

Q. — Have any cases of measles been reported in Scurry County?

A. — County medical and school officials say no. A hospital spokesman said no cases have surfaced here to date. At the schools, administrators note that school nurses have been told to closely screen for any such cases and that office staffers are checking when students have extended absences to insure no cases have broken out.

Local

Court agenda

Bids to determine which local bank will be Scurry County's depository bank for 1989-90 will be opened Monday morning in county commissioners court.

Other business in the 10 a.m. meeting will include consideration of appointing Peggy Kennedy to replace Norman Spencer as the Scurry County Library Board's lay member on the Big Country Library System Board.

Sealed bids will be taken for the sale of a 1983 Ford Diesel truck and a 1959 Clement hydraulic dump trailer from Pct. 3, and Jim West of Southwestern Bell will appear to seek a resolution supporting his company's "Texas First" telecommunications alternative.

Week-long observance will have college focus

Western Texas College will be observing Community College Week through Saturday with events planned on campus and in the community.

"During the week, we hope people will visit the campus and attend some of the events planned," noted Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president.

"Almost 1,200 people are enrolled in academic classes or vocational programs at WTC this spring. And we also provide programs in adult vocational education as well as vocational training to juniors and seniors from Snyder and Ira high schools.

"This is in addition to personal enrichment courses through our Continuing Education Division.

"As you can see, educational opportunities at WTC extend far beyond the traditional college curriculum and involve people of all ages. The broad participation in college-related activities continues to be a source of pride for the board of trustees, faculty and staff."

Activities during Community College Week will include induction of new Phi

Signup dates near for elected boards

Signup dates are drawing near for spring elections involving the Snyder city council and school board.

Three positions on the seven-member council—to include the mayor's post—are expiring as well as two seats on the seven-member school board.

At the city, Mayor Troy Williamson is completing his first two-year term. Also facing expiring terms are the two at-large council members, Paul Zeck and John Johnson.

All three seats will be elected by a citywide vote.

For the school board, the two at-large positions for trustees are expiring also. This includes Luann Burleson and Ken Branam. School trustees serve three-year terms.

As with the city, all registered voters in the school district will vote on these two seats.

Eligible candidates for either board must be registered voters and must reside within the boundaries of the entity they seek to represent.

The first day to file as a candidate for either the city or school positions is Feb. 20. The filing period will run through March 22.

The last date to register to be eligible to vote will be April 6.

Both elections are scheduled for May 6.

Two now facing term with loss of probation

Two Scurry County defendants previously granted probated prison terms have had their probation revoked in 132nd District Court and now face terms in the Texas Department of Corrections.

A 33-year-old Snyder man's 10-year probated sentence for possession of a controlled substance was revoked with Judge Gene Dulaney sentencing him to seven years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Dale Dodson was on probation for a July 29, 1987, possession of amphetamines charge, and his probation was revoked on the basis of his Oct. 25 arrest for DWI.

Jesse Delao, 23, of 1201 Ave. O pleaded guilty to a Jan. 1 unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

April dates scheduled for Wild Flower event

The fifth annual Wild Flower Day observance at Western Texas College has been slated for April 21-22 and tentative plans were announced Friday.

Chairman of the event again this year will be Britt Canada, WTC professor of computer science.

On April 21, a Friday, the tentative plan calls for programs in the Fine Arts Theatre during the morning and planting container-grown plants following lunch.

Public school students will again be invited to display their art and creative writing projects in the Scurry County Museum. The museum will be sponsoring a wild flower photography contest.

A reception honoring teachers whose students participate and winners in the photography contest will be held the evening of April 21.

On April 22, a Saturday, a field trip is being planned.

Persons interested in entering the photo competition are invited to contact the museum for details.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If a person makes a mistake, he's dumb. If a computer makes a mistake, it's merely a malfunction."

Community College Week is being observed in Snyder and across Texas. From any perspective—student, parent or taxpayer—a community college is still one of the world's best bargains.

A community college is a major industry in Snyder. To have this industry in Scurry County, local taxpayers contribute $1.6 million or about 30 percent of the total budget. For that investment, the economic impact on the community has been estimated to exceed $45 million.

Gov. Bill Clements has asked that the state pursue greater economic development during the final decade of this century, therefore a positive reception is anticipated for a proposal which will soon be presented to the legislature by the Texas community college association.

The organization will ask that the 49 colleges, including Western Texas College, be designated as economic development centers. This underscores the vital role that two-year institutions can play in the recovery of the Texas economy.

The association cites four major reasons for enlarging the mission of junior colleges:

—Thousands of Texans are now enrolled in Job Training Partnership Act educational training programs being conducted by such institutions.

—90 percent of all post-high school technical and vocational training being done in the state is conducted at two-year colleges.

—50 percent of the work performed by small business centers across Texas is managed by community colleges.

—Some 1,500 private companies each year request that Texas junior colleges design specific training programs for their employees.

The recommendation comes in response to a report by the Texas strategic economic policy commission which noted that by the time today's first graders graduate from public schools, three out of four jobs will require training beyond a high school diploma.

The report confirms the contention that Texas must have a superior system of vocational and technical training to meet labor market demands of the future—therefore it makes sense to designate community colleges as economic development centers.

Western Texas College has already responded admirably to fulfilling needs of Snyder's newest industry—the Texas Department of Corrections. It is meeting the training needs of employees and is committed to meeting the educational needs of inmates.

Any way you slice it, WTC and its staff are valuable community assets. There are hundreds of towns in this state that would "give their eyeteeth" for such an asset.

Area child care providers training slated March 11

Persons who operate child care facilities or keep children in their homes can sharpen their skills and gain new ideas to help them in their day-to-day tasks by attending a conference March 11 in Lubbock.

The program will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. at the educational building of the Broadway Church of Christ, 1924 Broadway, Lubbock. Course completion will provide participants six contact hours toward state required training.

The training conference is being presented by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with the assistance of several other state and community agencies. It will stimulate professional growth and provide an exchange of ideas and technical information to help child care providers.

Information and advance registration is available at the county extension office. Please contact Kathryn Roberts at 573-5423 for additional information.

Miller to speak to SPE members

Reservoir engineering consultant William C. Miller will speak to the Snyder chapter of the Society of Petroleum Engineers (SPE) at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 15, at the Country Club. Tickets are $7 each and recipients of the RSVP invitations have until noon Monday, Feb. 13, to respond to their invitations.

Miller will address "Infill Drilling: A Potent Factor in Reservoir Management." He is a reservoir engineering consultant for Shell Western E&P Inc. in Houston. During the past 10 years, Miller had led pilot testing, planning and implementation of full-scale EOR projects in West Texas.

Study says Demos could win in south

ATLANTA (AP) — A new study concluded that Democrats could win most of the Southern states in 1992 with only a modest increase in white support if black and Hispanic voters go to the polls in numbers equal to that of white voters.

The study, released Friday by the Southern Regional Council, said that with equal levels of voting, Democrats would have to increase their white support in 1992 by about five percentage points to win in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas and to capture most of the Southern electoral college votes.

The council said the conclusions of the survey counter claims by some white Democratic leaders in the South that the party must make major philosophical changes to attract enough support to win presidential elections.

"The 1988 presidential election returns suggest that the Democratic Party is a lot closer to regaining a large part of the South than many Democrats apparently realize," said SRC executive director Steve Suitts.

"While the Democratic solid South is gone forever, a Democratic victory in the South seems feasible if the party and others give serious attention to increasing the levels of minority registration and turnout."

The SRC, founded in 1944 by a biracial group of Southerners, does research and analysis of registration and voting statistics and describes itself as non-partisan. It created the Voter Education Project, which helped to register some 2 million blacks, in 1962.

"Without a doubt, the Democrats failed to improve significantly their performance in 1988 because they failed to increase the levels of registration and turnout of their most loyal supporters in the South — black voters," the study said.

The council said that while exact data are missing from some areas, minority registration and voter turnout has been 10 to 12 percent below white levels in 11 Southern states in recent years.

The survey, based on data from nearly 1,000 precincts across the South, showed black registration down in 11 of 17 cities surveyed and black voter turnout down in 16 of those 17 cities.

As an example, the survey cited Houston, where an increase of about 5,000 Democratic votes in heavily white precincts was more than offset by a loss of about 24,000 black votes.

It noted that, across the South, Democrats got about 4 percent more white votes than they got in 1984 but lost more than 20 percent of the black votes they had gotten four years earlier.

Suitts said the goal of bringing black and Hispanic turnout to the level of whites is not impossible.

"The data isn't all that great, but 1976, when (President Jimmy) Carter won, suggests that blacks may have voted at a rate equal to that of whites," he said.

SECOND IN FORT WORTH — The Western Texas College meats judging team placed second in Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show competition in Fort Worth. From left are Dave Ince

Meats teams in 2nd place

The Western Texas College meats judging team finished second in the overall competition at the Fort Worth Southwestern Exposition, competing against 11 teams from colleges in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, California and Nebraska.

They fared better than the livestock judging team, which finished 15th in the overall competition on sheep judging out of 32 teams.

Jim Judah is coach for both teams.

In meats judging, the WTC team was first in lamb judging, second in questions and in placings and third in beef judging.

Ben Smith from Hermleigh was high individual in lamb judging, third high in placings and fifth high individual in the overall contest.

Janna Bradford from Lovington, N.M. was second high individual in lamb judging. Shad Cox from Hobbs, N.M. was third high individual in beef grading and ninth high individual in the contest.

Dave Ince from Mason was seventh high individual in the alternates contest and Michelle Cox from San Angelo was tenth. Carl Daugherty of Snyder was the other team member.

For the livestock team, Shane Gann of Snyder was tenth high individual in beef judging out of 160 contestants.

Tiffany O'Brien of Morton was high individual on the team, followed by Shondra Robinson of Snyder. Carl Daugherty of Snyder and Jeff Roemisch of Hermleigh were the other team members.

Waiver sought

OTTAWA (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Friday he was seeking a waiver from the Bush administration to permit him to participate in decisions on Third World debt even while holding stock in a major American lender to developing nations.

But Baker stressed that he would accept any of several options that might be chosen by administration lawyers and ethics specialists.

Landmark beer garden shuts its doors

AUSTIN (AP) — A landmark watering hole for politicians, journalists and lobbyists has closed its doors, but the doors had barely closed when it was revealed that an attempt will be made to open the famed Scholz Garden again.

Jim Cloudt, an attorney representing owners of the property, said Wednesday there have been talks with potential investors, hoping they will take over Beer Garten's lease and continue to operate Scholz.

The potential investors include Larry Bales, a former operator of the restaurant.

The building is owned by Austin Saengurrunde, an organization of about 300 people dedicated to preserving German language and traditions.

"We hope it can be reopened as quickly as possible," he said.

Scholz Garden, located just blocks from the state Capitol, was closed after a federal bankruptcy court hearing.

"There have been a lot of tears," said Michael Osborne, the owner and operator of the famous meeting place.

"I have 35 staff people walking around kind of bewildered," he said.

Osborne, who has owned the restaurant and beer garden for the past two years, said the place has been making money, but the Saengurrunde has increased rent on the property fivefold since 1980.

The investors in Beer Garten Inc. spent $500,000 in 1987 to renovate the building. They gutted walls, installed skylights, spruced up the decor and expanded the menu.

Osborne, president of Beer Garten Inc. said that although the partners were able to raise the cash to finance the renovation, operating revenues fell short of expectations and were insufficient to meet the rent charged by Saengurrunde.

"This last year was the largest grossing year Scholz ever had. I suppose they (Saengurrunde) are just taking the very cold approach that if someone can't pay their rent you just kick them out," Osborne said.

Cloudt said Osborne had fallen several months behind on the rent, totaling $59,000.

He said the Saengurrunde group hopes Scholz will reopen soon. "We hope to find a new operator as quickly as we can," Cloudt said.

Cloudt said.

Stock, bonds rise, dollar falls

NEW YORK (AP) — Worries about rising inflation and interest rates touched off the biggest stock selloff of the year, depressed bond prices and boosted the dollar's value against foreign currencies.

The Dow Jones industrial average tumbled 36.97 points to 2,286.07 on Friday, the biggest drop in the key market indicator since Nov. 16.

An accompanying decline in the bond market was more modest.

Delay sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is asking the Supreme Court to delay Oliver North's trial out of concern the former White House aide will disclose too much classified information in his defense.

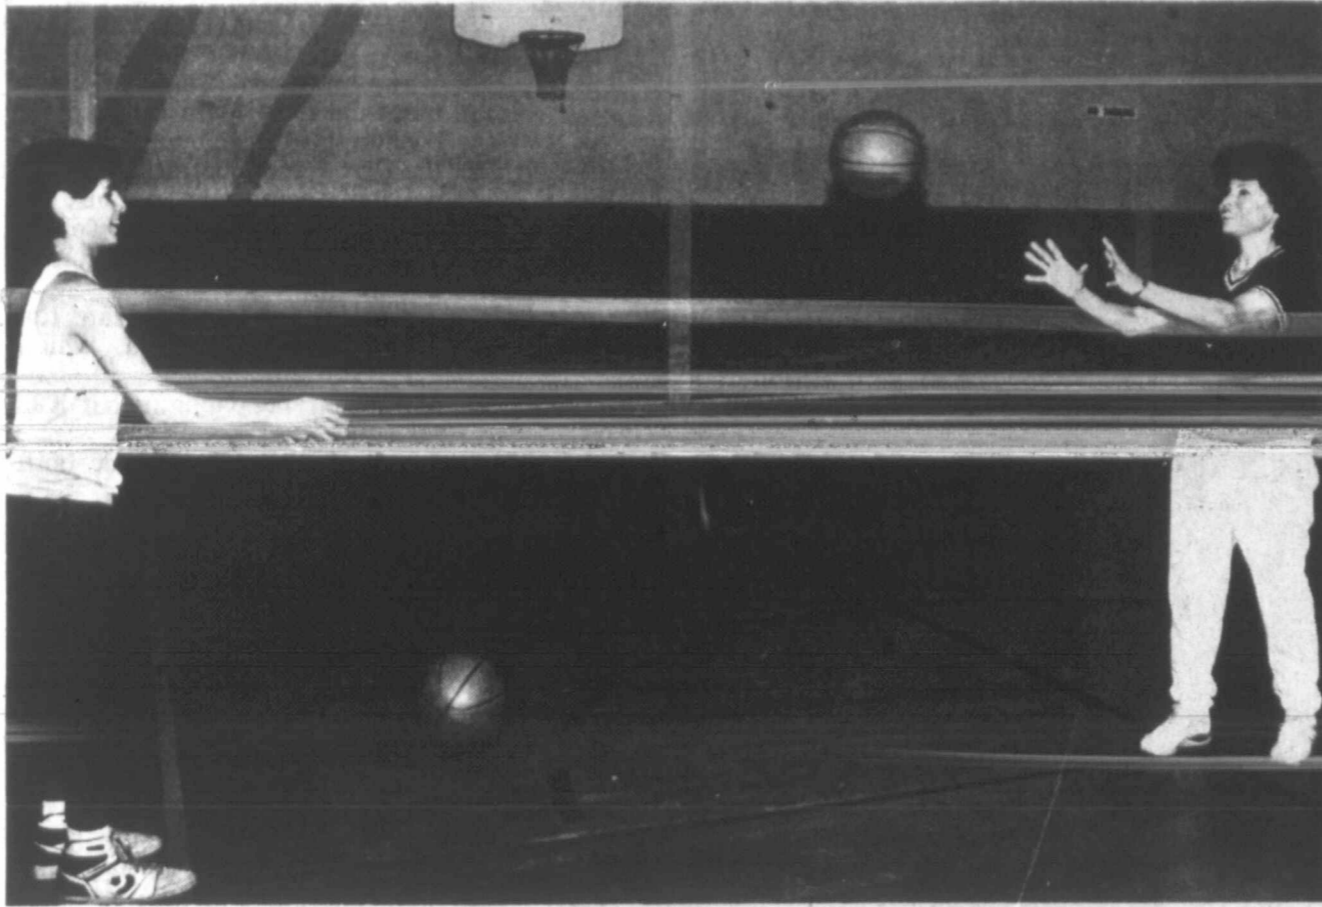

Attorney General Dick Thornburgh announced the department's plans for an appeal Friday after a federal appeals court panel for the second time in two days rejected the department's bid to delay the proceedings.

The appeal was expected to be filed today with Chief Justice William Rehnquist, who has jurisdiction over such matters in this circuit.

Thornburgh said U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell has failed to impose stringent enough controls on what classified material North may use at trial on charges stemming from the Iran-Contra affair.

A jury in the case was chosen Thursday and Gesell asked them to return to court Monday morning.

"Unfortunately, the judge in this case has chosen not to follow the provisions" of the Classified Information Procedures Act, Thornburgh said.

South African government bans all meetings of protest

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government Saturday banned all protest meetings intended to show solidarity with an estimated 300 black detainees waging a hunger strike to protest being held without charge.

The banning order specifically prohibited a protest meeting scheduled this afternoon at a Johannesburg church by civil rights lawyers who represent many of the hunger strikers.

The Detainees Aid Center, a human rights group, said Saturday that two more hunger strikers had been taken to Hillbrow Hospital in Johannesburg, bringing to 13 the number hospitalized this week.

It said the two were admitted Friday, but the hospitalization only became known Saturday after their parents visited them. Three others were admitted Friday. people detained without charge are participating in the strike, which began Jan. 23 at Diepkloof Prison outside Johannesburg and has spread to at least three other cities.

The Center said another striker, Mark Modiba, hospitalized Wednesday, was suffering from pre-renal failure, a serious kidney disorder.

The banning order, signed by Police Commissioner Hennie de Witt, also outlawed all other gatherings protesting against detentions or expressing support for detainees.

"The banning is the act of frightened little men who fondly hope that the problem will now go away," said the Human Rights Commission, formed by anti-apartheid activists last year.

More than 40 Johannesburg lawyers started a 48-hour fast Thursday in solidarity with the detainees. The rally banned Saturday was to mark the end of the fast.

Many of the lawyers gathered at Johannesburg's Central Methodist Church at 1 p.m., the scheduled start of the meeting, to advise would-be participants that it had been banned. Several dozen members of the police riot squad watched from vehicles, and a police video unit filmed lawyers as they spoke with journalists outside the church.

"The fact that the government sees fit to ban this meeting, called by lawyers to discuss problems faced by their clients, goes very far down the road towards the destruction of the rule of law in South Africa," said Jules Browde, a prominent defense attorney.

Stenholm picked chairman again

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Congressman Charles W. Stenholm was re-elected chairman of the Subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy and Poultry this week when the House Agriculture Committee organized for the 101st Congress.

"I'm very pleased to be elected to this chairmanship post again," he said. "It's an honor to have the respect and confidence of my colleagues. With their help, our subcommittee will do its best to fulfill the needs and responsibilities of this industry. Whether as producers or consumers, all of us are affected by the decisions under the jurisdiction of my subcommittee."

The Stamford Democrat has chaired the subcommittee since 1987. With the spotlight on the European ban of American meats and the domestic discussion on meat inspections, Congressman Stenholm's subcommittee will have a busy agenda this Congress.

Along with his duties as chairman, Congressman Stenholm is serving on three other subcommittees within the Ag committee, of which has been a member for 10 years. He is also serving on the following subcommittees: cotton, rice and sugar, tobacco and peanuts and department operations, research and foreign agriculture.

Bunton wanted pay increase

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Judge Lucius Bunton III, the chief federal judge in the Western District of Texas, joined a chorus of Texas judges upset by Congress' failure to enact a pay raise.

Bunton says he may resign if Congress fails to give judges a raise this session.

"(Resignation) certainly is an option that I have. I will make the decision when or if I do anything when I see what Congress is going to do this session as far as the pay of judges is concerned," Bunton told the San Antonio Express-News.

Congress this week rejected a $45,500 pay raise for judges, part of a package of pay increases for federal employees that was recommended by a presidential commission. The raise would have hiked the salaries of some members of Congress and federal judges to $135,000 a year.

"I don't think that's unreasonable," Bunton said. Senior U.S. District Judge D.W. Suttle and Judges H.F. "Hippo" Garcia and Edward C. Prado said the overall quality of federal judges may decline because fewer high-paid lawyers will want to become judges. Bunton pointed out that many lawyers who argue cases before him earn twice or three times as much as a federal judge.

"I think there is a good chance the better-quality lawyers will think twice about wanting to become judges," Prado said. "The quality of applicants might go down."

The three San Antonio federal judges said pay increases for judges and lawmakers should be considered separately. But they said then had no plans to leave the bench over the pay issue.

"I don't think there will be a mass exodus," Prado said. He noted, though, that judges, unlike members of Congress, cannot accept honoraria for giving speeches and must exist strictly on their $89,500 salaries.

Despite not getting the pay raise, federal judges still receive higher salaries than state judges in Texas. The highest-paid state judge, chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court, receives a salary of $80,896.

Consecration set for bishop

BOSTON (AP) — The Rev. Barbara Harris, an Episcopal priest from Philadelphia, today becomes the first female bishop in any major branch of Christianity that traces its leadership back 2,000 years to the time of Christ.

Harris was to be consecrated as suffragan, or assistant, Episcopal bishop for the Boston Episcopal diocese, a relatively obscure position that has drawn world attention because of her gender, background and liberal views.

A large number of bishops were expected to attend the state ceremony at Hynes Veteran Memorial Auditorium, and 2,000 clergy members, lay leaders, ecumenical representatives and civic dignitaries were to march in procession.

The chief consecrator was to be the Most Rev. Edmond Browning, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

Harris would be the first female bishop in a branch of Christianity that believes in apostolic succession — that its leaders are descended from Christ's apostles. Among such denominations are the Roman Catholic Church, Eastern Orthodox churches and the worldwide Anglican Communion, which includes the Episcopal Church.

While her appointment was opposed by some religious leaders because of her gender, Harris has generated controversy for other reasons. She is divorced, lacks a college or seminary degree and is politically outspoken.

In her writings, Harris has not been shy about blasting conservatives in the church she has been designated to help lead.

In an article last April in a liberal church publication, The Witness, the 58-year-old priest took aim at the conservative church Prayer Book Society and the group's plan to monitor votes by liberal clergy members at an Episcopal convention.

Her writings served to fan the controversy surrounding her election last September.

The Rev. Jerome Politzer of the conservative Prayer Book

Society put it bluntly Friday: "A bishop is to be a disciple of Jesus Christ, not Karl Marx. Her hard-line leftist position is not a moderating, reconciling position."

Auburn Traycik, editor of The Christian Challenge, a conservative Episcopal publication, said she objected more to the style than the content of Harris' writings.

"A lot of her stuff shows a distinct lack of charity, a kind of unseemliness," Traycik said. The Christian Challenge published a lengthy article in December detailing some of what the paper's editors believed were Harris' more objectionable writings.

Among others, the publication found unacceptable Harris' description of the Prayer Book Society as "divisive, defiant, deleterious and demonic..."

But not all the targets of Harris' pointed pen take issue with her selection.

Bishop Alden Hathaway of Pittsburgh represents Episcopalians United for Renewal, Revelation and Reformation, referred to by Harris as "the new 3-R bunch." Hathaway said he voted in support of Harris' election.

Hunger strikers are hospitalized

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu and other church leaders said they were considering joining a hunger strike by black detainees demanding they be freed after up to 32 months in captivity or be put on trial.

Meanwhile, the human rights group Detainees Aid Center said three more detainees were taken Friday to Hillbrow Hospital in Johannesburg, bringing to 11 the number hospitalized this week.

About 300 of an estimated 1,000 people detained without charge are participating in the strike, which began Jan. 23 at Diepkloof Prison outside Johannesburg and has spread to at least three other cities.

The Center said another striker, Mark Modiba, hospitalized Wednesday, was suffering from pre-renal failure, a serious kidney disorder.

The strike represents probably the strongest challenge to the policy of detention without trial since President P.W. Botha declared a national state of emergency in June 1986.

The state-of-emergency regulations restrict reporting about unrest, security force actions, treatment of detainees, some forms of protest and statements the government considers subversive.

David Herrell is new administrator at SNC

David Herrell, the new administrator at Snyder Nursing Center, assumed his new duties on Jan. 30 of this year. He and his wife, Juanita, have recently moved to Snyder from Midland where they had been living for the past six months.

Herrell, a native of Dallas, previously had owned a nursing home in Fort Stockton, but he sold it in 1987. In 1980, he first bought into the nursing home and eventually acquired sole ownership. After the sale was finalized, he stayed on as consultant for a short time.

Herrell, who is a graduate of Northeastern Louisiana University, has degrees in both journalism and radio and TV production.

For the past 20 years he has been a part time outdoor writer. He served as the hunting editor for Texas Outdoor Times before its demise. He has also been the outdoor writer for the Fort Stockton Pioneer and the New Braunfels Herald-Zeitung. He is also involved in photography and likes to take outdoor pictures.

Herrell spent six years in New York City involved with the advertising business and was the management consultant/lecturer for American Management Association in Los Angeles, Calif. for 10 years.

The Herrells have two children and five grandchildren. A daughter is a nurse in Tyler and a son is a minister in San Diego Calif. Mrs. Herrell is a nursing consultant.

Despite dealing with illness, it is...

Clutch time for Lady Dusters

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor
Coach Kelly Chadwick, aiming for a regional playoff berth, says this week's basketball games with South Plains College and New Mexico Junior College are crucial.

The Lady Dusters may have to battle sickness as well as their opponents, however.

"In my mind, we have to win both of those games to make it to the regional tournament," said Chadwick, who noted the Dusters have had only a few workouts because of illness.

'In my mind, we have to win both of these games to make it to the regional tournament.'

"We did not work out Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday because we had sickness so bad. It's gone through the whole team except for a few girls," said the coach. WTC's men have also had to contend with illness, which has caused havoc with some of the teams in the conference. Frank Phillips College men reportedly were forced to forfeit last Thursday's game with Odessa because of a flu epidemic.

"I don't see how we can be real sharp without working this (past) week. We may have some kids who aren't well. Certainly we probably won't be 100 percent," said Chadwick.

Ill or not, the Dusters do play a couple of crucial ballgames on ranked earlier in the season.

In a come-from-behind move, Odessa took over the conference summit when the Lady Wranglers defeated Western Texas last Monday. The win put the Wranglers, at one time 0-2 in conference play, at 6-2.

Four other teams, including Western Texas, are tied for second place in terms of losses. Western and New Mexico Junior College are both 6-3 and South Plains and Frank Phillips are 5-3.

Only Howard College, 1-7, and Clarendon, 0-8, are out of the hunt.

The top four finishers in the conference qualify for the regional tournament. Fifth, sixth and seventh place stay home.

Because the computations are still endless - WTC hosts South Plains and New Mexico Junior College, Odessa plays Frank Phillips twice and travels to South Plains who also takes on New Mexico Junior College and Odessa, for instance - it's too soon to tell whether the Dusters must actually defeat both the Lady Texans on Monday and the Thunderbirds on Thursday to claim a tournament berth.

But whether or not they can afford another loss, Chadwick doesn't want to take the chance.

"I think we've got to win these next two games at home because I don't think it's very intelligent to count on somebody else beating somebody else so we can slip in the back door," said Chadwick. "Really, I'd like to win our last three games (The Dusters also play Howard College in Big Spring on Feb. 20.) and get on a roll prior to regional. Also, it would solidify us in second place (in the conference) if we'd win them."

A season-ending sweep would give the Dusters a 22-9 record heading into the Region V Tournament, set for Feb. 28 through March 2 in Waco. The last time the Dusters made it - just two years ago - they went on to finish fourth at the national tournament.

If sickness doesn't bog the Lady Dusters down, Chadwick feels his Dusters have a good chance at finishing the regular season with a strong showing.

"I felt like when we played Odessa the kids played real good and real hard. They had made up mind to go ahead and start playing well everytime. Our attitude was great and our outlook was great and still is great. I think the girls are looking forward to this week. But just how strong we can be, because of illness and missed workouts, that's what's worrying me."

The Dusters tipoff against South Plains on Monday and New Mexico JC on Thursday. Both are set for 6 p.m. and both will be followed by men's games at 8 p.m.

As part of Community College Week, all basketball fans attending the games will be admitted free if they are wearing WTC blue and green colors.

Victory for grieving classmate...

Tigers crunch MHS Loboes, 71-47

By all rights, Snyder's Tigers should have come out flat for Friday's ballgame. None of the usual incentives - making the playoffs, revenge or trying to knock off a top contender - were there. Both Snyder and Monahans were erased from the playoff picture a while back and the Tigers certainly didn't have any feelings of revenge against the Loboes - at least not on the basketball court.

But the Tigers played inspired ball Friday. Perhaps because of a tragic circumstance.

"It would have been real easy not to play well. Some of the kids had Mrs. Cox in class and all of them are good friends with Bert. I would not have blamed them at all. It is a sad situation," said Coach Larry Scott after his Tigers defeated Monahans 71-47. "I think they kind of dedicated this win to her and Bert. It wasn't official or anything, but in the lockerroom the kids said 'This win is for Bert.'"

Brenda Cox, an English teacher at Snyder High School and mother of SHS senior Bert Otto, died suddenly Friday morning. She had been a teacher at Snyder High since the fall of 1973. Bert is a pitcher-infielder for the Tiger baseball team and well-liked by the student body.

Snyder earned its 15th win in 25 outings with patient offense, good defense, and by shutting down all of the Loboes - except Carlton Clark.

"He's definitely one of the top players in the district. We were able to hold our own with some of the other guys but everything he threw up went in," said Scott of the 6-2 player, who scored 31 points. "We were able to control the rest of Monahans' team pretty well."

Scott was right. Only one other Lobo player was in double figures with 10, and six others produced just a half-dozen points between them.

Snyder dominated the boards, 36 to 19, and committed just 9 turnovers.

Snyder's Tracy Braziel, last season's 4-4A Sophomore of the Year didn't match Clark in scoring, but his overall numbers - 21 points, 8 rebounds, 5 assists and 4 steals - were what the Tigers needed. The 6-2 junior scored 11 of his 21 in the second quarter.

Hayward Clay scored 14 points, including 11 in the second half, while Jeff Franklin put in 11 points for the game and led on the boards with 11. Tyrone Durst added 8 points and guards Jason West and Lewis Wesley pitched in 6 each.

Snyder needed the productive night from its guards, who showed good ball movement as well as shooting.

"We knew Monahans was going to sag back inside. Everybody knows our posts are doing most of our scoring so we expect it," Scott noted. "We've worked on being patient and getting the good basket and we did eventually, as we were supposed to."

Snyder led 19-11 at the end of the first half, 38-25 at intermission and held a 57-34 advantage going into the final eight minutes. The win lifted the Tigers to 7-4 in District 4-4A play. Monahans fell to 6-21 for the season and 2-6 in the district.

Another contest played Friday eliminated any hope the Tigers had of making the playoffs. Andrews edged Big Spring 66-60 to move into a tie for the district lead with the Steers. Both are 11-1 in district play now and enjoy a three-game lead over Snyder with just two games left to play.

Next action for the Tigers will be Tuesday as they entertain Sweetwater, 7:30 p.m. at Scurry County Coliseum. A junior varsity contest will start at 6 p.m.

Snyder JV also defeated Monahans on Friday, 54-38. Edward Rios scored 15 for Snyder, Lee Hamilton 11 and Carlton Sanders 10.

Trip to highlight defense and trade

OTTAWA (AP) — Hoping he has put questions about his private bank holdings behind him, Secretary of State James A. Baker III set out Saturday on a weeklong trip to the capitals of the 14 U.S. allies in Western Europe likely to be dominated by defense and trade issues.

For Baker, whose foreign policy experience is slight, the trip beginning in Iceland and winding up Friday in France is a learning experience and a warm-up for a probable NATO summit meeting in the spring.

"It is a listening trip and it is a consulting trip," Baker said Friday at a news conference here. "But I am carrying a message. We want to make it clear the way to approach the East-West relationship is with prudence and with realism. We want you to know we are not dragging our feet, seeking delay for the sake of delay."

Baker said he would solicit the views of the allied governments on how to negotiate strategic nuclear weapons reductions with the Soviet Union and what to do about modernizing NATO's battlefield weapons.

Baker hopes, meanwhile, he has put to rest a potentially ticklish problem over his holdings in Chemical New York Corp. by saying he would "tend to be guided" by whatever conclusions are reached by government ethics lawyers.

The holding company has $4.5 billion in loans to Third World nations, and Baker as secretary of state will be called on to play a leading role in addressing the economic problems of developing countries.

Baker said he would ask for a presidential waiver allowing him to participate in such decisions. But Baker said he would also consider other options, such as selling his stock or changing the terms of the blind trust in which all his holdings have been placed in order to avoid even the appearance of a conflict of interest.

Man who posed as astronaut faces trial

BOSTON (AP) — Robert Hunt scorched some kitchen tiles and told his wife they fell off the ill-fated Challenger space shuttle.

That, police say, was just one prop in Hunt's pose as an astronaut during a period of make-believe that carried him through several states, speaking engagements and marriages.

Now his wife is leaving him and he faces fraud and larceny charges for taking his make-believe too far.

State police arrested Hunt on Jan. 28 in suburban Medford. The 27-year-old plumber's son from Everett is accused of swindling his fourth wife and bride of five months, Ann Sweeney, of up to $50,000 on her company-issued credit card and for taking $4,000 from a Saugus family on the promise he could get their 18-year-old son out of the Navy.

On Jan. 6, calling himself Marine Capt. Robert J. Hunt, the fake astronaut spoke before a group called the Experimental Aircraft Association.

"He was a very good speaker, he entertained us. He held us spellbound for 2½ hours," said Greater Boston chapter president, Lou Pascucci.

Sweeney, 23, a former optical engineer, also believed he was an astronaut.

"I love the person I thought I was married to," she said.

Recalling the day he was unmasked, Sweeney said, "I was shocked. It was almost like watching someone die. He just dissolved, disappeared."

Hunt is being held on $100,000 bail in a Boston jail. His case in East Boston District Court was continued to Feb. 15 after a request for reduced bail was denied. Hunt's attorney, James Cipoletta, could not be reached Friday, but he has said he urged his client not to speak to the news media.

Investigators compiling the story of Hunt's alleged stories say that for the past eight years he has been fooling many people in imaginative ways — in Massachusetts, Florida, Pennsylvania and Ireland.

Montour, Pa., Township Police Chief Robert Lighow said Hunt allegedly rode around Pennsylvania in a limousine seeking models for his baby powder while pretending to be a powder maker. He said Friday that he was investigating charges that Hunt swindled his third wife, a local woman, out of large amounts of money. He would not elaborate. Authorities say Hunt is believed to have been married to two other women.

Harry Doan, the owner of an air service in Daytona Beach, Fla., was convinced by Hunt that he was a Navy helicopter pilot.

Last summer, Hunt chartered a jet to fly with his wife to Montreal, allegedly charging it on his wife's credit card while telling her the flight cost nothing because he was a space shuttle pilot.

In Ireland Oct. 8, he was granted a 10-minute interview with Benjamin Briscoe, lord mayor of Dublin. Briscoe's spokeswoman said the meeting at Mansion House, the official residence, was arranged after Briscoe was told Hunt was a visiting astronaut.

The spokeswoman said when Hunt told the lord mayor that British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher was arranging for him to be married at Westminster Abbey, Briscoe realized Hunt was "not the full shilling," but politely said nothing. Others were completely taken in.

During Hunt's arrest, police searched the apartment and found assorted military paraphernalia, flight jumpsuits and a helmet bearing the insignia of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Translation sought for ranger's motto

DALLAS (AP) — Although Latin scholars differ on the exact translation of Gus McCrae's motto in Lonesome Dove, they welcome the interest in the old language.

"It's a motto ... it just says itself," McCrae explained to his partner, Woodrow F. Call, in Larry McMurtry's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel.

But that didn't satisfy the public, which has been clamoring for an explanation ever since the book became a CBS-TV mini series.

"We got about 15 to 20 calls the day after the final episode," library researcher Marilyn Jackson said Friday.

The motto, "Uva uvam vivendo varia fit," appeared on the sign for the Hat Creek Cattle Company and Livery Emporium.

McCrae didn't know what the motto meant, but thought it would lend some class to the sign.

In the TV show, the motto also became McCrae's epitaph as Call used the remains of the sign to mark McCrae's grave.

Ms. Jackson said library researcher Carl Perkins translated the motto as: "The grape is made manifold by living."

Two Latin scholars offered different views.

"A grape becomes a different kind of grape by living — or in the process of living," said Dr. Bruce MacQueen at the University of Dallas.

"A grape becomes mature by living only as a grape," said Dr. Isaac Tannison, a lecturer of Latin at the University of Texas-Arlington.

MacQueen added that the motto was improperly constructed.

"It contains a mistake that a schoolboy who was learning to write Latin might make," he said.

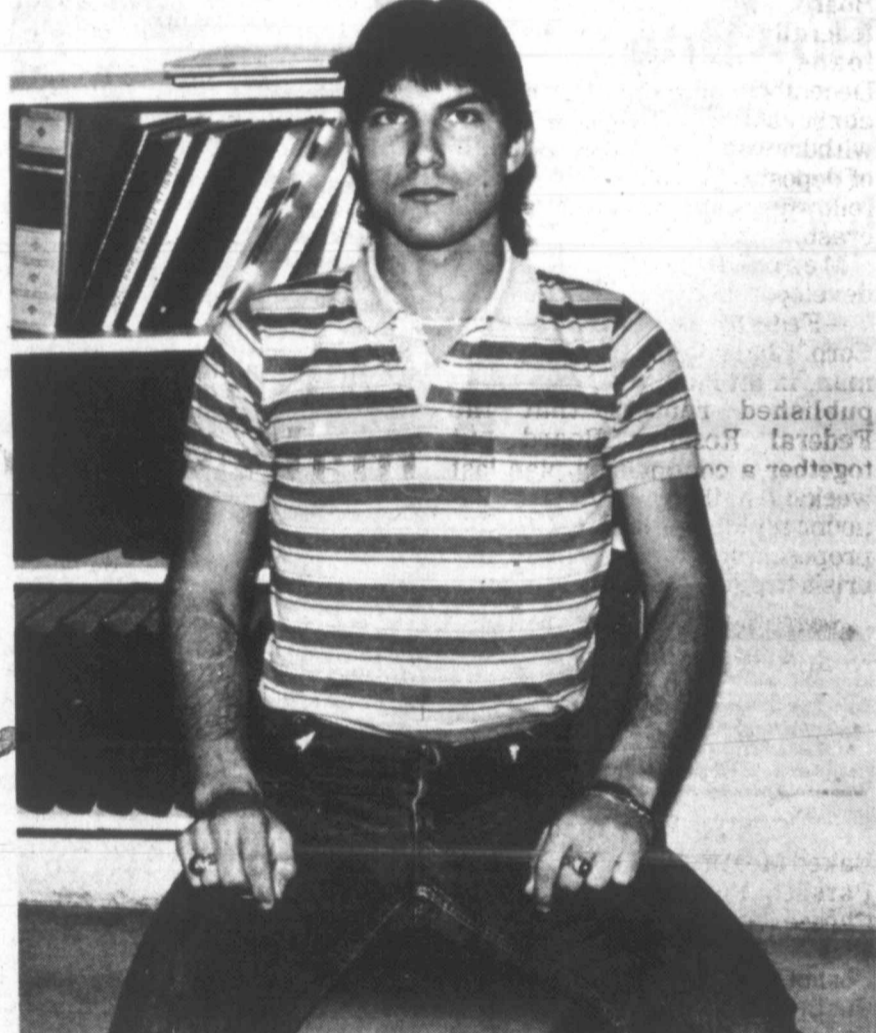

According to MacQueen, the "uvam" should actually be another "uva," making it the nominative case instead of the accusative.

"In Latin, an adjective modifies a certain noun by being in the same case, number and gender," he said.

MacQueen said he was pleased with the interest in Latin aroused by the story.

"We're not going to look any gift publicity in the mouth," he said.

CERTIFICATE OF ACHIEVEMENT—Daniel Ramey, senior at Hermleigh High School, was presented recently with a certificate of achievement for being in the top 10 percent nationwide of all the students who participated in the armed services vocational battery during the 1988-89 school year. Ramey also attended an awards ceremony held in Abilene recently. He was given a $50 savings bond. He is now a semi-finalist for the Coca Cola Scholarship and will now write an essay and complete other information for the final selection of scholarship winners. Ramey has also been notified that he has been selected as one of 2500 students nationwide to receive a full year scholarship with living expenses through the Air Force ROTC if he so chooses. There were approximately 180,000 original applicants in all. (SDN Staff Photo)

Financial Focus

The National Association of Investors Corporation, NAIC, is often mentioned in this column. The reason is that its members, like our readers, are composed of individual investors worldwide—no big corporations, institutions, banks or mutual funds, just average people interested in furthering their investment knowledge and learning how to make money in the stock market.

Each year the NAIC recognizes its All-Star Investment Clubs. Better Investing, the organization's official publication, includes not only statistical data on these top clubs but also interviews with members to learn why they're successful.

This year the annual review was particularly interesting because the results and the reactions included October 19, 1987, Black Monday, the day the stock market seemed to collapse.

How did these investors react to an emotional situation that drove some investors out of the market forever? To begin, one must understand that the NAIC stresses long-term value investing. The principles they encourage members to follow stress active monitoring of investments with the understanding that stocks don't always rise in value. Most NAIC members are conditioned to ride out storms like the one that hit the market last October. These All-Star Clubs demonstrated their confidence by staying in the market and building their portfolio through selective buying.

For example, the ACTIFF, the acronym for a Commitment to Invest for the Future, Investment Club of Portland, Ore., saw Black Monday as an opportunity to "beef up" their holdings with good stocks at bargain prices. Their president, Greg Button, told Better Investing the 5-year-old club averaged a 22 percent annual gain through November 1987. That's an admirable record even for professionals.

The gains, however, were not as significant as how these clubs achieved them. None of the nation's top 16 clubs left investing to chance. A fundamental part of each club is a strict education policy.

The County Employees Investment Club of San Diego, Calif., develops a schedule of topics at the beginning of each year. These are printed and distributed to the membership. It was education and strict investment discipline that, in a meeting shortly after the market's drop, led the club to analyze their position and "to stick with their unwritten rule of not selling unless there's a reason to sell."

Although membership of these top investment clubs is usually made up of both men and women, the Poor's Pupils Investment club is a product of the Dublin, Ohio, Women's Club. These 20 women have become true students of investing by studying stocks. President Ann Bumgarner says the club's objective is "to learn about stocks and to make intelligent decisions." Because of this philosophy, they invested $1,020 after Black Monday. "It was worth $1,800 just six months after the crash," she says.

The overall success of these clubs is an inspiration to individual investors nationwide. They represent men and women in virtually every profession.

President of NAIC's Board of Trustees, Kenneth S. Janke, applauds those clubs that work hard to help their members learn and grow. He sees it as "a formula that leads to financial success."

We agree and add our congratulations.

Avisory Council to buy new kiln

The Senior Center Advisory Council approved the purchase of a new kiln at its noon meeting Wednesday.

The kiln will be used by senior citizens in ceramics classes at the center and will replace an older model which is in need of expensive repairs.

The council was told that the center has recently received a gift of $150 from the Golden K Kiwanis Club, money the club had received for help in a community project. This money was put into the home delivered meals program. The center also received a gift of $216 from Larry Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Falls sponsored a local appearance of the Cathedral Quartet recently and they gave the center the money senior citizens had taken in from ticket sales.

Coming events in the Senior Center will be a Valentine's party on Feb. 14, a St. Patrick's party on March 17 and an Easter party on March 23. The annual Volunteer Recognition Banquet has been set for April 20.

Council member Ruth West said the Senior Citizens Travel Club and other trips are being discussed. The travel group meets in the center on the first Thursday night of each month and new members are invited to attend the next meeting on March 2.

Bill Moss, chairman of the Advisory Council, presided at the Wednesday meeting.

Bhutto arrives for China visit

BEIJING (AP) — Pakistan Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto arrived Saturday in China, beginning her first official visit abroad by following in the footsteps of her late father, who cultivated close ties with Beijing.

Bhutto was greeted by about 200 screaming Pakistani residents at the city's old airport, which is used for important guests.

"Long live Benazir Bhutto," read banners carried by the crowd. "Long Live Pakistan-China Friendship."

In a break with normal procedure, the 35-year-old prime minister did not immediately get in a waiting limousine. Instead, she walked the line of well-wishers shaking hands and saying hi.

"Pakistan's relations with China are very close and friendly," she told China's official Xinhua News Agency in an interview before her departure.

Physician sees no evidence of any abuse of alcohol

WASHINGTON (AP) — any new allegations against Tower and he dismissed suggestions of security breaches by the nominee while he served as a U.S. arms-control negotiator in Geneva.

Dr. R.D. Dignan, a colorectal surgeon at Baylor University Medical Center, said Friday that Tower underwent an extensive medical evaluation, including a complete blood chemistry analysis and an abdominal CAT scan, prior to his Jan. 5 operation to remove a polyp in his colon.

Her opposition to higher rates was revealed in minutes released Friday of the Dec. 13-14 meeting of the Federal Open Market Committee. However, economist Martin Regalia of the National Council of Savings Institutions said the president's effort this week appears to have bolstered confidence in savings institutions.

James Barth, chief economist of the bank board, attributed a large share of the December deposit flow to a single, healthy institution which shrank its deposit base by $3.4 billion as part of a deliberate strategy of substituting lower cost borrowing.

Seidman, in an interview Friday, said administration officials who he declined to name were predicting depositor runs when Bush announced his S&L plan and that the president insisted the Federal Reserve have an emergency plan in place.

Nunn said he was unaware of

"We've found nothing on that," he said.

Senators have said the FBI is checking any links between Tower and defense contractors named in "Operation Ill Wind," the code-name for the federal investigation of alleged corruption in the Pentagon's procurement system.

Senior Center activities noted

The Senior Center's 1989 Valentine King and Queen will be introduced at the center's Valentine party Tuesday. Special music will be provided by the Sunshine Choir before the presentation.

The Valentine King and Queen are elected each year by voting in the center and reign for the year. Robert Allen and his band will play for a Valentine dance in the center Tuesday evening. A covered dish dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. preceding the dance.

Surplus commodities will be distributed through the center Tuesday morning and Wednesday. Senior citizens and handicapped persons are to pick up their food items between 9 and 11 Tuesday morning. Hours for distribution on Wednesday will be 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.

Social Security representatives will be in the center Tuesday to talk to senior citizens and other local residents who have questions or who need assistance. They will return on March 4.

Feb. 12-18 will be Community College Week in Scurry County and senior citizens are invited to attend Western Texas College basketball games in the coliseum on Feb. 13 and 15. Senior citizens are admitted to all WTC's home games free of charge.

AARP's Tax-Aide program is providing free assistance in filling out simple income tax returns for disabled or low income older people in the Senior Center. Interested persons can get their name on the service list by calling the center at 573-4035.

S&Ls had record December withdrawals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Savings and loan customers withdrew a record $8.1 billion from their accounts in December, evidence, economists say, that the industry is being squeezed by higher interest rates.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates 2,955 federally insured savings and loans, said Friday that December marked the eighth consecutive month of net withdrawals, reversing the tide of deposits that poured into S&Ls following the 1987 stock market crash.

Meanwhile, in other developments:

—Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Chairman L. William Seidman, in an interview, confirmed published reports that the Federal Reserve Board put together a contingency plan last weekend in the event that the announcement of President Bush's proposal for the savings and loan crisis triggered depositor runs.

—The FDIC said it has taken control of six more savings institutions, bringing to 10 the number of S&Ls brought under the agency's jurisdiction since Bush gave it that responsibility on Monday.

The December withdrawals, topping the one-month record of $7.0 billion set in November, occurred at a time of mounting publicity about S&L problems. Regulators closed or merged 75 institutions that month.

But Bert Ely, a financial institutions analyst in Alexandria, Va., attributed the development to interest rate movements rather than to nervousness by S&L customers.

He said customers are turning to money market mutual funds and other investments because S&Ls are resisting pushing up interest rates as fast. However, he predicted S&L deposit rates likely would be forced higher as the Federal Reserve Board tightens credit in an effort to dampen inflation.

"Boy, that's hard on the bottom line," he said. "This does not bode well for thrift earnings."

Indeed, one member of the Federal Reserve Board, Martha Seger, dissented from a policy-making board's decision in December to push interest rates higher on the grounds that could aggravate S&Ls' problems.

Erroneous reference makes officials mad

DAWSON, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Joe Frank Harris joined the residents of Dawson in taking offense at Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's erroneous reference in a national address to the south Georgia town's supposed economic woes.

Harris Friday reeled off a scathing telegram to the Texas Democrat, urging the former vice presidential nominee to apologize to "Ms. Ima A. Rude, executive secretary, Terrell County Chamber of Commerce," for having "embarrassed and slighted the good people of Dawson and Terrell County."

In the Democratic Party's response to President Bush's speech to Congress Thursday night, Bentsen told a national television audience that Dawson was an example of a town that has been abandoned by U.S. industry.

Bentsen said: "We're losing good jobs, and that hurts the very fabric of America. A few months ago, in Dawson, Ga., after two plant closings wiping out 2,000 jobs, a high school class was asked where they would settle after graduation. Only two out of 20 wanted to stay in Dawson."

Dawson was a bad example for Bentsen to use, because nothing of the sort has happened there. The senator apparently got his information from an erroneous story in The Wall Street Journal last August.

"Hell, we ain't got 2,000 people employed in the whole town," said Tommy Rountree, editor of the Dawson News.

Phones were ringing off the hook Friday at the Terrell County Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Steve Highsmith lamented a setback to Dawson's efforts to lure industry.

"We need people to promote us, not tear us down," Highsmith said.

The governor's telegram pointed out that there are 1,300 workers in Dawson and Terrell County, and there had been no plant closings.

Rountree said Bentsen apparently was referring to Albany, a larger city about 25 miles away which lost a couple of factories and about 2,000 jobs two years ago.

He speculated that The Wall Street Journal got the towns mixed up last August in an article on the economic woes of small towns in America — an error Bentsen accidentally repeated.

Bentsen's press secretary Jack DeVore said the Journal story was the source Bentsen used in his remarks. He said Bentsen would respond to Harris' telegram when he received it.

Rountree said the local chamber planned to invite the Texas senator to its annual meeting next week to see Dawson for himself.

"He just might take them up on it," DeVore said.

Doctors perform abortion on man's comatose wife

MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP) — Doctors Saturday completed an abortion on a comatose wife whose husband had battled anti-abortion activists to the U.S. Supreme Court to become her guardian.

"The procedure has been completed," announced Carol Hauptman, a spokeswoman for North Shore University Hospital, where Nancy Klein has been since a Dec. 13 car accident that left her comatose.

"Mr. Klein is very happy the procedure is completed. He has other things to do to go on with his life," a spokesman for Martin Klein, an Upper Brookville man who sought guardianship of his 32-year-old wife.

The hospital confirmed the spokesman's announcement at about 9:40 a.m.

Mrs. Klein, 32, was 18 weeks pregnant. Her husband on Jan. 26 sought to be declared guardian of his brain-damaged wife so he could authorize the abortion that doctors said might save her life. A judge granted his request.

But the activists blocked the abortion at each court level until Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall on Friday turned down their request for a stay of the lower court ruling declaring Klein his wife's guardian.

"Tough battle but we won it," Klein said Friday by telephone from his home in Upper Brookville on Long Island. "We can now turn our attention to trying to help Nancy."

John Short, a Farmingdale anti-abortion activist who had helped block Klein's guardianship, also had asked conservative Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia to intervene because "they are criminally assaulting her and killing her child."

Around 6 p.m. Friday, doctors gave Mrs. Klein medication that is routinely administered about 12 hours before a second-trimester abortion is performed, said Carol Hauptman, a hospital spokeswoman.

She said it was unclear what effect the abortion would have on Mrs. Klein.

"In her condition, puncturing a pimple is dangerous," Ms. Hauptman said. "She's in guarded condition and the status of her life neurologically is very precarious. It's terrible — really, really tragic."

Outside the hospital Friday, a lone anti-abortion protester carrying baby clothing and clutching a rosary and cross was arrested for trespass after he lay down in front of the front door, Ms. Hauptman and police said. He refused to give his name to authorities.

On Thursday, Appellate Division judges said that previous New York state court decisions had established that strangers will not be appointed legal guardians unless no one in the family can serve in that role.

"Klein was fully capable of handling his wife's affairs," the lower state appeals court said.

The next day, the seven judges of the New York Court of Appeals in Albany, the state's highest court, declined to review the original decision by Judge Bernard McCaffrey that named Klein guardian of his pregnant wife.

The anti-abortion activists, Short and John Broderick, were rebuffed again when Marshall, who has jurisdiction over New York, turned down their request for a stay without comment.

Short said they would attempt to continue the case even after the abortion is performed so questions raised by the case can be resolved.

BRENDA COX

Brenda Cox

Services for Brenda Sellars Cox, 40, of Dermott Route, Snyder will be at 2 p.m. Sunday at the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. Wylie "Buff" Hearn, pastor of First United Methodist Church. Burial will follow at Snyder Cemetery under the arrangements of Belle-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

Theta Kappa members on Sunday, doubleheader basketball games on Monday and Thursday, the presentation of Mr. and Mrs. Trailhand Monday, a volleyball game between campus and town teams on Tuesday, vocational nursing graduation on Feb. 16 and Fine Arts Day next Saturday, Feb. 18.

WTC will dismiss classes next Friday since many faculty members will be attending the annual Texas Junior College Teachers Association (TJCTA) convention in Fort Worth.

Marilyn Lancaster, an associate professor for English, will seek election as secretary of the organization at the convention.

The WTC Westerners and Lady Dusters will be playing their final home games of the season on Monday and Thursday. The new Trailhands will be introduced at the half of the Westerner games Monday.

Students in Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira schools have been invited to attend the game on Monday free of charge, with students in junior high and elementary school to be accompanied by an adult.

On Thursday, all fans wearing WTC's colors of green and blue will be admitted free of charge. Those junior high or elementary age must be accompanied by an adult.

The public is invited also to watch the volleyball game set to begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the college gym. There will be no charge for admission and refreshments will be served.

Vocational nursing students will be receiving diplomas or caps in ceremonies Thursday. The program will begin at 7 p.m. in Trinity United Methodist Church and the public is invited to attend.

Next Saturday, area high school students and their parents are invited to the Fine Arts Day program. They will tour campus facilities and receive information about Fine Arts offerings as well as financial aids available. The Fine Arts Division will be offering more than $12,000 in scholarships for the 1989-90 school year.

WTC officials point out that Texas has the second largest total community college headcount enrollment in the nation, according to the most recent survey by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges.

Community colleges enroll 67 percent of all freshmen and sophomores and 47 percent of all students in Texas public higher education. Texas' public community colleges rank 41st in the nation in the average amount of tuition and fees charged.

More than half a million Texans attend community colleges. The state's 49 public community colleges had a fall 1988 enrollment of more than 346,000 students in college credit courses, making community colleges the fastest-growing segment of Texas public higher education.

Bush meets with Mulrone

OTTAWA (AP) — President Bush, declaring he wants to strengthen U.S.-Canadian friendship, promised on Friday that there would be speedy American action on curbing border-crossing acid rain pollution.

Bush, on his first foreign trip as president, said no specific timetable was set in talks with Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulrone on when acid rain-causing emissions from U.S. plants would be curbed.

But, he said he was committed to "move as fast as possible" on the new initiatives he outlined Thursday in his speech to Congress.

"I have an obligation to move forward with specifics," Bush said in an outdoor news conference with Mulrone after a working lunch at the prime minister's residence.

Congressman: super collider will have tough road ahead

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Supporters of the super collider will have a tough time convincing Congress to spend the $206 million to $250 million requested for the project in President Bush's budget, says U.S. Rep. Mike Espy, D-Miss.

"If you ask me if we have $200 million this year, I would tell you no," Espy said during a congressional panel at the International Industrial Symposium on the Super Collider in New Orleans.

But at a news conference afterward he said he didn't mean start-up money for the world's biggest atom-smasher hasn't got a chance of getting the money from Congress.

"I wouldn't say I'm throwing ice water on it. I think we're going to sweat about it some," said Espy, a member of the House Budget Committee.

Where, he asked, will Congress find $250 million for the super collider without imposing new taxes and while both cutting the deficit and finding money for Bush's initiatives in housing, drugs and other high-profile areas.

Other members of the panel — Reps. Jimmy Hayes, D-La., Jim Chapman, D-Texas, Joe Barton, D-Texas, and Carl Pursell, R-Mich. — agreed the proposal will be hard-fought. But they said they think it will pass.

Bush's budget asks for actual spending of $206 million on the SSC — short for superconducting super collider. But he recommends the program be allowed to spend up to $250 million in fiscal 1990 if the money is available, and $250 million was the figure used by the congressmen.

"We do not have enough money in the committee to squeeze it out of existing programs," said Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Mich. and a member of the House Appropriations Committee. "Shifting some money from the Defense Department will help in civilian appropriations."

And he said some members of that committee think Bush's $5.9 billion total cost estimate is far too low. "Some members of the committee think it's going to cost $8 billion in the long run," said Pursell. "I look for a major policy fight — maybe not this year but next year, because the squeeze is going to be tighter."

"It's not going to be easy," agreed Rep. Joe Barton, D-Texas, whose district includes the site near Waxahatchie chosen for the super collider. But, he said, he thinks this is the year Congress will authorize the project.

The president and the delegation from Texas are powerful backers, Espy noted.

"We have a couple of 800-pound gorillas in George Bush, (House Speaker) Jim Wright, (Senate Finance Committee Chairman) Lloyd Bentsen," he said, going on to list several other members of the delegation.

And he said he'd like to be able to find the money for the SSC. "I wish it was there. Someone needs to come and show us how it can be found," he said.

He said his district, the nation's third-poorest, is still close enough to Texas that it might get some small business contracts connected to the super collider. Even some high-technology firms might move to Mississippi, he said. And its proximity would prompt students to study math and science, he said.

Pursell said the super collider would stimulate education in math and science and keep the United States competitive with other nations.

"If we don't continue to lead in scientific technology, we'll become a second-rate nation. If we become a second-rate nation, we cannot afford to help the state of Louisiana or any other state," said Hayes.

Jury returns guilty verdict in slayings

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A jury found a man guilty of capital murder Friday in the slayings of 14 family members whose bodies were discovered in his house, in trash bags or buried.

R. Gene Simmons, who already faces the death penalty in two other slayings, didn't visibly react to the verdict but several people in the courtroom applauded.

The jurors, who deliberated more than four hours, will decide whether Simmons is sentenced to death or life imprisonment without parole. Immediately after the verdict, Johnson County Circuit Judge John S. Patterson began instructing the jury on the sentencing phase.

Simmons, 48, has already been sentenced to die for the slayings of two people during a 40-minute shooting rampage on Dec. 28, 1987, in Russellville. After his arrest, authorities searching his home near Dover found the bodies of Simmons' wife, his seven children, two of the children's spouses, and four grandchildren. They had all been shot or strangled.

As the jury deliberated, Simmons' attorney, Robert E. Irwin, said he had received Simmons' permission to appeal if he was convicted.

Simmons had waived appeal on his earlier conviction.

In his closing statement, defense attorney John C. Harris said there was no evidence that placed Simmons at his home at the time of the deaths nor any evidence that he personally fired the gun he gave police when he was arrested.

By Shirley A. Gorman

Bud Shaw of Snyder retired from Southwestern Bell on December 31, 1988, after a little more than 42 years of service.

During that entire period, he notes with pride, he never missed a day's work due to a profession-related injury.

Shaw went to work for Southwestern Bell on Oct. 7, 1946. Born and reared in Hermleigh, he first secured a job with the telephone company and then traveled to Fort Worth where he attended a pole climbing school for three weeks.

Following that training period, Shaw was transferred to Lubbock where he spent approximately 13 months as a lineman on an unlocated construction gang. Part of his duties then covered new cable and telephone wires, he said.

Then Shaw transferred to Snyder where he became an installer/repairman for Southwestern Bell. He also did various repair jobs as well.

In those days Shaw said Snyder's population was between 3,000-4,000 people. He spent about 10 years in that position before becoming an exchange repairman. For the next 15 years, he repaired telephone cables and malfunctioning telephones.

Then after the titles were changed, Shaw became an exchange repairman and held that post until he retired.

Of all the positions he held with the phone company, Shaw said he liked cable repair the best.

Shaw has nothing but praise for Southwestern Bell. "It was a great company to work for and I met a lot of nice people," he said.

During the oil boom of the 1950s, Shaw said he and another man were the only field employees and the demand for phone service was so great that they couldn't keep up with it. During that period, the telephone operators were located above Stinson's Drug Store. They later moved to the then new offices on 27th Street.

After the boom, things "slowed down and tapered off," Shaw said.

Shaw said he first applied to Southwestern Bell for a job because he thought "it would be a good company to work for."

After he applied, he did not hear anything from the company for a week. Then company officials called him and said he had to report to Abilene for a physical. He was 20 years old at the time.

Shaw said they were always very safety conscious and wore hard hats and safety glasses when in the field.

Shaw said that as the years passed, Southwestern Bell improved its operations and established better lines which served more people. More field employees were added also.

Throughout the years, Shaw was based in Snyder, but he traveled to surrounding jobs on phone company business. He said he liked working in the field because he couldn't stand being hemmed up in an office.

Outdoor work did have its drawbacks, such as a big ice storm which struck in the 1940s, downing all the toll circuits from Snyder to Sweetwater.

Today, he said, more cables are buried so wind and ice storms don't cause as much damage.

Shaw remembers that "many times I got out in bad weather to repair the telephone lines."

Shaw was raised on a farm in Hermleigh and during his growing up years he remembers going out into the field to pick cotton, which was his family's staple crop. It was hard, back-breaking work and when Shaw finished high school, he decided that he had had enough of farming. Eventually he applied to Southwestern Bell for a job.

Shaw had two brothers, one older and one younger than him. One brother is deceased.

Now that he is retired, Shaw said that he has enough work around the house to keep him busy. In his spare time, he also likes woodworking and carpentry work such as furniture repair. He said his uncle was a carpenter and cabinet maker and that he taught him all he knows today.

Shaw and his wife, Ruth, have been married 30 years.

HOW DO YOU LIKE YOUR DENIM?

The popularity of denim clothing is a wonderful example of the old saying that "you can't please all of the people all of the time." For every person who likes faded denim, there seems to be another who is unhappy about creases, streaking or color loss.

Denims always lose dye. Changes in most denim fabrics are inevitable because they're indigo piece-dyed fabrics. The dye is applied in a heavily concentrated form so the residues are mostly on the surface of the fabric. Friction with the body, rubbing or mechanical action during laundering will dislodge the dye particles from clothing.

The loss of color will be most apparent on creases, double seam thicknesses and edges, since they receive greater abrasion. Heavy denim lacks draping capabilities and retain the same position of creases in the washer and dryer. This also contributes to color loss and streaking.

So what if you don't like the creases and streaks? They can't be eliminated, but you can reduce them. Turn the garment inside out for washing if it's not heavily soiled. Underload the washer, increase the water level and shake out the garment before putting it in the dryer.

Another alternative is to buy jeans made from a polyester-cotton blend. The dyes used on blends are different from the dyes used on 100% cotton, and are less likely to fade.

Do you like the faded, streaked look for your jeans and other denim clothes? If you do, you can save some money by purchasing regular denim cloth or clothes and fading them yourself.

At least two companies are marketing products for fading denim clothing. "Fast Fade for Jeans" is made by the Rit Company. It's a concentrated pre-wash that softens and fades in one washing. It's manufactured by Malco Products, Inc.

Bleaching jeans will weaken the fibers, so they will not be as strong and durable as they were before the bleaching process. Commercial pre-wash products may also have a similar effect.

Rubbing wet denim with a pumice stone or rubbing an emery board on seam edges, pockets and other areas to produce a stone-washed or worn look also weakens the fabric in those places.

However, people who like the faded look will gladly trade durability for fashion.

Women suppress their anger, men vent theirs, study shows

FOREST GROVE, Ore. (AP)—How people handle anger varies with gender, according to studies by a Pacific University psychology professor.

Women experience anger in response to many of the same circumstances as men and may even experience similar levels of anger, says Dr. Mary Kay Biaggio, but they are prone to suppress and internalize their anger while men tend to externalize theirs.

"The cost of this suppression may for many women be lowered self-esteem, a sense of powerlessness and fear of responding to or of even recognizing a provoking or unfair condition that causes the anger in the first place," she says.

For example, if a supervisor criticizes an employee for a trivial matter, male employees would be more likely than females to view their supervisor as unreasonable and to consider the incident their supervisor's fault. Women would be more likely to blame themselves for the criticism and to attempt to correct the problem.

Though individual men and women may respond in a variety of ways to this type of provocation, Biaggio's research suggests that there will be some differences, in general, between the sexes in how they construe such provocation.

When men have aggressive impulses, they are expected to express them by showing anger, while women are encouraged to suppress their own anger.

Biaggio, program director and professor at the Oregon Graduate School of Professional Psychology who has studied anger for nearly 10 years, used two experiments in her study.

In a field study, 72 college students recorded all of their anger arousing incidents for two weeks. Categories of provoking incidents and of the feelings they aroused were developed.

The men reported more provoking incidents than did the women, and men had more incidents stemming from annoying or ignorant persons. The women reported more anger in response to criticism or rejection, and they listed more feelings of hurt.

In a laboratory study, 51 college students imagined one neutral and three anger-provoking scenes and reported the extent to which they would experience anger if the scenes were real.

The only gender difference found in this study was that men reacted to criticism with greater feelings of hostility and hate.

"In the real world," Biaggio says, "it may be the case that men are more likely to respond to irritations with anger and that women are more prone to inhibit feelings of anger when subjected to real life provocations.

"In the laboratory setting, women may not have felt the need to censor their reactions."

Daughters of the American Revolution give students Good Citizenship Awards

GOLDEN YEAR — Ira Luther and Mildred Wilson will celebrate 50 years together with a reception Feb. 19 from 2-5 p.m. at 2208 Towle Park Road. The event will be hosted by their children, Ted and Doris Smithe, Kenneth and Jan Pierce, Jimmy and Dolly Batchelor of Simms, and Lynn and Linda Wilson of Ft. Worth, and their grandchildren. Ira was born in Denton and Mildred in Graham. They married Feb. 18, 1939, in Walters, Okla. The couple moved to Snyder in 1950 where Ira was employed in the oilfield and by N.L. McCullough Tools before his retirement. They have 14 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. (Private Photo)

The Daughters of the American Revolution hosted a George Washington Tea Saturday at Martha Ann Woman's Club with special honors going to the DAR Good Citizens, Bert Otto and Holly Joplin.

The annual awards are given by the chapter to a local high school boy and girl who have displayed exemplary conduct, high academic standards, and patriotic involvement.

BERT OTTO

Bert Otto, the son of Mike Otto and Alvis Cox and the late Brenda Cox, is a senior at Snyder High School and has played baseball for 10 years with four on the varsity team. He has attended Mickey Owens Baseball Camp in Miller, Mo. for five years.

Otto is the girls' Basketball Sweetheart and is a member of First United Methodist Church. He plans to continue his education at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. His grandparents are Bert T. Sellars and the late Jo Sellars.

Holly Joplin is the current National Honor Society vice-president and Student Council member. She is the president of Gay 20's Club and was public relations chairman in 1987-'88.

Joplin won first place in the

district on the UIL typing team and received school honors for two years. She is on the UIL spelling team with school honors in 1986 and '87 and was the winner of a school-wide spelling bee in 1987-'88.

Currently, she is on the literary criticism and ready-writing UIL teams.

Joplin has been a piano student for eight years with various awards in area contests and eight Guild certificates. She is a member of St. John's Episcopal Church and accompanies the Senior Center Sunshine Choir. She also participates in other Senior Center activities.

A senior at SHS, Joplin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert

C. Joplin. Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. Sig Line and Mrs. J.D. Hinton. Mrs. Bernard Longbotham is regent of the chapter.

Napping is healthy

NEW YORK (AP) — A nap a day could save your life, according to an article in a recent issue of Parade magazine.

A study at the University of Athens Medical School points to the benefits. Researchers compared Greek men hospitalized for coronary heart disease with Greek men hospitalized for other reasons and concluded that those who nap at least 30 minutes a day are 30 percent less likely to suffer heart problems than those who don't nap.

"Our society looks down on naps," says David Dinges, a psychologist at the University of Pennsylvania who specializes in the study of napping. "We regard time as money and see napping either as wasteful and self-indulgent or as a sign of a mental or physical defect."

Despite the stigma, Dinges says about one-third of Americans do nap at least once a week, and 55 percent of college students nap regularly.

Lindsey, Powell say vows

COLORADO CITY — Tori Donn Lindsey and Jardy Powell were married at 3 p.m. Dec. 31 at Calvary Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are Donny and Dale Lindsey, previously of Snyder, and Roland and LaRue Powell, all of Colorado City.

Johnny Lindsey of Andrews, uncle of the bride, performed the double-ring vows before an altar decorated with brass candelabra holding red candles and accented with poinsettia and greenery.

Poinsettia and green bows marked the pews. A brass archway decorated with greenery and candles completed the setting.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of candlelight satin. The fitted bodice was accented with lace and featured a large, lace collar and a dropped V-back. A large, satin bow accented the back of the skirt.

The cascading bridal bouquet was of red roses and baby's-breath.

Musical selections included "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Song" sung by Leigh Ann Scifres of Normal, Ill., cousin of the groom. "In Moments Like These" was sung by Jake and Barbara Chaney. Maxie Scifres, the groom's aunt, provided piano accompaniment. Maid of honor was Julie McPhaul of Ft. Worth. She was attired in a red satin tea-length dress and carried white roses accented with baby's breath.

MRS. JARDY POWELL

Bridesmaids were Becky Westbrook of Lubbock, Becca Mann of Colorado City, and Tracy Cantrell of Midland, cousin of the bride. They wore gowns and carried bouquets matching the honor attendant's.

Ring bearer was Jerret Wilbourn. He wore a black tuxedo with green bow tie and cummerbund.

Bree Ann Sheppard of Lamesa, cousin of the groom, and Cole Lindsey, brother of the bride, were candlelighters. Bree Ann wore a green satin gown and Cole wore a black tuxedo with green accents.

Vardy Powell, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Stacey Tarter of Colorado City, John Mayo of Lubbock, and Dennis Rivera of Lubbock.

Brandon and Blaine Sheppard of Lamesa, cousins of the groom, served as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church family center. The bride's table was centered with red and off-white roses. A four-layer cake decorated with fresh red and white roses highlighted the table.

The groom's table held a cake made in the shape of a softball field.

Servers were Cindi McElroy, Leigh Ann Scifres, Shelley Crites, and Vickie Rangeley.

Following a honeymoon trip to San Antonio, the couple makes their home in Lubbock where the groom is employed by Caraway, McMahon and Co., CPAs. He is a graduate of Texas Tech University with an accounting degree.

Pruet, Hammack...

Couple united in marriage

CLOVIS, N.M. — Marsha Elease Pruet of Abilene became the bride of James Michael Hammack of Abilene at 4 p.m. Nov. 26 in the Central Baptist Church. Rev. Randy Gressett of Abilene officiated the double-ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips Pruet of Clovis and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace Hammack of Snyder.

The church was decorated in a Victorian Christmas setting with holiday greens, and Christmas trees decorated in tiny lights and topped with old rose taffeta and ecru lace ribbons which draped the branches. The altar was flanked by white poinsettia trees and candelabra accented in Christmas greens.

Corene Sparks of Ft. Worth and Jack Pruet of Denver, Colo. were candlelighters.

Doris Tankersley of Clovis, N.M. provided piano accompaniment and Susie Kessler of Clovis played the organ. Vocalists were Joe Bolin of Amarillo and Laura Long of Abilene. Selections chosen were "In This Very Room," "Somewhere in the World," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Household of Faith."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a formal gown of candlelight antique satin. The sweetheart neckline was a cascade of seed pearls and tear drops with a yoke of lattice work in the front and back.

The fitted bodice came to a point in the front and back and held a full skirt and cathedral-length train with designs of lattice work, seed pearls and a hem of scalloped silk Venise lace.

The bride's headpiece was a wreath of silk roses and pearls with a two-tiered illusion veil. She carried a white Bible that her mother carried in her own wedding. It was topped with the wedding bouquet of white bridal roses, gardenias, stephanotis, and baby's breath accented with lace and pearls.

She also carried a handkerchief belonging to the groom's great-grandmother.

Leanne Pruet of Daytona Beach, Fla., sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were D'Lane Sullinger of Tempe, Ariz., Leah Rucker of Hereford, and Laura Long of Abilene. The attendants wore identical dresses of wineberry velvet and taffeta in tea length. They carried bouquets of burgundy lilies, old rose carnations and baby's-breath tied with ecru lace ribbon and pearls.

Courtney Hart of Clovis, N.M. was flower girl. She wore a dress of wineberry velvet accented by a panel of ecru lace down the back.

Brad Hart of Clovis, N.M. was ring bearer and was attired in a grey tuxedo with burgundy cummerbund and tie.

Phil Roberts of Hurst served as best man. Groomsmen were David Zylburfuden, Rob Wiley of San Antonio, Wes Watters, James Bostick, brother-in-law of the groom, and Jack Pruet, brother of the bride.

The groom was attired in a grey tuxedo with black cummerbund and tie and a white bridal rose boutonniere. Groomsmen wore grey tuxedos with burgundy carnation boutonnieres.

MRS. JAMES MICHAEL HAMMACK

Pam Carpenter of Farwell registered guests at a table covered in antique lace. A hurricane lamp with Christmas greenery and old rose ribbons complemented the table.

At the reception, the bride's table was covered in a floor-length cloth of ecru embroidered georgette. The four-tiered bridal cake was off-white and trimmed in roses and pale pink lilies. A Precious Moments bride and groom figurine topped the cake.

Cascading from the confection were ecru satin ribbons attached to a gold charm. Bridal attendants each pulled a ribbon with the charm depicting their future. A bouquet of burgundy snapdragons, carnations, roses and lilies in a silver compote and a silver punch bowl completed the table appointments.

Hors d'oeuvres were served from a table covered in an ecru cut-work cloth. Serving were Mary Beth Pruet of Denver, Colo., sister-in-law of the bride, and Pam Carpenter.

The groom's table was covered with an ecru cut-work cloth. A black forest cake decorated with chocolate roses was accented by a silver coffee service and a wedding sampler made by the bride which was displayed on an easel. Servers were Kay Bostick of Houston, sister of the groom, and Debbie Souter of Joplin, Mo., cousin of the bride.

Following a skiing trip to Breckenridge, Colo., the couple is at home in Abilene.

The bride is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University with a bachelor's degree in education. She is employed by Abilene ISD.

The groom was graduated from Snyder High School and Hardin-Simmons University and is a master's candidate at HSU. He is employed with First State Bank of Abilene.

Tower nomination hanging as Congress leaves town

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Tower's nomination as defense secretary was in limbo Friday as Congress left town for a week-long recess, with many Democrats saying they need answers to questions about Tower's conduct before they can make a decision.

Tower, meanwhile, didn't shy away from the spotlight, appearing Thursday night with President Bush at a joint session of Congress where Bush unveiled his budget for fiscal 1990, including a slowdown in defense spending.

White House aides said Tower has been advising Bush on military and budget issues, and sat next to Bush at a Cabinet meeting to review the new budget.

Nunn, who has said he could not support Tower if a formal vote were taken Friday, repeated on Thursday that he needs additional information.

Since Bush nominated the 63-year-old Tower, the former arms control negotiator has been dogged by allegations of womanizing and excessive drinking. Tower, who has been divorced twice, says he drinks modestly, usually a little wine.

Records on file at the Federal Election Commission show that Tower received campaign contributions for his unfulfilled 1984 election race from at least two men who have been named in federal affidavits released in the Ill Wind case.

Tower, who opted not to run in 1984, received a $500 campaign contribution from Charles F. Gardner, a retired Unisys Corp. employee.

supported by his partner, and when North's opening bid of one club suggested that clubs belonged to the opponents? The answer lies in the common-sense meaning of East's cue-bid. If East is going to cue-bid an opponent's suit to show a strong hand in support of spades, he should bid where his strength lies. So, if he has club controls, he cue-bids clubs; if he has heart controls, he cue-bids hearts. Here, since his three-club bid showed something in that suit, it became right for West to lead a club against an eventual heart contract. That resulted in 500 for East-West, a good result since four spades would be set with repeated heart plays by the defenders.

American men weigh more

NEW YORK (AP) — American men are more likely to be overweight than their British or Canadian counterparts, especially at younger ages, says the Nutri-System Health & Information Bureau.

A study carried out by the National Center for Health Statistics and a Canadian government health agency revealed that 40 percent of American men are overweight while 12 percent are obese. In Britain the corresponding numbers are 35 percent and 8 percent and in Canada, 38 percent and 9 percent, respectively. Women also are heavier in the U.S., except among those aged 20 to 24. "It is perhaps more than coincidental that the rank of the three countries on excessive weight corresponds to their relative levels of affluence," say researchers.

In contrast to the Democrats, Republicans rushed to support Tower, saying that he was the victim of unfounded allegations and rumors.

After Bush's speech, Congress adjourned until Feb. 21, the first day the Senate Armed Services Committee could vote on the nomination of Tower, a former Texas senator and one-time chairman of the panel.

Tower would have to be confirmed by the full Senate before he could officially take control of the Pentagon, which is being run on an acting basis by William H. Taft IV, deputy defense secretary under former President Reagan.

Senate leaders agreed late Thursday to bring Tower's nomination to a floor vote in an expedited fashion after the holiday, assuming investigators have finished their work, according to Walt Riker, a spokesman for Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas.

Others in the meeting were Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell of Maine, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the armed services committee, and Sen. John Warner, R-Va., the panel's ranking Republican. One deadline, facing the new defense secretary is arriving within 60 days at specifics on how to achieve $6.4 billion in reductions in Pentagon spending. Bush's spending plan cuts that amount from the Reagan administration budget unveiled last month.

Our suit or theirs?

Here is a deal with all the requisites of a fencing match — thrust, parry and riposte. After West backed in with one spade, North raised hearts, and East showed a strong hand for his previous pass by cue-bidding clubs in support of spades. When South bid five hearts over East's four-spade bid, West was not 100 percent sure of beating that contract, but because South had been willing earlier to stop at three hearts, West decided that East's strong cue-bid promised enough to beat five hearts. And surely he did not want his partner to bid five spades. So he doubled.

In a sense, by taking it slow and easy, South had achieved his purpose. And it's easy to see that 11 tricks in hearts would come easy with an opening lead of a spade. Why then did West select the club queen for his opening lead when spades had been vigorously

Wife Fishing for Kind Words Is Tired of Casting the Bait

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure I'm not the only woman with this problem, so maybe you can help many others if you answer this in the paper.

My husband never gives me a compliment. When I ask, "How was dinner?" he says, "I ate it, didn't I?" If I ask, "How was our love-making?" he says, "I come back for more, don't I?"

If I ask, "How do I look (new dress)?" he says, "If I tell you that you look nice, you'll expect it often." Abby, how I long for just one small compliment once in a while — a kind word, a show of affection from this man.

Perhaps someday, somewhere, some other man will discover how hungry I am for a little reassurance, and he will fill that need. Then, my husband will come home from work and I will be gone, and he will never know why.

NEEDY

DEAR NEEDY: Usually those who are unable to compliment others have never been complimented themselves. And those who have never felt loved have difficulty expressing it to others. Don't be so hard on your non-verbal husband. Tell him gently how much you long for a compliment. Don't suffer silently and hope that one day, some other man will discover your need and fill it. Verbalize. It will help your husband to become more verbal.

DEAR ABBY: There are a few things I would like to bring to people's attention about motels, since I live at one and work as a desk clerk there.

A motel is for sleeping, and is not the same as an apartment building! Please check into your room as quietly as possible. Your next-door neighbor may be trying to take a nap. Or he may be staying at the motel because he is working the night shift in the area.

Horn blowing, for any reason, is thoughtless! If you have friends visiting you in your room, please remind them not to blow their horn as they pull away. Of course, that goes for checkout the next morning. Please leave quietly. Don't be the guy who empties his ashtray in front of his motel room. There are receptacles handy for that purpose.

Ah, yes, the pool! Please leave your loud radios in your room. Not all the swimmers want to hear the latest heavy metal rock songs.

If you have a wake-up call, please don't hang up the phone in the desk clerk's ear!

Heed these suggestions, and the desk clerk can say with conviction, "It's been a pleasure serving you."

DESK CLERK

DEAR DESK CLERK: Good tips for guests. And speaking of tips, please leave something for the maid. Her job is one of the most demanding and least rewarding.

DEAR ABBY: I met a charming man at my high school reunion. We had both lost our mates, and had been living in the same city for 30 years and never knew it. He invited me out for dinner. He was a terrific dancer, and I had a delightful time. We had so much in common and hit it off immediately.

He started calling me every morning to find out if I had any plans for the day. Sometimes he'd take me to lunch and we'd go for a drive. He was retired and very well-to-do. We both had grown children with families, so I wasn't available all the time and neither was he. We took several trips together and things were going very well, romantically speaking — but when I was at his home several times his phone would ring and he'd say, "I have company now — I'll call you later." I never thought anything of it.

Then, one night, he called me about 1 o'clock in the morning to say he was having chest pains. I rushed over to his place and drove him to the hospital. He died 16 hours later. I was devastated.

At his funeral, a well-meaning friend of his pointed out a nice-looking woman, my age, who said she was his "fiancee." I couldn't believe it, so I called up this woman to hear her story firsthand.

It seems this man had been courting her before he met me. When I was out of town, he was with her. She told me he had planned to break up with me right after Christmas, marry her in April, and buy her two homes — one in Colorado and the other in Arizona! He had taken her on weekend trips to the same places he had taken me! There's more: He had given us identical Christmas presents!

Abby, what a way to find out how slick this two-timing Romeo was! I never would have believed it if it hadn't happened to me. Needless to say, my grief was short-lived.

IN SHOCK IN COLORADO

DEAR IN: And people ask me if I make up these letters! Poor "Romeo." No wonder his heart gave out.

New stroke drug may also restore learning ability, study reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brains dulled by age may be restored to the quick brightness of youth by a new drug developed for treatment of stroke, Chicago researchers report in a study published today.

Experts at Northwestern University medical school say that a drug called nimodipine was able to reinvigorate aging brains with the fast learning ability of youth in a laboratory test using young and middle-aged rabbits.

The older rabbits receiving the drug "actually learned at the same rate, if not a slightly faster rate, than the young rabbits," said John F. Disterhoft, a cell biology professor who directed the study. "Two-thirds of the control group (older rabbits not receiving the drug) never did learn the task."

He said that although the experiment used only a laboratory test of learning, there is "every reason to believe" that the results would also apply to higher learning skills. Results of the study were published in the journal "Science."

The Northwestern experiment used four groups of rabbits. Rabbits in two of the groups were about 30 months old, about middle age for rabbits. The other two groups were three months old, young adult age for rabbits.
