Tower choice 'doomed'...

Bush readies replacement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today set the stage for rejecting the nomination of John Tower to run the Pentagon, while the White House appeared resigned to defeat and said President Bush would have a replacement candidate quickly if Tower was defeated.

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas agreed to a late-afternoon vote on the nomination after withdrawing a last-minute bid to give Tower an extraordinary six-month trial period as secretary of defense to prove he can abstain from drinking.

There was no doubt about the outcome as the Senate went through the motions of debating the nomination through the final few hours before the roll call.

"The bottom line in this place is how many votes do you have, how many votes can you change, can you change any?" Dole said. "And I think it is fairly clear despite this good faith effort that it is not going to change any votes."

Dole said Tower had told him he had rather the six-month probation plan be withdrawn so that the remaining hours of debate could be spent on the actual merits of his nomination.

With the prospect of defeat seemingly inevitable, White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, "If necessary, we'll come up with a (new) candidate very rapidly."

Board to consider teacher pay plans 'above' state base

The Snyder school board will consider a salary study for teachers Thursday at its regular March meeting set to begin at 7 p.m., an item discussed during a workshop of trustees Monday.

After Monday's workshop, trustees directed administrators to prepare cost projections for each pay level of local teachers assuming three pay ranges, $500 above state base, $1,000 above state base and $1,500 above state base.

The board has discussed establishing some consistent level for all pay "steps" within the system. Currently, teachers are paid on a wide range of "above state base" salaries.

In other business, the board will consider an addition to the way in which Snyder High School students are disciplined.

The change involves the addition of a "noon detention" period during which students are detained for disciplinary reasons. They are allowed to have lunch, but under the supervision of a school administrator.

The noon detention, currently in place at the high school, is viewed as an alternative to both paddling as a disciplinary measure and the In School Suspension (ISS) program, which is still in place for more serious violations of school policy.

As written in the policy, the noon detention option is used for "minor infractions of the code of conduct."

Also Thursday, the board is scheduled to officially call for the May 6 election which will name

Tarleton coed among Miss Snyder entrants

(Editor's Note: The SDN continues its profiles of the 12 candidates who will vie for the title of Miss Snyder at the Miss Snyder Scholarship Pageant.)

Denise Hood, currently a coed at Tarleton State University and a 1987 graduate of Snyder High School, will seek the title of Miss Snyder this coming March 18.

Also among the 20-year-old's slate of competitors is her twin sister, Deanne.

At Tarleton State, Denise has been a featured twirler the past two years, a role she filled at Snyder High School all through her high school years.

Her featured talent at the beauty pageant will be twirling.

She is the daughter of Duane and Mary Hood of Snyder.

Her other college activities include membership in the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, being named its "Sunshine Girl." She was also a member of the freshman council at Tarleton and holds membership in the Phi Theta Kappa honor fraternity for community college students.

At Snyder High School, she was a member of the student council for two years, a member of the SHS concert band for four years and a member of DECA for two years.

Her other memberships include the Society of Distinguish-

Cogdell to consider equipment requests

In addition to the regular bill paying session scheduled at noon Friday, Cogdell Memorial Hospital board members will consider several capital equipment requests and hear a discussion related to a rural health care program.

The board will hear also an update regarding the search for a financial manager at the hospital, a post to replace the current position of hospital controller.

The program related to rural health care will be presented by Jack Lawrence of Sweetwater. He is to discuss a transition grant program related to health care in rural areas.

The capital equipment items due board consideration include:

—An Adele Birthing Light, currently an unbudgeted item, estimated to cost some $1,000.

—An Olympic Bilmeter, also an unbudgeted item, estimated to cost $879.

—A vital signs monitor for the operating room, a budgeted item estimated to cost $6,624.

—Two typewriters not currently in the budget, estimated at $990.

—A personal computer and

J.D. Hinton, our good Aggie friend in Snyder, likes to jab us from time to time about miscues. We like it because it's proof that Hinton reads things closely and carefully. The Aggies are proud of him just because he can read.

If he were not an Aggie, he would likely become a member of the Society for the Preservation of English Language and Literature.

Known as Spell, the four-year-old group has some 2,000 members who send out goof cards when a member spots an error. The goof card explains the mistake.

The organization also has a monthly newsletter in which 20 or more bloopers appear, and at the end of the year, the three worst are awarded the Dunce Cap.

The 1988 Dunce Cap award went to Dunkin' Donuts, Inc. who failed to know the answer to the question, "What makes food go stale: lying out too long or laying out too long?"

The error was made by the doughnut company in a radio and TV ad which proclaimed, "The problem with supermarket doughnuts is there's no telling how long they've been laying there."

Shame! People who make that kind of gaffe probably are the same folks who publicly dunk their doughnut in their coffee.

The second prize of 1988 went to Mobil Corp. for a dangling introductory phrase in a letter concerning subsidiary Montgomery Ward. A company spokesman was good natured and replied, "We is guilty."

The Wichita Falls newspaper was third with a grammar error in a photo caption. The editor was unamused by his paper's publicity.

The organization says 75 percent of the goof cards draw a response. In the case of the doughnut ad, a correction was made.

We just hope people, even Aggies, keep on reading.

2nd case of measles said possible at WTC

Western Texas College officials learned Thursday shortly before noon of a possible second case of measles involving a WTC student.

The female student was scheduled to see a doctor Thursday afternoon, so officials stressed the report was unconfirmed early today.

College officials contacted the girl at noon after learning she had telephoned one of her teachers to report the illness.

The first suspected case of measles here was reported Tuesday. It involves a 21-year-old male student and dorm resident at WTC who has since returned to his home city of Borger.

At noon Thursday, test results for that student were not complete and a diagnosis of measles in the case was not officially confirmed.

In response to that reported case, officials with the Snyder-Scurry Health Unit said Thursday they have given out some 250 immunization shots.

Health unit spokesman Louie Vaughn said, "It's going smooth. We seem to be getting the right age group in (for shots)."

After learning of the suspected case Tuesday, WTC officials notified local persons identified as coming in contact with the male student. This list included approximately 150 students living in the WTC dorm and another 100 enrolled in day classes with the student.

Health officials stress that unless persons came in direct

In Brief

Crawfish wars

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Louisiana Agriculture Commissioner Bob Odom says no matter what his counterpart in Texas says, Louisiana is still the crawfish capital of the South.

Odom's comments Wednesday were in reference to remarks made by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower on Tuesday in announcing a Houston supermarket chain's marketing campaign for Texas mudbugs.

"At long last we have a pure Texas crawfish that is going to save us Texans from the shame and humiliation that we have experienced over the last many, many generations of having to eat those smelly, mud-coated, itty-bitty, slow-witted crawfish from Louisiana," he said.

Odom said Louisiana crawfish leave their Texas counterparts in the mud.

North trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan made a dramatic appearance at a White House meeting to thank 25 wealthy contributors who gave money to what was later declared an illegal fund-raising operation for the Nicaraguan Contra rebels, a witness in Oliver North's trial says.

Carl "Spitz" Channell testified Wednesday about the meeting and North's role in the fund-raising operation.

Channell pleaded guilty in 1987 to conspiring to defraud the Treasury by using a tax-exempt foundation for a non-exempt purpose — raising money for Contra military activities. One of the counts against North, who helped direct the Reagan administration's secret Contra assistance efforts, is that he participated in the tax conspiracy.

Assault rifle

AUSTIN (AP) — Semiautomatic and assault rifles would be illegal in Texas under a bill filed by a state lawmaker who says his measure is "an ounce of prevention."

"What are you going to use an assault rifle for? To hunt people? — And that's what they've been used for," said Rep. Harold Dutton, D-Houston. "I think even though we haven't had an incident in Texas, it's probably a good idea for us to do it (ban the rifles)."

Five school children in Stockton, Calif. were killed in mid-January by a man using an AK-47 assault rifle, and 29 children and one teacher were wounded.

Paraplegic disappears...

City of Angels offers to help

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The plight of a homeless paraplegic whose wheelchair was stolen as he slept in a parking lot unleashed an outpouring of public sympathy, but the man disappeared before he could accept any offers of help.

Details about George Donovan's life and his misfortune were not all that clear, but people who tried to help him said the theft was typical: a snapshot of misery on Skid Row.

"George is a victim of the victims," said Ray McCann, communications director at the Union Rescue Mission, where Donovan found shelter briefly.

Police agreed Donovan, who claimed to be a veteran, was the victim of Skid Row thieves. And although people who have heard about the theft wanted to help, there was no one to refer them to, said Lt. Fred Nixon, a police spokesman.

The incident began Tuesday evening when Donovan, 47, awakened in a parking lot and found his wheelchair was gone, said Officer Joe Mariani, another police spokesman.

Police said they found Donovan propped up against a wall in an alley near the downtown Greyhound Bus Station.

Before taking him to the Union Rescue Mission, police tried to find him shelter for three hours, calling the Veterans Administration, the county social services department and even a detoxification center, although he hadn't been drinking, McCann said. They wouldn't take Donovan because he wasn't sick or injured, wasn't ambulatory or because they didn't have room.

"It's just dreadful," said Blanche Carey, 61, of Lomita after she heard a radio account of Donovan's plight. She offered to donate electric and manual wheelchairs she can no longer use.

"We've got a real outpouring of people who want to help," said Carl Fielstra, ministry director at the Union Rescue Mission. Following the news reports about Donovan, the 98-year-old downtown mission received calls all day offering help and donations, he said.

But Donovan's whereabouts were unknown. He was in a friend's care when he left a hospital early Wednesday and was not considered missing, said police Cmdr. George Morrison.

Although there were some reports that Donovan had been roughed up by the thieves, the police report stated only that the chair was stolen as he slept. Fielstra said Donovan told him he had been attacked.

Fuel additive found effective for dissolving gallstones

BOSTON (AP) — Injections of a powerful solvent and two other new treatments should make gallbladder surgery unnecessary for many of the 500,000 Americans who undergo the operation each year, researchers reported today.

Mayo Clinic doctors described in the New England Journal of Medicine their use of methyl tert-butyl ether, a substance that until now has been used largely as a gasoline octane booster and as an industrial solvent.

Injecting it directly into the gallbladder, doctors found that it quickly dissolved large stones, freeing patients from their painful condition.

"We have learned that we can use the technology successfully in a broad range of anatomical circumstances," said Dr. Johnson L. Thistle, who pioneered the procedure. "We have become quite comfortable with the feeling that we can do it safely and effectively."

However, the experimental technique has competition from two other therapies that also promise to replace gallbladder removal, which until now has been the standard treatment for gallstones and trails only Caesarean sections as the most common form of abdominal surgery.

A stone-crushing machine called a lithotripter, already widely used for kidney stones, is being tested against gallstones, and a stone-dissolving drug was recently approved for routine use.

"All three of them need to be considered," said Dr. Gerald Salen of the Veterans Administration Medical Center in East Orange, N.J. "They offer an alternative to an operation. Most patients can have their stones treated with one of these techniques."

Salen said the three treatments may be useful for many of the 350,000 or so people who undergo elective gallbladder surgery annually. In 1987, 526,000 Americans had their gallbladders taken out. Surgery will still be necessary for 150,000 people who need emergency treatment.

Thistle's technique works only on gallstones made of cholesterol, which are the majority of all stones. He estimates the therapy might be useful for at least half of all people who now need gallbladder surgery.

Firm in Fort Worth will introduce no hands-car phones

DALLAS (AP) — A Fort Worth-based electronics marketer says it will introduce the first cellular telephone system in the nation allowing car callers to dial, speak and hang up without lifting a finger.

Uniden Corp. of America is buying technology from two Dallas companies for the system, which will recognize and respond to any human voice and provide hands-free operation, The Dallas Morning News reported Wednesday.

Available this coming August, the device initially will cost $499 and will sell as an add-on to Uniden's existing line of cellular phones, said Graham Loving, product manager of Uniden's cellular division.

Uniden will call the cellular phone accessory its Voice Recognition system. It is based on advanced speech recognition techniques developed by Voice Control Systems Inc.

Dallas-based Voice Control Systems is a pioneer in voice-processing technologies capable of recognizing speech from a variety of different speakers.

At the heart of the 3-inch-square device will be two memory chips programmed to recognize a small vocabulary of digits and words. After the oral command, the phone will respond to the caller in English.

"You can activate, receive and end calls simply by speaking," Loving said. Used with a speakerphone, "your hands never have to leave the steering wheel," he said.

"This is a geometric advancement in the technology," said Herschel Shosteck, an industry analyst who operates Herschel Shosteck Associates in Silver Spring, Md.

Uniden will buy the devices from By-Word Technologies Inc., a Dallas company founded in July 1988 to exploit electronic products that recognize spoken words.

By-Word president Bill Kennedy said his company will subcontract the manufacture of the device, possibly to Uniden. Uniden, which employs 320 people at its U.S. headquarters in Fort Worth, makes most of its cellular phones in the Far East. Some assembly is done in Tarrant County.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT Two years ago I received radiation treatment for cancer of the prostate. The gland wasn't removed, although some lymph nodes were taken out. Six months ago I began experiencing extreme swelling in the groin, penis, testicles and general pelvic area. If I stay on my feet during the day, the front of my trousers are bulging. My doctor says there's nothing to be done except stay in bed, which is impractical. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER I believe there are three possible causes for your problem.

The radiation treatment itself may have caused scarring of the lymphatic channels that empty the legs and lower pelvis. As a result, lymph fluid can build up in the tissues causing swelling that is, because of gravity, worse when you have been on your feet.

Second, the original cancer may not have been eradicated from the lymph nodes. In the two years since your surgery, it may have spread, causing further lymph gland blockage, edema and the symptoms you are experiencing.

Third, the radiation may not have obliterated the cancer in your prostate gland. The cancer cells may have become activated again and spread to the lymph channels, causing lymph blockage.

In my opinion, you need to know which of these possibilities is causing your problem. A lymphangiogram would help indicate if the lymph nodes and channels are blocked — and why. During the test, a substance ("dye") that shows up on an X-ray is injected into the lymph channels in one foot. As the material works its way up into the body, serial X-ray exposures are obtained. The films will show the location, extent and type of blockage.

Also, a biopsy of your prostate gland would demonstrate the presence or absence of active cancer cells. — If your edema is due to scar tissue, the problem is permanent and no specific therapy will help. Periodic bed rest or the use of diuretic (kidney stimulating) medicine may reduce the amount of edema.

On the other hand, if cancer cells are the culprit, more radiation or — better yet — hormone therapy, could substantially reduce edema. The use of female hormones will often retard the growth of tumors involving the male genital tract.

Ask your doctor to refer you to the urological service at a teaching center for a second opinion.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "The Prostate Gland." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Creative imaging is club topic

Speaking to teachers at the February meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma, John Gibson, chairman of the Fine Arts Department at Western Texas College, called for the teaching of visual thinking in today's classroom.

Speaking on "Basics, Creativity and Technology," Gibson explained the advantages and benefits students receive from learning to image in the classroom. Visual thinking taught in the school enables the students to see with the eye, to represent information graphically, and to visualize, using the inner eye. The result is better recall in such subjects as spelling and mathematics.

Gibson stated that tests have shown creative visual imaging can increase reading comprehension by up to 40%. It is also an aid to learning important dates and events and math facts.

To tap creativity, teachers must help students use the creative right side of the brain in harmony with the left. He encouraged positive use of creativity in the school curriculum as well as in personal life.

Teaching visual integration in the classroom helps the child present and clarify information graphically. Students are also more able to interpret what is learned.

Gibson encourages creative visual imaging in all areas at school, not only in scholastic studies, but as a means of positive imaging for self-accomplishment. He added that drawing is a tool toward visualization because it teaches people to see and gives them the opportunity to be observers. In turn, teachers may discern what a student has learned or needs to learn by studying the child's art work.

A gift was presented in appreciation for the presentation.

Thirty-nine members were present for the meeting at Martha Ann Woman's Club. Hostesses were Monette O'Day, Marge Mathis, Carole Haynes, Johnny Harber, and Emily Hataway.

Program chairman was Betty Courtney with Gibson introduced by Kay Hensley.

President Gerri Parker conducted the business session and Margaret Presswood gave the meditation.

Midair emergencies

NEW YORK (AP) — Flying may cause physical changes.

While these changes are minor annoyances to most people, they can become serious medical problems for those who have recently experienced illness, injury or surgery, says the Travel & Leisure Information Center.

Since altitude shifts and decompression reduce oxygen intake and increase pressure on the walls of organs, you may want to delay air travel if:

- You've had a heart attack within the past four to six weeks;
- Are recovering from bowel, eye or cardiothoracic surgery;
- Have epilepsy uncontrolled by medication;
- Have diverticulitis or peptic ulcers.

Be sure to check with your doctor before booking a flight.

JOHN GIBSON

Guarding against the improbable

Neither North nor South could bid no-trump with only three small hearts. So the bidding went round and round until North belatedly raised South to four spades. Since the East-West hearts were divided 4-3, three no-trump would have been an easy contract. But it was up to South to make four spades.

The defense began with West taking the A-K-Q of hearts and then switching to a diamond. Declarer won the ace in his hand, cashed the ace of spades, guarding against a singleton queen in West's hand, then got to dummy with a diamond to take the spade finesse. That worked, but unfortunately West showed out. There was no longer any way to avoid losing a trick to the queen, so declarer was down one.

Declarer's safety play was ill-conceived. Sure, laying down the ace protected against the singleton queen being with West, but if West held a singleton spade, it was much more likely to be any one of the other four missing spades. Here the right play is to take a first-round finesse, hoping that East has the queen. When it works, the finesse can be repeated, and East can be denied a spade trick even when he holds four to the queen.

Teammate honorable mention...

Spear named all-conference

Bobby Spear, leading scorer for Coach Tony Mauldin's Western Texas College basketball team this past season, has been named to the men's All-Western Junior College Athletic Conference Team.

Also accepting post-season recognition from the Western team was Vladimir McCrary, who earned honorable mention.

"I enjoyed having the chance to play at Western Texas and develop my skills," said Spear. "I know the season didn't work out like I, or the other players or the coaches wanted, but I enjoyed playing."

The 12-man, first team was again led by Odessa's Larry Johnson. Johnson, a 6-7 sophomore who averaged 29.8 points and 17.2 rebounds while leading Odessa to WJCAC and Region V Tournament championships, was named Most Valuable Player of the Conference for the second straight season.

Also on the squad are Donald Dixon, a 6-4 sophomore from Frank Phillips; Jeff Stern, a 6-9 freshman from South Plains, and Fred Campbell, a 6-7 freshman from Midland.

McCovery and Phelps were honorable mention choices last year.

Coach of the year was SPC's Ron Mayberry.

Spear, a 6-5 sophomore from Albuquerque, N.M., averaged 20.5 points and 6.9 rebounds an outing. He hit 49.8 percent of his shots from the field.

McCrary, 6-7 from San Antonio, averaged 15.6 points and 7.6 rebounds. He shot 52.8 percent from the floor, including 36.2 from 3-point range.

Earning honorable mention honors with McCrary were Lee White and Sammy Fatoki of New Mexico Military Institute; Shannon Wood, Marc Thompson and Joe Wray of New Mexico JC; Peter Sam and Russ Winters of Clarendon; Lowell Myrie of Frank Phillips; and Earl McKinney of South Plains.

All-SWC basketball...

Mays leads elite club; Richardson top coach

DALLAS (AP) - One win separated league champion Arkansas from second-place Texas, but the Longhorns have one player that kept the Razorbacks from sweeping top honors in The Associated Press' 1988-89 All-Southwest Conference basketball team.

Texas' high-scoring junior guard Travis Mays was picked on every ballot to head the select team as chosen by the league's coaches.

Mays of Ocala, Fla., averaged 22 points per game as the Longhorns won 22 regular season games under new coach Tom Penders, who brought a wide open run-and-gun offense to the SWC.

Mays, who led Texas to a second-place finish, was selected as the SWC's Offensive Player of the Year.

Arkansas, which finished with a 13-3 SWC mark, and takes a 21-6 record into the post-season tournament beginning Friday, swept the other top honors with the Razorbacks' Nolan Richardson selected as the Coach of the Year by his peers; guard Keith Wilson taking Defensive Player of the Year honors; and freshman Lee Mayberry being selected as Newcomer of the Year.

It was Richardson's first SWC title in four seasons as Arkansas' head coach, and he did it with a youth-dominated lineup. Houston was the preseason favorite going into SWC play, but finished fourth during the regular season.

Wilson, who was the steadying influence on the team, averaged 12.2 points, 4.2 assists and almost three steals per game to earn first team honors. He made the clutch baskets for the Razorbacks and led their fullcourt press.

Others on the mythical first team included Southern Methodist's senior center Glenn Puddy, who averaged 14.8 points and almost 10 rebounds per game; Texas Tech senior guard Sean Gay who had 16.1 points and 4.6 assists per game; and Houston's Craig Upchurch who had 18.3 points and 6.3 rebounds per game. Texas' other junior guard, Lance Blanks, led the second team with 20.2 points per game.

Other second-teamers included Houston's Richard Hollis at 17.3 points and 8.4 rebounds per game, Texas' Alvin Higgs at 17.2 points and 8.0 rebounds per game, Arkansas's freshman Mayberry at 12.9 points and 4.2 assists, and a tie between Texas A&M's Donald Thompson and Texas Christian's John Lewis, who each averaged 17 points per game.

McNeese wins Southland title

DENTON, Texas (AP) - McNeese State was on the verge of wrapping up its first-ever NCAA tournament bid, and Anthony Pullard wasn't going to let it slip away.

Pullard scored 15 of his 24 points in the second half Wednesday night as McNeese State defeated North Texas 85-68 for the Southland Conference championship and the automatic bid that accompanies it.

"We'll go anywhere," Pullard said. "We don't care. It can be Europe."

SHS girls host tourney; boys set for San Angelo

Gaylord seeks owner's okay to purchase Texas Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Edward L. Gaylord will find out today if his last-minute pitch to major league baseball owners that he be allowed to buy the Texas Rangers will work.

The Oklahoma City billionaire sent a letter last week to owners urging them to vote to approve his bid to purchase controlling interest of the Texas Rangers, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

The owners met today in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to vote on the transfer of ownership from Fort Worth oilman Eddie Chiles to Gaylord. The main roadblock to the sale of the team to Gaylord appears to be his ownership of KTVT, a Dallas-Fort Worth television station that is considered to be a "super station" because of its widespread distribution on cable television systems.

Gaylord is not expected to attend the meeting, but will be represented by Glenn Stinchcomb, an executive with Gaylord Broadcasting and a member of the board of directors of the Texas Rangers.

There is speculation that Gaylord might pursue legal action if his attempt to buy the team is not approved, the Star-Telegram reported today.

The Dallas Morning News reported today that Chiles may pull the team off the market if owners fail to approve the sale to Gaylord.

If Chiles should follow through, that would foil an attempt by a Dallas-Fort Worth group headed by commissioner Pete Ueberroth and headed by George W. Bush and Rusty Rose II to buy the team.

Eastern to seek Chapter 11 protection

By The Associated Press

Strike-crippled Eastern Airlines, losing $2 million to $7 million a day, filed for protection from its creditors today in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in New York.

Three lawyers for Eastern Airlines filed the Chapter 11 petition at about 9:15 a.m., a clerk's office worker said.

The strike began Saturday with a walkout by 8,500 Machinists in a dispute over $125 million in proposed wage cuts and escalated with the support of pilots and flight attendants.

Icahn, the corporate takeover specialist and chairman of Trans

World Airlines, said Wednesday he would consider several requests made this week by the Machinists "concerning the acquisition by TWA of Eastern."

"I would be willing to speak to the unions only if Eastern permits me to, because I do not want to be accused by Eastern of interfering with the collective bargaining process," he said in a statement.

Under Chapter 11, a company obtains a federal court order that frees it from the threat of creditors' lawsuits until it can develop a plan to put its finances in order.

However, Lorenzo, chairman of Eastern parent Texas Air Corp., would have a tougher time imposing lower wages on the unions than he did when he reorganized Continental Airlines under federal bankruptcy law in 1983. Congress amended federal laws in 1984 to require bankrupt companies to negotiate with unions and prove economic necessity before abrogating their contracts.

The Machinists were allied with Icahn once before, when they helped him snatch control of TWA in 1985 despite Lorenzo's competing bid. Icahn mulled a bid for Eastern last fall, but talks faltered when he asked for up to $300 million in labor concessions in exchange for an equity stake.

Lorenzo wanted the Machinists to give up $125 million in a new contract. But Machinists leaders, joined by pilots and flight attendants, insist the strikers want to get rid of the hard-line Lorenzo almost as much as a $50 million raise.

"They are so fed up with the way they have been treated, so fed up with the environment on the job, that they're willing to walk away and if ... (bankruptcy) is the result, they'll accept it," Machinists union President William Wimpisinger said.

But Lorenzo, in an interview in The Washington Post today, said he would "resurrect as much of Eastern as possible" if the airline is forced into bankruptcy court.

Eastern, nearly shut down by the strike, had no comment on Icahn's statement. No negotiations with the Machinists had been scheduled in the strike that began Saturday against the nation's seventh-largest airline.

In a desperate effort to help stem its losses, Eastern reduced one-way fares on its Northeast shuttle to $12 on weekends, from $69-$99, and to $49 on weekdays, down from $99.

George Brennan, marketing vice president, denied the slashed fares were a move to protect the pending $365 million sale of the shuttle to developer Donald Trump.

Pan Am Corp., a competitor, said it would not match the fares.

Meanwhile, Eastern's sister airline, Houston-based Continental, announced it was assuming Eastern's lucrative New York-Miami route beginning today with four daily round-trip flights.

Bush readies replacement

tioned in White House speculation as a replacement for Tower if his nomination failed are Sen. John Warner, R-Va., the ranking GOP member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a former secretary of the Navy; former Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld; former Rep. Jack Edwards, R-Ala.; and national security adviser Brent Scowcroft.

Scowcroft replied "No" when asked this morning if he was in line for the Pentagon job.

The most recent Associated Press survey shows 51 Democrats and one Republican committed to vote against Tower or leaning strongly in that direction. It shows 41 Republicans and three Democrats declared for Tower or leaning his way.

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas threw out the possibility of giving Tower probationary status at the Pentagon after conceding, "Frankly, it takes a miracle at this point for John Tower to be confirmed."

"I told Sen. Tower it doesn't look good," Dole said. "I told him that as I read it we didn't have the votes."

Dole said he also told Tower that if senators' concerns about his drinking were removed, "he would be confirmed ... by a heavy vote."

He then proposed that Tower submit a letter of resignation dated Oct. 1, 1989, and be confirmed for a six-month "trial period," after which he would return to the Senate and submit to a second confirmation process.

Dole said his proposal offers "a changed circumstance," designed to allay concerns that in the nuclear era Tower could become a weak and risky link in the military chain of command.

Dole said he had not shared the idea even with other Republicans and it clearly caught Mitchell and other Democrats by surprise.

"There is to my knowledge no precedent for a six-month probationary period for a Cabinet official," Mitchell said.

He said many senators have other concerns about the nomination, including worries that Tower created a strong "appearance of conflict of interest" when he forged close and lucrative links to defense contractors immediately after leaving government service.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the principal anti-Tower leader, said he is concerned that installing a probationary defense chief might have a negative impact on the armed forces and in the international community.

The strongest initial opposition to Dole's proposal came from Byrd, who told the Senate: "The Constitution does not give any nominee a tryout period. If we go down this road we are going to make this a precedent ... and those following us will rue the day."

Johnston said his reading of the FBI report on Tower leaves him with the clear impression that Tower's personality changes when he drinks heavily, leading to "a recklessness in the social sense" entirely different from his behavior when sober.

Measles case prompts shots contact with the student, they likely face no danger of infection.

In addition, individuals over the age of 32 are not considered at risk since they have likely already encountered the disease within their lifetime and now have a natural immunity.

Individuals under the age of 32 who received a measles vaccination prior to 1968 are listed as a group who have a high risk of contracting the disease if they come in contact with it. College-age students generally fall under this category.

To qualify further, for this vaccination to be effective, this group should have received this immunization after the age of 15 months.

All persons who believe they might be at risk are being directed to the Snyder-Scurry Health Unit at 911 26th St. for immunization shots.

State health officials stress that red measles, rubella, should not be confused with rubella, German measles, which can cause birth defects in the babies of infected mothers.

She had worked as a cosmetologist at the Art Style beauty salon for 16 years. She was also a member of the First Baptist Church, a homemaker, and a Past Worthy Matron of Eastern Star.

She was married to Wayne Eubank on May 22, 1937 in the Canyon Community. He survives.

Virginia Whitson

MINERAL WELLS—Virginia Whitson, 77, a former Snyder resident, died Friday in Palo Pinto Hospital in Mineral Wells.

A private family service will be conducted Sunday afternoon in Ardmore, Okla. Burial will follow also in Ardmore.

A native of Oklahoma, Mrs. Whitson moved to Snyder in 1964 and taught at Stanfield Elementary and Northeast Elementary School. She was retired by the time the Senior Citizens Center was opened at Western Texas College in 1974 and she became one of the center's most active members. She was serving as coordinator of volunteer services and pianist for the Sunshine Choir and the Kitchen band in 1984 when she decided to retire a second time and move to the Crazy Water retirement hotel in Mineral Wells.

Through her association with WTC, she became one of the best known fans of the college's basketball teams and her favorite seat in the coliseum was given her special name plate. The Westerner Classic and the Lady Duster Classic played in 1984 were dedicated to her.

Mrs. Whitson established the Virginia Whitson Memorial Foundation at WTC to provide scholarships for men or women in the college basketball programs.

A dinner honoring Mrs. Whitson was held on Nov. 26, 1984, in the Senior Center shortly before she moved to Mineral Wells.

Mrs. Whitson is survived by one brother, F. L. Ledbetter of Ardmore, Okla., and a nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ledbetter of Roanoke, Tex.

The family has indicated that memorial gifts can be made to the Whitson scholarship fund at WTC.

Dale Mathis

COLORADO CITY—Services are set for 2 p.m. Saturday at the First Baptist Church for Dale Joseph Mathis, 48, who died Tuesday in a Dallas hospital. Burial will follow in the Colorado City Cemetery.

Mathis was regional manager for Landmark Cablevision which owns and operates Snyder Cablevision. Mathis became ill after the local cable operation was purchased by his company last May, and he underwent a heart transplant in Dallas.

He received a new heart at Baylor University Medical Center on Aug. 4 after being kept alive for 10 days by an external artificial heart pump.

Born in Albertville, Ala., he was a long-time resident of Colorado City. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and active in Colorado City civic activities. He was a member of the board of directors of the Texas Cable Association.

Survivors include his wife, Linda Mathis, of Colorado City.

Stuart Hamblen

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—Services are pending for Stuart Hamblen, 80, who died Wednesday at St. John's Hospital after a long illness.

He was the brother of the late John H. Hamblen, a dentist and former Snyder mayor who died Feb. 25 in Lubbock.

The son of a Methodist minister, Hamblen grew up in West Texas. A country singer, he composed two songs that made the Hit Parade. "It Is No Secret What God Can Do," was the first gospel song to make the Hit Parade. Another composition, "This Old House," stayed atop the charts for many weeks in 1954.

Hamblen gave up horse racing and drinking to write gospel songs. His most popular gospel song was inspired by actor John Wayne who challenged him to write a song about his convictions.

Other songs were "Open Up Your Heart And Let the Sun Shine In," "Remember Me, I'm the One Who Loves You," and "Texas Plains."

In 1952, Hamblen ran for president on the Prohibition Party ticket. That election was won by Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Hamblen had surgery Feb. 28 to remove a malignant brain tumor, and he had been suffering from inoperable lung cancer.

In recent years, he and his wife, Suzy, raised Peruvian Paso horses at their ranch in Canyon County, Calif.

Survivors include his wife of 51 years; three daughters, Lisa Jaserie, Viva Pressnel and Kim Hamblen; one sister, Lora May Batez of Grass Valley, Calif.; two brothers, J. E. Hamblen of Forney and A. K. Hamblen of Memphis, Tenn.

Vehicle seized with liquor arrest

A 66-year-old Snyder man was arrested Wednesday morning for transporting liquor in a dry area, and his white 1981 Lincoln Continental was seized under the Class A misdemeanor statute.

Colorado City police notified police here at 10:15 a.m. that a black man had just left the Mitchell County seat and was a possible suspect for transporting liquor.

A city officer then arrested him at 10:38 a.m. in the 3400 Block of Ave. M and seized the car.

The officer said Thursday that either the district attorney or county judge will make a decision on whether or not to forfeit the car to the county or state or offer the defendant a bond to reclaim it.

He was released from the county jail on $500 bond.

Fire escaped from a trash barrel and started a grass fire at 4:10 p.m. 2½ miles north of town on the Clairemont Hwy. on property owned by Robert Burton, where firefighters were busy until 4:45 p.m.

Human rights treaties...

Soviets accept authority of World Court

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Soviet Union says it will accept World Court rulings in cases involving human rights treaties, an announcement signaling an end to the Soviets' postwar policy of resisting the tribunal's authority.

State Department officials hailed the move as "a major step" and said they hoped the Soviets would now join the United States in accepting the court's rulings in all but the most sensitive national security cases.

The United Nations' legal office on Wednesday released a letter Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze wrote to Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar withdrawing Soviet reservations on six human rights treaties.

His letter suggested, however, that the Soviet Union would agree to the court's arbitration in all human rights cases.

Shevardnadze noted that Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev proposed in his December address to the General Assembly that "all states recognize the binding jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice with respect to the interpretation and application of human rights agreements."

One senior State Department official said the announcement "may indicate their seriousness in accepting the court's jurisdiction in a greater range of cases. It is a major step."

"Soviet legal writers used to say in their literature that they don't agree in advance in going to the Court, believing it was dominated by Western influences," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The World Court, formally known as the International Court of Justice at The Hague, was established in 1945 and is the main judicial arm of the United Nations. While the officially neutral Netherlands-based tribunal has no powers of enforcement, its rulings weigh heavily on world opinion.

Three years ago, the United States rejected the court's authority when Nicaragua brought a case charging Washington with trying to subvert the leftist Sandinista government.

Washington and Moscow have been holding talks, however, in an effort to get an agreement with Britain, France and China to recognize the court's authority in most treaties.

Shevardnadze said the Soviets would recognize the court's binding jurisdiction in these human rights treaties:

—The 1984 Convention Against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment.

—The 1979 Convention on the Elimination All Forms of Discrimination Against Women;

—The 1965 International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination;

—The 1952 Convention on the Political Rights of Women;

—The 1949 Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and of the Exploitation of the Prostitutions of Others;

—The 1948 Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide.

Moscow had signed the treaties, but said it did not accept World Court authority in disputes.

U.S. and Soviet legal experts have held two rounds of talks since July aimed at strengthening the court's authority in all but the most sensitive political cases.

The United States wants the Soviets, Britain, France and China join it in agreeing to accept court jurisdiction in a wide range of issues.

Washington also has suggested that cases could be "taken to chambers" at the World Court, a step in which only five of the 15 judges would hear a case. This would allow each side to eliminate the judges it felt would be most hostile to its position.

The United States also suggests that the United States, Soviet Union, China, Britain and France declare that certain cases are inappropriate for the court's jurisdiction, such as national security issues or the use of force.

Prisoners will be housed elsewhere

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A state district judge, decrying overcrowded jails as a threat to safety, ordered Tarrant County to send prisoners to other counties.

State District Judge Joe Drago issued the order Wednesday after hearing a case brought before him by the City of Fort Worth, which sued the county for allegedly refusing to house some inmates who are required by state law to be imprisoned in county facilities pending trial.

The jail population in Fort Worth Wednesday stood at 2,447 — about 120 percent of capacity.

With no room in the city and county jails, police have created makeshift facilities in cages at the downtown police station.

About 700 inmates in Tarrant County facilities await transfer to the Texas Department of Corrections.

Drago said his order will remain in effect until April, when he will review it after the county has opened four barracks capable of holding 192 inmates.

He also appointed a three-member committee to settle a dispute over whether cells for Tarrant County prisoners can be found in other counties.

"Because of overcrowding, the (Fort Worth) police department isn't able to do its job protecting the safety of citizens," Drago said. "And prisoners who need to be kept in jail are being kept in makeshift jails that aren't designed for maximum security. There is a possibility of escape, again a threat to the public safety."

Fort Worth Police Chief Thomas Windham said the responsibility of guarding and transferring prisoners has cut into his department's staffing and effectiveness.

Bentsen goes pro-Tower after Democrats say the nomination is dead anyway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen declared himself for fellow Texan John Tower as defense secretary, but he waited until after Democratic leaders said they didn't need the vote.

Bentsen didn't expend on Tower the party clout he gained in his vice presidential campaign, keeping a low profile in the battle that has torn the Senate.

In his speech Wednesday on the Senate floor, Bentsen put his endorsement into terms of personal sympathy rather than political allegiance, reflecting the 14 years he served with Tower in the Senate and his own experience as a scrutinized candidate.

"This event, so painful to John Tower, has been difficult to me. ... We have seen every imperfection in an essentially good man dragged into the pitiless glare of television lights while his daughters sat listening," he said.

"Last fall, I learned firsthand what it's like to have reporters looking up every friend you've had in the last 60 years, or asking what you ate for breakfast," he said.

Tower supporters temporarily were cheered by Bentsen's decision.

"I think that the timing would have been better if it came earlier in the debate. But at this stage, I'll take him any time I can get him," said Tower friend Paul Eggers.

But Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, had already told reporters he didn't need Bentsen's vote. And after Bentsen spoke, four Democrats considered as possible swing votes announced they were against the nominee.

Bentsen's decision was consistent with his position in January when he presented Tower to the Senate Armed Services Committee, praising him as a good choice not only for hawks but for liberals critical of Pentagon overspending. "John Tower is too much of a conservative to give a blank check from the U.S. Treasury to the Pentagon," Bentsen said then.

But as the showdown over the nomination grew in intensity, Bentsen declined to say how he'd vote.

A change in his position, or strong lobbying for Tower, could have had great impact, given the visibility he has held since he was Michael Dukakis' running mate on the Democratic ticket last fall.

Bush telephoned Bentsen repeatedly. Tower supporters in Texas organized telephone calls and letters to his office.

But Bentsen, just elected to a new six-year Senate at the same time he lost his vice presidential bid, told reporters he felt little political pressure.

Texasans have "a long tradition of closing ranks," said Joseph O'Neill, a Washington lobbyist who has been Bentsen's top Senate aide and was chief of staff for his vice presidential campaign.

But a vote against Tower would not have been particularly damaging either, said George Shipley, an Austin political consultant.

"There is no wellspring of support here for Tower," Shipley said. "The silence is thundering."

Shipley noted that Tower himself had voted against several presidential nominations including that of a fellow Texan — Ray Marshall, who was President Carter's nominee for labor secretary in 1977.

But Lance Tarrance, a Houston Republican pollster, said Bentsen's move was shrewd in his home state, where conservatives who supported him the past were aggravated by his partnership with Dukakis and opposition to the Supreme Court nomination of Robert Bork.

Lobby said trying to take away right to vote

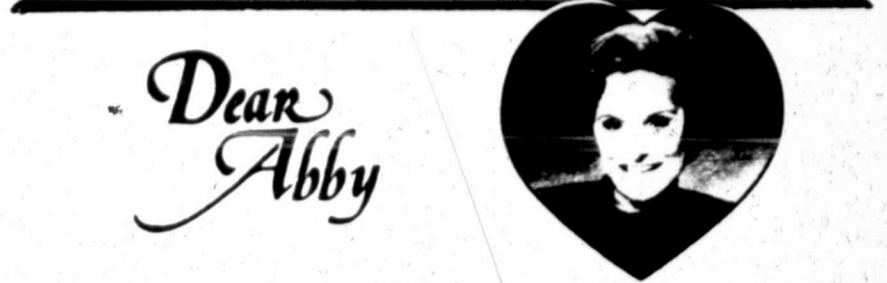

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas agriculture commissioner has more influence on national policy by virtue of being elected rather than appointed, a man who served 27 years in the post told a Senate committee that endorsed keeping the current selection method.

White, elected to 13 terms as commissioner between 1950 and 1977.

Hightower said he now is. Chemical company interests are working to make the office an appointed one, Hightower said.

"If he (Hightower) paints us as the dragon out there, then he becomes the dragon-slayer," Fisher said in an interview. "We're saying that is the type of emotionalizing and politicizing we want to get away from."

Parent Ponders How to Deal With Son Who Sells Drugs

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1989 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I think I know the answer to my problem, but I need your advice.

I have good reason to believe that my eldest son (I'll call him Paul) is dealing drugs. I have suspected his selling marijuana for years. Over the last few years he's become a chronic liar and braggart. I've ignored it until he showed me a wad of money he claimed was $10,000. Since he hasn't held a legitimate job in 15 years, I've concluded that he's selling more than marijuana.

Shortly after showing me the money, he bought his wife a new car. He said he paid cash for it. He has also bragged about owning a gun.

Paul's wife is pleasant enough, but I feel that she does nothing to stop him from doing whatever he is into. In fact, I think she encourages him. I've noticed that she has become more materialistic over the past few years. She's buying a lot of clothes and jewelry, and they're living in a home they could not afford on her salary alone.

Abby, I know in my heart the best thing I could do for my son would be to notify the sheriff, but I worry about what will happen to my grandson if Paul is arrested. If it were anyone else, I'd contact the authorities. Please help me.

PERPLEXED IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR PERPLEXED: You're right, you do have the answer to your problem. I think you should warn Paul and give him the chance to quit this risky, illegal business before he ends up either in prison, or even dead. You need have no qualms of conscience about blowing the whistle. If your son goes to prison, at least he'll be alive, and will have a chance to go straight eventually.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I was invited to lunch at a friend's home. My hostess is a very nice woman with good manners, but all during lunch (there were just the two of us), she kept her TV soap opera on, and consequently we had no chance to visit. (She didn't turn down the volume; in fact, she turned it up.)

Please comment in your column on people keeping their television sets on when they have guests. She didn't even ask me if I wanted to see that program.

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Your hostess was rude. What happened to her "good manners"?

I have dealt with this problem before. If company should drop in uninvited to find their friends watching a television program, it's perfectly all right for the surprised hosts to continue watching their favorite program, and the drop-ins should not feel hurt. But when one invites guests for lunch, the TV set should be turned off — unless, of course, the guest is just as eager to watch it as the host.

Wedding bells? Wedding bills! Who pays for what and everything else you need to know if you're planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

"The direct response to the people, and the commissioner in effect standing naked before the electorate, is the best way to get the best leadership, year-in and year-out," John C. White, former commissioner, told the Senate Natural Resources Committee Wednesday.

"Elected officials, because of the power that's granted to them through the electorate, have a great deal more influence on national policy, have a great deal more influence in Washington, than appointed officials do," said

White said he faced attempts to make the agriculture commissioner's post an appointed one during his years in the office, as

Available: cells for rent in jails with room to spare

By The Associated Press

For rent: Furn rms, util, heat inc, meals — limited vu. Call your local jailer.

Prison officials around the nation who desperately need to reduce their overcrowded inmate populations are increasingly looking to send prisoners to local jails with rooms to rent.

In some cases, lockups with the space to spare have paid for more than half their budgets with the renting scheme. But in at least one jail, the arrangement backfired when inmates, angry about a move across the country, vandalized the cells.

Still, the complaint from many jailers isn't the new inmates, but the number of telephone calls from prospective renters.

"I turn people down almost every day," said Lt. James Ross, who runs the Allegan County Jail in southwest Michigan. About half of the jail's 174 beds are often rented to out-of-county convicts.

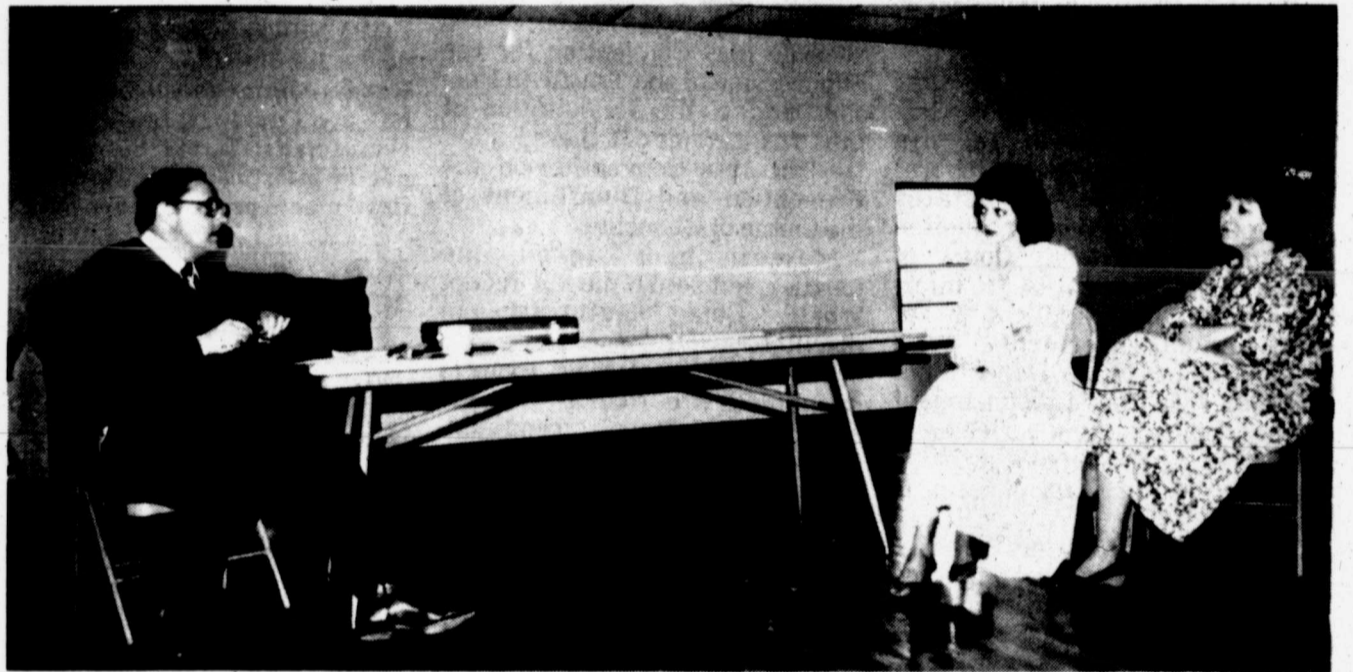

About 27,000 prisoners, or 10 percent of the inmates in the nation's largest jails, are being held for other agencies, said Lawrence Greenfeld, director of corrections statistics for the U.S. Department of Justice. Most of the displaced inmates come from state prison systems, which pay a per diem to the county jail, Greenfeld said.

Jails with space often have contracts with the state and federal governments to hold inmates from overcrowded lockups.

One of the pressures to alleviate overcrowding comes from federal or local court capacity restrictions.

WORKSHOP—Ira ISD held a workshop Wednesday afternoon, March 1, to train school personnel in the screening of students for Attention Deficit Disorder. The workshop was presented by Guy Ogden, far left, a psychotherapist at the Abilene Attention Deficit Disorder Clinic. Also pictured are parents Theleca Wilson and Linda Hardy, who
