Rigs on fire

NEW ORLEANS (AP) -Seven offshore oil workers were missing early this morning after two side-byside ARCO oil-producing platforms off the southeast Louisiana coast were shaken by fires and explosions, injuring 13 and forcing the evacuation of 30 other crewmen, the Coast Guard said. One rig was still ablaze this morning, about 70 miles southeast of New Orleans, said Coast Guard Chief Mike Robling. Fires on the other rig, connected to the burning one by a catwalk, were extinguished a few hours after they started Sunday evening, he said.

Robling said a search was under way for the missing crewmen in the chilly Gulf of Mexico waters near the mouth of the Mississippi River. Five of the missing men work for Atlantic Richfield Co. and two are contractors, said ARCO spokesman Earl Sims in Dallas.

The court let stand the murder convictions and death sentences of Harvey Earvin, Danny Lee Barber and David Lee Holland.

Earvin was convicted of fatally shooting Ertis Brock, a service station attendant in Lufkin during a Dec. 7, 1976, holdup.

Barber was convicted of the beating death of Janie Ingram during a robbery in the Dallas suburb of Balch Springs on Oct. 8, 1979.

Holland received the death penalty for killing two bank employees on July 16, 1985, in Port Arthur. The victims, who were fatally shot, were Helen Barnard and Diana Jackson.

By Abigail Van Buren DEAR READERS: March is what kind I was wearing, so I wrote the month for national fund raising for the American Red Cross. Most of the local chapters have letter-writing campaigns. (Thank you, Red Cross, for not soliciting me by telephone.)

People to Aid the Red Cross

Most people believe that the Red Cross is funded by the government. It is not. The various chapters raise money through drives, bake sales, auctions, special events, etc. (It's no piece of cake going hat in hand to the public when so many other organizations are

The Red Cross is not a "social organization" — it provides help for those who need food, clothing, shelter and furnishings following disasters such as fires, floods, tornados, train wrecks, explosions, etc.

The Red Cross conducts blood banks. It teaches first aid, CPR, lifesaving, water safety and physical fitness. It contacts those serving in the military when an emergency arises at home. (I know. When I gave birth to my son prematurely during World War II, the Red Cross flew my husband home while he was serving in the infantry.)

President Bush, in his inaugural address, called on those who were favored with wealth and power to take on the reciprocal obligation of helping those who lack the ability to take care of themselves.

You never know when you will need the Red Cross. Right now, it needs you, so please send a check to your local American Red Cross office today. The address is in the white pages of your telephone book. And thank you for read-ing this "magilla."

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable middle-aged married woman who took a part-time job selling perfume in a first-class department store over the Christmas holidays. A gentleman who appeared to be about 60 asked me to recommend some perfume for his wife, then he proceeded to tell me what a wonderful woman she was. I suggested a few fragrances, then he asked me

I am a very outgoing person and I do smile a lot, but I am very happy with my life and I do not "fool around." The worst part of this whole thing is that my husband actually believed this woman, although I have never done anything to cause him to doubt me.

I can't talk to any of my friends about this because they will think my husband has lost his mind for believing a stranger.

Now what do I do? My husband won't talk to me. ONE UNHAPPY WOMAN

DEAR UNHAPPY: If your husband won't talk to you, he probably won't listen to you, either, but give it a try.

Tell him that you are hurt and insulted, and if your marriage is going to survive he must go with you to a family counselor and find out why he would believe the outrageous accusation of a stranger rather than the word of a faithful wife. Your husband is either sick, or his lack of confidence in you says more about his own character than he intended to disclose.

Meanwhile, across the border in Matamoros, Mexico, police have questioned at least 15 known criminals in an effort to gain the slightest lead to the whereabouts of Mark Kilroy, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday.

The 21-year-old student from Santa Fe, Texas, disappeared early Tuesday in Matamoros as he and three friends were walking back to the United States after a drinking excursion.

Actress says she is a party girl

NEW YORK (AP) - Actress Catherine Deneuve says she's a party girl who doesn't mind some harmless vice.

She also said she's "not against sin. If it isn't a deadly sin and it doesn't hurt someone else's life. sin is fine. That's what gives virtue its value."

The 45-year-old Deneuve has two children, both by men who were married to other women director Roger Vadim and actor

Marcello Mastroianni. Of the stunning beauty that made her the face of Chanel perfume, she said: "It's not my looks, it's the fact that I'm reserved that intimidates people. With this face, if I had a softer, sweeter voice, if I sounded less brusque, if I were warmer and more demonstrative, they'd forget my face.'

Other law enforcement agencies, including U.S. Border Patrol officers in helicopters and four-wheel-drive vehicles, U.S. Customs Bureau investigators and Mexican federal police, also remained in the field searching, he said.

On Sunday, Bishop John Fitzpatrick of the Roman Catholic Church's Valley Diocese issued an appeal in both English and Spanish to parishioners of St. Luke's Catholic Church in Brownsville to aid authorities by spreading word of Kilroy's disap pearance, Gavito said.

Poll finds doubts that feds can help crisis with S&Ls

NEW YORK (AP) Americans widely expect the federal government to fail in its search for a lasting solution to the savings and loan crisis, a national survey by Media General and The Associated Press has found.

The poll of 1,108 adults also revealed a considerable lack of confidence in the beleaguered S&L industry: Only half the respondents called thrifts safe and a third of those with S&L deposits feared losing their

Even if North and South did not play five-card majors, South should probaisfied that South was able to muster up action that produced an interesting problem in play.

West failed to lead a heart for an obvious reason. So declarer won dummy's diamond king, cashed the club king, played a club back to his ace and led another club. West won the que and continued diamonds. Now South came to his hand with the king of spades, picked up the remaining trump, and played the spade 10. Of course West covered with the jack. and declarer had no way of returning to his hand to take a spade finesse to dummy's eight-spot.

South overlooked the play that would have succeeded. When he led the third round of clubs, he should have discarded the diamond ace from dummy. Now West can return a diamond as before, but declarer will win with his jack. He can then pick up the remaining trump and, to improve his count of the hand, cash his other high diamond. He will then know that East started with one club, eight hearts and at least three diamonds. That makes it a percentage play for South to now lead the spade 10 from his hand. The play loses only when East's singleton is the jack, and wins against all other combinations. Should West cover, declarer comes back to his king and then plays up to the A-8 in dummy to bring in the suit.

Federal insurance is insufficient to cover accounts at the estimated 350 savings and loans that are failing, and the government so far has taken over 166 of them while Congress and the White House devise a rescue plan. The nation has 2,955 savings and loan associations. President Bush has proposed using $50 billion in government-

Life insurance companies facing investments woes

DALLAS (AP) - Life in- Texas, especially in Dallas and surance companies, including Houston. some of the field's strongest, are foreclosing on commerical properties more than ever before, and it appears Texas is being hit the hardest.

"There is a lot of concern that today's underperforming properperty of tomorrow," says Paul Saylor, a principal in the Atlanta office of Institutional Property

Consultants. One insurance company, Hartford, Conn.-based The Travelers, foreclosed on 47 commercial properties in Texas last year representing more than $280 cording to statements filed with the state insurance department in Austin.

Nationally, The Travelers foreclosed on 96 properties representing more than $535 million in loans, The Dallas Morning News reported.

Aetna Life Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., recently took suburban Richardson, Texas, million. from Dallas-based Trammell Crow Co.

Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York earlier this month foreclosed on Dallasbased Lincoln Property's 21story Turtle Creek Centre in the Oak Lawn area. Equitable loaned $44 million, or the equivalent of $145 a square foot, on the 300,000square-foot building in 1986.

Insurance companies invest in real estate two ways.

Direct ownership, or equity, investments typically account for between 2 percent and 4 percent of a company's total assets.

Mortgage investments, in which a company lends the money for a project, typically account for about 20 percent or more of total assets.

Some insurance executives say the commercial real estate cycle has hit bottom as have funds available for new purchases in

But many look for a long turnaround of three to seven years. They say there is too much real estate available and too many uncertainties with the ongoing bank and S&L situation.

"We're optimistic that we may ty will become the distressed pro- be able to invest in Texas again someday, but not now," says Mike Towner, real estate vice president at New York Life.

With more than $490 million in loans on Texas urban properties, New York Life foreclosed on 10 Texas commercial properties in 1988, representing loans of $57 million. The company foreclosed million in outstanding loans, ac- on 21 commercial properties nationally representing loans of $121 million.

The New York City-based company has seen one of the most dramatic increases in problem loans. At the end of 1985, New York Life listed just $500,000 in foreclosed commercial and agricultural property on its books. At the end of 1988, that back an industrial property in number had increased to $100.3

> Travelers appears to be the hardest hit company. It also is more concentrated in Texas than any of the other large life insurance companies.

> In its annual statements on file in Austin, the company said it had urban loans — mainly for commercial projects like office buildings, apartments and shopping centers — of $1.4 billion in Texas, more than in any other

> In addition to its 1988 foreclosures, the company also said that at the end of the year an additional 99 commercial properties with loans worth $557.9 million were in the process of foreclosure nationally.

> The Travelers Corp., which operates Travelers Insurance, declined to make available to The News a real estate executive to discuss the situation.

Now's the Time for All Good People to Aid the Red Cross

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: March is what kind I was wearing, so I wrote the month for national fund raising for the American Red Cross. Most of the local chapters have letter-writing campaigns. (Thank you, Red Cross, for not soliciting me by telephone.)

Most people believe that the Red Cross is funded by the government. It is not. The various chapters raise money through drives, bake sales, auctions, special events, etc. (It's no piece of cake going hat in hand to the public when so many other organizations are doing the same thing.)

The Red Cross is not a "social organization" — it provides help for those who need food, clothing, shelter and furnishings following disasters such as fires, floods, tornados, train wrecks, explosions, etc.

The Red Cross conducts blood banks. It teaches first aid, CPR, lifesaving, water safety and physical fitness. It contacts those serving in the military when an emergency arises at home. (I know. When I gave birth to my son prematurely during World War II, the Red Cross flew my husband home while he was serving in the infantry.)

President Bush, in his inaugural address, called on those who were favored with wealth and power to take on the reciprocal obligation of helping those who lack the ability to take care of themselves.

You never know when you will need the Red Cross. Right now, it needs you, so please send a check to your local American Red Cross office today. The address is in the white pages of your telephone book. And thank you for reading this "magilla."

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable middle-aged married woman who took a part-time job selling perfume in a first-class department store over the Christmas holidays. A gentleman who appeared to be about 60 asked me to recommend some perfume for his wife, then he proceeded to tell me what a wonderful woman she was. I suggested a few fragrances, then he asked me the name of it on my business card together with the price - $150 an ounce - and gave it to him. He put the card in his wallet, thanked me courteously and left. That's all the contact I had with that man. (He never did return to buy the per-

I am a very outgoing person and I do smile a lot, but I am very happy with my life and I do not "fool around." The worst part of this whole thing is that my husband actually believed this woman, although I have never done anything to cause him to doubt me.

I can't talk to any of my friends about this because they will think my husband has lost his mind for believing a stranger.

Now what do I do? My husband won't talk to me.

ONE UNHAPPY WOMAN DEAR UNHAPPY: If your husband won't talk to you, he probably won't listen to you, either, but give it a try.

Tell him that you are hurt and insulted, and if your marriage is going to survive he must go with you to a family counselor and find out why he would believe the outrageous accusation of a stranger rather than the word of a faithful wife. Your husband is either sick, or his lack of confidence in you says more about his own character than he intended to disclose.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FLOR-ENCE IN ARLINGTON, VA.: I, too, am sick of the "babble of Tower": Let's get on with more important things.

Religious leaders pray for student

 As authorities concentrated their search for a missing University of Texas pre-med student along the banks of the Rio Grande, religious leaders in South Texas offered prayers on his behalf.

Meanwhile, across the border in Matamoros, Mexico, police have questioned at least 15 known criminals in an effort to gain the slightest lead to the whereabouts of Mark Kilroy, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday.

The 21-year-old student from Santa Fe, Texas, disappeared early Tuesday in Matamoros as he and three friends were walking back to the United States after a drinking excursion.

"Still, our luck has been zero,"

Actress says she is a party girl

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Catherine Deneuve says she's a party girl who doesn't mind some harmless vice.

She also said she's "not against sin. If it isn't a deadly sin and it doesn't hurt someone else's life, sin is fine. That's what gives virtue its value."

The 45-year-old Deneuve has two children, both by men who were married to other women director Roger Vadim and actor Marcello Mastroianni.

Of the stunning beauty that made her the face of Chanel perfume, she said: "It's not my looks, it's the fact that I'm reserved that intimidates people. With this face, if I had a softer, sweeter voice, if I sounded less brusque, if I were warmer and more demonstrative, they'd forget my face."

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) said Lt. George Gavito, the Cameron County Sheriff's Department officer in charge of the investigation into Kilroy's disappearance.

> Mexican criminals, "from pickpockets to drug dealers,' have been rounded up in an effort to "get into the underground — to get any information we can,' Gavito said.

Other law enforcement agencies, including U.S. Border Patrol officers in helicopters and four-wheel-drive vehicles, U.S. Customs Bureau investigators and Mexican federal police, also remained in the field searching, he said.

On Sunday, Bishop John Fitzpatrick of the Roman Catholic Church's Valley Diocese issued an appeal in both English and Spanish to parishioners of St. Luke's Catholic Church in Brownsville to aid authorities by spreading word of Kilroy's disappearance, Gavito said.

The clergy of other area churches made similar requests, he said. The clergy were asked by Kilroy's parents, James and Helen Kilroy, to make the ap-chemical tanker sank after burning for six days off the coast, with all 23 of its crew members still missing, the coast guard said.

NEW YORK (AP) Americans widely expect the federal government to fail in its search for a lasting solution to the savings and loan crisis, a national survey by Media General and The Associated Press has found.

The poll of 1,108 adults also revealed a considerable lack of confidence in the beleaguered S&L industry: Only half the respondents called thrifts safe and a third of those with S&L deposits feared losing their money.

Even if North and South did not play five-card majors, South should probably have bid four spades, not five counts, only 9 percent said they clubs, over East's four hearts. Not sat- were withdrawing money isfied that South was able to muster up a bid, North carried on to six - a rash action that produced an interesting problem in play.

West failed to lead a heart for an obvious reason. So declarer won dummy's diamond king, cashed the club king, played a club back to his ace and and continued diamonds. Now South came to his hand with the king of spades, picked up the remaining trump, and played the spade 10. Of course West covered with the jack, and declarer had no way of returning to his hand to take a spade finesse to dummy's eight-spot.

South overlooked the play that would have succeeded. When he led the third round of clubs, he should have discarded the diamond ace from dummy. Now West can return a diamond as before, but declarer will win with his jack. He can then pick up the remaining trump and, to improve his count of the hand, cash his other high diamond. He will then know that East started with one club, eight hearts and at least three diamonds. That makes it a percentage play for South to now lead the spade 10 from his hand. The play loses only when East's singleton is the jack, and wins against all other combinations. Should West cover, declarer comes back to his king and then plays up to the A-8 in dummy to bring in the suit.

MARINE SCIENCE CLASS-On March 2, four students from the TI-IN Marine Science Class at Hermleigh, their facilitator, Mary Jean Quimby, and history teacher, Elaine Whitfill, took a trip to San Antonio where they toured the TI-IN facilities and attended their marine science class at 10 a.m on March 3. Kathy Langford, who is the marine science teacher, took the group on an extensive tour of Sea World. Mrs. Quimby said that their biggest thrill came when they saw Namu and Baby Shamu, the killer whales. ### Discovery astronauts report back to work reported back to work on the the surface of Venus. ground today to discuss details of their shuttle mission.

The astronauts began briefing various NASA employees about the shuttle's performance and the experiments conducted during the nearly flawless five-day flight, Johnson Space Center spokesman Jeff Carr said.

'They're spending the day today debriefing the director of flight operations Don Puddy," according to Carr, who said similar briefings were planned for the entire week.

Discovery remained at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., where officials said Sunday that the orbiter returned with possibly the least damage of any

A preliminary check indicated that the tires, brakes and engines performed well, and that only 10 thermal protection tiles will need to be replaced.

'This is one of the best yet." said Cindy Lodge, a director for the shuttle tile system that shields orbiters from the fiery re-

High winds hampered work on the shuttle Sunday, as crews prepared to mount Discovery atop a jumbo jet for a ferry flight to Florida. But officials expected it to leave on time Friday morn-

The flight ended with a pictureperfect landing Saturday morning at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., that was watched by a near-record crowd of 460,000. Touchdown on the concrete runway was at 8:36 a.m. CST.

A much smaller but enthusiastic crowd of about 500 people cheered the astronauts' return home late Saturday afternoon at Houston's Ellington Field.

"We've had one fun time and we really enjoyed this flight," mission specialist James F. Buchli told the crowd of mostly friends and fellow JSC workers. Buchli completed his third shuttle flight aboard Discovery.

The flight was commanded by Michael L. Coats, who had flown one previous shuttle mission. The other crew members - pilot John E. Blaha and mission specialists Robert C. Springer and James P. Bagian - were space rookies.

"It was an awful lot of fun being out in space," Springer said. Although the crew was busy every day, Springer said he still found a little time to float on his back and marvel at the Earth below.

Discovery's flight, the 28th shuttle mission overall, was the third since Challenger exploded shortly after liftoff on Jan. 28, 1986. Seven astronauts died in the explosion, which halted shuttle flights for nearly three years.

Railey returns for Dallas visit

DALLAS (AP) -Methodist minister Walker Railey, found financially liable for a brutal attack on his wife almost two years ago, told a Dallas television station he will honor a subpoena and make available his financial records to the attorney who represents his wife's parents.

Railey was served the subpoena Saturday morning as he approached the home of a friend who has custody of his two children, an attorney said. Railey told KDFW-TV Sunday night he was in town from California to help his children celebrate their March birthdays.

No criminal charges have been filed in the April 21, 1987, attack on Peggy Railey. But in a civil suit filed by Mrs. Railey's parents against Railey, a state district judge awarded $16 million in a default judgment. Railey was served the suit twice, but never responded to the allegation that he attacked his wife, though he denied it out of Railey told KDFW-TV he didn't respond to the earlier subpoenas because "I had nothing to gain in the suit and I didn't have the money to go to court.'

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Sixteen years ago I broke my right hip. It became infected with staphlococcus, and I was hospitalized for nine months. I was told I could never have an artificial hip because of the infection. Now I see my friends going around so well with their artificial hips, I'm wondering if I should risk it. I'm 65.

DEAR READER: One of the absolute contraindications to joint replacement is septic arthritis, the presence of infection in or near the joint. To replace a joint under these circumstances is an invitation to failure because the bacteria will dislodge the prosthesis.

I do not know whether you are a candidate for surgery; this decision should be made by an orthopedic surgeon who is familiar with your case. However, using today's newer, more powerful antibiotics, doctors can often treat bone infection and cure it. Therefore, joint replacement could be considered. The specialist can advise

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 92369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention

DEAR DR. GOTT: Do you think men or women are more likely to see a doctor for pain or illness? Why do you think there is a difference?

DEAR READER: Customarily, women tend to seek medical attention more often than men. However, the data may be misleading because normal pregnancy is often included in studies of gender-related medical visits. Thus, women have been unfairly represented in the statistics.

Even taking this into account, men are less likely to visit medical facilities. This is probably due to cultural, sex-role stereotyping, being "masculine" is not consistent with requiring medical help. In my experience, this trend is being reversed.

If you eliminate routine female examinations, Pap tests and pregnancy, the male-female ratio appears to be more equal. So, although women have traditionally been more inclined to get help for illness, more men are now doing so.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My thyroid was not functioning at all, yet I had the same symptoms as hyperthyroid. My doctor called it Graves' disease. I still have bulging eyes. Will they ever go away? Is surgery a possibility?

DEAR READER: I'm confused by your question because the symptoms of hyperthyroidism (of which Graves' disease is a type) are completely different from those of an underfunctioning thyroid.

Too much thyroid hormone causes nervousness, weight loss, increased pulse rate and intolerance to heat, whereas too little causes sluggishness, weight gain, slow pulse rate and chilliness

Graves' disease is an overfunctioning thyroid gland associated with prominent eyes. As medicine brings the gland to a more normal state, the protruding eyes usually return to normal. However, in some cases, the eyes remain prominent after the conclusion of therapy. Under these circumstances, surgery may be necessary to prevent corneal ulceration, irritation of the front of the eye due to poor supply of tears, which is a complication of Graves' disease.

If your eyes are still bulging and you are experiencing occular symptoms, I urge you to request a consultation with an endocrinologist, a specialist skilled in the treatment of thyroid disorders. Medicine and/or surgery may be options for your to consider. Incidentally, this surgery is not cosmetic; it is actually used to protect vision.

Jacob DeHaven, a wealthy Philadelphia merchant, loaned the government almost everything he had to help the war effort - gold and supplies worth about $450,000.

He died childless and in poverty in 1812, and is buried in an unmarked grave in Swedeland, Penn., said Peter Murphy, the family's lawyer.

DeHaven's descendants contend the government stiffed him.

A venom extractor was used on the wound, but not all the venom was removed, said Joe Martin, a spokesman for the Heart of Texas Snake Handlers. Suffering from swelling, Luddeke was taken to Scott and White Memorial Hospital in Temple.

Luddeke has participated in snake shows for four years and has been bitten twice before, officials said.

Terry Payne of Jonestown also was in Scott and White following a rattlesnake bite on the thumb during a Saturday snake-sacking competition. Payne, in his 30s, was transferred out of intensive care Sunday afternoon in good condition.

Weber also said there is a high correlation between the consumption of alcohol at snake shows and snake bites.

Snake bites hit people in two ways, Weber said. First, the venom causes rapid destruction of tissue followed by swelling near the wound, sometimes making amputation necessary.

Secondly, the venom can cause spontaneous bleeding and even death.

Martin said two to three snake bites during a weekend show is average.

The bites usually occur during the sacking contest and not during the more rehearsed events like "the kiss of death," where a snake handler kisses a snake on the head.

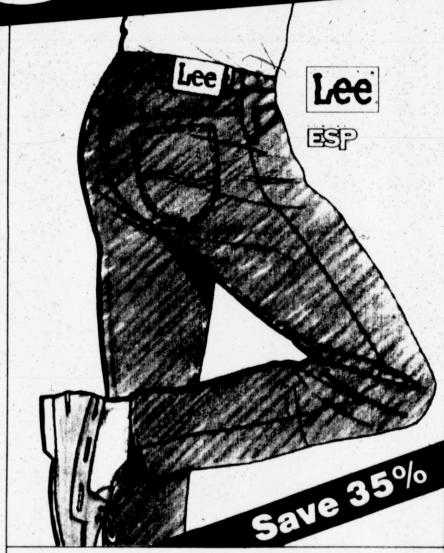

'When they're sacking they're Dr. Bob Weber, the physician in a hurry," added Martin, who

Wildlife Department stocks birds on state officials' land

AUSTIN (AP) — State officials stocked on Nash's 11,000-acre say there was nothing improper ranch in Val Verde County in 1988 about using taxpayer money to and disappeared almost imstock game birds on a ranch owned by the chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission and on two ranches owned by state House Speaker Gib Lewis. The commission stocked quail on the ranch of Farks and Wildlife Chairman Charles D. Nash Jr., although such stocking was stopped years ago because it was unsuccessful, The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

The commission also spent at least $10,000 to stock wild Rio Grande turkeys on two ranches owned by Lewis, according to records obtained by The News from the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Neither Lewis nor Nash received special treatment, said department employees, although they acknowledged that neither entered into formal agreements with the state, as is usually required in stocking programs. Such agreements generally prohibit hunting the stocked animals for five years and allow the state to bill the federal government for up to 75 cents of every $1 spent. Don Wilson, department program leader for upland game, said 53 Gamble's quail were records show.

A San Marcos automobile dealer, Nash was appointed to the Parks and Wildlife Commission in February 1987 by Gov. Bill Clements. He was named chairman in July 1988.

Wilson said he didn't know what it cost the state to stock the quail, but said department employees spent about three days trapping the birds at the Ocotillo Wildlife Preserve in Presidio County.

Nash's ranch is about 75 miles east of the outer limit of the normal habitat of the Gamble's quail, according to Wilson. He said Nash had agreed to plant on his ranch the winter grains the birds would need to survive.

The department discontinued a quail stocking program in 1966 because it was unsuccessful, Wilson said. But, he said, after consulting with an Arizona biologist he became convinced it might work on Nash's property.

On Lewis' ranch near Milford in Ellis County, 118 Rio Grande turkeys were stocked beginning in January 1987 to try to establish the birds in that part of Texas,
