Q. — What are the rules covering a transfer in the Snyder school system?

 A_{\cdot} — If it is a request to transfer from one elementary to another, there is a committee comprised of elementary principals which meets each summer to consider these. School officials note medical reasons are traditionally the only ones considered valid. Regarding transfers into the school system from other districts, during April the district accepts such requests. These are forwarded to the state for final decisions. At present, there is no for students transferring in if it is submitted during April.

New friends, as well as old friends, will play important roles in your affairs in the year ahead both socially and where your business interests are concerned. Be nice to everyone you know.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Several near misses are likely today, because just when you have your guns loaded and the trigger cocked, you might be inclined to suddenly switch targets. Strive to be single minded.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may find yourself in an awkward position today where you'll feel inclined to defend an idea or premise in which you do not truly believe. You'll be better off being honest with yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An obligation that you thought you had more time to fulfill might demand immediate attention today. Be prepared to come up with a quick solution.

Chorus of Readers Urges Cheater to Face the Music

By Abigail Van Buren

"Feeling Rotten," who was beside herself with guilt because while visiting her best friend in another city, her friend's live-in lover came to her bedroom in the middle of the night and she "let him" make love to her. She admitted that she responded positively, adding she "hopes" she's not pregnant because they used no protection. "Feeling Rotten" asked me if she should tell her friend what took place. I aired the pros and cons, then asked my readers how they would

So far, it's a dead heat — and the letters are still coming in: Some responses from readers who say "Tell!":

DEAR ABBY: "Feeling Rotten" should feel rotten, because she is rotten to the core. She must have given her best friend's live-in lover some kind of encouragement flirting, body language, eye signals to let him know she could be had or he never would have had the chutzpah to come to her bed in the middle of the night. Yes, she should tell her friend what kind of bum she's living with. It will probably be the end of their friendship, but if she keeps quiet and her friend marries this heel, it could be the worst mistake of her life.

BEEN THERE IN WILMINGTON, DEL.

DEAR ABBY: "Feeling Rotten" should tell her friend immediately. Also, both she and her friend should be tested for AIDS. If they test negative, they should be tested again in six months. And it goes without saying that the sleepwalking boyfriend should also be tested. AN M.D. IN THE BRONX

DEAR ABBY: "Feeling Rotten" should tell! How I wish someone had told me what a louse my husband was. He was in his last year of medical training and it was accepted that his hours were erratic and his schedule flexible. Finding out from a phone bill with a list of 15 of the same numbers from a different city was the most agonizing revelation I had to face. He swore he'd never do it again. But he did. If only a friend had told me. I

DEAR READERS: I received but me. We are still married and are a letter from a woman signed reasonably happy, but I'll never be able to trust him. We have two fine children, which is the cement that has held us together.

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR ABBY: Here's what I would tell Miss Feeling Rotten: Tell your friend everything - exactly the way it happened - then accept the consequences of your friend's reaction. If your friend is so hurt she no longer wants you for a friend, then so be it. I hope you realize that your friend is feeling twice the pain from having been betrayed by both her best friend and her lover.

PAUL IN PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: I went through exactly the same thing "Feeling Rotten" experienced, only I cheated with my best friend's husband. When I finally couldn't stand the deceit anymore, I confessed. Do you know what she told me? "What took you so long? It's been all over town for months.

FORMERLY EASY IN PHILLY

DEAR ABBY: This happened to me. Only I was married at the time. My wife had a younger sister who spent the night with us. One night my wife went to bed early. Sister and I stayed up to watch television. She said her back ached, so I rubbed her back. One thing led to another, and we ended up in bed. We both felt so guilty, we went to my wife together and told her what had happened, and promised it would never happen again. She was hurt, but she forgave us, and we all put it behind us. Everything is better out in the open. Today, I have no desire for the sister — nor she for me. (She's married now.) Confessing took the "romance" out of it. NO MORE GUILT IN VERMONT

DEAR ABBY: Why are you surveying your readers about something that has only one answer? Of course "Feeling Rotten" should tell her friend that the man she's living with is sleeping around. Women should stick together. Why keep quiet and protect a cheater? Since it takes two to cheat, they are equally guilty. Those two unprincipled dimwits deserve each other. CHICAGO SCHOOLTEACHER

The squirm factor

By James Jacoby

Even seasoned veterans find it difficult to analyze complex end positions. Don't worry. Play as well as you can, but remember this important rule: When an opponent is slow to play, his next discard is probably going to help you. If you can remember his remaining cards, you should be able to figure out a way to take advantage of his

After East's two-heart overcall, South bid his spades and was-promptly raised to game. South won the opening lead with the heart ace, drew trumps ending in dummy (East shedding a heart) and led a club back to his king. West won the ace and played the nine of diamonds. Declarer won the diamond ace and played another club, West winning the queen. East discarded another heart. West led another diamond, and declarer won dummy's king. Declarer now discarded his remaining diamond on the jack of clubs, and East began to squirm. Finally East, down to K-Q-J of hearts and the Q-10 of diamonds, let go a heart. Declarer could now play a heart, putting East on play. East was forced to lead away from the Q-10 of diamonds or to play another heart, which would be ruffed in dummy, setting up South's last small heart as a winner. Of course an oblivious declarer might try to ruff a diamond, hoping the queen would fall, but at the table South should smell out the end position from East's hesitation and play accordingly.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books. © 1989, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

City prosecutes parents for not buckling up their kids

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas tractor-trailer. (AP) - A strict enforcement of the state's 3-year-old mandatory seat belt law for children has put Corpus Christi at the forefront of negligent-homicide cases against parents, a state prosecutor said.

Nueces County Attorney Carlos Valdez has prosecuted parents in two separate cases in the past month in connection with the traffic deaths of their children.

Despite an acquittal on the first case and a mistrial on the second Friday, Valdez vowed he would continue pursuing seat-belt law violators. "If we can save one life, it is worth the effort," he told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. Ida Lisa Guerra, 21, was acquitted Feb. 23 in connection with injured, according to Texas

The case against Alejandro Benavides, 26, ended with a deadlocked jury Friday. Benavides' daughter, Catherine, 2, was thrown through the window of her father's truck after a collision Nov. 16, 1986.

The seat-belt law, which went into effect in Texas in December 1985, requires drivers to secure passengers 2 years old or younger in a child-restraint seat. Children aged 2 to 4 must be buckled in a restraint seat, and children older than 4 by a seat belt.

Before the seat-belt law, 78 children under the age of 4 died on Texas roadways in 1983, and an additional 6,000 children were Department of Public Safety figures.

"We actively enforce the law," Watts said. "People have to realize the danger of a car."

Dr. Dwight Burdick, clinical manager of the emergency room at Memorial Medical Center in Corpus Christi, said five to 10 children each week are treated for head injuries suffered in traffic accidents.

"Most of the head injuries are caused by flying around in the car after an accident," said Burdick. "You have a car going 60 miles per hour; the car hits an 18wheeler; you will have a toddler going about 60 miles an hour and hitting a windshield.

"The human body just isn't built for that," he said.

The majority of our trauma injuries or deaths come from children who weren't strapped down or were in a safety seat not used properly, Burdick said.

"But being in a safety seat is better than nothing at all," he

In Corpus Christi, six children were among the 97 people who died in traffic accidents during the past three years. Sgt. Don Watts of the police department's traffic safety division told the Caller-Times none of the children was wearing a safety belt.

Negligent homicide is punishable by up to one year in jail and a fine up to $2,000 for violation of the law.

John Tower...

Senate tries to heal wounds from debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate members are in the position of two brothers who, badly bruised after an unwanted fight, need to put the past behind them and get on with life.

The angry intensity of the fight that scuttled John Tower's nomination as secretary of defense won't make that easy.

But President Bush's quick decision on Friday to nominate Rep. Richard Cheney, R-Wyo., a former White House chief of staff and the No. 2 Republican leader in the House, may start the process of calming the Senate's turbulent political waters.

Bush acted only 24 hours after the Senate voted 53-47 to reject Tower. His choice of Cheney received favorable reviews from members of both parties and quick hearings were promised by the Senate Armed Services Com-

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole, who had said the Tower defeat would not be forgotten by the GOP, retained an edge of bitterness.

"This will be a confirmation, not an execution," he said of the Cheney nomination.

But he soon was looking as much forward as back. "I believe this will help to put all of the Tower business behind us," Dole said.

What does the Senate have to put behind it?

Here are some of the words that jolted the chamber's stately marble-walled facade and its oldboy-club traditions of courtesy, comity and civility.

-Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo.: "I have to rage at a Senate that has lost its sense of responsibility, its sense of fairness, a Senate which will never willingly shoulder responsibility....

Some Republicans such as Sen. John Warner of Virginia say they already feel "a spirit of reconciliation creeping over this place."

Homestead exemptions must be filed by May 1. If you owned and lived in your own home on Jan. 1, you may qualify for a portion of the home's value to be exempt from property taxes. This often amounts to a substantial savings to the taxpayer.

For the rural landowner, agricultural appraisal can save tax dollars. Ranch, farm, and timber land may be taxed at its ability to produce crops or livestock rather than its real estate selling price. The deadline for this application is also May 1.

Those over 65 years of age can indefinitely postpone paying property taxes on their homestead by filing a simple affidavit with the appraisal district.
