Close friends of President JOHNSON had hoped that he would not have opposition within the Democratic party this year because LBJ wanted to campaign for reelection on a minimum of public exposure. LBJ is fully aware of the fact that he could be a sitting duck for some angry person's assassination bullet. He has traveled in deep secrecy and top security in recent weeks. How he expects to campaign by flying around to tightly closed labor union meetings and seeing a few voters — already for him — and continue to disregard the young voters, the ones of the college campuses most concerned about the war in Vietnam and the average American voter is beyond most of us. When I say average voter, I mean the man who works outside of government, pays taxes to run the whole show, and don't expect a political favor other than the knowledge a good administration is operating in Washington.

County Catches Good Moisture In Short Time

Wednesday was the first official day of Spring but winter weather died only by the clock for at 7:22 a.m. rain was falling in Martin County and heavy clouds covered the Permian Basin.

The dawn of the first day of the new season was not one about which the poets wrote when those tender words of love were spoken of in the bygone days. Young men's thoughts also failed badly to turn lightly when they concentrated on amor.

Big Spring Editor Heads Press Group

Joe Pickle, Big Spring Herald managing editor, Sunday was named president of the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors' at a business session of the annual APME convention.

Elected to assist Pickle were Clayte Binion of the Houston Chronicle, first vice president; Larry Ingram of the Temple Telegram, second vice president; John Stallings of the Corpus Christi - Caller Times, secretary; and Bill Rives of the Denton Record-Chronicle, treasurer.

Pickle, who began as a cub reporter wanting to get "experience" became managing editor of the Herald in 1940. His father was founder and publisher of Roscoe Times and later was a partner in publication of the Snyder News.

While attending high school in Big Spring, Pickle took journalism courses and entered Baylor University in 1928 after completing his high school education. He was graduated from Baylor in 1932.

He was honored in 1957 for 25 years' employment with the Herald.

The Texas APME convention heard an address by Presidential Press Secretary George Christian later Sunday. The three-day convention ended Monday.

Wednesday was a rough day. It rained, snowed, sleeted and brought the temperature down below freezing.

Martin County farmers and ranchers reported more than two inches of rainfall in their gauge in all directions from Stanton. In the city the gauge showed one and seven-tenths of an inch in the 24-hour fall at The Stanton Reporter. Paul Jones reported one and one-half inches of moisture on his place northeast of town at mid-morning. James Biggs said almost two inches of rainfall had been gauged when he left home for Stanton early Wednesday morning.

Giant thunderstorms packing high winds and some hail roamed the Permian Basin Tuesday night and early Wednesday, dumping more than three inches of rain in Ector and Andrews and putting points in Lubbock County under heavy snow banks. Midland was peppered with rain and sleet and the tv station was knocked out for several minutes Tuesday night.

A livestock warning was issued for the Panhandle and South Plains. Eight inches of snow was on the ground at Morton Wednesday and it was still snowing there.

Nasty weather and chilling temperatures were expected to continue until Thursday afternoon.

At about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday a two-car automobile accident occurred at the intersection of St. Paul and Carpenter in Stanton. One of the vehicle was said to have been driven by Mrs. Verban Graves and the other car by Gayle Haggard, according to Chief Bruton of the city police force.

SAMPLE CITY BALLOT—When Stanton voters visit the polls on April 6 they will mark ballots just like the one shown above. The only difference is that the ballots marked will be official and this one is a sample. Due to a new change in the election laws the type ballot shown above is now necessary in all elections. Previously only announced candidates names were printed on the official ballot and now the law requires a place for a write-in candidate be printed on the ballot so a voter can have the option of putting an X in the box beside the name written in. If a voter wishes to vote the ticket as printed then the candidates name is left and the proper X placed in the box beside his name. The new rule also calls for no marking through names on the ballot. Simply indicate your choice by marking a plain X in the box to the side of each candidate you want to vote for.

This discrimination is particularly unjust at a time when everyone is concerned about the increases in federal spending and the possibility of higher taxes generally."

Philosopher Digs Up Another Idea To Add To The Confusion Now Swamping The U. S.

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw comes up with an idea which no doubt has a flaw in it, but that's his worry.)

Dear editor:
According to all the newspapers I've read in the past few weeks and most of the brainy-type television discussions I've listened to nearly everybody agrees nearly everything is in a mess nearly everywhere in the world, from the east side of the city limits of Stanton right on clean around the world and back of the west side, and in places it may even get inside the town, although everything seems fairly normal around here to me.

Therefore I hesitate to add to the confusion and unrest now beseging the country, and I might as well bring it but a thought has been nagging at me for some time now out into the open.

As I understand the political experts, there is a vague possibility that the presidential election this year may be thrown into the lap of Congress. In case no candidate gets a clear majority of the electoral votes, they point out Congress has to select the President, with each of the 50 states having only one vote. The man who gets 26 votes wins and moves into the White House if he can get through the picket lines.

On the surface this seems fair, after all we've got to have a President, somebody's got to be at the top to take the blame, but there's just this one thing. Everybody's forgetting the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court has already ruled under its one-man - one - vote decision that all Congressmen should represent about the same number of people, but if a state with no more people than say Nevada is going to have the same voice as a state with as many people as California or New York in selecting a President, if the election is thrown into Congress, then you can see what this does to that Constitutional principle.

Obviously, with Nevada with the puny population as much say-so as New York with its millions, the Supreme Court would have to rule every President Congress selected as unconstitutional.

Congress could select a President on Monday and the Supreme Court would throw him out on Tuesday.

This could go on for years, although not forever because there wouldn't be any President to appoint any new members to the Court when it finally passed.

And you think we got troubles in Viet Nam.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Bible Comment—

Resurrection Was Start Of Jesus Mission

If one thinks of the earthly life of Jesus as lived in its Palestine home, the Resurrection was its triumphant climax.

It was not only the victory over death, it was also the victory over those who sought to destroy Him.

But for the world at large, into which Jesus had come, it was not a climax, but a beginning.

It was now that He told His disciples to go forth and preach the gospel in obedience to that great commission, 20 centuries have seen the growth of Christianity.

But even greater than the outward power of churches and organization is the mystic fellowship of all believers, who have taken to themselves the Christian name and who have sought to live according to the teaching and example of the Master.

The evil that Jesus fought and that crucified Him is still abroad in the world, seeking to destroy His teaching, setting up other standards of selfishness, violence, worldly power, and caring nothing for justice, mercy and right.

So great is this evil, so apparently overwhelming and successful, that it is easy to underestimate the power of good, the forces of righteousness and the strength of Christian progress today what may still be a far off goal.

But the power and impulse of Christianity are not in the past. Jesus still lives and leads in every devout soul whose daily life, no matter how lowly or great its place and environment, is attuned to love.

He lives and leads in every service for one's fellowmen, in the schools and colleges and in the missionaries.

We sing in our prayer, "Jesus Still Leads On," and that prayer has its answers before it is spoken, for the surest, truest, most hopeful thing in all the world that Jesus is still leading on.

Give Yourself A Break

"What did you do all day?" That's the age old question to homemakers to hit the hot button that makes the sparks fly.

You did the laundry, washed dishes, cleaned the house, taxed the children, shopped for groceries, and cooked, too. And you probably never stopped all day.

Who makes you work at such a frantic pace? You do. Just think about the advantages you have over your career-women contemporaries. You may envy them; the way they look when they set out each morning, and the exciting time you think they have in the business world. But look what you've got. You're your own boss. You can set your own pace. And no one puts a time limit on your breaks.

But, do you take a break? Or do you keep on working until you are dog-tired and a first rate drudge? You find it difficult to be smiling and peppy when you greet the five o'clock crowd. Here is the woman who really likes that way of life. So do something about it. Give yourself a break.

Look at it this way: Do your work as fast and as well as you can, but then stop. Take a mid-morning breather. Sit down with a cup of coffee, put your feet up and read a short story or the morning paper. Save the novels for the afternoon off you owe yourself. You'll find you're recharged and can sail through the rest of the morning with renewed energy.

Treat yourself to a sit-down lunch. Use your pretty china once in a while. Be your own guest. Listen to your favorite records and relax. You might want to think about your plan of attack for the rest of the day. Don't try to do everything in one day.

Some chores can wait until tomorrow and you won't be overwhelmed with what you have to accomplish by dinner time.

You'll be amazed at the change in your attitude. Now you've begun to enjoy the nice things about your home that you strive so hard to have just right for your family at the end of a day.

Back to work, now, but be a clock watcher. About an hour before you're due to hear the first "B!" at the door, close up shop. You've planned your dinner and have the major preparations out of the way. All that's left are the last minute details of serving dinner.

Now, run a bathtub full of water — as warm as you can comfortably stand it — add a little Calgon Bubble Bath, and step into a tubful of luxurious bubbles and relax . . . relax. Think pleasant thoughts. Hum a little tune. Flex your smile muscles. Take your time.

When you're completely rested and your skin feels all warm and velvety, step out onto your fluffiest bath mat. Put yourself dry and don your prettiest robe.

When you apply your makeup, don't skimp on the extras, such as eyeliner or perhaps a little eye shadow. Wear a pretty, but comfortable outfit. Keep it feminine. Then take a long, careful look in the mirror. You'll like what you see. So will the family.

When he asks "What did you do all day?" you'll say "It was a good day — got a lot done."

Tax Man Sam Sez:

Even though April 15 is almost at hand, as taxpayers we have only reached the halfway point. About half of us have filed our income tax returns — a few of us have spent our refund checks, but at least half of us are still looking for those records that we did or did not keep during 1967. There is no better time than right now — get out those records and get that tax return ready.

P. S. If you can't find the records, don't forget to keep them for 1968.)

Benefit Increases Due Persons Now On SSRolls

By: ERVEN FISHER, District Manager,
Big Spring, Texas

These people will be receiving an application blank in the mail soon which will give them through April 1 to indicate whether or not they want the supplementary coverage. If they sign up by April 1, their coverage will begin July 1, 1968. The premium paid by the person who enrolls on time will be $4 a month, matched dollar for dollar by the Government — so the insurance is worth twice the amount of the premiums people pay for it.

Those who miss out on this second chance to take the supplementary protection will have to wait another year, and pay a premium that is 10 percent higher for each full year they could have had the medical insurance, but were not enrolled. Those now enrolling, who for a year or longer had been eligible but had not signed up, will pay an additional premium of 40 cents a month above the $4.

A person who is not enrolled for medical insurance may henceforth enroll during the first three months of any year, provided this period begins within three years after he had his first opportunity to enroll. People already 65 or older who do not have medical insurance may enroll through April 1, 1968; if they do not enroll by the date, they will have to wait until 1969 for another opportunity to do so.

If you are the son or daughter or guardian of an elderly parent who is a bit absent-minded or who is a bit absent-minded, about 1.4 million people over 65 who missed out on signing up for the supplementary medical insurance under Medicare — which helps pay doctors' bills and other medical bills not covered under hospital insurance — will also miss out on some new benefits unless they take advantage of the period now open to enroll, provided by recent legislation, minded or has reading difficulty, and you are not sure whether he or she is signed up for medical insurance, we suggest you check to see whether that elderly person gets the letter in January offering this opportunity to enroll. You may want to advise him, or help him be sure the application for this important protection is mailed back. Remember, more than nine out of 10 people over 65 already have had his first opportunity to National 4-H Conference — "Tops in Texas" are the four 4-H Club members named to represent Texas at the National 4-H Conference, Washington, D. C., April 19-27. They are Gretchen Branes, Channelview, Harris County; LaNita Wood, Rt. 1, O'Donnell, Lynn County; Jackie Smajstria, Victoria, Victoria County, and Byron Gossett, Dumas, Moore County. All are known for their leadership and achievement records.

Cotton Yields Influenced By Planting Efficiency — Time spent by cotton growers calibrating and seeding their planters will pay good dividends. B. G. Reeves, extension agricultural engineer, says the dividends become noticeable as the seedlings begin to emerge with pay-off coming at harvest time.

Aids For Fighting Weeds In Cotton — Farmers have a wide choice of chemical and mechanical aids for fighting weeds and grass in their cotton this year. Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, says a control program using chemical and mechanical means is not only cheaper but faster and easier to carry out than the old hand hoeing method. He suggests a visit with the local county agent for full details on a complete weed and grass control program.

Bait Fish Conference — Featured on the program for Texas A&M University's first Bait Fish Conference, March 19-20, will be some of the nation's top fish scientists and commercial bait fish producers. W. G. Klussman, extension wildlife specialist, says meetings should be of interest of fish farmers, whether catfish or bait fish producers, since basic fish culture applies to most species. Bait fish production, he adds, has increased in recent years and may offer real possibilities when combined with catfish farming.

David Fasken Of Midland Completes Well In Martin

By JAMES C. WATSON

David Fasken of Midland completed No. 1-24 Lamesa National Bank as 1 1/2 mile south stepout and the second producer in the recently opened Sulphur Draw, west (8,800-foot Dean) pool of Martin County.

On the 24-hour potential it pumped 20 barrels of oil, gravity not reported (plus 80 barrels of water through perforation between 7,676 and 8,214 feet which had been treated with a slurry of 160,000 gallons of lease crude mixed with 100,000 pounds of sand plus 6,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 760-1.

It is six miles northeast of Tarzan, 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 24, block 36, T-3-N, T&P survey.

Deep Rock Oil Co. originally drilled the projects as No. 1 A. C. Woodward and abandoned it at 9,286 feet in Sept. 1951. Fasken re-entered it and deepened to 11,982 feet. The 5 1/2-inch casing is set at 9,792 feet.

In Midland, Phillips Petroleum Co. slated No. 2-B Golladay as a location south outpost to the two-well Azalea (Grayburg) pool, 10 miles southeast of Midland.

Location for the 4,100-foot project is 550 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 55, block 37, T-2-S, J. L. Veazey survey.

Connally Oil Co. Inc. of Abilene plans two of the Midland tests, in the Spraberry Trend area, one will attempt to open Grayburg - San Andres production in the region.

No. 2-A Oldham, seven miles southwest of Stanton, is projected to a possible 4,300 feet to check the Grayburg - San Andres, 973 feet from south and 853 feet from west lines of section 27, block 37, T-1-S, T&P survey.

It is five miles northeast of Azalea (Grayburg) field.

No. 1-D McClintie has a proposed goal of 9,459 feet as a Spraberry, Dean - Wolfcamp prospect, 12 miles of Midland.

HILL COUNTRY TRAIL

A stair-step chain of lakes, a President's home, historic San Antonio and a bounty of attractions and scenic drives highlight the Texas Hill Country Trail, one of 10 Travel Trails unveiled in Austin January 17 by Gov. John Connally.

Stretching for an estimated 578 miles, the trail traverses the counties of Bandera, Bexar, Blanco, Burnet, Comal, Gillespie, Hays, Kerr, Llano, Medina, Real, Travis, Uvalde, and Williamson. It swings from Austin via Farm Road 1826 to Wimberley, a Blanco River community noted for its cool, shady streams beneath tall cypress trees. Dude ranches and youth camps cover the area.

State Highway 12 leads to San Marcos, home of unique Aquarena Springs and Southwest Texas State College, alma mater of President Lyndon Johnson. In addition to its submarine theatre, Aquarena offers glass-bottom boat rides on the San Marcos River a Swiss sky ride and a Texana Village featuring a frontier town. New Braunfels is the next trail host where the annual "wurstfest" celebration in November attracts thousands to pay tribute to the sausage-makers of the region. Two of the state's outstanding caverns are in this area — Wonder Cave in San Marcos and Natural Bridge Caverns, located about 12 miles west of New Braunfels off State Highway 1863.

Also near New Braunfels is Canyon Lake, one of the state's newest. Its 13,000 surface acres lie in a hills - and - valley region that provides spectacular lake views where elevations vary 1,000 feet and more.

The Hill Country Trail skirts San Antonio on the north via Loop 410 connecting with State Highway 1957 which leads to Castrovilla. Beautiful Medina Lake and River nearby make the area one of the most scenic in the state. Castrovilla was founded in 1844 and is rich in Alsatian traditions. The Landmark Inn, built in 1848, and St. Louis Catholic Church, constructed that same year, are sites worth the visitor's time. Leaving Castrovilla on U. S. 90, the trail turns abruptly north on Farm Road 689 for Bandera, site of the state's largest concentration of dude ranches. A change-of-pace life — breakfast, cooked on an open fire, a peaceful trail ride along a quiet stream, and an evening meal around a glowing campfire — awaits visitors.

Uvalde is home of the late Vice President John Nance Garner and the state park bearing his name.

The trail turns northward once more, continuing to Camp Wood via State Highway 55 and on into Leakey on the Frio River. More spectacular scenery awaits the traveler in the Leakey area on State Highway 83 and 39 leading into Kerrville, county seat of Kerr County and home of Shreiner Institute. Nearby lakes on the Guadalupe River provide visitors excellent fishing and water sports on a year-round basis.

From Fredericksburg to Johnson City along State Highway 290 is Lyndon Johnson country. Here the President was born, reared and returns for his leisure hours. The LBJ Ranch on Ranch Road 1 has become one of the state's leading tourist attractions. Visitors are allowed near the site except when the President is at home. President Johnson's boyhood home is open to the public in nearby Johnson City, while a replica of the birthplace home is on the ranch.

The return to Austin passes the forest-crowned shores of Highland Lakes, a 143-mile stairway of water that tumbles from limestone caverns and winds among the cactus and sotol slopes.

Once the crystal blue lakes were a flooding threat. Three dams were built to harness the Colorado River. And the lakes became a placid playground.

Longhorn Cavern and Inks State Parks offer recreational stops along the way. One of the oldest parks, Longhorn Cavern abounds in legends of outlaws using the cave as a hideout.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox, Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw, Bobby Howard.

Kleingrass, one of the most recent promising new grasses in Texas, has put some eye-opening gains on steers at the Texas Experiment Stations at Beeville and McGregor, reports Ernest Haner with the Soil Conservation Service in Stanton.

The following is a brief summary of the results of grazing trials made by E. C. Holt, professors Department of Soil and Crop Sciences, Texas A&M University, and Billy Conrad, agronomist with the Coastal Bend Experiment Station, Beeville. Grazing trials with Kleingrass started at Texas A&M University's experiment station at Beeville in 1965, and McGregor in 1967. A spring planting at Beeville in 1965 matured and made a seed crop that fall. The mature plant growth, about three feet high, was grazed at the rate of one steer per acre from November 15, 1965, to March 1, 1966.

Because of a mild winter some green growth was available throughout the winter. During the 105 day grazing period, the steers gained 1.1 pounds daily without any supplemental feeding. Following a one month recovery period the pasture was stocked at the same rate with 500 pound steers on April 1, 1966. These animals made a daily gain of 1.7 pounds for the 180 day period. The latter half of the grazing period was extremely dry.

Kleingrass also appears to be suitable for wintering cattle. At the Beeville Experiment Station, cattle were grazed on the residue during the 1966-1967 winter. Residue growth was much shorter than the previous year. An average weight loss of 27 pounds per animal was recorded for the 100 day wintering period.

During the spring and early summer growth period, the cattle made a daily gain of 2.40 pounds up to June 27. Results of grazing trials indicate that cattle make good gains on Kleingrass during the growing season and winter on the dormant stand without excessive weight loss. The stand at Beeville has been grazed almost continuously for 20 months, and shows no signs of stand deterioration.

At the present time Kleingrass offers some good possibilities as an alternative cash crop in the Martin - Howard Soil and Water Conservation District, as an irrigated pasture for forage and seed production. The supply of Kleingrass seed is very limited at this time and farmers with a stand should have no problem selling the seed at a good price. In many cases the seed crop can be contracted to a seed company, and the seed company will make all arrangements to harvest the seed.

Total tax payments (federal, state and local) of Class I railroads in 1966 amounted to more than $2,800,000 a day.

Davis Mountains Park Nearing Completion

Department workmen are putting the final touches on a $1 million plus renovation project at the 1869-acre Davis Mountain State Scenic Park near Fort Davis, according to Johnny Buck, director of Park Planning for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Department sources say this is the first park in the State park system to have a million-dollar renovation project. The project was completed by Federal grants from the Land and Water Conservation Fund and appropriations from the Texas Legislature.

Dedication ceremonies have been tentatively scheduled for March 28; however, final plans have not been completed, department officials said.

Major projects in the park include a park headquarters and entrance complex, renovation of Indian Lodge, a water system, an interpretation center, an amphitheater, a one-mile nature trail and two miles of hiking trails which interconnect with existing trails at Fort Davis National Historic Site, just across the mountain from the State park.

Approximately $40,000 was spent on Indian Lodge by adding 24 additional rooms, a 22 x 42-foot motel type swimming pool, a dining room and an assembly room capable of approximately 100 persons.

Other construction includes two rest rooms with showers, one without a shower, 27 trailer camping site with water, electricity and sewage hook-ups, 70 new campsites and renovation of 11 existing sites, 33 picnic tables, which includes a 16-table group site, two wells and storage tanks, water distribution lines, a new ranger's residence, service area and a maintenance building.

Renovation projects include a scenic lookout overlooking Old Fort Davis, built in the early 1930's by the Civil Conservation Corps. With rock veneer and stone steps, workman also converted a water-storage tank along the skyline drive to another scenic overlook.

The Texas Highway Department built approximately five miles of roads in the park which included widening and surfacing the skyline drive, Buck said.

Easter Seal Society Offers Many Services

The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas offers a variety of services to the physically disabled citizen of Martin County, according to Jim Tom, the Easter Seal representative.

"The Texas Easter Seal Society can provide services to people and families who cannot afford to pay all or part of the cost involved. We can assist in paying for physical, occupational and speech and hearing therapy when it is prescribed by a medical doctor," he said.

"Should a family or individual have to travel to another town for therapy we can help defray traveling expenses when the family is unable to meet them."

"We can also provide assistance to individual and families in purchasing orthopedic equipment such as wheelchairs, walkers, crutches, braces when prescribed by a medical doctor."

"We can provide help to families in reaching the right person or agencies to receive help that the Easter Seal Society does not provide. This is very important when special testing, evaluation or hospitalization might be necessary. Also people are often eligible for services from public or private agencies, but do not know the person, requirements, or place to get the help, perhaps the Easter Seal Society can help," he added.

Mr. Tom urged anyone who might be able to benefit from the help provided by the Easter Seal Society to contact him at First National Bank, Stanton, Texas 79782.

Easter Seal Services are available to any adult or child with a physical handicap. The 1968 Easter Seal Appeal will provide funds for a wide variety of educational projects and treatment services for Texans. The campaign will run through Easter Sunday, April 14.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

The great game of politics, for the presidential election year of 1968, got off to a fast start during the past week. What happened in New Hampshire will be discussed and disputed for months, but it may bring about some surprising changes in the nature and direction of politicking at high level this year. If the results of the New Hampshire primary and some of the voting trends apparently indicated tend to be confirmed by later primaries in other states, this may be unlike any election year in the history of the United States. While not unprecedented, the fact that incumbent President Johnson is confronted with an uphill battle for renomination indicates the gravity of the decision that the voters of the nation must make at the polls in early November. On the Democratic side, there has been some effort to unseat Mr. Johnson as the party's candidate. Although the strong showing of Senator Eugene McCarthy in the New Hampshire primary was surprising to many Democratic leaders, the likelihood that Mr. Johnson can't defeat Sen. McCarthy is remote. Right on the heels of Johnson's failure to do better in the New Hampshire primary, Senator Robert Kennedy jumped in the ring and the latest Gallup poll show him tied at 41 percent with Johnson. This poll was taken before New Hampshire. As for the Republicans, several occupy part of the limelight in which Richard Nixon now basks after his strong New Hampshire showing. Among the contenders are Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, and some lesser known personalities such as Senator Charles Percy of Illinois. The nature of politics being what it is, no one can say with any certainty who will get the GOP nomination. Then there is the third party being formed by former Alabama governor George Wallace. Wallace will definitely carry some states, maybe as many as ten. His candidacy can toss a monkey wrench in the machinery sure enough. With the exception of the showing in New Hampshire—where the total vote in the Republican and Democratic primaries was under 200,000, which means it is very small as an indicator of total U.S. public opinion, there seems to be no great enthusiasm for anyone at the present time. There is a feeling that the people in general are disenchanted with the game of politics as it is being played in the U.S. today. It may be that the public is far ahead of the candidates in sensing the import of issues without precedent that now confronts us, of which three are uppermost: Vietnam, crime and civil strife, and inflation. The magnitude of these three issues leaves little room for slogans and demagoguery. Past election campaigns have been heavily loaded with both. Small wonder that people are fed up with it all. And some other potential candidates have been and are still afraid to declare themselves. This year there are so few "options" for the candidates in their approach to national and international problems that the usual open-handed pledges and easy promises may be notable by their absence. Certainly no one can make any hard promises about the war in Vietnam, where the initiative is with the Communists. Here at home on the domestic front, lavish government spending on all sorts of social welfare and give-away programs has been accompanied by a rising level of discontent and violence. Crime is so rampant that citizens dare not venture on the streets at night in the larger cities, especially in Washington, D. C., and people are no longer safe in their home. Not even in Dallas where an increasing number of nightly sex crimes are being committed. Close on the heels of this issue comes concern over inflation and the troubles of the dollar. Growing lack of confidence in the dollar abroad and the consequent rising drain on our gold reserves demands the end of profligate government spending. Thus it can be seen, and the actual and potential presidential candidates must be aware, the time of the easily given promise of vast new spending and costly aid program for this and that group is past. Current facts of life indicate that the next President of the United States will be confined in his choices of action by hard circumstances already brought into being. The job of being President, never and enviable one, will assume ever more awesome proportions. The candidates, this year, very likely will not be able to conduct their campaigns in the usual handshaking, open-car intimacy with people. Here again, we face a departure from the past, the most unpleasant departure forced by rising crime and violence. Citizens have been used to seeing their presidential candidates at close range, in parades, at speaking engagements and personal appearance in out-of-the-way places all across the land. This open, public form of political campaigning may not be possible this year. What has been called civil disobedience—in plainer English, riots and mob violence, killing and property destruction—may restrict this year's political campaign to a rather grim, heavily guarded motorcade of bullet-proof cars, or mostly television and radio appearances. Great concern has been expressed over the safety of President Johnson when he takes to the campaign trail. Other candidates will try to exercise a little more freedom. All of which indicates this year of election campaigning promises to be unprecedented. In the months ahead—during the state primaries and the national party conventions between now and fall—the responsibilities of self-government will weigh heavily on the active citizens of this country. In the end, come November, the victor will but reflect our collective wisdom at the polls, or our lack of wisdom.

LP

This column should be completed with a few remarks about the governor's race but there is very little authentic information to pass along concerning how the candidates are running. All candidates are behind with their newspaper publicity and advertising. This is a very quiet campaign to date. Outside the singing commercial one candidate is using to say he ought to be elected without giving any reason at all, the television jazz is pretty calm. Men who travel Texas for a living tell me that PRESTON SMITH and WAGGONER CARR are out in front of the others; that DON YARBOROUGH is in third place and the other candidates scattered out way behind. The three leaders at this point all have public images created by generous space in the state newspapers through

Two Stanton guards, sophomore Nancy Madison, and senior Scherry Avery, along with senior forward Kay Harrell, were named to the girl's all-district team.

David Avery was named to the second team, and Tommy Glynn and Jimmie Jones received honorable mention.

Second place finishes were made by Carl Dean in the pole vault, and David Avery in both the broad jump and 300 intermediate hurdles. Avery also finished fourth in the high hurdles and sixth in the high jump. David Jones added points with a fifth place finish in the 100 yard dash, and sixth in the 220.

The Tommy Sikes Memorial Trophy, given to the miler with the best time in both Divisions, was awarded to Steve Stallings. The trophy is given in memory of a former Eldorado coach. The trophy, now on display at SHS, will be returned to the meet next year, when Stallings can again compete for it.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Privacy And The Census
During the last federal census, a disgruntled citizen decided the government was getting altogether too nosy. So he refused to answer certain questions, calling them an invasion of his privacy and an "unreasonable search and seizure"—forbidden by the Constitution.

But in a test case, the court held the questions within the proper scope of governmental curiosity. "The authority to gather reliable statistical data reasonably related to governmental functions is a necessity," said the court, "if modern government is to legislate intelligently."

By and large, the taking of the census (itself authorized by the Constitution) has not run into serious opposition. One big reason, no doubt, is that personal information is kept confidential—as a kind of compensation to the citizen for accepting a little prying into his private life. Federal law specifically provides that census information about any individual may not be disclosed "to his detriment."

What does this mean? In one case, an insurance company refused to pay a man's claim because it suspected he had lied about his age on the application form. "To double check," the company told him, "we would like to see what age you gave to the census taker."

However, in a court hearing, the insurance company was denied access to the census records. The court pointed out the desired information might indeed be to the man's detriment—and therefore could not be released without his consent.

That doesn't mean general statistics cannot be used, merely because they are unpalatable to some individuals. Thus:

A city wanted to use census figures to classify a certain block as a "blighted area." Property owners objected that this was using census information "to our detriment."

But the court overruled their objection, because this was not personal information but simply the statistical profile of a neighborhood.

Over the years, such statistics have become a valuable source of guidance not only for government but also for business, for agriculture, and work on the plans for graduation. They chose Linda Holder, Nancy Hursh, Albert Posey, and David Adkins, as the ushers for graduation.

The juniors have voted to have "Southern Plantation," as the theme for the banquet. They turned down the possibility of having a prom and discussed plans for a talent show to be held April 4.

The volleyball team, coached by Miss Ruth Love, traveled to Lamesa and Imperial last week for practice games. At the Imperial Tournament they played Big Lake and Ozona. Tuesday afternoon they travel to Crane. Making the "A" team are: Kathy Therwanger, Gail Coates, Linda Henley, Kay Harrell, Scherry Avery, Bonnie Morris, Linda White, Marty McArthur, Connie Henley, and Robbie Hazlewood.

"B" team members are: Jana Hall, Debbie Webster, Nancy Madison, Leatrice Jones, Joy Dunn, Mary Merrifield, Deborah Robinson, Irma Brown, Charles McCalister, Deborah Hoggard.

Next week the girls will travel to O'Donnell and Sands for practice games.

The Stanton Future Farmers of America chapter will travel to Sweetwater for area contest this Saturday. The FFA chapter met Tuesday during activity period to make plans for the upcoming contests.

The Future Homemakers met Tuesday March 19. The group participated in the opening and closing ceremonies. Cindy Davis and Linda Holder led the group in a "relaxer" concerning flowers. Cathy Woodrow was named high point girl of the month, and Cathy Hazlewood was named high point officer.
