LT. AND MRS WILSON HERE FROM WEST POINT

Where is that individual that can think of everything and forget nothing? And that reminds us that editors, though they know everything, are like human beings, they forget and at times, their forgetfulness, especially, if it has to do with something of importance in the news line, stands out to the public like a sore thumb, and throbs like one, to the editor who forgot to make the mention in his newspaper.

Two weeks ago this editor had a very fine young man friend a prominent personage at one of the greatest military schools in the world—West Point—to make a special trip to this office while visiting relatives in Stanton, to meet us and again shake our hand. It was none other than Lieutenant Woodrow Wilson of the West Point Military Academy, who, with his recent bride had just come up from Ozona, where he had been visiting his father, Lee Wilson, and San Angelo, where he visited his mother, Mrs. Mary Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had but a very short time in Stanton to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Atchison, before their departure back to West Point, but Woodrow when a student at Stanton high school, always made it a point to hang around the Reporter office, and on publication day, if his services were needed, would hand-fold the papers, hence he could almost suffer the consequences of breaking an army rule rather than pass up the opportunity to shake the hand of an old friend.

Lt. Wilson is coach of the Plebes at West Point this year and he had been notified to be back at a certain date in order to take up the training of the goss-lins of the Army football team, and that meant he had but little time to spare when he was here.

Woodrow was married at West Point in June, following his graduation, to the daughter of a prominent officer in the U. S. Army, and after the event he came to Texas on a vacation trip to visit his parents and other relatives. He was one of the honor students graduating from West Point this year a popular and prominent member of the Army's football squad while attending the military school.

Military discipline and the popularity he gained while attending West Point, hadn't in the least changed the friendly and even-tempered disposition Woodrow Wilson displayed all during his school days in Stanton. He was the same old well-liked popular boy he was before he ever thought of going to West Point.

FRANKLIN COUNTY REUNION AT BIG SPRING SEPTEMBER 3.

L. H. White, president of the Franklin County Old Settlers reunion, reported to the Reporter this week, that the third annual reunion of former Franklin county citizens in West Texas, will be held at the city park in Big Spring, on Sunday, September 3. There will be plenty of barbecued meats and other good things to eat served.

All former Franklin county citizens are cordially invited.

Mr. White said it was expected there would be an attendance of 600 at the reunion this year.

Business Trip to Denver City

Mrs. Leo Turner, proprietor of the Ladies Shop, made a business trip to Denver City, the new oil town in Yoakum county, Thursday of last week.

tionary with the commissioners' courts wether or not the statement be published, therefore, only a few counties in the state require their publication.

So, we say, why clutter up the statute books with a lot of useless laws. The only reasons we can see for this is to fatten the pages of the state's law books

SNOW-COVERED PEAKS, DEEP CANYONS SEEN AS TRAVELERS CROSS THE CONTINENTAL DIVIDE IN COLORADO

(We are taking the liberty of publishing the travel notes of trip Mary Alice Woodard and her husband as making in California, as published in the Big Spring Daily Herald of last Sunday, and will continue as long as Mrs. Woodard allows us the privilege, or the Big Spring Herald doesn't present us with a restraining order)—Ed.)

By MARY ALICE WOODARD

ENROUTE TO YOSEMITE, Aug. 9 (By Mail)—We are leaving Salt Lake City behind us this afternoon, driving west around the lake itself. Yesterday morning we left Denver at 8 o'clock for our trip to Salt Lake City—a distance of 522 miles. The drive on U. S. Highway 40, was beautiful, going up into the Rockies almost as soon as we left Denver, sometimes climbing up into the pines, again winding through deep canyons. Fifty miles west of Denver we crossed the Continental divide over the famous Berthoud pass, with an elevation of 11,300 feet at the summit. The drive over the pass is an engineering marvel, winding back and forth in "hairpin" curves and "switch-backs" up the steep mountain side.

At intervals we could look below us 2,000 feet or more and see the road that we had just been over. High as it was, there were no grades that we could not make in high gear. The highway, of course, is paved.

Snow in August

Going down the westward slope we had a gorgeous view of the Rockies of northern Colorado, do, with Long's peak and the Rocky Mountain National park in the hazy distance. Even in August there was still a considerable amount of snow covering the loftiest of the peaks. One of the things that interested us most was the water in all the mountain streams, flowing west. It still seems to us it should be going the other way—but it would have been quite a long pull.

We crossed the divide twice more over Muddy pass and Rabbit Ears pass, both around 9,000 feet in altitude. Our route leaving Denver, by the way, was through the largest gold mining district in Colorado. We passed very close to several large mines.

Just at dusk Tuesday evening we drove into Salt Lake City. This morning in Salt Lake City we went through the capitol building, supposed to be one of the finest in the nation. Built of white granite, it stands on a hill overlooking the city. The interior is of solid marble, and in the main corridor just opposite the main entrance are murals depicting the history of Utah.

The chandelier which hangs from the top of the dome weighs 13,000 pounds. It is of course, a masterpiece in beauty. The dome of the building reminded me of our state capitol.

In Salt Lake City

At noon we drove to the Mormon temple, and heard the organ recital in the Mormon tabernacle, a huge domed building with a seating capacity of 8,000. The entire lower floor was full this morning, a crowd which must have numbered around 5,000.

The great organ—along with a new echo organ which has been installed in the basement—has a total of 7,000 pipes. The temple itself we could see only from the outside, since only worshippers are allowed within. It is a masterpiece of architecture, built in the 1870's of granite, with tall spires 210 feet high on both front and back. The temple grounds are laid out entirely in formal gardens.

Driving out U. S. 40, our route to Reno, we stopped at Sunset beach and saw the Great Salt Lake. It is the Dead Sea of America, where the salt content is so great that swimmers can float in two feet of water. They say that the only life saver you need is a seven-pound weight tied to each foot! The lake is 75 miles long, 50 miles wide, and is 22 per cent salt.

I am writing this in the car. When I started we were just leaving the lake. Now we have crossed the Great Lake desert, 70 miles of salt beds, the last few miles around Bonneville flats where automobile speed records are set and broken, so white that it is blinding.

We have just crossed into Nevada (with "a" like in "cat" definitely!) and are headed for Reno for the night. So long until we reach Yosemite.

Here From Odessa

J. W. Orr of Odessa, spent a short time in Stanton, Sunday morning, J. W., with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Orr, resided in Stanton a number of years, his father running a drug store. The family now live in Odessa, where Mr. Orr and J. W., have a drug store. Norman Orr has moved a drug store from Odessa to Denver City, the new oil town.

9TH, 10TH, 11TH. GRADES VALLEY V. COMING HERE

A contract, transferring the 9th, 10th and 11th grades of the Valley View school to Stanton, was signed this week by the boards of the two schools. The Valley View school was reclassified last week by the county board and will teach only eight grades this year.

The Valley View bus will meet the Stanton bus north-east of town about 12 miles to transfer pupils coming to Stanton.

COUNTY MEMBERS HOLD BARBECUE

On last Friday evening the courthouse lawn was the scene of an outdoor picnic and barbecue sponsored by the County Council of the home demonstration clubs of Martin county.

Mrs. Lee Castle, chairman, man, called the meeting to order, and gave the high lights of their recent trip to College Station Short Course. She represented the council.

Mrs. John Ory, representative of the Stanton club, gave a version of the meeting and her impression of the Short Course. Mrs. Willie Reed of the Valley View club, gave her report of the meeting and Mrs. B. F. Airhart, who represented Flower Grove, brought the dairy and the farm projects as her part of the report.

All of these delegates gave full reports and each one embued with enthusiasm for the work, gaining ideas to put in practice in their various clubs and urging each member to make an effort to attend one of these meetings.

A display table was arranged by Mrs. Castle, of the different foods which the clubs had demonstrated during this period of work.

While the tables were being arranged Mrs. Reed, assisted by Miss Frances Clements, a member of the Valley View girls club, conducted a sing song.

Barbecued chicken surrounded by everything else you could imagine covered the groaning boards and after an invocation of thanks by Mrs. Fred McPherson, the guests were served.

French Gray had baskets of peaches and cornucopias grapes from his orchard, enough to serve the large crowd.

Members of all the clubs in the county furnished the bountiful supper.

PAST MATRONS CLUB WITH MRS. BURNAM

The Past Matrons club met August 9, at the home of Mrs. Bertha Burnam, with Mrs. Susie Houston, presiding.

Members present were: Madams Georgie Zimmerman, Pearl Laws, Susie Houston, Inez Woody Bertha Jones, Margaret Haynie, Clara Haynie and the hostess.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

After some discussion about the selling of Christmas cards for the benefit of the club, a motion was made and carried that the chair appoint a committee to attend to this.

During the social hour a few games of Chinese Checkers were played. Among the stunts and contests that followed was a crowning contest, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The hostess being unable to decide the winner, rewarded all with delicious refreshments.—Reporter.

Returns From Eunice, N. M.

Mrs. Lov Mashburn returned Tuesday from Eunice, N. M., where Mr. Mashburn, employed by A. L. Housing Co., Midland, is building houses.

VISITS CHURCH OF HOLY SEPULCHER FINDS THE TOMB OF LORD JESUS CHRIST; VARIOUS RELIGIOUS FAITHS WORSHIP HERE

(This is the second letter from A. C. "Buster" Bassett to his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett, renewing incidents of his visit to Jerusalem. Bassett is with a corps of engineers from A&M college, doing work in Egypt.—Ed.)

The following letter was written by Johnny Bassett in Egypt to his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett of Stanton, a week following the letter published in last week's Reporter:

Dear Folks:
 Wednesday Night July 19, 1939

It seems that I am having trouble getting around to finishing the letter I wrote from Jerusalem. We left the next morning after I wrote you and spent a miserable day on that lousy train. We started back to work Monday. We are camped between Cairo and Suez now, 20 miles from Suez and 60 miles from Cairo, so we should get to go to town pretty often.

But on with our trip to Palestine. After leaving the little Sister apparently very happy over our small donation, we wormed our way through the narrow crooked streets with their high walls and staircases rising to the wailing wall. Just as we arrived the British soldiers were hustling around and told us to take a look in a hurry and not go back the way we came, an Arab had been shot back in that direction and there might be trouble. We took a snappy glance at the wailing wall and the people there and were on our way in short time. But it would take hours to describe fully what we saw and heard in those few seconds. There were only seven or eight Jews there two or three women seemingly in silent prayer stood very near the wall. The place looked very much like any other of the streets except that it was a dead end and the wailing wall side was about 40 or 50 feet high while the others were the ordinary 10 or 12 feet. One Jew sat on back against this wall with a small book opened before him reading in a soft tone. Another Jew sat on down in the corner clothed in rags and he too had a small book in his hand—it was worn to tatters and yellow from filth and age. He couldn't have been reading, however, because he was jerking his head from side to side and wailing in a high pitched weird monotone. It was really touching and a pathetic sight. The Jews come to the wailing wall daily and wail for their lost Holy Land to be returned to them.

As we left we were routed by the soldiers through the Jewish section of the Old City. The same narrow filthy streets greeted us. The high walls cut out all the sunshine and there is a horrible mucky odor from every side. They know absolutely nothing of modern conveniences or sanitation. It is anything but a pleasant walk through that section. People are living there in the manner as they did a thousand years ago. It is unbelievable how little modern civilization has affected them.

I think that it is in these sections that this type of people that is causing the strife between the Jews and Arabs. There are Arabs living under the same conditions and with the same ideals. Both the Jews and the Moslems are living an unbelievable existence in pursuit of a possessing hand of the Holy places on this earth and an entry to the paradise to the world hereafter. They have no other motive in life and pay practically no attention to food, shelter and health.

It is an unpleasant fact but our Holy Land is the setting for more strife, poverty and filth than any other place in this globe of ours unless it is China, and as long as there is both a Jew and a Moslem, our Holy Land will probably remain in this state of affairs.

But on with our visits. Next was the Church of the Holy Sepulcher. As we entered we rubbed shoulders with every sort of people going in and coming out. We saw Arabs, Monks, Greeks, Americans, Bedouins, in their garbs and tourists in all dresses.

The Church is shared by a number of different faiths. I don't know which ones or just how many but I think they are the different branches of the Catholic church. As you enter you are in a large chamber of the church and you see a small cell in the center of this chamber and this small cell is the Tomb of our Lord Jesus Christ. As you approach the Tomb a Monk gives you a long candle which you light from a larger candle in the anteroom of the Tomb. The Tomb alone is very small, about six feet wide and seven feet long. It is very crowded with four in it along with the Monk. The Tomb is lined with marble and one side a casement about two feet high and running full length of the small room is the vault. Over this casement a number of unlit candles are swinging in fancy candle holders. With your small candle you light one of these and make a wish. The Church is a gigantic structure divided up in chambers for the different beliefs that worship there. In another chamber is where they place Calvary. The spot where the cross supposedly stood is marked and a slab of marble represents the place where Christ was bathed after being taken from the cross.

Our last visit for the day was Golgotha which is nothing but a bare rocky hill now.

After a drive through town we went to the Y. M. C. A. for one of the coldest swims I've ever taken. I don't know where the water comes from but I swear it felt as though it had been iced.

VISITS CHURCH OF—

They have an awfully nice "Y" there. It was built with a donation from some rich American and it cost around a million dollars. After our swim we had supper and I wrote the letter to you and was off to bed to get some much needed sleep. The beds were the best we have found since leaving home. We made up for the nights sleep we had missed the night before. The trip back home was rotten but the trip over wasn't so bad. We were fortunate enough to have 14 Americans on the same train with us which made the trip pleasant in spite of the lousy trains. The whole crowd of them were Baptist preachers and their wives. One of the men and one woman was from Texas and we had quite a talk together. The joke of the trip was when Frisins told the preacher how to say "son of a gun" in Arabic, before he knew they were preachers. He is a religious fanatic and curses but very little so you can imagine what color he turned when he found out that they were preachers. The preachers, however, didn't call his hand on it.

The railroad has discontinued service from Lydda to Jerusalem since the uprise so we had to make the trip from there on by car. But I'm glad because I wouldn't take anything for that drive. Our taxi driver must have done his preliminary driving a cab in New York City cause I mean he was really wicked at the wheel. He knew that we were Americans or I'm sure he wouldn't ever tried driving like he did. I've seen reckless drivers but he stands at the top of the list in both instances. It may be because I've been riding with these inefficient slow and easy drivers so long.

The country between Lydda and Jerusalem is really pretty. The steep sloping terraced hills with trees growing on the terrace, etc., reminded me a lot of the Amalfi drive in Italy only there wasn't any sea. The country is practically useless but it surely is attractive. The houses on those slopes look like they are stacked one on the other and they look so neat and clean from a distance. The road winds down among the hills and there are a few little pines and cedars along the roadside which surely did look good to us.

The military emplacements didn't help the scenery much. Machine gun nests with sand bag barricades were on all the high points that demanded a long range of view. The road had hazards every few miles to slow down cars that might be trying to make a fast get away. These are large slabs of concrete four feet high and extending more than half way across the road. These are staged and placed about 10 to 15 yards apart. Three slabs arranged in this manner forces a car to make a sharp "S" turn that almost requires stopping.

We had to obtain military passes to travel on any of these roads. One to come in, one to drive to all places visited in Jerusalem, and one to get out of Jerusalem. Getting them was some experience too, with about three or four hundred Jews and Arabs trying to get similar ones. I surely wish that we could have had a longer stay but I'm glad I went. I was afraid we might get away without getting to go at all if we kept putting it off. It's late and I must get to bed. Good night and lots of love.

Why should not think we are so wise just because we can criticize? For that is a much easier task than answering questions a fool can ask. TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Austin.—Quail restoration work in Texas continues to advance with the announcement here that the United States Soil Conservation Service and the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission will cooperate in a 42,000-acre project in Falls, Millam, and Bell counties on the North Elm Creek watershed, 18 miles northeast of Temple.

Agreement to use the solid block of 42,000 acres for the restoration of quail and for the demonstration of sound farming practices by the Soil Conservation Service was reached by Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the Game Department, and Homer G. Towns, regional biologist in charge of the Soil Conservation Service wildlife program. The project is the largest attempted by the Game Department in quail restoration work and it is believed that fully 100,000 acres of Texas black-land area will be benefited by the overflow of quail to be raised on the project proper.

The Game Department and Soil Conservation Service are cooperating in providing natural and permanent improvements on the land which, it is believed, will restore quail to a ration of approximately an average of one bird to six acres for the entire 42,000 acres.

Fenced areas ranging from one-fourth to five acres in size will be constructed on each of the 240 farms in the North Elm Creek area. From one to ten of these will be placed on each farm depending on the size of that specific land owner's acreage. These areas are fenced to exclude cattle and sheep and thus to prevent over-grazing of the foods and cover needed by Bob White. A large variety of shrubs, which will provide shelter for the quail will also be planted throughout the area. Large sections of fence rows which are now without vegetation of any kind will be planted with bushes. These will not only provide suitable habitat for quail but will also assist in preventing soil erosion. Gullies, many of which in the area are now clear, will be planted with shrubs which will check erosion and provide food and shelters for bob whites.

It has been demonstrated many times that wildlife management and sound farming practices go hand in hand. Cooperation by the Game Department and the Soil Conservation Service on the North Elm Creek project will still further tend to demonstrate this double-barreled improvement of farm lands.

Dr. A. J. Nicholson, regional game manager for the Game Department, and Robert Mauermann, an assistant biologist for the Department have been assigned to cooperate with Soil Conservation Service officials on the project.

Seasoned Timber

The athletic contests of the world usually are won by young men. Seldom do we find in men over forty that combination of physical strength, endurance, and speed that makes the champion.

In times of war the men who go "over the top" are young men, as are the men who fly our fighting planes and man our battleships.

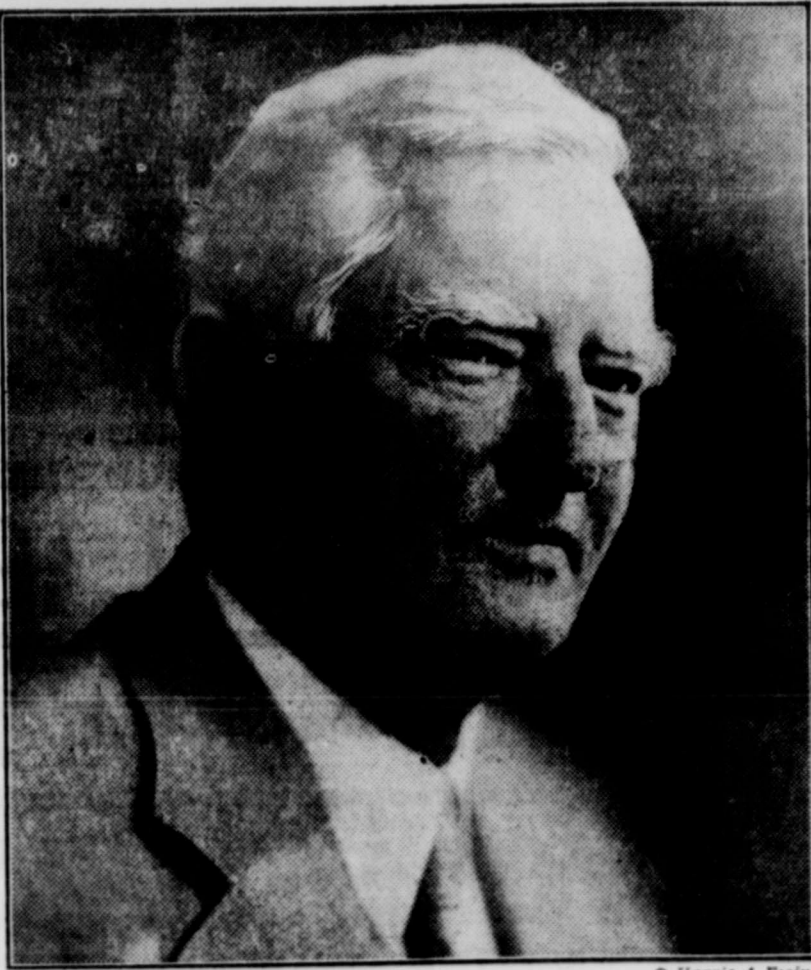

In industry and in business there are certain types of work that can best be done by young men at their zenith in physical dexterity and stamina.

But it is a different matter to outline the policies of a giant corporation; to lead a country at war; to understand and solve the complex problems of a great nation; to be able to win the confidence and the full cooperation of leaders in thought and action. For such important tasks thoughtful persons demand men of broad experience—"seasoned timber."

The biggest job in the world today is the management of the United States of America. Greatest country that it is—in material resources and in the brains to develop them—it has social and economic problems that can be coped with only by a man of keenest insight; knowledge obtained by many years of close touch with governmental affairs; and long study of agriculture, industry, and finance from a national viewpoint.

Virtle, practical, influential, forceful John N. Garner is the man of the hour today. For thirty years in the House of Representatives and for six years in the Vice-President's chair—thirty-six years of power and of leadership—he has fought for constructive liberalism in government; for true democracy; for social justice; for economic independence of the American citizen. Seasoned in statesmanship, he has the wisdom, the practicality, the understanding of men, the insight into great problems, the extraordinary technique of politics, and the human sympathy that only the years can bring—those qualities that this great nation so vitally needs today.

Galileo made scientific discoveries after he was 70.

Henry Ford, at 75, is still improving the Ford car.

Judge Gary, at 83, headed the giant United States Steel Corporation.

Clemenceau, the Tiger of France, guided his war-weary people at 77.

Benjamin Franklin, at 81, helped to frame the American Constitution.

Gladstone, when past 85, was Prime Minister of England.

Justice Holmes, at 90, wrote important and exceedingly clear Supreme Court decisions.

John N. Garner, in his intellectual prime, at 69, is being called to the Presidency in 1940 by all classes of the American people. He has the confidence of the farmer. He has the confidence of the working man in town and country. He has the confidence of the man at the head of an industrial empire and the men of financial power. Vigorous of body and mind, powerful of conviction and courage, wise in the affairs of state, he will carry on all of the sound legislation that has been passed during the term of President Roosevelt.

A great patriot, a great progressive liberal, a great Democrat, a great leader, John Nance Garner will be the next president of the United States!

He Got Back 15 Cents

Just before the opening of the special session of Congress in November, 1937, Vice-President Garner arriving in St. Louis from San Antonio, en route to Washington, made a bee-line for a barber shop.

For 25 minutes, the Vice-President relaxed for a shave at the hands of Dexter Davis, Union Station barber who has had Garner in his chair four of the eight times in recent years he has stopped in St. Louis.

As he left the barber shop, he handed the Negro shine boy a quarter.

"Thank you, suh," smiled the boy.

"That's a quarter," reminded Garner.

"Yes, suh, I know it's a quarter," replied the boy.

"Well, I want some change," Garner demanded.

He got back 15 cents.

POP CALL FROM THE BEN SMITHS

While passing through Stanton Saturday morning from having attended the West Texas Press convention at Pecos, on Friday, Ben Smith of Colorado City, stopped by to greet the editor and do some telephoning. Accompanying him were Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jewel Barrett, local and society editor of the Colorado Record.

Ben had next year's press meeting for Colorado City on his inside pocket, and it was readily discovered by the writer the one important reason for Colorado City lauding the convention. Our introduction to Mrs. Barrett, revealed to us a most charming face and a clever and brilliant mind and the displaying of these attributes among the delegates at the convention as Mrs. Barrett "button-holed" them for their vote, delegates were hypnotized under her magic wand and would have voted for the convention to go to Bagdad, if she'd only said the word.

Of course, there were other representatives from Colorado City at the convention working for their city, but their work and influence were merely a bagatelle, a sort of a small drop in the bucket, compared to the emblazoned picture Mrs. Barrett made upon the voters in the Pecos convention.

Mr. Smith was formerly manager of the Pecos chamber of commerce, resigning this year to take over the management of the Colorado Hotel of which he is also a part owner.

J. K. Barfield this week trucked in from Sanderson 600 lambs. It is drier at Sanderson than in Martin county.

CUTEST BABY CONTEST

WHO IS THE CUTEST BABY IN STANTON?

The Texas Queen Theatre is sponsoring a Baby Show to be held Monday, August 28th, at the local Theatre. The children will be divided into two groups. First group will be infants through three years of age. No special costume is necessary for this group. The second group will be the four and five year old group. This will be a Bathing Beauty Revue and the children are requested to dress in bathing suits or play suits. First, Second and Third prizes will be awarded to each group. First prizes to be Silver Loving Cups. Decision will be made by popular applause. There is positively no charge for contestants and the public is cordially invited to register their babies at the Box Office of the Theatre. Rehearsal will be held Friday, August 25th.

CRUSADE CARAVAN RALLY IN BIG SPRING

Despite unpleasant weather conditions, approximately 160 young people attended the picnic and second meeting of the Crusade Caravan rally held at the First Methodist church in Big Spring, Tuesday, Aug. 8.

Games were led by Miss Harriet Culler of Wolfton, South Carolina, after which a delightful picnic lunch was served by the Women's Missionary Society.

Jack Wilks of Little Rock, Ark., directed a forum following the discussion groups and worship services.

Those attending from Stanton were: Opal Cawthron, Mary Delle Davis, Bernice Cason, Mary Ruth Renfro, Rose Ellen Gibson, Helen Renfro, Frances Renfro and Nina Cason.—Contributed.

Mr. J. A. Wilson and daughter Corrinne and son Albert, and Mrs. Harry Hall, visited friends and relatives at Colorado City, Tuesday.

TOP-FLIGHT STARS ADD FLASH AN FANTASY TO CASA MANANA

THEY HOBKNOB IN SPORTS AND SLACKS IN THEIR OWN CASA DE HOY

Stars and satellites from the nation's stage and screen appearing in the 1939 edition of Casa Manana loom more brilliantly, if possible, than in Reviews of previous years. Each performance surpasses the glamorous spectacle of each preceding night.

What goes on behind the scenes day in and day out is equally as tempting, as amazing, and almost as full of thrills to fans as the big show itself.

What the stars do from midnight after each performance until before the show on the following evening... their goings and comings, is of absorbing interest to all Fort Worth visitors.

Nearly all of them are seen hobknobbing in sports and slacks in and out and around their own casa de hoy, the Worth Hotel. The Worth and host, manager Jack Farrell, make them perfectly at home.

At the Worth you see them as they are—laughing, clowning, in serious or in frivolous mood, some waiting for golf companions outfitted for one of the numerous country clubs. Some in polo togs. Others in from parties, laughingly strolling into the Worth Coffee Shop.

Most any time of day, except during the show, one may enjoy seeing these stage, radio and screen folk, along with top-flight band leaders and musicians, perfectly at home in their Fort Worth home.

Top row pictures: Vivacious, glamorous Martha Raye and orchestra leader Ray Noble, stars of the present show. Insert between them shows mid-section of Casa

6 MILLION MILES a year IN TEXAS without a serious accident

EACH MORNING this Texas telephone man climbs into his blue-gray truck and goes about his job of making telephones talk. Safety rides with him as he drives through city streets and over country highways.

Last year he, and other telephone men in Texas, drove 600 telephone cars and trucks more than six million miles—the equivalent of 241 trips around the world—without a serious accident. There were a few scratched fenders to be sure... but last year's average for minor accidents was only one in 177,000 miles of telephone driving in Texas.

Safe, courteous, considerate driving is an important part of a telephone man's training. Safety, the duty of every good citizen to his community, is one of this company's goals as it goes about its job of furnishing good telephone service at low cost to you.
