

City council has first 2 candidates

Mayor Troy Williamson and City Councilman Paul Zeck filed for re-election Monday, the first day for candidates to file in the Saturday, May 6, municipal election.

Williamson, 51, owner of Williamson Auto Supply, has been on the council for five years and is completing his first two-year term as mayor.

Zeck, 58, president of T-Z Industries, is an at-large member of the council, meaning that he runs city-wide.

He was first elected a member of the council in April of 1987. The other at-large council representative, John Johnson, has not yet indicated if he will seek a second two-year term.

As mayor, Williamson will also seek re-election in a citywide ballot.

March 22 is the filing deadline, and there is no filing fee.

Incumbent, former teacher...

Two file for school seats

One incumbent board member and a former school staffer became the first two candidates to file Monday for two at-large positions on the Snyder school board.

Incumbent trustee Ken Branam, 40, pastor of First Baptist Church here, filed for a new term.

Also filing Monday was Sam Robertson, 47, owner-operator of Sam Robertson Insurance and a former Snyder High School band director.

Branam, 40, was first elected in a special election held in April of 1987 as the board reorganized to implement single member districts. Incumbent at-large trustee Luann Bureson, who also faces an expiring term, was elected in the same ballot.

Branam, who resides at 2607 34th St., has been in Snyder for nine years.

Robertson, who lives on Rt. 3, has been in Snyder for 10 years, moving here to accept the post as SHS band director. He resigned that post in May of 1985 to enter private business.

Since the two seats about to expire are elected "at-large," all registered voters in the school district will cast ballots in the upcoming May 6 vote.

For at-large positions, the two candidates receiving the largest number of votes will be declared the winners.

School trustees serve three-year terms.

An eligible candidate for the board must be a registered voter and must reside within the school district.

The last day to file as a candidate will be March 22.

Author's apology rejected

by The Associated Press

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has spurned British author Salman Rushdie's apology for offending Moslems with his novel "The Satanic Verses" and declared it every Moslem's duty to "send him to hell."

Iran's fundamentalist patriarch's statement Sunday appeared to exclude the possibility that the dispute over the book may be settled through negotiation.

Khomeini's death decree Tuesday compelled the novelist to go in hiding under police guard in Britain — a $5.2 million bounty placed on his head by Iranian clerics — and has threatened to sour improving relations between Iran and some Western governments.

The death decree also named Rushdie's publishers, and copies of the novel have been removed from some bookstores' shelves in the United States and Japan. Fearing attacks, some Western publishers have decided not to print the book.

In Washington on Sunday, Secretary of State James A. Baker III called the death threat "intolerable" and an obstacle to Iran "rejoining the community of civilized nations."

In New York, Roman Catholic Cardinal John J. O'Connor implied that Catholics should shun the work because it offends Moslems.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency (IRNA) quoted Khomeini as saying: "Even if Salman Rushdie repents and becomes the most pious man of all time it is incumbent on every Moslem to employ everything he's got, his life and wealth, to send him to hell."

He said the "imperialist foreign mass media are falsely alleging that officials of the Islamic Republic said that if the author of 'The Satanic Verses' repents, the execution order against him would be abolished. This is denied, 100 percent."

President Ali Khamenei of Iran, a political pragmatist, had sought to defuse the crisis over Khomeini's death decree by saying Friday that Rushdie's life might be spared if he apologized and repented.

Rushdie, who has not been seen in public since Thursday, issued an apology Saturday through an agent:

"I recognize that Moslems in many parts of the world are genuinely distressed by the publication of my novel. I profoundly regret the distress that publication has occasioned to sincere followers of Islam."

IRNA said at one point Saturday that the apology from the 41-year-old writer was probably sufficient to warrant a pardon, but it later retracted the statement as only the opinion of one of its writers.

A British diplomatic source in London said Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe would try today at a meeting of the 12-nation European Economic Community in Brussels, Belgium, to convince colleagues to issue a joint statement condemning Iran's actions.

INS moves against South Texas influx

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Immigration and Naturalization Service today revealed a plan for on-the-spot adjudication of political asylum cases and the immediate arrest of asylum-seekers whose applications are denied.

Alan Nelson, INS commissioner, said the plan involves the addition of 500 INS staffers in South Texas to stop what the agency called abuses of the system.

Tens of thousands of Central Americans are expected to cross the Rio Grande in southern Texas this year, according to the INS, which says political asylum requests from Central Americans have risen almost sevenfold over the past four years. More than 50,000 sought asylum in fiscal year 1988, compared to 7,063 in 1985.

"We intend to send a strong signal to those people who have the mistaken idea that by merely filing a frivolous asylum claim, they may stay in the United States," Nelson said. "This willful manipulation of America's generosity must stop."

Those denied asylum will be placed in deportation proceedings and given a hearing before an immigration judge where they may renew their applications for asylum. They will be detained at existing INS detention facilities.

A group called the Brownsville

Ad Hoc Refugee Committee this morning criticized the new INS policy as a "mean-spirited attempt to deter political refugees from applying for political asylum."

INS officials had briefed U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela of Brownsville on the plan Sunday, agency spokeswoman Virginia Kice said.

More than 2,000 Central Americans weekly have been crossing the Rio Grande illegally.

Council will mull charter proposals

Amendments to the city charter will be the primary order of business in a 6:30 p.m. Monday meeting of the Snyder City Council.

The 34 proposed amendments to the 1952 charter pertain primarily to changes in state and federal election laws that are already being adhered to but are at odds with policies stated in the charter. Other business will include consideration of a new electrical code and authorizing the mayor to call a municipal election for May 6.

Requests by two different parties to operate taxi services will be discussed.

2 leaders of water agencies have sold land in colonias

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Two leaders of powerful El Paso County water agencies have profited from selling land with no running water or sewers in the county's poor colonias, the El Paso Times reported today.

The newspaper said that records filed with the Central Appraisal District and county clerk show that Joe G. Hanson, chairman of the city's Public Service Board, sold lots without running water and sewerage in Bauman Estates east of El Paso.

The same records show that Johnny Stubbs, president of the El Paso County Water Improvement District No. 1, has sold lots without running water and sewerage near Clint and San Elizario, the newspaper reported.

The subdivisions are legal because they meet county lot size and road grading requirements.

"We have more health problems than anywhere in the country because of these colonias," County Attorney Joe Lucas said Saturday.

Health officials have reported that children and adults in the colonias have suffered high incidences of hepatitis because they don't have clean water and adequate sewerage.

The fact that Hanson and Stubbs developed subdivisions without water and sewerage "raises a lot of questions," Lucas said.

"But, I don't think I should elaborate because I've got several lawsuits pending against colonias developers," he added. Both Stubbs and Hanson said they have never benefited from any of the board policies they approved.

"All the (Bauman Estates) lots have been sold. It's impossible for me to reap any benefit," Hanson said. Stubbs also said most of his lots have been sold.

Hanson sold a Bauman Estates lot Jan. 30 and Stubbs sold a Morning Glory Manor lot Jan. 24, county property records show, the newspaper reported.

Hanson, who said he lived in Bauman Estates for 15 years, said good well water is available in the subdivision.

"The water is hard. We used to haul water to make iced tea and coffee. But I can assure you, it's not only fit to drink, it's safe," said Hanson, who has been on the PSB since May.

"In my opinion, the colonias in the Lower Valley serve a need," Hanson said. "If you compare them with the conditions in which most of those people live in, in South El Paso, in the tenements, one bathroom and Third World conditions, at least it gives these people an opportunity to own something of their own."

Asked about the lack of sewerage, he said, "You're confusing the role of a developer with the responsibility of the health department, or somebody else. It's not my responsibility to see that those people put in the proper kind of sewer service."

Stubbs said he subdivided his farmland in the Lower Valley a few years ago, when he and other farmers fell on hard economic times.

"I'm not saying it's a good system. I think they need safe drinking water," Stubbs said.

"I hauled water all my life to drink. I don't now," he added.

Stubbs blames the current problems associated with the colonias on poor planning by past government leaders.

"I've lived out in this country all my life. I've never had a sewer system," Stubbs said. "I've never had, until a few years ago, a water supply."

Duke wins election

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former Klan leader David Duke, who won election as a state representative even though President Bush and former President Reagan endorsed his rival, denounces a threat to banish him from the GOP as "un-American."

Duke says blacks and Jews have nothing to fear from him. And he's urging the Louisiana Legislature and the Republican Party to accept that he has changed since his days as grand wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in the 1970s.

"I repudiate any racial or religious intolerance. Any group — racial or religious — has nothing to fear from David Duke," Duke told a news conference Sunday following his narrow victory over homebuilder John Treen on Saturday.

Still, Duke did not mince words on where he stands on civil rights.

"I'm for getting the government out of our personal lives. I'm not for any law for segregation or integration," he said. "The right not to associate is just as precious as the right to associate."

Duke, 38, edged the 63-year-old Treen for the House seat from the nearly all-white district in Metairie, a New Orleans suburb. Duke got 8,459 votes, or 50.7 percent, and Treen 8,232, or 49.3 percent.

Duke registered as a Republican two days before qualifying for the race. After his stunning success in beating six other candidates in the Jan. 21 primary, the national party sent three advisers to help his opponent and persuaded Bush and Reagan to endorse Treen.

U.S. senators, the governor and other community leaders of both parties warned that a Duke victory would ruin the state's reputation and harm already tenuous race relations. Jewish organizations decried his candidacy, and the archbishop of New Orleans warned voters to choose cautiously.

Shortly after Duke was declared the winner Saturday night, National Republican Chairman Lee Atwater denounced the outcome and vowed to have him censured and barred from using the GOP name, an unprecedented step.

It's Better to Get Along Than It Is to Get Even

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I must respond to your column on forgiveness: Forgiveness is a gift to the giver. I speak from personal experience.

Years ago, I took legal action against my ex-husband for payment of back child support. I had a good job with an adequate salary, but I could have used some financial help, as I was raising our two sons alone. "Rob" had a drinking problem, which was one of the reasons we parted, but I was determined to get what he owed me — regardless.

Then suddenly, I asked myself: What am I doing? Our sons had always had a very good relationship with their father, and my taking Rob to court would only alienate him from his family.

I made up my mind that I would forgive Rob and forget the money he owed me, so I called my attorney and told him to withdraw the legal action — that I was letting Rob off the hook.

As it turned out, that was the wisest decision I ever made. Seven years later Rob was dead of a massive heart attack. He was 48.

During the final seven years of his life, our relationship was very cordial, and he was able to establish good communication with his sons.

I am glad I let Rob off the hook. If I had taken him to court, I always would have felt guilty, wondering if I had caused him stress and hastened his death.

GLAD I FORGAVE

DEAR GLAD: Many people could learn from you. Read on for more on the joy of forgiving:

DEAR ABBY: Your wonderful column on the subject of forgiveness reminded me of a phrase I copied some years ago and have shared with many. I do not know who wrote it, but I hope you think it's worth sharing with your readers.
M. BELL, CASSVILLE, MO.

DEAR M. BELL: I do, and thank you for the following: "To forgive is to set a prisoner free and discovering that prisoner was YOU."

Broadway play closes down

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — British rock star Sting, meeting with President Jose Sarney, proposed a worldwide campaign to raise funds to save the Amazon jungle and create a massive Indian reservation.

"We would like to help Brazil create South America's largest Indian reservation, and I am sure we could make lots of money in the United States, Japan and Europe for this project," Sting told journalists outside the presidential palace after his two-hour meeting with Sarney on Sunday.

"We need the permission of the Brazilian people for this," the singer-songwriter said. "We want to help Brazil save the Amazon." The Brazilian government has made it clear it won't accept what it sees as recent foreign meddling in Amazon affairs. Sting said he would travel to France, Italy, West Germany, Spain, England, the United States, Japan and China to raise funds for the proposed 129,000-square-mile reservation and other Amazonian ecological projects.

Hull returns to Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) — Bobby Hull returned to the city he put on the hockey map as the Winnipeg Jets retired his number a decade after he left the team.

"I don't know how you expect me to talk after that," a choked-up Hull said Sunday night after receiving a series of tributes and gifts, including a Jets' No. 9 jersey presented by team captain Dale Hawerchuk.

"I was 50 years old in January," Hull said. "I've played in Stanley Cup-final seventh games, represented my country — but I've never had this kind of feeling before."

"I've never cried before, either." The star left winger with the 100 mph slap shot, nicknamed the Golden Jet, stunned the hockey world in 1972 by accepting a $2.75-million deal to jump to Winnipeg from the National Hockey League's Chicago Blackhawks.

Cranberry grower named bachelor of the month

CARVER, Mass. (AP) — The magazine article says Johnson has had to change his phone number, but the cranberry grower isn't about to change his mailing address after being named Cosmopolitan magazine's bachelor of the month.

"The mail makes any kidding I've gotten about it OK," said Johnson, whom the magazine dubbed its "hunky harvester."

The 29-year-old farmer said he has received letters from throughout the United States and Canada, and even from Australia and Trinidad.

"At first I felt real shy," Johnson said. "But in the letters they say, 'Hoping to hear from you.'"

So far, Johnson says he's met only one woman in Boston through the article, but she wasn't his type. He has called women in several states.

Johnson gave a brief description of his interests to a writer in November after his sister, Beth, secretly submitted his name to the women's magazine.

The magazine article says Johnson operates 130 acres of bogs and likes to "hop on his blue Harley-Davidson and head for the Cape Cod clubs with a 'fun-loving intellectually stimulating woman.'" The biography encouraged "motorcycle mamas" to write a post office box in Carver, about 35 miles southeast of Boston.

Johnson said he doesn't ride his motorcycle to clubs because he wouldn't drink and drive, and claimed he isn't looking for "motorcycle mamas." But he did say he plans to answer all his letters.

You've heard there are more associations in the United States than you can shake a stick at? Don't forget about the American Fancy Rat and Mouse Association, which gives prizes for hairless mice, frizzy mice and long-haired mice. And, if you like mice a lot, you can be called a "musophile."

Items sold at Howard Hughes auction

HOUSTON (AP) — Retired airline captain Ernie Saviano says he always regarded Howard Hughes as one of his greatest heroes so it was no wonder that he was an enthusiastic bidder at an auction of Hughes memorabilia.

Saviano, 63, of Arlington, Sunday submitted winning bids for two of the most notable items at the auction, a shotgun the reclusive billionaire carried with him on his record-setting, round-the-world flight in 1938 and a gold pocket watch he gave the president of Hughes Tool Co.

Saviano, who was on a business trip in Portage, Wis., and telephoned his bids in, will pay $3,100 for the shotgun and $4,250 for the watch.

Asked why did he want these items associated with Hughes, who died in 1976 while on a flight here from Acapulco, Mexico, Saviano responded, "What a question."

"This is Howard Hughes we're talking about. He was one of the greatest figures of this century in aviation, in movie-making and in the business world," Saviano said. "I've always admired him."

"As a kid I made a current events report about his round-the-world flight. I wanted something personally his. This is the greatest thing that could have happened to me this year."

Saviano also bid on a scarf Hughes wore during a record-setting Los Angeles-to-New York flight and a felt hat, made in England, that had belonged to Hughes, but the winning bidder on those was Neal Witwer of Houston, a male nurse and professional photographer.

Witwer will pay $2,100 for the scarf and $3,000 for the hat. "I'm doing it because of a long interest in Howard Hughes, and with a little help from a friend," Witwer explained.

Houston antique dealer Ray Simpson, who conducted the auction, the first major public sale of Hughes items, said about 150 people attended and bids totaled about $35,000 for 74 items, individually or in lots.

"We went in not knowing what these things would go for," Simpson said, but the auction has set values.

"The market set the values," interjected Jerald Broussard, an investment and marketing consultant, who paid $90 for a 1919 Hughes Tool Co. telegram.

"I bought this for my son, who's only 13 months," said Broussard. "Someday I want to explain to him the importance of keeping things in balance."

"Even though Hughes had great wealth, what good did it do him?" Broussard asked. "He lost his perspective on life."

Most of the items auctioned came from a collection belonging to Robert Kuldell, son of the late R.C. Kuldell, who became president of Hughes Tool after the death of Hughes' father in 1924 and remained a close associate of the younger Hughes.

The watch Saviano purchased had belonged to R.C. Kuldell.

Six items from Hughes' grade school days in Houston were furnished by Lynn Burling, owner of a printing and graphics company here.

Burling's father, Roy, found them in old belongings cleared from a River Oaks home attic about 40 years ago.

A drawing Hughes made of a motorcar with a propeller on it in 1910 drew the highest bid, $400, of those items. A school exercise book in which Hughes described his Christmas in 1913 sold for $325. A McGuffey's Second Eclectic Reader, with the initials H.H. on the overleaf of the front cover, went for $200.

A behavior problem

By James Jacoby

Willy Nilly would quickly go set in today's aggressively bid slam. He would draw trumps and then go about setting up the heart suit, intending to ruff the third heart. But when he discovered that he needed to ruff two hearts to set up the suit, he would also find that he was short the necessary entries to make 12 tricks.

Careful Charlie would do better. He would look for a way to make the contract even though hearts might misbehave. So he would win the opening lead in dummy, play a heart back to his ace, and then play two more rounds of spades, on which he would throw a heart. He would ruff a heart, get back to dummy with a trump, and ruff another heart. He could then draw trumps ending in dummy. Beginning with the king, the heart suit would then run.

The bidding was excellent. When North bid to show concentration of strength in three suits and obvious shortness in diamonds, South made a good decision to stay out of three no-trump. From North's point of view, South just might have a diamond stopper, but he was certainly showing the ace of hearts with his belated heart bid, and so the play for slam would be good. Let's hope that the next time you are dealt North's cards and bid them as well as he did, your partner will play the hand like Charlie rather than Willy.

WTC cagers wrap up regular season tonight with Howard College Hawks

Except for zeroing in on a conference champion and working out some ties, the men's Western Junior College Athletic Conference race is moot. Odessa, South Plains, Midland and Howard College will be attending the Region V Tournament in Waco.

But the women's race... Western Texas College's Lady Dusters hope to nail down second place in the women's WJAC tonight when they take on Howard's Queens at 6 o'clock in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. It is the final regular-season contest for the Dusters, one of two teams who have already clinched a berth in the women's regional tournament. The Dusters are 8-3 and in second place in the WJAC.

Odessa, at 8-2, is the only other team to have secured a berth. In contention for the other two spots are New Mexico Junior College at 7-4, Frank Phillips at 6-4, and South Plains at 5-5.

In key confrontation tonight, New Mexico Junior College plays

South Plains in Levelland. Also, Frank Phillips entertains Clarendon at Borger.

The picture may not clear up until later in the week. On Thursday, Howard plays South Plains and Odessa battles Clarendon. Then on Friday, Odessa is in Borger to play Frank Phillips.

The Lady Dusters insured themselves of a regional berth by knocking off South Plains and NMJC last week. That doesn't mean the Dusters plan to relax tonight, however.

"They (Howard) have been really playing well. They don't have any sophomores and that's been the difference. But they have a lot of talent," said Coach Chadwick of the rival Queens, who are 12-16 overall and 2-8 in conference play.

The Queens have lost a number of close conference games this season, including ones of 77-74 to Odessa and 85-80 to Frank Phillips.

Western's Dusters are 21-8 overall.

Western Texas College's men go into their 8 p.m. contest hoping to put a dent in the Hawks before regional tournament time. The Westerners, who beat New Mexico JC 105-100 on Thursday, would also like to end the season with consecutive victories.

"We're going out there and do our best and see what happens," said Dallas freshman Ken Critton. "We think we can beat them."

Western is 13-16 for the season and 4-11 in conference play.

Howard is 18-11 overall and at 9-5 in the WJAC is tied with Midland for third place in the standings. The Hawks have clinched a tournament berth, however, because the number five team, New Mexico Junior College, is 6-8. Both teams have only two conference games remaining - meaning that if Howard loses both, it will still have only seven conference losses.

Other men's games tonight have South Plains at Hobbs, N.M. to play NMJC, Clarendon at Borger to play Frank Phillips at New Mexico Military battling the Chaps in Midland.

Scrimmage set Tuesday

BROWNFIELD - Coach Albert Lewis' Tigers are gearing up for a 5 p.m. scrimmage here Tuesday.

The Tigers scrimmaged Lubbock High last Monday, but a date with Midland Lee on Saturday was cancelled because of rain.

Snyder will hold its final scrimmage this Saturday when the Tigers entertain Midland Lee at 1 p.m.

Snyder opens the season Feb. 28 in Lubbock against Estacado.

Haskell, G'wood tonight; 4A battle slated Tuesday

Snyder fans who were already pondering attending some basketball playoff action at Scurry County Coliseum this week can add another contest to the bunch.

Highly-touted Pflugerville, 33-1, meets Dumas at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in a Class 4A girl's regional finals game here.

Tonight, the coliseum hosts a practice game, pitting Haskell against the Midland Greenwood Rangers at 7 p.m.

Haskell's Indians, Class 2A semi-finalists last season, will bring a 23-3 record into the coliseum. Greenwood is 17-10 and champion of District 7-3A.

Tickets will be $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Tickets for Tuesday's Class 4A girl's game are $4 for adults and $2 for students. Pflugerville, ranked No. 2 in the state, returns eight girls from a 1988 state finalist team. Dumas, a 47-46 winner over District 4-4A's Big Spring last weekend, is 17-10 for the season.

Thursday, the coliseum will host two boy's Class A bi-district games. Tipping off the action at 6:30 p.m. will be District 26-A champion Roscoe, taking on 25-A runner-up Rotan.

To immediately follow will be a game between 25-A champ Roby and 26-A runner-up Trent.

Tickets for the twin-bill will be $3 for adults and $2 for students.

The coliseum gates will open an hour before game time each evening.

Waltrip finds conservative way to triumph at Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - After failing to win the Daytona 500 in cars far superior to the one he had just driven to victory, Darrell Waltrip was asked if he thought it was a fluke.

"The first car across the finish line wins the race," he said Sunday after breaking a 16-year drought in stock car racing's premier event. "It doesn't matter how you get there."

The how of it was in the right foot of the 42-year-old driver. He kept it off the floor over the final 35 laps on Daytona International Speedway's 2.5-mile oval, turning the $1.7 million NASCAR stock car race into a fuel conservation clinic.

"There's no doubt that Ken Schrader had the strongest car in the race," eighth-place finisher Rick Wilson said. "But he got snookered."

Pole-sitter Schrader, who led 114 of the 200 laps, didn't dispute that.

"When I saw Darrell legging it, I knew we were in trouble," said Schrader, forced to surrender the lead when he stopped for fuel just 11 laps from the end. "We had to stop. There was no way we were going to make it."

Nor was there any way for Dale Earnhardt, who ran second to Schrader in the latter stages of the race. Earnhardt followed Schrader to pit road at the end of lap 189.

When they returned to the track, they trailed Waltrip and race leader Alan Kulwicki by about 10 seconds. Seven laps later, with four remaining in the opening race of the Winston Cup season, Kulwicki cut a tire and had to pit.

That left Waltrip to "draft ... draft ... draft" to victory.

Waltrip and crew chief Jeff Hammond had decided their only chance to win was to bypass a final pit stop.

"I won the Daytona 500 ... I won the Daytona 500," he screamed as he emerged from his day-glo orange Chevrolet Monte Carlo, thrusting his arms skyward.

"This is Daytona, isn't it? I'm not dreaming, am I?"

Twiggs finds Pine Course a snap

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Greg Twiggs earned spending money in college by playing skins games several times a week at Torrey Pines Golf Course, betting $5 and $10 per hole against other amateurs.

The course knowledge that helped support Twiggs then paid off in a big way Sunday as he won the $700,000 San Diego Open, his first victory in five years on the PGA Tour.

"I know the course and the greens so well because I played here so much in college (at San Diego State) ... and it made it a lot easier to play because I know where (the trouble) is," said Twiggs, who collected $126,000.

"There isn't a putt on these greens that I don't know where it's breaking. It's just (a matter of judging) the speed. If I didn't know the greens like I do it would have been a lot harder to hit my putts the right speed. It takes a lot of pressure off when you can do that."

Twiggs' final round of 3-under-par 69 gave him a 72-hole score of 17-under-par 271 and a two-shot victory.

Third-round leader Steve Elkington of Australia struggled to a 73 Sunday to finish in a second-place tie at 273 with Mark Wiebe, Brad Faxon and Mark O'Meara, who matched the day's best round with a 66.

Twiggs, whose previous best finish was a tie for third in the 1985 Greater Milwaukee Open, carded five birdies against just two bogeys on the 7,021-yard, par-72 Torrey Pines South course.

"It's a course that everybody knows you have to shoot a low score to win," Twiggs said.

"The key to Torrey is not putting (tee shots) in the trees," he said.

Vocational nursing students receive certificates Thursday

Certificates marking the completion of the Western Texas College Vocational Nursing course were presented nine graduates in ceremonies held last Thursday night at Trinity United Methodist Church.

An additional 12 students received caps, marking the start of the clinical phase of their studies. All the students and their families were honored at a reception following the program.

Winnie Poyner, RN, vocational nursing instructor, was the program speaker. The welcome was given by Jerry Dennis, chairman of WTC's occupational and education division. Music was by Jane Womack, pianist, and Sue Browning, vocalist.

Dr. Franklin Pruitt, retired WTC instructor, gave the invocation and benediction.

Presenting the graduates their certificates and pins were Diane Beard, RN, instructor, and Miss Poyner. Mrs. Beard and Gale Laster, LVN, instructor, presented caps. The caps were donated by the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Graduates from Snyder were LaVerne Bolin, Sue Browning, Carrie Dunnam, Angela Herley, Sharon Mier, Ginger Robertson and Linda Salgado. Other graduates were Brenda Gibson of Girard and Rosa Benitez of Loraine.

Snyder students receiving caps were Paula Brzozowski, Cassie Burton, Angela Elledge, Christy Gannaway, Judy Gard, Karen Hines, Lisa Jones, Jo Retta Richards and Pat Scott. Others were Sheila Claxton and Christine McPhaul of Colorado City and Nancy Stanaland of Jayton.

The Vocational Nursing program at WTC is affiliated with Cogdell Memorial Hospital and approved by the Texas Education Agency and the Texas Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners. Students attend class for 12 months, the first four months in the pre-clinical period and the remaining eight months in the clinical period which includes 33 hours of hospital practice weekly along with seven hours of classroom study each week.

Stenholm has role in changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charlie Stenholm says he's been the target of a "vendetta" by some opponents who say his drive to streamline federal inspections at thousands of meat-processing plants will undermine consumer safety and confidence.

But Stenholm, a West Texas farmer, says he's not backing away from the simmering controversy involving labor groups, consumer advocates, meat industry officials and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

At issue are proposed USDA regulations implementing a law Stenholm helped push through Congress two years ago that would permit less than daily inspections in processing plants with good compliance records.

The rules would cut the meat inspection force in half, eliminating about 1,000 inspectors at a savings of $27 million over several years, a USDA official said.

Consumer groups say the proposal would give company employees the responsibility for policing potential health violations. The meat industry has not proven itself worthy of that kind of trust, he said.

Consumer advocates said the new rules come at a time when the incidence and impact of food-borne illnesses are increasing. They point to the doubling of salmonellosis cases in the last 16 years to about 40,000 annually, with more than half of the outbreaks reported to the Centers for Disease Control traced to meat and poultry.

Some experts say there could be as many as 2 million cases of illness caused by the salmonella bacteria a year, contributing to 2,000 deaths, the consumer advocates said.

The American Meat Institute, while it agrees with the concept of the law, says the USDA's proposed rules should be withdrawn because they are "overly complex, cumbersome and burdensome to the regulated industry."

Said Manly Molpus, president of the AMI, the largest trade group for meat processors and packers: "This law will make the most significant change in meat inspection since the turn of the century. Rather than moving too quickly, we must develop a program that will benefit the public, the industry and the government."

A coalition of consumer groups appealed to President Bush to pull the rules, saying no amount of tinkering would increase food safety for consumers. Enclosed in the letter was a copy of "The Jungle," Upton Sinclair's 1906 classic about horrendous meat packing conditions that became the genesis for government's role in assuring the safety of food products.

But Stenholm contends today's health threats — bacteria such as salmonella, residues from antibiotics used in excess, and pesticides — can't be detected through the traditional inspection methods of sight and touch at the nation's 6,000-plus meat processing plants.

Stenholm, a Democrat and chairman of the House Livestock, Dairy and Poultry subcommittee, contends the answer is new diagnostic technology that would detect those threats in meat.

Stenholm hopes to pass legislation this year that would establish a research agenda to improve and enhance meat processing techniques by awarding research grants for a variety of studies. The goal is to help USDA develop a more scientifically based inspection system.

An aide said Stenholm decided to pursue the issue as a result of two National Academy of Sciences reports in which scientists said "this is the way you need to go... that the traditional form of inspection is outdated and tremendously antiquated. It's nothing less than what the scientific minds want us to do."

Results of a pilot project at a Colorado plant using the new inspection system indicate there is "no question it's working," Stenholm said.

Stenholm's subcommittee, however, now plans hearings this spring to consider the comments received on USDA's proposed regulations and the agency's response to those comments, the aide said.

"The subcommittee will decide if there is a need to modify the law or whether the proposed rules are adequate," the aide said.

Houston police officer is charged with three crimes

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston police officer has been accused of robbing a man and locking him in the trunk of his car, then kidnapping the man's girlfriend and sexually assaulting her.

Officer Harold Ingram Burkett, 27, was arrested at work early Saturday and charged with aggravated robbery, kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault, police spokesman Dan Turner said.

The woman reportedly memorized the license plate number of the car in which she was abducted after midnight

Feb. 12, and it was that of a police department vehicle, the Houston Chronicle quoted unidentified police sources as saying.

Burkett, who was working a special assignment in plain clothes when the attack allegedly occurred, was released late Saturday on $40,000 bond and has been relieved of duty with pay, Turner said.

The woman said after she and her boyfriend were stopped, her boyfriend was forced into the trunk of his car, and she was then driven to an unknown location and sexually assaulted.

Police detain 4 in Mandela home

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Just days after anti-apartheid leaders disowned Winnie Mandela over allegations her bodyguards killed a young black, police raided her home, arrested four men and reportedly found bloodstains.

State-run Radio South Africa said the four men arrested in Sunday's pre-dawn raid were bodyguards of the wife of jailed African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela.

"We have found fingerprints and blood samples which will be sorted out in the laboratory," said Maj. Gen. Jaap Joubert, who is leading the investigation into the murder of 14-year-old black activist Stompie Seipei.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Two doctors have told me I have carpal tunnel syndrome and DeQuervain's disease, and have recommended surgery. I'm reluctant. What will happen if I put it off too long? I'm 33, female, 5 feet 4 inches and 130 pounds.

DEAR READER: Carpal tunnel syndrome is a common ailment, consisting of pain and numbness in the wrist and hand; it is caused by compression of the median nerve, a major nerve supplying the muscles of the hand. The nerve compression can be a consequence of repeated, forceful wrist flexion, thyroid diseases, rheumatoid arthritis and edema (fluid retention). There is no cure other than surgical decompression of the swollen tissue around the nerve.

If left untreated, carpal tunnel syndrome can progress to weakness, chronic pain and muscle wasting in the hand. The diagnosis is easily established by electromyography, a test to see if the median nerve is functioning normally.

DeQuervain's disease is separate and unrelated. It is inflammation of the sheath that surrounds two of the thumb's muscle tendons. It, too, causes pain and weakness but the treatment is non-surgical: the use of anti-inflammatory drugs, splinting and cortisone injections into the tendon sheath to reduce irritation and swelling.

From your comments, I conclude that the doctors' major concern is your carpal tunnel syndrome. If they agree that surgery will help you, I advise you to consider an operation before serious and permanent damage develops. As operations go, this surgery is relatively easy and is almost always curative.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter, 29, developed a fever, lethargy and ulcer-like sores in the mucus linings of her mouth, throat and nose. Our family doctor said it was Cocksackie virus. She had mono at 19 and has been a dairy herdsman for 14 years. She can't seem to shake it.

DEAR READER: Cocksackie viruses are divided into 30 different types. The virus family is so named because the first one was discovered in Cocksackie, N.Y.

These viruses cause a number of diseases, including infection of the mouth, the skin, the heart and the brain. Cocksackie viruses are often associated with severe ulcerations in the mouth and nose; less common forms produce diseases resembling mononucleosis, polio and pleurisy.

As with other viruses, antibiotics are of absolutely no benefit in treatment. Except for heart infection, the Cocksackie syndromes are usually benign and self-limited. If your daughter takes good care of herself to build up her resistance, she will eventually recover completely.

However, it will take time. Cocksackie infection is spread from person to person, so her occupation is probably not a factor in her illness.

DALLAS (AP) — A sunny afternoon has long been a good excuse for a long lunch at Sonny Bryan's.

But things will be a bit different now that the famous Dallas barbecue joint's namesake has quietly hung up his apron for the last time.

Well-heeled businessmen will continue to gather in the Inwood Road parking lot around the small barbecue joint, talking over deals between bites of the deep-piled sandwiches. Others will continue to queue up inside, anxiously waiting for a taste as good as the smell that permeates the air for a considerable distance.

But Sonny Bryan — considered by many as the king of Dallas barbecue and a man who wowed even food critics and Parisian chefs with his generous portions of Texas beef — will be gone.

After 31 years, Bryan quietly sold the Dallas landmark to a group of investors after learning that he has cancer of the liver and stomach.

"I was going to go to the bitter end," Bryan told The Dallas Morning News. "But now's the time to get everything in order. I'm retiring."

Bryan said he has taken care, however, to make sure that the barbecue served up on battered

Sting wants to raise funds

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Allen opened the second act of "Legs Diamond" by rising from a coffin and declaring, "Not even critics can kill me," but his musical was on its last legs.

The curtain closed on the final performance of the $5.3 million Broadway bomb Sunday, less than two months after the show about a big-time New York mobster opened.

"Legs" opened at the end of December to dismal reviews after an unusually long run of 72 preview performances. There were 64 regular performances.

The last show drew two standing ovations: one at the end and one for the death-defying stunt by Allen.

platters along with small square bottles of rust-colored sauce won't suffer for quality.

"Everything's going to be exactly the same," Bryan vows. "They bought the formula, they're keeping the same employees. Nothing is going to change."

The man who put together the group to keep Sonny Bryan's open repeats the promise.

"If it's not broke, don't fix it," says Dallas insurance executive George Hartley.

Hartley, 34, said he has been going to the restaurant as long as he can remember and even was introduced to his wife by Bryan.

"The first thing we're going to do is absolutely nothing," Hartley says. "We're not changing the name. We're not changing suppliers or anything. We just wanted to keep the doors open. We've talked to the employees and we've told them that."

The new owners also told the employees that they realized their importance to the operation.

"They said they thought the help was what made the business," says Virginia Young, 65, who was the first employee that Bryan hired.

Ms. Young said many people already have noticed Bryan's absence behind the counter and say they miss his humming.

"Already some people have said that it doesn't taste the same. But there hasn't been a thing changed," Mrs. Young says.

Except for Bryan, that is. He's ready to enjoy time off after so many years of tending to business, and plans to see some horses race and grandchildren grow, among other things.

Sakharov, wife visit relatives

BOSTON (AP) — Soviet physicist Andrei Sakharov and his wife, Yelena Bonner, are visiting relatives in the Boston area for the first time together.

The couple declined to comment when they arrived at Logan International Airport on Saturday, with Bonner saying they wanted "private time."

The Sakharovs came here to visit their grandchildren in suburban Newton before returning to Moscow, said Efrem Yankelevich, who is married to Bonner's daughter, Tatiana.

"As far as I know he does not intend to make any public appearances. He will be here I don't know how long but probably just for a few days, and then he goes back to Moscow," Yankelevich said.

The couple had been in Canada for a week. Sakharov received a $20,000 humanitarian award Friday from the St. Boniface Hospital Research Foundation in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Sakharov, who won the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize for his human rights activities, visited the United States for four weeks last fall on his first visit to the West. Bonner did not accompany her husband then but has made previous visits alone to the United States.

Cox accepts post

BOSTON (AP) — Former Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox has agreed to advise Gov. Michael S. Dukakis on ethics issues, but declined to head the state's ethics panel because of time constraints.

"I have had some discussions with the governor's office about some ethical questions — long-range, looking-ahead stuff," Cox said.

Cox, 77, is said to be reviewing disclosure requirements for those seeking state and local approval for development projects and rules governing outside income for public employees.
