

New Cancer Team Takes The Field Primed for Action

Haskell County Chapter, American Cancer Society, holding its annual membership meeting here Monday night, elected two Rochester civic leaders, Mrs. R. A. Shaver, Jr., and Felix Mullino, president and crusade chairman, respectively, and heard their medical advisor, Dr. R. E. Colbert, of Haskell, say he thinks Americans will find a cure for cancer before they reach the moon.

Meeting in the Community Room of the Haskell National Bank in an enthusiastic session directed by Mrs. Melvin Vojkufka, tireless outgoing president, the volunteers combatting cancer warmly received the report from Dr. Colbert, whose statement about the imminence of cancer cure, stemmed from his review of the rapid advances made in recent years of research findings in curbing the onslaught of cancer.

Present and taking a prominent part in the activities of the fast-moving program were Barry Moncure, of Abilene, field representative for the American Cancer Society in this area, and Mrs. R. W. Herren, of Haskell, a district director on the board of the American Cancer Society.

In a factual statement of principles, financial practices, and fund raising policy of the American Cancer Society, Moncure declared that 95.3 per cent of the totals raised in the current cancer crusade, and that of 1964 will be spent in Texas. The breakdown of every dollar contributed to the cancer cause, Moncure detailed, is: 33c for cancer research in Texas institutions, 20c for professional education and services, 23c for public education, 11c for service to patients, 5c for the development of the program and administration, and 8c for the operating expenses of the crusade, including materials in the form of kits to reach 3 million persons.

Moncure announced the following dates which are important ones on the cancer crusade's calendar during the next several months: June 17, district directors' meeting in Abilene; October 10, district annual meeting; and November 14, annual state meeting, Rice Hotel, Houston.

Other officers elected at the meeting to serve with Mrs. Shaver as president are, Mrs. Ed Hester, Haskell, vice president; Mrs. A. D. May, Rule, secretary; Mrs. T. C. Walker,

MINIATURE MISSISSIPPI MILLRACE—That's what Haskell had rushin' rampant right through the heart of town from northwest to southeast when the usually dry draw known as Rice Springs Branch or Millers' Creek was swollen and swamped with water most of last week. Total of 9.15 inches of rain provided the Everglades look in town here. In the picture, the stop sign across from the Neal Hudspeth home obviously means what it says. The Hudspeths, who have had to do it before, (1960 was the last time), were evacuated from their home by Sheriff Garth Garrett because of high water at 3:40 a. m. last Thursday at the peak of a 6-inch torrential downpour. Varmint Is Interloper, Not Just Loafing Loper

The cat came back." Sheriff Garrett, upon being notified of the varmint sighting Monday said his own views of the existence of the strange animal were strengthened. "Those Mexicans today had never seen, nor heard of our varmint," the Sheriff declared, "and whatever they saw made them scared enough to run back to the house and stay there."

Sheriff Garrett and County Judge Jim Alvis immediately called several parties with dogs, among them Pete Callaway, of Haskell, who went immediately to the area and started scouring the countryside. At least three large groups were trying to pick up the varmint's trail at dusk Monday night.

Mrs. Chapman, Mother of Judge, Is Dead At 80

Mrs. Mary Georgia Chapman, 80, mother of District Judge Ben Charlie Chapman and Mrs. Clay Smith, of Haskell, died at 2:55 p. m. Friday at the Haskell Clinic.

Mrs. Chapman had been in declining health for several months.

Funeral services were held Sunday in the First Presbyterian Church here with the pastor, the Rev. Douglas B. Finch, officiating. Burial was in the Rochester Cemetery, directed by Holden's Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Ed Hester, George Neely, Woodrow Frazier, F. E. Frierson, Belton Duncan, all of whom are elders of the First Presbyterian Church of Haskell; John Michael and Truett Alvis of Rochester; John Rike and Donald S. Flint, of Haskell.

Mrs. Chapman was born on August 24, 1882, at Breckenridge. Mr. Chapman, a native of Macon, Georgia, settled first in Bell County, moving to Haskell County in 1901. Mr. Chapman operated a gin in Old Marcey a number of years and later when Rochester was organized he moved there and operated a gin and an automobile business.

A. J. Foster Appointed To Hospital Post

A. J. (Cotton) Foster, 32, a Haskell native, and presently a teacher in the Vernon school system, Saturday was named administrator of Haskell County Hospital in action by the hospital board, County Judge Jim Alvis, chairman of the group, announced.

Foster within the next two weeks will occupy the position vacated by Hallie Chapman, administrator for four years, who resigned about six weeks ago.

Selection of Foster came after the Haskell County Hospital Board in called session had interviewed three applicants chosen from a number of individuals seeking the post.

The new hospital administrator is the son of Mrs. N. F. Foster of Haskell and the late Mr. Foster, longtime Haskell resident. He is married to the former Delores Burnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Burnett, who live on the Throckmorton Highway east of Haskell. Burnett also is a well-known citizen, who is a rancher and farmer. The Fosters have two children, Craig 4, and Stephen 20 months.

A graduate of Haskell High School in 1948, Foster attended Texas Tech for two years, and completed his work for a degree and teacher's certificate at West Texas State College in 1959. His formal education was interrupted when he entered the service during the Korean crisis and served in combat for a year manning an M-16 half-track alongside the infantry near the 38th parallel at the front in Korea.

Returning to civilian life after Korea, Foster became business manager of the school system and the township of Balmorhea, also serving as tax-assessor collector for both schools and town. He went to Vernon in 1961 and has been teaching industrial arts in both high school and junior high school there. The Fosters have been members of the First Baptist Church in Vernon during their residence there.

Baylor Grad Is Coming Here As C-of-C Manager

Haskell Chamber of Commerce, an organization that "means business" to Haskell, will have a new manager on June 17, President Abe Turner has announced.

He is Robert R. Lowrance, of Conroe, who recently received a bachelor of business administration degree in managing at Baylor University. He succeeds Mrs. Roy Johnson, Haskell's indefatigable chamber executive for the past 5 1/2 years. The efficient and engaging Mrs. Johnson, a former member of the Chamber of Commerce staffs in Abilene and Wichita Falls, is retiring from professional life on July 1 after she helps Lowrance to become acquainted with his new responsibilities. She will continue to live in Haskell.

A management major and economics minor in taking his undergraduate work at Baylor, Haskell's new chamber manager concentrated on training for chamber of commerce executive responsibility.

In college, Lowrance was chancellor, historian and pledge master for Delta Sigma Pi, national business fraternity. He compiled an enviable record, scholastically, athletically, and in extra-curricular endeavors throughout high school and college.

In announcing Lowrance's selection from a number of applicants for the position, President Turner said, "We feel quite fortunate to secure the services of a man who has undergone formal educational training specifically for this type of responsibility."

Dry Draw 'Quick On Draw' As Town Turns Everglades

Seventh Annual Quarter Horse Show Tomorrow

A committee of ten area horse fanciers, whose discerning eyes reflect a light of dedication, will be directing the seventh annual Haskell Quarter Horse Show, quarter horse division, which is American Quarter Horse Association approved, when it is staged here next Friday. Gene Hunter, president of the sponsoring Haskell Sheriff's Posse, announced Saturday.

The Sheriff's Posse, renowned riding club which carries Haskell colors to rodeo parades and grand entries over a wide area, will be in charge of the 24 class competition in their arena here. Judging begins promptly at 9 a. m. Friday, Hunter said.

Monday night, May 27, when Haskell's graduating seniors started off a new life, "all wet", the 5-day total rainfall here stood at 9.16 inches last Saturday morning.

Floodwaters rushing down and far out of banks of Rice Springs Branch, normally a dry draw running through the heart of Haskell, caused evacuation of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Hudspeth, the former practically a bedridden ill man, from their low lying house on the edge of the draw at 3:40 last Thursday morning.

Sheriff Garth Garrett accomplished the rescue, removing the couple from their water swamped home. The seats of the Hudspeth car were floating around in it when Sheriff Garrett, using a county winch truck, saved the vehicle from being swept downstream.

Several business establishments in Haskell adjacent to the spring branch, which was 75 feet wide in places here on Thursday morning, were inundated. Horace V. Woodard, owner of Woodard Implement company, caught five gallon cans filled with grease and oil as they floated out the front door of his place of business at 5 a. m. last Thursday. Water ran waist deep inside his building on State Highway 24.

Water blocked Highway 277 north of town, and Highway 24 west to Rule inside the city of Haskell where it crosses the spring branch, for a time last Thursday morning, but the waters receded quickly.

Sheriff Garrett said it was the highest water here since 1930. Last Thursday, it came within eight feet of the door to the Haskell County Jail. Haskell had a 6.54 inch rain July 14, 1960 and a 4-day total of over 8 inches.

Dick Harris, WF Stem-Winder, At Rotary Today

One of the University of Texas' all-time gridiron greats, who is compiling an enviable record in the game of life as well, All-American Dick Harris, vice president of the First Wichita National Bank, Wichita Falls, will be guest speaker at the Rotary Club of Haskell at its regular weekly meeting Thursday noon in the Texas Cafe here.

Porter Oakes, editor of the Haskell Free Press, has charge of the program.

Harris, amiable vice president in charge of public relations at the Wichita Falls bank, was an All-American center and tackle on some of Coach Dana Bible's greatest teams at Texas.

Wallace Cox, Jr., program chairman, introduced Middleton.

Middleton also told the group of the local Driver's Education program, and how it helped the youngsters in their driving.

On Being YOUR Home Newspaper

A small town newspaper, which ordinarily doesn't attempt to "make like" its paternalistic protectors, the city dailies, or, if it does, it's out of its editorial mind, breathes and breeds a charm all its own.

Inner machinations of the minds of country newspaper editors are pretty well capsuled in this uniquely expressed self-analysis of the Haskell Free Press' reasons for being. This contagious copy caught the roving eye of the editorial "Man Friday" of our 77-year-old weekly while turning brittle pages for "50 Years Ago" materials.

The Free Press wants you on its reading list, recorded on its books, and then you'll get it every week, and know just how it looks.

It tells you all about the news, in this and nearby towns, who gets married, dies or born, and who elopes or drowns. There isn't a thing from A-to-Z that tends to help the town, that the paper doesn't catch it up and quickly pass it round. It tells about your visitors with titles emphasized, while all their points of merit are freely generalized.

It tells the story of success, but screens the failure side, and when the facts would make a mess, it simply lets them slide.

It tells about your virtues and overlooks your sins, and puts an extra emphasis upon the birth of twins.

It never deigns to tell a lie except in personal praise, and then does it clear and strong, and with its choicest phrase.

In writing up your marriage, it's elaborate with care, and says the bride was beautiful and the groom was on the square.

It doesn't matter who it is that crosses Jordan's river, the Free Press tickets him as saint, and safely sends him thither.

It tells about that darling boy who had a dollar raise, leaves out his measly little tricks and just recites his praise.

And there's your daughter on the street, gadding night and day; of all the rumor slow or fleet, it wisely does not say. It paints out every blemish on the picture of your life; and paints in every virtue of a home that has no strife.

It learns to read between the lines and find the tender spot, to blow not cold on young or old, when the blowing should be hot.

It senses all the skeletons behind the closet door and runs its big blue pencil through the lines that turn them o'er.

It knows about your weaknesses, your little streaks of yellow; just how to smother ill reports or make them smooth and mellow.

It knows what families live in peace, and those most apt to jar, and whether it's just a birthmark or a sad domestic scar.

It knows the man who pays, and the one who could but won't, and all the chronic knockers, and the one who makes a "bunt."

It knows the financial standing of every man in town, and whether it's living or cheerless giving that constantly gets him down.

Unlike the city dailies that delve in scandal's sewer, it eliminates the sewage and retains the good and pure.

This was the Haskell Free Press' "statement of policy," so to speak, 1913 vintage, and the yardstick pretty well applies today.

And it provides the gratifying reasons, too, for the country newspaper editor's reticence to join the pace setters and go getters on the city dailies. There just isn't enough money to supersede the love and satisfaction of hittin' the street with a small town newspaper the subscribers literally clutch to their bosoms. That's the bountiful reward of livin' at the grassroots.

Verbal Vignettes

The Free Press feels the following views expressed editorially are particularly germane at this time, and in the public domain:

- The Haskell Volunteer Fire Department deserves an accolade for its exemplary leadership, in the project and the merchants and business establishments of this community merit commendation for their massed display of The Flag on Memorial Day and other holidays. This is a convincingly inspiring spectacle.
- Our law enforcement officers in Haskell County should be thanked publicly for dedicated vigilance in covering a big territory.
- Haskell's Postmaster Harold Spain, whose sterling leadership is apparent in the efficient operation of our Post Office, has brought untold credit to himself and to this community through sagacious direction of the numerous activities of the Texas Chapter, National Association of Postmasters of the United States, in his year as president of this far-flung organization which has just terminated with tremendous success.
- Cal Farley, the Amarillo juggernaut who sold a going business to give delinquent youth a "shirt-tail to hang on to," at his now universally famed Boys' Ranch in the top of Texas, Monday night received a degree of Doctor of Humanities from Texas Tech, Lubbock. No one ever better earned an honor. What this world needs is more Cal Farleys.

A Pencil Pusher's Potpourri

By PORTER

Twenty-five years ago this week, in Lexington, Kentucky, one of the dimples of the universe in the heart of the Bluegrass, we received a degree at the Oldest College West of the Allegheny Mountains. And we took along with us a lot of "moving parts." The parts located between the ears and up which we had the privilege of developing during four memorable years on the campus of Transylvania. We were graduated in the 15th annual commencement. This week's is the 183rd. Transylvania is a host of distinguished alumni have served this nation well for a long, long time.

The Transylvania Class of 1938 was born during depression, graduated still in depression, and early found itself embroiled in a global war, doing its part for the cause of freedom. These factors invited, demanded, early maturity and responsibility among its members. Like all small liberal arts colleges, especially during depression days, it was run down at the heels in places. But we didn't realize it. We thought we were fortunate to be there, even if we did eat nickel hamburgers at times for meals at the "White Spot," and hold down odd jobs all over town to keep body and soul together.

The experiences of 1934-38 have stood the Transylvania Class of 1938 in good stead. Their productive lives the past 25 years—we wish we had the space here to record some of their glittering achievements—reflect the stabilizing influence there. As one of our contemporaries, a brilliant Walter Greenwood, said of our alma mater, "We're taking part of you along—the part that doesn't need fixing."

So we have, lo, these 25 years, and will, the rest of our lives. And the part that doesn't need fixing has carried us over many thresholds opening on to new endeavors, endeavors of achievement.

Here's to the Class of '38! Together with Melvin Robert Link, and Mary Jane Robertson Bowne, (who, as our chosen favorites symbolize our vivacious (?) vintage), and Company, we learned to mutilate. After that to motivate and percolate. Then we came to graduate. There followed the tendency to peregrinate. And here and now may we advocate—a golden reunion in '88? God bless you, each and all. Wish we were there to have a ball.

When we walked out of Old Morrison, capped and gowned, diploma in hand, back in 1938, our sharp-witted Dad, then editor of a newspaper with responsibilities that precluded his being away for any appreciable length of time, much like the Pencil Pusher's position today, had beat the time obstacle by flying from Texas, quite a feat in those days, to join the family to see his son graduate. We recall his trip made Page One in the Lexington papers at the time. Down the sweeping steps of Morrison we came to be handed a copy of Dad's newspaper, which had an 8-column banner emblazoned across the top of the paper dated that day. It read: "HIS MUYVER'S 'SONNY MAN GETS BA DEGREE'."

That Daddy of mine had lifted the banner story out of his newspaper of that date, inserted one of his own about yours truly's graduation, using the family's endearing term to describe me, not only in 60-point type, but throughout the story, flown it to Lexington, and passed out a whole parcel of them to my fellow graduates and their families as we walked out of the hallowed halls of learning!

Of course the thought of the readers was that he had run off the whole paper that way. Which reminds the Pencil Pusher of the chance he took one time as editor of the paper at Transylvania. So sure was he of the outcome of an election on campus that he had the page in type with engravings of the winners on Page One, and, when the election went as anticipated, he got enough of the edition off the press to hand the paper to the crowd when it filed out of assembly 20 minutes later. Quoth the raven, "Never more."

But about the most memorable thing that happened, if you'll forgive our reminiscence on this, the silver anniversary of our college graduation, is the annual we put out. Thanks to an indulging George Crenshaw, of Hopkinsville, Kentucky, divinity student, super salesman, KA, and a gentleman, of course (the latter two terms are synonymous—not bigamy!), we published the most ambitious, moneywise and copywise, annual in Transylvania's then 158-year history, dating from four years after the Declaration of Independence. George was business manager, and the Pencil Pusher was editor. We don't know the kind of preacher George made, but we bet his church budget has been balanced, whatever stops he has made on the Road to Heaven.

We put out an annual with the format of TIME Magazine, with solid type, open columns, no column rules, like the Free Press has, terse style, and all. It was similar enough, we say in all humility, to receive acknowledgement in TIME itself of our accomplishment.

The singular thing about the yearbook was that we put each student's own picture on the front of HIS annual, which had a replica of the TIME Magazine cover. We still have to chuckle, then it was a chortle, over some of the reactions. More than one person thought his picture was on ALL the covers! The afternoon it came out, Tommy Rentz, quite a popular boy at Transylvania, well-met, great athlete, took his annual home, laid it on the sofa, and went on out to track or baseball practice.

It wasn't long before the Pencil Pusher as editor got a phone call, from either Tommy's sister, or his Mother, don't recall which, saying, "We know Tommy has done a lot for the school, but do you think he deserves to have his picture on the front of ALL the annuals?"

We are sending this "recorded" message to our fellow members of the Class of 1938, that they may know where our heart is this weekend.

Kathryn Duff and Glenn Shelton, the PI columnists to the north and south of us, both have suggested we glamorize our vanishing varmint a little more. In a way, that's a left-handed compliment, indicating that we, being an accurate reporter, have preferred to just furnish the facts, ma'am and sir, about our pesky predator.

Now if you'd like to dress up the varmint story a bit, we'd suggest the Bill Reeves or Brooks Middleton versions. The former says it was reported to him that the varmint is a bird, maybe a behemoth buzzard, and the report to him was that this buzzard polished off a particularly mean 2300 pound bull the other day, left the bones picked clean, and was sittin' in a tree nearby the bull's carcass picking his teeth with the bull's horns when someone appeared on the scene. The buzzard, whom someone had tried to tie down with a logging chain, flew away with the bull's horns, logging chain, tree and all.

Now Middleton, like Reeves, a middlin' reputable man, says he saw the "thing" with a buffalo's tail in its mouth, that

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis P. Ratliff and children have returned home from Austin, where Representative Ratliff has been in attendance at the Legislature which had been in session since January.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Summers, of Los Angeles, Calif., were visitors last week in the home of her sister, Mrs. B. M. Whitaker and family, in this city. Miss Marjorie Whiteaker returned with them to Los Angeles, where she will spend several weeks.

E. G. Post, who has been attending State University at Austin, has returned home for the summer.

Mrs. Lanham Williams and little son of Merton, are here to visit with her mother, Mrs.

It jumped right over him. Middleton, like the cow over the moon, and that all he knows is, "It had an alapaca belly, sorta downy-like." He thinks it's a female varmint of some type, vain, and a good housekeeper, because it won't leave tracks, so he's goin' huntin' for it with a mirror and a bottle of Channel Cat No. 5.

The varmint might be some kind of lion, the trappers who visited us say. It has some characteristics, appetites at least, like some two-legged Lions we know that belong to a club by that name here. Al Hinds, Lion boss, says they're going to sign it to membership when caught.

How have you liked the 'likes of' this miniature Mississippi, the mill-race that ran right through the heart of our town for most of a week? Even the frogs are protesting. Heard tell they started to change our name to Everglades, Texas. And did we hit the papers, the wires and even the celluloid! TV ran a 100 feet of film taken by no less a luminary than Charles Swinson, our alert A.S.C., who is bound to be in now for an Emmy award for spot news coverage. In fact, last we heard, the tag line on a popular newscast is being changed to "Goodnight Chet, Goodnight Chet, Vas YOU dere, Charlie?" This Swinson gets around.

We had a nightmare last night, and dreamed someone caught the varmint and took it to Stamford and Roy Craig got to break the story in the Stamford American. That would be heart rending. In fact, they'd have to render the Pencil Pusher.

A tiny lead and brass tube containing radium worth more than $1,000 has been returned to an Oklahoma City hospital by a farmer living near Rule, who had been treated at the hospital and unknowingly came home with the small tube in a bandage on his face. After accounts of the missing radium appeared in daily newspapers, the farmer carried the small tube, which he thought was an ordinary remedy of some kind, to Dr. M. W. Rogers of Rule. The physician notified the Oklahoma hospital and a representative came on Tuesday to return the radium to the hospital.

Honoring Miss Margaret Pierson, a bride of early June, Mrs. T. C. Cahill entertained about 50 ladies at a very unique afternoon function. The home was beautifully decorated with "Marguerites" in compliment to the charming bride elect.

Our popular express agent, Mr. Max King, visited his best friend at Wichita Falls Sunday. Dr. J. F. Bunkley of Seymour was a passenger on the evening train Tuesday. He was taking his son to Temple for a surgical operation.

Monza Spyder Convertible

Monza Spyder Club Coupe

Come hill... or high water Vacations go smoother in a Chevrolet Corvaire

Bring on those mountains! They're not so high and mighty when you've got Corvaire's gummy six and rear-engine traction working on them.
You scurry up the meanest grades. You move with sure-footed agility on wet pavement, muddy lanes, gravel and other would-be miseries.
And with most of Corvaire's weight on the rear wheels, you have easy steering, too. Fact is, the handling's so light and responsive we don't even offer power steering for the car.
And there's more to feel good about. No problems with your radiator boiling over or going dry, because there's no radiator. Corvaire's engine is air cooled. No concern about brake adjustments, either, because the brakes adjust themselves. Nothing much to think about at all except the good time you're having.

Like to do that in a sporty bucket-seated Monza Club Coupe or Convertible? Like to spring into summer with a 4-speed stick shift* and Spyder package* with its 150-hp Turb. charged engine? Your dealer's got just the Corvaire and the Trade 'N' Travel deal on it to put you in a holiday mood.

Davis Fans 18 As Haskell Hazes Hamlin, 11-4

Haskell's Hustlers, senior baseball team comprised of 17 and 18 year olds, blasted off into a base running orbit in the opening game of the Cotton Belt Teen Age Baseball League here Tuesday night hammering Hamlin for a 11-4 rout under the lights at Haskell's Fair Park.

James Davis, popular Haskell High School athlete, proved his prowess as a baseball satellite, whiffing 18 Hamlin batters while walking two to hurt his nine to a scintillating start on the season.

The top of the Haskell batting order, stacked with power, accounted for 10 of the 11 Haskell runs, with Davis again, a pitcher batting cleanup no less, accounting for three of them. David Anderson, left fielder Joe Thigpen, third baseman, Sammy Larned, second sacker, and White, the first sacker, were the other rampant run-mak-ers in the walkaway win for Haskell.

Hamlin's one big gun was rangy First Baseman Brown, who smacked a line shot homer clear out of Fair Park. It was only the second home run hit out of the spacious ball yard here since it was laid out five seasons ago, according to Sgt. Frank Jirick, coordinator of the Teen Age League baseball league program.

Who swatted that first round tripper? Yes, it was James Davis, last year.

Woman Stabbed In Affray Released From Hospital

Marie Jameson, 40-year-old Haskell Negro, was released from Haskell County Hospital Thursday after being admitted with a severe knife wound received in an altercation here early last Tuesday night.

Jimmy Mays, 41, Negro, remains in Haskell County jail charged with assault with intent to murder, in connection with the affray. He was taken into custody shortly after the stabbing occurred.

Haskell County Sheriff Garth Garrett said the woman, who works as a housekeeper for several families here, had gone to the Mays house, which she owns, to collect rent money and that an argument ensued.

The Sheriff said Mays told him he struck the Negro woman with his fist, but a blunt pocket knife with half-inch blade was found at the scene. The Negro woman had a stab wound in the shoulder above the heart.

Both Negroes have lived here a long time.

Jas. G. Vaughter To Be Harvard Graduate June 13

James G. Vaughter, 22, of Haskell, who graduates from Harvard University on June 13, attended the recent Naval Academy Foreign Affairs Conference sponsored by the Naval Academy Foreign Relations Club at Annapolis, Maryland, according to word received here from a Navy information center Friday.

Young Vaughter, who has been majoring in political science at Harvard, one of a select group of Texans who received a scholarship to the famed university. He plans to enter the University of Texas Law School this fall.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Vaughter, of Haskell, parents of the Harvard graduating senior, are leaving here June 11 to attend Harvard commencement exercises at Cambridge, Mass. The conference in which Vaughter participated was the Naval Academy Foreign Relations Club's third such annual meeting. Student delegates from as far away as the University of California and the University of Washington attended the three-day meeting at which the principal discussion topic was "Problems of United States Foreign Policy in Southeast Asia."

A number of prominent civilian and military leaders were also present, with the Honorable U. Alexis Johnson, deputy under-secretary of State for Political Affairs, delivering the opening address.

Sixty five colleges and universities were represented at the conference.

Prattle

By AL HINDS

REMINISCING: It happened 16 years ago, but I shall never forget the time our daughter, Beverly, who at that time was only nine years old, had gone out to play one pleasant Sunday afternoon, and found her little curly, puppy dog on the front porch—standing stiff-legged, drawn and in great pain. Bev knew immediately that the puppy had been poisoned, because she had seen the effects of poison on Porky's mother.

Beverly lifted the puppy in her arms, and ran into the house screaming, "Daddy, 'Mother' . . . 'Porky has been poisoned,' but it was too late, try as we might to save him, the evil dose of poison had accomplished its deadly work—and minutes later the puppy lay lifeless at the feet of its little mistress—with its curly, white hair, wet from tears, streaming down the face of the heart broken youngster.

Porky was only a 4 months old Spitz and Collie Puppy, but now lay lifeless, because some uncouth person had taken its life in a dastardly way.

Yes, Porky was only a puppy that loved to romp, run and play about the yard—he knew no strangers—he paid no attention to race, color or creed. The puppy would scamper out of the yard to the call of a child—to the call of a colored person—in fact to the call of anyone. It made no difference to Porky—all he wanted was a kind word, a pat on the head—and he was off, running, turning, jumping with glee—the way he had for showing his affection.

Porky was the proud possession of Prattle's little daughter—and even though he was just a playful puppy he had learned when it was time for Beverly to bounce out of the house, and skip off to school. He would trot a short distance at the side of the little girl, then turn and slowly make his way back to the house, to eat, to romp, to sleep and dream of the return of the little lady, who seemed to love him most.

Porky did not know someone hated him—he did not know someone was watching and waiting for a chance to take his life—he trusted everyone—and being just a puppy had not learned there existed a person, or persons, he must guard his life against. So when the opened can of potted meat, laced with deadly poison was pitched in the yard—Porky thought another friend had paid him a visit, another hand was outstretched to befriend him—and even when death came, he did not know someone had ruthlessly destroyed his life.

A little grave was dug near a lone tree, in the back yard and the warm, limp body of Porky was lowered gently into the cold, damp earth. The dirt was then slowly sifted over the white, curly-haired puppy. A tiny headstone, shiny pebbles, and particles of colored glass were placed on the grave, and sparkled from the light of the not-too-bright winter sun. The tiny beams of light reflecting from the tinted, smoked glass, seemed to help to hold back Beverly's tears, and comfort her to some extent. A small, white piece of cardboard, with words scribbled across it, "Here lies Porky. Born October, 1946. Died February 9, 1947." A crushed corsage of gladioli, taken from the little lady's recent gown, marked the last resting place of Porky. Holding back the tears, Beverly turned and, walked into the house, and once again alone, poured out her heart over a little dog.

No, dear readers, don't tell me it was silly and absurd for a little girl to shed tears over a "dog." Of course there are many, many more heart-breaker experiences over this big, wide world, but to a little girl of nine years old, her world had come tumbling down, because she had not only lost a puppy, but a pal, a friend, that was dead to her heart.

Now that "Little League" is in full swing, I would like to congratulate all those who are giving of their time, energy, talents, etc., for the promotion of Little League baseball. It's a fine game for the youngsters, and furnishes many hours of recreation during the hot summer months.

The whole purpose behind Little League is to teach the youngsters how to play the game and to furnish them with activities during the vacation period. I think that teaching the lad's good sportsmanship, and how to play the game, however, is far more important than to be at the top of the heap in the standings.

Of course, it is only human nature for everyone to want to "win" in sports, the game of

Mrs. Chapman---

Mrs. Chapman's people all were Baptists, as was she, but soon after her marriage, she joined the church of her husband, a Presbyterian, and remained active in this church and all its organizations for more than 60 years. She was very active in the women's work of the Presbyterian Church and held various offices in the local church and over the state. She was historian for the women of the church at the time of her death.

Mrs. Chapman was dedicated not only to her church, but faithfully attended and helped all those about whom she heard who were ill, needy, or who had experienced sorrow. The number of her friends were the sum total of all who knew her.

Survivors include her son, Ben Charles Chapman of Haskell; a daughter, Mrs. Clay Smith of Haskell; a niece, Mrs. Mary Ben Trammell of New York City; two sisters, Mrs. H. J. McArdle of Abilene and Mrs. George H. Steadman of Weatherford; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

life, but Little League play should not be taken too seriously by the players, or by the fans, for after all the lads will have plenty of pressure heaped upon their shoulders later on in life.
