

SNOOTER KNOWS

LITTLE ABOUT EVERY-THING

NOT MUCH ABOUT ANY-THING

IN most every instance where counties around and adjoining Martin county have had the opportunity to build permanent roads they have voted road bonds to build them. They have sensed the fact that if they are to reap the better things that comethrough the matter of permanent highways and lateral roads leading out into the community centers of the county, they must discard the old theory "what was good enough for me when a boy is good enough for me now!" That idea today, will not work, either in the mode of family life or the life of the community. Back in those days all counties were in the same shape as regards to roads. People came to town in muddy weather on the front running gears of a wagon with two to four mules pulling it, after groceries. Now and then you'd find a county that had better dirt roads than an other, and you'd here about it for miles around. This was due to the fact the county had road overseers clothed with more progressive and sound ideas as to road building. And today, that idea prevails in various counties, only the times have changed to permanent roads. For instance, one will find a county that has permanent highways leading in almost any direction and substantial lateral road leading out into the community centers of the county. Wherever you find this condition prevailing you will discover a live and progressive people supporting thrifty counties and towns.

In the matter of Martin county one will find a commonwealth with less mileage of permanent roads than any other county in the state. There is only one paved thoroughfare in the county, and that one was practically forced on the county—that one is highway 1. It was either accept the opportunity or allow Stanton to sit far more remote from this valuable highway. The opportunity is now at hand for Martin county to secure almost equally as important road as highway 1. The chances are it will grow into as important a highway as Broadway of America. The road we refer to is the Stanton-Lamesa road. This road as it has been laid out, with considerable work and money already having been spent on it, goes to Lenorah, there to connect with the road from the north Martin county line, of which the highway department has published the notice for bids on the contract in the Reporter. From Lenorah one road branches out to the east line of Andrews county and another goes northeast. Dawson county has recently completed its road out of Lamesa to connect with the road at the Martin county line. Two attempts have been made to vote $50,000 to build this road. Both have failed in carrying the necessary two-thirds majority, the last time went down in defeat by the close margin of one vote. Last week a petition was presented the commissioners' court, calling for a third election. The Court finding the petition OK, set the date for the third election to be held November 26.

A Midland delegation was before the highway commission first of the week asking for a road from Lamesa to Midland and on to Rankin. Naturally, Midland would want this road to come the most direct route. That would mean cutting through a big portion of the northwest part of this county. In the course of his plea for the road, according to an Austin dispatch, the county judge of Midland county said: "We are able to raise the money. The Martin county folk aren't." For some time know Martin county has been flirting with the idea of liquidating, closing up its official county business and turning themselves over to Big Spring and Midland to run our business

NUMBER THREE

Third Bond Election is Called

REMEMBER THE JUNE TORNADO, HERE

FRED McPHERSON, Chairman Martin County Chapter
During the past year a record number of 129 domestic disasters called for Red Cross aid in 266 counties in 38 states, Rev. Fred McPherson, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter, revealed Monday in discussing the past year's work, while at the same time he said that a total of 108,000 persons had been aided by the Red Cross following the catastrophes.

Types of disasters varied, Rev. McPherson said. There were floods, windstorms, tornadoes, explosions and fires, all calling for Red Cross aid, and following each of these disasters Red Cross workers remained on the scene until all victims had been aided in reestablishing themselves.

While there were other disasters that resulted in minor loss of life and greater damage to property the disaster uppermost in the minds of the people of Stanton and Martin county, was the tornado that ripped through our little city and some of our outlying communities on the evening of June 11, 1938. None of the residents of Stanton who were in town that evening will ever forget that low, black cloud that roared in from the northeast, preceded by a blinding sandstorm. Nor can they forget the moment when, after a heavy rain had fallen, the tornado struck in all its fury. Several dwelling houses were completely demolished and many others were unroofed and otherwise badly damaged. Fortunately, there was no loss of life, nor even a serious injury.

The Red Cross offered immediate aid. Early the next morning a committee from the Howard County Chapter was in Stanton to look over the ruins and offer assistance. The next day a representative of the National Chapter of the Red Cross was in town to ascertain our immediate needs. When it was found there were no emergency relief cases, the case workers of the National Chapter working in close cooperation with the chairman of the Martin County Chapter, investigated every

ATTEND FOOTBALL GAME
Mrs. Phil Berry and Mrs. Jim Tom went over to Midland last Friday afternoon where they joined Mrs. Bryan Henderson of Wink. Later Mr. Tom and Mr. Berry drove over and the couples attended the Wink-Midland football game together, sitting in the Wink section. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson came home with Mr. and Mrs. Berry for the remainder of the week end.

BROTHER DIES IN HOUSTON
Word was received early Wednesday morning that Earl Taylor, of Houston, eldest brother of Mrs. Raymond Van Zandt, had died Tuesday night. Rev. Van Zandt left Wednesday morning for Waco, to attend the funeral services.

for us. We thought of asking Glascock county to take over Martin county's business, but it being a county that owes nothing they didn't care to take on any indebtedness. But for the information of Midland's county judge, we have boys sitting on our curbstones that have enough money lying around their homes in sugar bowls to buy the Midland Petroleum building and give it back to them and have sufficient funds left to retire on the balance of their days.

case of need that was reported to them or, of which they could learn. Rev. McPherson said that if any cases were neglected it was the fault of the local chairman and those who failed to report such a case, and not of the representatives of the National Chapter who showed every inclination to aid every needy case reported to them. Aid was offered to eight families, five of which accepted the offer with gratitude. The other three families graciously declined the offer. A total of $460 was expended by the National Chapter for this type of relief in Stanton.

The day previous to the storm in Martin county, a far more disastrous tornado struck the town of Clyde in Callahan county, which resulted in the death of fourteen persons and more than $100,000 property damage. Also, the same evening of the Martin county tornado, a similar storm struck Howard county, resulting in several injuries to human beings and great damage to property. For relief in these West Texas tornadoes the Red Cross expended a total of $30,623 of which $5,028.15 was contributed by organizations and individuals in West Texas, and $25,594.85, was contributed by the American National Red Cross.

The assistance from the National organization is made possible through the membership support which it derives in the annual Roll Call throughout the nation from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. This year's Roll Call will soon be upon us. Rev. McPherson, as chairman of the Martin County Chapter, is planning the Roll Call drive for this Chapter for two reasons: First, out of sheer gratitude for assistance rendered in the hour of great need in this county. Every citizen of Martin county should enroll in the Red Cross this year, and, Second, the work done by the Red Cross in Martin county, following the tornado is typical of the work done by the organization in every national disaster, and gave Martin county residents far better understanding of the Red Cross and its work. Join the Red Cross this year! Membership fee $1.00 per year, one-half of which remains in the treasury of your local chapter.

YELLOWJACKETS SCOOTS BUFFS TO CELLAR

John F. Priddy The Stanton high school football team was almost certain of the cellar position after their defeat Friday night at the hands of the Kermit Yellowjackets, 25-6. The Bison crew took the lead in the first frame after Sprawls took the ball on an end run to paydirt. This counter held good until the closing minutes of the second quarter when a Kermit man took the inflated pighide to score. The game was a walk away for the Yellowjackets from there on. The final tabulation was 25-6. Howard Pinkston led the herd on the offense and Cecil Hay was as usual the whole "cheese" on the defense. If the Stanton club had nine other men like these two they would be unbeatable. The team takes on the Odessa "B" squad Friday at 2:30 on the Stanton gridiron.

REPORT OF MARTIN COUNTY LIBRARY

Mrs. J. B. COLLIER Librarian

The summer report of the Martin County Library, maintained by the ladies of the Stanton Study Club, has been postponed several days over one month, in the hope that an overdue book list would not have to be compiled, as is often the case but this hope proved in vain, and the list follows the report.

The summer report begins with June 22, 1938, with the purchase of the book "Secret of the Old Clock," by Carolyn Keene. Gifts that the Little Blue Bank financed. Donors, Mrs. J. B. Collier, Mr. Carl Leonard, Mrs. Chester Blackford, Mrs. Glen Petree, and Mrs. Spencer Wright.

Then follows a list of books given by separate individuals, Glenn Bunch gave "Gone with the Wind"; Mrs. Otis Davidson gave "The Ranch at the Wolverine," by B. M. Bawer; Mrs. Ray Simpson gave "The Frontiersman," by H. A. Cody; Jack Thornton gave "The Scranon High Chums at Ice Hockey"; Mrs. Abe Bell gave "Winner Take All" by Larry Evans; Mrs. J. A. Wilson gave "Hans Brinker" by Mary Mapes Dodge; Mrs. Ray Simpson gave a new book, "Court of King Arthur" by Samuel Lowe; Dorothy Renfro gave the library its first copy of "Water Babies" by Charlie Kingsley, a long desired book. She also gave "The Meadow Brook Girls in the Hills" by Janet Aldridge; Betty Jane Sauer gave "Tommy's Annual Friends" and "Big Animals."

The Little Blue Bank bought "The Last Trail" a Zane Grey novel. This book was the choice of Mrs. W. A. Wood, who made the first donation to the empty Little Blue Bank; other donors were Lee Roy Wood, George Herzog, Robert Herzog, Glenn Bunch, Marcella Pinkston, and Mrs. J. B. Collier.

Mrs. Elsie Gilkerson chose the next book, having placed the first donation in the Bank this time, her choice (a wonderful one), being "Log Cabin Lady" anonymous. Those donating Glenn Bunch, Mrs. O. W. Clinton, Robert Herzog, Mrs. Cordelia Morgan, Miss Alvis, Mrs. C. L. Gerald, Tommie Keisling, Mrs. Ode Hazlewood, and Mrs. Lovace Hazlewood.

Mrs. Gilkerson again donates first, and chose another splendid book, "Silver Chief" by Jack O'Brien; donors for this were Glenn Bunch, Joe Bunch, Mrs. O. W. Clinton, Miss Zona Lee Jones, Jimmie and Brenda Ann Hazlewood, Marv Ann Munn, Lubbock; John Wallace Hazlewood, Mrs. J. B. Collier, Sara Jean Haislip, and Mrs. Cordelia Morgan.

The next book by donations to the Little Blue Bank was the selection of Glenn Bunch, first donor to the book "The Bungalow Mystery" by Carolyn Keene, other donors, Mrs. Cordelia Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Collier, Irene Roberts, Mrs. Ode Hazlewood and Mrs. James Jones.

The book next purchased was "The Mystery at Lilac Inn," Mrs. J. B. Collier placing the first donation; other donating were Mr. J. B. Collier, Mrs. Cordelia Morgan, Glenn Bunch, Maxine Savall and Mrs. Ray Simpson.

So many of our girl and boy readers ask for the "Nancy Drew Series" by Carolyn Keene, that we decided to try to buy quite a few of these for they are really clean morally, and very interestingly written.

Miss Lillian Rodgers gave an unusually valuable book, and very interesting gift, early in October. The gift is an enlarged photograph, framed, of the town of Stanton, made at an early date in the history of Stanton. This gift is highly appreciated and receives a great deal of attention.

Mrs. Harold Munn of Lubbock, brought over a nice selection of late-date magazines, including McCall's, Good Housekeeping, Collier's, Woman's Home Companion, and Home and Arts.

Many Little Big Books, such a delight to our young readers have been given during the summer and early Fall term. Space will not allow the names of all the books, but those giving the books are named:

Glenn Bunch, Mary Francis Burnam, Jimmie Hazlewood, C. D. Willingham, C. O. Willingham, Robert Herzog, Betty Jane Sauer and Dorothy Renfro, Taylor Van Zandt gave three books that were greatly appreciated, "Lorna Doone," by Blackmore, "Kennelworth" by Sir Walter Scott, and "In the Shadow of Great Peril" by Horace Wade.

Black Cats and Witches Prance the Walls Again!

Artist Designs Ideal Table For Children's Halloween Party

How Halloween, October 31st, one of the four Witches' Sabbaths of the ancient Pagan world, has become the present delightful, fantasy-filled children's festival, opens up one of the most fascinating of folklore studies. Countless generations of children, throughout the Christian Era, have gradually changed the grim All Hallow's Eve of early Christian times into the gleeful and fantastic children's celebration of today.

But before tracing the story of All Hallow's Eve, let us describe the drawing above, in which Virginia Fowler, well known artist, has pictured the ideal table for a children's Halloween party.

The table is decorated with eight-inch black paper cutouts of skulls, witches on broomsticks and black cats, repeated as many times as needed. The children sit along the outer edge of the table which is placed a few inches from the wall. Between the children and the cutouts are orange candles, in low candle holders covered with orange paper. The candles thus throw the shadows of the cutouts, large and black, against the wall.

Because the children have modernized Halloween, the artist has introduced a modern note especially dear to children, a toast and jam set, so simple in operation that they can use it themselves. With its smooth, gleaming finish, the toaster seems a natural part of the ancient ritual, while the jam containers of orange and yellow fit exactly into the color scheme. Strips of orange and crepe paper are laid on the table between the candles. Orange "snappers" with black Halloween stickers are used for trimming.

The Pagan festival from which Halloween sprang is immensely older than Christianity; it actually antedates the beginnings of agriculture, and thus goes back into the very early history of the race. The Romans added to the ancient festival the traditions and observances in honor of Pomona, their goddess of fruits and fruit culture. At its best, it was what the children make of it today—a festival, a night of feasting, dancing and games to which, in ancient days, the whole countryside gathered. The festivities began in the early evening around blazing bonfires, and lasted until dawn. The feasting, and merry-making were probably intended to put to flight the evil spirits which on this night, of all the year, were considered most likely to walk abroad.

To the Christians, after the Church had spread over Europe, the evil spirits became witches and the ghosts of the departed, and black cats, grinning skulls and witches on broomsticks, became the symbols of All Hallow's Eve. No one but the children could have leavened and mellowed the ancient festival into the celebration of today. Without any knowledge of its source, but with an unfeeling instinct for dramatic fun, they have through the centuries preserved the joy of the ancient Pagan Festival, with just enough of mystery and mock chills from the early Christian Era, to make the modern Halloween one of the most fascinating children's events of the year. Thus no festival more justly belongs to the children than Halloween.

ALL YOUR CURIOSITY satisfied by Your Mileage Merchant... Ask him exactly how you're sure of fast winter starting and extreme oil economy by changing now to WINTER OIL-PLATING

IS OIL-PLATING just a different name? ... No. OIL-PLATING is what Conoco GERM Processed oil does! The out-and-out difference is this: OIL-PLATING will stay firmly attached—plated—clear to the topmost point in your engine, while any plain mineral oil drains clear down the crankcase at every stop.

Exactly where is your gain? Well, in starting up again—next day or next month—the coldest OIL-PLATED engine is always oiled in advance... pre-lubricated before any oil down in the crankcase could ever stir. OIL-PLATING thus keeps every engine part constantly slippery. The starter speeds... the battery lives and so does the engine, free of fierce starting friction.

But is there any oil saving? Why?... Because less engine wear puts more miles between quarts. And OIL-PLATING itself never passes out during the use of GERM Processed oil. Only the GERM Process, patented, creates OIL-PLATING, the sensible reason for you to switch to Your Mileage Merchant today.

Switch in Time!

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED OIL OIL-PLATING GUARANTEED to lubricate before any oil can circulate

Snappy Service

When you pull into our station, there's no waiting... you get that snappy attentive service... the kind you want... the way you want it.

Our men know the best oils and greases required to give your car added mileage at less cost... why not consult them the next time you drive in.

Loses First Six-man Game

The Stanton Six-man football club lost its first game last Friday to the Forsan Buffs to the tune of 37-22. The Forsan crew has not been beaten and this was the largest score to be made against them to date.
