J. E. Farnsworth, in respondwould have been no Civil War. With this a test, he showed how visits such as these were mutually helpfull. Dallas, he said, must grow by reason of the growth of Texas, and she is therefore trying to help every community in the State. He spoke at some length of the advancement of Dallas in commerce, as a musical center and in education, referring particuarly to the location of the great Methodist University.

Haskell's welcome was in every way cordial. It is a fine town, which was in existence long before the railroad came three years ago; a good business town, and noted for culture and refinement. Since the coming of the railroad it has grown much, and is often spoken of as the Concrete City, having much concrete construction. -The Dallas News.

CABINET IS SELECTED AND BUSH NESS IS STARTED.

MARCH TO CAPITAL PLANNED

There Remain Fifteen Days in Which the Government May Negotiate Peace.

Juarez, Mexico, May 12.-Mexico's provisional Government has become an established fact with the naming of Cabinet by Francisco I. Madero Jr., Provisional President, and with the establishment of a capital at the captured city of Juarez.

The Cabinet follows:

Dr. Vasquez Gomes, Minister of Foreign Relations. Gustave Madero, Minister of War Frederico Gonzales Garza, Minister of the Interior. Pino Suarez, Minister of Justice. Juan Sanchez Azcona, Secretary to the President. Secretary of War Carranza will have charge of the railways and telegraph and his first act was to grant per mission for the repair of the Mexican Northwestern Railroad. A gang of men immediately set to work on the torn roadbeds south of Juarez Gonzales Garza will have charge of the mail service and Secretary of the Treasury Gustavo Madero will direct the affairs of the custom house.

Juarez, Mexico. May 15 .- President Diaz has just fifteen days to agree to terms of peace acceptable to Fran cisco I. Madero Jr. and his follow ers. In the event such an agreement is not made within that time the insurrectos under the leadership of Gen. Madero will begin a march upon the City of Mexico.

This statement was made by one of Gen. Madero's advisers and followed a statement by Oscar Braniff, one of President Diaz's unofficial peace ne gotiators, who said that he and his colleague, Esquival Obregon, were now making an effort to arrange a program of peace which would be acceptable to both the Federal Government and to the Maderists.

The insurrecto officers who gave out the time limit which President Diaz will be given in which to come to time himself said the Federal Gov ernment was at the present momen' working to find a way to meet the eace demands of the Maderists.

Husband Who Had "Married Money" Acknowledged the Truth to His Friend's Query.

Apropos of a beautiful young wife, worth $40,000,000, who had just divorced her penniless husband in order to marry again, Henry E. Dixey, the comedian, said at a dinner in New York:

"The young man who marries for money has none too easy a time of it. His rich wife is likely to tire of him and throw him out in a few years, or else she is likely to limit his allowance to 25 or 50 cents a day.

"'I married money,' a man once said to me. "'Wasn't there a woman attached to it?' I asked. 'Yes, you bet there was,' he exploded. 'So much attached to it that she never parted with a penny."

Must Have Right Food While Growing. Great care should be taken at the critical period when the young girl is just merging into womanhood that the diet shall contain that which is upbuilding and nothing harmful.

At that age the structure is being formed and if formed of a healthy, sturdy character, health and happiness will follow; on the other hand unhealthy cells may be built in and a sick condition slowly supervene which, if not checked, may ripen into a chronic condition and cause life-long suffering.

A young lady says: "Coffee began to have such an effect on my stomach a few years ago that I finally quit using it. It brought on headaches, pains in my muscles, and nervousness.

'I tried to use tea in its stead, but found its effects even worse than those I suffered from coffee. Then for a long time I drank milk at my meals, but at last it palled on me. A friend came to the rescue with the suggestion that I try Postum.

"I did so, only to find at first, that I didn't fancy it. But I had heard of so many persons who had been benefited by its use that I persevered, and when I had it made right-according to directions on the package—I found it grateful in flavour and soothing and strengthening to my stomach. I can find no words to express my feeling of what I owe to Postum!

"In every respect it has worked a wonderful improvement - the headaches, nervousness, the pains in my side and back, all the distressing symptoms yielded to the magic power of Postum. My brain seems also to share in the betterment of my physical condition; it seems keener, more alert and brighter. I am, in short, in better health now than for a long while before, and I am sure I owe it to the use of your Postum." Name given by Postum Company, Battle

LOST FAITH IN WHITE MAN

Eskimo Tested Efficacy of Telephone Scheme, and Realized He Had Been Deceived.

An interesting story is told regarding the efforts of an Eskimo to construct a telephone line. The Eskimo came into possession of a piece of wire of considerable length and never having seen wire before he asked Professor McMillan of the Peary north pole expedition what it was and what it was used for. He was told that the white man strung it on poles stuck in the ground and a voice talking to an instrument at one end could be heard at the other end. After some search the next morning the Eskimo was found to be engaged in telephone construction work of his own. He stuck some sticks in the ground and hung his wire on them. He held one end of the wire to his mouth and talked to it at the top of his voice. Then he ran as fast as he could to the other end and held the wire to his ear with the expectation of hearing his own words repeated.

When he failed to hear any sounds the expression on his face revealed his opinion of his white friend.

But the second letter, written after a week in the new school, was quite different in tone.

"I'm all right," he wrote to his mother. "The boys say they'll teach me all they know, for they're proud to have me here. I can stretch my mouth half an inch wider than any other boy in school, and my feet are the longest by a full inch. So you needn't worry about me any more."-Youth's Companion.

Is it possible to nourish, strengthen and Rebuild the Brain by Food?

Every man who thinks uses up part of the brain each day. Why don't it all disappear and leave an empty skull in say a month of brain work? Because the man rebuilds each

If he builds a little less than he destroys, brain fag and nervous prostration result sure. If he builds back a little more each day, the brain grows stronger and more capable. That also is sure. Where does man get the material to rebuild his brain? Is it from air, sky or the ice of the Arctic sea? When you come to think about it, the rebuilding material must be in the food and drink.

That also is sure. Are the brain rebuilding materials found in all food? In a good variety but not in suitable proportion in all.

To illustrate: we know bones are made large ly of lime and magnesia taken from food; therefore to make healthy bone structure we must have food containing these things. We would hardly feed only sugar and fat to make healthy bone structure in a growing child.

Likewise if we would feed in a skillful manmer to insure getting what the brain requires for strength and rebuilding, we must first know what the brain is composed of and then select some article or articles (there are more than one) that contain these elements.

Analysis of brain by an unquestionable authority, Geoghegan, shows of Mineral Salts, Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined (Phosphate of Potash) 2.91 per cent of the total, 5.33 of all mineral Salts. This is over one-half.

Beaunis, another authority, shows "Phos-phorie Acid combined" and Potash 73.44 per cent from a total of 101.07. Considerable more than one-half of Phos-

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows: Potassium and Phosphorus (which join and make Phosphate of Potash) is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body, says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumen and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life." Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as nature fur-nishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of

The natural conclusion is that if Phosphate of Potash is the needed mineral element in brain and you use food which does not contain it, you have brain fag because its daily loss is not supplied.

On the contrary, if you eat food known to be rich in this element, you place before the life forces that which nature demands for brain-building.

Mind does not work well on a brain that is broken down by lack of nourishment. A peaceful and evenly poised mind is neces-sary to good digestion.

Worry, anxiety, fear, hate, etc., etc., directly interfere with or stop the flow of Ptyalin, the digestive juice of the mouth, and also interfere with the flow of the digestive juices of stomach and pancreas.

He-Huh! She can't be.

Therefore, the mental state of the individual has much to do (more than suspected) with digestion. Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumen and water.

Grape-Nuts contain that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world. A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself.
That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite. Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required. Brain rebuilding material is certainly found in

Then the builder from whom the landlord purchased was called. He had to admit that he, as a builder, was responsible for the setting of the stove as the police had found it, and that he had violated the law in neg lecting to provide a suitable metallic hearth of the required kind and dimensions between it and the floor. For this he was held culpable.

The assessment against him began with the estimated cost to the city of responding to the alarm and extinguishing the fire, included the damage to the furniture and property of tenants, and was rounded by an exemplary fine of 500 marks as a reminder that laws are enacted for a purpose, and carry substantial penalties for their violation. The damage to the building was not included in the assessment against the builder. It was held that while the owner had not committed the violation of the law which caused the fire, he had been negligent in not discovering and correcting it, and for this reason he should pay for his own repairs and stand charged with knowlege of his duty in like cases. That he escaped a fine was making enordeemed a cause for congrammiation among his friends. Had pay a fine for neglect of duty in permitting a violation of law

Hogs Require Grit

Hogs should have grit as well as chickens. The chickens do not use the grit as hogs would use it, but they put it to a good purpose, nature teaching them and they should have it. Wallace's Farmer in touching on this, says:

time been boasting that civilization and Christianity have won the day, that the world has become God's Empire and that the blessings of the Millennium are ours to enjoy. Aid Conferences and Peace Councils and Peace Commissions have flared up for the moment, only to die down. The cry of "Peace, peace," has brought no peace.

We are beginning to see that we to been decelving ourselves into thinking that the nations of the earth are kingdoms of God. We are beginning to see that the Bible styles them "kingdoms of this world," kingdoms of the Gentiles, and that it tells us that "the Prince of this world" is

We see it all. The Kingdom of God, the Kingdom of Heaven, for which the Master taught us to pray, has not ye come. We are glad, however, that the Divine promise assures us that it will come and explains to us that the All-Wise Creator is now, first of all, preparing for his Kingdom by gathering from amongst mankind a worthy saintly few, to be associates of their King and Redeemer in that Kingdom by which the world is to be blessed.

But all are not yet convinced o

these Bible truths. To convince the more prejudiced nothing further should be necessary along these lines than to point out the difference between present conditions and those which the Scriptures declare will prevail when He who redeemed the world by the sacrifice of Himself will take His great power and reign as Messiah

Pray For Messiah's Kingdom The hope for humanity is the Mes danic Kingdom. The "mountain of the Lord's house" signifies the Kingdom of God's house, His Church. It will be established in the top of or above the kingdoms of the world. It will be exalted amongst the nations and all peoples will flow to it. There will be an attraction in it for all. It will lead them to climb upward. The attraction which will thus draw mankind will be the blessings of health and restitution, which the Kingdom will be prepared to grant to all people as they shall come into harmony with its requirements.—Acts 3:19-23. That Kingdom will be closely identified with the Zionist movement and the Holy Land. The Kingdom itself will be spiritual, invisible to men, but its earthly agents will be visible and they will be Jewish-"Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the Prophets in the Kingdom," etc. (Matt. 8:11.) The Jews, already impulsed toward the Land of Promise, will go thither in increasing numbers, and all of the faithful of them will go in symfinancial assistance. The Israelitish hopes and promises will attract that number strongly first. And gradually all the nations, learning of the grace of God, and the blessings of restitution to be bestowed, will say, "Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord and to the house of the God of Jacob; and He will teach us (as well as the Jews) of His ways and we will walk in His

ALWAYS READY

When a man has some ready money that he is keeping for some specific purpose or which he has saved to protect himself against any unlooked for emergency he should not loose sight of the purpose which that money is intended to serve. Instead of lending it to some individual who may not be able to pay it back even at an agreed upon time, or putting it in to some permanent investment. he should de posit it in the FARMERS NATIONAL BANK where it will be always ready. To have one's money prompt and with out question when one needs it is far more important than to get a little innterest for a short time. KIDNEY TROUBLE

Remarkable Story About Great Remedy

I cannot refrain from writing to say that your Swamp-Root has benefited me greatly. Last year I had a severe attack of lumbago. Was bad for a long time, and on seeing your advertisement, I determined to give it a trial. I did so and in two weeks was cured. I gave a bottle to a poor woman who could scarcely walk. She came to me in four days to tell me she was all right and most thankful. I had another attack last November and was so bad that I could not rise from my chair without assistance and could hardly lace up my boots. I at once sent for Swamp-Root and after taking two bottles, I am more than glad that I am well again. My age being seventy-three, I am the more convinced of the excellence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

son to suppose that the germs of the bubonic plague may be transferred by fleas, and of typhus fever by the body louse, but the discouragement of the flea and the louse is by no means difficult. Only the fly, because we treat him as a friend and brother, is in a position to reward us at his will by the presentation of a package of destruction that makes Pandora's box look like a collection of assorted chocolates and bonbons. He will transmit in virulent form typhoid fever, Asiatic cholera, summer dysentery and other intestinal diseases, and even tuberculosis, all by the ingestion of fly-specks on food. Therein lies almost all the danger. It will also transmit, it is true, such diseases as small-nov scarlet-fev chicken-pox, erysipelas, and even carbuncles, but practically only by inoculation, that is, by depositing the germs on a sore surface or on mucous membrane

But it is not from contact with horse manure or ordinary refuse that the fly becomes so dangerous to the health of man. By far the greater peril lies in the fact that it will breed in human excreta. Because of this habit it carries the living germs of typhoid, cholera and other intestinal diseases to exposed food supplies, and thousands of unfortunates, partaking of these, are laid low to suffer incalculable anguish of mind and body until natural resistance enables them to overcome the poison or death intervenes.

When the sum total of misery and loss which must be laid in this connection at the door of the house fly is taken into account, it will readily be believed that no remedy, however drastic, to remove the cause, can justly be regarded as super-

Dr. G. N. Kober, at the governors' conference at the White House in 1908, presented figures showing that the decrease in the vital assets of the country through typhoid fever alone in a single year is more than $350,000,000. The house fly, while not the sole carrier of the typhoid germ, takes such an unenviable part in its distribution that he may rightfully be charged with a very considerable part of the loss. Add to this the dreadful toll exacted by intestinal disorders, and the tiny agent, like the Djinn of the fisherman's jar, set free through man's indiscretion, looms more and more menacingly until his terrifying shadow fills and darkens the heavens.

These are the popular charges against the fly. In principle they are true, and the violent enthusiasm which greets the proposal for his extermination must be viewed with an approving eye. The smoke and the effervescence will inevitably pass. but the solid impetus which distinguished the movement will remain. At the same time it is well to remember that a clear, calm understanding of the actual truth, shorn of decorative hyperbole, is more essential to the success of the crusade than all the unreasoning zeal which distinguishes the first rush upon the breastworks.

How easily the inquirer may be led astray from the scientific aspect of the affair is readily illustrated. Several years ago a writer in the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal declared that certain experiments seemed to offer an explanation of the sporadic cases of cholera occurring in New York city in 1892, in spite of the most careful quarantine. Maddox and Simmonds fed files with cholera spirilla and obtained cultures of the bacterium from the insects so fed. We have seen before that bacteria suffer no diminution of their virulence in passing through the fly. In 1892 11 cases of cholers developed in New York, the disease being first brought in by steamship. The patients lived in widely-separated parts of the city and had no personal association with each other. The only striking fact common to all the cases was that the victims were engaged in some form of the food trade. The bacillus, when examined, proved to be identical with that discovered on shipboard. The physicians investigating the method of infection were forced to exclude the water supply. They also declared, after much experimentation and thought, that it was incredible that the wind had carried the germs over so great an area in so short a time. By a careful process of elimination the guilt was brought down to the fly, which by excreting cholera bacilli upon food exposed in various localities, was thought to have spread the dreaded disease.

Now mark the scientific caution of the physicians, who, though certain almost beyond the shadow of a doubt of the truth of their conclusions, felt it only fair to say: "Many links in the chain of absolute proof are wanting." They condemned the fly, but the verdict specifically declared it was largely on circumstantial evidence. As a cold matter of fact, very little is known as to how far flies travel or how much they move from place to place. Professor Packard says their rate of speed is 5.35 meters a second, which means a mile in five or six minutes, or ten miles an hour. He says further that they could scent food or decaying bodies for several miles and might fly over 20 or 30 miles a day, especially if aided by a wind. All this, it is to be observed, is carefully qualified. Like the other investigators, he is by no means certain of his ground, and in this manner aids in setting that example of scientific caution which must reap the best result in the long battle only just begun.

The state of the s

The first and greatest step against the fly is to do away with the exposed manure pile, and this is feasible through intelligent co-operation and police supervision. Some trouble and expense will be involved, it is true, but not to a prohibitory de-

All manure in stables or barns should be deposited at frequent intervals either in a pit or vault or screened inclosure. Each layer should be sprinkled with chloride of lime. This is the cheapest and most efficacious discourager of the fly, gives it almost no chance to breed, and thins its numbers almost to the vanishing point. Other disinfectants may also be used, such as kerosene, or a solution of paris green or arsenate of lead. The bin or pit should be kept covered carefully and not allowed to overflow. The manure may be kept tightly rammed in barrels for purposes of removal. Its transportation and deposit should also be under the strictest regulation. Always it should be borne in mind that an ounce of prevention in destroying the chief breeding place of the insect is for less expensive than the pound of cure when the mischief has been

The next precaution to be taken is the abolition, or at least the strictest regulation, of outhouses, in which flies are disposed to breed. In the great cities this care is lessened by the perfection of sewerage systems, but in the suburbs and country Ft. Worth Monumental Works the danger is always present. The chief peril here lies in the absorption by the fly of typhoid and intestinal bacilli and their subsequent deposit upon food. In this way pronounced epidemics are spread. The remedy consists in doing away altogether with the old-fashioned outhouse and the substitution of some form of earth closet, the use of lime and decent precautions consistently and persistently observed even at considerable expense and care. Equally important is the screening of food supplies, whether displayed in the open market or in the private larder, the disinfection and screening of refuse in hospitals, the regulation of abattoirs, garbage deposits and ashpits and all accumulations of fermenting and decaying matter.

Lastly, the close screening of all dwellings, to the absolute exclusion of our ancient and pestiferous friend, will greatly circumscribe his ability to work

The fly is also only a minor factor in the spread of tuberculosis. The bedbug, the flea and other household pests must also be charged with some measure of guilt in conveying noxious bacilli.

Again, while it has been proposed by Dr. Howard that the house fly be known henceforward as the "typhoid" fly, he himself says that, "strictly speaking, the term is open to some objection, as conveying the erroneous idea that this fly is solely responsible for the spread of typhoid." "Perhaps" (continues the same authority) "even under city conditions it (the fly) must assume third rank— next to water and milk." Even human beings have been found to be personal carriers of the disease, infecting whole families with whom they are

Without desiring for an instant to minimize the pernicious activity of the fly in the great conspiracy of natural forces against the continuation of the human species, one need only walk at random through the streets of New York, or any other city. large or small, to realize that it is not alone by the extinction of one particular species of insect that man's health is to be conserved. East side or West side, in thousands of stores that cater to the well-to-do or in noisome shops where the impoverished many buy their supplies, the same careless and unsanitary customs prevail in varying degrees. The dust that blows in clouds through eyery upsprinkled thoroughfare deposits germs upon the food of rich and poor alike. The wares exposed upon the counter in the elegant bakery at which madam orders her rolls and macaroons are as open to contamination as the soggy ples and sinkers in the cheapest restaurant or bake-shop of the Ghetto. The fruit lying unscreened upon the tastily decorated stand of Upper Broadway is as dangerous to health as that pushed about in the handcart of the intinerant peddler. In expensive groceries, meat-shops, and confectionery stores the same lax methods prevail. A scientific warfare against disease-bearing insects is not sufficient to enable us to win the contest for health, happiness and increased length of days. We must fight equally against our own indifference to civic regulation, which seems to be the abiding sin of a people who love individual liberty very much to the exclusion of the collective good.

is all right; it is when both hand wash neither that mother objects. Poverty is a splendid training for life-and an advantage we are all willing the other fellow should enjoy. The trouble with a lot of people is that they deliver their power to the whistle instead of to the drivers. It is somewhat annoying to the farmer who drives into a small town to find hogs and cattle making their beds in the middle of the road. A fence has three reasons for existence-it adds beauty to the landscape; it keeps the stock in and out; and it marks the extent of a man's property.

Children should be taught that to attain the greatest success, superiority brings its own reward even in the smallest duties and will be of greater value to the child than wealth.

It has been said that one cannot rise above one's ideals. How important, then, that children should have placed before them, and one cannot begin too soon, high ideals of self reliance, helpfulness, excellence, and never for an instant be satisfied with inferiority or mediocrity.

Work Many Hours In Order to Make Living.

(By G. H. ALFORD.) Many farmers claim that they cannot make a living without working about 15 hours per day. That is true. It is necessary for them to cultivate three acres of land in order to obtain one bale of cotton or 40 bushels of corn. They have not removed the stumps from their land and consequently cannot use labor-saving farm implements to good advantage. They do not diversify their crops and raise good stock and for this reason they are exceedingly busy at one season and idle at another season of the year. They are always behind time, and as a result must make nine stitches instead of one. They do not thoroughly prepare the land before planting time; they do not select their planting seed in the field in the fall; they do not give their crops frequent and shallow cultivation; they do not use fertilizers in the most economical manner. Such farmers are barely able to exist by working 15 hours per day.

Hand and Machine Milking.

Alternate hand and machine milking was tried with two cows at the Nebrasks experiment station, but the results were not satisfactory. When machine milking and hand milking are carried on irregularly and interchangeably the machine will not draw all the milk, and, in consequence, more strippings are obtained. In the case of hard milkers, the sphincter muscle at the end of each test was treated with a dilator until the milk could easily be drawn by hand, yet the machine was unable to remove the milk. The test cups and mouthpieces need to be changed as the lactation period advances.

Advice to Dairymen.

I think dairymen should breed their ewn cows, sow lots of clover, read farm papers and be sure to fill the silo, says a writer in an exchange. Last spring I cut a crop of clover and plowed the stubble under. I planted cattle corn with a corn planter in drills, one kernel in a place, six inches apart, and harvested a good crop and filled the silo with it the last week in September, and now am feeding it, with excellent results.

ORGANIZER OF THE FARMERS

Tremendous Influence Wielded Over More Than 3,000,000 Farmers by President Charles Barrett.

A tremendous influence is wielded over more than 3,000,000 farmers from coast to coast by Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers'

Mr. Barrett is a Georgian by birth, a farmer by instinct, choice and inclination, and a good one at that. Long ago he saw that the farmers about him were not progressing very fast along any line—except plastering mortgages on their crops and mules. He saw that there was a lack of system and management on the farm; that the farmer wasn't getting the fruits of his toil; that he was sullen, discouraged, without ambition or hope.

He knew these conditoins existed among his own people, and he believed they existed elsewhere all over the land. He began by organizing the farmers in the middle Georgian county where he lived. They held meet-ings, talked, planned and executed improved methods in their own work. Unfortunate brothers were helped over rough places. In a few years that community became a model for highly cultivated farms, contented and prosperous people, and a moral and educational forward movement of great proportions was started.

The Farmers' union movement be gan in Texas, and Georgia was one of the first states to take it up. A spirit of unrest and vague longing was abroad, and men dreamed of great things through this new organization. Young Barrett at once saw the possibility of organization among the farmers. He began as a state organizer and he planted locals in nearly every county in Georgia.

Then they elected his president of the state organization. The man's force, his burning zeal to help his people and his rare capacity for leadership developed amazingly. He made the Georgia union the most powerful in numbers and influence in the organization. He developed a business department that saved the farmers thousands of dollars on fertilizers and supplies. When manufacturers tried to checkmate him, he raised money among the farmers and built fac-

After two years as the Georgia president, the national organization needed a strong, dominant figure to lead, because factions were threatening to disrupt the union. They turned almost unanimously to Charles Barrett. When he took hold, the union had less than 400,000 members with weak organizations in most of the dozen states in which it had secured foothold. He began smashing things right and left with true vigor. He turned out every man who had an ax to grind. Politicians were literally booted from the organization.

Enemies predicted disaster. Even his cabinet officers advised more diplomacy. But he drove steadily on. LONG HOURS ARE NECESSARY Time and the union itself have vindicated his course. After four years as Reasons Why Some Are Compelled to head of the union it now has more of promise against Riter. What's his than 3,000,000 members in more than 30 states, and is preparing to invade Splendid Field Is Offered in Greece Where Millions of Dollars' Worth of Goods Is Sold.

Information published by the United States bureau of manufacturers shows that although Greece consumes annually more than two and a half million dollars worth of cotton imports, which are consumed under three main heads-raw cotton, cotton yarn and cotton goods, almost without exception the importers of Patras, when asked why they do not carry American goods, state that they have never so much as seen samples of American cotton goods.

The millions of dollars' worth of cotton goods used in this territory are practically all brought from abroad. and they constitute one of the chief items of import into the district. This would seem to offer a splendid field for a healthy expansion of the import cotton trade of the south. The manufacturers of cotton goods ought to furnish the consul of this territory and of all other foreign countries, samples of American cotton goods and price lists of same.

It will mean a loss to the farmer to have a cow afraid of him. It is a loss every time she is frightened. To run cow to pasture is like throwing money away. Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour, they do not gripe, they do not weaken, but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. In my opinion constipation is responsible for most ail-ments. There are 26 feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produce rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or any liver silment can expect to have a clear complexion or enjoy good health. If I had my way I would prohibit the sale of nine-tenths of the cathartics that are now being sold for the reason that they soon destroy the lining of the stomach, setting up serious forms of indigestion, and so paralyze the bowels that they refuse to act unless forced by strong purgatives.

Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverish it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put

ECZEMA BROKE OUT ON BABY

"When my baby was two months old, she had eczema and rash very badly. I noticed that her face and body broke out very suddenly, thick, and red as a coal of fire. I did not know what to do. The doctor ordered castile soap and powders, but they did no good. She would scratch, as it itched, and she cried, and did not sleep for more than a week. One day I saw in the paper the advertisement of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, so I got them and tried them at once. My baby's face was as a cake of sores.

"When I first used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, I could see a difference. In color it was redder. I continued with them. My baby was in a terrible condition. I used the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) four times a day, and in two weeks she was quite well. The Cuticura Remedies healed her skin perfectly, and her skin is now pretty and fine through using them. I also use the Cuticura Soap today, and will continue to, for it makes a lovely skin. Every mother should use the Cuticura Remedies. They are good for all sores, and the Cuticura Soap is also good for shampooing the hair, for I have tried it. I tell all my friends how the Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured my baby of eczema and rash." (Signed) Mrs. Drew, 210 W. 18th St., New York city, Aug. 26, 1910.

"Kicking the Bucket."

When we speak facetlously of some one for whom we have no reverence as having "kicked the bucket" we employ a phrase that would seem to be a piece of latter-day slang, but, as a matter of fact, it dates back to old England, when, about the year 1725, one Bolsover hung himself to a beam while standing on the bottom of a bucket and then kicked the bucket away. Although at first used only in cases of suicide, it has been applied in the course of years to any death, without distinction.
