SURVEY START 'HEALTHY' WITH DOSAGE OF HISTORY-TOURISM

Administered equal "dosage" of verbal vitamins potently packed with heritage and tourism by two eminent doctors, one an accomplished historian and educator, the other a prominent physician and self-appointed "doctor of enterprise" for projects benefitting Haskell and West Texas, a group of dedicated Haskell County citizens made long-range plans for a "healthy" future here Tuesday night. The occasion was the launching of the Haskell County Historical Survey, modus operandi of which was set in motion recently by County Judge Jim Alvis with the appointment of Mrs. Tom Barfield, respected citizen here, as overall chairman. At Mrs. Barfield's called initial session, Dr. Rupert Richardson, of Abilene, president emeritus of Hardin-Simmons University and immediate past president of the Texas Historical Survey Committee, of which he was a founder in 1953, and Dr. T. W. Williams, Haskell doctor and longtime work-horse in the pasture development that is West Texas, both injected stimulating shots-in-the-arm to the folks facing the titanic task ahead. Principal objective of the Haskell County Historical Survey headed by Mrs. Barfield is to harness the wagon of heritage, in which Haskell County abounds, to the rising star of tourism now sweeping Texas, providing both the preservation of that heritage for future generations to enjoy and the development of economic muscle flexing for this area. At Mrs. Barfield's discerning direction, a three-pronged approach to the attainment of desired goals was mapped: (1) Bring up to date a superbly recorded history of Haskell County meticulously set-down by local historian, the late R. E. Sherrill; (2) Mark in the manner prescribed by the Texas Historical Survey with medallions the monuments of historical significance, legal descriptions for which are extant in Mr. Sherrill's "History of Haskell County"; and (3) Establish a museum into which proper collector's items of "Haskellana" may be catalogued, preserved, placed on display. City Council Wins Round; Enjoiners Prepare Appeal

EIGHT "HEADS" TOGETHER FOR "SUMMIT" MEETING—Head Coach Ray Overton (left), of the Haskell High School Indians, and Head Indian Booster R. L. Dulaney (right), of the Indian Booster Club, president of organized supporters of Haskell High's athletic fortunes, check the six-spigit "summit" of a new shower head just installed in the Indian Fieldhouse adjacent to the high school stadium here. Two of these six-spigit shower heads and a 50-gallon hot water heater have been put in by the Haskell School System, Superintendent Bob King reported, with funds furnished by the Indian Booster Club.

Following receipt of word here Friday afternoon that the 11th Court of Civil Appeals in Eastland had reversed and set aside an injunction preventing the City of Haskell from using city funds for attorney fees to prosecute suits against the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority, John Kimbrough, one of a group of citizens who had sued the city for the injunction, declared that he and the attorney for his group were not notified until Saturday of the court's decision. "If an error has been made coming up through the courts, we're going to cure it, appeal it to a higher court or whatever the proper legal procedure is." It was understood here the enjoiners have 15 days in which to file an appeal. Neither Kimbrough nor T. R. Odell, of Lubbock, attorney for the enjoiners against the City of Haskell, could believe the court's reversal of the injunction, "because," Kimbrough said, "it's against the law for a city to operate in this manner. The law states that it is a violation to spend the taxpayers' money in this way, just as the law states a man can't steal a car and that is a violation. That's that. This body (the Haskell city council) has been operating without a city charter, and is still doing business with themselves." Speaking further, the Haskell businessman said, "All we want is for the City Council of Haskell to operate within the law, and we were enjoining them. So the reversal must be on the grounds of some technical error in which we shall appeal in whatever procedure is proper." Principal speculation here centered around the possibility that a technical error of law occasioned the reversal, that the injunction granted the citizens' group here headed by Kimbrough should have been termed "temporary" rather than "permanent" as was the case when the injunction was granted in court here. A study of the opinion received in Haskell and provided by Mayor J. E. Walling, Jr., supports this evaluation. Although Mayor Walling was notified immediately on Friday of the decision by the Haskell City Council's attorney, who was in Austin, no word was sent until Saturday to either Odell, Kimbrough, or any of the enjoiners, who were granted an injunction last September in 39th District Court here. The City Council appealed, and the case was set for February 8 in the Eastland Court. A postponement was granted to February 15, at which time oral and written arguments were presented the court for study and decision, which came Friday. The court of appeals' action, if upheld would allow the City Council to continue to use city funds for attorneys' fees and transportation expenses, the two specific categories of expenditures cited in the opinion, to prevent the efforts of the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority to build a reservoir on Miller's Creek to furnish water for Haskell and three other area towns. To date there has been no elaboration upon the brief explanation of the opinion handed down in Eastland. It was that the "judgment" had been "reversed," that an opinion "per curiam" was "rendered for appellants. The injunction is dissolved."

FIVE TOE LINE FOR 2 SCHOOL SLOTS; KING INKS NEW PACT

Haskell's School Board, in session last week, renewed the contract of School Superintendent Robert R. King for three years beginning July 1 and certified the names of five candidates running for two posts in the school trustee election on April 6. The two posts on the school board are being sought by the following citizens who have requested that their names be placed on the ballot: Clinton H. (Bud) Herren, who is seeking reelection; Dr. James F. Cadenhead, Mrs. B. B. Gilmore, Mrs. Roy Wiseman, and C. O. Holt. The top two candidates will be elected for 3-year terms each, filling the expired terms of Herren and Carl Anderson, who did not choose to run again. In other action, the school board named Maurice Gannaway as election judge and the following clerks: Mrs. Claude Jenkins, Mrs. Clarence Taylor, Mrs. Charles Quattlebaum and Rogers Durham. The election will be held in the Community Room of the Haskell National Bank. Absentee votes may be cast at the office of the County Clerk in Haskell between March 16 and April 6. The board also approved of the report of the Textbook Selection Committee, personnel of which are King, Hubert Bell, Bill Blakley, Gerald McCoy, and Mrs. Mary E. McColman. Also authorized by the board was the sale to the highest bidder of a 1961 Chevrolet school bus, now being used as a standby vehicle by the Haskell system. The bids will be opened at 7:30 p. m. on April 2.

Jaycees Vote Funds For Cub Scout Building

Haskell Jaycees have voted a cash contribution of $300 from their general fund in support of the building program of the American Legion here to construct a center for Cub Scout activities in Haskell, R. V. Black, one of the directors of the Legion project announced Friday. Billy Jack Ray, Jaycee president, said his organization hoped to increase this amount for the Cub Scout building if proceeds from an expansive carnival sponsored by Haskell Jaycees in the summer will permit. The Jaycees here are modeling their plans after a similar project of Mineeral Wells Jaycees, who utilize a carnival to raise money for a most successful Youth Center in that city. The American Legion post here recently announced it had placed $800 in a building fund and donated land east of its building for the site of a Cub Scout center overlooking the City Park in Haskell. Several business firms here are contributing labor and materials to virtually assure early erection of the new building. In addition to the Jaycee contribution, Black reported that a $25 gift for the cause had been received from the "M" System Grocery here to boost the funds on hand H. E. (Steve) Stephens is manager at "M" System.

Mrs. Carothers, Of Pioneer Family Here, Dies

Funeral services for Mrs. Janie Alleen Carothers, 59, who died in Haskell Hospital Thursday after an illness of several years, were held in the First Presbyterian Church here on Friday afternoon, with the Rev. Douglas Finch officiating. Burial was in Willow Cemetery under direction of Holden Funeral Home. Mrs. Carothers was the sister of Dr. Floyd Taylor, well-known Abilene physician and surgeon, and the daughter of a pioneer family in Haskell, the late Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Taylor. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church here. Mrs. Carothers had been in failing health for some time and entered the hospital here on March 5. Born October 4, 1903, at Sonora, she married W. H. (Bill) Carothers December 24, 1924, in Haskell. They had lived two miles south of Haskell for the past eight years. Mrs. Carothers graduated from Haskell High School and attended Simmons College, forerunner of Hardin-Simmons University. Verbal Vignettes

Hereinafter are capsule comments the Free Press feels it propitious to present concerning people, events, and situations currently topical, and therefore deserving of our views as we evaluate the news.

On Community Togetherness

There are certain situations "extant", as the historian would say, in Haskell today which prompt—a better word is, impel—to propel a pep talk on community togetherness.

Target of this propulsion of parlance is us and you—all of us. Let's call it a parley, in a parliamentary way.

When we discern the need for open hearts and open minds, and the hoped-for synchronization of same on a subject, such as the growth and development of a community, we think of the immortal Woodrow Wilson. Coincidentally enough, if you read last week's "Haskell County History," it said the inaugural speech of this great and noble man was carried in toto in this newspaper. He took office as the President of the United States 50 years ago on March 4.

"Open covenants, openly arrived at," was the credo of Woodrow Wilson. He tried to make it work. He tried in vain, so far as preserving world peace was concerned. He tried, and it worked, on many counts, leaving monuments to that trying that time cannot erase.

This credo can work at the local level, and the state, as well as the national and international.

What we need to do here as we are "to thine own selves be true" in charting a course for the growth and development of Haskell, and the area, already has been better expressed before by someone dear to us.

We don't feel it would be exactly an act of plagiarism to dig deep into the mother lode of that old mine of memory for this:

Booster or Knocker, which are you?
Knocker or Booster, which of the two?
Are you always finding fault with the town
Meeting everybody with a grumble and frown
Kicking about everything under the sun
Common old Knocker? Are you one?
Taking part in nothing that will do good
Wouldn't say a pleasant word if you could?
Spreading your troubles and trials about,
Common old Knocker. Cut it out!

Be a Haskell Booster—Tell all your friends
When they come to Haskell, trouble ends.
Tell of all the good things being done
Of happiness, health, success and fun!
Tell of resources in which we abound
Put on a smile, and pass it around.
We have the best town in all the state
Tell folks about it, early and late.
Talk to the Knockers—call in their bluff,
Cut out the grumbling—there's trouble enough!
Be a Haskell Booster, put on a smile—
Quit your knocking, and make life worthwhile.

The name of Haskell was substituted for Shelbyville, one of the finest communities in this country, nestled in the verdant hills of Middle Tennessee. This town at the time that piece was written had so many situations comparable to those here now—same population, same distance from population centers, same problems.

Author of the piece about "Booster or Knocker" was the father of your editor. He was editor of the Shelbyville Gazette, a pace setter newspaper which since has become a daily, because Shelbyville has upwards of 40,000 people now.

We like to think this came about, due, in a measure at least, to the groundwork for community togetherness laid there by a man named Arthur Porter Oakes, a sample of which is exemplarily expressed in the foregoing editorial-type poem.
Haskell could do the same, you know. How about it?

A Pencil Pusher's Potpourri

By PORTER

A dear, dear, life long friend of the Pencil Pusher has written him a message he will treasure always, expressing the wish that he may some day climb to the heights of expression that the immortal William Allen White so sure-footedly scaled.

We have heard it said of that enterprising entrepreneur of editors from Emporia that his success lay in his uncanny striking of a delicate balance between quality and irascibility in his approach to all situations. We probably would measure up on the latter.

Having creased our cranium most of this week with two top stories on the subject, the eventual outcome of which could make or break this town, we've literally got "water on the brain" at this point. We pray, and fervently so, that, as events closely connected with the crystallization of both stories evolve, what happens will be best for Haskell and its future.

You know, as if no one didn't around here, water is a deep, and serious, subject. It's startling, when you study about it, how indispensable a role it plays in one's personal life.

One of my earliest indelible impressions of the rigors of daily living was as a child with solid friends on a ranch in New Mexico and having eyeball contact with a mortal battle over water rights in a valley fed by a single river during a drouth-stricken summer.

And, growing up, I recall just as vividly the never-say-die, seemingly endless, struggle of a growing city, Wichita Falls, to secure an ample, palatable water supply. And I remember the indefatigable efforts and seeming sixth sense of the late W. B. Hamilton, splendidly supported by the filing-cabinet minded William L. Donnell, then editor and now vice president of the Wichita Falls Times, in fighting tooth and nail to get Lake Kickapoo, the source of Wichita Falls' water now, built against tremendous odds. They won.

Now Wichita Falls has grown some more, and they're looking again for more water.

Since time began, there either has been too little water—or too much. Never a happy medium, or the delicate balance we mentioned earlier. One of the most revealing experiences of witnessing helpless humanity, of suffering at its worst, of sheer chaos and devastating destruction, short of war, for the Pencil Pusher was his proximity to the flood on the Ohio River and its tributaries in the spring of 1937. It was this time of year, and the floods of the past few days on the Ohio remind us of that experience, though they are mild in comparison.

We helped sandbag levees that gave way before our eyes at Carrollton, Kentucky, at the convergence of the Ohio and Kentucky Rivers. We were in school at the time in Lexington, which was the only town of any size within a 100 mile radius in any direction not situated on a river, and therefore not hit by the raging flood. Lexington was the seat of all rescue operations, supply lines, hospitalization. School was dismissed, and my fraternity brothers and I went where we were needed most. I crossed the Ohio River bridge between Cincinnati and Covington, Ky., by getting to the main bridge on a series of pontoon bridges made of oil drums floating on the crest of a rolling river then 34 feet above its flood stage there of 40 feet. We saw whole houses, some with dogs and cats on their rooftops, and locomotives from riverside rail yards, floating down the churning river.

We were witness to some dramatic incidents particularly in Louisville where we ran a motorboat and had to plead with people perched on their own rooftops to leave their homes before they were swept into the swirling waters. New babies were born on those rooftops to mothers who refused to leave their homes. One hardware store owner tried to prevent the United States Government from taking batteries from his store with which to generate power for a radio station to save lives and perform rescue operations.

And how could we ever forget our peak memory of this flood of '37, going right through the main door of the Brown Hotel, largest in Louisville, in a motorboat, touching the chandelier in the lobby as 12 feet of water flowed through it.

Or another watery setting in World War II when the Pencil Pusher spent 17 days crossing the Atlantic instead of the normal six or seven, because we were zigging and zagging trying to outmaneuver the Nazi "wolfpack" the master mariners of submarine warfare.

Yes, it seems that water has played, and is playing, a major role in my life and all our lives. From reading the Bible about rolling back the Red Sea and Noah's Ark, the Ancient Mariner to Gunga Din, men have dribbled barrels of ink over bales of parchment about water, which consistently has been either too little, or too much, in the right, or in the wrong, places.

My first "gen-u-ine" job was guess what? Yep, Water Boy on the night shift for a cotton compress being built in Wichita Falls. And now, one of my principal jobs is weighing the "fers" and "agins" of Miller's Creek.

It's been a pretty watered down situation all along.

If you see an ol' boy with his head in the clouds and treading air about the time you read the Free Press this week, it'll be the Pencil Pusher. Because in a few hours, he's headin' San Antonio way to see Darlin'.

PAINT CREEK . . . COMMUNITY NEWS

BY MRS. GENE OVERTON

The basketball girls journeyed to Canyon Thursday for the regional play-offs. They left the school at 8 o'clock and went by way of Shallowater where they worked out in the gym there. The Shallowater coach is a friend of our coach, Pat Morrison, and too, his team had played Roosevelt, so he could give the girls some pointers about them.

The game was called at 3:00 Friday afternoon, and the girls made a good game of it. They were leading in the first quarter, and stayed from 2 to 11 points from their opponents all the way. But Roosevelt had some tall, tall girls, and we couldn't reach the ball all the time. Roosevelt went all the way to the finals and were beaten then by Claude, whose girls were even taller.

Saturday night after the championship game, a Regional honor group of 6 forwards and 6 guards was chosen, and our Paint Creek Carolyn Livengood was chosen on this team. Carolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Livengood and is a senior. Everybody can be proud of our girls. They looked better than they have in the three years we have gone to regional play.

Attending from Paint Creek were Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Livengood, Eloise and Donald, Mrs. Pat Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Medford, Linda and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pustejovsky, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thane, Mrs. Willie Lee Medford and Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fischer (who went with the girls), Clara Ann, Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Martindale Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Overton and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McBeath of Amarillo.

Twelve scouts of Troop 45 went to Austin last weekend on the Chisholm Trail Council "Operation Citizenship." Roy Wiseman went with the boys and they took a bus from Abilene and arrived back at the Scout office late Saturday afternoon. The boys visited the Highway department building, the state capitol and the Legislature, and all points of interest in the state capitol city. They stayed at a motel and ate their meals at Bergstrom Air Base. Making the trip was scouts Clinton Calloway, James Redding, Wayne Cadenhead, Terry Lowery, Gary Lytle, Kenneth Felker, J. F. Cadenhead, Gary Felker, Ricky Perry, Bob Earles, Phil Coleman and Explorer Scout Danny Isbell. Mr. and Mrs. Danny Earles, Mrs. Jerry Lytle and Mrs. Calloway took the boys to Abilene.

Mrs. G. W. Middlebrooks underwent major surgery at the Stamford Memorial Hospital in Stamford last week. She is recuperating nicely.

Mrs. Martindale Coleman spent last week with her brother, Joe Bob and his daughters. Martindale went for her over the weekend and they saw the basketball game in Canyon. Mrs. Joe Bob Earles is better at the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. She is in traction and will be for 16 weeks before they put her leg in a cast. The doctors feel now that she will live.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Earles and Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Middlebrooks visited Mr. John Earles in Abilene last Monday afternoon.

Several Paint Creekers have been quite ill with the flu. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Montgomery are better this week. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grand, Joy Bergstrom, Roy Overton and Alex McLennan.

Seniors Set To Converge On Corpus

Haskell High School's Senior Class, by popular vote, has decided on Corpus Christi as the site, destination, and playground for their class trip this year, it was announced Saturday.

The class will make the mass pilgrimage to the Texas coastal city during the Easter holidays, Haskell High School Principal W. P. McCollum, reported.

A committee of Bobby Zalokar, Lowell Wallace, Sandra Letz, Pamela Baird, Johnny Kimbrough, Bobby Herren, David Anderson, and Gary Clifton from the class met with Class Sponsors, Mrs. Mary E. McCollum and Mrs. Gerald McCoy and Principal McCollum to check on plans for the trip.

After investigating several scenic possibilities, the committee put a choice of selections up to the entire class for a vote.

Detailed itinerary for the annual Senior trip will be announced soon.

Rhineland Asks Backing For Volleyball

Interest in volleyball as a competitive sport in this area is being solicited and an appeal to organize volleyball teams for entering tournaments has been issued by George Petrus, superintendent of Rhineland High School in a message to Haskell area residents.

The first tournament of this type will be sponsored by Rhineland High School, beginning on Feb. 25, and ending on March 2, with Wednesday night, Feb. 27, left open, Petrus announced. The entry fee for a team in this volleyball tournament is $7.50 per team, with cash prizes going to the first, second, and consolation winners. Coaches or members of interested teams should contact the Rhineland superintendent by writing him at Route 2, Munday, Texas.

Prior experience, according to Petrus, has revealed the age spread involved in participation in last year's volleyball program was 18 to 48 years. "I know of no other type of team sport that could claim such a wide age spread," Supt. Petrus said, "and it is my great hope that we can kindle tremendous interest in the organization of volleyball teams to enter our tournament starting Feb. 25 and others which I'm sure will follow in the area."

Weinert Study Club B&PW Sponsors Sets Family Night Style Show For Games Friday Scholarship Fund

A family game night for members and guests of the Weinert Study Club is set for Friday night, March 15, at 7:00 in the Weinert Community Center.

Plans for this event were formulated at the recent regular meeting of the club at which Mrs. Glenn Caddell directed a program on Texas Heritage.

Mrs. M. E. LeMay presented "Facts About Texas," and conducted a discussion about Texas cities and celebrations. The group answered roll call by giving the name of a Texas wild flower and sang Texas songs. Mrs. M. C. Cunningham led the assembly in prayer.

Mrs. R. E. Hutchinson presided over a business session at which the study club accepted the resignation of Mrs. M. W. Plemister and voted to pay for the Cub Scout charter in Weinert.

Next regular meeting, to be held in the home of Mrs. E. D. Earle, will be an all-day affair, and each member is to bring a salad. Mrs. Lester Hutchinson will direct the program on Home Life.

A spring style show proceeds from which will go toward the organization's sponsorship of a scholarship for a senior business administration major in Haskell High School to attend college, will be staged by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Haskell Monday, March 18, at 8 p. m. in the Elementary School auditorium here.

The show will be presented using apparel provided by the Personality Shoppe here under the supervision of personnel of that store.

Entertainment at this event will be furnished by the Four Winds Studio of Performing Arts under the supervision of Mr. Phillip Colehour.

Courthouse to Begin Saturday Closing

Beginning April 1, and continuing for a period of six months, until October 1, all offices in the Haskell County Courthouse will be closed all day on Saturdays.

served punch and cookies to eight members and three guests.

Magazine Club Talks Texas As Buie Lauds Legend

Haskell's Magazine Club, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the state, appropriately observed a Texas Heritage Day at its recent meeting held in the Community Room of the Haskell National Bank here.

Mrs. C. J. Robinson, president, was in charge, and hostesses were Mrs. J. P. Payne, Hill Oates, and Scott Greene, who served coffee and cake to the members and guests present.

Mrs. Robert Wheatley directed the program which led off with a salute to the Texas flag and a prayer for justice given by Mrs. Wallace Cox.

Jim Smith, the young son of Mrs. Ruby Smith, was amusing and entertaining with a presentation of "Tall Tales from Texas."

Bernard Buie, prominent Stamford businessman, who has worked actively in the work of preserving the heritage of this area, discussed "You Stand Supreme Best," and told of the legend that is Texas. Mr. Buie's concentration of effort on the history of the 66 counties of West and Northwest Texas north to the Red River is resulting in productive recording of historical data, and he recently "fathered" the project to place a large historical marker strategically located for tourists to view at the convergence of the Hamlin, Haskell and Stamford highways just north of Stamford.

Members and guests present were: Mrs. Robinson, John Buie, K. H. Thornton, Smith, Jack Pippin, Wheatley, Oates, Greene, Cox, Payne, J. M. Collins, J. U. Fields, N. I. McCollum, H. T. Wilkinson, C. V. Payne, C. L. Lewis, Earl Archison, Miss Nettie McCollum, Mr. Buie and Jim Smith.

Mrs. Beasley Is Delegate To Rebekah Assembly

Mrs. Alice Beasley, who is Haskell's officially designated representative of Rebekah Lodge No. 43, will attend the annual convention of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas, a two-day meeting convening on Saturday in Houston. Headquarters are at the Rice Hotel.

International president of the Rebekahs, Mrs. Eva Thornton, of Saskatchewan, Canada, will participate at the Texas sessions.

Following the convention, Mrs. Beasley will visit friends in the Houston area before returning here, where she will make her report to the Haskell Lodge on Monday night, March 26.

Cancer Center Hums

Haskell's Cancer Center during the past week was the hub of continued activity prosecuted in behalf of ease from suffering by the following: Mrs. Doc Brady, Jack Speer, Andy Landess, R. H. Overton, Jim Darden, Alice Mayes, P. C. Spenny, Courtney Hunt, Jesse B. Smith, Bonnie Othron, John Brock, Dave Persons, Jesse L. Collier, Mrs. Floy McMeans also handled a home project.

Gratitude was expressed for the donations of worn sheets, pillow cases and white shirts, many of which are always needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Jarman, of Pasadena, Texas, were overnight guests recently at the home of their mother, Mrs. Maggie Larned. They came to the area to attend the funeral of a cousin, who died from burns in an accident at Throckmorton.

News from Weinert

Deborah Raynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Raynes, was a patient in Wichita Falls General Hospital Tuesday and Wednesday after major surgery on her right leg. Mrs. Raynes stayed at the hospital with her daughter, and says she is recovering satisfactorily.

Mrs. J. A. Driggers is visiting her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Earp, of Pampa. She accompanied another daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Vaughn of Anson, to Pampa for the weekend.

Weinert School observed Public School Week with open house Wednesday and invited patrons to lunch. A program, conducted by Mrs. V. C. Derr, Mrs. R. S. Sanders and Mrs. Sue Yearly, was a highlight of the observance and concluded the week's events.

Weinert School faculty, with the exception of Mrs. V. C. Derr, who was ill, attended the TSTA convention in Wichita Falls, Friday, Sam Adams, Principal, reports.

Henry Ejem received word that his nephew, Jimmy Walker, of New Mexico, received serious injury to his eardrum, and possible skull fracture and fractured ribs in a fall from a pickup truck last week. The Walkers are former residents of Weinert.

Mrs. E. S. McGuire spent several days in Wichita Falls last week visiting in the home of her daughter and family, Airman and Mrs. Pete Assad and Tommy.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Copeland of Haskell were the recipients when the Intermediate Girls Auxiliary went on a goodwill tour last week after they had finished their Week of Prayer program.

The two families, formerly of Weinert, are now elderly and shut-in because of illness. They were presented baskets of fruit by the group of girls, and Mrs. J. A. Mayfield, their counselor.

After visiting in the homes, the group enjoyed refreshments at the Hi-lander before returning to Weinert. Those taking part in the tour were: Evelyn Mayfield, Ruby Ramey, Patsy Miller, Mary Yates, Amy Dunnam and Mrs. Mayfield.

Besides the regular workers, two new ones registered last Wednesday at the cancer unit. They are Mrs. Clyde Mayfield and Mrs. J. W. Liles.

Tiffen Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mayfield was named by the Maltson school board to replace Howard Liles, Jr., who was called recently for military service. Tiffen is a graduate of Weinert and of NTSTC in Denton.

Tiny Tikes in the neighborhood who came out to help celebrate were: Kelly Adams, Ruthie and Lisa Dutton and Philda Sloan. Mary Kim has two sisters and a brother, Diane, Helen and Gregory.

A group of interested citizens are making plans to attend the hearing in Waco on March 13, when the Brazos River Flood Control project will be discussed.

The event was sponsored by the homemaking class and Mrs. Chambers. Those who serve on the school board are: Raymon Mathison, Edwin Reeves, Delbert Carroll, Wallace Boone, Tom Yates, Jiggs Edwards and Supt. Douglas Myers.

Thursday at 1:30 p. m. in the auditorium the 1st through 6th grade students presented a program of Patriotism and Americanism, with skits, songs, speeches and dances. They portrayed our country from its Pilgrim days to the days when the West was still a wide frontier. The program was directed by Mrs. Sue Yearly, Mrs. Mabel Derr, and Mrs. Betty Sanders, the home room teachers.

School was dismissed on Friday and the teachers journey to Wichita Falls to take part in the District VII, T.S.T.A. held there. Those who rode the trip were: Douglas Myers, Sam Adams, Don Lamb, Dan Sloan, Mrs. Dwight Moody, Mrs. Sue Yearly, Mrs. Mary Abbott and Mrs. Betty Sanders.

"Big Talkers" Prove Big Maneuver Macadam on

Two angels of mercy turned "highway women" Wednesday on the Haskell-Rule route, set out on a "forced march" of 10 miles after "putting their money where their mouths were" to the amusement and amazement of the entire staff and management of the Haskell County Hospital.

Having been loquaciously lamproosed for several days by brethren and sister co-workers at the hospital to prove their boast, Mrs. Louella Davis, office manager, and Miss Leona Carter, surgical nurse at the hospital, maneuvered the macadam from Haskell to Rule in five minutes less than the three hours they bragged it would take them to hoof it between the two towns.

Hallie Chapman, hospital administrator, claims the pavement pounding pair of Florence Nightingales of the open road "practiced up." No one could spend a leisurely visitation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wiseman, where they took on pie and coffee on the way, stop dead in their tracks for practically a full blown race, just three miles from their goal, then saunter into Rule five minutes before the deadline on the bet without "prior pacing," Chapman says.

The second session for sustenance was set up by Hal Robinson, medical supply salesman, of Lubbock, who calls at Haskell County Hospital frequently.

THE ITALIAN INFLUENCE

Byron Frazier Is Attending Color Television School

With the many advancements in industry during this space age, it is imperative that all service men of all modern appliances and electronics, study, and attend training schools to keep up on all new merchandises.

Byron Frazier, owner and manager of Frazier's Appliances Company, attended a seven-month study and training school on color television in 1956 at the beginning of color programming here. Again, he and serviceman Boyd Rousseau, will attend another study and training school in Abilene, which will be over an eight-month period. This school is offered by R and R Electronic Company, Abilene, through Radio Corporation of America.

"We all know that practical experience is a wonderful teacher, but color television is not just a simple matter without some theory and knowledge of the product," Mr. Frazier said.

"These schools are long, hard, expensive, and takes a lot of effort and time. But if a dealer wishes to be able to serve his customers as they should be served, he must take advantage of every opportunity and gain more knowledge of our fast growing electronics to well serve the public," Mr. Frazier pointed out.

Communities Set Scout Expositions

Scout troops in Haskell, Weinert, and Paint Creek will join these of other communities in the northern district of the Chisholm Trail Boy Scout Council in staging Scout Expositions in their respective towns throughout the area on Saturday, April 27.

Plans for this observance were made at a recent meeting of the Northern District Committee and Neighborhood Commissioners.

Chairmen of the expositions in this area include, Elda Smart, Scoutmaster of Troop 36, in Haskell; Alton Sanders, Scoutmaster of Troop 28, in Weinert; and Gene Overton, Scoutmaster, Troop 27, in Paint Creek.

Rochester and Rule also are expected to stage Scout shows on that date, but have not yet announced plans.

The shows in each community will run from 2 to 5 p. m., with the exception of Paint Creek which plans to serve lunch for families of the Scouts. The Paint Creek exposition will start at 11 a. m. and end at 2 p. m.

At these expositions, to be staged in a vacant building, on a vacant lot, or in the town square, each Cub Den and Scout Patrol, and Explorer Crew will have a booth or skill demonstration for the public.

The Cubs will demonstrate advancement requirements, baking, handicraft, woodwork, Indian dancing, models, and Cub's in nature. Scout Patrols and Explorer Crews will concentrate on merit badge demonstrations, respect of the Flag, Boy's Life ideas, use of rope, tracking and trailing, use of compass and map and Scout cooking demonstrations.

Purpose of the expositions will be to give parents and friends of Scouting a better look at the Scouting program and Scout activities, Chisholm Trail Council officials said.

Haskell Bureau Has Quota of 926 Farm Families. With Farm Bureau Week currently being observed across the nation, recently installed officers of the Haskell County Farm Bureau, which had a 1962 membership strength of 918 farm families, began "harnessing up" Friday to meet this county's 1963 quota.

This year's quota for the Haskell County Farm Bureau is 926 farm families, Mrs. Gene Tonn, secretary-treasurer here, reports. "But we will be shooting for a membership in excess of that figure," she said.

By proclamation of Governor John Connally, the Texas observance of Farm Bureau Week is going full tilt this week, with plans for a concerted membership campaign set in a majority of county bureaus for early Spring.

Recently newly installed or re-elected officers and directors are: C. G. Hammer, president; T. C. Walker, first vice-president; C. D. Middlebrook, second vice president; Mrs. Tonn, secretary-treasurer; Directors, A. C. Knippling, Sagerton; W. T. Adkins, Rochester; Joe H. Davis, Mattson; Willie Feiser, Irby; J. P. Perrin, Haskell; Adolph Stuller, Weinert; Norris Andrus, Rule; Olive B. Vernon, Jud; Middlebrook, Paint Creek. Clinton H. Herren and Herman D. Gamill are the Haskell Farm Bureau agents.

TOOTH PASTE SMILES—Crease the countenances of this toothsome twosome, and, appropriately enough, they seem to be happy about the whole thing after Dr. William J. Kemp (left) Haskell dentist, had finished his mission of examining the teeth of the entire Old Glory school system. His helper was Carolyn Sanders (right), Old Glory student, who made out the dental charts and records. The dental checkup, an annual project directed under Dr. Kemp's supervision, was instituted at the invitation of Supt. Leverett and the school nurse at Old Glory. It's mighty good preventative medicine, it is agreed by both the inspector and the inspected.

Mrs. Rose To Take Part In Housing Clinic. Mrs. Opal S. Rose, administrator of the Haskell Housing Authority, is expected to be among the representatives of local housing authorities from throughout Texas, Colorado, and New Mexico meeting in Wichita Falls Thursday and Friday, March 14-15, in one of a series of "Shirt Sleeve Maintenance Clinics," sponsored by the National Association of Housing Development Officials and the Public Housing Administration.

Purpose of the meeting, to be held at the Housing Authority of the City of Wichita Falls is to exchange money-saving maintenance ideas in low-rent housing projects.

A representative of the University made a speech to the student body concerning the opportunities offered at Midwestern.

The school officials were very pleased with the conduct and attitude of the student body during the program."

Marketing Costs Difference From Steer To Steak

The difference between the price of steak and the price the producer receives for his cattle results from marketing costs, according to a new publication of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service entitled "From Steer to Steak."

The publication points out that the marketing costs include all the expenses of processing and distribution required to convert the live animal to the salable product. These costs can be divided into three groups: (1) marketing, (2) slaughtering, wholesaling, and (3) retailing. The costs involved in the marketing process begin when the animal is sold by the producer. Charges for transporting, selling and handling of the steer must be included in these expenses.

Slaughtering the animal and wholesaling the carcass is the second phase of marketing. A U. S. Choice grade steer will yield about 59 pounds of carcass beef from every 100 pounds of live weight. Consequently, the value of the by-products and carcass determines the price that can be paid for the live animal.

Retailing is the final step in marketing beef. Of the 59 lbs. of carcass beef, 12 lbs. are lost in trimming and cutting the meat for retail sale. This process leaves only 47 pounds of the original 100 lbs. of live animal. Thus, the retail price for the meat must be at least twice the live steer price. Moreover, the costs involved in marketing are not included. All steer is not steak, and when marketing costs are added, the reason is apparent why the price the consumer pays for steak must be considerably higher than the price the producer obtains for his product.

Baldwin Family Gives Generously To History Project

A substantial donation has been received by Mrs. Tom Barfield, chairman of the Haskell County Historical Survey, to be used in compiling the history and preserving the heritage of Haskell County as a contribution from the Baldwin family, sons and daughters of the late Jack L. Baldwin and Lizzie Boswell Baldwin, early-day settlers of this county.

There are said to have been only 12 settlers in Haskell County before the original Baldwins came here.

The donation was sent by Mabel and Fannie Jack Baldwin, of Dallas, who reported that their brother, F. T. Baldwin, of Houston, joined them, declaring, "I heartily agree that the history of Haskell County should be written. I am sure that County Judge Jim Alvis has made a fine selection in Mrs. Tom Barfield, who no doubt, has access to very valuable materials."

The Baldwins declared they "still love Haskell and all it has stood for throughout the years. Mrs. J. U. Fields is a cousin, and Mrs. George W. Fouts, a niece.

In their message, the donors expressed to Mrs. Barfield the realization "this will be quite an undertaking, but we know you will do it well and enjoy it immensely, being the daughter of such a wonderful man, Lon Pate . . . (whose) good works and kind words will live on and on."

The Baldwins declared they "still love Haskell and all it has stood for throughout the years. Mrs. J. U. Fields is a cousin, and Mrs. George W. Fouts, a niece.

These newcomers will join Head Cheerleader Sharon Robertson and Senior Cheerleader Wanda Nixon as a Haskell delegation to the SMU Cheerleading School this summer to prepare themselves to lead the Haskell Pep Club in backing Haskell's athletic aggregations.

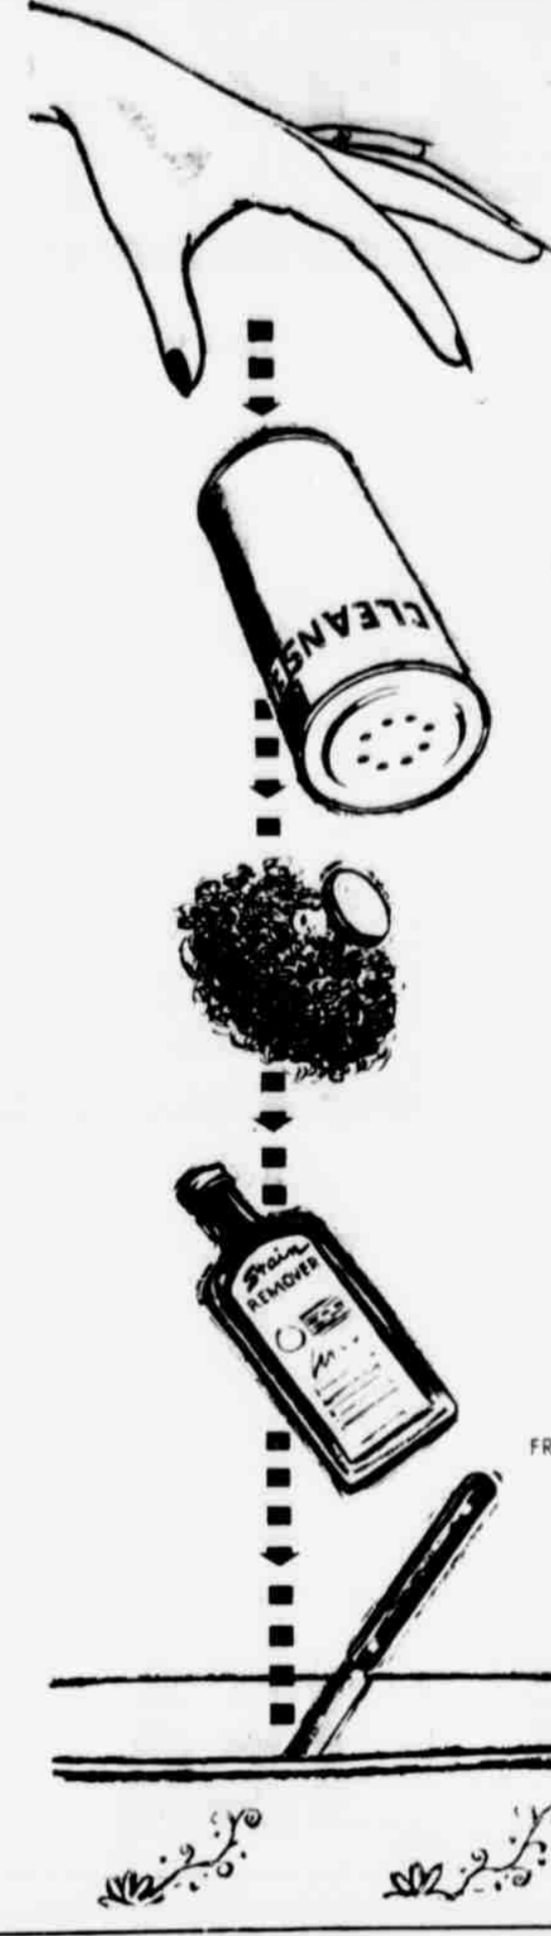

Judges of the peppy cheerleading competition were Mrs. R. C. Couch, Jr., this year's sponsor; Mrs. W. P. McCollum, the 1962-63 sponsor; and Bill Blakely, "B" team football coach.

Dear Pencil Pusher I write you these few lines to let you know that from small acorns come big OAKES.

In large letters over Buster Gholson's desk is a sign which reads: "MAXIMUM CREDIT". Just what I have been looking for however just below, it says "30 Days".

Over the desk of Raja Hasen are these well versed lines: "A man shows what he is, by what he does, with what he has".

Congratulations to Loraine Johnson for improving the "looks" of his buildings on the west side of the square, located between Frazier's Appliances and Fouts Dry Goods. For many months Loraine has been in the process of renovating the buildings, which houses his Discount Center and Used Furniture and Appliances. The buildings were an "eye sore" before he purchased them, and his labor has certainly paid off in giving the buildings a "new

Is It True?

Luxury encourages indolence. Adversity challenges and creates industry.

Lutherans Believe..

IN SAINTS

To a Lutheran, each and every Christian is a saint for we hold the words of the Apostle Paul to be correct and true. He said, "to all the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi". To put it simply, a saint is a sinner who has been forgiven. And every Christian who truly professes Christ is forgiven through Him. At the same time we recognize the fact that each person is also a sinner. Therefore, it might be stated that every Christian is a sinful saint for he is both sinner and saint at the same time. We are taught in the Bible that to be considered a saint you need not be perfect in your own actions. Instead, to be a saint you need to be forgiven by Christ, then God sees you in the light of His Crucified and Risen Son. And through Christ, we receive the perfectness of Him as a gift of grace. Sainthood is a gift of God and not a title given to one who has done something out of the ordinary which is called a miracle. Then, being saints, we as believers in Christ must strive to lead a type of life in accordance with the high calling of Him who came before us and set an example for us to follow. Only actions performed out of our love for Christ witness to our faith in Him. But our deeds do not make us holy, nor do they give us the right to call ourselves saints.

A. C. Boggs and this scribe were doing a little reminiscing recently, as our thoughts and conversation drifted back to by-gone days. Mr. Boggs and I both agreed that some very pleasant times were spent "down on the farm". . . . such as cooking eggs rolled in clay, baking 'taters under the hot coals in the ground, coon hunting, 'possum hunting, trapping, hog killing time, skating on frozen tanks and ponds in the winter time . . . and in the good old summer time, fishing, swimming and lolling in the shade of tree at the end of chopping a row of cotton, dumping watermelons in the creek or tank to let them cool -before partaking of that cool delicious red meat Yep, they were the "good old days".

The aroma of sweet delicious apples and oranges still reminds this scribe of the Yuletide season. As Dad would bring home a big box of fruit just prior to Christmas and "stack" them away. The aroma of those apples and oranges hidden somewhere in the house, was a good reminder that Christmas was just around the corner, and soon Santa Claus would make his annual visit.

To Prattle's son, Larry, upon reaching his 16th birthday:-- REMEMBER:-Of course you don't remember the day, when Dad decked out in his splendor. He made an important trip to the hospital . . . on a special occasion Remember? Of course you can't, but Dad and Mother can. And a little while later the waiting was getting the best of Dad. His appearance was no longer on his mind, and just a little longer, and there would have been no finger nails left. Remember?

Then you came along, and it cost Dad a small fortune to give out cigars to all his friends. Remember? But a few years proved you were worthy of any expense . . . in fact, you were the very thing that kept Dad young. Just to hold you in his arms, to hear your cute little expressions. My, but you had Dad spoiled. Remember?

Then it happened! You began to grow. You could "wind" Dad around your little finger. And like the old saying goes, "It's Pop who pays". Indeed this saying is true, but old Dad didn't seem to mind. Remember?

Now, you have grown-up, you are sixteen . . . but still Dad's pride and joy . . . my boy!

I heard this little story making the rounds recently. Of course it is all in fun, and I mean no harm whatsoever in repeating it.

A man went to heaven and he saw a big dance pavilion crowded with folks, really shaking a wicked leg. He asked St. Peter, "Who are those folks dancing?" St. Peter replied, "That is a band of Christian Church members. You know they would turn them out of the church, down on earth for dancing, and they are now dancing their fill".

They went a little further and saw a big crowd around a bar, and he asked St. Peter the meaning of that. He replied: "Oh, that's a bunch of Methodists just catching up. You know on earth they turned them out of the church for drinking." The next thing to create an inquiry was a band of folks just sitting around holding hands and looking listless. Naturally, asked why they were not rejoicing. St. Peter replied, "That is a group of Baptists. They did whatever they wanted to on earth, and up here there's nothing new for them".

His appearance was no longer on his mind, and just a little longer, and there would have been no finger nails left. Remember?

Mrs. Frank Martin is Carol's sixth grade teacher. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin A. Smith here. Three of Haskell County's eight schools have selected their spelling bee winners who will participate in the countywide contest at Haskell High School on March 19, James Franklin, chairman of the Jaycee-sponsored event announced Monday.

Anita Edwards is Weinert's spelling survivor, and Brenda Griffith is the winner from Paint Creek. Winners, who must be in the eighth grade or under and under 16 years of age, have not yet been chosen in Saperton, O'Brien, Rule, Rochester or Mattson.

The champion in Wichita Falls will go to the national spelling bee in Washington in late spring.

Michael Noyce of South Africa Lions Club Speaker Tuesday Noon

"Ranching conditions in Texas are very similar to South Africa", Michael Noyce, of South Africa, told members of the Haskell Lions Club at the Tuesday noon-day luncheon meeting.

Noyce was accompanied by Orlando Echeverria, of Costa Rica. Both young men are learning about Texas ranching. Noyce and Echeverria, who are paying their own expenses, have been working on the Swenson Ranch near Throckmorton for the past three months. They came to the Swenson through the A&M exchange program.

Families of the South African and Costa Rican have large ranch holdings in their respective countries.

Noyce, who speaks English very fluently, talked and showed some very interesting slides of ranching in South Africa.

"Cattle and meat, at the markets, sell for about one-half in Southern Africa, as it does here," Noyce said. "Most of the stock is worked by Negroes", but some labor problems are beginning to crop up", Noyce said. Both young men are doing every kind of work assigned them on the Swenson in order to learn more about ranching in this country. In fact, just a few hours before appearing on the Lions program, they had been breaking some broncs.

Noyce said his parents have some 14,000 acres of ranch and farm land in South Africa, and on top of that they rent some acreage.

The main reason I came to this country of course was to learn of ranching conditions, but I also wanted to see for myself just what was on the other side of the mountain," Noyce told attentive Lions.

Noyce said he would remain on the Swenson Ranch for several more months, then visit the famed King Ranch, and visit some of his relatives in Milwaukee, before returning to his native land. Rogers Durham was in charge of the program and introduced Noyce and Echeverria to the large group of Lions present for the unusual and outstanding program.

Other guests noted were Jimmy Wyatt and Bobby Herren. Esther Class Entertained. Home of Mrs. Jimmy Hannz was scene of the monthly social of the Esther Class of the First Baptist Church Monday. Mrs. C. C. Henderson, assistant teacher of the class, discussed the background of W. M. U.

Refreshments of cake, punch and ice cream were served to the following members: Mmes. Bill Blasley, Wendell Jones, Lavon Marr, Don Mullins, Lavon Harris, Joe Warren and hostesses, Mmes. Joe Kimbrough, Bill Tomlinson, and Hannz. One visitor Mrs. Richard Ross, was present.

B-Ball Game That May End, Or Up-End Players, Set

A basketball game that may not end all basketball games, but could well end, or up-end, any or all of the participants pits the Indian Booster Club of Haskell against the faculty of Haskell High School at 8:00 p. m. Friday in the high school gym.

At an "emergency" directors' meeting of the Indian Boosters recently, this game, which could also well go into the record books as an epic of sorts, was hit upon as a fund-raised to assist the Boosters in obtaining the remainder of the money pledged to give the Haskell schools for various projects, according to R. L. Dulaney, president.

The Indian Boosters will "floor" a squad led by Sky-pilot Skyscraper Rogers Durham, pivotman minister of the Christian Church here. Others of this formidable flock of basketballing Boosters include Wayne Bradford, Allen Reeves, Dr. Joe Thigpen (who has priority on space at the hospital here), Jim Browning, Billy Jack Ray, Jack Medford, Joe Warren, and Dulaney.

The opposing faculty quintet, dubbed the "Feroocious Five", personnellwise, is a carefully guarded secret, but it is understood its captain, Coach Ray Overton, has some enterprisingly engineered mystery plays worked up, with Haskell School Superintendent Bob King as chief floor man for this cagey constellation.

Norman Directs $1500 Red Cross Drive In County. Door-to-door deployment of volunteer workers Friday will signal start, and what is hoped will be early successful completion of a drive to reach the $1500 Red Cross goal in the area of Haskell County outside the City of Haskell, Jim Norman, of Rule, announced Monday. The Red Cross drive in Haskell itself was a part of the United Fund effort already completed for 1963.

Norman is chairman of the Haskell County Red Cross.

Jack Southland, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Stamford, and the Rev. D. S. Moore, pastor of the Paint Creek Church, officiating. Burial was in Holden Funeral Home in charge.

Survivors are three sisters, Mrs. Effie Green of Haskell, and Mrs. George Weaver and Mrs. Tom Wiley, both of Stamford; and one brother, W. S. Cox, of Haskell.

Daytona is no "private" test arranged by a manufacturer to favor his own points. It is open competition—anyone can enter—and the one thing proved by its searing 500 miles is just exactly how well a car hangs together. Daytona, Florida, on February 24, five brand-new 1963½ Fords showed the what durability means by sweeping the first five places. And that has never equaled in Daytona history!

The box score at the left tells the true story...car endurance that takes brutal punishment and comes back for more.

No proving ground can equal this kind of torture. Daytona was a challenge we welcomed, a chance to prove in open competition the essential durability that makes possible the silence, the solid road-grip, the ease of control, the balanced braking...and all the other things that go into these of total performance.
