Water Undergirds the Community

Because of its timeliness in observance of Soil Stewardship Week May 27-June 3, the following is reprinted from "The Stream of Life" through courtesy of the Soil Conservation Service.

The water is the Lord's and He gave it to us to quench our thirst and the thirst of all living things. Without the blessing of water, as we know, there is no life. From the beginning, the necessity of water brought men together. The first primitive gatherings developed around water—for reasons of convenience as well as survival. The community emerged and assumed honorable stature, to be followed ever since by ever larger and more durable communities with their civilizing qualities of association and responsibility.

Indeed, water has been an elementary fact of human society. The fruitfulness of grazing and agriculture blessed with abundant water gave rise to villages. These, in turn, came to lean on trading centers which grew most frequently on the rivers and seas of transportation.

Water turned the first mill wheels and brought families together in the common effort of earliest manufacture. And in the great metropolitan centers of the present century, where millions of families are joined in attainments large and small, it is still the availability of water that undergirds the community.

It is water that powers the mightiest turbines for industry; water that cools the molten alloys going into modern metals; water that slacks the thirst and bathes the body; and water that laps the shores where men go for relaxation and the dreams that must be dreamt.

Together we have followed the thread of water and rarely have we gone beyond. Water has been the requisite of farming, the avenue of commerce, and the raw material of industry. It has encouraged the arts and sciences, joined men and families together, prompted the organization of governments, and led to the mutual acceptance of those human goals and restraints which are the hallmark of evolving culture.

In all this can be seen God's plan for the orderly growth of man, nourished by His water, as man strives for a society of harmony and compassion, enlightenment and human dignity.

Eight Tired Men

Eight tired men will sit down Saturday night—but not to relax.

Porably it will be well into Sunday before four know that they have won and four know that they have lost the Democratic runoff primary for four important statewide offices.

John Connally and Don Yarborough have battled it out for governor. James A. Turman and Preston Smith are the two tired men in the race for lieutenant governor, possibly the most important job in state government. Waggoner Carr and Tom Reavley competed for attorney general. Woodrow Bean and Joe Pool were the busy men seeking nomination for Congressman-at-large, a statewide seat in Congress which likely will be abolished within two to four years.

Following Saturday, they can rest a bit before taking up their campaigns against the Republican nominees who are expected to make the strongest bids since 1874 in the general election on November 6.

But no matter how the democratic primary and the general election turn out, Texas will have new men in the three top state offices beginning next January.

Because officers and firemen had planned for such emergencies, Haskell people can be thankful they had ample warning of Saturday night's storm, or tornado.

Members of the Highway Patrol, sheriff's department and city police served as observers when the severe weather alert was announced for this area. When tornado "funnels" headed toward Haskell firemen went into action with mobile warning units which traveled to all parts of town, giving warning of the approaching storm.

Just another welcome improvement brought about by the electronic age.

Oldtimers declare this was the town's worst disaster of its kind since June, 1909, when a cyclone -- as tornadoes were called then -- struck this West Texas town. Scores of homes and business buildings were demolished or heavily damaged, and four or five lives were lost.

Although there have been numerous tornadoes to hit the Haskell area during the past 33 years, damage was not as extensive. That provides some consolation, at least. We may have tornadoes but most of the time they will be tame affairs, judging from past records.

Sheet metal from the four cotton and grain warehouses demolished by the tornado was scattered over a wide area east of town.

Two couples driving from Possum Kingdom Lake reported they began noticing fragments of sheet metal scattered along the highway 10 miles east of Haskell.

The debris became more noticeable the closer they came to town, and they began wondering if they were not entering a storm area. They had heard no reports of the tornado here, they said.

The fact that both telephone and electric service went out within minutes after the storm hit about 9 p. m. Saturday, kept news of the disaster from the outside world. Only contact was through the two-way radio of the Highway Patrol and police officers, and they had their hands full in handling their job in the emergency.

There's no doubt the tornado, coupled with the severe rain and windstorm, had everybody jumpy and on edge. It accounts for the answer given Firemen Tom Watson and E. J. Stewart when they sounded their horn at a car which stopped in front of them on the highway south of the square.

The two firemen were enroute to make a check for possible injured persons in the vicinity of the Elementary School when the car in front of them suddenly stopped.

A teenage girl, not over 16, leaned out of the car and said something when Watson and Stewart sounded their horn, but the car she was in remained stopped.

Sounding their horn again, one of the firemen called out: "If you're gonna park, get off the highway."

The girl in the car ahead, leaning far out this time, yelled: "There's a g-- d-- high-time down in front of us, you f--- fool."

The firemen, red-faced, got the message. Without comment they pulled around the stopped car and raced over the wires lying across the highway.

One of the most devastating effects of the storm was the destruction of so many trees in all sections of the city. Forty and fifty-year-old trees bore the brunt of punishment. It appeared, possibly because their size made them more susceptible to being twisted down or uprooted.

Some of the trees were so large that a single one frequently blocked a street or highway, completely blocking traffic.

As a result of the traffic hazard created by trees and other debris, crews of the Highway Department were on the job within a short time after worked throughout the night clearing highways and streets of debris from the storm.

Members of the fire department who helped handle the emergency warning set-up at the City Hall had some uneasy moments after the storm hit in full force.

Everyone became a little edgy when hailstones the size of pigeon eggs started crashing through panes above the door in the police station. Then, on the second floor where living quarters of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lusk are located, hail shattered several windows and rain started pouring in.

As hail continued battering the door and windows in the police station, a heavier thumping noise was occasionally heard, as if some real heavy object was crashing to the pavement with a thud.

Later, after the storm had passed, firemen noted that part of the brick firewall at the rear corner of the Barnes Building across the alley from the City Hall had been blown off. Thud of the falling bricks was the source of the unexplained noise heard by the uneasy firemen.

The rapid cleanup of Haskell streets, including the business section and the courthouse lawn where limbs were blown from many of the large trees, was made possible by cooperation of several local agencies and the neighboring city of Stamford.

Municipal workers from that city came early Sunday morning to join Haskell city employees in clearing up the storm debris. Also, all four County Commissioners had trucks and men on the job and Haskell Jaycees and several tractor owners pitched in to help.

Frequently-heard questions in virtually every home Saturday night went like this: "Do you recall where I left the other flashlight?" and "Where are those candles we bought a few years ago?"

The turbulent weather of the past week has been marked by electrical disturbances of more than usual brilliance. Friday resulted from these crashes, there were nine persons injured. The estimated property damage was $20,985.00.

DEMOCRATS UNITE!

FOY H. EASLY
says:
THANK YOU

and ask that you vote for a True Democrat for State Representative.

It is with a deep sense of humility that I express my sincere appreciation to the people of the 83rd District who worked so hard and lessily in my behalf in the race for State Representative.

I ran for this office as a Democrat, subject to the Democratic Party, because I have been a Democrat all my life and want to represent this Democratic area of Texas in the State Legislature.

I would be negligent in my duty as a citizen if I did not mention to the fact that one of the run-off candidates has acknowledged Republican Candidates for several years.

This man is now asking the Democrats to place him in office where he will have the opportunity to vote against us and for REPUBLICAN INTERESTS.

I urge you to support the man who has always been a DEMOCRAT in this run-off race.

My Sincerest Thanks,
FOY H. EASLY

Approximately 100 generous, delicious cups for a nickel! And this is only one example for the economy of electricity in your modern living. As a matter of fact, between the years of 1950 and 1960, the average cost of a kilowatt hour of electric service to residential customers served by West Texas Utilities Company went down 21%.

J. C. (CARL) WHEATLEY

Democrats Unite In Support of Carl Wheatley

More and more voters in the 83rd Legislative District are stressing the importance of electing a true Democrat to represent the people of this district in the State Legislature for the next two years.

Voters realize that the best interests of this section—the small businessman, farmer, rancher and oil producer—can be served by a true Democrat who knows and understands the needs and problems of this section.

For that reason voters of the 83rd District are uniting in supporting J. C. (Carl) Wheatley for a second term in the Legislature. They know that Carl Wheatley is a full-time, lifelong Democrat, with a proven record of working and voting in the interest of the people of Haskell. Know, Baylor, Throckmorton and Jones Counties during his first term in the Legislature.

Democrats of the 83rd District are uniting in support of J. C. (Carl) Wheatley for a second term, on the basis of his proven record, and because a full-time Democrat is needed to do a full-time job for the 83rd District. (Pol. Adv. paid for by Haskell County supporters of Carl Wheatley.)

Fly-Up Advances 22 Brownies To Girl Scout Rank

On Monday night, May 21, 22 Brownies became Girl Scouts in a candlelight "Fly-Up" service. Parents and friends gathered in Fellowship Hall at the Methodist Church at 7:20. The Brownie Scouts, each escorted by a Girl Scout, filed in and formed a horseshoe before the investiture table. The table was laid with a green cloth and there were three gold candles and 10 green ones.

Mrs. Terry Diggs, leader of Troop 464, welcomed the parents and briefly explained the requirements for Brownie wings. Mrs. Diggs opened the service with a prayer and then lit the three gold candles, representing the three parts of the Girl Scout promise, responsibility to God and to her country, and obedience to the ten Scout laws.

Ten Brownies lit the green candles representing the laws. Each Brownie was then presented to Mrs. Diggs and Mrs. Cecil Pittman, leader of Troop 466. After repeating the Promise the Brownie wings were pinned on and each girl was then presented to Girl Scout leaders, Mrs. Burnell Gilleland and Mrs. H. E. Stephens who pinned on the Scout pins. The ceremony was closed by singing "Girl Scouts Together."

Refreshments of punch and cookies were served by the girls of Troops 462 and 463 to parents and Scouts.

From A Pastor's Study

By DOUGLAS B. FINCH, Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Haskell, Texas

We believe that the Bible is a unique compilation of books which were written under the inspiration of God. To say that they were written by God is to do the wonderful book, and the people who listen to us, a grave injustice. It was written by a wide variety of men who lived in different ages over a period in excess of a thousand years. All of these men, however, were under the inspiration of the same God. In order to understand the Bible, those who read it today must be under the same inspiration of the Holy Spirit as were the men who wrote it... or it becomes for them a "valley of dry bones."

The Bible is a record of the mighty acts of God in history. We cannot understand this about the New Testament unless we first understand the Old Testament. We know that such books as Philippians and Philemon were written by the Apostle Paul. We know that Paul was a mere man... even as you and I. He was even a sinful man, saved only by the grace of God. He said so himself.

Men, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, have sought down through the ages to give expression to the Faith they have by the grace of God. They have formed words to interpret the Holy Writ, and to give expression to the truths they have come to know in it. Some of these expressions are called "creeds" and "confessions." They were written by men, to be sure, but so are our sermons, and so are the hymns we sing. The confessional formulations used by many churches like the Lutherans, the Methodists, the Presbyterians, and many others, were written by men after almost four hundred years of controversy and discussion, and they represent the consummation of prayerful thought and study of the best minds of the times as well as the most consecrated lives.

We Presbyterians use the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed as expressions of our faith. We recognize them as valid historical documents given birth in the life of Christ's Church. New members of our church are not required to subscribe to any creed or any confession, however. The only ground for membership in the Presbyterian Church is a profession of faith in Jesus Christ. Nothing more! In addition, we recognize the baptism of all other churches, and we recognize all forms and modes of baptism. We do not re-baptize a person coming to us, for example, from the Baptist Church. We consider that they are baptized just as much as we did it ourselves in the Presbyterian Church. Our ministers have no unique, magic powers... and we try not to confuse the "form" of baptism with the reality of baptism.

The historical creeds which we use merely unite us with those who stand in our past and who have at great price sought to give expression to their praise and adoration of the God whom we men in every age seek to serve as His Church. When our expressions need changing, we change them in the light of any new understanding that might have come to us. We believe, like Paul that if in anything we are "otherwise-minded," God will reveal that to us in His own good time. Only we hold fast to what we have come to know, believing that we live under the inspiration and Providence of an eternal and loving God.

EXPRESSION OF THANKS

A heartfull of thanks to neighbors and friends for their kindness and help since the storm, which almost completely ruined my home. STORM ODDITIES

Symbolic of the previous evening's weather performance, the neon sign at the Texas Theatre Sunday morning still carried the name of the Friday and Saturday attraction "Twist All Night."

Trinity Baptist Church, South 2nd and Ave. D for years has been a comforting haven for many people.

Saturday night it proved a safe refuge from the tornado and windstorm for two pick-up loads of people fleeing from hail, rain and wind-whipped fragments of metal and other storm debris.

When the storm warning was sounded, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ivey and son Kenny, who live at 1008 N. Ave. L, loaded in their pick-up and headed for a storm cellar at her mother's, Mrs. R. W. Culberth on South Ave. C.

By the time they arrived there, it was raining furiously and metal and wooden debris pounding their pick-up made it too dangerous to get out, so they headed back toward town.

At the Trinity Church, they noticed another pick-up sheltered in front of the building and stopped. Driving partly under the front balcony of the sturdy stone building, the Iveys stopped and joined the other group, composed of H. N. West, Ray Golphant, and Tony Galvan, workers at Market Poultry & Egg.

They had to force the door of the church, but once inside found safety from the storm. Next day, fearing the door might have been damaged, they sought the church pastor, Rev. Jesse Jones and offered to pay for any damage. "Forget it," the genial preacher said. "Anyone is welcome at the church any time, even if you have to force the door to get in."

One of the most freakish incidents of the tornado happened up in the north end of town. Royce Williams, who lost his heavy wooden back yard fence, could find no trace of the big gate, approximately five feet high, three feet wide and weighing around 60 pounds. June and Jane Bell, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bell, who live across the street from the Williams' found it for him in the middle of their bedroom floor. The heavy gate, all in one piece, had sailed through their bedroom window, practically demolishing their bed and ruining everything in its path.

Royce needs his gate but June and Jane say, "After the adjuster comes!"

Haskell was in big city class several nights this week when the Abilene Police Department assigned a patrol car, officer and trained dog to assist local officers in patrolling as a precaution against possible looting.

Several of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bell, who live across the street from the Williams' found it for him in the middle of their bedroom floor. The heavy gate, all in one piece, had sailed through their bedroom window, practically demolishing their bed and ruining everything in its path.

LETTERS . . . To The Editor

Will you through your paper please convey to the people of Haskell our deep regret at the storm your city recently suffered. Way back when I was teaching the Sayles School southwest of Haskell I saw the "cyclone" that did so much damage in Haskell so long ago. All the Murfee family join me in this expression of regret.

Also, I have talked with Mrs. Frank Crews whom I taught in the Sayles School — she was Clara Pilley then. I taught her husband also, he was Frank Crews. She asked me to express her regret to you. So did Mrs. Clyde Elkins, a former teacher in the town of Haskell, who is my good neighbor. All the former Haskell residents here wish me to send regrets for them. Yours is such a good, friendly town, all join in hoping that no further harm befalls you. Sincerely, Mae Murfee, President Lubbock County Historical Society, 1923 14th St., Lubbock, Texas.

Mathis first went to the O'Brien schools in 1953, then moved to Mattson two years later. In 1957, he returned to O'Brien as superintendent.

Under his administration, a new classroom building and gym were built, replacing a building destroyed by fire early in 1958.

Mathis was elected mayor in April, 1961. He is also Sunday School superintendent of the O'Brien Methodist Church.

He married Edith Dusek of Lowake in 1945 while a member of the United States Marine Corps. They have one daughter, Mary, who will be a sophomore in high school next year.

To the Voters of Precinct 2:

To those of you I have failed to see during the campaign, I respectfully solicit your consideration and support in the second Primary Saturday for re-election as your County Commissioner. And to all of you I want to express my appreciation for your past courtesies and confidence expressed by your vote. If re-elected I promise to serve you to the best of my ability at all times.

I am asking your continued support on my record as your Commissioner. In this connection I respectfully call your attention to the county's financial condition, and the fact that our Precinct is to have additional F-M Road work this year. I do not mean to claim sole credit for these accomplishments, but mention them as some of the things I have worked hard to secure.

Thanking you in behalf of myself, wife and three daughters for your friendship, kindness to us, and your many past favors, I am,

Sincerely,

Social Security County Benefits Show Increase

Haskell County showed an increase of 18.8 per cent in number and 23.2 per cent in amount of monthly social security checks from December, 1960, to December, 1961, according to figures just received by R. R. Tuley Jr., District Manager for the Social Security Administration in Abilene.

561 persons received $35,258 in retirement checks for December, 1961, and 26 persons received $2,924 in disability payments.

239 wives and dependent husbands received $7,448 in retirement claims and 10 others received $221 from disability claims.

109 children received $5,173 from claims on a retired or deceased parent, and 29 children were paid $413 from claims on a disabled parent. 121 widows, dependent widowers, and parents received $6,607.

At the present time, social security benefits total over a billion dollars a month to just over 17 million beneficiaries. Mr. Guess is married to the former Sarah Young of Haskell. They have two children, Caron, age 10, and Hal, 7 years old.

Supt. Baker's wife, Frankie, has also resigned and accepted a position in the Carney School. Mrs. Baker is a Mattson graduate and has taught in the system for seven years.

Storm--

was flattened by the tornado, and the Pittman Grocery nearby was partially unroofed.

Hospital Damaged
Roof of the Haskell County Hospital was heavily damaged, and the basement was flooded with about a foot of water. Administrator Hallie Chapman said, and there was damage to walls and windows of the building.

Kennedy Lumber Company Heavily Damaged
One of the heaviest losers in the storm was Kennedy Lumber Company in east Haskell, where several buildings were unroofed or demolished.

All windows in the west side of the Wichita Valley depot were broken by hail, and the roof of the building damaged.

At the Brazelton Lumber Company a block east of the square was ripped away and several lumber sheds partially unroofed.

A plate glass window in C&B Department Store on the east side of the square was shattered, with heavy water damage resulting.

Considerable damage from water also resulted at Lane-Felker's after the roof of the store had been ripped by the storm.

A sheet metal warehouse belonging to Jones Cox & Company southwest of the square was partially demolished and the entire structure heavily damaged.

A plate glass front in the building occupied by Ark Allied Radiator Shop was blown out, apparently the result of vacuum created by the tornado.

This grain storage warehouse of the Haskell Warehouse Company in southeast

Haskell was completely demolished, leaving some 8 or 9 million pounds of grain sorghum exposed to the weather following Saturday night's tornado. Loss on the grain will not be excessive, warehouse owners said. The building was a total loss.

tractors expressed appreciation to the Highway Patrol, sheriff and city police, local firemen, and the Abilene Civil Defense Unit for valuable assistance during the emergency in preventing accidents and keeping people away from dangerous wires.

They also thanked Haskell people for their cooperation, and especially praised Smith's Cafe for coffee and cookies served free, and the Ervin Cafe of Stamford which sent coffee to the workers.

SIGHTS, SOUNDS, SIGNS—By Roy Arledge

STAMFORD AMERICAN
Stamford, Texas, Thursday, May 2

Stamford citizens this week started a new another citizen who is seeking election representative of this district—Roy Arledge. In last session of the legislature, the state was re-districted and Jones County became part of the 83rd district which includes Haskell, Kendall and Throckmorton counties as well as Folks in Stamford know Roy Arledge have seen him at work. They know he is a man who knows his job, and he knows that when he tackles a job, that job done. He enjoys the respect of his fellow citizens, and they appreciate his judgment. They know he is familiar with the problems of West Texas people—farmer, business man, or just the day laborer.

Many people in Stamford are not pleased with the voting record of Mr. Wheatley. They feel he possibly is running with and voting wrong crowd at Austin. A continuance in a man who would favor a bill such as that would virtually halt the flow of farm products to the best interest of the people of Texas.

The American believes that the Stamford Roy Arledge more closely represents the will of this district.

do. Eagle Courts on the north outskirts of town were completely demolished, although nearby residence quarters escaped heavy damage. The motel was unoccupied.

Heaviest residential damage was to homes in the north and northwest parts of town, where between 15 and 20 homes were completely demolished and hundreds of others heavily damaged.

However, damage was extensive on homes in all sections of the city, with garages and other small buildings being levelled.

It is estimated that virtually every residence in town received some damage from the storm.

Television antennas throughout the city were broken and twisted.

Aside from building damage heavy loss was suffered by homeowners in the destruction of shade trees throughout the city. Limbs were broken and twisted and large trees uprooted on almost every block in the residential sections. In some instances, streets and highways were completely blocked by fallen trees. Long-time residents declared they had never seen such widespread destruction of trees and shrubbery.

Greenhouse of the Haskell Florists was completely demolished, and at Conner Nursery and Floral, glass was shattered in all their buildings.

Rain Monday
Haskell residents had several uneasy hours Monday, when a severe weather warning was issued for this area. A hard shower brought 30 inch of rain, but no storm conditions developed.

More than a score of insurance adjusters began streaming into Haskell Sunday and Monday and have been working almost continuously since on the tedious job of settling claims.

It is estimated that possibly 90 per cent of the business and residential structures in Haskell received some damage from the storm. In the business section particularly, virtually every building had roof damage to some extent.

WTUers and Contract Crews Do Fast Job In Restoring Service After Storm Hits

How do you restore service on a 69,000 volt electric transmission line within two hours after 23 highline poles are flattened and scores of transformers shorted out by a tornado?

That question faced West Texas Utilities Company Local Manager Henry Withers and servicemen Earl Correll and Wayne Wainwright following Saturday night's tornado. They learned it isn't easy, but it can be done.

They sent out a call for help after making a survey which showed 22 highline poles were down north of Haskell, one west of town and two broken south of town which had to be reset.

Local servicemen were soon joined by WTUers streaming in from neighboring towns and immediately went to work on restoring service to the Haskell County Hospital as their first goal.

In doing this they had restored partial service on two sides of the square by 11 p. m. two hours after the storm first hit—and had service restored to the hospital by 2 a. m.

Also by 2 a. m. the WTU transmission crew had arrived from Quanah and started work, followed by the Abilene WTU construction crew which brought material from the Abilene Stores Department, and a crew of Lewis Construction Co., Tahoka, arriving around noon.

Also converging on Haskell like a swarm of bees were distribution crews, including C&S Construction Company of Abilene, K&H Construction Company, a Stamford contract crew, and the WTU crew from that city.

Service, appliance, and meter men from the WTU offices in Anson, Stamford, Hamlin, Rotan, Knox City, Munday, Rule and Abilene arrived within a few hours after the storm hit and began work toward restoring service, replacing burned-out fuses in transformers, etc.

After restoring service to the hospital, next goal was the local telephone exchange which was serviced by 4:30 or 5 a. m. Next came the locker plant, and the north and south circuits in that order.

Local Manager Withers and other WTU crewmen and contractors expressed appreciation to the Highway Patrol, sheriff and city police, local firemen, and the Abilene Civil Defense Unit for valuable assistance during the emergency in preventing accidents and keeping people away from dangerous wires.

Trinity Lutheran Bible School to Begin June 22

To provide more opportunities for spiritual nurture for children, Trinity Lutheran Church of this city is again planning a Vacation Church School.

The dates are June 11-22. Sessions will be held for all children from age three through the ninth grade, every morning, Monday through Friday, from 8 a. m. to 11 a. m.

The theme of study will be worthwhile and interesting. The children will study the Apostles Creed to learn how it applies to everyday life. Workbooks and activity projects appropriate to various ages will make this a fascinating experience, sponsors of the school said.
