Texas could add more than one-third to its Southeastern bank's earnings within five years as NCNB's ownership increases.

Renowned sculptor Isamu Noguchi dies at age 84

NEW YORK (AP) — Sculptor Isamu Noguchi, whose work bridged East and West and included delicate paper lamps, massive boulderlike sculptures and serene gardens, has died at age 84.

Noguchi, the son of a Japanese poet and an American writer, died early Friday at New York University Medical Center of heart failure.

"He was a paramount and essential figure in the evolution of 20th-century sculpture," said Martin Friedman, director of the Walker Art Center in Minneapolis. "He was a person of incredible vitality and restless curiosity, constantly seeking to generate new projects and ideas."

Noguchi caught a bad cold in Italy early this month and suffered complications, said Allen Wardwell, director of the Isamu Noguchi Garden Museum in New York, which opened in 1984 and where the artist maintained a studio.

Noguchi was best known for his distinctive sculptures, often of smooth rock in natural shapes that recall primitive crafts, and for some surrealist paintings.

"Isamu Noguchi stood for perfection," said Thomas Messer, the retired director of the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York. "His art, deeply rooted in tradition, kept reiterating the underlying wisdom and the verities of life."

In his sculpture, Noguchi maintained a reverence for the materials with which he worked. Whether designing furniture and lamps, stage sets for modern dance, gardens, fountains or playgrounds, his sensitivity to surroundings was legendary.

"For me it is the direct contact of artist to material which is original, and it is the earth and his contact to it which will free him of the artificiality of the present and his dependence on industrial products," he wrote in 1985.

Noguchi's work is included in the permanent collections of many of the world's major museums.

Moscow cited for progress on issues of human rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is crediting the Soviet Union with "significant progress" in improving treatment of political prisoners and Jewish refuseniks.

A State Department spokeswoman said Friday the Soviets have released more than 600 political prisoners in the last two years, including all the monitors of the 1973 Helsinki agreement aimed at improving the human rights situation.

Phyllis Oakley, the department spokeswoman, said all prisoners charged with violating political or religious constraints are now free. Jewish emigration soared to 2,400 last month, and less than a dozen of 120 cases of Soviet citizens denied permission to join family members abroad remain unresolved, she added.

The Soviets have stopped jamming U.S.-sponsored radio broadcasts, and President Mikhail S. Gorbachev in his speech Dec. 7 to the U.N. General Assembly pledged that laws bearing on human rights would be changed, Mrs. Oakley said.

"They have made significant progress," she said. "I think that's clear from the examples I've given."

On the other hand, a U.S. official said, the Soviets have not cleared up questions about the cases of some 30 citizens the Soviets say are in prison as criminal offenders. State Department officials suspect the prisoners may be political victims.

But the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said "We're developing a process. It just hasn't jelled yet."

1988:

November 3
In letters received by Scurry County teachers, Pete Greene, Democratic candidate for district judge, has accused incumbent Republican Gene Dulaney of employing a private investigator to "conduct an investigation into my background."

In response, Dulaney said Thursday that his wife Mary initiated the investigation without his consent following a candidate's rally here Feb. 22.

November 6
A Hermleigh couple has filed a lawsuit against the Snyder Scurry Health Unit and a Harrisburg, Pa. chemical manufacturer in connection with what they claim was brain damage suffered by their 4-year-old daughter from a 1984 DPT shot.

In the suit filed last week in 132nd District Court, Joe Don and Tracey Williamson claim that they were not sufficiently warned about the possible side-effects and hazards of the Nov. 20, 1984 injection.

November 8
Republican efforts to gain control of traditionally Democratic state senate and house seats that include Scurry County fell dramatically in Tuesday's general election.

Despite a strong home-county showing for former Snyder mayor Rod Waller, Democrat David Counts of Knox City won 10 of 12 counties for election to the 78th District House Seat.

State Sen. Steve Carriker of Roby won re-election and a full four-year term over Bobby Albert (R-Wichita Falls) in a repeat performance of last August's special election.

As they did four years ago, a majority of Scurry County residents voted Republican in the race for the U.S. presidency, supporting winner George Bush by a 63 percent margin Tuesday.

The most talked about political race in recent Scurry County history ended Tuesday with incumbent District Judge Gene Dulaney returned for his second four-year term.

Dulaney polled 52.7 percent of the vote to defeat Democrat Pete Greene.

November 14
Scurry County commissioners Monday authorized the Texas Department of Human Services to move its offices from the Senior Citizens Center to the county coliseum annex.

November 23
The Snyder branch of Southwest Savings Association, formerly City Savings located at 3405 College Ave., will be closed effective Dec. 9 and the local accounts consolidated with the Southwest Savings branch in Colorado City, it was reported Wednesday.

November 28
County Attorney Michael S. Line informed county commissioners Monday that he has verbally agreed to accept a position as general counsel for two New Mexico banks.

The 34-year-old Snyder native said he will probably vacate his office in late January or early February.

December 1
Sy Tabor, a Snyder police officer since 1962, will assume the duties of adult probation officer over felony offenders for the 132nd District Court effective Dec. 19, it was reported Thursday.

Snyder Cablevision officials Thursday took final steps to "plug in" the new cable channel lineup for the cable company, expanding the local system from 13 channels to 30, 27 of these offered on the "basic" service.

A ribbon cutting at the Snyder Cablevision office, marked the event.

December 5
The 1988 Scurry County United Way campaign has topped the $73,000 level and drive officials say it now appears this year's goal of $85,000 will not be reached, it was reported Monday.

December 8
Scurry County entities named as defendants in five lawsuits filed in an attempt to block construction of the Texas Department of Corrections prison unit here have opted to no longer pursue a lingering legal question related to court costs, it was reported Thursday.

December 9
The construction of 16 more units at Golden Terrace Village, Snyder's senior citizen housing area, has been approved, it was reported Friday.

This will see the number of housing units expand to 30 and will complete Phase II of the project which opened here in July of 1985.

December 12
Scurry County commissioners heard dissenting opinions from several citizens about a possible longevity pay increase for county employees and then enacted half of the increase proposed.

Commissioner Tommy Pate said during discussion that he could support an increase to $5 but not $10. A vote for the $10 increase was split and a revised motion for $5 passed unanimously.

District Judge Gene Dulaney appeared before commissioners Monday to hear their concerns about possible changes of personnel in the county auditor's office and to explain his position on the possible changes.

Each of the four commissioners and County Judge Bobby Goodwin told Dulaney that it would be a mistake to change all three people in the office.

Snyder will end 1988 with a sales tax return equaling a 10.6 percent increase over last year, it was reported Monday.

While 1988 will be an improvement over 1987, the sales tax return will still likely be the third lowest reported for the decade, however.

December 14
132nd District Court Judge Gene Dulaney announced the appointment of longtime Snyder resident Linda Franklin to succeed Bernhard Bartels as county auditor Wednesday.

December 15
Twenty-six class members—three women and 23 men—received their certification as correctional officers Thursday in the first graduation exercises for the new program implemented at Western Texas College.

Guest speaker was Steve Stephens of San Angelo, secretary of the TDC board.

Western Texas College has been certified to offer its correctional officer training program through Dec. 31, 1989, it was announced Thursday night.

December 19
Scurry County commissioners Monday appointed Leland W. (Pete) Greene county attorney to replace Mike Line, who has resigned to become general counsel for two New Mexico banks.

December 28
The number of individuals to be employed at the Daniel TDC Unit has been upgraded to approximately 290 with the latest staffing plan estimates, it was reported Wednesday.

It was originally estimated some 250 individuals would be employed at the prison, now under construction with a mid-June opening date projected.

December 29
Cogdell Memorial Hospital board members were cautioned Thursday to expect operating expenses at the facility to gradually increase in the months ahead as preparations begin to offer medical services for the under construction 1,000-bed state prison facility.

A new controller for Cogdell Memorial Hospital was announced Thursday, Greg Kampsky, 29, now of Hobbs, N.M. He will officially report to work Jan. 16.

For the past two years, Kampsky has served as assistant controller for the 250-bed Lea Regional Hospital in Hobbs.

The first Jewish congregation in the United States consecrated its synagogue in New York City in 1730.

Obituaries

Jim Moss

Services for James Thomas "Jim" Moss III, 41, of 308 31st will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Ira Baptist Church with the Rev. Mark McMillan, pastor, officiating. Burial will follow at Ira Cemetery under the direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

He died at 4:45 a.m. Saturday at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene. He was born March 21, 1947 in Snyder and was a lifetime resident. He was a member of the Ira Baptist Church and was a former employee of Cogdell Memorial Hospital. He had been the head of the housekeeping department until illness forced him into disability retirement.

He was married to Nina Pinkerton on July 20, 1973 in Snyder. She survives.

He is also survived by two daughters, Dana Moss of the home and Stephanie Moss; one son, James Thomas Moss IV of the home; and two sisters, Nettie Ticer and Mary Elliott, both of Lubbock.

Bob Melton

Services for Robert H. "Bob" Melton, 76, of 3605 Avenue U are pending at Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

He died at 12:02 a.m. Saturday at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. He was born June 21, 1912 in Waco. He was a longtime resident of Snyder and was a retired SACROC accountant.

He was a member of First Baptist Church.

He was married to Felice Lane in 1934 in Waco. She died in 1960. He later married Louise Hewitt in 1961 in Waco. She survives.

'Sis' Jones

Services for Mrs. Delbert "Sis" Jones, 75, of 2207 28th Street will be at 2 p.m. Sunday at Bell-Cypert-Seale Chapel with the Rev. Ken Branam, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. T. O. Upshaw, senior adult minister at First Baptist Church.

She died at 10:45 a.m. Friday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. She was born Jan. 31, 1913 in Frederick, Okla. and had lived most of her life in Snyder. She was a housewife and member of First Baptist Church.

She was married to Delbert Jones May 8, 1946 in Lamesa. He survives. She was a member of the American Legion and VFW auxiliaries and twice served as the president of the VFW auxiliary.

She is survived by one sister-in-law, Alice McClammy of Hico; one brother-in-law, Andrew Deen of Snyder; and five nephews and three nieces, Jim Province, Ronnie Watkins, Bill Watkins, Murray Watkins, Sidney Mae Jerred, Winifred Bobo, Jo Nell Helms and Robert Devers.

She was preceded in death by five sisters and one brother.

Security, terrorists in technological 'arms race'

LONDON (AP) — Air terrorism has spawned a grisly "arms race" between the security establishment and the ever-increasing sophistication of the terrorist arsenal.

As bomb-detection machinery has grown more refined, explosives have become easier to conceal. As one security gap closes, terrorists find another.

Because of lack of personnel and the expense of operating X-ray equipment, "we are always at least two steps behind the terrorists," Brian Orrell of the British flight engineers' union said Friday, eight days after a bomb blew up Pan Am Flight 103 over Scotland, killing all 259 people aboard and leaving 11 on the ground missing and presumed dead.

But other experts say the quest for terrorist-proof air travel has reached an outer limit beyond which it will become prohibitively expensive or make flying unbearably uncomfortable.

When air terrorism became a problem in the late 1960s, authorities responded by transforming airports into fortresses.

It now is routine for all passengers to go through metal detectors while their hand luggage is X-rayed. Airlines especially at risk, such as Israel's El Al, search all luggage by hand. At Belfast airports, the Irish terrorist threat makes it necessary to frisk not just the passengers but everyone else coming into the terminal.

Airlines insist that each piece of luggage match its passenger, assuming that no bomber would travel aboard the targeted plane. So terrorists have resorted to duping unwitting passengers into carrying explosives onto planes. Passengers are regularly warned to accept no baggage they haven't packed themselves.

The search for suspicious objects has become much harder with the advent of plastic explosives that give off virtually no detectable odor. They are malleable enough to be shaped into a souvenir or rolled wafer-thin to fit inside a suitcase lining. Detonators now are small enough to fit into a suitcase lock.

Moreover, the age of the metal-free handgun is looming. According to David Kyd, spokesman for the International Air Transport Association in Geneva, such a gun has been developed in Austria and will be extremely hard to detect on X-ray screens.

"The sophistication and miniaturization of explosives has become quite worrisome," Kyd said in an interview.

According to David Learmount of the respected journal Flight International: "It's an arms race."

Bombs can be connected to barometric detonators that respond to altitude changes. Airports have hit back by putting baggage through simulated pressure to set off such bombs in safety.

Driver not injured in rural pickup rollover

A 37-year-old Snyder man escaped injury when his pickup truck went out of control on a county road and overturned.

The Department of Public Safety said a 1988 Chevrolet driven by Willis H. Harrison of 506 33rd St. was westbound on County Road 134 2.6 miles east of town, went off the south side of the road and rolled once in the 10 p.m. Thursday mishap.

Friday accidents inside the city included one discovered at 12:32 a.m. in the 3300 Block of Ave. X in which a parked 1971 Chevrolet pickup owned by Cheri G. Cato of 207 36th Place had been struck by an unknown vehicle and driver.

A 1983 Ford driven by Gaylene S. Harrison of 4006 Ave. U hit a parked 1969 Ford owned by J.T. Trice of 3500 Irving Ave. at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the Senior Citizens Center parking lot off Ave. M.

Cogdell plans gifts for New Year's baby

The Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has reinstated the custom of giving gifts to the first New Year's baby.

This year's newborn will receive either a girl's dress or a boy's suit from the auxiliary's gift shop.

In addition, Cogdell Memorial will be giving the year's first baby a diaper bag courtesy of the hospital.

All through the month of December, auxiliary members have been sending the newborns home in special red Christmas stockings made by member Nadine Harless.

The New Year's baby will also receive a Christmas stocking as well as the assortment of small gifts which Cogdell gives to its mothers and babies enrolled in its birthing plan.

This includes an undershirt which reads, "A Star is Born at Cogdell Hospital."

Grass fire doused

Firemen made short work of a 12:53 p.m. Friday grass fire at 15th St. and Ave. T.

They returned to the station at 1:15 p.m. and said the fire, on property owned by Warren Boyd, had possibly been started by children playing with fireworks.

Assault report prompts arrest

A 29-year-old Snyder man was arrested on several charges following a 9:24 p.m. Friday report that he was beating a woman at a residence in the 300 Block of 28th St.

Another woman had told police about the altercation, and they arrested him in the 300 Block of 28th on two outstanding warrants for failure to appear in court, not having a driver's license and not having liability insurance.

The woman who had reportedly been assaulted then came to the police station to file a complaint against the man for misdemeanor assault.

A 29-year-old woman was taken into custody for DWI at 2:16 a.m. Saturday in the 1200 Block of 28th St., and a 31-year-old man was arrested for public intoxication at 11:59 p.m. Friday at 27th St. and Ave. R.

Don't expect the fitness boom to die down. A survey done by Athletic Business magazine of 323 sports, recreation and fitness facilities shows that 90 percent expect their enterprise to grow substantially over the next seven years and most are already planning to expand their facilities.

"Money," according to American poet and essayist Ralph Waldo Emerson, "often costs too much."

Trinity slates evening service

A praise and worship service will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday at Trinity United Methodist Church.

Store files theft report

Police Thursday afternoon received a report of a theft in the bakery at Furr's supermarket. The incident was noted at 10:50 a.m. What was stolen was not known because an officer's report had not been completed.

Jamey Baldwin, an Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) with Snyder EMS, is now the first EMT to be certified as a paramedic with the local ambulance service.

He notes several other EMTs are in the process of becoming certified paramedics also.

Baldwin acquired his training at TSTI in Sweetwater, which he said not only meets all the state requirements for paramedic training but also adds stringent requirements of its own such as students must maintain at least an 85 average.

He said TSTI has a very good reputation in the field of paramedic training.

A total of 744 hours were required for Baldwin to obtain his license. Classroom study took place in Sweetwater at night but the clinical training was arranged during the day. Clinical study was divided between Abilene hospitals and Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Ambulance time was acquired in both Abilene and San Angelo.

Baldwin's ambulance training totaled 150 hours in all and was divided into 15 hour shifts during which he said he "just went wherever the ambulance went."

Hospital studies were arranged in eight hour shifts. During this time, he worked in several hospital departments including surgery, obstetrics, emergency, intensive care and pediatrics. He also had 60 hours of trauma clinical study. The psychiatric phase of the clinical study period was satisfied by touring the state school in Abilene, Baldwin said.

"A lot of my training was just observing but some of it was hands on type training also," he explained, adding, "I learned how to start an IV among other things and had to actually do it."

He also took the American Heart Association's Advanced Cardiac Life Support (ACLS) training which is the same course made available to both doctors and nurses.

Baldwin also learned how to rappel and how to extract people from wrecked vehicles.

Once Baldwin had completed all the requirements, he became eligible to take the state test in Abilene. From the time the course is completed, students have 90 days in which to take and pass the test in order to receive certification. The test is divided into sections and failing any of the sections means failing the entire test.

Certification must be renewed every four years. It will require 100 additional hours of training plus retaking the test.

Baldwin said the year he studied at TSTI was hard on both him and his family because it was so time consuming.

"But we learned to make time for the things we needed to do," he said.

Baldwin and his wife, Jackie, have one child, Michael, who is two years old. They are also foster parents.

Baldwin is also a volunteer fireman in addition to his work with Snyder EMS.

Baldwin first became interested in becoming a paramedic when the local fire department offered EMT training. He has been with the local fire department for more than five years and prior to that he was a mechanic for Howard Gray. He graduated from Western Texas College in 1982 with a degree in auto mechanics.

He works an average of six days each week and always carries a radio. If he is needed, he said, he goes.

CERTIFIED PARAMEDIC—Jamey Baldwin, an Emergency Medical Technician with Snyder EMS, became a certified paramedic in September of last year. He is the first EMT employed by

Snyder EMS to acquire this certification but others are now also in the process of earning this certification. (SDN Staff Photo)

He is also an assistant chaplain for the fire department and a certified firefighter, a process which took several years experience. His wife is president of the Ladies Auxiliary.

"I like working for Snyder EMS because it is challenging and something different is always happening. I also like the idea of helping people."

Baldwin is a native of Snyder. He and his wife became foster parents for the first time four years ago and since then they have kept a total of 12 children. The most recent child had lived in their home for 13 months and was three months old when they got him. They recently had to give him up.

Baldwin said they are still suffering the loss of their last foster child. He said they receive training on how to cope with the loss but he said it doesn't make it any easier.

He also said they have received extensive training on how to be foster parents. For instance, foster parents cannot spank their foster children so other methods of discipline have to be learned.

After their first year as foster parents, they decided to have a child of their own because they "wanted a child the state could not take away from them."

Baldwin first became exposed to foster parenting through an aunt who manages a group home in Fort Worth. She is licensed to keep several handicapped children. The Baldwins are licensed to keep two foster children.

He said they became interested in becoming foster parents themselves when local friends introduced them to the idea.

In addition to his other duties and responsibilities, Baldwin is also a first degree black belt in aikido, which is a Japanese martial arts which compliments judo.

He first took classes in aikido at Western Texas College and has See BALDWIN, Page 2B

THE MIND, By Richard M. Restak.
 "The Mind" is the successor to the bestselling book, "The Brain." Based on a nine-part television series airing on public television nationwide, "The Mind" is a fascinating exploration of that crucial aspect of the self that makes human beings unique.
 What the mind is has remained mysterious until recently. This book shows us astonishing new findings and offers the possibility at last of understanding what the mind is. Human beings have searched for the meaning of mind since earliest times, in myth and poetry, in philosophy and religion and science. This lavishly illustrated book records that search — the search for who we are.

 been studying since 1981. For a while he was even an instructor, but he said that right now no organized classes for aikido exist locally.
 "I know enough now to not myself hurt" is how he summed up his aikido experience. "The deeper I get into aikido the more I realize that I don't know."
 He said he likes to observe new students who start out thinking they know a great deal but soon find out that they may not know as much as they thought.
 Baldwin said no organized competition exists for aikido because it never developed where they could do it safely. He also said you get rusty if you don't practice.
 Plans for the future include learning to fly someday, he said.

 Talk about fast! The flavorful peanut butter sauce cooks in just 30 seconds.

PORK CHOPS WITH PEANUT SAUCE

2 tablespoons cooking oil
 2 pork loin chops, cut 3/4-inch thick (about 12 ounces total)
 1/4 cup chicken broth
 1 tablespoon peanut butter
 1 green onion, thinly sliced
 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
 2 tablespoons chopped peanuts

Preheat a large skillet over medium-high heat; add oil. Add chops to skillet; reduce heat to medium. Cook 7 minutes. Turn chops over. Cook 5 to 8 minutes more or until chops are no longer pink. Remove chops from skillet; cover to keep warm. Drain off fat in skillet.
 For sauce, in the skillet stir together broth, peanut butter, onion, lemon juice, garlic powder and ground ginger. Cook and stir over medium heat about 30 seconds or until smooth and slightly thickened. Serve sauce over chops. Top with peanuts. Makes 2 servings.

Money woes eased

AUSTIN (AP) — After coping with a $5 billion budget deficit two years ago, the Legislature next year will open its session by opening a fatter checkbook.

Comptroller Bob Bullock's official estimate of 1990-91 state income said revenue would total $45 billion and lawmakers would have an additional $1.6 billion to spend.

That forecast was hailed as good news by many lawmakers who have approved billion-dollar tax increases three times since 1984.

But there's a hitch. Legislators wound up with about $800 million less than was projected as recently as June because of a continuing weakness in oil prices. And some lawmakers say they will need to find an extra $1 billion or so to continue funding all necessary state services.

"Hopefully, the public realizes that there is not just an abundance of surplus money. We are continuing to be faced with hard economic times as far as the state's budget," observed House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

Gov. Bill Clements says there's enough to do what needs to be done. "We have ample funds," said Clements as he repeated a familiar-sounding promise: No new taxes.

Clements — who pledged no tax hike during his 1986 campaign but signed a record $5.7 billion increase in 1987 — said he is convinced the state can get by now.

"I have said that I will veto any new taxes. I don't want any misunderstanding about this. I am set in concrete," Clements said.

There will be continued spending pressures. State employees want a pay raise they say is overdue, the state's population is growing and there's an increased need for items such as prisons.

Some lawmakers already are talking about so-called "revenue enhancements" — ways of raising additional money without technically raising taxes.

Among possibilities: hiking state university tuitions again; changing the law to free up some $150 million destined for the new state "rainy day" fund; spending about $700 million set aside for court challenges to tax laws; increasing fees for drivers' licenses, auto inspection stickers and license plates; issuing bonds to build prisons, and reducing state contributions to some retirement funds.

Legislators have gotten at least a temporary reprieve from one looming — and expensive — problem.

The Austin-based 3rd Court of Appeals in mid-December overturned a lower court ruling that had said the state's $11 billion school finance system was unconstitutional.

The cost of solving that lower court ruling, which said the system discriminated against students in property-poor school districts, could have ranged from $600 million to $2 billion.

Although an appeal to the Texas Supreme Court is expected, some legislators indicated that a solution now might be found without massive spending.

Taxes — which give the state much of its spending cash — might not be as big an issue in 1989 as lawmakers imagined when they left the Capitol in 1987.

After raising taxes $4.8 billion in 1984, $1 billion in 1986 and $5.7 billion in 1987, the Legislature created a blue-ribbon committee to study the state of state taxes.

With 15 months of work and an improving Texas economy, the Select Committee on Tax Equity issued a middle-of-the-road report that proposed broadening the sales tax base to more services, reforming the franchise tax paid by businesses and easing local governments' heavy reliance on property taxes.

The panel of business and government leaders didn't recommend a state income tax.

Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio, one of the legislative tax experts who served on that committee, said he expects the Legislature to take the first tax reform steps in the 1989 session.

"I think the prospects are good for some significant, meaningful structural reformation regarding our primary business tax — the corporate franchise tax — and the prospects are good for meaningful reformation of our state's general sales tax," Morales said.

Speaker Gib Lewis is now seeking fourth term

AUSTIN (AP) — Gib Lewis, who is seeking his fourth term as Texas House speaker in 1989, says he doesn't know of many people who could afford to fill the powerful post on a lawmakers' annual salary of $7,200.

That's one reason he's seeking a constitutional amendment to establish a legislative salary commission. Lawmakers' salary is set in the Texas Constitution.

The job "consumes 95 percent of my time," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth. "Luckily, I've been able to have enough income from my business to make it happen."

Lewis, who owns a label business, calls it "sad" that income can limit a person's ability to serve the public as an elected official "regardless of the talent and the ability they have ... Therefore, what you have is just a system that's designed for the wealthy."

The speaker's staff is looking at other states that have salary commissions. Lewis said such a commission could determine the proper salary for the 181 state lawmakers after looking at such things as job requirements.

Texas lawmakers meet in regular session for 140 days every two years. The next one begins Jan. 10. But in recent years, what was envisioned as a part-time Legislature has met in repeated special sessions to deal with the budget and other issues.

Committee work also may require trips to the Capitol, and lawmakers have legislative concerns to deal with in their districts year-round.

"The Legislature is not a part-time job any more. Even though we might be here for that set number of days, I do not know of a legislator that does not have some function they have to do every night of their lives, taking care of constituent problems back home, or trying to visit with state agencies ... spending time traveling back and forth," Lewis said.

"I think what worries me more than anything else is we're losing good people, very good people ... I'd hate to see our political system get to the point when every man and woman doesn't have the opportunity to serve the public if they like," he said.

Lewis said he hopes for — but doubts there will be — much public support for addressing lawmakers' salaries.

Couple joined in marriage

LUBBOCK — Regina Gale Martin and Brent Lance Brady were united in matrimony Oct. 29 at Trinity Baptist Church. Kevin Huddleston of San Angelo, cousin of the bride, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Joe and Mary Jo Martin and J.R. and Linda Brady, all of Lubbock.

The altar was enhanced by a wedding arch, candelabra, and flowers.

Musical selections by Shelly Huddleston of San Angelo, cousin of the bride, were "Sunrise, Sunset," "If," and "The Father Says I Do."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of chiffon over taffeta with Venise lace highlighting the sweetheart neckline. The bodice featured asymmetrically fluted ruffles, Renaissance sleeves and basque waistline. The fluted ruffles extended onto the full skirt and flowed into a cathedral train.

The bridal veil of tulle net was embellished with beads and satin to match the gown. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and light teal lilies, white roses and baby's-breath.

In keeping with tradition, for something old the bride wore a gold wedding band which belonged to her great-grandmother, the late Lois Carlile. Her dress was borrowed from her cousins. She wore a blue and white garter given to her by her mother. A string of pearls was new.

Serving as maid of honor was Ronna Martin of Lubbock, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids included Jana Bryant of Dallas, cousin of the bride; Shannon Brady, sister of the groom; Tammy Murray, Michelle Powers, and Monica Miller, all of Lubbock; and Julie Harris of Abernathy.

The bridal attendants wore floor-length teal green dresses. Each gown featured a sweetheart neckline with puff sleeves and a drop waist. They carried light teal and white lilies with baby's-breath.

Rachel Fritz of Snyder and Andrea Karcher of Kerrville, cousins of the bride, were flower girls. Their floor-length dresses matched those of the bridesmaids.

The father of the groom served as best man. Groomsman were Irvin Woodrow of Topeka, Kan.; Tete Brady of Waco, grandfather of the groom; Matt Woodrow of Topeka, cousin of the groom; Steve Martin, brother of the bride; Kenny Giesler of Lubbock; and Kirk Waldorf of Los Angeles, Calif.

Paul Bryant of Arlington, cousin of the bride, and Ron Hewlett of Lubbock served as candlelighters and ushers. Ryan Fritz of Snyder, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with a teal green cummerbund and bow tie. The best man, groomsman and ring bearer wore grey tuxedos with teal green cummerbunds and bow ties.

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the ceremony. The bride's table was draped with a white cloth and white lace overlay. The table held a white, three-tiered fountain cake with stairways on each side leading to six smaller cakes.

The groom's table was draped with a teal green cloth and white lace overlay. His German chocolate cake was decorated with a bear bride and groom.

Cindy Fritz of Snyder and Kathy Rogers of Lubbock, cousins of the bride, served at the bride's table. Lisa and Michelle Barrington of Lubbock served at the groom's table.

Jeri Lynn Martin of Dallas, cousin of the bride, registered guests.

Following a wedding trip to Nuevo Vallarta, Mexico, the couple is at home in Petersburg.

The groom attended Washburn University at Topeka, Kan., and Texas Tech University. Both the bride and groom are employed by Brady's Dairy Queens.

Against the grain

By James Jacoby

There are many situations in which the correct play goes against the grain. Today's hand includes such a situation, which I imagine would be mishandled by a huge majority of players.

South was playing 15-17 no-trumps so had to start with one club and then rebid two no-trump. North scratched up a marginal, but correct, raise.

Declarer had to establish either clubs or spades to get nine tricks. He chose spades because they were stronger than the clubs. After winning the heart lead, South therefore played ace of spades and another spade. West played low and declarer played dummy's jack, losing to East's queen. The heart return was won in dummy, and another spade was played in hopes they were 3-3. They weren't, and declarer ended up with only seven tricks. Declarer was happy to see clubs were 4-2, since he thought that meant they couldn't be set up, but his comfort was ill-judged. He should have made his contract. When he led the second spade, he should have ducked in dummy. This play succeeds if East started with any three spades or if he had a doubleton king or queen. This play loses if West ducked with both honors. If you agree that most Wests would win the second spade when holding both honors, then it becomes very reasonable for declarer to duck the second spade, hoping for something good to happen.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

THE HIDDEN COSTS OF THE HOLIDAYS

Keeping track of the money you spend on the holidays this year may be one of the best gifts you can give yourself for 1989.

Many people never get a handle on what the holidays really cost them.

Every year they have trouble stretching the paycheck to the end of December and wind up with credit card bills they can't pay off in January.

Even in families where they plan ahead for major gift expenses, it's easy to get caught short by the other hidden costs.

Getting a grip on holiday expenses involves knowing how much you spend for the following:

—Gifts you buy and the cost of materials or ingredients for gifts you make.

—The cost of food and liquor for parties at home; feeding visiting relatives or friends; taking foods to parties or pot-lucks; the cost of ingredients for Christmas baking.

—Tickets to events; hair styling and new clothes to attend events.

—Special contributions made at church or to charities.

—Indoor or outdoor decorations: replacement bulbs; Christmas tree.

—Wrapping, cards and postage.

Gasoline and food away from home for shopping trips; travel expenses of visiting friends and relatives.

Many holiday expenses don't seem extraordinary, especially when they're mixed in with other items, such as normal grocery shopping. But they do add up to significant amounts of money.

By keeping receipts or making a list of all holiday expenses, you can get an idea of actual costs and plan ahead for next year.

One strategy for financing the holidays is to save a portion of the total cost each month. Another method is to shift some of the expenses to other months by, for example, buying gifts throughout the year or stocking the pantry in October and November.

Any strategy for planning holiday spending can help people avoid over-extending themselves on credit.

Since finance charges on credit spending are no longer totally tax deductible, families will also be money ahead when they finance the holidays on their own.

Noon promises join Harris and Isbell

MRS. RAYMOND RANDY ISBELL

GRAND PRAIRIE — Kimberly Gayle Harris and Raymond Randy Isbell, both of Grand Prairie, were joined in matrimony at 12 noon Dec. 3 in the First Missionary Baptist Church. Brother Gentry of Red Oak, great-grandfather of the bride, officiated the double-ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Arthur and Sandi Krienke of Grand Prairie and Lloyd and Mary Isbell of Snyder.

Peach and blue bows and flowers decorated the sanctuary. John Eric Arjenan served as candlelighter.

Vocalist Tammy Williams and Gloria Harris on the organ provided musical pieces for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Henry Harris, the bride was attired in a formal white gown embellished with sequins, pearls and lace. The cathedral train was enhanced with cascades of sheer, full ruffles. The cathedral veil was decorated with pearls and sequins.

A cascading bouquet of peach and blue flowers tied with ivory, peach and blue streamers completed the bridal attire.

Rachael Sadill of Grand Prairie served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Brandi Murphy of Grand Prairie, sister of the bride; Adleta West and Shannon Lawson, both of Arlington.

Flower girls were Kendra Nachlinger of Brownwood and Mimi Michelle Stout of Snyder, both cousins of the groom.

Michael Patrick McCoy, cousin of the bride, carried the rings.

Fellow officers on the Grand Prairie police force served as the groom's attendants. Best man was David Rios of Grand Prairie. Groomsmen were Cliff Williams of Ft. Worth; Gary Newton of Arlington; and Dave Shaw of Grand Prairie.

Ushers were Mitch Lee of Grand Prairie and Mark Cluck of Arlington, both also of the Grand Prairie Police Department, and R.D. Allen, uncle of the bride, and John Eric Arjenan, her cousin. Both are of Grand Prairie.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo accented by a peach cummerbund. The male attendants were attired in police uniforms.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony. A bridal confection of eight tiers was embellished by a fountain and surrounding staircases. The bridal colors decorated the cake.

Servers were Lisa McCoy of Grand Prairie and Tina Auler of Red Oak, cousins of the bride, and Julie Owen of Grand Prairie.

The groom's cake was in a tuxedo form of white and peach. Servers were Linda Harvey of Grand Prairie and Gloria Rios of Arlington.

Following a honeymoon trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, the couple is at home in Grand Prairie.

The bride is a leasing consultant for Hall Management Corp. and also is a model with the Couture Modeling Agency. The groom is a graduate of Western Texas College and serves with the Grand Prairie Police Department.

SCS Notes

By RICHARD L. WAUER

Range Conservationist

Windbreak trees have long been discussed in this part of Texas. Not many use windbreak trees in this area although they have many beneficial uses.

Windbreak trees can provide privacy and protection from wind to homes and related buildings. Windbreak trees also absorb sound thus utilization by homeowners along side busy highways will help reduce noise levels from traffic. The trees can also reduce visual pollution by screening unattractive areas located nearby or along roads.

Farms gain from windbreak trees as a result of wind velocity reduction across adjacent fields. Studies have shown that crop production may increase by direct influence on the wind velocity. In these areas of high winds, crop damage is a reality no farmer can ignore.

Windbreaks provide livestock a place to get out of the cold winter winds and can provide shade in the summer once the stand is established.

Wildlife are drawn to windbreak trees because of the protection they afford. Food is produced that can be utilized by the wildlife. Wildlife probably reap more advantages from windbreak trees than any other.

Whether the windbreak trees are used around a home and out-buildings or around a field susceptible to wind erosion, early planning is necessary in order to provide the optimum benefits. Tree species selection, location, soil type, benefits desired and weed control will each need to be considered to enhance success rates of the tree stands. Single row stands of trees or multi-row stands will need to be determined to allow room for one or the other. Irrigation of the young trees is necessary in order to insure a stand. This can be accomplished by inexpensive drip system, sprinkler system, or row irrigation system.

Benefits are multiple from windbreak trees. In five to seven years, most tree species begin to produce advantages that will expand as the years pass.

If you are interested in windbreak trees, please contact the Soil Conservation Service at 573-1268 or come by 3423 Ave. T in Snyder and we will help provide you information needed to guide your decisions.

Above the Fold

By Donny Brown

It must be some early warning signal of middle age decline when a person begins to associate a much-disliked green linoleum floor with those old post-Christmas, not getting any younger blues.

But it occurred to us as the Yuletide began to fade with that after-the-fact hurt—which is not unlike the lingering ache of a "frog" on an eighth grader's arm—that it is just this kind of stuff which ultimately gets to you.

We mean all of those fix-them-before-they-fall-down projects and expensive-but-absolutely-necessary replacements which property owners are afflicted with.

The linoleum which is curling at the edges or the carpet which still shows—at least to its owner's eyes—where the dog threw up.

Or the cruddy accumulation of brown algae which has seeped into the bathroom tile grout; or the steady drip-drip-drip of that kitchen faucet which, one becomes convinced, must be adding $25 per month to the water bill.

Or that wracking sound the wife's clothes washer is beginning to make when it finishes a load; or the clankety-clank startup racket the refrigerator offers when it cycles on.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

It occurs to me, as I sit surrounded by Christmas gifts for which I have found no storage places, empty boxes which I have not yet discarded, and hefty bags full of wadded up gift wrap, that, not only has it been two weeks since I faced my word processor, but this column will appear on New Year's weekend. Therefore, it would be appropriate for me to say a few words on the subject.

All this clutter's distracting, though. When you live in the country, you don't have nice men who work for the city to come haul away your trash; you have to do it, or burn it yourself. Therefore, it becomes yet one more thing to put off doing during the holiday madness. Once Christmas Day is over, we just sort of sit around in a stupor, trying to remember what it is we just got up out of our chairs to do.

While clawing through about 14 loads of laundry, I complained to my family that I didn't have anything to say this year about New Year's. My son said that I should write about what a good year it was.

Granted, last summer was a true high point in this girl's life. I signed a three-book contract with Berkley Publishers of New York and took a dream trip to that city on part of the advance money to meet with agents and editors and do all the neat stuff I've only read about all these years of dreaming. But that's not real life.

Real life is having your 10-year-old blazer break down on the side of a lonely country road and getting out to walk with two young children in 25-mile-an-hour winds. This happened to us on the day before Christmas Eve, and they hauled away our automobile with a tow truck. Real life is waiting in a hospital while your little girl has her eyes operated on, torn between worry about her and worry about the expense. This happened to us three days before that. Real life is having to outfit your entire family with formal clothes so that you can travel to a big-city hotel to celebrate your in-law's golden wedding anniversary with 150 other people. This happened two days before THAT. Real life is having to think about buying 20 gifts for extended family for Christmas, not to mention your own family and working out whatever arrangements Santa might have in mind. This happens to us EVERY year.

So I'd say that, overall, 1988 has had its highs and its lows for the Mills family.

I thought about that.

I thought about those of us who must face our Gethsemanes: the David and Melissa Harr family, who lost both children and his parents in a plane crash last summer, a close woman friend who's been diagnosed with a

Not to mention motorized vehicles, where minor dings are only that until allowed to run into four-digit equipment costs not counting the labor.

None of these items are sufficient to send your aching heart into cardiac arrest, but their collective drag on your spirits is like the pile of pebbles which forms beneath a giant rock.

A detrius of the soul which in fact marks the deterioration of that body.

They really register during the post-holiday season—a time when your spirits are already at a low ebb.

You normally walk across these tiny discomforts with your shoes on, but the after-Christmas funk has you reduced to socks only.

At such times, you think, "Boy howdy, if I had just blown that wad we spent on junior's video game on the bathroom shower stall instead."

Or, "If the wife would only swap that ski suit and lift tickets for 10 gallons of outdoor, fade resistant paint."

The worrying about things left undone is as lethal to the human body as cigarette smoke.

And, like that smoke, it is absorbed in relatively small doses which ultimately add up to an extremely large quantity of damage.

A good quote from a smart fellow said that all of the world's biggest problems were easy to solve when they were little.

We would note also that it is because of the after-Christmas blues that New Year's resolutions were invented.

We'd propose one for fellow owners of homes and automobiles, appliances and do-dads and other miscellany planes, trains, boats and pickup trucks.

If you're feeling flatter than a flitter, don't sit around looking forward to your next monthly billing from Sears.

And don't snap at the family because their idea of a big time Christmas present is one dress shirt and a set of handkerchiefs.

Your post-holiday depression, the "angst" which troubles your poor poetic soul, as you describe it, may be linked to your bedroom walls, which you haven't bothered to repaint since you moved in.

Happy New Year campers. Let's fix it or get rid of it.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

bad things that happened to us are over, and all the dreams which haven't come true will come true THIS year. We resolve to do the things we didn't get done last year: lose weight or quit smoking or learn a new craft. We look at our children growing up and determine to make more time for them.

It's like throwing out that holiday trash, cleaning house, spiffing things up. It's that new hope, thank God, that keeps us going. Because just as we all must face our personal Gethsemanes, so too does that year eventually come, sooner or later, in which we reach that goal, see that dream come true, take that special trip, sign that contract.

And that, my friends, makes it all worthwhile. May God bless you in the New Year, and always.

SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY

December 25

New speed limit signs have been erected in and around Snyder, effecting adjustments generally up or down by five mph that were approved in a new city ordinance in October; it was reported Sunday.

The state highway department supplied the signs after proposing the changes, and work to get them in place was completed by Friday.

City police are now enforcing the new limits.

Snyder Goodfellows raised $5,069 this year in donations toward their annual Christmas project to feed Scurry County's needy families, it was reported Sunday.

A Goodfellow spokesman said this was the highest amount raised in many recent years.

A 52-year-old Snyder man's seven-year probated penitentiary term was revoked last week in 132nd District Court because he had been arrested for DWI, it was reported Sunday.

TUESDAY

December 27

Clear skies but colder temperatures were expected for the Snyder area Tuesday and Wednesday as a strong cold front pushed southward through Texas, bringing an end to warm weather that graced the state over the Christmas weekend and prompting area wind advisories.

The consideration of bonds for several county officials was the only item of business on Tuesday's county commissioners court meeting.

Bonds were approved for Commissioner Duane Davis, Justice of the Peace Pct. 1 Constable Bill Love, Deputy Sheriff Kerry Fritz and District Attorney Ernie Armstrong.

WEDNESDAY

December 28

The number of individuals to be employed at the Daniel TDC Unit has been upgraded to approximately 290 with the latest staffing plan estimates, it was reported Wednesday.

It was originally estimated some 250 individuals would be employed at the prison, now under construction with a mid-June opening date projected.

By far the largest job category involves correctional officers rated as II and III. The unit has 160 such guard posts listed, more than half of the entire work force at the prison.

THURSDAY

December 29

Three men operating businesses in Snyder are on the steering committee for a regional rally slated next week in Sweetwater to marshal support for state-wide reforms in workman's compensation laws, it was reported Thursday.

Local members of the 14-man committee are Ken Holt, owner of Everybody's Thriftway, and Wayne Bethel, owner of Bethel Oil Co.

In addition, Jack Lawrence, owner of Lawrence IGA of Sweetwater and Snyder, is a member of the committee.

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board members were cautioned Thursday to expect operating expenses at the facility to gradually increase in the months ahead as preparations begin to offer medical services for the under construction 1,000-bed state prison facility.

While pointing out that the "long term effects" of offering health care at the Daniel Unit will be "beneficial to our survival," Cogdell Administrator Tom Hochwalt noted that "start-up costs associated with providing these services will far exceed the revenues generated for the first 12 to 18 months of TDC business."

A new controller for Cogdell Memorial Hospital was announced Thursday, Greg Kampsky, 29, now of Hobbs, N.M. He will officially report to work Jan. 16.

For the past two years, Kampsky has served as assistant controller for the 250-bed Lea Regional Hospital in Hobbs.

Joe Mireles showed the grand champion hog, a Hampshire, and Andrea Smith exhibited the grand champion lamb, a medium-wool, in Thursday's Hermleigh FFA Stock Show in the county coliseum annex.

Smith also showed the reserve grand champion hog, a Duroc, while Billy Joe Gannaway's lamb was the reserve grand champion among the 20 lambs entered.

SDN Letters to the Editor

To the editor,

I was on my way to Weatherford from Las Cruces, N.M., Friday before Christmas eve and ran out of gas by the big gin on the west side of town. Two very nice gentlemen got me some gas. Then, my car wouldn't start, so they gave me a jump start.

The car ran to main street where it stopped. The battery and alternator were out. It was dark; I raised the hood and a very nice man in a pickup, blue color, didn't get his name — took me to the store to buy a battery and helped me put it in. He wouldn't accept money for his services.

I went to the Great Western Motel for the night. The next morning, the waitress and several nice people in the cafe gave suggestions. Central Tire charged the battery for free. A man — John, I think — at Phillips 66 on the south side of Highway 180 found an alternator and installed it at a very reasonable price.

So much different than California or Arizona. In other large cities where you need help, you wave money and then pray for your life.

Thanks, people of Snyder.

Look Back

By Lilith McArthur

FIVE YEARS AGO

Nita Farren, following 32 years of service as the city secretary, was honored with a retirement reception at City Hall.

Dot Patrick was the winner of $100 worth of merchandise in a holiday drawing held by Anthony's.

District Judge Wayland G. Holt announced retirement plans following 32 years in criminal justice.

10 YEARS AGO

Dan Callaway was sworn in as justice of the peace in precinct 1 and Ted Billingsley, county commissioner for precinct 4, was sworn in by Judge Holt. The two replaced Bobby Goodwin and Jess Everett.

Scurry County's first baby of the year was Summer Ann Flores, born to Ernest and Patsy Flores.

15 YEARS AGO

The country tried going on year-round daylight savings time in an effort to conserve energy.

Amber Dawn Walker, Snyder High School senior, won the local and District 8 Voice of Democracy script-writing contest. She was set to compete at the state level in San Antonio later in January.

20 YEARS AGO

Elected county officials taking the oath of office were Tom Shelburne, Hermleigh justice of the peace; Mrs. Chessie Bailey, Ira constable; Thayne Mebane, precinct 3 commissioner; H.E. Woolsey, Jim Farr, and Preston Wilson, deputy sheriffs; Marion Dabbs, county commissioner for precinct 1; Keith Collier, sheriff; Sterling Taylor, county judge; Hubbard Smith, Fluvanna constable; and George Killam, county attorney.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have sarcoidosis but have no symptoms. What is the up-to-date treatment for this disease?

DEAR READER: Sarcoidosis, a disease of unknown cause, is marked by the presence of granulomas — small, discrete areas of inflammation affecting lymph nodes, lungs, eyes, liver, spleen, muscle, heart and the nervous system. The ailment is usually detected by chest X-ray; it can resemble tuberculosis. The diagnosis is usually made by biopsy.

No treatment is ordinarily necessary because sarcoidosis tends to "burn out" with time. As the body fights the inflammation, the granulomas disappear or become stable. Studies have shown that 65 to 85 percent of patients recover uneventfully without therapy.

The most common serious consequences of this strange disease are lung scarring (causing heart failure) and eye scarring (causing visual difficulties). Because no specific therapy is available, doctors have to be satisfied with treating complications as they arise.

In patients with respiratory or ocular symptoms, cortisone reduces inflammation and diminishes tissue damage; however, it is not needed in patients without symptoms.

Sarcoidosis is present worldwide but it is most common among people of Northern European extraction and in American blacks.

DEAR DR. GOTT: No dermatologist seems to be able to stop my exfoliative dermatitis. I take cortisone. Bright light makes it worse. Is there anything I can do for it?

DEAR READER: Exfoliative dermatitis, a severe and widespread irritative scaling of the skin, is a disease of unknown cause. Some patients seem to develop this reaction in response to drug allergies (such as penicillin and barbiturates), to related skin disorders (such as psoriasis) or to other diseases (such as lymphoma, lymph node cancer). In most patients, no cause can be discovered.

Topical treatment with creams and lotions may help relieve symptoms of discomfort. Cortisone is sometimes useful in reducing inflammation but it is not consistently effective. This is a real skin problem for which therapy is often unsuccessful.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've had no letup for one year in these one-sided headaches I get. I take Ativan. One doctor told me it was TMJ but nothing has ever come of it.

DEAR READER: Headaches have varied causes: brain tumors, migraine, high blood pressure, neuralgia and muscle contraction/spasm, to mention a few.

Abnormalities of the temporomandibular joint, or TMJ, can cause one-sided headaches. This joint, where the jawbone meets the cheek, can malfunction, causing clicking or pain on opening the mouth and severe muscle spasm affecting the side of the head. Treatment for this condition is both complicated and expensive; it involves changing the bite pattern or operating on the joint itself.

Headache is one of mankind's most common and troublesome ailments. Although causes for it can often be discovered and treated, many chronic headache sufferers are never satisfactorily diagnosed.

You should begin your investigation with your family doctor, who can pinpoint many common causes of headache. If this tack is unsuccessful, you can be referred to a neurologist — or, if one is available to you, a headache clinic.

Ativan, a tranquilizer, is unlikely to benefit you unless your headaches are due to excessive muscle contraction in your neck and shoulders. Since Ativan is available by prescription only, I assume that a doctor has examined you. You should now request referral to the resources I mentioned above. Further examination might involve the services of a dentist who is trained in diagnosing TMJ problems.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Headaches." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

I had a lousy week. Three events occurred that reminded me of my frailties — meaning that I am human. This realization dogs me while I go about my duties like any other ordinary adult, making decisions and generally acting responsibly. In my profession, making decisions means making mistakes. This is difficult for me to accept. Also, I get tired and, worst of all, I become exasperated. These characteristics are not part of the M.D. persona.

The errors come with the territory; all doctors are fearful of errors because so much rides on our judgment. We choose to regard ourselves as slightly superhuman; so, we are tough on ourselves. Not as tough as the public is on us, mind you, but pretty tough nonetheless. Therefore, when we make a miscalculation, we're afraid not only of public humiliation but of the small, insistent voices of insecurity within us.

It started off with a young man who had a bellyache. He did not complain of fever or other symptoms and I couldn't define the cause of his problem. A blood count and abdominal X-rays were inconclusive. When he became sicker 24 hours later and required emergency surgery for a ruptured appendix, I felt I had let him down. I had been trained to identify such a common condition in its early stages and had successfully done so on dozens of occasions. On an intellectual level, I appreciated that my patient's appendicitis presented in an unusual form; on an emotional level, however, I experienced the pangs of self-doubt.

These pangs were not helped when, two days later, I admitted a middle-aged woman to the hospital with what I thought was intestinal obstruction. The surgeon disagreed, held my hand and suggested a barium enema examination to find the source of her discomfort. The X-rays showed diverticulitis, inflammation of sacular out-pouchings of the large bowel, a condition that could have been diagnosed without hospitalization. Once again, I had cause to question whether my stars were in proper alignment — even though, in the back of my mind, I remembered that I had efficiently diagnosed more difficult and serious ailments many times during my 22 years of active practice. However, the mind plays strange tricks; I wondered if I were having the screaming meemies or whether I was suffering from accelerated senility. I kicked myself squarely in the behind.

The stage was set for exasperation. When a new patient walked into the office, he obsequiously whined and complained as he listed a litany of complaints that could best be described as trivial. He seemed to be at the tail-end of a minor upper respiratory infection. His examination was normal, as were a series of blood tests. When I telephoned him to give him the news that his basic good health would probably return in a few days, he sounded disappointed.

"You don't like me, do you?" he asked.

"Listen," I chided, "it's not my job to like you or dislike you. I'm supposed to find out what's the matter with you and treat it. OK?"

As I replaced the receiver, I recognized that I'd blown my cool. And, in fact, the patient was right: I didn't like him. However, this is not how a caring and competent physician is supposed to behave.

The next day, I apologized to his answering machine, but it was too late. Put off by my temporary lapse of good manners, he will undoubtedly find health care elsewhere.

I didn't feel comfortable about my behavior and I resolved to change my attitude. For the next few weeks or months, I'll be accepting and agreeable. My fuse will be lengthened. But, at some unpredictable time in the future, I'll be vulnerable again. My faults will show up once more. I try to control them but there they are, just as obvious to the trained observer as my age spots and gray hair. I sometimes wish I weren't so damned human. I'd like to be as unflappable as those kindly, well-disciplined doctors in TV serials.

No such luck. While I am busy struggling with my imperfections, I hope that my patients will understand that I share their insecurities and self-doubts. Most people try to do the best they can but sometimes they stub their toes. Me, too.

Officials say school finance system must be improved

AUSTIN (AP) — Improving the public school financing should be a top priority for lawmakers in 1989, regardless of how — or if — the Texas Supreme Court resolves a lawsuit over the $11 billion-a-year system, officials say.

And one state leader says he doesn't expect the suit by poor school districts to have an overwhelming impact on legislation. "In the 16 years I've been here, there's been a school finance bill every other session as regularly as clockwork," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby. The last such measure was the massive education reform of 1981.

"The nature of our school finance system is that it requires updating about every four years. There will be a school finance bill, but the court suit wasn't and isn't and won't be particularly the driving force," Hobby said.

A spokesman for poor school districts said he fears the Dec. 14 ruling by the system by the 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin could cause some state leaders to drag their feet in improving school finance.

The ruling overturned last year's decision by State District Judge Harley Clark, who had said the school finance system violated the Texas Constitution because it doesn't ensure each district has the same ability to obtain money to educate students.

The appeals court, while not endorsing the system, said it is constitutional.

"The only problem I see is some folks might sit back and relax and stop working toward an equitable solution ... We might lose, in effect, some time between now and when the Supreme Court rules," said Craig Foster, executive director of the Equity Center.

Many of the lawsuit plaintiffs belong to the Equity Center, an organization of property poor districts. Public schools are funded largely through a combination of local property taxes and state aid, and the federal government also contributes some funds.

A report released in March by State Comptroller Bob Bullock found that 730 of the state's 1,100 school districts spend less than the statewide average of $3,290 per student per year. The average in those districts is $2,976.

In the wealthier districts, the average yearly expenditure per student is $4,268.

Hobby said he thinks a consensus is building around a "power equalization" proposal. Such a plan would ensure a certain amount of funding to districts that levy local property taxes at a certain level.

Sen. Carl Parker, a Port Arthur Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said the state should determine the actual cost of education per student.

Compensating injured workers will be main event for Legislature

AUSTIN (AP) — When state lawmakers finish their work, about 8 million Texas workers may find themselves under a new system of being paid for injuries sustained in on-the-job accidents.

Then again, they may not. Either way, the legislative battle over workers' compensation insurance promises to be one of the main events in the session that convenes Jan. 10.

The issue features powerful interests — business, insurance, doctors, lawyers and labor — in a free-swinging debate that could become a battle royal.

Workers' compensation premiums are paid by employers to cover medical and other expenses, including lost wages, of employees who are injured in work-related accidents. They have risen more than 100 percent since 1985, with another 19 percent increase taking effect Jan. 1.

The skyrocketing costs are to blame for some companies either closing shop or expanding outside the state, business groups claim. This hurts both employer and employee, they say, because it stifles economic development and job growth.

But who is to blame for these increased costs?

Insurance companies blame huge jury awards to injured workers, saying that even with the premium increases, workers' compensation claims are racing ahead of premiums.

But lawyers who make a living representing injured workers say the insurance industry has exaggerated its losses to boost rates and recover money lost on soured investments.

Labor groups say businesses have themselves to blame.

Job-safety is woefully inadequate, labor leaders say, and Texas' workers' compensation laws fall near the bottom in the United States in providing disability benefits. Many also point toward rising medical costs as the problem.

In short, the perception is that Texas' 75-year-old workers compensation system offers the worst of both worlds — runaway insurance rates and low benefits.

"It's a unique and complex animal," said Bobby Gierisch, executive director of a special House-Senate committee that studied workers' compensation for more than a year.

Gov. Bill Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Forth Worth, have all placed reform of the state's workers' compensation system at the top of the legislative agenda.

Hobby said recently, "It's called the workers' compensation system, but in a lot of cases it doesn't work and it doesn't compensate the worker."

Most agree the major fight will be over proposed changes in taking workers' compensation disputes to court.

Other major issues include: raising the maximum weekly benefit for disability; making it mandatory that employers carry workers' compensation insurance; allowing some companies to establish their own self-insurance programs, and banning the lump sum settlement of medical benefit costs.

Currently, employers and employees take disputed claims before the Industrial Accident Board — a three-member panel appointed by the governor. If the worker then is dissatisfied with the IAB ruling he can sue in state district court, and the IAB decision can't be admitted as evidence.

Business groups would like a system where the court is limited to only determining if the evidence brought before the IAB justified the board's decision.

Officer's death prompts solon to urge legislation

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Texas lawmaker says a policewoman's drowning death while chasing a theft suspect has motivated him to urge a bill making it a felony to evade arrest if any harm befalls a pursuing officer.

"If they put a police officer at risk, they will be held responsible for those actions," said Sen. Frank Tejeda during a news conference Thursday with Police Chief William O. Gibson, police union President Harold Flammia and state Reps. Orlando Garcia and Jerry Beauchamp.

Officer Patricia Calderon, 26, drowned early Tuesday after plunging into Salado Creek in pursuit of a theft suspect. Police later arrested the suspect but have been unable to charge him in connection with Ms. Calderon's death because he did not directly cause it.

"Are the laws doing their job? I believe they fail us in this instance," said Tejeda.

Authorities filed misdemeanor charges of theft and evading arrest against the suspect, a convicted felon who was being held without bond on a motion to revoke his parole.

The "Calderon Law" that Tejeda plans to introduce in the Legislature provides that anyone who knowingly flees from a police officer — even if he had not committed a crime — could be convicted of a third-degree felony, which carries a penalty range of two to 10 years in prison.

"For once, they're going to do something for us and not the damn criminals," said Flammia to applause from about 20 uniformed officers attending the news conference.

Gerald Reamey, a St. Mary's University criminal-law professor, said later that Tejeda's proposal was an overreaction to Calderon's death that would not deter people from running from police.

FULLY 15 YEARS

Most people do not understand the long-term effects of smoking and believe that upon stopping, they immediately end their risk of lung cancer. Not true. Because lung cancer takes so many years to develop, after a smoker ceases it takes "fully 15 years" to reduce a long-term smoker's risk of lung cancer to that of a non-smoker.

Woman Tired of Live-In Always Leaving Her Out

DEAR ABBY: I've been a widow for two years and thought I was getting my life back together, but now I'm not so sure.

I've been seeing the same man for a year and a half, but he never actually told me he loved me until we moved in together two months ago. He's not big on expressing himself, and I understand this.

The problem is, I'm very affectionate, but he holds back — the only time he wants me to touch him is sexually. (We do have a very active sex life.) Also, he spends a lot of time with his male friends, even when we go out for an evening together.

I'm used to a lot of attention and love, so I'm really torn. I do love this guy, but I need to feel he coming from him, too: When I mention that I think we need more time alone, he turns on me and says I'm too "possessive."

Do you think I need to stop this arrangement and see other men? That really upset him in the past. By the way, we are both in our early 40s and he is divorced.

NEEDS MORE LOVE

DEAR NEEDS: Yes, I do think you need to "stop this arrangement." That means moving out — because as long as you are living together, it wouldn't do for you to see other men, which is really what you want to do. You obviously do need more time and attention than this man is giving you, and your chances for changing a man who is satisfied with things the way they are are slim, if not nil.

***

DEAR ABBY: If any of your followers are considering naming their child "Junior," please tell them not to. The following is the most persuasive argument I have ever heard against this practice:

I am an escrow officer for a major title insurance company. Several years ago, I was trying to close an escrow for a very nice elderly gentleman who was selling his house. I was shocked when I received the title report to find page after page of judgments, lawsuits and court cases. This man's name was so unusual that it was unlikely that there was another man with the same name in Phoenix. When I phoned him for an explanation, he sadly said, "Never name your child after yourself!" As it turned out, this man's son was serving time for forgery, writing bad checks and a few other things.

Imagine the embarrassment this poor gentleman had to go through not only to have a son like this, but to have to explain it to total strangers every time he applied for a credit card, bought a car or transacted business of any kind.

None of us think that cute little baby in the crib will ever grow up to be anything but perfect, but it doesn't always work out that way. So do yourself and your children a favor and give them their own names and their own identities.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY IN PHOENIX

DEAR MISTAKEN: Sometimes the father's reputation casts a dark shadow on his son. However, your point is well-taken. Let each person be responsible for his own identity and reputation.

DEAR READERS: As we begin a new year, let's review some of the highlights of 1988: Irving Berlin, who gave us "Easter Parade," "White Christmas" and "God Bless America," celebrated his 100th birthday. (God bless Irving.)

Cher won an Oscar, and launched her new fragrance called "Uninhibited," which is destined to be a best-seller. Sonny Bono was elected mayor of Palm Springs. Clint Eastwood gave up his role as mayor of Carmel. A religious group picketed "The Last Temptation of Christ," calling it "the filthiest, sexiest, most blasphemous movie ever filmed" — which turned a boring, mediocre flick into an instant moneymaker.

Steve Sax left the (artful) Dodgers and signed on with the (damn) Yankees. Canadian hockey star Wayne Gretzky went south to join the Los Angeles Kings. The Los Angeles Dodgers won the World Series, and the Los Angeles Lakers won the world championship for the second consecutive year.

Peggy Lee is suing Disney Studios for $25 million, which she says is her fair share of "Lady and the Tramp." Art Buchwald is suing Paramount for $5 million, claiming it stole his story for "Coming to America," starring Eddie Murphy.

Last year Jessica McClure fell into a well and became America's sweetheart. This year, Jessica Hahn fell from grace and ended up in the Playboy mansion.

Judy Garland's red dancing shoes fetched $165,000 at auction. Someone reported having seen Elvis at a Burger King in Kalamazoo. Oprah lost 67 pounds and looks terrific.

The Robin Givens-Mike Tyson mismatch didn't last 10 rounds. (Robin sang like a bird, making Joan Collins look like Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.)

A safe and effective abortion "pill" — RU-486 — has been approved by the French government.

Diane Sawyer and Mike Nichols got hitched. So did Burt Reynolds and Lori Anderson. The Bruce Springsteens got unhitched. The Tom Sellecks are expecting their first baby. The Duke and Duchess of York had theirs — a girl, Beatrice.

Add Edwin and Caroline Kennedy Schlossberg — a girl, Rose. The Norman Lear welcomed a son, Benjamin Davis.

Beloved actor John Houseman ("The Paper Chase") made his final exit. Henry Armstrong, the only boxer to hold three world titles, fought his last fight. Louis L'Amour, who sold 200 million books about the Old West, headed for his last roundup.

Dennis Day joined Billy Daniels, Jascha Heifetz, Bonita Granville, Joshua Logan, Frederick Lowe, John Carradine, Robert Joffrey, Wayland Flowers, Adela Rogers St. John and Sheila Graham in the celebrity section behind the pearly gates. Mickey Mouse turned 60, and Minnie is keeping her trap shut.

Credit Gore Vidal with the best line of the year: When Larry King asked him if he's ever considered going on "Geraldo" or the Morton Downey Jr. show, Vidal replied, "Not un-armed."

***

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU: Happy New Year to you and yours. And just to make sure it will be a happy New Year for everyone else — if you're driving, don't drink. And if you're drinking, please don't drive.

Hobby's service raises political trivia questions

AUSTIN (AP) — Bill Hobby has been lieutenant governor of Texas for so long — 16 years going on 16 — that possible trivia questions on his long political career abound.

Q. What was Hobby's campaign slogan in his first race in 1972?

A. "He will make a good lieutenant governor — honestly."

Q. Who was Hobby's Republican opponent in the general election that year?

A. There was no GOP candidate. Alma Canales, Socialist Party, finished second by 2.2 million votes.

Q. Who are the only senators who remain from Hobby's first term as presiding officer of the Senate?

A. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, and Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso.

Q. What Texas poet did Hobby quote — "Not one inauguration worth a good slow two-inch rain" — to cheer the rain-soaked crowd at his 1983 inaugural address?

A. Carlos Ashley, former state senator from San Saba.

Hobby, 56, years ago set the record for longevity in a job that is thought to be the most powerful in state government. He will have served 18 years when his current four-year term expires in January 1991.

This means that virtually every important legislative proposal that has passed or failed for nearly two decades has done so at Hobby's discretion.

Yet he remains a head-shaking puzzle who seems puzzled by that reaction. "Why am I an enigma?" Hobby asked a reporter who had no answer.

He should ask? Hobby's a multimillionaire whose legislative priorities include the poor; a shy man who's seldom out of the public eye; a solid Democrat who admits to voting for Republican George Bush for U.S. Senate, and a staunch supporter of education who once said teachers would be paid as well as bus drivers "when they all become as competent as bus drivers."

"I don't like putting myself forward, projecting myself," Hobby said. "I don't like to read stories in the paper. I'm just not basically that kind of person. I don't like doing it, but I've done it successfully..."

State Comptroller Bob Bullock, whose personal knowledge and files almost always reveal clues to Texas politicians, said, "I like Gov. Hobby, but I must tell you I don't understand him. I just like the boy."

Hobby, it might be said, was born to be lieutenant governor, a position held by his father in 1915-17, before William P. Hobby became governor in 1917.

"It's the only office he's ever expressed an interest in," Hobby's wife, Diana, said after his first election.

Hobby says he has always felt he could make a greater contribution as lieutenant governor, although a governor "leaves a much longer footprint on the state" than other state officials by virtue of gubernatorial appointments.

But he also says, "To serve as lieutenant governor is an honor beyond mere words."

Hobby's primary interest has always been education, but he also takes pride in helping to craft a compromise for a Texas water plan. "Water legislation makes even school finance look like child's play," he said.

He views his role in the 31-member Senate as that of a traffic cop, and has on more than one occasion used this analogy: "What you do is ensure, to the extent possible, that everybody gets a time at bat, and only one senator can bat at a time."

Lottery is hot topic again in Legislature

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers who failed two years ago to convince their colleagues of the need for a state lottery when Texas faced a multi-billion budget deficit now use another argument.

"The choices are very clear," said state Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, after filing a bill recently to establish a Texas lottery. "It's either a state income tax or a lottery."

The "L" word — standing for lottery — will be considered again by the Legislature when lawmakers begin their regular session Jan. 10.

Supporters say Texas is missing out on a good bet by not having a lottery.

Already 28 states and Washington D.C. have lotteries.

In 1987, lottery ticket sales totaled $11.4 billion, which excludes commissions to ticket sellers. About $4.8 billion of that amount went into state coffers and about $6 billion went back to winners. Lottery ticket sales are expected to reach $14 billion to $15 billion this year.

Wilson and Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, see the games as a way to increase government revenue without raising taxes.

Opponents of a state lottery "believe that Texas needs an income tax or to cut basic services. I respectfully disagree," said Uribe.

But lottery supporters have continually run into strong anti-lottery forces, led by groups such as the Christian Life Commission of the Texas Baptist General Convention and Texans Who Care, a non-profit Dallas organization opposed to gambling.

These groups fear that poor people, who can least afford to buy a lottery ticket, will spend their money chasing the dream of quick riches.

"We think it's very poor public policy to try to finance state government on the backs of the poorest citizen," said Sue Cox, director of Texans Who Care.

Wilson, who has failed in the last three sessions to win House approval of a lottery, said the lottery might have a better chance during this session because lawmakers are battle weary from raising taxes.

Astro-Graph

Bernice Bede Osol

Jan. 1, 1989

In the year ahead do not be indifferent to business propositions that appear to be a bit unusual, especially if they are championed by people who have proven track records in unique endeavors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When the chips are down today, your natural leadership qualities will come to the fore. People with whom you will be involved won't have the answers, but you'll know exactly what to do. Capricorn, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be a bit luckier than usual today in situations that have competitive elements. This is because your instincts are likely to be sharper than those who oppose you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to be more of a listener than a talker today. Even the smatterings of conversations you catch from friends could provide you with constructive information.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something unexpected might develop for you today that could be of benefit to you materially. What occurs may be engineered by someone you recently met with whom you have much in common.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not discount the ideas or suggestions of your mate today, even if it sounds a bit outlandish at first. If you study the contents carefully, you may change your mind.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a special knack today for being able to help others sort out situations they are unable to resolve themselves. There are strong indications your talents will be needed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's to your benefit to fulfill your social obligations today, especially if you're invited to a gathering which contains several newcomers. You could make a valuable contact.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is a good day to invite someone you recently met over to your place so that you can get better acquainted. Make the happening as informal as possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If someone pops into your mind today who you haven't seen much of recently and you have an impulse to contact this person, by all means do so. Pleasant developments could result.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A person with whom you're intimately associated might come up with a tip today that could make or save you money. It will be worth exploring further.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're a quick thinker today and your spontaneous thoughts could be rather ingenious. React promptly to your inspirations, because if you wait too long you may lose confidence in your ideas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A happy surprise could be in the offing for you today in the form of a reward for a good deed you recently rendered. The recipient has been waiting for an opportunity to express gratitude.

Jan. 2, 1989

Happy changes should be in the offing for you in the year ahead where your social life is concerned. The aspects indicate a consistent rise in your popularity over the coming months.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try to associate with friends today who inspire you and who you feel you can learn something. Discussions with them isn't likely to be just idle chatter. Major changes are ahead for Capricorn in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Several objectives you are anxious to achieve can be realized today if you don't go off on targets or bring people into the act that have nothing to contribute.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Winning others over to your way of thinking should be rather easy for you today, because it will be obvious to them that you are sincere and believe in what you say.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you've been contemplating making an adjustment that you feel can enhance your material security, this could be a good time to initiate it. Take positive action.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Conditions in general that have an influence on your personal relationships appear to be in pretty good balance at this time. Do all you can to maintain this harmony.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be amazed today at not only how much you'll accomplish, but also how much fun you'll have doing it if you focus your efforts on labors of love now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Involvements that require a team effort should be your cup of tea today. Your contribution will be substantial and you'll know how to encourage others to do their best as well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Several situations which have been hanging fire can be finalized to your satisfaction today. Make them priority matters and lash them down once and for all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be more effective today if your mobility isn't hampered and you can manage situations as you see fit. Don't get jockeyed into a position where your authority is restrained.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) People who truly believe in you and have your best interest at heart will be your springboards to opportunity today, especially in matters that could be meaningful to you financially.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your leadership qualities will be very pronounced today and this will be evident to you, as well as to people with whom you'll be involved. Your authority isn't apt to be challenged.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If your ears are ringing today, it's because associates are saying nice things behind your back. Your biggest boosters will be where your career is concerned.
