

UF Soldiers Set Goalward Trek Of Service Above Self

Haskell's United Fund campaign steering committee was increased from five to ten here last Friday, and Rev. Douglas Finch accepted the titanic task of advancing gifts chairman, as geographic areas of responsibility were assigned by the UF President, Joe Williams at a luncheon planning meeting.

Further crystallization of "march order" plans was made for taking the field here the week of October 28 to speedily achieve a $10,450 goal set by the 1963 Budget Committee headed by Rogers Durham, minister of the Christian Church here.

Prior to the "all out" effort townwide, block by block, to scale the heights and "go over the top" in the United Fund drive here, Rev. Douglas Finch will direct with dedication an advance gifts solicitation for one week and one week only, next week, beginning October 21. The general canvass, from city limit to city limit throughout Haskell will be conducted systematically the week of October 28, immediately following the advance gifts crusade. Rev. Finch, on the eve of the advance gifts contacting, declared, "It is our fervent hope that everyone here will receive our volunteers with open hearts, minds and pocket-books in the knowledge that one gift can work wonders, benefitting so many. The United Way is the ONLY Christian way. I know in my own heart we shall meet the challenge, enough and on time, in this notably humanitarian undertaking. Yes, one gift will work wonders for so many."

Give Generously to Help Others

President Williams called another work session for 7 p. m. Monday to rearrange more than 1,000 cards containing the names of Haskell businesses and individuals by geographic areas for a comprehensive and swift canvass of the town beginning Monday, October 28. Distribution was made at that time of cards to "work."

Enthusiasm for community and christian service was building up here as the kickoff date neared, and the steering group indicated its belief the United Fund goal here will be met without delay.

The following civic workers in Haskell with areas assigned, have been alerted to muster their "troops" for the October 28 push:

Rev. Douglas Finch, east central Haskell; Durham, west central; Porter Oakes, north-east; Mrs. W. A. Lyles, north-west Brooks Middleton, south-west; Williams, southeast; Wayne Bradford and Carl Anderson, business houses; Woody Woodard, outlying rural residents; and Albert Sharp, the Negro community.

Bob Lowrance, chamber of commerce manager, is serving as coordinator for reporting status of the cards worked, funds contributed, and pledges made. Another meeting of drive leaders, together with their block workers, will be held probably Monday morning just prior to the all-out launching of the United Fund campaign here.

NINE EAGLES IN ONE FELL SWOOP—This is the record compiled by the Haskell Boy Scout Troop 36, which Sunday evening held an Eagle Scout Court of Honor at the First Methodist Church for the largest group ever attaining this rank at one time in this area. The previous record was seven held by a Stamford troop. These nine new Eagles all successfully passed their tests for this cherished Scout rank before the Chisholm Trail Council recently in Abilene. They are, bottom row, left to right: Glenn Smart, Tommy Perry, Ray Herren, Patrick Pace. Top row, from left, Bobby Black, Steve Harper, Gene Hester, Paul Hiebert, and Michael Felker.

EDUCATION—of the support the First Baptist Church here in the Christian Education Crusade for Baptists Universities was this check for $2,528.50 given to the University by the church here and presented to Byron Bryant, left, by Alfred Pierson, chairman of the finance committee of the Haskell county-wide CEC gift for Hardin-Simmons University. James H. Landes, president, who had to cancel his plans to come here last Thursday.

Mary Jo Leverett New HD Agent Haskell County

Mrs. Mary Jo Leverett, of Old Glory, has been named home demonstration agent of Haskell County, and the Commissioners' Court here in session Monday certified her appointment. County Judge Jim Alvis announced. She will assume her duties Nov. 1, succeeding Miss Barbara McAnelly, agent here for seven years, who has gone to Breckinridge.

Mrs. Leverett is a former home demonstration agent in Bosque, Coleman, Bexar, and Kerr Counties, and directed successful programs in these counties in all phases of home demonstration and 4-H work, according to Miss Fern Hodge, of Vernon, district agent, who was in Haskell Monday to present Mrs. Leverett's name for consideration before the County Court.

"The agents who succeeded her in those counties say of her work that they still see evidences of strong effort conducted in those counties by Mrs. Leverett," declared Miss Hodge. "At the time she resigned from home demonstration work to teach, she was considered one of the stronger agents in the entire state," Miss Hodge added.

Mrs. Leverett holds a B. S. degree from Southwest Texas State Teachers College, San Marcos, and a master's degree from Abilene Christian College. She is a native of Merkel.

After becoming a homemaker, Mrs. Leverett has taught homemaking in Old Glory School, where her husband, V. E., is superintendent. The Leveretts have four children, Clarence, who teaches in Snyder; V. E., Jr., who is married and lives in Farmington, N. M., and works for El Paso Natural Gas Company; Sharon, a freshman in Lubbock Christian College, and Jimmy, a 7th grader at Old Glory. They are members of the Church of Christ.

Mrs. Leverett will reside in Haskell and will be joined by the family later.

"Since home demonstration is her first love, Mrs. Leverett says she is looking forward to meeting and working with the people in Haskell County," Miss Hodge reported Monday.

It's Cakes Now, Instead of Apples For The Teachers

It was a cake with icing instead of "an apple for the teacher" at Haskell Junior High School Monday.

Monday was "Teacher Appreciation Day" at Haskell Junior High School, and it was a day when the 26 teachers in the school could "have their cake and eat it, too."

Members of the Junior High School Parent-Teachers Association baked a cake for each of the teachers and delivered the yummy tokens of gratitude en masse.

THEIR NUMBERS WILL BE "UP", and let's hope our Indians "have their numbers and that the Indians will be 'WAY UP' when HHS takes on the Winters Blizzards in the latter's wind tunnel tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. Here are a couple of Winters' big weapons, Steve Grissom (40) and Denny Aldridge (41), who are expected to furnish the offensive barrage for the Blizzards. Grissom is an all-area fullback and Aldridge is a converted quarterback who was second-team all-district last year. Haskell and Winters both will be opening the dog-eat-6-AA gauntlet-run for glory. All 6-AA district teams' games will be "in the family" from here on out, and some classic squabbles are on tap. If Haskell has the injury jinx and its Hirsch Huskie wounds sufficiently licked, the Blizzards could be slowed down to a zephyr. It should be a jarrin' ball game.

DUFFER CRAWFORD

Crawfords' Son Is Acclaimed At Plant Dedication

Formal dedication recently in Liberal, Kansas, of the world's largest helium extraction facility, provided the thrill of a lifetime for a pioneer Haskell couple, who were signally honored, along with their son, one of the chief engineers who designed the $50-million plant.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Crawford, of Haskell, were honored guests when their son, Duffer, was recognized for the vital role he played in the building of the National Helium Corporation's facility, a joint venture of the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company and the National Distillers and Chemical Corporation. The 44-year-old engineer (See "Crawfords' Son," P. 12)

The State Supreme Court took under advisement last Wednesday a case protesting the use of city water revenues by the City of Haskell in legal action fighting the Miller Creek Dam project which would provide a water supply for Haskell, Goree, Munday and Rule.

The court heard oral arguments from both sides, and both sides appealed for an early decision in the case to ease tension which has built up in a long drawn out series of legal maneuvers.

Members of a Haskell citizens committee who sat through a third airing of the controversy (the case previously has been heard in district and civil appeals court) before the high tribunal, included R. W. Herren, former president of the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority, Mrs. Herren, Dr. T. W. Williams, Haskell physician and civic leader, and Mrs. Williams. The committee is headed by John Kimbrough, who was not present at Wednesday's hearing. The City was represented in Austin by Mayor J. E. Walling, Jr., and all but two members of the City Council, R. L. Stephenson and Bob Segoe.

The water authority was created by the legislature in 1957 and approved by voters in Haskell and the other member cities. Then the authority obtained a permit from the Texas Water Commission for construction of a 20,000 acre-foot reservoir in June, 1961, for $3.5 million worth of bonds for construction had been voted in 1958.

Haskell city officials lost their first attempt to cancel their participation in the project when their claim that it is unconstitutional for an appointive board of directors to levy taxes went through the Supreme Court and back to the district court. Judge Sterling (See "High Court," Page 12)

Farm Welding Short Course Set Here Next Week

A farm welding short course for adult farmers will be held here October 21-24 under the sponsorship of the Haskell High School Vocational Agriculture Department, according to Supt. of Schools H. T. Wilkinson and Haskell Stone, teacher of vocational agriculture.

Joel R. Barton, welding specialist with the vocational agriculture division of the Texas Education Agency and the Department of Agricultural Engineering at Texas A&M, will be the instructor.

A native of Glasscock County, Barton was raised on a West Texas ranch. He attended grade school in San Angelo and graduated from high school (See "Farm Welding," Page 13)

Jetty Clare New Head Wrangler Sheriff's Posse

Haskell's Sheriff's Posse, riding club of renown, which recently climaxed a most successful rodeo and exposition season with a third place trophy at the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque under the leadership of Head Wrangler Gene Hunter, will be setting saddle with a new retinue of rein-holders for the coming year.

Jetty V. Clare succeeds Hunter as president of the self-styled "Saddle Tramps," which won five first places and finished no lower than third in ten out of twelve rides this year.

Cecil Eager, of Stamford, is the new vice president, and C. O. Holt will serve as secretary of the Haskell riders, succeeding Fred Gilliam.

"Chuck wagon boss will be R. A. Harris, and Otto Baumbach has been tapped for the important chore of parade captain.

New directors elected to serve for one year are: Dr. T. W. Williams, Hunter and Ramon Liles.

In other business, the Sheriff's Posse here decided to look into the prospects of being more "uniform" than ever, and a committee was named to check into acquisition of saddle blankets for their mounts. The committee includes O. L. Crouch, Gladys Webb, L. B. White and Otis Palmer.

Lions Travel To Fabulous Istanbul, Turkey

By way of a "colorful film," Haskell Lions traveled to Turkey Tuesday noon.

Hugh Ratliff, in charge of the program, showed a film titled "The Fabulous Mystery of Modern Turkey."

The very interesting and educational film showed scenic views of the parks, universities, gardens, business scenes, night life, etc., of modern Turkey.

Guests noted at Tuesday's session were Glenn Mabrey of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Pat Smith, Haskell.

Hearts and minds of Haskell citizens will be attuned Thursday to the heartbeat of a neighbor whose agonies and chery manner have defied and denied death for 14 of her 20 years.

Miss Phyllis White, who has knowingly lived with a serious heart condition since she was 6 years old, is expected to undergo surgery in a climax battle for her life at John Seely Hospital in Galveston Thursday morning. Reports received here are that she has "no chance without this surgery, and very little with it."

Miss White has spent an average of two weeks a year, and at one time, three months, undergoing treatment for a complicated heart ailment, for the past 14 years.

A legal secretary for Ratliff and Ratliff, attorneys here, the plucky young lady has been working every day until notified last week she should report to the hospital in Galveston Monday to be prepared for surgery.

Arrangements have been made here for 30 pints of blood which have been requested in connection with the surgery for Phyllis, whose manner, outlook and attitude have endeared her to everyone.

A United Fund source has been provided to make possible the presence at Phyllis' bedside of loved ones who would not otherwise have been able to be with her.

Bill Lane Buys Half Interest In Livestock Auction

Bill Lane, Haskell farmer-rancher, has purchased a one-half interest in the Haskell Livestock Auction from its owner-builder, Tommy Ray Foster, also a Haskell native. It was announced Monday.

Details of the transaction were not disclosed, but it was understood both Lane and Foster will continue the active operation of the well-appointed new facility here as partners.

Foster, 35-year-old farmer-stockman, broke ground for the sparkling six-acre plant with its pen pattern and sale barn seven-tenths of a mile south of Haskell on the Stamford Highway last May.

More than 3,000 people from a wide area were present for the opening sale at the 40x80 auction plant on August 17 when more than 800 cattle and 48 hogs moved through the ring.

Since that time, trade has been brisk here, and the economic impetus provided by cattle buyers and sellers converging on Haskell has been felt all over town.

Some 4,000 cattle now have been sold since opening of the Haskell Livestock Auction, most of them "straight off the farm" types.

The largest number of Scouts to receive Eagle rank in one ceremony in the history of the Chisholm Trail Boy Scout Council were presented their credentials of achievement in a court of honor held here Sunday night before an audience which overflowed the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church of Haskell.

Receiving the awards were Explorer Scouts Michael Felker, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Felker; Steve Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Harper; Bobby Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Black; Gene Hester, son of Post Advisor and Mrs. Ed Hester; Boy Scouts Glen Smart, son of Scoutmaster and Mrs. Edd Smart; Paul Hiebert, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Hiebert; Ray Herren, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Herren; Tommy Perry, son of Assistant Scoutmaster and Mrs. Howard Perry; and Patrick Pace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Pace, Jr. All are members of Haskell Explorer and Scout Posts 36.

Henry McGinty, of Abilene, Chisholm Trail Council executive, introduced Nib Shaw, of Abilene, president of the Chisholm Trail Council; Holland Cogdell, of Abilene, Post Advisor and museum director of Camp Tonkawa; Burr Russell, of Stamford, district representative of the Northern District, Chisholm Trail Council.

Troy Boone, also of Abilene, district executive of the Chisholm Trail Council, recognized all Eagles and Silver Beavers. Edd Smart, Scoutmaster, and assistant Post advisor, recognized the Haskell Troop Committee, comprised of J. A. Bynum, chairman; Joe Harper, C. H. Herren, Bill Ratliff, Sr., Harold Spain, Wallace Stark, R. V. Black, Lee Roy O'Neal, Dr. W. J. Kemp, district chairman of the Northern District; T. A. Barfield, institutional representative and Rev. Ellis A. Todd, pastor of the First Methodist Church, sponsor of the troop.

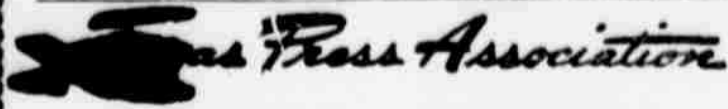

Ed Burnham, school teacher of Coleman, and camp director at Camp Tonkawa for the past years, was the principal speaker at the court of honor. He attended the national Boy Scout jamboree in Colorado in 1960 and plans to attend the 1964 jamboree in Valley Forge, Pa.

Parents of the Eagle Scouts honored their sons, their sons' dates, and out-of-town guests at a banquet in the Texas Cafe following the court of honor. There were 46 present for the occasion. Fall flowers decorated the tables with two gold eagle shaped vases holding flowers at the head table.

Jaycees Cross Goal Line! Haskell Jaycees struck a note for exemplary community service Tuesday night by organizing a new Junior Chamber of Commerce at Bronte. See story, Page 12.

"But A Free Press and A Free People Are Inseparable..."

This is National Newspaper Week, and its observance furnishes cause for a button bustin' feeling of pride for any newspaperman or woman who, if he or she is worth his or her stipend, considers the job, position, slot, whatever the nomenclature, a public trust.

Because a newspaper IS a public trust. And every person working on a newspaper is a key individual in that public trust. The importance of a newspaper's role in a community cannot be minimized. Not only from the standpoint of the part it plays in community affairs, but from its dollars-and-cents value to the community and area it serves as well. Its own payroll is part of the economic mainstream of the town.

At this focusing of attention on National Newspaper Week, we are reminded of the mottoes which adorn the "flags," (tops of Page One), or mastheads of editorial columns of newspapers across the land. Most everyone is familiar with that of the New York Times, long a yardstick of excellence in journalism. "All The News That's Fit To Print."

There are others, lesser known, perhaps, that are indelibly imprinted in our mind. And their meanings and connotations have withstood the changing times and trends through the years.

One is that of the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner which says: "Tyranny govern by declamation, democracies by debate, but a free press and a free people are inseparable."

With this motto, which has been 80 years institutionalized, in mind, it seems significant today to take cognizance of what two of Texas' top government officials have to say about newspapers.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson declared, in connection with this special observance, "Newspapers represent the fundamental freedom of America. And our newspapers are thus charged with the ultimate responsibility of public enlightenment. Without a free press and without a public enlightened by a free press, there can be no such thing as democracy."

And our governor, John Connally, has this to say: "We hear the term 'Freedom of the Press' so much that some consider it a cliché. But it has a deep meaning that should be understood by everyone who hates tyranny, for infringements upon this freedom would be the first step toward loss of our freedom."

The current statements made by the Vice President and Texas' Governor go hand-in-glove with that Nashville Banner motto of eight decades' standing.

Though other public media have come to the fore, there is no substitute for a newspaper. It is probably the most single symbolic entity of the indestructibility of the American way of life.

Another motto sticking in our mind that characterizes many, many newspapers with which we have a reading acquaintance-ship is that of the Amarillo News-Globe and Times, which says, "A newspaper may be forgiven for lack of wisdom, but NEVER for lack of courage."

So, we pause to observe National Newspaper Week, lest we take for granted one of this country's greatest assets, a free, competitive press in a country where there is not one newspaper across the length and breadth of the land whose presses are controlled by the government.

It is meet, therefore, that we think on these things, and that we be grateful.

For some people, some things just don't ever change. Two of them are folks mighty close to us, our Mother and a fellow by the name of Clare.

When we were in the service in World War II, we mentioned in a letter home we were going from Biloxi to New Orleans on a three-day pass. Immediately from our Mother we received a reply that she hoped we got to stay at "the Gruenwald, because that's the best hotel."

We checked New Orleans over, and there ain't no Gruenwald Hotel there. We learned after extensive research that the Roosevelt Hotel was formerly known as the Gruenwald, 30 years before! And we were privileged to put up at the Roosevelt, so all well!

Another time, when we were working on the Nashville Banner, this same lady writes us at Thanksgiving time, and says she knows what her boy is probably going to be doing on Thanksgiving, that if he does like most folks in Nashville, he'll probably "be going to the Vanderbilt - Sewanee football game." Well, even in 1940, when this Mother of mine writes this, Vanderbilt hasn't played Sewanee in years.

Course that doesn't mean we should malign Sewanee, like the sports page headline writer did in a certain nearby daily only last Sunday. Sewanee, once a football power in the South, which has plenty of alumni in this area, beat Austin College, of Sherman. The headline came out that "Shawnee" beat Austin College. Some Okie wrote that headline, without a doubt. But we bet the newspaper's sports department suddenly found out how many alumni there are out here from dear ol' Sewanee, Tennessee, home of the prestigious and picture-book University of South set atop a mountain near Chattanooga.

This other person, under whose roof we now are, Jetty V. Clare (the of the ageless face—see Abilene R-N of last Saturday) also voiced his timeless thoughts while talking briskly the other day of his recent trip to the State Fair. He said, "And when we got back Saturday afternoon from THE CENTENNIAL..."

Well, Sir, it WAS the site of the Centennial, in 1936. Only the name has been changed to bring us up to date.

Speaking of the names and situations being changed, or not changed as time marches on, we couldn't help but be taken back some 12 to 15 years ourselves last Saturday as we were glued to the Texas-OU football game. There was the same Kern Tips providing a word picture of the proceedings down below him in his imitatively graphic manner, and some of the names were the same as they were in Texas-OU ball games of yesterday. Kern's mention of "Harris" (this time, Phil) every other play as the game started, recalled to mind a line-backer of All-American stature by the name of Harris (Dick), now a PR whiz and banking executive, known and beloved by folks all over, and especially here in Haskell.

And the referee of last Saturday's Texas-OU tussle was none other than Burns (Big Mo) McKinney, today one of the best football officials in the business, and it only seems yesterday, a Little All-American type himself as a ghost runner for Hardin-Simmons.

Avid followers of football couldn't help but notice how fellows from this area on both Texas and OU ball clubs fared last Saturday. They were conspicuous by the standout games they played. For Texas, Jim Gambin, a senior guard from Stamford, and Harold Phillip, one of the finest of Olney's products, simply anticulated.

And the only stand-up exercise given the OU fans all afternoon was furnished by Larry Shields and Jim Grisham, Texans from Wichita Falls and Olney, who got recruited into the Sooner camp.

As one of our sports writer pals, Ted Leach, put it, doesn't look like OU will break that Texas University string of victories, now six, until Bud Wilkinson and Company are able to recruit more Texans than Texas does. Because Texas football players simply are superior, Ted says. He couldn't get an argument on that around here, but his paper has lots of circulation across the Raging Red River. He's probably still answering the Oklahoma correspondence right now.

Did you know that we were half-grown before we knew that a Ferris Wheel was not a "Fairy Squeal?" Seeing one in town last weekend reminded us of this unassailable fact. We thought that's what someone told us when we were at a very impressionable age, and didn't everyone who went up in it squeal when they went over the top? Made sense then.

Sometimes we have very tangible examples of the fact that there is not too much new under the sun. Remember the "serials" in the picture shows on Saturdays, where you'd be left hanging off the outside of a Harold Lloyd building top for a week?

Now, this new TV season, we've got some humdingers "in two parts" that leave you "up in the air" like a human fly from one given day of the week to the next.

Thirty-odd years ago, the celebrated Dorothy Parker wrote a poem projecting her situation when she was 77. Now at 70, she was interviewed the other day, and this particular poem was resurrected. The punch line on the poem was, "There is nothing more fun than a man." Wonder if Dorothy received any phone calls.

San Francisco certainly does have a problem in public relations facing the city next spring. They say that sometime soon, it will become necessary to take its fabled cable cars off the tracks for about 40 days to provide a major overhaul for the lines. The poser is whether to tell the world ahead of time just when that's going to be and run the risk of temporarily losing the tourists' trade for a period. Or keeping it quiet and disappointing the folks after they get there. And how is San Francisco going to run 40 days anyway without the cable cars? Puff! Puff!

Rule Tycoon Jim Norman came into the Free Press from the Post Office, announcing he had just "got 1400 bills." Unable to understand his long race, his audience thought it heard him say he "got 1400 bales." Being the operator Norman is, such a declaration wasn't too startling. Just couldn't understand the fallen face.

NEWS for truck owners who need a new one now

Things Chevrolet has developed since the last time you bought to give you more for your money:

Double-wall construction. This feature of Chevrolet cabs and the Fleetside pickup body has two advantages. Insulation and sound-deadening material is sandwiched between the two layers of steel in the cab to give you more comfort; in the body, the lower inner wall acts as a buffer against load damage, preserving the outer appearance of the truck.

Suspension to fit the truck. Conventional half- and three-quarter-ton models have independent front suspension with variable rate coils in the rear. Variable rate coils do not "bottom out" as readily.

Mediums and heavies have I-beam suspension with variable-rate leafsprings. It automatically stiffens as the load increases—and vice versa. It means a smoother, flatter ride regardless of load, a better handling truck.

The right engine. Chevrolet never has been in better position to give you the type and size you need for maximum efficiency. Today there are many different capacities of gasoline and diesel

Chevrolet truck engines—four V8's.

Stronger frames. Every 1964 Chevrolet truck has a load frame. This type is more resilient able to give with the load and its simple design also makes it mount special bodies on the riveted side rails are stronger.

Greater model selection. You're going to find it a simple task to pick the exact type of Chevrolet for the kind of work you do. In trucks, for instance, in addition to the standard models, we have different sizes of ready-made vans, some with full-width rear

Quality and value. Chevrolet are a lot more truck than you bought the last time, and yet tag is just about the same as 50 ago. Call your Chevrolet dealer for information or for a demonstration.

Rotarians Hear Reeves Report On Prison System

A report "from the inside" of the Texas Department of Corrections along with presentation of salient statistics on the activities of the state prison system, particularly the 11 prison farms, was made to Haskell Rotarians last week by Haskell County Clerk W. W. (Bill) Reeves.

Reeves, a former employee of the Department of Corrections, said the population of the prison system in Texas has grown from 8,000 to 14,000 persons in custody in the 10-year period from 1953 to 1963.

The Haskell county clerk described the prison program as a $21,000 a day, or better than $7,000,000 a year operation. He declared, however, that the efficient administration of the chain of farms and the State Prison at Huntsville has made the prison system almost completely self-supporting. With all the work performed, livestock, poultry, produce, and traps raised, Reeves said the "upkeep" of a prisoner in Texas is $1.56 per day per inmate.

Two former Haskell citizens, Bob Cousins, former sheriff here, now warden of the Darrington Prison Farm, and Byron Frierson, assistant general manager for livestock in the system, were cited by Reeves for the exemplary jobs they are doing for the State.

The speaker, who worked in the livestock division for several years, said he had a mistaken idea before seeing things "on the inside" of the "image" of a prisoner. "I thought most of them would be men getting up in years a little," said Reeves, "but the startling thing about it is that 40 per cent of the prison population is under 24 years of age."

Posing the question of what to do to prevent "a man getting into trouble," Reeves called attention to the fact that "school dropouts seem to have been a No. 1 problem among prisoners, and, too, 17 per cent of them are illiterate, and it's almost impossible to 'get through' to them."

Reeves also showed slides of the prison farm operations and other facilities in the system. He was introduced by Rev. Ellis A. Todd, program chairman. Rotarians from Westfield, N. J., and Sweetwater were visitors. Ira Hester, president, was in charge of the meeting.

port company, "Air America." He said his outfit with 190 pilots and 90 airplanes had but 300 ground support people. In the military service, the same number of planes and pilots would necessitate "10,000 support people."

McDonough couldn't say too much in praise of this nation's special forces, the brush-fire type warfare trained personnel in Southeast Asia. "They're the kind of boys who can go hunting with a switch," he said.

One incident of the "cageyness" of the Communists was forcefully conveyed by his personal experience of having transported sacks of rice, only half filled so they wouldn't burst open when dropped from an airplane at a low altitude. He said he had been dropping rice to hungry Laotian troops all day only to learn near day's end that the bags had "U.S.-S.R." stenciled upon them and contained a note declaring the rice was a "present from the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics." An investigation after he took the matter to the U. S. Military Advisory Group revealed approximately 35 of the 120 tons of sacked rice in a warehouse where the rice was obtained had been stenciled by "commies who stole into the place at night."

McDonough concluded with ringing endorsement of the "go native" posture of the Peace Corps as opposed to the swank living of State Department personnel. "If we leave the Peace Corps alone, they'll know the countries to which they go so well, in 10 years we won't need a room filled with interpreters." The Peace Corps can be our most effective diplomatic corps, he declared.

Rotarian R. A. Lane was the program chairman at Haskell Rotary, and President Ira Hester had charge of the meeting.

795,213 disabled persons received social security checks of $71,888,000 for July, 1963.

Medical Center Expansion Is A Possibility

Haskell's medical center, which has mushroomed on both sides of State Highway 24 on the west side of town, could include a pharmaceutical supply house if the efforts of the Haskell County Hospital administrator bear fruit, Rotarians here learned at a recent weekly meeting.

A. J. (Cotton) Foster, a native of this area, who recently returned here to become hospital administrator, reported progress made on the possible location of a pharmaceutical warehouse here as an integral part of the medical center facilities now humming in Haskell.

Due to our central location for pharmaceutical salesmen serving the Abilene, Wichita Falls, Lubbock territory, one such representative already has located here," Foster said, "and there's a lot to be said for setting up a base of operations here for this allied medical service."

Foster, reporting on the activities in the medical center that he heads, the hub, told Rotarians and their guests, one of whom was Rotarian Lee Hemphill, vice president of Hardin-Simmons University, he sees "lots of progress during the 10 years I was gone from my home town."

He cited the indispensable role insurance companies are playing in keeping an imbalance in hospital operations. He estimated that insurance of patients covers "92 per cent of the financial load at our hospital." With a sharp rise in medical expenses in every phase of hospital operation, the insurance source of financial help has been a blessing, Foster said.

Proof of the Haskell County Hospital place in the life of the community is the statistical summary of its patient population, Foster declared. A total of 1,041 patients have been cared for in the hospital since January 1.

Describing increasing support of and public interest in the medical facilities here, Foster declared, "There's no reason why we can't continue to gain recognition in this realm of service."

The hospital administrator said it would be his aim to do everything possible in his present responsible position to continue to develop facilities for "finer patient care here."

Ira Hester, president of Rotary, announced that Haskell Rotarians plan to trek to Hamlin Wednesday, Oct. 16, to join Rotarians there for a fellowship meeting at Hamlin's weekly luncheon.

Haskell Rotary ranked seventh in attendance in this 41-club Rotary district with a 94.8 per cent average, Hester said.

Eldon Anderson introduced visiting Rotarians and guests.

A message from Mrs. Byron Frazier, president of the Haskell County Hospital Women's Auxiliary, expressed gratitude to the Rotary club here for its

FURNITURE and APPLIANCES
Haskell, Texas

Mrs. J. U. Fields Honored With Surprise Shower On Doubly Significant Occasion

Mrs. J. U. Fields, a president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs almost 40 years ago, and a member of the 61-year-old Magazine Club here for 53 years, was signally honored Saturday as she began her third term as president of the venerated federated organization.

The salute given this "grand dame" among clubwomen in Texas was doubly significant. It was the diamond anniversary of her birth, and her many friends here took cognizance of the important milestone in her life, surprising her with a big birthday cake and a deluge of cards.

In addition, the occasion marked the reopening of a renovated and repaired Magazine Club building on Avenue E, Haskell's main stem, which suffered heavily in a devastating tornado which slashed across Haskell on May 26, 1962.

MRS. J. U. FIELDS

A green brunch was served at the house warming and inspection.

Mrs. Hill Oates introduced special guests, which included Mrs. R. W. Herren, president of the Mesquite District, TFWC, and Mrs. J. H. Strain gave the invocation.

Mrs. J. G. Vaughter, in a moving tribute to Mrs. Fields' numerous accomplishments, compared her to Follow Townsman Charles Bates Thornton, one of Ford Motor Company's "whiz kids," whose life was the subject of a cover story for Time Magazine last week.

"You know," declared Mrs. Vaughter, "most women retire at 62, but not Mrs. Fields." The speaker enumerated the fact that she learned to drive a car and obtained her driver's license after that age following the death of her husband, took over the management of four farms plus many other business activities, studied the stock market and started making investments.

"The exciting part about it is that she has made money in all of them," Mrs. Vaughter reported.

Summing up the indefatigable schedule of "this remarkable woman," Mrs. Vaughter said, in church or community work, in business, travel, wherever Mrs. Fields is, things happen.

She makes them happen and that's why the Magazine Club of Haskell thinks it will probably have the "most special year" of its three score plus existence with peppy Mrs. Fields at the wheel and possessing a very special license to drive. She knows the road pretty well.

Mrs. D. A. Jones Is New President Of Sunshine Sewing

A new slate of officers was recently installed at the first fall session of the Sunshine Sewing Club of Haskell, meeting at the home of Mrs. Trudy Wheeler.

The officers and the responsibilities assigned are: Mmes. D. A. Jones, president; Frank McCurley, vice president; Virgil Brown, secretary; T. A. Rhoads, treasurer; Dolla Ashley, song leader; John McMillin, recreation chairman; Alice Ballard, parliamentarian; John Fouts, pianist; Charles Smith, card and flower chairman; and Orvelia Holland, reporter.

Meeting dates for the Sunshine Sewing Club have been changed to the first and third Tuesdays of the month.

Games were directed at the recent get-together by Mrs. McMillin.

Members present were Mmes. Brown, McCurley, Ballard, Rhoads, Jones, McMillin and the hostess, Mrs. Wheeler.

Weinert Matrons Have "Frontiers Of Living" Theme

Weinert Matrons Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Fred Monke for a coffee. Invocation was given by Mrs. W. A. King, Mrs. P. F. Weinert, president, welcomed members. Mrs. Weinert is serving the club for the 4th time as president, since the club was organized in 1923. Mrs. Fred Monke give a "roundup" of programs for the new club year. Theme for the year is: "Frontiers of Living."

The club voted to observe "tag day," a project of GFWC for a museum at Independence Hall, Philadelphia.

Mrs. R. C. Liles, recording secretary-treasurer, Mesquite District, reported on the board meeting in Austin, Tuesday.

Mrs. Fred Monke dismissed the meeting with a prayer. Eighteen members attended.

The next meeting will be October 17 in the home of Mrs. M. W. Phemister, Mrs. R. W. Raynes will direct a program on "Federation."

Hostesses with Mrs. Monke were Mrs. P. F. Weinert and Mrs. W. A. King. Members attending were: Mmes. P. F. Weinert, H. W. Liles, J. F. Cadenhead, C. G. Gary, Henry Vojkufka, L. D. Moore, L. H. Cooper, W. C. Winchester, M. W. Phemister, J. W. Liles, Frank Oman, M. R. Boykin, W. A. King, W. I. Coggins, W. B. Guess, R. W. Raynes, R. C. Liles and Fred Monke.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Robeson, of Rule, Mark 50th Milestone of Unusual Wedding

An impassable stream was between the clergyman and the young couple for whose wedding he was to officiate in the home of the bride-elect's parents.

But powerful Mother Nature meets few forces more obstinate than a young man in love. An open house Sunday afternoon marked the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the wedding for which that swollen stream merely caused a change in plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Robeson of Rule were the honorees at the Golden Wedding fete hosted by their daughters and their families.

The hosts were Mrs. Rosa True, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Howell, of Rule, Mr and Mrs. Jas. Riley, Spearman, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jenkins of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Fulbright and Bonnie Robeson of Arlington and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Pierce of Old Glory.

Excerpts from an account of the Robeson's wedding published in the Baylor County Banner 50 years ago include the following:

ROBESON AND ALEXANDER

"A wedding out of the ordinary. The bride and groom stood upon a beautiful green knoll on the bank of Miller Creek, surrounded by nature's over-decoration of waving foliage, with the blue canopy of heaven above. They were attended by a group of friends.

"On the opposite bank of the creek was the officiating minister, the Rev. J. B. Reynolds, with another group of friends.

"When the time came... the minister in a very pleasing and impressive manner, repeated the marriage ceremony pronouncing them man and wife. The minister and group of friends standing with him, extended their congratulations verbally across the swollen stream, promising the hands of congratulations picture of a bride. The faces radiant with bright anticipation for the future, with the novel surroundings, made this not only a pleasing, but a very impressive scene.

"To explain this out of the looking quite handsome, and the bride attired in her pure white wedding gown was indeed a lovely and attractive later.

"This was a pleasing picture. The groom in his conventional black suit, was ordinary wedding with its peculiar environments: The marriage was to have been at the home of the bride's parents, Sunday afternoon, October 5. When the time (for the wedding) came, Miller Creek, which separated the homes of the minister and groom from that of the bride, was too full to be crossed by the minister in his buggy. After a few moments of deliberation and consultation, a new program was planned. The groom decided to cross the stream on horseback; bringing the bride to the water edge.

"The groom, Mr. Ed Robeson, is a prosperous young farmer of Bonarton vicinity. The bride, Miss Minnie Alexander, is the daughter of R. M. Alexander of Miller Creek community."

One hundred-fifty guests attended the open house in Rule honoring the couple. They included visitors from Haskell, Abilene, Breckenridge, Graham, Fort Worth, Vernon, Weinert, Old Glory, Pampa, Gainesville and Rule.

Mrs. Robeson was born in Marysville Oct. 31, 1893. Mr. Robeson was born in Woodvine Aug. 2, 1891. They were married Oct. 5, 1913.

Residents of Rule since 1941, they are members of the Church of Christ.

'Aunt Becky' Atchison Says She Feels No Older At 90 Than She Did 50 Years Ago

"Aunt Becky" Atchison just "piffled" and "pshawed" and "piffled" and "pshawed" again, but sixty-two relatives and friends still came calling on a recent Sunday in recognition of her nonagenarian status.

Mrs. Walter Atchison, "adoringly addressed as "Aunt Becky" for many years, was 90 years old September 19. The party honoring her was a few days later in order that more relatives could be there. She was born September 19, 1873, at Valley Mills in Bosque County.

Honoring Aunt Becky were children, Mmes. Hallie Chapman, W. D. Gilleland, Atchison and Pete Mercer, all of Haskell; Mrs. Raymond Pace, of Goree, and Mrs. Edna Maps, of Modesto, Calif.

Asked how she felt about reaching four score and 10 years, sharp-minded Aunt Becky declared perkily, "I don't feel one bit older than I did 50 years ago." Accompanying her emphatic answer was a look as if to convey, "What's all this fuss over me all about anyway?"

The party, complete with a huge cake saying, "Happy 90th Birthday," was in the home of Mrs. Atchison's youngest daughter, Mrs. Pete Mercer, wife of Haskell County's chief deputy sheriff here, at 1101 N. Avenue G.

The nonagenarian married Walter Atchison on August 10, 1890, in Bosque County. They made their home there and in Martin County before coming to Haskell County in 1909. She has been quite a fixture around here for the past 54 years.

Rotarians Here Break Bread With Hamlin Brethren

Haskell Rotarians, 26 strong, the entire membership of the service club here, planted 52 traveling feet under the 52 luncheon tables with members of the Hamlin Rotary Club in a fellowship link Wednesday noon, Ira Hester, president of the club here, has announced.

The pilgrimage to Hamlin took the place of Haskell Rotary's regular meeting here on Thursday.

Hester said that hopes are that a "reciprocal visitation agreement" may be worked out for "soon and often."

A "Rotarian-to-Rotarian, club-to-club, district-to-district relationship" throughout Rotary International is a part of the worldwide policy of Rotary being prosecuted by the International president, Carl Miller.

The seed on the local level was planted recently during a visit to this area by Dr. J. Harold Farmer, district governor of District 570 of Rotary, comprising 41 clubs in North Central-Northwest Texas.

Hamlin has been paired with Haskell in the Rotary fellowship pattern of club-to-club, and these two clubs together have a "matching" club with which the aim and object is for them to get acquainted in a Rotary district just west of Mexico City in Mexico.

The club with which Haskell and Hamlin are to arrange exchanges of correspondence, information and even personal visits, is at Zacapa, Mexico.

This same system of pairings by clubs and districts in this country with clubs and districts in other countries throughout the world is being operated with enthusiasm by Rotary International this year.

Careless Weed Is "Cousin" To Jack's Beanstalk

Probably one of the "most careless" careless-weeds ever turned loose in this territory was brought to the Haskell Free Press office last Wednesday morning by H. K. Henry, manager of the Haskell Co-Op Gin Company.

With a diameter ranging from four and a half to five inches, the "weed," which was more like a tree trunk, grew on the farm of Albert Barnett, Jr., 7 miles northwest of Haskell.

"Jack's beanstalk would have had to extend itself to outgrow this specimen," Henry declared.

The gin operator said it was the kind of a weed a "cotton picker could hang his water jug on in the morning and have to climb to get it that night."

Haskellite Enrolls At Southwest State In San Marcos

Kathie Dornier of Haskell was among the record 3,850 students to register for the fall semester at Southwest Texas State College.

FUND ESTABLISHED TO ASSIST TB Association LONG SUFFERING LADY HERE

Patrons in Haskell and transients in this area no doubt have missed the engaging smile and contagious personality of Mrs. Mary Jane Brown, who for a long time has faithfully waited on customers at the Texas Cafe here and worked for more than 20 years to educate her children.

Mary Jane, like folks at every turn, has had her proportionate share of suffering. She would be the last person to discuss it. Suffice it to say, it has been a full measure.

Mary Jane Brown Fund Grows Contributions to the Mary Jane Brown Fund have been received from the following: Huey Bledsoe, $5; Garth Garrett, $5 per month by bank draft; Lucretia Brooks, $5; Walter Adams, $1; Mrs. R. V. Black, $1; Opal Rose, $5; Joseph C. Williams, $5; Mrs. Lee Brown, trip to Abilene once weekly for Mary Jane for rehabilitation treatment. Contributions may be made to Abe Turner, cashier, Haskell National Bank.

But the last blow struck at this person of exemplary fortitude has aroused the genuine sympathy of those who are familiar with her circumstances. Crippling amyotrophic lateral sclerosis has stolen its way into her hardy frame, but the smile still is there, radiating from a wheelchair, even though Mary Jane must be suffering "more than most of us will ever be called upon to bear," in the words of one of her dearest friends.

Mary Jane is unaware of the appeal which is being made in her behalf. If she knew, she would do everything in her power to stop it. But she needs material help to fight the thing which has gripped her. Experience with the disease has taught others that a few, not many, tangible accessories, such as a juicing machine with which to provide health giving nourishment to her plagued body, can add time and comfort to her remaining years.

At the instance of those who know how great is her need for these life-sustaining things, and how deserving is this courageous woman, a special fund is being set up at the Haskell National Bank here to accept contributions of those who might care. Abe Turner, cashier of the bank, has been named custodian for the "Mary Jane Brown Fund" at the bank here.

As one very close to her, who has been, and is giving, her all for Mary Jane, said Saturday, "We who gave a little to her and others like her in need, are giving a little for Christ who gave His all for us."

A. L. Conners Tell A Fish Story Already Packaged

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Conner have returned home after two weeks spent in Southern California, visiting in San Diego with their daughter, Gladys, their grandson, Ray and son-in-law Grady Cozby, Jr. who is an associate with Loch Crane and Associates, architects. They toured Los Angeles and a sizeable area across the border in Old Mexico. A memorable visit was made to the San Diego zoo, one of the nation's largest where guided bus tours enabled the Conners to see animals in their natural environment.

The weather "acted up" and so did the terra firma, literally, while the Conners were there. They were present in San Diego for the strongest earthquake of the year, a six minute tremor which swayed electrical fixtures like hammocks. They also were "treated" with a heat wave when the thermometer hit 111 degrees, highest in San Diego since 1913.

Their description of the worst smog in San Diego history reminded of Bob Hope's weekend quip in Dallas in which he said he blew smoke rings all day long one day last week without even having to smoke.

Mr. and Mrs. Conner and Grady went deep sea fishing and Mr. Conner won a family fish catching derby, pulling in the biggest barracuda, and 11 bonitas, a type of tuna.

The story sounds fishy, but they swear this is true: The bonitas were traded right at the site of the catch to a cannery which gave them canned tuna to bring home in exchange for the fresh product they had caught.

The Conners also enjoyed sightseeing in New Mexico and Arizona on their trip.

Funeral Held For Ex-Teacher, Pastor At Rule

Funeral for the Rev. Jack D. Wester, 64, father of an Abilene newspaperman and a former Haskell County teacher and pastor, was held Thursday afternoon at the First Baptist Church in Normangee, where he had been pastor for the past 8½ years. Burial was at Bryan, Texas.

Rev. Wester died early Wednesday at John Sealy Hospital at Galveston after a six-month illness. He entered the hospital August 19.

From 1948 until 1955, the Rev. Wester served as pastor of Pinkerton Baptist Church northwest of here. He also taught in the Rule Public School system, where he was head of the English and history departments and was a state in honoring their Grand President, Fritz Schilo, in this, the final month of the organization's "Team Action" membership drive.

He completed 30 years of teaching in 1955 and in that year the Rule High School yearbook, "The Bobcat," was dedicated to him. He had been preaching for 19 years.

Born August 16, 1899, at Strawn, he married Rosanell Gray on May 26, 1933.

One son, Mike, joined the sports staff of the Abilene Reporter-News recently, moving there from San Antonio.

Survivors include his wife; two other sons, Pat, of Fort Davis, and the Rev. Don Wester, of Rush Springs, Oklahoma; six grandsons and one granddaughter.

Prattle

By AL HINDS

Prattler's Prophecy: Out of my pre-game predictions involving teams in the Southwest Conference for last weekend contests, I picked five correct out of a possible six, missing only one, giving me a batting average of .833. I took some ribbing when I came out and picked SMU over Navy and Texas over Oklahoma, but when the final whistle had sounded, both the Ponies and Longhorns came through with flying colors. The big shot dopsters said SMU and Texas couldn't cut the mustard, but they did.

For this weekend contests involving the Haskell Indians and teams in the Southwest Conference, I see it like this: Haskell 13, Winters 6. I think the Indians will be up for this one.

TCU over A&M. The Froggies are on the way up. I saw TCU throttle Texas Tech in Lubbock last Saturday night and predict the Froggies will have to be reckoned with before the curtain comes down on Southwest Conference play. Texas over Arkansas. Too much Steer.

Baylor over Texas Tech. Don Trull and company will be too much for the Red Raiders. SMU over Rice. Could go either way, but I can't quit the Ponies now.

Some years ago the West Texas Publisher Magazine published an article which pointed out some of the woes and tribulations of a newspaper man. I do not remember just exactly how it went, but it was something like this: Consider the newspaper publisher. A child is born to the wife of a merchant in the town. The physician getteth 10 plunks. The newsman writteth a stick and a half and telteth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a cigar. Behold the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the newsman putteth into his paper a swell notice. He telteth of the wisdom of the young woman and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron pign. And the newsman gets a note of thanks from the sweet girl graduate.

And the daughter goeth on a journey. And the reporter throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture postcard that costeth six for a jitney.

Behold, she returneth, and the youth of the town fall down and worship. She picketh a roman. But the newsman call-eth him one of our promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send in to the newsman a bid to the wedding, and behold the bids are rushioned in a far city. Flowery and long the wedding notice which the newspaperman printeth. The minister getteth 10 bones. The groom standeth the paper man off for a 12 months' subscription.

All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered unto the soil. The minister getteth his bit. The newsman printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a cart of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head, and the darned thing cometh out, "Gone to her last roasting place."

And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the newsman with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subscriptions, and they swing the hammer even unto the third and fourth generations.

Mark Twain once said "It usually takes more than three weeks to prepare a good impromptu speech."

This one comes from Rey R. N. Tucker, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Weimert. A housewife baked some prime pies and placed them in the window to cool. Five crows sitting on a pump handle looked the situation over and decided to sample the pies. The first crow flew over, ate his fill of a prune pie, flew back to the pump handle then fell over dead. Another Crow also perched on the window sill, ate his share of the prune pie, flew a short distance, then flopped to the ground dead as a door-knob. The other three crows followed the same pattern as the first two, and also died immediately after eating some of the prune pies. All five Crows lay dead but the moral of this story is "When you are full of prunes, don't fly off the handle."

Bronte Organizes After Mass Trek By Jaycees Here

Eight Haskell Jaycees, in a mass pilgrimage to Bronte on Tuesday night, assisted an enthusiastic group of 31 young men in that community in organizing a Junior Chamber of Commerce to serve their town.

Chartering procedures in Bronte are going on schedule, the extension-minded Jaycees here reported, and Wayne Dunnam, a Haskell native, now working with West Texas Utilities in Bronte, Tuesday night was elected first president of the Bronte Jaycees.

Haskell's contingent will return to Bronte next Wednesday night at 8:15 to continue their counseling in getting the organization off to a solid start. Making the trip from here Tuesday night were Bill Tomlinson, T. J. Ballard, James Franklin, inter-club director, who set up Haskell-Bronte alignment; Billy Jack Ray, state director; Allen Rieves, Glen Sammons, Wayne Bradford and Virgil Cobb.

High Court--

Williams held that the Authority was validly organized.

A second attempt is now under way in which Mayor Walling and the Council charge the Texas Water Commission did not have authority to grant the construction permit. This case is set for hearing in 126th District Court in Austin on Dec. 3. Upholding of the water commission could clear all legal barriers to dam construction unless another maneuver is launched by the City of Haskell.

The citizens' group here, Kimbrough et al, are appealing a decision in the 11th Court of Civil Appeals in Eastland holding that the city can spend tax money in a lawsuit.

William C. Clark, of Lubbock, citizens' group attorney, Wednesday insisted the Eastland court should have sent the case back to Haskell County for a new hearing on the Kimbrough group's plea for an injunction against the city.

Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert said, "to give you an idea of the problem we are wrestling with," the Supreme Court has not been able to find "evidence about the city's contract with the water authority, about the manner in which the water project permit was granted, or the how and why of the city's legal expenses."

Clark, who was temporarily replacing another member of the firm, Warlick Carr, of Lubbock, as the citizens' group attorney at the Austin hearing due to Carr's inability to be present because of a death in the family, admitted the statement of fact "rather sketchy," but pointed to evidence that the city officials here had admitted to spending $900 for counsel from the Austin law firm of Powell, Raubbut, McGinnis, Reavley and Lockridge to sue the state water commission.

James W. Wilson, member of the City of Haskell's Austin law firm, called Clark's approach to the dam controversy "emotional" and said "dams are good, lipso facts, just like mothers and flags."

Wilson said the people here who are trying to keep Mayor Walling and his City Council from spending public money on the water battle would win out in the long run unless the Supreme Court settles this case in time for the city to prepare its district court case against the water commission. At a date setting hearing in Austin in September before the 126th District Court, Wilson said he would need the testimony of experts.

Upon questioning by Judge Calvert, Wilson suggested that "a less ambitious" water project might not be objectionable to the city in the future.

A Supreme Court decision on the tax money use arguments is not expected before two or three months, the average waiting time on such rulings.

THREE SCOUTS GET "GOD AND COUNTRY" AWARDS AT CHURCH

Two members of Haskell Boy Scout Troop 36 and one from Paint Creek Troop 48 on Sunday were the recipients of "God and Country Awards," second only to Eagle rank as a cherished achievement in Scouting, at the regular worship service of the First Presbyterian Church.

The award presentations to three members of this church, Randy Wiseman, Gene Hester and Tommy Perry, preceded by only a few hours the presentation of Eagle Scout rank to the latter two in a Court of Honor at the First Methodist Church. Young Wiseman, 18, became one of the youngest Eagle Scouts in this area last May in a ceremony at Paint Creek.

For the trio of Scouts from this area, the God and Country Award was the climax of 11 months of diligent work under the watchful eye and expert supervision of Rev. Douglas Finch, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here. Rev. Finch directed their study of the Bible, the administration of the church, and its institutions, colleges and universities, of the church, and its missions.

During the dates of the short course, Barton will be available to assist farmers with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, Stone said.

Farmers interested in attending the short course should write or call Supt. Wilkinson or Mr. Stone at Haskell High School. An entry fee of five dollars will be charged. Farm Welding Short Course certificates will be presented to each enrollee who attends all sessions.

gineer is associated with the M. W. Kellogg Company which designs and constructs oil refineries and chemical plants.

At the opening of the huge helium extraction plant, Charles H. Zimmerman, director of aeronautical research programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, declared, "Helium is indispensable to the nation's space program."

The NASA official said that helium is used in cryogenics, a super cold process which liquefies gases; in cryopumping, for producing high vacuums quickly; in "Laser," a new electronic device for space navigation and tracking; and for pressurizing fuel tanks of the X15 research plane and space launch rockets.

National Helium Corporation's Liberal plant is private industry's answer to challenges in the National Helium Act of 1960, declared National's president, F. J. McElhatton to the 400 persons assembled at the dedication. He said that instead of leaving the conservation project to the federal government, "the cooperative course has been followed and will pay dividends to the American people."

A former Haskell resident, who finished high school here in 1937, who has gained widespread recognition for his engineering achievements, Duffer Crawford was born August 3, 1919, in an oil camp in Ranger. He came to Haskell with his parents and other members of the family in 1925. He entered Texas Tech with a major in chemical engineering and received his BS degree in 1941.

Along with advancing in formal education, Crawford picked up valuable experience with the Elliott Company of Jeannette, Pa., Air Products Company, of Allentown, Pa., and Standard Oil in highly technical laboratory work.

In 1968, Air Products Company sent Crawford to England, to make some adjustments on a plant it had built there. Completing a scheduled two-year job in 16 months, Crawford, together with his wife and three children, was given a bonus and two months paid vacation on the Continent.

Of their places of honor at the recent dedication in Liberal the elder Crawford, staunch civic leader in Haskell, declared, "We were wine and dined, thrilled and filled, but never billed, and it was a memorable experience in every conceivable way."

TEXAS' 'STATUE OF LIBERTY' HAS OWN INTRIGUING PAST

When the eyes of the world were focused upon Texas 75 years ago last month at dedication of the imposing pink granite Capitol, some 10,000 pairs of eyes in Austin gazed skyward in awe at the statue of the Goddess of Liberty which adorns the top of the dome.

Luke Proctor, retired state employe, of Haskell, who served for 21 years with the Texas Game & Fish Commission, propitiously pointed to the picture which adorns the current issue of the "Texas Public Employee," official publication of the "Texas Public Employees' Association. It is a copy of a picture made on February 28, 1888, showing the Goddess of Liberty, sometimes also called less formally, "The Old Lady," respectfully, "The Old Lady," as "she" stood on the Capitol lawn, surrounded by a crowd, before being raised to her perch atop the Capitol.

Although no mention is made concerning the anniversary of the dedication, the "Texas Public Employee's" editors tell an intriguing story, apparently gleaned from the Archives Division of the State Library, about "The Old Lady." The original picture reproduced was loaned to the State by Col. William C. Lindley, son-in-law of Mr. Thomas Hood, through the courtesy of State Senators Dorsey Hardeman and Wardlaw Lane.

WW I Vets Ranks Fast Thinning, Persons Reports

Haskell Barracks 1816, Veterans of World War I, and its Women's Auxiliary, was represented by three delegates last weekend at the Thirtieth District fall meeting of the organization in the Veterans' Memorial Building in Nocona.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave H. Persons, of Haskell, and A. R. Lee, of Rule, participated in the all-day meeting at which 64 veterans and 58 ladies were registered.

W. R. Davidson, 13th District Commander, of Olney, presided, and District Attorney Jack Hightower, of Vernon, was principal speaker. Rev. Paul Thompson conducted a memorial service, and Past National Bugler Arthur Anthony, who was bugler for General Pershing during World War I, played Taps. A chuck wagon dinner was served by Nocona Barracks 1263 and its Auxiliary to the delegates assembled.

Munday was chosen as the site for the next district meeting in May, 1964.

In connection with the memorial service, a report was returned here by Persons stating that 968 veterans and 62 Auxiliary members from Texas attended the 1963 national convention of Veterans of World War I in Detroit, and that 7,088 veterans and 182 Auxiliary members have died during the past year. Summarizing his report, Persons declared, "Veterans of World War I and their wives are rapidly answering the last roll call. Those living are three score years plus."

TEXAS' 'STATUE OF LIBERTY' HAS OWN INTRIGUING PAST

Each gin pole used in the construction of the Capitol had a mast 45 feet in height and a boom 45 feet in length. At the base of every gin pole was a donkey steam engine which operated the derricks used for hoisting operations. These little steam engines were each capable of lifting 12,000 pounds at a time.

Original plans, the report says, called for a statue to be cast in zinc with a center post of wrought iron and a star coated with two layers of 19-carat gold leaf. There was never any gold on the star, but the plans may have been altered to cut expenses.

The height of the Lady has been in dispute, but the most accepted figure is 14 feet from head to toe, and another five feet to the top of her Texas Star.

A letter from J. L. Mackrell, a worker at the Capitol, credited Al Friedley as being a "wizard on making statuary lions, dogs, deer, eagles, and all kinds of ornaments," Mackrell describes how the molds were made from plaster, then cast into zinc. He described the shop as a two-story box affair in the southeast corner of the basement "where I think the Old Lady was made of zinc. You can tell all that the old gal was raised of zinc in the basement of the Capitol and is a real Texan."

A letter from another workman, Alfred E. Monn, said, "the statue was sent here already. It is a real Texan."

Background of the Goddess of Liberty or Old Lady atop the dome holding aloft the five-pointed Texas Star is as "mysteriously dark as her presence is light," the article declares.

She stands 311 feet above the ground, her stern eyes gazing south down Congress Avenue.

The name, Old Lady, was supplied by workmen who helped erect her, for the workmen felt she has the face of an elderly woman.

This much is known, according to the editors of "The Texas Employee," about Texas' Goddess of Liberty: She was cast of zinc in several sections in a basement workshop in the Capitol while the building was under construction. She was erected on Feb. 28, 1888. Two men, Al Friedley and Herman Vosheff, were responsible for getting her set on her lofty perch. Gustave Johnson was "wedged as assistant to the head derrick rigger," tied the knot in the rope that hauled the Goddess of Liberty by a derrick to the top of the dome. Johnson still lives in Austin, and he celebrated his 97th birthday just recently on April 22.

An iron ring embedded in heavy concrete and used to anchor a guywire for one of the 16 gin poles atop the Capitol while the Goddess was hoisted skyward may still be seen in place on the Capitol grounds in front of the Architects Building.
