

Bush departs for five-day Asian trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush set out today on a hectic five-day trip to Japan, China and South Korea to demonstrate that "the United States is an Asian power."

Bush and his wife, Barbara, departed before sunrise in a light drizzle aboard Air Force One, heading for a refueling stop in Anchorage, Alaska, enroute to Tokyo. In Anchorage, Bush will give a speech outlining themes of his trip.

The overseas trip comes with Bush barely in office for a month, and with most aspects of the new administration's foreign policy still officially under review.

But Brent Scowcroft, the president's national security adviser, on Tuesday disputed suggestions that Bush is making the journey before he has a cohesive foreign policy in place.

"The president is not trying to make quick headlines," Scowcroft said. He said Bush wants to develop policies that "will aid us in where we think we'd like to be at the end of the century."

Over the next five days, Bush will travel 18,095 miles. He'll spend 36 hours on his plane before returning to Washington on Monday night.

Because of the 14-hour time difference with Washington, Bush will arrive in Tokyo at about 1 p.m. local time on Thursday with much of the work day ahead of him. However, his body clock will tell him that it's 11 p.m. Wednesday at home.

It is unusual for an American president to travel overseas just 33 days after his inauguration but Bush decided to go to Tokyo to represent the United States on Friday at the state funeral of Emperor Hirohito, who died of cancer at the age of 87 on Jan. 7.

Scowcroft said the trip underscores the strategic importance of the three nations that

Bush will visit, as well as "the growing importance of the U.S. relationship to Asia as a whole, and to point out again that the United States is an Asian power."

The trip gives Bush an opportunity to highlight the American profile in Asia before a dramatic new chapter in Sino-Soviet relations. In May, Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev will go to Beijing for talks with Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping — the first such summit in 30 years.

Decrease ok'd

AUSTIN (AP) — Overall automobile insurance rates in Texas will drop an average of 0.3 percent under a decision made today by the State Board of Insurance. However, basic liability coverage will cost substantially more.

The change will mean motorists statewide will see an approximately $11.4 million decrease in automobile insurance costs.

But basic liability rates — the insurance required to drive — will go up about 13 percent under the board's action.

Bailout plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady delivered President Bush's plan for cleaning up the savings and loan industry to Congress today and asked that it be swiftly approved.

Noting the president's Feb. 9 challenge to Congress to pass the funding and reform package in 45 days, Brady said, "Once Congress acts, we will be ready to move to stem the hemorrhaging" by closing insolvent S&Ls that pay high interest rates to attract depositors.

New plant

AUSTIN (AP) — A New York apparel company announced today that it will locate a manufacturing plant in El Paso that eventually will employ up to 400 workers.

Gov. Bill Clements joined Glamour Sportswear president Mark Lederman in announcing that the company had chosen the El Paso site following a nationwide search.

New candidates file for council early Wednesday

The Snyder City Council gained two additional candidates for its at-large council seats Wednesday morning, bringing the number of announced office seekers to three for the two positions.

Announcing Wednesday were Mike Thornton, 40, director of adult and continuing education at Western Texas College, and Jim Tully, 59, who retired last year as director of student financial aid at WTC. He is now employed as a public relations staffer for Wal-Mart.

Thornton has lived in Snyder some 16½ years and Tully has been a resident of the city for 17 years.

Also announced as an at-large council member is incumbent Paul Zeck, 38, president of Y-Z Industries. He was first elected a member of the council in April of 1987.

The other at-large council representative, John Johnson, indicated Monday he would not seek a second two-year term.

Mayor Troy Williamson has also announced for his second two-year term as mayor. Williamson, 51, owner of Williamson Auto Supply, has been on the council since 1983, serving three years as a councilman.

For the two at-large council seats, the two candidates receive

Prison school dates set

Applications for teaching posts at the Windham School facility to be established at the Price Daniel prison unit will be formally accepted during the month of March, Western Texas College officials learned Tuesday.

WTC will serve as the "clearing house" for these applications, much the same role the college provided for TDC guard applications in connection with its security officer training course.

For the Daniel Unit's Windham School, TDC is expected to employ from 12 to 16 fulltime academic teachers and six vocational training instructors.

Included in the academic teaching staff will be two special education instructors, one to two trained in English as a second language, a librarian and two computer lab technicians.

Regarding vocational instruction, the programs to be offered at the Daniel Unit will include auto mechanics, facility care (janitorial-related maintenance) and building maintenance and repair.

Other school staffers will include three counselors, three substance abuse personnel and two clerical workers.

Overseeing the operation will be a principal, a post TDC hopes to name in either March or April.

Currently, WTC has a file list of some 70 individuals who have expressed interest in applying for Windham School posts, according to Mike Thornton, director of adult and continuing education at the college.

Thornton and WTC administrators met with Windham School representatives Tuesday to discuss the college's role in establishing the system.

Those visiting WTC were Dr. Lane Murray, superintendent of Windham School; Dr. Chris

Museum will sponsor group to tour Ramses

The Scurry County Museum will sponsor a trip to Dallas March 17-19 to see the Ramses exhibit of Egyptian culture to be displayed at the Dallas Fair Park.

Scurry County residents are now invited to make reservations to be a part of the tour group. It will leave Snyder at 10 a.m. on March 17—a Friday—and will travel by van to Dallas.

The tour of the Ramses exhibit will take place Saturday morning on the 18th. The tour will take approximately two hours and will end at noon.

The afternoon of March 18 will be free for other sightseeing. The group will stay at the Holiday Inn at North Park Plaza for two nights, leaving Dallas on Sunday, March 19.

Cost of the trip will be $98.50 per person. This will include tickets to the exhibit, transportation and two nights lodging.

Reservations must be made by Feb. 28 by contacting the Scurry County Museum. A deposit of $9.85 must accompany each reservation since tickets must be paid in advance.

Annual API fish fry set at armory Friday

The Snyder Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will host its 11th annual fish fry and membership drive on Friday at the National Guard Armory.

Serving time will be from 6 until 8 p.m. and ladies are invited to attend also.

Tickets are $6 per person and $2 for children under 12. These are now on sale from any API officer, board member or at the door.

During the event, membership signups will be available also. Annual dues are $6 to join API.

At the event, musical entertainment will be provided by "Cadence Sound" and DJ Galen Price.

New officers and board members will be introduced at the fish fry by Mobil's Burt Robbins, chapter chairman. In addition to Robbins, new officers are Gary Dupriest of Unocal, first vice chairman; Eddie Epley, local consultant, second vice chairman; Scott Mershon of McCullough, secretary; and Archie Boudreau of Acid Engineering, treasurer.

Advisory board members are Rickey Daniell of Pride Well Service, Bobby Franks of B&F Well

Top campus spellers continue to be named

Three more sets of campus winners were determined Wednesday morning for the Scurry County Spelling Bee slated March 3.

Those winning in morning competitions were:

—Central Elementary: John Baez, fifth grader, won first and Lionel Aviles, sixth grader, won second. John is the son of Blas and Lidia Baez; and Lionel is the son of Saul and Cruz Aviles.

—North Elementary: Misty Clem, sixth grader, won first and Angelia Gonzalez, fifth grader, won second. Misty is the daughter of Fred and Brenda Clem; and Angelia is the daughter of Manuel and Angelia Gonzalez.

—Ira Junior High: Elisha Vineyard, eighth grader, won first and Emilee Taylor, eighth grader, won second. Elisha is the daughter of Kathy Reynolds; and Emilee is the daughter of Bob and Kathy Fowler.

Wednesday afternoon, the Snyder Junior High School winners were to be determined in a campus bee scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m.

On Thursday, the campus bees will end with the West Elementary event at 8:45 a.m. and the Hermleigh Junior High and Elementary contest at 2:30 p.m.

Students in grades 4-8 are eligible to compete in the spelling event.

For some, taking a test causes the mind to go blank. Even hours of study can be instantly erased when the dreaded testing event begins.

There are all kinds of tests, and multiple choice can be the most difficult, especially if the person has a tendency to second-guess.

We once knew a guy who was taking a multiple choice test with the questions being read aloud. The tester was speaking so softly that he couldn't hear the questions.

The student moved to the front row, but still couldn't hear the questions. In desperation, the pupil marked all three answers on the computer-grading sheet.

When the test was returned, the student had aced the test since all the correct answers were marked.

Many students show a lot of creativity when taking tests. Creativity is a nice way to say "faking it" in a testing situation.

Here are some samples:

Idiom—a female idiot.

Bacteria—the rear entrance to a cafeteria.

Exhilarate—what happens when you stomp the gas pedal.

Analogy—when you're allergic to something and your nose runs.

Developmental task—pregnancy.

When asked to name a Spaniard who conquered part of America, one student answered, Julio Iglesias. According to another student, Beowulf survived the 400 years as part of the Anglo-Saxon literature because "he ate right and jogged."

Less creative but accurate was the student who gave this answer to where Leonardo da Vinci's "The Creation" was painted. The student said it was in the 16th chapter of the textbook.

Dear Abby

Extramarital Sex Can Be Extraordinarily Dangerous

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: During my college days, I was a very popular girl — "promiscuous" would be more accurate. If you were to put a gun to my head and demand that I name every guy I'd ever gone to bed with, I couldn't do it.

I am now middle-aged, happily married and have children I am proud of. (I am avoiding specific numbers because I live in a small town where everybody reads Dear Abby, and I don't want to be identified.)

Not long ago, I went back to my hometown to spend a little time with one of my parents because the other parent was seriously ill. I saw some of my old friends, and among them was a fellow I had had a hot and heavy romance with before I married my husband. Well, I went to bed with him again. It wasn't a "love" thing — it just happened. I used a diaphragm, which protected me against pregnancy but not from sexually transmitted diseases.

Yesterday, I received a telephone call from this fellow informing me that his wife just told him that she had had a one-night stand with an IV drug abuser who informed her that he tested positive for AIDS. This means that I am at risk, and so is my husband!

Abby, please warn your readers that if they engage in extramarital sex to have the decency to protect themselves and their spouses. I wish I had.

TEARS ON MY PILLOW

DEAR TEARS: Your letter may save more lives than you know. I hope you are one of the lucky ones.

Readers: As I have pointed out in previous columns, sexually active people should ALWAYS use a condom, but because condoms sometimes break or slip off, one should also use a jelly lubricant containing Non-Oxynol-9, which will kill both the sperm and the AIDS virus. The active ingredients in a lubricant are listed on the outside of every package, so read before you buy.

According to the American Foundation for AIDS Research, of which I am a director, the AIDS virus may lie dormant in the body for years before causing the disease, so take no chances. This column isn't exactly an upper, but it is one of the most important columns I've ever written. (Would I lie to you on George Washington's birthday?) Please pass this on to a sexually active friend.

Wedding bells? Wedding bills! Who pays for what and everything else you need to know if you're planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Student faces possible expulsion

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An honor student faces possible expulsion from Jefferson High School after he and another student were charged in a telephoned bomb hoax to the school, officials said.

The bomb hoax included a telephone call to school officials in which the caller tried to disguise his voice as that of an Iranian, officials said Tuesday.

A phony bomb was discovered in a third-floor locker following the telephone call last Friday, officials said.

Lawsuits may have worried bookstores

NEW YORK (AP) — When is a bookstore legally liable for terrorism?

The bookstore chains that pulled "The Satanic Verses" off their shelves probably did so with at least one eye on lawsuits filed against Pan Am after a terrorist bomb blew up the airline's Flight 103 last year.

The companies — Waldenbooks and B. Dalton — said concern for employees' and customers' safety mandated withdrawal of the novel.

The Ayatollah Khomeini had pronounced the book sufficiently blasphemous to warrant a death sentence for its author, Salman Rushdie, and those involved with its publication.

Waldenbooks said its store managers had received bomb threats.

Legal experts say the companies undoubtedly had another cause for concern: their potential liability if someone were injured or killed in a terrorist attack.

The companies "might be concerned about their employees, and they might be concerned about themselves," said George Gabel of Jacksonville, Fla., chairman of the American Bar Association's committee on defamation.

Spokesmen for the companies declined to say what role, if any, the threat of lawsuits played in their decision, or on exactly what information they based their actions. But in an article Tuesday on the op-ed page of The New York Times, Waldenbooks president Harry Hoffman referred to the fate of Flight 103 and the 259 people aboard.

Saying that his decision to remove the novel followed "real threats made against the lives of real people," Hoffman added: "We have only to contemplate the downing of the Pan Am flight to be reminded that such threats may be taken seriously."

In that case, the airline was informed by the government that bomb threats had been made against Pan Am jetliners flying to the United States from Frankfurt, West Germany. U.S. diplomatic personnel were notified of the threats, but the general public was not.

Flight 103 from Frankfurt to New York blew up over the village of Lockerbie, Scotland, on Dec. 21, killing all 259 aboard. Some of the victims' relatives have sued, claiming Pan Am should have disclosed the threats.

In the "Satanic Verses" case, the ayatollah sentenced to death its author, Salman Rushdie, "and all those involved in its publication who were aware of its content."

Legal experts said that a lawyer could legitimately interpret "publication" to mean "distribution," and give his client sound, albeit rather conservative, advice: get the book off the shelf and out of the windows.

Data questions wide use of chemotherapy

BOSTON (AP) — A federal recommendation to give chemotherapy to all victims of early breast cancer will mean needlessly treating 65,000 women at a cost of $338 million to improve the outlook for just 5,000 others, a new analysis concludes.

Until recently, drug and hormone therapy were given exclusively to women whose tumors had spread to their lymph nodes. Those whose cancer had not visibly progressed beyond their breasts were treated with surgery and radiation therapy alone.

However, four new studies suggest that even those with early breast cancer could benefit from chemotherapy drug treatment. The therapy somewhat improves their chances of remaining cancer-free during the years immediately after their surgery, although there is no evidence that they ultimately live any longer.

Three of the studies, conducted in the United States, were the basis of an unusual recommendation last May by the National Cancer Institute. Without revealing details of the studies, the agency sent letters to cancer specialists suggesting that they give drug therapy to all breast cancer patients.

But Dr. Merrill I. Feldman of University Hospital in Boston, co-author of one of the studies, said, "There is a lot of resistance to treating women who are node negative" — who don't show evidence of cancer in the lymph nodes.

"Many people didn't feel that the alert from the NCI was documented by enough evidence to justify it," he said. "It still doesn't justify putting all women on this, unless they fit the strict criteria of the women in these studies."

The details of those studies, plus one conducted in Europe, are finally being published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

In general, the studies found that about 80 percent of the women getting drug treatment were still free of disease after about four years, compared with about 72 percent of those who were not treated. There was no significant difference, however, in the death rates between the two groups.

But for doctors the dilemma is knowing whom to treat. About 70 percent of women with early breast cancer are cured of breast cancer with surgery or radiation alone. Many physicians are reluctant to treat everyone, when only a small minority could possibly benefit, yet there is no way at present to know who really needs the medicines.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter, 53, has had problems with her hands for five years. Her palms are always red, cracked, rough and thickened. They also hurt a lot. What can she do?

DEAR READER: The problem of skin irritation of the palms has many causes, ranging from severe allergic reactions to insufficient circulation. Your daughter needs an examination to uncover the reason for her problem. She may need the services of a dermatologist.

Many forms of hand irritation are due to the loss of natural oils from the skin. This can be accentuated by harsh soaps, detergents and cleaning agents. While your daughter is waiting for an appointment, I recommend she try the following program.

She should use rubber gloves, preferably brand-new ones, when she performs household chores, such as cleaning, laundry and dishwashing. She may find that a pure soap, such as Ivory or castile, will be less irritating when she washes. She should purchase a lanolin-containing skin cream — or even pure sheep lanolin — and use it generously on the affected skin, rubbing it in well several times a day, especially after her hands have been in water or exposed to harsh elements, such as cold and dry air.

If these suggestions are effective, she can cancel her appointment. Otherwise she should see a doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What's the difference between fibromyositis and osteoarthritis?

DEAR READER: Fibromyositis (fibromyalgia or myofascial pain syndrome) is a condition of unknown cause marked by pain, tenderness and stiffness of muscles and tendons. Fibromyositis sometimes affects the low back (lumbago) or the chest wall (pleurodynia). Sometimes the muscles are inflamed; more often, they are simply tender. The condition is benign, often disappears by itself or can be treated with heat and mild pain medicine.

One of the hallmarks of fibromyositis is the "trigger point": Firm pressure on an affected muscle or tendon elicits rather severe pain. The ailment must be differentiated from more serious diseases, such as hypothyroidism (underactive thyroid) and rheumatoid arthritis.

Osteoarthritis, on the other hand, is a ubiquitous joint disease that affects most people as they age. It is characterized by a general wearing-down of joint surfaces (causing stiffness) and painless swellings around the joints. It is readily diagnosed by its appearance; the joint erosion is confirmed by X-ray examination. Osteoarthritis of the upper extremities is an uncomfortable nuisance. However, when the disease affects the weight-bearing joints (hips and knees), painful disability can result. Aspirin and similar drugs are usually useful in controlling the pain and stiffness of osteoarthritis; severe cases may require joint replacement.

As a general rule, fibromyositis/fibromyalgia strikes younger people than does osteoarthritis, is more difficult to diagnose, is less common and is not a progressive condition.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Understanding Osteoarthritis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

had an alternative approach. What if declarer ruffs the third spade and plays A-K-Q of diamonds? Now if West ruffs and plays another spade, South can ruff, cash the A-K of clubs and then ruff his losing diamond in dummy. Alas, this won't work because West will simply ruff the third diamond and then play ace and a heart, leaving declarer with a loser.

So let's try it another way. Let South ruff the third spade, cash the A-K of clubs, play A-K of diamonds and then lead dummy's last diamond, playing low from his hand. If the defenders now play ace and a trump, declarer will unblock from dummy, pick up the trumps and be left with the winning diamond queen. If the defenders try anything else, declarer will be able to make a trick by ruffing his good queen of diamonds in dummy. It's an unusual play, but it works.

Nation's biggest heroin bust reported

NEW YORK (AP) — In the largest heroin raid in U.S. history, police and federal agents tracked $1 billion worth of the drug from Southeast Asia to two homes in New York City, where it was hidden inside hundreds of tires.

The 800-pound seizure made the notorious "French Connection" case seem modest by comparison, and showcased the rise of Asian drug smugglers, authorities said Tuesday.

U.S. Attorney Andrew Maloney said "Operation White Mare" and some other recent cases provide "clear proof that the Chinese are responsible for 70 to 80 percent of the heroin that is smuggled into New York."

Since 1985, the supply of heroin from Asia has increased, and Asian drug rings have supplanted heroin operations run by traditional American organized crime families, the prosecutor said at a news conference held to announce the seizure.

The 800 pounds "would supply 40 to 50 percent of all the heroin needed for some 200,000 addicts on an annual basis in New York City," he said.

Authorities say investigators set out 18 months ago to identify major Chinese heroin distribution and import networks operating in the metropolitan area. Working on a tip from an informant, an Asian-American FBI undercover agent infiltrated the ring.

The investigation culminated in raids Monday night and Tuesday morning, when 17 people were arrested and $3 million in cash was seized in addition to the drugs.

Another nine people were arrested in Hong Kong today, authorities said.

Officials said the 800 pounds originated — as much of the U.S. heroin supply does — in the "Golden Triangle," the rugged borderlands of Burma, Thailand and Laos.

From there the heroin was tracked to Hong Kong, where it was packed inside small hollow rubber tires designed for carts. The 264 boxes of tires were smuggled into Los Angeles and trucked to New York, where they were found in rented trucks outside two homes in Queens, according to James M. Fox, an assistant FBI director.

However, Hong Kong officials believed the heroin was shipped directly from Thailand to the United States, said Chris Cantley, acting chief staff officer of the police narcotics bureau in Hong Kong.

Lubbock cotton trading smashes volume record

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Rumors of major new purchases by China fueled furious trading on the Lubbock spot cotton market, smashing records and marking huge gains in cotton futures.

Merchants estimated that a spot market total of 600,000 to 700,000 bales changed hands Tuesday in what they believed to have been the largest daily turnover ever recorded in any cotton market in the world.

The Lubbock-based Telcot electronic merchandising system set an all-time high daily volume of 385,599 bales, more than quadrupling the previous record of 86,421 bales in June 1986.

An additional 215,000 to 315,000 bales traded outside the electronic system, trade officials estimated. Trading on Telcot alone through much of the day averaged 1,000 bales a minute, with the computerized system handling about 10 transactions per second.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal reported that the cotton traded on Telcot will put about $10 million into the hands of area producers within the next 24 hours. Equity prices strengthened during the day and ended with most bringing about $25 to $30 per bale.

Rumors of new sales to China could not be confirmed, but merchants said the trading activity suggested the country may have purchased as many as 500,000 or more bales.

Try, try again

By James Jacoby

West's two-spade bid was risky opposite a silent partner, but it did push the opponents to the three-level. With some length in the opponents' heart suit, West was happy to initiate a forcing defense by playing three rounds of spades. South ruffed and played a heart to dummy's king, then a heart back to his queen and West's ace. West led another spade. Declarer ruffed and hopefully played another high trump, but the suit did not split. West was left with the master trump and was able to ruff in and cash a spade to defeat the contract.

If the contract had been four hearts, declarer's line of play could not be criticized. However, with the obligation to take only nine tricks, declarer

AT&T ANNOUNCES PRICE CHANGES FOR LONG DISTANCE CALLS WITHIN TEXAS

AT&T announces April 1, 1989, price changes for Long Distance Service (MTS) within Texas. AT&T's prices for long distance calling within Texas will be increased by two cents per minute for calls under 82 miles in distance and one cent per minute for calls that are 82 miles or greater in distance. AT&T's current discounts of 25% for evening calls and 40% for night and weekend calls will remain in effect. The price increases are expected to produce approximately $22.8 million, which is nearly 2.9% of AT&T's annual revenues for Texas Long Distance Service.

This represents the first AT&T price increase for long distance calls within Texas. AT&T's long distance prices for calls within Texas have been reduced overall by about 12% since 1986.

The Long Distance Service price changes will also impact AT&T's PROSM WATS Texas offering, which offers subscribers a 10% discount on all long distance calls within Texas. These price changes are expected to produce approximately $661,000, or about 3.5% of the annual revenues for AT&T's PROSM WATS Texas offering.

Prices for AT&T's REACH OUTSM Texas offering will also change. The price for initial hour usage will increase from $12.55 to $12.95; the additional hour price will increase from $11.40 to $12.00. These price increases are expected to produce approximately $364,000, or about 2.1% of the annual revenues for AT&T's REACH OUTSM Texas offering.

AT&T's tariffs implementing these changes will be filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas on March 1, 1989, with an effective date of April 1, 1989. The combined price increases are expected to produce approximately $23.9 million, which is approximately 2.4% of AT&T's annual revenues for all-Texas intrastate services.

If you have questions regarding these price changes please call AT&T's service consultants at 1-800-222-0300 for residential customers or 1-800-222-0400 for business customers. Persons who have questions regarding this tariff filing may also contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas in writing, at 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 450N, Austin, Texas 78757, or by calling the Public Information Office at 512-458-0223, or 512-458-0227, or 512-458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Mavs wait on Dantley

DALLAS (AP) - Would-be Dallas Maverick Adrian Dantley planned to decide today whether to join the team in Denver for a game against the Nuggets or continue his contract holdout.

Dantley, traded to Dallas from Denver for Mark Aguirre last week, has missed two games since the swap, costing him $30,487.80 in lost salary.

Team officials worked with Dantley and his agent for four hours late Tuesday night trying to resolve the dispute. Dantley spoke privately to Mavericks owner Donald Carter twice during the session, a team

WTC enters Bronco invitational tourney

ROSWELL, N.M. - Western Texas College tees off the spring golf season by playing in the Fifth Annual Bronco Invitational, hosted by New Mexico Military Institute.

Sixteen teams will tee off for 36 holes Friday. Another 18 holes will be played Saturday.

Teams entered include Western, Odessa, New Mexico Military, Midland, Texas Tech University, New Mexico State, Eastern New Mexico and others. Making up two teams for Western will be Andrews sophomores Mark Burgen, Jeff spokesman said.

"We had a talk, it seemed to be a pretty good talk between the two of us," Dantley said in a statement released through the Mavericks. "We left the meeting and we're going to sleep on it. I'll call back in the morning."

The Mavericks set a 10 a.m. CST deadline for Dantley to make a decision.

If he fails to report to the team by that time, Dallas may continue to withhold his salary, suspend him, trade him or seek damages.

The NBA trading deadline is 8 p.m. Thursday.

"I can't say whether I expect Adrian here or not," Mavericks coach John MacLeod told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram after Tuesday night's negotiations. "At this point, we truly don't know."

Dantley reportedly wants deferred money at age 35 to be divided into the earlier years of his contract. That would increase his $1.25 million salary this season to an unknown sum. The 6-

5 forward turns 32 Monday.

But Mavericks General Manager Norm Sonju has said that the amount of money the team has to work with is limited because they are up against the $7.2 million salary cap.

Carter met in person with Dantley and his agent, David Falk, at Dulles International Airport in suburban Washington Sunday to try to settle the situation.

Roby against Trent at 8 p.m.

Here Tuesday, second-ranked Pflugerville and Dumas battled to an 11-11 tie in the first quarter. But the Panthers, led by 5-7 senior Rona Walker, began to pull away in the second period.

Walker notched 10 of her team-high 20 points in the quarter and teammate Claudia Collier bagged a couple of 3-pointers as the Panthers pushed to a 39-26 lead by halftime.

Dumas, District 1-4A runner-up this season, battled back in the third quarter behind April Garrett's 10 points. The Demons outscored the Panthers 14-10 to pull within 8 as the game entered the final period.

Pflugerville saw its lead dip to just 7 points, 54-47, when Nicole Guidry tossed in a 3-point goal with 4:23 left. It was Dumas' final rally however. Pflugerville's full-court pressure caused several turnovers and the Panthers scored 8 unanswered points to put the game away.

Walker's 20 led Pflugerville, now 34-1, while Collier scored 16 and Ali Llorens added 10.

Dumas, 17-11, got 24 points from Garrett, a 5-8 senior. Guidry notched 15.

Lewis happy with 'D' but hitting is concern

BROWNFIELD - Coach Albert Lewis can't help but smile at his Tigers' defensive effort but when it comes to performance at the plate, a frown begins to form on the veteran coach's face.

"We played good defense, only one error, but we left the bases loaded in the first inning with one out, in the sixth inning with one out and in the seventh inning," said Lewis after Tuesday's scrimmage with the Brownfield

Cubs. Brownfield outscored the Tigers 5-4 in seven innings.

Snyder's final scrimmage is set for Saturday at 1 p.m. as the Tigers play host to Midland Lee at Moffett Field. The season opener occurs next Tuesday in Lubbock against always-tough Estacado.

"Brownfield has three good pitchers. They are going to have a real good baseball team this year," predicted Lewis.

The coach worked Kevin Dollins for three innings and Willie Garcia for the final four. Dollins got caught by the new, more restrictive balk rules and allowed four free passes. He gave up four of the Cubs' runs. Garcia gave up the other and recorded a trio of strikeouts.

Snyder managed six hits and benefitted from 11 walks but also struck out 11 times. Bert Otto slapped a triple, Simon Gutierrez banged a double and Garcia and Randy Morris punched two singles apiece.

"I was pleased with everything except our hitting - or lack of," said Lewis. "Bert Otto had a good night defensively for us and Bert Merritt made four super catches in centerfield."

Lewis also noted that Jason West, Lee Hamilton and Toby Goodwin have now joined the team following the basketball season.

Tyson at peace with himself; clear favorite against Bruno

LAS VEGAS (AP) - Just days before his eighth title defense, Mike Tyson says he's at peace with himself - and ready to go to war with Frank Bruno.

"Things are a lot clearer now," Tyson said Tuesday. "There are no problems. I'm very happy at this particular moment in my life."

The heavyweight champion declared himself free of personal turmoil as he and promoter Don King met the press at the Las Vegas Hilton.

He then issued a warning to Bruno, who he will meet Saturday night with his undisputed heavyweight title on the line.

"I'm not going to give him any chance," the 22-year-old Tyson said. "This is where I dominate. I dominate in the ring. That's what I do best."

Tyson, who had ballooned to about 260 pounds before beginning training for Bruno, appeared fit and in fine spirits during the impromptu news conference, laughing frequently and joking with the assembled reporters.

Tyson spoke easily about his personal troubles, which included a Valentine's Day divorce from his wife, actress Robin Givens, his squabbles with his estranged manager Bill Cayton, and his manhandling of a television camera during a January visit to his ex-wife.

"I made a lot mistakes," Tyson said. "But I'm not going to commit suicide. I'm not going to kill myself over it."

Tyson said he weighed 217 or 218 pounds and planned to come in at 218 for the fight.

"I'm not a hostile person, but he's in some trouble," he said of the British challenger.

Bruno earlier had expressed hope that Tyson's problems, especially his split from trainer Kevin Rooney, would take something away from the champion inside the ring.

But Tyson said he felt less turmoil than he felt last June when he knocked Michael Spinks out only 91 seconds into their title fight.

Most think Bruno, a hulking Englishman who hasn't fought in 16 months, will indeed be in trouble when he meets Tyson in the scheduled 12-round fight, which will be televised by HBO.

Odds makers have made the unbeaten champion a prohibitive 7 1/2-1 favorite to win the fight, and it's even money the scheduled 12-round fight won't last four rounds.

Opening arguments begin in condo fraud court case

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — His trial on charges of fraud, conspiracy and racketeering was barely underway when two quite different pictures emerged of millionaire developer D.L. "Danny" Faulkner.

Opening statements began Tuesday in the federal case in which Faulkner and six associates are accused of conspiring to defraud savings and loans of millions of dollars in loan proceeds for condominium developments along the Interstate 30 corridor east of Dallas.

Faulkner's attorney drew a picture of a poor, nearly illiterate sharecropper's son who through luck and hard work saw his dream of a condo empire materialize.

A victim of dyslexia who "could never learn the alphabet," Faulkner himself planted the grass in his first condo development, said Cheryl Wattlely.

Because he was ridiculed as a child, she said, Faulkner became flamboyant with his wealth.

"He bought those symbols that screamed, 'I am somebody, I have made it, I am successful,'" Ms. Wattlely said.

Assistant U.S. attorney Terry Hart, however, charged that Faulkner helped mastermind a complex scheme of land deals based on false real estate appraisals that generated hundreds of millions of dollars in profits for him and his associates off loan proceeds.

Faulkner himself netted $40 million in profits, Hart said, and that money wasn't the result of legal real estate investments.

"Evidence will show that these were not investments," Hart said. "The defendants were guaranteed to make incredible returns on the property they bought."

The government alleges that the group's conspiracy resulted in land prices that were fraudulently inflated, sometimes as much as from $1 to $7.50 per square foot in two days.

Hart said the roles of land promoters, buyers and sellers, real estate appraisers and bankers illustrated "the market in reverse."

"We didn't have the buyer trying to get the lowest price possible for the land, the bank trying to protect itself or real estate appraisals trying to assess fair value to the land," he said.

Charged along with Faulkner with racketeering, fraud and conspiracy are developer James Toler, former S&L official Spencer Blain, mortgage banker Paul Jensen and real estate salesman Ken Cansler. Real estate appraisers Paul Tannehill and Arthur Formann are charged with racketeering but are not included in the conspiracy charge.

The defendants purchased helicopters, jets, Rolls Royce automobiles and donned expensive jewelry and Rolex watches to convince unsophisticated outside investors of the ease with which money was made, the prosecutor said.

"The image of success was important in this scheme," said Hart, who told of Saturday morning promotional meetings attended by former Gov. Mark White and Attorney General Jim Mattox.

The politicians lended "the appearance of respectability" and received campaign contributions from Faulkner, Hart said.

But Ms. Wattlely said the morning meetings were informal social gatherings attended by people who liked and admired Faulkner's pioneering efforts at condo development.

"Danny Faulkner never had anyone stand up and talk about condo properties," she said. "If anyone stood up, it was a minister to bless the food."

The money to finance Faulkner and Toler's condo empire came from five thrifts in Texas and Arkansas. Empire Savings and Loan in Mesquite — controlled at various times by Blain, Faulkner and Toler — was closed by federal regulators in 1984 with $308 million in bad loan losses.

More than 100 indictments already have resulted from Empire's collapse and the subsequent investigation, and several government witnesses are investors who have pleaded guilty to criminal charges in exchange for an agreement to testify.

Defense attorneys used their opening statements to attack the credibility of one such key witness, Clifford Sinclair, who in 1986 was sentenced to 13 years in prison and ordered to pay restitution for his role in the scheme. Fawer and Ms. Wattlely alleged that Sinclair, who helped line up I-30 investors and assemble the land deals, masterminded the scheme rather than Faulkner.

"Clifford Sinclair has gotten the government to twist everything, take everything Danny Faulkner did and make it criminal," said Ms. Wattlely.

Chemical firm, man's family settle lawsuit

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Monsanto Co. and the family of an Alvin plant worker who died of leukemia in 1980 have resolved a suit filed by the man's survivors with an out-of-court settlement described as "substantial."

The settlement, announced Tuesday, came after jurors in a federal court retrial found that benzene used by Monsanto in chemical production can cause the type of leukemia that killed Wilbur Jack Skeen at the age of 53.

The second phase of the trial, in which jurors would have been asked to decide if benzene exposure specifically caused Skeen's leukemia and if Monsanto was negligent, ended before it began.

U.S. District Judge Hugh Gibson in Galveston told jurors the case had been settled.

Skeen's family was seeking $100 million in damages, the amount the family was awarded in 1986. That award, thrown out by the court as excessive, was the biggest ever in a Texas wrongful death case.

"We're elated. We proved our point, that benzene causes all kinds of leukemia," said Skeen's widow, Sammie Joe Skeen, 56, of Henderson. "This is like when Columbus discovered America."

"We've opened up a new field for other people," she said. "We would like for people to know that we have fought very hard for men working at plants and that the jury system does work."

Monsanto's attorneys had argued that benzene may cause acute myelogenous leukemia but not the chronic myelogenous leukemia listed as the cause of Skeen's death.

Jurors voted 11-1 that benzene could cause the disease that killed Skeen.

Monsanto attorney Daniel Goforth said the settlement results in a "take-nothing verdict" in that there is no finding of liability against Monsanto.

He and Skeen attorney John O'Quinn said both parties had agreed not to disclose the sum of settlement and it will be sealed from the public in court records.

"It's a substantial settlement," said O'Quinn.

The jury's decision last week sets an important precedent about the use of cancer-causing chemicals that will be watched closely by other chemical companies, the lawyer said.

"It's a victory for workers," O'Quinn said. "They can't just write off some of these workers."

Skeen, who had worked at Monsanto's Chocolate Bayou plant near Alvin from 1969 until two days before his death, died in 1980. The disease was diagnosed in 1975.

"This has gone on for so long. We just want to rest and go back to a normal state of living," said Mrs. Skeen, who will share the settlement with five adult children, who also were plaintiffs in the lawsuit.

Navajo chairman said reinstated by relative

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Navajo Chairman Peter MacDonald, ousted last week by the tribal council, has been reinstated by order of his brother-in-law, a tribal judge.

Tribal Judge Harry Brown issued a temporary restraining order Tuesday overturning the council's ouster of MacDonald, who has been accused of corruption, and Vice Chairman Johnny Thompson.

A short time later, Thompson presented the court order to the council and was seated as chairman pro tem in MacDonald's absence. The council then recessed its winter meeting until today.

Geoffrey Standing Bear, MacDonald's attorney, said Brown scheduled a show-cause hearing Friday morning to determine whether to permanently order the council not to place MacDonald and Thompson on administrative leave.

Brown found that the council failed to follow the correct procedure for removing a chairman from office last Friday, when it voted 49-13 against MacDonald and Thompson, Standing Bear said.

"The chairman is entitled to his constitutional rights," he added.

John Chapela, a lawyer who heads a recall movement against MacDonald, complained that the order was issued in Kayenta, about 140 miles from the tribal capital of Window Rock.

"Legal matters affecting the Navajo Tribe have to be brought before the Window Rock court," Chapela said. "Otherwise, it would look as if people were shopping around to find the most favorable court."

Standing Bear said he avoided the Window Rock court because Navajo Tribal Police Chief Bill Kellogg suggested that there was "potential for unrest" there.

Noting that Brown and MacDonald are married to sisters, Standing Bear said Brown anticipated handing over the case to another judge if challenged.

Members of MacDonald's staff said the chairman was in Window Rock but chose not to attend the tribal council meeting.

The previous week's action against MacDonald and Thompson followed congressional testimony that MacDonald shared in a Phoenix oilman's $7.2 million profit from the sale of the Big Boquillas Ranch to the tribe.

Thompson was not implicated in the alleged under-the-counter dealings.

The Navajo chairman receives $55,000 a year for running the nation's largest Indian tribe, with an estimated 200,000 members, including 170,000 living on the reservation.

Prosecution testimony gets started in Ollie North's trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former chairman of the House intelligence committee is the first witness called by Iran-Contra prosecutors intent on showing that Oliver North subverted democracy by lying about his secret support of Nicaraguan rebels.

Associate independent counsel John Kecker told jurors in his opening statement Tuesday that Lee Hamilton's panel wanted to know what North was doing in 1985 following news reports he was helping the Contras in defiance of a congressional ban on helping the rebels.

"You'll hear Lee Hamilton say that there is a difference between keeping secrets and telling lies and you don't have to tell lies to keep secrets," Kecker told the jury.

Hamilton, D-Ind., former chairman of the House Select Committee on Intelligence, was set to be the prosecution's lead witness when the trial resumed today in U.S. District Court.

Defense lawyer Brendan V. Sullivan told jurors in his opening statement that North felt his first duty was to protect the secrecy of covert operations whose exposure could endanger lives.

He said North and others were reluctant to discuss covert operations with lawmakers because "it was the perception of the National Security Council and the president of the United States that the Congress of the United States leaked like a sieve."

But Kecker argued that "to lie to Congress because you mistrust it then is a crime and not a defense." He told the jury that Hamilton "will tell you Congress can't do its job if administration officials come to him and lie."

North, a retired Marine lieutenant colonel and former national security council aide, is charged with nine felony counts of lying to Congress and to a presidential investigation of the Iran-Contra affair.

He also is charged with illegally using a tax-exempt foundation to raise private donations to arm the Contras, and with two counts alleging he personally profited from the Iran-Contra affair.

Kecker said North's lies to Congress and subsequent destruction of key documents during a presidential investigation in 1986 amounted to "a crime that goes to the soul of our self-government."

"You will hear that he considers himself a patriotic person, but there is no higher patriotic purpose than to protect our system of government," Kecker said.

Sullivan disputed the prosecution's version of the Iran-Contra affair, saying North "followed the instructions of the highest ranking officials of the United States of America."

North "worked in a secret world" on covert operations "to protect the national security of the country," Sullivan said.

One of the secrets he protected, Sullivan said, was President Reagan's plan to solicit donations from foreign governments to aid the Contras after Congress passed the 1984 Boland Amendment, which banned U.S. assistance.

Reagan told aides: "If this leaks out, we'll all be hanging by our thumbs outside the White House until we find out who did it," Sullivan told jurors.

"The president was angry" about the ban on aid to the Contras "and he vowed to find a way to support them," Sullivan said.

As a result of Reagan's orders, "Ollie North was supposed to keep them together body and soul."

North and his boss, then-national security adviser Robert McFarlane, "decided they would place themselves above the law and not tell Congress about Col. North's activities," when Hamilton and other lawmakers started asking questions in August 1985, Kecker said.

When the Iran-Contra affair unraveled in November, 1986, North lied again and shredded evidence to cover up his earlier lies to Congress, the prosecutor said.

Chambers, all of Snyder, and Grace Cunningham of Gatesville; and several nieces and nephews, including Vick and Ted Chambers, both of Snyder.

He was preceded in death by a son, Melvin, who died in 1969.

Theft of camera noted to police

Police and sheriff's deputies are investigating two theft cases that were reported Tuesday.

Western Texas College journalism instructor Bill Murchison told police at 3:52 p.m. Tuesday that a camera, camera case and light meter had been stolen from his office.

An investigator said the camera, a Plaubel, and equipment were valued at more than $750 and the case would be a felony.

John McKinney of 705 30th St. told the sheriff's office at noon Tuesday that a head and hoses had been stolen from an acetylene bottle at the Texas Department of Corrections construction site northeast of town.

Fire in tank doused Tuesday

Firemen doused burning residue inside a storage tank between 5:20 and 6 p.m. Tuesday at 25th St. and Ave. Z.

A department spokesman said workmen using a cutting torch inside the tank started the fire.

Prison bonds likely to miss May vote

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis says he hopes a plan for the Texas criminal justice system will be ready within a week or two — but that apparently will be too late to let voters to decide this May on whether to issue state bonds to build more prisons.

A May vote had been sought by Gov. Bill Clements, who has said he wants to fund construction of 11,000 more prison beds.

"In order to get on the ballot for the uniform election date in May, it would have to pass the Legislature within the next few days, and that's really not possible," Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said Tuesday.

But Lewis and Hobby said the state already has more than $140 million in bonds previously approved but not yet spent. That could finance about 4,400 beds, Hobby said.

If additional bonding authority is needed, the question could be put before voters in a later election. There are uniform election dates in August and November.

"We've got to move as quickly as possible, but certainly the $143 million will address some of the immediate needs. If we can get the rest on the ballot later on, that'll be okay," said Reggie Bashur, the governor's press secretary.

House members, senators, prison officials and people from the governor's office have been meeting to discuss possible criminal justice solutions, Lewis said.

State prisons are under a federal court-ordered population ceiling because of overcrowding, and some officials have complained about inmates being released after serving only a small portion of their sentences.

A number of local jails also are crowded with inmates awaiting transfer to full-to-capacity state prisons.

The secretary of state's office informed legislative leaders that they should decide what was to be on the May ballot by mid-February, said Jim Warren, spokesman for the secretary of state.

That deadline was suggested because of the time needed to prepare for an election, Warren said.

"It still could be done, but it had better be awful quick," he said.

The 11,000 beds that Clements asked for would require $343 million in bonds.

Sen. Kent Caperton, a Bryan Democrat who heads the Senate Finance Committee, said, "I think there probably are too many reservations among the members to rush it and put that on the May ballot."

Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville, chairman of the House Corrections Committee, said he thought the House and Senate "felt like they were being forced to vote on something to give to the public (and) that all the evidence wasn't in on it."

Hightower said alternatives to imprisoning people need to be aired. Many legislators also question the wisdom of paying for new prisons with bonds, because interest payments could end up doubling the cost of facilities.

Lewis also said Clements told him Tuesday that he is "not married" to the idea of having 11,000 new beds. The speaker said he expects space for 7,000 to 11,000 new beds to be approved.

Bashur said the governor would be willing to consider a few hundred beds more or less than 11,000.

Andy Collins, deputy director of operations for the Texas Department of Corrections, said the longer the prisons are delayed, the more inmates will be backed up in the county jails.

Windham has dates now set

Tracey, deputy superintendent; Cuyler Thompson, a staffer with the post secondary programs; and Pat Norwood, administrative assistant.

The applications for Windham School employment will be available at WTC beginning March 1 and will be accepted through April 1.

These may be picked up at the office of adult and continuing education located in the Learning Resource Center.

A set of fingerprints of all applicants must be provided with the application. These will be taken by WTC staffers and used for preliminary background checks to be completed by TDC personnel.

All applications will be forwarded to Windham School officials at Huntsville, where all pre-screening will take place.

Windham School will send out letters requesting interviews with selected applicants. These interviews will be on the WTC campus in mid-April.

Once a principal is named, he will be involved in the actual employment of school personnel.

School employment will begin directly after the opening of the prison slated June 27. Windham School staffers will work a 226-day calendar year.

This will include 10 in-service training days and six "floating days" when staffers may be excused from work.

School staffers will be off for all state holidays and the system dismisses classes for two weeks each July and two weeks in December during Christmas.

The salary paid is based upon the pay scale for other public school teachers in the area "plus 20 percent." This additional 20 percent reflects the extra days Windham School teachers work compared to their public school counterparts.

Rap, heavy metal get their start at Grammy awards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two rap music groups nominated for Grammy Awards say they are boycotting tonight's ceremonies because they are insulted their new category was shunted off the live television broadcast.

"The real Grammy award is the chance to appear on the Grammy Awards show, with its audience of 100 million Americans," said Will "Fresh Prince" Smith in a statement. "Rap music is simply too big to be overlooked like this."

The categories of rap and heavy metal were added to the 76 divisions of awards for the CBS-TV show, the 31st edition of the Grammys. The show is hosted by Billy Crystal and produced by Pierre Cossette.

Folksinger Tracy Chapman and vocal gymnast Bobby McFerrin lead the nominees. If Miss Chapman sweeps in her six nominated categories, she will be the first artist to win six trophies in one night since Roger Miller did it in 1966 for his single "King of the Road."

Fifteen of the awards are being televised, including the hard rock and heavy metal for which the group Metallica is a nominee along with Iggy Pop, Jane's Addiction, Jethro Tull and AC-DC.

There will be a rap performance by Kool Moe Dee, but that award category will be called during the usually fast-paced pre-televised ceremony in which most of the awards are given.

Rappers say it's an insult, and Windham School teachers work compared to their public school counterparts.

Among other musicians slated to perform are Whitney Houston, the Manhattan Transfer, Luther Vandross, Kool Moe Dee, Sinead O'Connor, Linda Ronstadt, Melissa Etheridge, Toni Childs, Tracy Chapman and Itzhak Perlman.

Special tributes also were set for jazz, country and western and gospel music.

Metallica is set to perform their new single "One," from the nominated album "...And Justice For All." The group is popular with heavy metal fans, but the band's uncompromising lyrics have kept it from the wider radio airplay enjoyed by hard rock groups like Bon Jovi.

No one was more surprised than Metallica members to learn they had been asked to perform, one member said.

ANNOUNCING

Ramey picked as one semifinalist

LUBBOCK—A Hermleigh High School senior has been named as a semifinalist in the Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation competition.

Eighteen-year-old Daniel Ramey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ramey of Hermleigh, must now submit a comprehensive essay, recommendations, and an official school transcript. If selected as one of the 150 finalists, he will advance to the national competition in Atlanta, Ga., April 13-15.

The nation's largest business-supported scholarship program selected 1,500 semifinalists nationwide, from a group of more than 50,000 applicants. Semifinalists in the $1 million program will compete for 150 college scholarships.

At the national competition, each of the 150 Coca-Cola Scholars named as finalists will compete for designation as a national scholar or a regional scholar. The 50 national scholars will receive renewable awards of $5,000 per year, totaling $20,000 over the course of a four-year undergraduate program.

The remaining 100 finalists will be designated regional scholars, receiving one-year, non-renewable awards of $1,000. Students may use their awards to attend the accredited college or university of their choice.

More than $1 million in scholarship funds will be disbursed annually by the fourth year of the merit-based program. The annual selection process, which began last year, required that applicants be U. S. citizens, full-time students attending secondary school in a participating bottler's territory and graduating seniors planning to pursue four-year degrees at accredited U. S. post-secondary institutions.

The Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation seeks to reward individuals on the basis of personal merit. Criteria evaluate the complete student—his or her leadership potential, character, and intellectual ability. Recipients will include deserving, committed individuals who are often not identified for merit-based scholarships, by who possesses the qualities that, given this opportunity, will enable them to surface as future leaders.

By selecting individuals on the basis of leadership, motivation, commitment and service to others, the Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation anticipates achieving its goal of recognizing and helping develop those who will lead our country in the years ahead.

The Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation, governed by a board of directors composed of four Coca-Cola bottlers and two representatives of the Coca-Cola Company, is granting its first scholarships in 1989. The Foundation was conceived by a group of Coca-Cola bottlers and established in 1986 in commemoration of the Centennial Celebration of Coca-Cola. Expenses for the finalists will be paid by the foundation.

Group objects to lollipop sedation of child patients

WASHINGTON (AP) — A health research group today asked the Food and Drug Administration to stop experiments in which children facing painful medical procedures are given lollipops laced with a powerful narcotic.

Public Citizen Health Research Group, in a letter to the FDA, said the drug in the form of a lollipop sends children "a dangerous message" about drugs being candy and is of "dubious clinical need or safety."

However, both the FDA and the Anesta Corp. of Salt Lake City, established by anesthesiologists and the University of Utah to test and develop an oral form of the drug, defended the study and discounted the potential for drug abuse.

The narcotic, fentanyl, has been approved by the FDA as an injectable drug. In the FDA-approved study, it is mixed with sweeteners, mounted on a stick like a lollipop and administered orally to children before they are given general anesthesia or undergo a painful diagnostic procedure.

The FDA has not approved the oral form of the drug except for use in the controlled experiments. Anesta said the study was started 3½ years ago and would continue for a year or two more before the company seeks approval to market oral fentanyl commercially.

Sidney M. Wolfe, director of the health research group, said: "Giving lollipops laced with a powerful narcotic to children who, in the words of one research group, 'visibly enjoyed the premedication experience,' as one might expect children sucking lollipops to do, is a major step in the wrong direction."

Wolfe also said approving oral use of the drug, which is far stronger than morphine and a favorite drug of abuse among anesthesiologists and "street" users, would likely increase drug abuse.

Inmates call for same-sex guards

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Two years after women were given permission to work in any job within the Texas Department of Corrections, male inmates are complaining that their right to privacy is being violated by female guards.

Inmates may expect to lose a great deal of privacy when they go to prison, but some men are saying that should not include being forced to undress, shower, or go to the bathroom under the watchful eyes of women guards. An estimated 2,000 work as guards within the TDC.

The inmates are getting sympathy — if not outright support — from a number of male guards.

"This pen is a man's world," said David Weisinger, a guard at the Ellis I Unit.

Inmates David Ruiz, who in 1972 filed the original lawsuit that led to sweeping reforms in the Texas prison system, and R. Wayne Johnson filed a lawsuit against the state last November, claiming their right to privacy was violated during the search by female guards at the Michael's Unit near Palestine.

In the lawsuit, the inmates contend they were subjected to "embarrassment, shame, emotional distress and mental anguish" during the search.

But the prisoners' concern goes beyond those raised by Ruiz and Johnson, however, because with female guards roaming cell blocks, male prisoners cannot even go to the bathroom in privacy. Each cell contains a toilet and sink, but the toilets are not screened.

Guard Frances Lowery looks upon her death row duty — to which she asked to be assigned — as "a routine thing that has to be done."

She and guard Carrie Looney say women's presence in prison areas where male convicts are naked is no different than nurses being in an infirmary or hospital and seeing male patients nude.

Such invasive searches as that described in the Ruiz-Johnson suit cannot be conducted by someone of the opposite sex, Brown said, and prison regulations restrict that procedure to medical personnel and "possibly" a few specially trained guards of the same sex as the inmate.
