Dismissals prompt lawsuit challenge for judge, auditor

District Judge Gene Dulaney and the new county auditor he appointed this past Jan. 1, Linda Franklin, are defendants in a federal court suit filed by former County Auditor Bernhard Bartels and his former deputy, Ann Walton.

The suit was filed Friday afternoon in Lubbock.

The plaintiffs allege that the method by which Bartels and, as a result, Walton were replaced was in violation of their individual constitutional rights.

Specifically, they cite their right of free speech, association and assembly as well as their "franchise rights both to a secret ballot and to run for a public office without fear of retaliation."

Last Jan. 1, Dulaney appointed Franklin to replace Bartels as county auditor. Upon accepting the post, Franklin dismissed Walton as the deputy county auditor.

In the petition filed in connection with the lawsuit, the plaintiffs contend the target of the dismissals was Walton, who they allege Dulaney described as a "troublemaker" who had opposed his recent bid for a new term as district judge.

Point total switch gives high school literary meet win

Snyder High School was officially declared the winner of the District 2-4A UIL Literary Meet Friday by a unanimous vote of the district executive committee.

The committee, comprised of the superintendents from the eight schools in the district, agreed that points awarded at the meet in connection with the one-act play competition did not follow UIL rules.

At the contest, held in Big Spring last Saturday, Snyder's one-act was given 20 points for qualifying to compete at the district level. Each of the three other schools qualifying were given 20 points also.

Snyder school officials successfully contended Friday that the play should have been granted 83 points.

This included 35 points for the play being named a winner at district; 16 points for a best actor designation; 24 points for three being named to the all star cast; and 8 points for two honorable mentions to the all star cast.

With the correct number of points awarded, the literary meet ended with 251 for Snyder and 244 for Andrews.

Representing Snyder Friday were Superintendent Dalton Moseley and SHS Principal Ray Courtney.

"When we pointed out the rules in the UIL Constitution, there was no question on the distribution of points," Moseley said. "It really went smoothly and quickly

One-act is winner at Friday contest

Snyder High School's "Blood Wedding" and Levelland High School's "Threads" were chosen to advance Friday from the area one-act play contest held in Worsam Auditorium.

In addition, SHS students Robert Neblett and Kristi Mize were chosen best actor and best actress of the competition.

Two other members of the cast, Corey McDaniel and Amber Adams, were awarded all star cast honors and three others, Rebecca Vestal, Melissa Hodges and Coy Berryman, earned honorable mention.

Other schools in the competition were Canyon Randall High School, performing "Song of Bernadette," and Sweetwater High School, performing "John Turner Davis."

Snyder and Levelland will now advance to the regional one-act competition due in Brownwood April 22. From that event, schools will go to the state meet in Austin May 4-6.

61 'place' at event for young scholars

A total of 61 students from Snyder Junior High and local sixth grades placed Friday at a UIL literary meet involving Snyder, Lamesa and Big Spring.

This included 14 winning first; 16 winning second; 10 winning third; nine winning fourth; seven winning fifth; and five winning sixth.

The competition was for individuals only and no team points were totaled for the three schools.

Snyder students placing at the meet and their events were:

—Oral reading (sixth grade): Mandy Breuer, second; Kandy Gard, fourth; and Krish Head, fifth.

—Oral reading (seventh grade): Eddie Neeley, fourth.

—Oral reading (eighth grade): Sara McDonald, second; Amy Beaver, fourth; and Stephanie Fambro, fifth.

—Impromptu speaking (sixth grade): Robyn Hornsberger, first; Ellen Strayhorn, second; and Jeremy Wells, fourth.

Pre-school signup planned this week

The annual Pre-School Round-up for students who will be entering kindergarten and students eligible for the program for four-year-olds next fall will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The signup will be held at two elementary campuses each day. The schedule includes Tuesday at West and Central; Wednesday at East and Northeast; and Thursday at North and Stanfield.

Parents should bring their child to the Round-Up. Screening tests will be given for the program for four-year-olds and the pre-school summer program for children who enter kindergarten in August and who have limited English speaking ability or who need oral language development.

The district urges parents to check their child's immunization records and to secure any needed immunizations prior to that date. A record of the immunizations will be needed to register the child.

The shots can be obtained at the Scurry County Health Unit this coming week on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

On a weekly basis, these immunizations are available each Tuesday at the health unit for a small fee.

The required immunizations include polio, a minimum of three doses with at least one received on or after the fourth

Reversed prison term gains plea

A 33-year-old Snyder man whose aggravated kidnapping conviction and 25-year sentence had been reversed on appeal pleaded guilty to a reduced kidnapping charge last week in 132nd District Court and received a 10-year sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Larry Dan Beard entered the plea in the Oct. 27, 1987, gunpoint abduction of a 24-year-old Snyder man — an incident in which two other men, John R. Locknane and Grady A. Davis, were also convicted and given penitentiary terms.

Beard was sentenced on the basis of enhancements for two prior felony convictions, and his plea was to a charge of kidnapping with no aggravation or enhancement.

The criminal appeals court in Eastland last December remanded Beard's conviction and sentence back to the trial court because the jury charge in his January 1988 trial did not adequately inform the jury about evidentiary requirements for concluding that he had "acted as

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Talking that so long is generally the result of thinking that wasn't long enough."

Darryl Calley, a vice president of Snyder National Bank, is the current president of the Snyder Kiwanis Club. Calley got another job recently when he was named treasurer of funds donated to help the Jack Pointeau family pay legal fees.

The French family, "citizens" of Snyder since 1983, have been working for months to reverse an Immigration Service order to leave the country by April 26.

Friends and admirers of the hard-working family have rallied to help the cause. Among those who have led the fight has been Art Feinsod, owner of the Purple Sage Motel and a competitor of the Pointeau's White Buffalo Motel.

Civic clubs, citizens and businesses have donated funds to help with the legal fees, estimated to cost about $3,000.

At last Wednesday's noon Kiwanis meeting, Calley was again passing the hat. When the meeting ended, there was an assortment of change, checks and a note.

The note read: "Bumper sticker—Leave Jack, Send Art."

The plight of the Pointeau family has gained Snyder some national publicity. As a result of an Associated Press article written by Fort Worth's Mike Cochran, other media has taken note.

At the SDN, we've received letters and Jack has received mail from all over the country. Snyder has been on ABC and well as the Cable News Network, and the latter featured an interview with WTC President Dr. Harry Krenek at the entrance to the college.

That familiar-looking golfer playing last Sunday with Bruce Crampton was Snyder's Cloyce Talbott. The local oilman was playing in the Murata Seniors Reunion pro-am at Stonebriar Country Club at Frisco, near Dallas. Cloyce was on camera several times during the afternoon.

In Brief

Ban is lifted

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, the Polish leader who banned Solidarity in 1981, voted with other parliament members Friday to lift the legal barriers on the trade union.

The parliament also voted to institute a strong presidency and create the East bloc's first democratically elected parliament chamber — part of the economic and trade union reforms sealed Wednesday following six weeks of talks between the Solidarity-led opposition and communist authorities.

Against Cason

WASHINGTON (AP) — A coalition of conservation groups are asking President Bush to withdraw his nomination of James Cason to oversee the Forest Service because of what they call Cason's "wanton insensitivity" toward the environment.

The groups on Friday detailed a series of complaints about actions Cason took as an acting assistant secretary at the Interior Department.

They said he had "improperly" applied pressure on the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to keep the spotted owl off the endangered species list and ordered the destruction of a Bureau of Land Management draft report that said the owl was threatened by logging in the ancient forests of the Northwest.

Politics blamed by judge

AUSTIN (AP) — A state district judge who criticized the homosexuality of two murder victims told the Texas Supreme Court that demands for his dismissal are politically motivated.

In documents filed with the state high court Friday, Judge Jack Hampton said a petition in which 17 lawyers ask for his dismissal "is politically motivated without basis or foundation" and comes from a group interested in "embarrassing the court."

Hampton faces moves on two fronts that could lead to his removal. Both the Supreme Court and the state Commission on Judicial Conduct have launched inquiries of the jurist.

Both were prompted by a December interview the 57-year-old judge gave to the Dallas Times Herald in which he criticized the homosexuality of two murder victims.

The judge said one reason he sentenced the man convicted of killing the two men to 30 years instead of life in prison was that he believed the victims were "queers cruising the streets for teenage boys" and therefore were "asking for trouble."

Court records show the only evidence that the two men were soliciting sex came from the testimony of the defendant.

Gay and civil rights groups organized demonstrations against the judge, with some urging Hampton's removal. Critics said Hampton's remarks showed he was not fair and impartial.

However, in the response Friday, Hampton and his four attorneys denied that anything the judge did during or after the trial can be construed as evidence that he is biased.

The Republican judge, on the bench for almost eight years, contends the motive for removing him is political and personal gain.

Documents claim moves to get Hampton off the bench are "the reflection of a county and a courthouse charged with political activity in which one political party undertakes to bash the other political party, or one interested group of voters seeks publicity to enhance and/or establish some political position."

The documents said that to remove Hampton from the bench "is to remove the judiciary from its normal processes and operation and subject the courts to manipulation and circumvention at the whim of media attention or political caprice."

But William Waybourn, president of the Dallas Gay Alliance, defended those calling for Hampton's removal, saying they reflect "a very broad-based effort."

Since 1905...

And we're just getting started!

The oil boom was just beginning in 1950, and Snyder National Bank had already served Scurry County for 45 years. It was logical that SNB would play a lead role in needed community improvements—including two Continental Airline flights daily to Snyder. Others working on that project were Mayor Forrest Sears, County Judge Edgar Taylor, Chamber President C. T. McLaughlin and Chamber Manager Bill Schiebel.

Since 1905, Snyder National Bank has played a vital role in the progress of Snyder and Scurry County. But we've just begun, and the future of our area looks bright...

When something has to be accomplished in Snyder, you can always count on SNB. For more than 84 years, our people have rolled up their sleeves and gone to work. Service is what SNB is all about. We want you to be a part of the Snyder National Bank family.

PETER
GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A friend was pregnant in the Fallopian tube. She had surgery. Was there a chance the baby could have grown normally?

DEAR READER: No. In order for a fertilized ovum (egg) to develop into a fetus, it must implant on suitable territory, that is, the uterine lining.

Occasionally, the embryo becomes attached at an inappropriate place, such as in the Fallopian tube.

Ordinarily, fertilization occurs at the fringed beginning of the Fallopian tube, a long muscular pipe that connects the ovary to the uterus. (Every woman is born with two ovaries and two Fallopian tubes; the ovaries alternate each month in producing a mature ovum.)

The fertilized egg then begins to divide and, while dividing and growing, passes the length of the Fallopian tube and eventually adheres to the uterine lining where it matures.

For unknown reasons, the fertilized egg may prematurely adhere to the lining of the Fallopian tube. In many cases, however, this is due to chronic scarring of the tube. Known as a tubal pregnancy, this situation is serious because the Fallopian tube is not adapted to sustain growth of the fetus. It can break, causing hemorrhage and shock.

In tubal pregnancy, surgery is necessary to remove the product of conception and, if indicated, to repair the tube.

The diagnosis of tubal pregnancy can be difficult. Abdominal pain, positive pregnancy tests and an abdominal mass are the cardinal signs. However, laparotomy (surgical exploration of the abdominal cavity) may be necessary to diagnose the condition and treat it.

Some women appear to be particularly susceptible to tubal pregnancies. A woman who has had a tubal pregnancy has a 20 percent chance of having another. Doctors can help determine likelihood by checking the condition of the tubes when they remove the tubal pregnancy.

DEAR DR. GOTT: When I woke up this morning the left side of my face felt like it was paralyzed and my right eye wouldn't close. My doctor says it's Bell's palsy. Could you explain it to me?

DEAR READER: Bell's palsy, paralysis of a branch of the facial nerve, is a common affliction. Although it may be the result of nerve compression from tumor or infection, the cause is usually obscure.

Patients with Bell's palsy are often unable to close one eye or the mouth; part of the face may be weak and sag. The ailment usually is temporary and lasts only a few weeks. However, in some patients, it is permanent. Rarely, it may affect both sides of the face.

Cortisone drugs often help reduce the severity and duration of Bell's palsy.

We are, quite literally, held together by peptides. These amazing substances, strings of amino acids that often combine to form proteins, have been termed the "chemical circuitry" that not only makes us complete beings but also determines our physical responses and our emotional attitudes. Peptides are compounds influencing our reactions to our environment; they wed our organs into cohesive units recognizable as biological systems.

Peptides are present in all tissues. More than 60 have been identified in the brain alone, and this is only a fraction of the number that may exist. For example, gonadotropin-releasing hormone, or GnRH, has recently been discovered and studied. It is a relatively simple chemical that produces widespread changes in the body by stimulating the release of more complex hormones from the brain, causing production of sex hormones by the ovaries and testicles. GnRH influences sexual behavior, including puberty and menopause.

Another well-known peptide, angiotensin II, is present in the brain and kidneys. It helps control thirst, fluid retention and blood pressure.

Dr. Candace Pert, a former chief of the section on brain biochemistry at the National Institute of Mental Health, has gathered evidence suggesting that diseases, such as AIDS, may damage peptide receptor cells in the brain. This revelation may explain why AIDS patients suffer a wide spectrum of neurological malfunctions, including memory loss and dementia. She has developed a synthetic compound, named peptide T (because it contains the amino acid threonine), that reacts with receptors in many organs, including the brain, cardiovascular system, lungs and gastrointestinal tract. Peptide T also reacts with the immune system.

After administering the peptide to AIDS patients in Stockholm and Los Angeles, scientists were gratified to discover that the substance improved memory and reduced attention deficits. Work is now under way to determine if peptide T can reverse the brain damage caused by the AIDS virus and whether it can be manufactured in the form of a vaccine to prevent AIDS. Researchers are optimistic that peptide T, or compounds like it, can also block damage to T lymphocytes, circulating blood cells which are vital to immune functioning and are destroyed by AIDS.

Traditionally, medical treatment in general includes three methods: administering a substance the body lacks (for instance, insulin for diabetics), giving medicine to modify the reaction between the body and a disease process (antibiotics for infection) and using deactivated vaccines to promote immunity (such as tetanus toxoid injections).

With the advent of peptide research, physicians may be on the verge of being able to modify specific receptors in one or more organ systems. By this technique, medicine of the future will surely develop into a more exact science; a precise deficiency may be correctable using a particular antidote, long before the disease has a chance to get started.

Many health professionals are discouraged by predictions that research is drying up, as medical scientists (an "endangered species") are being increasingly attracted away from the laboratory. It is said that this is due to cutbacks in government subsidies for research; scientists simply cannot make as much money in medical laboratories as they can in other vocations. I hope this isn't true. Now, more than ever, we need the brightest and the best young people to fill the shrinking ranks of researchers who really make a difference.

In no field is this more apparent than in peptide biochemistry, where there is a real possibility for eventual cures for ravages such as cancer and AIDS. Research continues to be on the cutting edge. Our future health lies in the hands of the dedicated scientists who conduct it.

Attorney wants charges filed

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas County grand jury heard an appeal from an attorney who represented former death row inmate Randall Dale Adams to consider misdemeanor perjury charges against a former police detective.

Lawyer George Preston claimed the former detective has given conflicting accounts of Adams' behavior immediately after his 1976 arrest. Preston on Friday urged state District Judge Larry Baraka to appoint a special prosecutor to present a complaint of perjury to the grand jury.

Preston, in a letter addressed to the foreman of the grand jury that will consider the complaint, alleged that the lead investigator in the slaying of Dallas police officer Robert Wood lied in a hearing late last year.

The attorney said the investigator testified before Baraka that Adams did not proclaim his innocence when he was arrested and charged with the killing.

Another man has since virtually confessed to shooting Wood. Adams, after serving 12 years in prison for the crime, was freed March 21, and charges against him were dropped.

John Vance, Dallas County district attorney, said he had not reviewed Preston's complaint but that his office would present the matter to a grand jury later this month. Vance would not speculate whether a special prosecutor would be appointed.

The former detective, now chief deputy in a constable's office, did not return a call by The Associated Press to his office.

'Centrists' Baptists seek control of SBC

ATLANTA (AP) — A leading Texas Baptist chose Georgia for the first state chapter of a movement to oust fundamentalists who control the Southern Baptist Convention.

"For the past 10 years, the presidents of the Southern Baptist Convention — and those associated with them — have misused the power of the presidency to turn the convention into something it never has been since it was organized in this state (in 1845)," said the Rev. Winfred Moore of Amarillo, a former vice president of the 14.7 million-member denomination.

Speaking to about 100 ministers and lay people at a Hapeville cafeteria Friday, Moore urged them to join the new organization, Baptists Committed to the Southern Baptist Convention.

The organization aims to win the convention's presidency from the fundamentalists who have held it since 1979, and to change the rules so that no group can win exclusive control of the denomination.

Rev. Moore said the group prefers to be called "centrists." The organization was endorsed by the Rev. Monroe F. Swilley Jr., founder of Mercer University in Atlanta, and the Rev. Floyd Roebuck of Rome, a former state convention president.

Some at the meeting worried that by joining, they would be seen as belonging to the moderate faction.

The Rev. Gene Tyre of Newnan, asked: "What is going to keep the centrist movement from being identified with the moderate movement? Our lay people out in West Georgia, and many of our pastors, view a moderate as being a liberal."

The Rev. Moore sought to distinguish Baptists Committed from an avowedly moderate organization, the Southern Baptist Alliance.

"I am committed to the Southern Baptist Convention," the Rev. Moore said. "I plan to stay committed and stay in the convention. I'm not going to let anybody run me out of my home."

In his perfect game against the Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1956 World Series, Don Larsen of the Yankees threw only 97 pitches.

Jim Palmer, former star pitcher for Baltimore, is the only man in World Series history to win games in the classic in three different decades.

Gunman kills JP, shoots cop

PALACIOS, Texas (AP) — A popular Matagorda County justice of the peace died and the city's assistant police chief was wounded when a masked gunman carrying a bomb detonator in a backpack entered a courthouse annex and opened fire.

Justice of the Peace T.J. "Jack" Dooley, 79, was shot once in the heart, and Palacios Assistant Police Chief Emmitt Greene, 43, was shot in the upper chest in the Friday afternoon attack, said Police Chief Don Gullett.

Greene was listed in serious condition late Friday in the intensive care unit of the Matagorda General Hospital in Bay City with a bullet lodged near his spine.

The bullet pierced Greene's liver, and physicians said because of its location they would not immediately remove it.

The slain gunman was identified as Duc Nga Nguyen, 27, from Garden City, Kan.

Officials estimated that Nguyen and Greene fired up to 20 shots during the gun battle that lasted only a few seconds.

Officials in this small fishing town 100 miles southwest of Houston were puzzled by the shooting and searching for a motive.

"This is a peaceful town. It really got to me when we heard what had happened. It's hard to understand," said City Councilman Don Kopecky, a Palacios resident for nine years.

At about 2:40 p.m., Nguyen walked in the annex, which houses several county offices including the sheriff's office and police department, said Matagorda County Sheriff Sam Hurta. Nguyen's face was partly covered by a bandana and he held a Mauser automatic, which discharges bullets about the size of those from a .32-caliber pistol.

Nguyen also wore a backpack that, police later learned, contained adhesive tape, string and a device that could be used as a bomb detonator. The pack also contained three pairs of fake handcuffs.

Hurta said there was no bomb in the pack. Bomb experts from Houston combed through Nguyen's van parked beside the annex and Dooley's car, but no explosives were found, investigators said.

Nguyen had been at the annex earlier in the day inquiring about obtaining a driver's license and left when he was told they were only issued on Wednesday.

Pam Gullett, the police chief's wife who works for the county tax office and has a desk at the annex, said she knew there was something wrong as soon as Nguyen walked in.

"He yelled at me to stand up. I asked him what he said, and then the shooting started," she said. "I ducked into a corner, hoping that the bullets wouldn't go through the wood."

Dooley walked in as Nguyen grabbed Dwayne Koenig, 32, who was standing by the door, authorities said. Nguyen was instructing Koenig and Mrs. Gullett to lay on the floor when Dooley approached them and was fatally shot. Mrs. Gullett and Koenig were unhurt.

Bullock's rep appearance set here April 17

AUSTIN, Tex.—State Comptroller Bob Bullock said recently that a representative from his agency will be in Snyder Monday, April 17, to answer questions about Texas taxes and assist taxpayers with paperwork and problems.

"I don't want to see state taxes turn into a burden for folks who can't get to a field office. Our visits are a service we're happy to provide to Texas taxpayers," Bullock said.

Lloyd Allred, enforcement officer from the Lubbock field office, will be at the Scurry County courthouse, county courtroom on the third floor, from 10 a.m. to noon. The public is welcome and there is no charge.

Lawsuit filed against judge

Plaintiffs claim Dulaney informed Bartels that if he did not dismiss Walton, he (Bartels) would be replaced as county auditor.

When asked why, according to the petition, Dulaney stated because she had campaigned against his re-election. The judge is also credited as saying Walton "had no business" running for and winning a trustee's seat on the Snyder school board.

In their claims against the judge, plaintiffs say that Bartels' refusal to dismiss Walton eventually led to his being replaced as county auditor by Franklin, who they claim had "conspired with Dulaney for the appointment."

As compensation, the plaintiffs seek unspecified damages for "great embarrassment, shame, notoriety and humiliation," as well as reinstatement to their positions, lost employment benefits, court costs and "reasonable" attorney's fees.

Bartels and Walton are represented in the suit by Lubbock attorneys Thomas Griffith and Brian Quinn.

Bobbie Box, district coordinator, noted that parents will need to bring a copy of a valid birth certificate with them to register the child. A valid birth certificate is one issued by the county clerk in the county where the child is born. A hospital document or baptismal record is not acceptable under the Texas Education Code.

A valid birth certificate may be received by sending a money order or check for $7.50 and a request for the record to the county clerk in the county where the child was born.

Parents of students pre-registering for the program for four-year-olds will need to bring verification of income and/or their food stamp certificate.

Children who did not attend public school kindergarten but will reach six years of age on or before Sept. 1 should pre-register for the first grade at this time.

Debate looms on death penalty issue

AUSTIN (AP) — A lawmaker who earlier sponsored a bill extending the death penalty to those guilty of murder has authored a measure allowing juries to consider mental retardation in sentencing the defendant to life or death.

Lawmakers begin debate Monday on the House bill sponsored by Rep. Bob Melton, D-Gatesville.

Melton said Friday that he authored the bill because he worried that severely mentally retarded inmates might be put to death.

"I really don't believe in my heart that the people of Texas want to execute someone with the mind of a 6- or 7-year-old," he told The Dallas Morning News.

"If we ever execute one mentally retarded person who couldn't contribute to his own defense, that would be something awful," Melton said. "We've probably done that in the past and chances are we could in the future."

Texas is the only state that doesn't allow juries to consider the level of retardation in determining the penalty in capital murder cases, said Scott W. Howe, an adjunct professor at the University of Texas School of Law, who also works at UT's Capital Punishment Clinic.

Texas law requires jurors to answer "yes" to three questions before returning the death penalty: Was the act deliberate? Is it probable the defendant would continue to be dangerous? And was the killing an unreasonable response to the provocation?

A recent study by state prison officials, who administered intelligence tests to 264 of death row's 296 inmates, showed that three others also are mentally retarded, having an IQ of 73 or less. Thirty-two of the inmates refused to take the test.

Currently before the U.S. Supreme Court is the pending execution of John Paul Penry, 32, who experts say has the mental capacity of a 7-year-old. Penry's attorney has argued the jury should have been allowed to consider his client's retardation in returning a sentence.

Melton said he will try to pass a resolution to prohibit the execution of mentally retarded inmates until the Supreme Court rules on the Penry case, which is expected this year.

But Assistant Attorney General Bob Walt said he believes that Texas law adequately allows defense attorneys to raise mental retardation factors in the three questions jurors ask.

Walt said he fears Melton's bill could raise an arbitrary standard, in that someone with an IQ of 69 could escape the death penalty while someone with an IQ of 71 could be subjected to execution.

"Each individual is unique, and there can't be any hard-line rule like that," Walt said. "It starts to become arbitrary and capricious."

Western Texas NIRA Rodeo opens Thursday in coliseum

If the past is any indication, Coach Bob Doty's troops will make a strong run at qualifying for the College National Finals Rodeo this week.

They host the annual Western Texas College NIRA Rodeo at Scurry County Coliseum - an event which Western has won the past two years.

"We've always gone into the rodeo needing some big points and we've usually been able to get them," said Doty, whose men's team is currently in second place in the Southwest Region.

The rodeo will be dedicated in memory of Shawn Odom, a team roper and student at Western Texas from Cross Plains, who was killed in a March auto accident. The rodeo opens Thursday evening at 8 o'clock and runs nightly through Saturday. The short-go, or finals, is set for 2 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for students. Scurry County students will be admitted free Thursday with tickets which will be distributed at the schools.

It will be the eighth of 10 Southwest Region rodeos during the 1988-89 season. Following the season, teams will compile points from their seven best rodeos to complete the standings. First and second place teams will advance to the CNFR in Bozeman, Mont.

Currently, Southwest Region colleges and universities are winding up the Howard College NIRA Rodeo in Big Spring, which was to end with Sunday's 1:30 p.m. short-go. Going into the rodeo, Western Texas College was holding down second place in the men's regional standings. Odessa led with 1,712.5 points, followed by Western with 1,120, Howard College with 1,057.5, Sul Ross State with 917, Vernon Regional College with 770, Eastern New Mexico with 755, and Tarleton State with 642.5.

Tarleton paced the women's standings with 790 points. Eastern New Mexico had 610 points, Texas Tech University 497, Howard College 478, Vernon 278, Sul Ross 245 and Western Texas 105.

Doty expects some 250 students from 15 colleges and universities to enter the WTC Rodeo.

Jerry Baird will serve as announcer. Stock contractor is Harry Vold.

Thursday's performance will recognize a new rodeo queen. Candidates are Lorre Moser of Iowa Park and Anne Marie Blagg of Colorado City.

RODEO HERE - The annual Western Texas College NIRA Rodeo is set to begin Thursday, April 13, in Scurry County Coliseum. The rodeo will hold shows nightly at 8 p.m. through Saturday, April 15, with the short-go to follow at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 16. Western Texas traditionally does well at the Southwest Region event. Merchant takes over 2nd in bulldogging

BIG SPRING - Western Texas College cowboy Russell Merchant continues to shine in the steer wrestling.

Merchant clocked a 5.7 here Friday to move into second place in the event at the Howard College NIRA Rodeo. The freshman from Madisonville won the long-go at Odessa two weeks ago and was second in the average at Canyon last week.

Merchant's effort was the highlight here so far for Western, which was to compete in Saturday's 7:30 p.m. show and hopefully send a handful on to Sunday's 1:30 p.m. short-go.

In other results involving WTC designated team members from Friday, Denny McLanahan took over sixth place in the bareback with a 63 score while Ray Brown missed the top 10 with a 14.8 time in the calf roping.

Also, Michael Gaffney's 65 he posted Thursday in the bull riding has slipped to fourth overall.

In women's action, Melanie

Graf took over fifth in the barrels with a 17.74 second run. Her 11.9 in the goat tying, posted Thursday, is now tied for third and Krista Jeffries' 3.5 in the breakaway is tied for fourth place. Also, Jeffries' 17.82 in the barrels fell to seventh.

In the only other WTC results, Steve Roberts marked a 64 and took over fourth place in the saddle bronc. Coach Bob Doty also noted that none of the college's team ropers had posted times in the top 10.

Snyder native and WTC ex Adam Brewster is tied for third in the bareback with a 68 and is fifth in the bull riding with a 64. Brewster rodeos for Sul Ross State University now.

WTC will host the Western Texas College NIRA Rodeo beginning Thursday, April 13, at Scurry County Coliseum.

Trevino shares lead at Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - It would have been easy for Lee Trevino to fall out of contention in the 53rd Masters.

He shows up on Friday with a one-shot lead on a course that makes him uncomfortable.

The conditions are horrible. Swirling, gusty winds. A bitter chill in the air.

To compound the problem, Trevino bogeys the first hole, falling into a tie for the lead.

"The start I had, I'd probably have thrown it in," he said. By the time he reaches the seventh tee he's already three shots behind Britain's Nick Faldo.

"I was thinking pretty good," Trevino said. "I stuck in there today."

He stuck in there well enough to gain a share of the lead with Faldo at 3-under-par 141 for 36 holes on the Augusta National Golf Club course.

Faldo, who faltered down the stretch with two bogeys on the last three holes, shot 73 and Trevino had a 74.

To win third in a row...

Tigers slap Monahans, 7-2

MONAHANS - Snyder's Tigers got all the runs they needed in the first inning, then held on to defeat Monahans 7-2 in District 4-4A baseball action here Friday.

The victory, Snyder's third straight, lifts the team to 11-6 overall and 3-2 in district play. Next action for the Tigers will be Tuesday, when they bus to San Angelo for a 4 p.m. game with Lake View.

Monahans fell to 8-6 overall and 2-3 in district play.

Snyder opened the scoring in dramatic fashion when Willie Garcia slammed Monahans left hander Noel Porras for a one-out homer over the left field fence. Unfortunately for the Tigers, it was the only appearance in the game for the Tiger outfielder, who had twisted an ankle during pregame warmups.

"It had swollen up pretty good and we knew he couldn't play after we saw him bat," said

Coach Lewis on Saturday morning. "I don't know how bad it is but I wouldn't expect him to play Tuesday. Hopefully he'll be able to play Saturday," when the Tigers entertain Fort Stockton.

Snyder touched Porras for three consecutive singles after Garcia's homer. Randy Morris, Tracy Odom and Bert Otto all slapped the ball. Otto's basehit drove in Morris. Later, Bart Morton punched a sacrifice fly that sent courtesy runner Bert Merritt scampering in with a third run.

Except for singles to Odom and Jason West and three walks - scattered over the next five innings - Porras kept Snyder silent until the seventh. Then the bottom fell out for the Loboes.

In the seventh, Snyder used two walks and a Lobo error to load the bases. Porras got two outs, but walked Otto to push West home. Next-up Morton cranked out a two-run single, extending Snyder's lead at the time to 6-1. Another walk loaded the bases and sent Porras off the mound in favor of John Blevins. Blevins walked in another run on a free pass to Isrrael Hinojos before he finally got out of the inning.

Meanwhile, Snyder right hander Lee Fletcher and his defense kept the Loboes in check. Monahans put two runners aboard in both the first and second innings, but couldn't get them in.

The Loboes scratched in the third stanza when Chris Molina doubled, took third on a wild pitch and scored on a sacrifice fly hit by Ralph Sanchez. Their final run came in the seventh when Porras and Freddie Chavez singled and Fletcher hit Molina with a pitch to stack the bases. Porras scored on a fielder's choice. It was the second Monahans out of the inning, however, and Fletcher fanned Freddie Jimenez to end the ballgame.

Fletcher, 6-3 now, gave up just five hits, walked four and struck out seven batters. Four of the strikeouts came as the final out in the first, third, sixth and seventh innings. Each time Monahans had runners on base.

Snyder collected seven hits, walked six times and struck out nine.

Lewis said the Tigers made two errors, one of which occurred when a player was out of position - more of a mental error than an actual muff.

"We're playing real good defense and our pitching is doing fine," said Lewis. "We just need

Government now controls cleanup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush says he wants "complete restoration" of Alaska's oil-fouled Prince William Sound and is sending in federal troops and inviting an army of volunteers to help clean up the massive pollution.

"The job of cleaning up the oil from both the sea and the affected land areas will be massive, prolonged and frustrating," Bush said Friday as he put the government in virtual control of the operation.

Transportation Secretary

Samuel K. Skinner, tapped to mobilize and coordinate federal efforts, said "the resources of the United States government have been put at my disposal" to ensure that the area is returned to its pristine condition "and I plan to use them."

Administration sources, declining to be identified, said thousands of military personnel would be involved.

Bush announced his decision at a hurriedly called news conference where he doggedly refused to answer questions about his role in the Reagan administration's secret program to aid the Contra rebels.

He said any comment could prejudice the trial of one-time White House aide Oliver North, at which new details of Bush's role emerged Thursday.

Bush told a questioner, "The legal process ought to run unfettered, without you or me endangering the trial process."

Turning to foreign policy, Bush said the situation in the Middle East was slightly improved because of a proposal by Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir to hold elections among Palestinian Arabs in the West Bank and Gaza.

"In the Middle East, a little step sometimes can be fruitful," he said. "I think the climate is better than it has been."

On other subjects, Bush said:

"I have no intention of budging one inch" on Democratic attempts to get him to raise his minimum-wage proposal above $4.25 an hour, coupled with a six-month subminimum "training wage." The House has passed a bill to raise the minimum wage to $4.55.

—He will not be prodded by Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev to speed up a foreign policy review and return to strategic arms talks. "We're making a prudent review and I will be ready to discuss that with the Soviets when we are ready," Bush said.

—Developments in Poland were encouraging and represented a "mind-boggling" shift in the attitude of the communist government. The Warsaw government this week approved a sweeping agreement for democratic changes and legalizing the once-banned Solidarity trade union.

Opening the news conference, Bush branded the 10-million gallon oil spill in Alaska a "tragic environmental disaster" and said it had produced "deadly results for wildlife and hardship for local citizens."

He said, "our ultimate goal must be the complete restoration of the ecology and the economy of Prince William Sound, including all of its fish, marine mammals, birds and other wildlife."

Bush noted that Exxon had acknowledged responsibility and liability for the spill. Bush said Exxon "should remain responsible for both damages and for employing civilian personnel necessary to control further damage."

Reps of AARP attend workshop

AARP representatives attended a care giving workshop April 4th at the Holiday Inn in Midland.

Those attending the workshop learned that the U. S. became a nation of senior citizens this year and that it will remain so until the 2020s.

They were also told that people must become more attuned to the care of these people and "network in" on the various needs of not only the day care patient but the day care giver who burns out just as young executives do.

Ideas were exchanged, informed speakers spoke and informative literature was distributed.

Those attending from Snyder included Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Wemken, president; Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Merritt, district director, and board members C. J. Smith, Verdie Kimbro, Raymond May and Mary Carnes, secretary.

Don't fret over exercising at the "best" time of the day, says the Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau. Many athletes try to exercise in the morning when their basal metabolic rate is higher, so they'll burn more calories. But the real difference between morning and evening workouts, says Dr. Barbara Frey-Hewitt at the Stanford Center for Disease Prevention Research, is only a few calories.

McGlaun named director

June McGlaun, who has been a member of Historic Scurry County Inc. for more than 20 years, Wednesday was named director of the newly named Scurry County Heritage Village which is presently comprised of the Dodson House, McDermott Schoolhouse and any future acquisitions which may be added to that area.

In actual fact, Mrs. McGlaun said Thursday morning, that she has been functioning as the director for the past five or six years but now has the official title. However, her duties as director will remain essentially the same as they have been for the several years.

As director of the Scurry County Historic Village, Mrs. McGlaun will keep a calendar of events, oversee the use of the Dodson House and its upkeep and that of the McDermott School when inside work on it has been completed and it will be open for tours etc., and work with the volunteers or docents in regard to training and scheduling of activities.

Mrs. McGlaun said that whenever the Dodson House is in use whether for a tour or some other activity that either she, another member of Historic Scurry County or a docent must be on the premises at all times.

In addition, Mrs. McGlaun said that she will oversee the care of acquisitions for both the Dodson House and McDermott School. Jean Everett is the chairman of the acquisitions committee.

Also, it was decided recently that the Dodson House will now be open for visitors from 2-5 p.m. each Friday rather than by appointment only as had been the case in previous years. However, anyone wishing to arrange a tour for another day or time may call Mrs. McGlaun at 573-9742.

Mrs. McGlaun also said that Historic Scurry County Inc. is in the process of organizing a Junior Docent program and any high school interested is asked to contact her.

Mrs. McGlaun said that Historic Scurry County Inc. decided on the above mentioned changes because they wanted to make the Dodson House and ultimately the McDermott School and any future acquisitions as accessible as possible to interested persons.

Financial Focus

It's estimated that estate taxes affect roughly 10 percent of our population. As income and personal wealth increase in this nation, that percentage could rise.

If the joint estate of you and your spouse is approaching one million dollars, you need to begin some serious financial planning.

Although that number may appear high, you could be closer than you think. Many fail to realize an estate consists of everything one owns. That includes home, property, securities, savings, business interests and a long list of items you may never consider. Often, property, securities or a business has appreciated beyond expectations. When valued as part of an estate, they could present serious tax consequences to your heirs.

The problem could be compounded by the fact that many assets have a limited market. For example, a prospering family business without the leadership of its owner/manager could not only lose a portion of its value but also limit the number of prospective buyers. Unfortunately, the IRS does not always consider these problems when assets are appraised for estate purposes. The only time these potential problems can be effectively resolved is prior to the estate owner's death.

The first rule of any serious estate planning is to select a competent tax attorney. This does not mean letting your fingers do the walking through the telephone directory. Make certain the attorney you select is knowledgeable and current in tax law. A good starting point is to ask your respected friends and associates for recommendations. Then after doing your homework and armed with the proper questions, arrange an interview. You may wish to interview several attorneys before making your selection.

Once that decision has been made, there are several key estate-planning questions you should explore. These vary depending on your state of residence and your wishes as to the distribution of your estate.

For example, if you plan on leaving a portion of your estate to a favorite charity or institution, charitable lead trusts and charitable remainder trusts are two options.

With a lead trust, the income is designated to a charity for a specified time and then reverts to a named beneficiary. With the remainder trust, the income first goes to a named beneficiary and is then remaindered to the charity. Both can benefit your estate, but neither should be attempted without your full understanding and the counsel of an attorney.

If you're more family oriented and wish your estate to pass to your descendants, they can be accomplished through insurance trusts.

With an unfunded trust, the life insurance policy is irrevocably transferred and the premiums paid by the trustee. With a funded trust, there's a transfer of the policy and enough money or income-producing assets to pay the premiums.

Restrictions apply to both of these plans, so ask your attorney to explain them in detail.

Most people who have accumulated large estates have worked hard to do so. In fact, many times they've worked so hard to accumulate wealth that they've neglected to maintain it.

If you're one of these people, some time dedicated to serious financial and estate planning could mean the difference between leaving your estate to those who deserve it or letting the government take the lion's share and distribute the remains as they see fit.

It's your choice—at least for the time being.

INS putting in cellular phones

BAYVIEW, Texas (AP) — The immigration service is installing cellular telephones for aliens at its southern Texas detention center in a rush to comply with a federal judge reviewing the agency's treatment of Salvadorans.

U.S. District Judge David V.

'42' planned for Monday.

A 42 tournament will get underway at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Senior Citizens Center. Play is to be concluded before the serving of the noon meal.

Senior citizens who wish to attend the annual volunteer banquet set for April 20 are reminded that they are to make reservations by April 18. All senior citizens who have given volunteer time during the past year will receive invitations by mail but others who wish to attend are to contact the office to get their name on the guest list.

A program of western music will be presented in the center starting at 11 a.m. Tuesday. Representatives from the Social

Kenyon of the Central District of California last year made permanent a 1982 injunction ordering the Immigration and Naturalization Service to guarantee Salvadorans access to legal materials and legal workers and inform them of their right to seek political asylum. The order stems from a case, Orantes-Hernandez v. United States, in which immigrant rights lawyers contended the INS denied Salvadorans various constitutional protections.

The judge last April specified that access to telephones is part of access to legal representation and ordered the INS to provide one telephone for every 25 detainees from El Salvador.

Kenyon is reviewing the INS' compliance in the case, and has set a hearing for Thursday and a contempt trial for May 30.

Soviet nuclear submarine catches fire, sinks

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A nuclear-powered Soviet submarine caught fire and sank in international waters off northern Norway, and Norwegian officials said today that at least 12 crew members were killed.

Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev sent messages to the prime ministers of Norway and Britain saying that an undetermined number of sailors died in the accident Friday but that the nuclear reactors on the submarine had been shut down before the vessel caught fire and sank, officials and news reports said.

"According to the opinion of experts, the possibility of a nuclear explosion and radioactive pollution of the environment is excluded," Gorbachev's message to Norway's premier said, according to the NTB news agency.

Officials in Washington said it was probably a "Mike" class submarine, one of the most modern in the Soviet fleet, and capable of carrying 95 sailors. They said the sub, which was designed to hunt and destroy other submarines in the event of war, is powered by two nuclear generators and can carry torpedoes and long-range ballistic missiles.

Vadime Rosanov, the Soviet press attache in Oslo, told Norwegian television the sub was carrying torpedoes, not ballistic missiles. However, he declined to say whether the vessel was equipped with nuclear weapons.

Soviet vessels in the area. There has been loss of life."

Tass, which did not identify the submarine, said only that "a fire broke out on board a Soviet nuclear-powered torpedo submarine" Friday at 11:41 a.m. (3:41 a.m. EDT), and it sank at 5:15 p.m. (9:15 a.m. EDT).

"Specialists ruled out the possibility of a radioactive contamination of the environment," Tass said. A duty officer at the Soviet Defense Ministry in Moscow said that he had no information on the accident.

Pictures taken Friday by Norwegian reconnaissance aircraft showed about 13 Soviet sailors clinging in the sea to a life raft thrown to them from the Norwegian aircraft. Norwegian officials said the sub sank 120 miles south of Norway's Bear Island and 320 miles off the northern coast of Norway.

"The minimum number of casualties would be 12. It's difficult to say and we don't know many were picked up," said Lt. Cmdr. Per Andre Ragdem, spokesman for Norway's northern military command.

He said the Soviets had declined offers of help from Norway.

Gorbachev, who ended a 40-hour visit to England on Friday, assured Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain that the sub's reactors had been shut down before the vessel caught fire and sank, her office said today.

AP correction...

DALLAS (AP) — The Associated Press reported erroneously on April 4 that Cooper Industries, of Houston, ranked 117 in the Fortune 500 magazine's listing of the nation's largest industrial companies. Cooper ranks 107.

U.S. and Norwegian military sources, who reported the accident before Soviet officials did, said the fire apparently broke out while the vessel was underwater and that it surfaced, then sank.

The official Soviet news agency Tass, which reported the sinking 19 hours after it occurred, said: "The crew is being rescued by

House oks proposed budget

AUSTIN (AP) — House budget writers Friday approved a $46.9 billion proposed budget for the 1990-91 biennium that can be funded without a tax increase, according to the chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

"It's a little high, but we think we're going to be OK," said state Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield. "We've got our fingers crossed."

The budget recommendation is about 10 percent higher than current spending levels and represents a $2.5 billion increase in general revenue spending.

The general revenue fund is the state's major account that is composed of taxpayer dollars.

Rudd said the proposal will pay for basic state services. "It really covers the basic subjects. It's about as good a job as we ever do," he said.

The increased spending can be supported without a tax increase because of bookkeeping and insurance and franchise tax changes enacted by the Legislature that will pump in about about $1.9 billion, Rudd said.

In addition, the improving state economic picture will result in more revenue.

"We've got a lot of good signs out there in the economy. We're pretty optimistic," he said.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock will give lawmakers more breathing room in the budget when he delivers a revised revenue estimate later this month to reflect the improving economy, a spokesman said Friday.

The revenue estimate is important to lawmakers because it controls the amount of money they may appropriate for expenditures for the two-year budget cycle.

Tony Proffitt, a spokesman for Bullock, said the comptroller's office is working on a revised estimate to take into account the "continued and expanded economic recovery."

"Quite frankly there's been some preliminary calculations on the numbers and it's good news," he said. He declined to say how much more revenue would fall into state coffers due to increased economic activity.

The Appropriations panel cheered after approving the proposed budget on a 22-0 vote. The recommendation will be considered by the full House in about two weeks.

Meteorologist will give severe weather seminar

Eckhart, a 17-year veteran of the National Weather Service, has participated in meteorological data gathering at White Sands Missile Range, N. M. and has done Arctic Weather Research in Greenland.

In addition to serving as meteorologist for KTXS TV, Eckhart acts as superintendent for Fort Phantom Hill State Historical site and has published over 50 articles on Texas history.

RODEO COACH—Bob Doty has served as rodeo coach and assistance professor of agriculture at Western Texas College since 1979. He learned about rodeos while growing up on a stock farm near Lueders and even competed professionally for one year. (SDN Staff Photo)

Bob Doty likes rodeos.

As a boy growing up on a stock farm near Lueders, he learned the ropes at an early age.

After high school graduation, he competed in amateur events and rodeoed professionally in 1976-77. His specialty was bareback riding events.

He has suffered broken arms, broken bones in his hands and a broken collarbone, not all at the same time, he noted gratefully. He adds he "has probably been hurt worse farming."

With this background in rodeo, it was only natural that he took the advice of Van Rigby, who suggested that Doty apply for his old job as rodeo coach at Western Texas College.

Doty joined the WTC staff in 1979 and has served as rodeo coach and an assistant professor of agriculture ever since.

Each semester he normally teaches two agriculture and four rodeo PE classes. In addition, Doty coaches two rodeo teams, one for men and one for women.

WTC students usually sign up for one hour of rodeo each semester and throughout the week follow a regular schedule for practicing rodeo events. Mondays and Wednesdays are spent on riding the bucking stock while Tuesdays and Thursdays are reserved for roping events.

"Some students just sign up for rodeo as a form of exercise and others want to compete seriously," he said. "Most already have acquired some pretty good skills and we try to polish and improve those through lots of practice," Doty explained.

Doty's basic philosophy is to have everyone practice in a "rodeo situation." "I stress that rodeo is man against animal and I encourage them to go out and do the best they can without worrying about who has gone before them or who will come after them," Doty said.

"We also try to help each other out by giving tips on how to improve a performance," he said.

Girl rodeo team members compete in three separate categories: break-away-roping, goat tying and barrel racing. Members of the men's team compete in bull riding, bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, team roping, calf roping and steer wrestling.

To be a good rodeo contestant, Doty said a person must "have a high degree of ability" and then must "keep working at it."

His teams average about four rodeos in the fall and six in the spring. College competition is limited to the spring and the fall but other open rodeo competition is held the year around. Some of his students compete in AJRA sanctioned rodeos and others enter professional rodeos.

The WTC men's rodeo team has either been first or second in the Southwest Region for the past eight years to qualify for College National Finals Rodeo and the women's team has qualified for the CNFR in both 1984 and 1986.

He said he quit the professional rodeo circuit after competing in 1976-77 because "he wasn't making any money at it," even though he was bringing some wins, and it "wasn't fun anymore."

He was also motivated by the fact that he and his then fiance, Darla, were planning to get married and he said "he needed a way to be able to support them both."

Doty returned to teaching, first at Fort Davis and then at Big Spring, instructing vocational ag.

Doty doesn't compete anymore but he spends a lot of time on the road accompanying his teams to various rodeos. It's not unusual for him to leave on a Thursday afternoon and return Sunday afternoon.

The Doty's have two sons, Sterling, 6, and Jay, 7. Sterling seems to be the cowboy in the family, according to his dad. "If he wants to pursue rodeo I will encourage him and help him to learn the correct way to do it, but I won't be too excited if he decides he wants to ride bulls," Doty said.

The Doty's are members of the 37th Street Church of Christ.

'MISLEADING' LABELS INCREASE SALES

Label jargon can be misleading to consumers who base buying decisions on information found on product packages.

The Food and Drug Administration requires a food label to state the name and address of the manufacturer and to list ingredients in descending order of weight.

Calorie information is optional. If included, the label must give the serving size; per-serving amounts of calories, protein, fat, carbohydrate; and the percenttage of the recommended daily allowances of five vitamins, two minerals and protein.

Labels get confusing when terms such as "lite" or "light" that have no standard definitions are used to appeal to consumers.

Lite can refer to color, taste, texture, calories or weight. Consumers should look at the ingredient list or nutrient chart to determine why a produce is lite.

This list of possibly deceiving terms was published in the American Institute for Cancer Research "Newsletter" to help consumers make informed food choices when reading labels.

—Lean: No more than 10% fat by weight — not by calories.

—Extra Lean: No more than 5% fat by weight — not by calories.

—Leaner: At least 25% less fat (by weight) than the original product.

—Dietetic: One or more ingredients has been changed, substituted or restricted. Not necessarily low in calories.

—Sugar-free/Sugarless: Contains no sucrose; might contain corn syrup, fructose, honey, sorbitol or other sweeteners. Not necessarily low in calories.

—Sodium-free: No more than 5 mg. sodium per serving.

—Very Low Sodium: No more than 35 mg. sodium per serving.

—Low Sodium: No more than 140 mg. sodium than the original product.

—Reduced Sodium: At least 25% less sodium than the original product.

Walls, Sanchez say promises

Emma Kate Walls of Westbrook and Charlie Sanchez of Ira were united in marriage Feb. 11 in a 2 p.m. ceremony at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church. Father Joseph Augustine officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Linda Walls of Westbrook and Troy Walls of Colorado City. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sanchez Sr. of Ira.

The couple stood before an altar highlighted with a brass archway decorated in greenery. Heart-shaped brass candelabra accented with burgundy bows and brass spiral candelabra entwined with greenery flanked the arch.

Sonja Girvin of Colorado City sang "Flesh of My Flesh" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Escorted by her father, the bride chose a silhouette-style full-length gown of candlelight satin accented with pearls and sequined lace. The bodice featured a V-shaped waistline and a portrait neckline designed with a sheer lace yoke with lace edging.

Satin and lace sleeves puffed on the shoulders and tapered to a point at the wrist. The cathedral-length train was adorned with window pane lace cut-outs accented with pearls and sequins. A full satin bow topped the train.

The bride's veil of candlelight bridal net styled in Juliet fashion featured a silk arrangement with dangling pearls on the side feathering her cheek. The veil was accented with scattered pearls and edged in pearls at the bottom edge.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white and ivory roses with an array of varied flowers accented by draped strands of pearls.

For something new, the bride wore a string of pearls with matching earrings, a gift from Jamaica brought back by her great-aunt, Sue McCarley of Colorado City. Something old was her maternal grandmother's wedding band, Nell Baker of Colorado City. Something blue was her garter. For something borrowed, she carried a white handkerchief with pink and burgundy flowers from Mrs. Ollie Gale of Colorado City. The bride wore birth-year pennies and a Spanish coin in her shoes.

Maid of honor was Sherry Gale of Breckenridge, the bride's cousin. She wore a candlelight satin gown featuring puff sleeves, heart-shaped neckline, and a large bow accenting the ruffle which fell from the waist.

She carried a pink lace fan accented with pink and burgundy silk flowers and ribbons. Her hair was adorned with a halo-style arrangement of pink and burgundy silk flowers and ribbons.

Jeran Ware of Colorado City served as bridesmaid. Her gown was styled like the honor attendant's, but in burgundy satin.

Other honor attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sanchez, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sanchez Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sanchez, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sanchez, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gutierrez,

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Guzman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garcia, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Ibarra, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Salazar, Mr. and Mrs. Ignacio Benitez, Mr. and Mrs. Venancio Galindo, Mr. and Mrs. Lupe Morin, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Luna and Mr. Andrew Ramirez with Irma Sanchez.

The bridal attendants were attired as the bridesmaid and their escorts wore formal, black tuxedos with tails and ivory dress shirts accented with burgundy ties and cummerbunds.

Flower girls were Micah Baker of Colorado City, cousin of the bride, and Amanda Ramirez of Snyder, niece of the groom. They were dressed to match the bridal attendants and carried small pink baskets filled with pink and burgundy petals.

Attending the groom as best man was Lynn Williams of Ira. Groomsman was Tom Sanchez, nephew of the groom. Ushers were Brant Baker, cousin of the bride, and Joey Sanchez of Hermleigh, nephew of the groom.

Candlelighters were Hope Gale of Breckenridge, cousin of the bride, and Judy Sanchez, niece of the groom.

Following the wedding mass, a barbecue dinner was held in the Salon. A dance honored the couple later in the evening with Los Bravos Del Norte Band performing.

The wedding march was performed at 8 p.m. with the wedding party entering under a brass archway flanked by heart-shaped candelabra.

The bride's table was draped in white and featured a six-tiered strawberry cake with ivory icing. The confection was surrounded by six satellite cakes joined by staircases with candles on each step. Pink and burgundy flowers cascaded from the cakes and a burgundy fountain centered the arrangement. Wedding bells and doves topped the center cake.

The bouquets of the bride and her attendants complemented the table. Burgundy bows which were used to mark the pews completed the table edge.

Lisa Putman of Colorado City served.

The groom's table was draped in brown with a runner of beige burlap down the center. A two-tiered chocolate cake topped with a western miniature bride and groom was complemented by a German chocolate cake in the shape of a horseshoe.

The western groom's theme was carried out in a replica of a covered wagon, wooden spool candle holders, and a ceramic cowboy. Champagne was served at his table.

Irma Sanchez, sister of the groom, served.

The bride is attending Western Texas College and the groom is a graduate of Ira High School and WTC with an associate in arts degree in agriculture economics.

The couple will make their home in Westbrook.

Guest popular poet

DETROIT (AP) — Edgar A. Guest, sometimes called "the poet of the plain people," was a child of 10 when his parents came to this country as immigrants from England in 1891.

While still a teenager, Guest became an office boy for a local newspaper. He later was a police reporter, then a daily columnist for the paper. Guest began including homespun verses and jingles in his column and they quickly proved popular. His writings were syndicated in 300 papers.

Guest once calculated he had written well over 10,000 verses in his columns. They were also widely used in greeting cards and calendars. A typical Guest verse began, "It takes a heap o' livin' in a house t' make it home."

Guest, whose verse-writing made him wealthy, died in 1959.

URINARY INCONTINENCE

By exercising the muscles that support the bladder and surround its neck, many incontinent persons can regain control over the passage of urine. The exercise involves tightening, then relaxing certain muscles repeatedly for 15 minutes, 3 times each day. By starting and stopping the flow of urine, victims of incontinence can learn to identify those muscles that need strengthening.

If you're looking for whole wheat bread, make sure whole wheat flour is first on the ingredients list, says the Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau. Also check to make sure it's the only flour listed. Bread labeled "whole wheat" must be made from 100 percent whole wheat flour; but those labeled "wheat" or "cracked wheat" usually contain processed white flour.

Evening vows join couple

Melissa Kaye Hodge became the bride of Leroy Peter Vicknair Jr. in a 7 p.m. ceremony Feb. 24 at 37th Street Church of Christ. Rick Martin officiated the double-ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Greg and Bonnie Hodge and Abel and Grace Beauchamp.

Pews were marked with white satin bows and a unity candle was accented by tapers. Vows were spoken before a brass arch entwined with ivy and holding 12 votive candles. The mothers of the couple lit the candles.

Vocal artist Darrell Collins sang "Ice Castles," "You Are So Beautiful," "Sunrise, Sunset," "Always and Forever," "The Lord's Prayer," and accompanied the recessional with "You Are So Beautiful."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown styled of white satin trimmed in embroidered laces and pearls. The bodice was styled with a modified Queen Anne neckline and had appliques of lace embroidered with pearls on the front and back.

A row of lace at the neckline was embroidered in pearls and crystals. The back fastened with satin-covered buttons which fell to the low-cut waistline. A large, candy box bow at the back waistline accented the style.

Long, leg-o-mutton sleeves were of satin embellished with lace appliques at the top with the fitted portion of imported illusion embellished with appliques of lace and pearls. Covered buttons fastened at the wrists.

The full skirt featured large appliques of embroidered lace and pearls with a wide row of specially embroidered lace circling the bottom edge. Unique cut-out appliques adorned the back of the skirt and two bows of white satin accented the cathedral train.

The bridal bouquet was of white roses accented with dusty rose and blue roses. Pastel pink, blue and white satin ribbon streamers completed the arrangement.

Maid of honor was Wendy Hodge of Odessa, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Marcie Featherston and Robin Rodgers. The honor attendant was attired in a long gown of rose with short puffed sleeves and a ruffle cascading down one side and around the hem. The attendants wore dusty rose tea-length gowns. They carried nosegays of dusty rose and blue Sweet Williams nestled in lace and satin ribbons.

Best man was Kenneth Pickering and groomsmen were Randy Townsend and Sean Randolph. Usher was Kirk Kimbrell of Midland, cousin of the bride.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo. His attendants wore tuxedos of silver grey accented by dusty rose cummerbunds and bow ties.

Brigitte Brunson registered guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Family Center.

The bride's table was covered in dusty rose satin overlaid with white lace. A crystal punch bowl, candleholders with dusty rose tapers, and the bride's bouquet accented the two-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with rose and blue roses. A heart with two doves and wedding bells topped the confection.

Daelynn Kimbrell of Midland and Tracy Kimbrell of Sweetwater, cousins of the bride, served.

The groom's table was covered in dusty rose linen and held a silver coffee service and unity candle in an ivory rose candler. The chocolate groom's cake was decorated with small American flags and two silver jets on runways to depict the U.S. Air Force.

Serving were Tracy O'Neil and Jenny Rainwater, sisters of the groom.

Following a honeymoon visit to Lubbock, the couple is at home in Snyder.

The bride is a senior at Snyder High School. The groom is an SHS graduate and attended Western Texas College. He is employed at WSI and will be entering the Air Force in August.

Test your play

By James Jacoby

When North discovered that South had four hearts, he invited game. That action was a little doubtful since North's seven high-card points were all in overrated queens and jacks. But South was happy to accept. His hand was all aces and kings, and he had a second four-card suit.

Follow the play without looking at the East-West hands, and see if you would do as well as declarer. East won the king and ace of diamonds and then switched to the club nine. Declarer took the A-K and ruffed a club with dummy's heart nine. He next led the queen of hearts from dummy, finessing. A second heart brought the king from East, won by the ace. Declarer's club jack was covered by West's queen and ruffed, and the spade jack was led from dummy. Declarer played low, and West won the king and returned the spade five. What would you play from dummy?

If you put up the 10 of spades, give yourself an A-plus for card-placing. The play is not 100 percent, but East has already shown up with the A-K of diamonds and the king of hearts. If he also held the queen of spades, he would very likely have opened the bidding in third position. West made a nice try with his deceptive play of the spade king, but it should not work here. Sharp readers may notice that East could have defeated the contract by leading back a spade rather than a club, but that's a hard play to find at the table.

Four kinds of humpless camels

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Not all camels have humps.

The vicuna, smallest member of the camel family, lives in the Andes mountains above the snow line. It stands about 3 feet high, weighs 75 to 100 pounds and has a finer fleece than any other wool-bearing animal. It has no hump.

The domesticated alpaca and llama are other South American relatives of the camel. They, too, have no humps.

All four animals are prized for their wool, meat and milk.

Manges wants to sue state

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Oilman-rancher Clinton Manges says he wants to sue the state over a 5-year-old multimillion-dollar settlement, prompting the state's land commissioner to charge that Manges is renegeing on the deal.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, one of the parties in the 1984 settlement, has blasted Manges, saying that Manges is renegeing on the settlement of a lawsuit that was to benefit the state's Permanent School Fund.

Manges is seeking $4.5 million in oil and gas revenues.

"It's bad enough Clinton Manges wants to pick the pockets of Texas school children, but he wants to do it in direct violation of an agreement he signed on Jan. 5, 1984," Mauro said.

Manges, however, told the San Antonio Express-News earlier this week that Mauro was using the attack for political gains.

"He's trying to make some hay out of it, trying to accuse me of picking on poor little schools, while Garry's protecting them ...," Manges said.

"It's pretty raw when you have to go through this," he said.

Manges said although the settlement had been reached in 1984, he waited to file suit against the state because another party contesting the settlement, Exxon Inc., had lost its bid for a rehearing before the Texas Supreme Beef industry: where's the fat?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Texas A&M scientists say the beef industry has done well by reducing the amount of fat served consumers in their steaks and hamburgers, but they warned that the job isn't finished.

Savell on Thursday told a conference sponsored by the National Cattlemen's Association that if he had to send cattle producers and the beef industry a note from the teacher, it might say: "Excellent progress made in making product fit consumers' needs. Keep working on leanness, convenience and cost, value. Remember to maintain taste, or consumers will go elsewhere."

Court. Manges said the court's refusal paved the way for him to challenge the state on his claim that he was acting in the state's interests when he filed the original 1982 lawsuit against Mobil.

Mauro said Manges is attempting to use a legislative resolution to abrogate the agreement negotiated with the Land Office and Mobil Oil Corp. in which he waived all rights to revenue generated from oil and gas production on a 14,720-acre tract of Permanent School Fund land.

"I am outraged — beyond outraged — that a man who got a fair settlement would go so low as to attempt to steal money from the Permanent School Fund today, when education has never been more important," Mauro said.

In the early 1980s, Manges was said to be worth $500 million during the oil-and-gas boom and gained controversy for his political contributions to judges and other Texas politicians.

The current controversy stems from a settlement that Manges, the state, Mobil Co. and Exxon Inc. reached over the distribution of oil and gas revenues from mineral rights on lands in Webb and Duval counties.

Under that settlement, Mauro claims, Manges received 49,340 acres of private land and Manges agreed to waive his rights to oil and gas revenues on 14,720 acres of state land.

In the past four years, production of the fund lands far outstripped Mobil's past efforts, contributing more than $3 million to public education.

During the same period, however, production of the 49,340 acres declined 93 percent.

Estimates of how much the fund would receive have ranged from $150 million to $15 million. So far, the fund has received $3 million from that settlement.

Manges said he is entitled to half that amount, plus half of future revenues, totaling approximately $4.5 million, said state Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, who filed a resolution last month seeking permission from the state for Manges to sue the state.

Uribe said he was not representing Manges in the case, but said he was approached by the oilman-financier to sponsor the resolution.

Hance disputes claims oil is less important in economy

DALLAS (AP) — The state's economic recovery is dependent on oil price stability, Railroad Commission Chairman Kent Hance told a meeting of petroleum industry analysts.

"We are not going to have a strong economic recovery until we have stability," Hance said Thursday.

Hance stressed stability rather than high prices, saying even a jump to $30 a barrel for West Texas Intermediate Crude, the benchmark U.S. price, would be harmful. The price has been hovering around $20 per barrel in recent weeks, but dropped 19 cents Thursday to $19.80 a barrel.

Such a price would cause the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries cartel to retaliate by driving down the price, he said.

The recovery from prices as low as $10 a barrel to $20 "has not created drilling activity yet," he said, but if the price remains stable for another six months, exploration should pick up again.

Hance called natural gas "the sexy fuel for the future," but warned of its drawbacks.

"Everybody from Jesse Helms to Jane Fonda will be for natural gas," he said, because it is a cleaner fuel with less environmental problems.

But he added that delivery will be a problem because no new natural gas wells are being drilled.

"Oil is still king in Texas," said Hance, who heads the agency that regulates how much oil can be pumped from the state's fields.

Hance disputed the findings of a recent Southern Methodist University study, which concluded that the Texas economy no longer depends on energy.

He cited another study by Southwest Econometrics, which said a $5 increase in oil prices, sustained for more than a year, would have a larger impact on the state's economy than more than 25 "super colliders," the $4.6 billion atom smasher proposed for south of Dallas.

Hance said the SMU study gave too much weight to the early '80s, at which time oil prices were in the $30 range.

Hance plugged efforts to broaden the state's economy, "but you cannot forget the thing that's brought us to the point we are today," he said.

Meanwhile, Hance said the oil spill in Alaska's Prince William Sound will make the United States more dependent on foreign oil in the long run because it will hamper efforts to open up more of Alaska to production.

The shortest game in World Series history was in 1908 when the Tigers and the Cubs played a game in one hour and 25 minutes.

COME BRING A FRIEND

By Donny Brown

Have you any idea, or do you care, what the well-dressed journalist is wearing this year?
From a personal standpoint, we anticipate getting dressed in the morning much the same way as we once looked forward to visits with our Aunt Sadie. The faster done the better.

Around our house, one personal barometer which measures the seeds of discontent is when the wife begins to refer to her clothing selection as "uniforms."

The image tickles us, for it perfectly sums up how we men and women—sometimes feel about our clothing. Or, if you think in such terms, a wardrobe.

There still exists in this world traveling tailors. They don't travel very far, at least in West Texas, but they do depend on a clientele of folks with enough money to want a privately-tailored suit.

One such fellow traveled through these parts several months ago, and he wound up at our desk with the mistaken impression, at least until he had a chance to look us over, that he had been directed to the boss.

We had to inform him, politely, we hope, that we weren't a "suit

SDN Opinion Page

and tie" guy and wouldn't be needing his services.

We haven't been comfortable in a tie since a U.S. Army M.P. explained that he wore the clip-on variety to avoid being strangled by the first drunk and disorderly soldier who wanted a break from field duty.

It was in the Army where we were exposed to uniforms, and it has been subsequent service in the journalism ranks where our fashion sensibilities have been sharpened to the fine cutting edge of an oat bran muffin.

It was one of the early reasons for getting into the business, actually, a profession where looking scruffy is not necessarily a sin.

Folks who pound at computer terminals all day—hunched and cramped—are not posing for magazine ads. As a result, suit coats engender only claustrophobia. The coat sleeves seem too tight and only serve to make your shirt sleeves either ride up around your forearms or down below your wrists.

This is one reason why an entire breed of newsmen have affected the "loosened tie" look, which also includes a coat carried and never worn and shirt sleeves perpetually rolled up two notches.

Other more affluent journalists affect either a tweedy look which is a scruffier version of the college professor image, or go around looking like a private detective whose mother still dresses him every morning.

This is for the guys who can afford that style. On newspapers with poor salary levels AND tie requirements, the ultimate fashion statement is more or less the stockboy look.

That is, while mainstream folks wear funny looking ties with boring shirts, this breed of well dressed journalist might be caught wearing a boring tie with a funny looking shirt.

Blue jeans and tennis shoes might be thrown in to perfect the ensemble.

We view this style as a misguided concept—an attempt to perpetuate the adversarial role image by dressing like you really don't give a hoot what anyone thinks.

Regarding our fashion sensibility, we like to stay in three general styles: loose shoes, baggy britches and a shirt with enough starch in it to keep us upright on Monday morning.

Country Life By Deanie Francis Mills

All you pregnant ladies who are reading this, and all you women who are not yet moms but plan to be, or who are not through having your family...I beseech you...don't give your daughters cutesie little fluffy baby names which will plague them all their grown-up years.

Give them names with strength and dignity which will fit an adult who may enter the professional world some day and will want to be taken seriously. Then, if you want to call them something cutesie at home, use a nickname. "Amanda," then, could be "Mandy." A good friend of mine named her daughter Katherine Rebekah, a wonderful name—and we all call her Katie. To us, she'll never be anything else, but if she ever wants to pull out the big guns, at least she has that choice.

I wanted to name my daughter Jessie, after my grandmother, Jessie Maude. Instead, I decided to call her Jessica, so that she would have a grown-up name for her grown-up years. At home we call her Jessi, but actually, she prefers Jessica, so that's how we introduce her.

See, us baby boom babies were born to many mothers with the cutesie malady. Hence, classrooms of the fifties and sixties were filled with girls named Betsy, Bitsy, Cindy, Mimi, Missy, Prissy, and even, once in a blue moon...Deanie.

It was bad enough having a name which rhymed with "wienee." But that wasn't the worst of it. People who saw it written NEVER pronounced it correctly. To this day, I am commonly called "Deana," a name I hate. I've also been called Deanie, Deanna, Diane, Deedee, Donna, Jeanie, and Dean.

Then, people who hear my name spoken NEVER spell it correctly. I still get Christmas cards from people who have known me for years who insist on putting in an extra "n" (Deannie).

As far as "Francis" goes, it is my maiden name, not my middle name, but people nearly always think I've mis-spelled my own name and change it to "Frances."

You can't imagine the anxiety, come yearbook or diploma time.

Even when I was little, I begged my mother to let me change my name, but she refused. She'd named me after a friend from high school. "I thought 'Deanie' was so cute," she said.

By my mid-thirties, I'd finally made peace with my baby boomer name. It was, after all, somewhat unusual. I learned to put up with being called Deana and having my name spelled with two "n's." At least people tended to remember me, although by the time I got through explaining that no, my father's name wasn't Dean and no, it was not a nickname, and no, it wasn't spelled Deeny, I had long since forgotten THEIR names.

Then, last week, I got this letter from my editor at Dallas Publishers. It seems the publisher himself, the Big Cheese...doesn't like the name "Deanie." At least not for a writer of crime fiction. "His concern," wrote my editor, "is that 'Deanie' sounds like what we call one of the romance ladies." (Egad! Horrors!) "Many of whom are fine writers," she hastened to add, "but they are not working the same ground as you."

He wanted me to write under "D. Francis Mills," or "D.F. Mills."

Ding! Ding! Ding! Feminist alarm! Feminist alarm!

If my name were DEAN Francis Mills, he would never have asked me to change it, I figured.

Here's the scenario: Romance fiction is bought almost exclusively by females. In fact, even MALE writers of romance fiction use FEMALE pseudonyms. However, crime fiction, i.e., thrillers, suspense, murder and detective mysteries, are bought in large percentage by men.

Is the publisher afraid that men won't buy a thriller written by a woman? After all, Mary Higgins Clark never had any trouble. Neither did Patricia J. MacDonald, Agatha Christie or Dorothy Sayers. Bestselling author Ann Rule is the F.B.I.'s definitive expert on serial killers, and Edna Buchanan recently won the Pulitzer Prize for crime reporting with the "Miami Herald."

No, said my editor when I phoned her. The fact that you are a woman has nothing to do with it. The publisher is not a sexist and neither are the men who buy these books, necessarily. (I didn't thing they were anyway.) It's the storeowners who stock the books, she claimed. "When we're trying to push a new author," she said, "sometimes all they go on is name." And "Deanie" is just, well... (fill in the blank).

She reminded me that, as a brand-new rookie on the list, I don't have much bargaining power right now. I reminded HER that this is my name, for better or for worse, my identity. I see no reason to change it after writing with it in various national and regional publications for nine years. She promised to talk to him. It's my hope that, in the long run, he—and all those store owners—who are going to have to live with it. Just like me.

NAME THAT ROCK GROUP

ANSWER: DEF LEPPARD

SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY

April 2

Officials with Scurry County, Western Texas College and Snyder ISD have been told to expect to lose another 20 to 22 percent in oil values for the 1989 tax year, it was reported Sunday.

Although all figures were described as "very preliminary," the initial indication was that Scurry County as a taxing entity might see its taxable values drop to the range of $847 million. This would reflect a loss of around $101 million from 1988's values.

MONDAY

April 3

Danny Engle, outgoing president of the Snyder Jaycees, was named Jaycee of the Year during the annual Jaycees Installation Banquet, it was reported Monday.

Snyder UIL Literary meet entrants placed in nine events, earning three first place ribbons and six second place prizes at the District 2-4A meet, a contest whose final outcome was still in doubt pending questions raised by Snyder school officials, it was reported Monday.

The point total originally announced Saturday would have Andrews winning the event, but school officials learned that meet directors granted only 20 points to Snyder for its win in the district one-act play contest held Thursday.

SHS entrants, Corey McDaniel, Robert Neblett and Ken Gartman won first place honors. Neblett was also a second place winner as were Tom Galyean, Kristi Mize, Jay Burns, Darrell Dolliver and Jean Rumpff.

Scurry County commissioners Monday voted to advertise for bids for the Texas Department of Human Services' renovation of 3,000 square feet of office space in the county coliseum annex.

Commissioners noted that the project will be paid for by the state agency.

A Snyder family's Bengal tiger and the city council's proposed new exotic animals ordinance ran head-on in a Monday night council discussion that ended with the tabling of the measure while the family provides additional information about their pet.

James and Marcie Murry of 403 36th St., their two children and several friends contended that the animal, now 8 months old and weighing 300 pounds, will never be dangerous if it continues to be cared for correctly and that they have a right to keep the pet of their choice.

Two indictments for possession of a controlled substance, specifically cocaine, with intent to deliver were handed down Monday by the April session of the Scurry County grand jury.

The two indictments were part of 11 cases considered and true-billed by the jury involving nine individuals.

TUESDAY

April 4

A commitment to pay Snyder teachers a minimum of $1,000 above state base pay was approved Tuesday by the school board on a split 4-3 vote.

The three voting against the measure indicated during discussion that they favored a higher pay range of $1,500 above the minimum level required by state law.

The decision for $1,000 will essentially see 119 teachers receive a pay raise next year ranging from $145 per year to $1,465. Another 123 teachers will continue to have their salaries frozen since their current level of pay exceeds the $1,000 figure above state base.

WEDNESDAY

April 5

The executive committee for District 2-4A, comprised of the superintendents from the eight schools in the district, will be asked to decide the winner of last Saturday's district UIL Literary Meet, it was reported Wednesday.

At question is the number of points awarded for Snyder's win in the one-act play competition.

THURSDAY

April 6

Snyder High School choir members earned two sweepstakes honors Thursday, the only 4-A school entered to win I ratings in both concert and sightreading.

The sweepstakes honors were won by the 72-member Acappella Choir and the 38-member Boys Choir.

Also Thursday, the 52-member Girls Choir won a I rating in concert and a II rating in sightreading; and the 35-member Freshman Mixed Choir won a I rating in concert and a II rating in sightreading.

FRIDAY

April 7

A local industry's plans to expand its assembly and storage areas helped boost the Snyder building permit totals for March, it was reported Friday.

Y-Z Industries was issued a permit to expand its facilities by more than 4,600 sq. ft. at an estimated cost of $65,000.

SDN Letters to the Editor

Snyder High School is privileged to have several fine and highly motivated teachers who work with students involved in UIL competitions.

Two of these teachers are Kay Hopper, coaching the forensics team, and Jerry Worsham who directs the UIL one-act play company. I have attended several forensics and drama competitions and I have always been proud of the way Snyder's kids conduct themselves. (Yes, one of them calls me mom, but I'd be proud to claim all of them!)

Our kids are well-groomed, polite, poised and genuinely supportive of one another. They are also incredibly talented and hard-working. Their success doesn't just happen. After-school work sessions in forensics followed by lengthy nightly rehearsals for one-act require a high degree of dedication.

The teachers are largely uncompensated for their long hours and hard work except by the admiration and respect of their students and their own professional commitment to their students and to presenting quality work in their chosen field. Our kids learn much more than speech and theater. They learn a lot about life, work, and themselves.

Last Saturday at the District UIL competition at Howard College in Big Spring, they had to learn another lesson. The adults in charge of the competition can't read! We were very upset to find that the points earned by the UIL one-act play were not tallied with Snyder's overall score.

 points to those schools who did not advance beyond District or place as many students in honorable mention, all-star cast, and best actor categories. These points are not assigned in a whimsical manner. They are strictly delineated in the UIL Rulebook 1988-89 edition.
 These rules are to be utilized uniformly to provide fair competition at all levels statewide with the same criteria to be used at all competitions. A violation of the rules of this magnitude in a sports event would result in a deafening protest. Our teachers and administrators are contesting this violation, and for the kids' sakes, they deserve our support.

Our students and coaches were deprived in another way. The judges frequently demonstrated that they hadn't a clue regarding critical points in judging. Usually, win or lose, a student gains from each competition by utilizing the suggestions and criticisms received from the judges. Some of the comments were friendly but had nothing to do with prose or poetry.
 Verbatim examples: "I love your bolo tie," and, "Nice shoes!"
 Somehow I doubt that these gems will contribute to future performances. This isn't sour grapes! Despite the problems with the judges, some of our kids managed to do quite well, but they deserved better.
 Snyder was not the only school whose coaches and students were upset. All of the schools want a high-quality, well-run contest for their kids.
 Snyder currently provides this for one-act competitions in Zone and Area. I've heard many favorable comments. They like coming here. Snyder should put in a bid for District competition. I'm sure that we have adequate facilities and judges who are both literate and polite to host a competition that would be fair to all involved.

Senate approves eligibility bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Senate Education Committee has approved a bill that would restrict judicial review of the state education commissioner's authority to decide cases of student eligibility in extracurricular activities, such as athletics.
 The bill was sponsored by Sen. Bill Haley, D-Center, House sponsor of the 1984 education reform bill, House Bill 72.
 Committee chairman Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, Senate sponsor of HB72, said Haley's proposal "addresses the issue raised in the Carter case."
 The eligibility of a Dallas Carter football starter was challenged during the 1988 state high school football playoffs after the player's algebra grade was changed from failing to passing. Carter, however, remained in the playoffs as a result of court hearings and won the Class 5A championship.
 Haley's bill would make the education commissioner's ruling on eligibility final, except for court appeals that could prove the commissioner had acted arbitrarily or capriciously or the decision was not supported by substantial evidence.

Things will not be the same at Eastside Church of Christ because Ronald Bearden will not be there. Many hearts are saddened because of his death.
 I do not know any two people who have suffered more tragedy than Ronald and Janelle Bearden, yet they never lost the faith. They were an inspiration to everyone at church every Sunday.
 When I became very sick, I believed I could get well because, number one, there was a God in heaven, and number two, because there were Ronald and Janelle who had proved that humans can live through much hurt.
 Ronald, we will miss you very much.

Dear Abby

For Little Kids, a Little Water Can Be a Dangerous Thing

DEAR ABBY: In April and May of last year, my family lived a real-life drama. Our 20-month-old son was missing from our sight for less than one minute. It took another two minutes to find him — under the solar cover of our family swimming pool on the bottom of the shallow end. We called 911 and gave him CPR until the paramedics arrived.
 He was at Children's Hospital for 16 days — 12 were spent in the Intensive Care Unit. Our son was one of the lucky ones. Although he had suffered extensive lung damage (which will heal itself in the course of a year), he has completely recovered and is now a very active 2-year-old.
 The doctors tell us that our son is only the second child in four years of drowning cases to recover completely. They average 25 to 30 cases a year at Children's Hospital. Most parents do not know CPR. Most grandparents do not know CPR. We were fortunate. Although we had learned CPR 14 years ago, we never thought we would have to use it! We did, and it saved our son!
 Some hard facts about water:
 — 67 percent of all drownings occur in the children's own back yard pools, spas and hot tubs, and 33 percent in bathtubs, toilet bowls and diaper pails. Hot water accelerates the drowning process; cold water slows it down.
 — The majority of drowning incidents occur while the caretaker assumed the child was safely indoors.
 — A child can drown in less time than it takes to answer the telephone. (Irreversible brain damage occurs in three to five minutes.)
 — A child can drown in as little as two to three inches of water. An example is rainwater that has collected in the bottom of an otherwise empty pool — or a small amount of water in the bathtub.

other children will watch your child. Don't get involved in a conversation where you cannot see your child. Do not turn your back.
 Talk to fencing and pool-cover companies about safety features that may help prevent your child from drowning. All features should be checked regularly to be sure they are functioning properly. Safety features must be in use at all times to be effective.
 Alert pool maintenance people, utility personnel and your neighbors with pools to keep gates and doors closed and locked at all times. Toys and attractive nuisances should be kept away from the water area, as children have no fear of going after them.
 Be sure all caretakers know how to swim and learn cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). The life saved could be your spouse's, your parent's — or your child's.

DEAR ABBY: I nearly went crazy when I read your advice to "Me," the woman who was dreading taking on the care of her elderly parents and severely handicapped sibling.
 Why should this woman sacrifice what's left of her already damaged life because her parents failed to plan for the future? Abby, she told you that she was ready to fall apart! How dare you encourage her to take on such a gargantuan task? What about her health, her husband and her marriage?
 I have an 84-year-old father and a 19-year-old severely retarded son. Both are in nursing homes, so I know all about guilt, but I also know about exhaustion and trying to do the impossible.
 The decision to place a family member in an institution is very painful, but it's often the best for all involved. You should have encouraged this woman to look beyond martyrdom and realize that she has other options.
 Forgive me if I sound angry, but after 19 years, I am so tired of hearing, "The Lord never gives us a heavier burden than we can carry." It is just a religious platitude. It doesn't solve anything. The God I believe in doesn't pick out "special people" to send tragedies to.
 I cringe every time you print "Heaven's Very Special Child." For years, someone would cut it out and send it to me. I would like to write a parody someday about how hard it is to get a baby sitter when "Heaven's Very Special Child" grows a beard!
 I am signing my name, and I hope you use it.

two boys at school won't let him play with the group of boys in their class. Greg says it's because he isn't good at sports. He gets along fine with all the other boys, but they tend to go along with these two boys who are excluding him.
 Greg is a little under the average height and weight for his age group. He is very smart — a straight-A student — all except in physical education. And the girls like him.
 It hurts me probably more than it hurts Greg. Is there anything I can do to help him? Maybe if I called up the mothers of these two boys and explained the situation, it would help. Please advise me.

DEAR ABBY: Our puppy got very sick — vomiting, jaundice, etc. The vet removed four new pennies from her stomach! It seems that U.S. pennies minted since late 1982 are a poisoning danger if swallowed! This was news to me!
 These newer coins contain nearly 98 percent zinc. If swallowed, the coins break down rapidly as stomach acids react with the copper-plated surface and zinc center. The result may be vomiting, sudden anemia, and in some cases serious illness and even death. Please, Abby, warn people with young pets to be careful about leaving coins around. Puppies are not very discriminating.
 CLOSE CALL IN CLEVELAND

DEAR THANKFUL: What can parents do to prevent a child from drowning? There is no substitute for constant adult supervision. Don't assume that

DEAR ABBY: I am on the planning committee for my 10th high school reunion. Someone came up with the idea of sending flowers to the parents of those classmates who have passed away. She thought it would be nice to let those parents know that their deceased children have not been forgotten, and their classmates will be thinking of them on that special occasion.
 A few members of the committee were opposed to that idea, saying it would make the parents sad to be reminded of their loss. How do you feel about this, Abby?
 WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: I vote to send the flowers. It would be a lovely, thoughtful gesture. Parents who have lost a child live with their loss daily, so you need not worry about "reminding" them.

Election proposal revives momentum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's proposal to hold elections among Palestinian Arabs gives at least temporary momentum to American diplomacy in the Middle East, which has been at a standstill for months.
 In principle, the proposal won the endorsement of President Bush, who called on the Palestinians and the Arab states on Thursday to "think creatively" along with Israel about ways to promote peace in the Middle East.
 The president also offered the good offices of the United States "to move the peace process forward."
 So even though Secretary of State James A. Baker III is not packing his bags yet, and Bush's support for the election of Palestinian leaders is qualified, the administration can expect to be critically involved in the explosive situation for the indefinite future.

 Israel looks to the United States for support, and the Arabs look for leverage from Washington on Israel. So the administration's involvement was probably inevitable in any event.
 Strategically, Bush and Baker are pursuing a gradual approach, but they are also beginning to make their views clear to the parties.
 They want Israel and the Arabs to negotiate directly with each other. Therefore, they support a Middle East peace conference only if it will not get in the way of direct negotiations.
 Last month, Baker suggested while testifying to a House subcommittee that maybe Israel should talk to the PLO in order to have "meaningful" negotiations over the Palestinian issue. He pulled back later, but the idea is still out there and could come up again.

Plaintiff in lawsuit attacks his parents

AUSTIN (AP) — The parents of John Lelsz Jr., the plaintiff in a 15-year-old class action suit for better treatment of the state's mentally retarded, remained hospitalized in Galveston Friday after their son attacked them, nearly biting off his mother's finger. He was completely berserk." Lelsz Jr. bit his father's arm and hand multiple times, causing him to lose control of the car. He also bit his mother's shoulder, arms, hands, and finger so severely that she has had surgery twice since Saturday.

But the father of the severely retarded, blind man blames the attack on the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, saying the agency has failed to provide proper services to cure their son's violent behavior.

State officials, however, say they have done all the Lelsz family has allowed them to do for their son.

John Lelsz Sr., 65, said he and his wife, Ruth, 59, had picked up their son from the Richmond State School in Richmond and had taken him home to Galveston for the week while authorities refurbished his ward in preparation for a federal inspection.

But when the Lelszes tried to take their son to the grocery store Saturday night, he began hitting and biting the couple, they said.

"He just freaked out," said the elder Lelsz, who was driving. "He wouldn't believe that we weren't taking him back to that place. He kept begging. He said, 'Stay at home, stay at home.' He was flailing his arms and waving. He was completely berserk." Lelsz Jr. bit his father's arm and hand multiple times, causing him to lose control of the car. He also bit his mother's shoulder, arms, hands, and finger so severely that she has had surgery twice since Saturday.

A nurse who asked not to be identified told The Associated Press the couple is recovering from their injuries at John Sealy Hospital, but probably will remain there about a week.

"Both are doing fine, but they've got some infections and all," the nurse said, adding doctors had determined they would not have to amputate Mrs. Lelsz' left pinkie as originally believed.

The elder Lelsz suffered severe bites on two fingers and his arm, while Mrs. Lelsz had a large gash on the back of her hand, bites on her left arm and shoulder and many bruises, the nurse said.

"Every bit of this was avoidable," Lelsz Sr. told the Austin American-Statesman Wednesday. "They (state officials) have ignored our pleas. They have ignored the court order to get started with appropriate programs for everyone."

John Lelsz Jr. became the lead plaintiff of a 1974 class-action suit seeking state reforms for the care of the mentally retarded.

PUC denies GTE a rate case rehearing

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators have received a rare signal on pending PUC nominees from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who said he opposes confirmation of one and possibly both of them.

Hobby's comments came Thursday, as the commission refused to reconsider its controversial order to cut GTE Southwest Inc.'s rates by $59 million and require a $128 million refund to customers.

PUC Chairman Marta Greytok dissented in the 2-1 vote against a rehearing, saying among other items she could not find evidence to support such a large refund. The other members of the commission, which regulates electric and telephone rates, are William Cassin and Jo Campbell.

Ms. Greytok and Cassin, appointed to the panel by Gov. Bill Clements, still must be confirmed by the Senate, where Hobby voiced skepticism.

"If I were voting, I would certainly vote against Cassin, and probably against Greytok," said Hobby, who with Clements and House Speaker Gib Lewis has expressed concern about the GTE order.

Hobby does not vote on appointments and rarely offers his opinion on nominees. But talking with reporters Thursday, he said:

"I think that that commission has proceeded in a highly injudicious fashion. Greytok was at least consistent. Cassin was inconsistent, and injudicious in his public comments."

Cassin initially voted with Ms. Campbell on issues that would have resulted in a larger rate cut for GTE, then changed his mind. Ms. Greytok and Cassin did not return phone calls from The Associated Press about Hobby's remarks.

GTE officials said they would take their case to court.
