HIGHLY RESPECTED YOUNG GENTLEMAN DIED FRIDAY

BURLESON MONTGOMERY SUC-CUMBS FOLLOWING A PISTOL SHOT, SAID TO HAVE BEEN SELF INFLICTED.

Perhaps, the greatest shock that has ever been felt by the people of this community, happened last Friday afternoon when it was learned that Burleson Montgomery, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Montgomery of Stanton, had shot himself at his home. The incident happened about 2:30, and he died at 7:45 that evening.

"Burley," as he was familiarly called by his legion of friends in Stanton and Martin county, at the time of his death, was nightwatchman here, assuming that position held by his father W. D. Montgomery, who had resigned on account of his health and gone to California.

He was born and reared in Stanton, grew up to young manhood as one holding the highest respect and esteem in his community. Attentive to the duty imposed upon him, he traversed the streets and back alleys of Stanton the darkest of nights, in the balmy and the most wretched of weather, with the one and only thought of protecting the business interests of the town from burglary, fire, or whatnot, while the population slept in peaceful repose. The tired business man layed down for his night's rest, he did so in peace, knowing that his place of business was being carefully guarded by a young man who was faithful to duty, and in whom, the utmost confidence had been placed—and that young man was "Burley" Montgomery.

A few short years back and Burleson Montgomery graduated from the Stanton high school. During his school days he was captain of the football team, a member recognized as the team's best player. As proficient as he played football, so also, was he as proficient in his studies at school. His classmates held him in lofty admiration, in fact, the admiration did not stop with his classmates but extended over the entire student body. His even and cool temper, well-known by the ever-present smile on his face, and his greetings bearing a kind word for all whom he met, endeared him to the hearts of the entire population of Stanton.

Co-incident with the untimely death of the deceased is prefaced by the death of two of his boyhood playmates. The three boys lived in the same block. In the year 1929, Herbert Tom, 24, died from from the effects of being crushed by a tractor. In June, 1921, Johnson Orson, 18, met his death by drowning. On October 13, 1933, Burleson Montgomery, 27, met death by his own hands.

Waiting the arrival of the father, W. D. Montgomery; a brother, Stayton, and a sister, Mrs. W. J. McMullen, all of California, the funeral was delayed until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The spacious auditorium of the Methodist church was taxed to standing room, many not being able to get in the building. Rev. W. B. Vaughn, pastor of the church, held the funeral service. He read a scripture lesson, the One Hundred and Twenty-third Psalm, and calling attention to the verse in the One Hundred and Forty-sixth Psalm, showing how God's mercy was always given to those who trust in Him and that all God does is right and just.

Following the remains to their last resting place in Evergreen cemetery, was one of the longest funeral processions ever witnessed in Stanton. At the grave the Masonic lodge of which Burleson was a member, had charge of the burial services.

Among the many floral offerings was one from the business men of Stanton, a token of the high esteem they held for the deceased. All the business houses closed for the funeral service.

W. B. Montgomery, the father, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. W. J. McMullen and son, Stayton, left Los Angeles, Calif., Friday night of last week, traveling slowly on account of the illness of Mr. Montgomery, before.

DIPHTHERIA RESPONSIBLE SEVERAL DEATHS IN MARTIN

Martin county lost several of its children last year from just one preventable cause. The disease responsible for this loss was diphtheria. Dr. J. E. Moffett, county (City) Health Officer, in commenting on this loss, said: 'Diphtheria could be practically eliminated if parents would take their children to their family physician and have them immunized as soon as they reach six months of age, if possible.

Parents would not allow their children walk in front of a moving train or expose them to any danger, so why will they allow them to run the danger of contracting diphtheria. This immunization should be done as soon as possible as the winter months are the ones in which the most deaths occur and it takes some time for immunity to develop.

Agricultural College President Says Federal Program Seeks to Coordinate Production with Reduced Exports

The Federal farm adjustment program is partly guided by the belief that export of agricultural commodities will not soon recover its volume of five or ten years ago, in the opinion of F. D. Farrell, President Kansas Agricultural College, writing in the August issue of the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Nobody knows whether the farm adjustment program will succeed," writes Mr. Farrell. "Its sponsors describe it frankly as an experiment. It seeks to socialize agriculture at least to the extent that farmers, in what is believed to be the public interest, will restrain their production activities and that processors, distributors and consumers will contribute something toward paying farmers for exercising this restraint. The adjustment programs definitely are based on the fact that prices are determined primarily by supply and demand. They also are based on the assumption that the export business in agricultural commodities will not soon return to its volume of five or ten years ago.

Dependence on Public Support

"The plan offers wheat price insurance for 1933, 1934 and 1935, for the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop. The insured price is to be sufficiently high to give the domestically consumed portion of the wheat crop pre-war purchasing power. If the plan is as effective as its sponsors hope it will be, the reduction in supply may influence wheat prices so that the entire wheat crop will have pre-war purchasing power.

"If the adjustment program succeeds, its launching probably will mark the end of an era of extreme individualism in agriculture in the United States," says Mr. Farrell.

"Recent fundamental changes led Secretary Wallace to say, 'What we really have to do is to change the whole psychology of the people of the United States.' This is a large order. It involves the whole program of farm adjustment as well as the larger national economic program, of which farm adjustment is a part. If the people decline to participate in the program to the extent necessary to give the experiment a fair trial, we shall never know whether farm adjustment as now proposed would have succeeded or not if it had been given a fair trial."

WHAT IS A MINOR ILL?

Minor ills are supposed to be those which may cause inconvenience or discomfort but which offer little or no menace to life. But since any little ill may—and sometimes does—lead to more dangerous conditions or complications—who is to say it is a "minor" ill? Evidently a minor ill is simply one which is kept from developing into a major one. That is why you should call your physician promptly whenever illness occurs, regardless of how slight or may consider it to be.

WHAT BANKING WENT THROUGH

By JOHN H. FUELICHER
American Bankers Association

BANKING in its long career has been compelled to withstand many serious shocks, but it ran into the most perplexing entanglement of its whole history since the general breakdown of values in 1929. The commercial structure of the entire world seemed to have been shaken from its foundations and the marvel is that the banker, with everything breaking down all around him, was able to come through as he has.

General business failures, agricultural stagnation, income losses, capital losses, inability to meet debts and therefore inability of bankers to pay back depositors when loans were not paid, were the reasons, in most instances, for the bank failures.

No profession, no department of life is without its weaker elements, but had proper consideration been given to the relatively few instances in banking, had exaggerated and startling headlines been kept in true proportion, had banking not been used as a target for political self-seeking and with vote-seeking motives, had unfounded rumors not been spread the people's confidence might have been retained and financial losses, for many bank failures were caused that need not have happened.

There were factors in our banking experience which every earnest banker deplores—factors which many had worked years to eliminate, which it was fearfully recognized would aggravate any difficult days which might arise. One of the worst of these was due to political regulation which chartered many banks that should never have been chartered.

That there have been incompetence and dishonesty in banking is admitted. That the instances that did occur were used grossly to increase fear in the public mind, we affirm. We shall continue to strive for higher attainments in our profession and strive for laws that require competence and ability in management. That we cannot legislate honesty and unselfishness into either a banker or a borrower must be conceded, but dishonesty, wherever found, should be punished. It is as true in banking as elsewhere that no matter how good the law, dishonest and incompetent men can make it ineffective. Good laws are essential. We must strive for ever better ones, but their enforcement will come only as the public recognizes that it is a matter not of laws or codes alone but of the men who administer them.

The Public's Part

Our people must be brought to realize that the welfare of our country depends upon its banking system, that the strength of the banking system depends upon the public's faith and understanding and the vast majority of banks, because of faithful service rendered, even through the whole of this general breakdown, had the right to expect the trust and confidence of the people.

In every great catastrophe, no matter what its nature, no matter what its cause, someone must be crucified. The banker was this time selected. In the late 90's, political agitation started a tirade against the railroads. Some railroads may have done reprehensible things, but the agitation became so general and so violent as almost to destroy one of the fundamental factors in the progress of a country. Today the same thing has been done to the banker. In spite of all that has happened, the fact remains that even most of the banks which failed are paying out infinitely better than are investments in almost anything else.

Bankers Aiding Agriculture

State associations of bankers in many agricultural states are giving time and financial support to encourage practices among their farmers that will bring about better farm results. The major activities reported from one state to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association which is nationally active in promoting this line of cooperation are as follows:

1. Drought relief work: Local banks have played a vital part in this work, being represented on the county committees for passing on all seed loans. These committees met practically every day during the spring to pass on the loans in order to get as quick action as possible. A total of 914 applications were received and handled by one committee, 833 being granted.

2. Four-H Club work: Bankers helped stimulate 4-H Club work, financing many members who otherwise could not have enrolled. They also helped finance fifteen 4-H Club delegates to the state club convention.

3. Livestock feeding: The banks cooperated with the Extension Service in the state and the railroads in increasing the amount of livestock feeding. Assistance was given the feeders in securing finances for their feeding operation.

4. Crop improvement: The bankers took part in the crop standardization program of the Extension Service and encouraged the farmers to use pure seed and in many cases to help for this purpose.
