A TIME FOR INITIATIVE

Soil Stewardship Week
May 19-26, 1968

A press release from Vietnam told this week how CAPT. ROBB, son-in-law of LBJ, behaved after being under fire for the first time. It read: Captain Charles S. Robb whipped out 45-caliber pistol from his holster and fired into a clump of elephant grass where Communist fire was heard." It continued: "There was no return fire and no indication anyone or anybody had been hit." I think I know how ROBB felt. I had a similar experience once when I emptied a 38-caliber clip at what was later figured out to be a shadow. It is good to know that LBJ's son-in-law is so alert and fast with the shooting iron. No doubt, some time in the future CAPTAIN ROBB will be cited for heroism. I don't say this sarcastically. CHUCK ROBB has been tagged a good company commander by his comrades in arms. Any man wearing an American uniform and serving in Vietnam has my eternal backing, respect and admiration. CAPTAIN ROBB is way out front of the bunch of bums now. "Tenting On the Capitol Grounds" in Washington demanding handouts.

Monday morning found a lot of new and attractive persons in downtown Stanton. The boys and girls could be counted in large numbers in the business district. School was dismissed for the vacation period last week. Some of the students were shopping and the extra activity gave those of us who find little excitement around these days a big charge.

The city needs something for the students to do badly. A summer recreation program is being planned and it deserves the support of us all. Make a contribution to the cause today. Some of the students are hunting jobs and they can work in their play to fit the hours they are needed and come up with a balanced schedule. The local recreation program will be financed by community leaders interested in promoting a summer project designed to benefit the teenagers from a standpoint of health and meritorious activity.

GEORGE CURRY went fishing Monday and his son BILL, local student and talented musician, was keeping the store for him when we dropped by in mid-afternoon. BILL told us he expected to be on duty pretty regularly for the next three months. Young CURRY also expressed satisfaction in having another successful school year behind him. He is majoring in biology and his minor is music.

It is always a pleasure to visit awhile with the SALE brothers, J. C. and WOODFORD. When the three of us get together the conversation touches many bases. The Monday dialogue concerned an appraisal of the national candidates.

The area press, including this newspaper, published a story last week telling of the approaching marriage of CAPTAIN JIM CLAYTON STANDER and CAROL BRUCE ALEXANDER. The bridegroom

Adkins Wins FFA Honors At District Meet

David Adkins of the Stanton FFA Chapter won three honors at the El Rancho District meeting held at Sands High School on May 14.

Adkins was selected as star Lone Star Farmer of the El Rancho District and was elected as area officer to represent the district in Odessa on May 31 at the Area Two convention. Adkins also won the top spot in public speaking to make a clean sweep of El Rancho District honors.

Claud Straub of the local FFA chapter won the office of president of the El Rancho District for the 1968-69 school year. He has been a chapter officer, student council vice-president at Stanton High School the past year and has been high individual on grass and range judging teams at El Paso, San Angelo, Houston, Sweetwater and at the Texas Tech sponsored contest.

A talent team composed of Bill Pardue and Larry Adams won the El Rancho District contest and will represent the district in the Area Two FFA Convention to be held in Odessa on May 31 and June 1.

Summer Recreation Program Started Operating This Week

The Stanton Recreation Association's summer program started its operation this week. Bob Halslip, Little League baseball commissioner, announced that 125 boys in the 8 to 12 year old bracket, had been assigned to teams and that practice sessions were underway. Team uniforms are being issued this week with games scheduled to start the night of June 3, in the Little League park.

Registration continues for the other parts of the program. For Junior High and Senior High students there will be tennis, volleyball, softball, track, and a supervised weight program. These activities will start at the Senior High gym on June 3. In addition the High School cafeteria is being used as a game room. A girl's softball field is under construction west of the gym.

All students who have not turned in their signed membership application are urged to do so. These may be obtained from Bob Deavenport. Sections in some sports are filling rapidly, and early registration is urged.

Stanton FHA Banquet Held Saturday In Midland Club

The Stanton chapter of the Future Homemakers of America held their annual Mother-Daughter Banquet, Saturday, May 11, at the Midland Woman's Club. Cathy Hazlewood, chapter president, served as toast mistress. The invocation was given by Mrs. Billy Loudner.

Following the meal, the group conducted the opening ceremony. Luan Louder welcomed members and their mothers, after which Mrs. Cliff Hazlewood, Jr. gave the response. A report on the recent state meeting was given by Dianna Mims, Cindi Clements, Cindy Davis, and Mary Bradshaw. Vicki Glynn entertained the guests with a piano

Stanton Gets FFA Approval For Golf Club

Farmers Home Administration today announced approval of loan GP $13,950 to Martin County Country Club, Inc., for a recreation area to serve 125 families.

The country club facilities will consist of a combination club house and golf pro shop, a nine-hole golf course, swimming pool, driving range, and practice putting greens. The facilities will be located on a 100-acre tract of land just south of the city limits on the Sale farm. The club will be located on the paved street just south of the ball park at the south end of the lake.

Congressman George Mahon notified friends here by telegram of the loan approval.

Absentee Voting Now Underway

Absentee voting started in Martin County Wednesday, May 22, and will be concluded on May 28.

Democratic voters can cast ballots in the office of County Clerk Doris Stephenson.

Republicans will not hold a run-off race because Paul Eggers of Wichita Falls, candidate for governor on the GOP ticket defeated both of his first primary opponents.

The American Party will vote again only in the election in November when a president

Wells Children Give Program For Local Lions

The Stanton Lions Club met Tuesday noon at the Belyue Restaurant, with president, Tom Angel, presiding. John Roueche led the sing-song, accompanied by sweetheart Pauline Wood. The pledge to the flag was led by F. O. Rhodes, and H. S. Blocker voiced the invocation.

J. R. Dillard presented the students of the month. They were David Adkins and Mary Ramos.

Jimmy Conner, program chairman, introduced Diania and Darrel Wells, members of the Friendship 4-H Club, who gave a demonstration entitled "Poisonous Snakes and First Aid Treatment for Snake Bite." They explained that there are four very poisonous snakes in Texas and gave a pictorial example of each. The use of a snake bite kit was demonstrated to the group, as well as an outline of first aid treatment. Diania told the Lions that their demonstration won second place in Odessa at the district competition on May 4.

Zone Chairman, John Wood, presented membership-growth awards to Chuck Elmore, Tom Angel, and Paige Eiland. The president announced that the yearly awards program would be held at next Tuesday's meeting.

Twenty members were present and one guest, Mrs. W. T. Wells, attended.

Area Senior Girls Honored

The graduating senior girls of 1968 from Stanton and Garden City High Schools were honored with a party given by Mrs. D. Cravens, May 14 at 8 p.m.

Informal modeling for the group was presented by Lawanda Glaspie and Debra Means.

Robert Haggard and his group; Terry Franklin, Pam Williams and Jane Hodges entertained the group with popular songs and guitar music. A drawing of names for gifts were as follows: Rhonda Reid, three pieces of luggage; Bonnie Harris, pair of hose;

Some Churches Plan Services For Occasion

The Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board and the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts will sponsor Soil Stewardship Week in Texas May 19-26.

Soil Stewardship Week is a week set aside nationally each year to call attention to everyone's moral responsibility as a steward of the soil and other natural resources provided by God. Nationally, the week of observance is sponsored by the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts with the guidance of an interdenominational Soil Stewardship advisory committee.

Legion Plans To Honor Vets Memorial Day

The Stoeger-Estes Post 429 of the American Legion will observe Memorial Day, May 30, by placing flags on the graves of all deceased veterans of all wars.

This year the Post is permanently marking the graves of all World War I Veterans with a Bronze Marker bearing a name plate with such pertinent information as to service to the veterans country in World War I, date of birth, and death.

This project of the Legion Post will be continued until such time as all the veterans who have served their country shall have the permanent markers.

Post Commander Roy Pickett requests that as many veterans as possible be present to assist in the ceremony.

Time for the service is 8:00 a.m., May 30, at the American Legion Memorial Plot in Evergreen Cemetery, for the flag raising and placing of flags at the memorial stones of each veteran.

The grave marker flags will remain on all graves through Sunday, June 2.

Stanton Reporter Installs New Printing Equipment

This issue of The Stanton Reporter was printed on the recently installed Goss Cox-O-Type press and the pictures appearing in the paper this week were made ready for printing right here in the newspaper plant.

The Goss press and the Fairchild machine were installed to bring the Martin County official publication up to a super modern level. The Stanton Reporter is the only weekly publication operating between Fort Worth and El Paso with such a wide assortment of up-to-date equipment. In addition to the Goss and Fairchild a Ludlow type casting device will be placed in operation in a week or so. Very few weekly newspapers own Ludlows. Most of the type is still handset in the caption writing area but the Ludlow will enable the management to give the public a variety of type styles thus eliminating the time consuming use of handset head type.

The Goss press is capable of printing several hundred copies of the standard eight page paper an hour. It is suitable for publication of a small daily. The press is completely automatic and all eight pages are loaded on the Goss at the same time, four pages on the top level and four on the bottom bed. The finished paper efficiently and evenly folded rolls from the Goss in a smooth operation.

A few days ago a new type address system was installed which enables the use of a faster method of taking care of the mail. This new type address system was needed to speed the handling of local and out-of-town subscriptions. The subscription list of the local newspaper continues to grow and no increase in the circulation price is anticipated at this time.

Before the new Goss press could be installed, it was necessary to engage the services of a special contractor to prepare the foundation around the pit for the press to rest on. The Goss weighs several thousand pounds and for perfect operation a hair-thin balance is vital. The installation of the modern press brought to a close the era of the flatbed Miehle and use of flat newsprint for the local paper. The Goss uses large rolls of newsprint manufactured in Lufkin, Texas, and shipped directly to Stanton. It requires two men to load the Goss and a winding web of newsprint criss-crosses the rollers top and bottom much in the fashion of threading a multi-assembly of ribbons in a textile mill operation.

The pit below the press allows pressmen free movement and complete room for checking and repairing the big Goss Cox-O-Type.

These new improvements were made because the management feels like the future of Martin County deserves the best consideration from all sources in the field of public service.

Six Flags Employs 11,163 Collegians

The tourists and recreation business is one of Texas top payrolls today. Expanded last winter with another $2-million addition of attractions and facilities Six Flags will employ even more young people this year. For instance, since it opened in 1961, Six Flags Over Texas, now a $16-million fun and thrill resort at Arlington, has provided employment for 11,163 students representing 86 colleges from 38 different states.

In addition to pay, many students receive college scholarships awarded each year to outstanding hosts and hostesses in each department.

Red's Corner

By RED GIBSON

The easy way out in any piece of writing concerning poverty is to say that people who want to fight poverty ought to do one thing: go to work.

Although I don't think the current poverty marchers have any right to put up a shantytown on the Washington mall and although I sincerely fear that the protest will end up with riots and looting and although I don't believe the poor have any legitimate right to demand that someone else take care of their problems, I still regretfully admit that some of these problems are beyond solution of the poor.

This country has changed in the last 40 years. It has become an urban society; the balance of power is in the cities and not in the rural areas. And the problems of climbing the economic ladder are greater in the cities, at least for the majority, than in less populated areas.

That's sort of a paradox. We flock to the cities because the economic opportunities are greater there—more jobs. And yet so many people flock there that they cause unemployment. The cities have the bulk of unemployment. They have the bulk of the squalor to be found in this country. Certainly they have most of the pampering together that causes friction among people.

People go to the cities full of hope, and they wind up full of bitterness. As always, one in a hundred will have the brains and willingness to work that will get him to the top. Twenty-five or so will have enough to get to a decent level of living. And the rest will be like most people—they will just muddle along throughout their lives. The problem is that the muddling isn't overly pleasant in the big cities. A muddler shortly winds up in poverty.

The world is full of muddlers, but they usually have some base to build on. They go to school and get a job. They never rise to exalted positions, but by starting fairly high they manage to get along. The immigrant city muddlers, on the other hand, go to the city expecting miracles. Miracles are rare.

This leaves us with an oversupply of bitter people who don't want to blame themselves for their problems. (Few of us do, for that matter.) If they are black, they can readily blame the white establishment. If they are white, they can blame the government. I won't fault the people for these emotions; we all look for someone else to blame before we look to ourselves. But after blaming the rest of the world they ought to do something about their condition—something besides demanding that the government fix everything up.

The key word is "demand." They don't say, "Look, we got problems and we would like your help." Instead, it's "You there! Get busy and take care of me."

With this attitude the nation's poor people, black or white, have alienated the great middle class, that, for one thing, pays the taxes in this country. Right or wrong, these people don't like to be bossed by people asking for help.

Americans realize that they have not always done the right thing in regard to minorities, whether they be Negroes, Latins or Indians. We are often assailed by pings of conscience, and it is this conscience that will benefit America's poor the most.

For, in truth, Americans will usually do what is right as long as they know the facts. If the marchers can dramatize their plight and thus get the facts before the people, they may have a chance of getting help. But if in their dramatizing they go far enough to alienate the people who are paying the bills, then the reaction will defeat the whole purpose.

That will mean more poor people, more bitterness, more rejection, more trouble. Let's hope it doesn't happen that way.

SHS News

School's out! The final bell at 2:30 Friday afternoon, was met with a wild rampage of jubilant students, an occasional tear, and a much relieved faculty. Students returned to the halls once more on Monday, May 20, to receive their report cards, then were off to summer jobs, summer vacations, and summer fun.

Forty-nine members of the Class of 1968 were presented diplomas during the commencement exercises held in the Stanton High School auditorium, May 17, at 8:00.

The professional and recessional, "Pomp and Circumstance," was played by Miss Melrae Angel.

Sue Walker voiced the invocation, and the welcome was extended by Judy Overby. Sandra Merifield presented the salutatory address, and Karl Herzog, highest ranking graduate, presented the valedictory remarks.

The class then sang, "The Impossible Dream," with Robert Haggard directing.

The high school principal, J. R. Dillard, bestowed the salutatorian and valedictorian trophies, along with announcing scholarship recipients. Russell McMeans, superintendent, introduced the class to School Board President, David Workman, who presented the diplomas.

Following the singing of the school song, the benediction was given by Pam Williams.

With their high school days over and gone, many members of the Class of '68 have begun the task of finalizing plans for their college education.

Soon headed for summer school at Texas Tech will be: Sue Walker, Cathy Hazlewood, and Pam Williams. Attending Tech in the fall, will be Cathy Therwanger, and Bob Wilson. Class valedictorian, Karl Herzog, will use his scholar-

Bible Comment—

Jesus Christ Came Into The World To Save Sinners

"This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief" (II Tim. 1:15).

Of all Paul's "faithful sayings," this is perhaps the most wonderful and the one through which most people have found the joy of sins forgiven.

The subject is that "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." Why else would Christ have had to leave His glory in heaven if it were not, as the Bible says, to come to earth in human form to represent us in the payment for sin? And, thank God, He paid the full price of the sin of all men, for this was not a mere man who died on Calvary's cross. So complete was His payment that Paul could exclaim: "He came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief." Paul, himself, though once Christ's enemy on earth, had now been saved by Him and had come to know the joy of sins forgiven.

The great trouble is that so many people do not feel their condition to be hopeless apart from Christ. They have not yet seen how far they come short of the glory and holiness of God. They know that they are sinners, but they do not yet feel that their condition is so hopeless that they need a Savior. Thus they keep trying, trying, trying—and failing, failing, failing!

How much wiser we are to confess our sins before God—to take the place of sinners, so that He can save us. This is the first step to heaven. When we have done this we are in a position to accept God's offer of full pardon and justification through Christ, who died to pay the penalty for our sins.

Since none are perfect and all have sinned, "This is," indeed, "a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." Why not believe God's Word, accept Christ as your Savior and be saved today.

Baptist Church Activities

The Mary Stamps Circle of the Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church, met in the home of Mrs. H. R. Caffey on Monday, May 20.

Mrs. W. H. Yater, circle chairman, conducted the business meeting.

The prayer calendar was read by Mrs. W. H. Yater, and Mrs. Eula Eubanks voiced the prayer.

Circle program was given by Mrs. B. F. White, on "By Other Means." Others on the program were Mrs. G. A. Eiland, Mrs. H. R. Caffey, and Mrs. W. H. Yater.

Mrs. L. D. Stripling dismissed the meeting by prayer.

Refreshments were served to those attending, who were: Mrs. Paul K. Jones, Mrs. Roy Martin, Mrs. Eula Eubanks, Mrs. H. R. Caffey, Mrs. W. H. Yater, Mrs. B. F. White, Mrs. G. H. Eiland, and Mrs. L. D. Stripling.

Headed for Abilene's Stenographer Institute of Texas, is Robert Haggard.

Katharine Gamel, Royce Bruton, and Knox Bruce, have chosen to attend Sul Ross in Alpine.

Bert Decker will attend South Texas State in San Marcos, on a football scholarship. Johnny Louder has also chosen SWST as his college preference.

Three Stanton girls have decided to attend Tarleton State in Stephenville. They are Jane Hodges, Nealu Ferguson, and Rhonda Reid.

An all-time favorite with graduating seniors, is Howard County Junior College. This year eight SHS seniors have chosen to enroll in HCJC. Two of these, Kay Harrell and Jimmie Jones, have received basketball scholarships. Also planning to attend classes in Big Spring are: Steve Hall, Don Burns, Carl Holloway, Glen Lawson, Luan Louder, and Freddie Newman.

Insecticide Decides Who Will Enjoy Vegetables

Sometimes a small cloud of insecticide decides who will enjoy the delicious vegetables in your garden—you or those sneaky garden pests. Insecticides, applied at the right time and the right place, are your guarantee that you and your family will be able to enjoy the fruits of your labor, notes Reagor, county agricultural agent.

Garden chemicals are carefully screened by USDA and the Food and Drug Administration before manufacturers are allowed to make them available to producers. The label clearly states the insects for which the insecticide is effective, its rate of application and the necessary waiting interval between application and eating or processing the vegetables, Reagor explains.

The most commonly used insecticides for home gardens are carbaryl (Sevin), chlordane, DDT, diazinon, malathion, methoxychlor, rotenone

San Antonio Fair Official Resigns Job

Fank Manupelli, a key man in building San Antonio's HemisFair has resigned.

Manupelli's resignation came in a letter to San Antonio building magnate H. B. Zachry, who took over last week as chief executive officer of the $150 million fair. Manupelli had held positions of general manager and executive vice president of HemisFair since March 1964. His resignation is to become effective June 15.

Mrs. James Haley is visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Franklin, while her husband is attending the Texas Highway Patrol school in Austin.

For specific information on home garden insect control, Reagor encourages local gardeners to come by his office and pick up a copy of Insect Control in the Home Garden (L-642.)

Some people plant flowers in the spring

But then what does a flower have that a gas light doesn't? Flowers brighten your yard. So does a gas light. After you install a gas light, it might be the first time you've seen your flowers at night.

Flowers come in different sizes and shapes. So do gas lights... designed to lend distinction to any landscape. Take your pick. If they're taken care of just right, flowers will bloom the whole season. A gas light blooms year 'round, and requires absolutely no care.

Flowers have a wonderful fragrance. You've got us there. A gas light doesn't have an odor at all. But we know you'll overlook that, since a gas light has so many other nice features.

New lower prices on the '68 models are in effect through July 31st. Prices start at $52.70 cash (includes installation and tax) or only $2.00 per month.

Pretty inexpensive when you consider how many springs it will last.

Plant a gas light this spring. Buy a PATIO PAIR (One gas light and one gas barbecue grill) and save $25.00. (Includes installation and tax) or $4.00 per month.

Locke, Briscoe Lead Spenders

Losing candidates Eugene Locke and Dolph Briscoe each came close to spending $700,000 in the Democratic primary races for governor, final reports to the secretary of state show.

The two candidates who made the runoff were comparatively light spenders, according to their expense reports. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith reported he spent $385,537. Don Yarborough said his expenses totaled $162,854.

Locke said he spent $678,063. Briscoe was leading spender, with $696,179.

Smith said he received $385,673 in contributions and took out loans totaling $32,500.

Yarborough reported his campaign donations added up to $165,417. Briscoe reported no loans or debts and said he received $173,917 in donations. Locke had $399,282 in donations, plus $157,500 in loans. Other reports:

Pat O'Daniel: $26,044 in gifts, $31,000 loan; expenses $71,141.

John Hill: $146,467 in gifts, loans of $65,000 and expenses of $213,731.

Waggoner Carr: donations of $98,438 and expenses of $100,030.

Edward Whittenburg: gifts $110,255, paid $319,561, debts $10,257.

Paul Eggers (winner of Republican primary): gifts $87,061, expenses $83,197.

Smith, Yarborough Swap Bitter Words

The Democratic race for governor, called dull before the first primary May 4, became smoking hot today between runoff candidates.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and Don Yarborough meet June 1 in the runoff primary for the right to meet Republican Paul Eggers in the general election.

"My 'one - percenter' opponent is showing his 'one-percenter' colors to the people of Texas every time his public relations men let him open his mouth," Yarborough said in Dallas.

Yarborough, in seeking to put a "one per cent" label on his opponent, has said, "He should admit he is a representative of the big lobby that represents less than one per cent of the Texas people and represents them alone."

Smith said in Houston that Texas legislators "would be more inclined to laugh at my opponent rather than pass any of his ultra - liberal ideas through the legislature."

"He should also know that the intelligent people of Texas will not be led or impressed by anyone shouting and pounding at them. . . . These attention - getting devices, which my liberal opponent probably picked up in a high school debate class, bear little on the need for constructive action to help our state progress," Smith said.

Auto Insurance Rates
Yarborough told a Dallas luncheon that Smith "blamed our high auto insurance rates on the people, saying it is their fault and not the fault of the rich insurance companies which he serves. . . . He has shown that he does not understand and will not represent the needs of the people, but only of the big lobby that controls him. His answer to high insurance rates is to form a do-nothing committee to blame the whole thing on the public."

Smith said at a Houston news conference that his opponent "is the only politician I know of who makes a success out of losing races. He . . . talks about the problems but offers no solutions."

Thanksgiving

There are many who cry, "God be merciful!" but few who say, "God be praised!" Instead of begging for something today, let us bless Tim for everything.

A man was deep in despair. He tried to pray but could not. Suddenly he thought of Psalm 34:1, "I will bless the Lord at all times." "At all times?" he thought, "then now." As he started to bless the Lord his sighing was turned to singing, and he rose from his knees comforted and cheered.

As you bless the Lord, He blesses you. So bless Him at all times. In prosperity and in adversity, in health and in sickness, in safety and in danger, in joy and sorrow. As you bless the Lord for your miseries you end them, and as you bless Him for His mercies you extend them.

There was a lady who never thanked the Lord audibly. "Well," she explained, "gratitude is often in my heart." "But," protested her pastor, "that is not place for it to stay." He continued, "The Bible says 'I will bless the Lord at all times; His praise shall continually be in my mouth.'"

He who blesses the Lord at all times for His mercies shall never want any mercies for which to bless Him at any time.

Foundation Grants Due WT Colleges

Four West Texas colleges were named among 68 institutions of higher learning in the Southwestern states as participants in a $2,650,000 program of aid to education, announced by Roger M. Blough, chairman of the board of trustees of the United States Steel Foundation, Inc.

The area institutions are Abilene Christian College, Hardin - Simmons University, Alibene, Howard Payne College, Brownwood, and McMurry College, Abilene.

The program comprehends grants of 740 liberal arts colleges, institutes, and universities and to approximately 25 educational organizations and educational research projects concerned with raising the quality and improving the effectiveness of teaching and learning in America.

Boys Ranch Slates Drive For Livestock

Some 49 wagon bosses have been named to assist in the annual roundup May 23 at West Texas Boys Ranch. They will contact area ranchers to ask for livestock contributions.

Livestock will be auctioned and proceeds will go to the ranch, located at Tankersley near San Angelo.

Among Wagon Bosses are: Tom Barnsley, Crane; Jim Carpenter, Ozona; P. H. Coates, Big Lake; Jerry Cowden, Crane; Murphy T. Bennett, Marfa; Ed Guy Branch, Rankin; Murray Fasken, Midland; Ronnell McDaniel, Garden City; Bud Poage, Rankin; John Prude, Fort Davis; Ross Wheeler, Rankin; Siler E. Williams, Big Lake; Sammy Yates, Tarzan; Connie M. Hood, Midland; Bert Kincaid, Jr., Fort Stockton; N. M. Mitchell, Sanderson; Flake Tomkins, Midland; and Bill Watson, Ozona.

Snelson Had Gains In All But 4 District Counties

While many were not surprised at Midlander Pete Snelson's May 4 victory over veteran West Texas lawmaker Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, there are still those who wonder how it was done.

Hardeman, who was running for his 30th year as a West Texas legislator, narrowly defeated Snelson in 1966 by 400. This compares with 21,172 for Snelson in a losing battle.

Snelson, a Midland advertising executive, predicted a larger voter turnout would help his cause.

He was right. Last time around both men polled a little more than 21-

000 votes, but this time Snelson picked up almost 12,000 votes while Hardeman picked up slightly more than 6,000, meaning Snelson got two-thirds of the new voters.

The recently completed state canvass by the Democratic Executive Committee showed Snelson with 33,204 votes while Hardeman had 27,400. This compares with 21,172 for Snelson in a losing battle.

Significant in the county-by-county tabulation is the gain reflected by Snelson in all but four counties of the district. Hardeman made gains in most counties but sustained losses in eight.

The veteran San Angelo lawmaker gained in Ector, Midland, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Reeves, Sutton, Tom Green, Upton, Val Verde counties, but this was not enough to surpass the huge gains over 1966 Snelson accomplished.

In 1966 Snelson carried 12 of the 21 counties, but in 1968 he led in 16 counties.

While it's all over and Snelson has caught the Democratic nomination for senator, he still has to wage another battle with Republican Ernest Angelo, Jr. of Midland in the general election.

In the Democratic race, the 60,604 represents less than half of the registered voters, 134,368, but it compares with the 1966 turnout, 42,285 compared with 97,918 registered.

Field tests on the Texas High Plains show that non-toxic oils used as oil-water emulsion carriers enhance the performance of herbicides for better weed kill.

These tests have been underway since 1964, under the direction of Dr. Allen F. Wiese, agronomist in charge of weed control at the USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center at Bushland.

Wiese's tests have been primarily with atrazine applied post-emergence of grain sorghum although herbicidal studies have also been conducted with such crops as soybeans, cotton, and sugar beets.

1968 Recommendations Listed
The researcher suggests oil-water emulsion sprays for applying atrazine to grain sorghum this season.

On small weeds one to two pounds of atrazine in one to two gallons of a non-toxic oil should give good weed control. The oil should contain an adequate amount of emulsifier for 20 to 40 gallons of total carrier per acre. If weeds are large and the sorghum is more than six inches tall, higher rates of water, oil and atrazine should be used.

For aerial spraying, Wiese advocates use of 5 to 10 percent of a non-toxic oil with sufficient emulsifier and one or two pounds of atrazine per acre. If the spray drop size is in the range of 200 to 400 microns, application can be made with as little as two gallons of carrier per acre.

Early Field Studies Cited

In 1964, field tests first indicated that oil emulsions improved the effectiveness of atrazine, the researcher points out. Four-inch pigweed growing in 6-inch sorghum was controlled better with atrazine applied in an oil-water emulsion than with water and surfactant. A year later, good control of 6-inch pigweed was obtained with atrazine at one pound per acre applied in an oil-water emulsion.

Results in 1966 again proved the effectiveness of oil-water emulsions, this time by aerial applications, notes Wiese. One pound of atrazine per acre with an oil-water emulsion only two and one-half gallons of total carrier per acre eliminated six-inch pigweed growing in a field.

In one replication of this study, atrazine at two pounds per acre in five gallons of oil-water emulsion carrier was the only treatment that gave some control of barnyardgrass, the researcher points out.

Weed Size Important
Trials during the past year

were conducted to determine the proper amounts of oil to apply per acre in oil-water emulsions for both ground and air applications, says Wiese. Tests showed that the amount of oil, total carrier and rate of atrazine should be regulated to the sorghum and weed size.

Large weeds were best controlled with ground applications with a mixture of three gallons of oil, 40 gallons of total carrier and two pounds of atrazine per acre. Small weeds were controlled with a pound of atrazine in one gallon of oil and 10 gallons of total carrier. High rates of oil and atrazine injured small sorghum but can be applied safely if both the sorghum and weeds are large.

According to Wiese, the amount of emulsifier was also checked in oil-water mixtures. Tests showed that enough of this material should be present to completely emulsify the oil with the water and atrazine. Results indicated that two percent of an emulsifier gave optimum weed control. Improper emulsification caused a heavy precipitate which was difficult to remove from sprayers.

Potential Usage
Results were outstanding last year with atrazine applied in an oil-water emulsion spray carrier on sorghum, points out Wiese. Some farmers are considering changing to this treatment instead of pre-emergence spraying with propazine.

As a result, one-half to one million acres of sorghum on the High Plains will likely be treated with the oil-water-atrazine emulsion spray within the next few years. Prospects are also good for using oil-water emulsion spray carriers with post-emergence herbicides on soybeans, cotton, and sugar beets, Wiese adds.

Graduation Tea Honors Girls

Five seniors girls and their mothers were honored recently in the home of Mrs. James Eiland. In carrying out the school colors of red and white, a white cloth covered the table, and the centerpiece was of red roses. Mrs. Eiland presented a gift to each girl. They were Kathy Biggs, Cathy Hazlewood, Laun Louder, Sue Walker and Mary Pribyla.

The Martin County HD Council met Tuesday afternoon in the Cap Rock auditorium. Mrs. Albert Pitman, chairman, presided.

A method demonstration on civil defense, was given by the 4-H girls Deborah Halzewood and Deborah Holloway. Mrs. James Eiland, county home demonstration agent, announced that the district 4 - H camp would be at Cloudercroft, New Mexico, June 18 - 21, and that the Martin County 4-H boys and girls would have their camp at Lake LBJ July 8 through 10.

She also announced the date set for the county 4-H dress revue would be July 13, and it would be held in conjunction with the Old Settlers Reunion.

Immediately following the regular council meeting, a THDA meeting was called by THDA chairman, Mrs. N. E. Holloway.

Delegates for the state THDA meeting were elected as follows: Mrs. D. E. Ory, Mrs. E. P. Madison, and Mrs. N. E. Holloway. Mrs. Herman Landier, Jr., was elected first alter-

A book is like a magic box, brimful of lovely treasure. The problem is that some children will never find that lovely treasure, because their parents never found it, and don't try to encourage their children to read.

Those present were: Mrs. Albert Pitman, Mrs. W. T. Wells, Mrs. Bill Morrow, Mrs. Nolan Simpson, Mrs. G. P. Harrell, Mrs. R. P. Odum, Mrs. Roger Fleckenstein, Mrs. Bob Cox, Mrs. Walter Harlow, Mrs. D. E. Ory, Mrs. Morgan Hall, Mrs. James Lueb, Mrs. N. E. Holloway, and Mrs. James Eiland.

ed that encouraging parents to read to their children at home, "might produce the most dramatic results of all," in education projects for the underprivileged.

You say that your children are not underprivileged? Maybe not, but I often think that among many privileges that we have, our children can be underprivileged unless we help them to learn to enjoy reading. The only way to an education is through being able to read. And the best foundation for successful reading is the one established in the home.

It costs nothing to check out books from your County Library. Why not bring your child in and let him discover that lovely treasure for himself? Why not encourage him to join the Reading Club Program, and read at least 12 books this summer.

Total taxes collected in fiscal 1968 by all levels of government in the United States will equal about $3,550 per American family, up $134 from the previous year, according to the Tax Foundation, Inc. State and local tax receipts will more than double those of 1956.

"While one-shot cuts in budgets of existing (federal) programs may help to slow the growth of the debt for long-term stability and protection of the purchasing value of the dollar we need evaluation of programs and assignment of priorities for spending with pre-determined guidelines to place ceilings on spending which rule out deficits," remarked Mr. Garth A. Shoemaker, president of the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey of New York.

Mrs. Kenneth Tella Atchison

Miss McMullan, Atchison Wed In Corpus Christi

Patricia Diane McMullan of Midland, and Kenneth Tella Atchison of Corpus Christi were married in a ceremony at 7 p.m. Friday in the Covenant Presbyterian Church in Corpus Christi. The Rev. Conway Wharton, Jr. officiated for the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McMullan, Jr., of 130 Sparks St., Midland, are the parents of the bride, who received a bachelor of arts degree in business education from Colorado State College in Greeley.

The bridegroom, son of John T. Atchison of Stanton, has a bachelor of science degree in agricultural engineering from Texas A&M University and is an agricultural representative for Central Power and Light Co.

The couple will reside at 3002 Antelope St., Apartment 3, in Corpus Christi.

Honor attendants for the couple were Mrs. Tommy Atchison of El Paso, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Atchison's husband, cousin of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length gown of imported Chantilly lace over peau. Long semi-bell sleeves, accented with small Dior bows, and a cowl neckline complemented the tent-type silhouette. Silk organza petals dotted with seed pearls held her shoulder-length veil of English silk illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

The marten of honor wore a street-length turquoise dress in lace over peau de soie accented with semi-bell sleeves of lace.

Methodist Church Activities

Circle II of the WSCS of the First Methodist Church, met Thursday morning, for a session on the study of "Man and the Community." The study is being led by Mrs. Bob Bryan.

Mrs. Bryan announced that Major Glen E. Jones, from Webb Air Force Base, would speak on Vietnam at the next session on May 28. Major Jones spent seven months there in 1961 and 12 months there in 1965-1966. He will speak on his experience there and the Vietnamese people. Anyone interested is invited to attend this session.

Those attending Tuesday's session were: Mrs. Bill Terry, Mrs. Chuck Elmore, Mrs. Delbert Hopper, Mrs. Bill Morrow, Mrs. Nolan Simpson, Mrs. Bob Cox, and Mrs. Bob Bryan.

Mrs. Don Brewer from Okmulgee, Oklahoma, is here visiting her sister, Mrs. Claude Davis.

Farm Bureau Spokesman Seeking Equal Air Time

A Lower Rio Grande Valley farm leader has requested equal time on the NBC "Today" show to refute what he termed "distortions, half-truths and misrepresentations" made by the director of a farm workers' union on the May 17 program.

In a telegram to Hugh Downs, host for the "Today" show, M. F. Frost, McAllen, said farmers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley "strongly resent" statements made by Cesar Chavez, Delano, California, director of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO. A fruit and vegetable grower and processor, Frost is vice president in the Texas Farm Bureau.

"He (Chavez) left the impression that farm workers in this area are paid starvation wages, as low as 40 cents per hour. This is absolutely false," Frost said.

"Fruit and vegetable growers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley pay the federal minimum wage of $1.15 per hour; some farm leader has requested pay above this minimum set by Congress. Workers often earn much more than this on a piece-rate basis," he explained.

The farm leader said farmers are concerned about a healthy agricultural industry in the area that will enable both the producer and the worker to earn a "decent living." He added that increased cost of production, caused by federal farm labor laws, plus the consequent increase of imports from Mexico have forced many growers of perishable crops out of business during the past five years.

"In the interest of fairness to growers in this area, we urge that you give a spokesman for Valley farmers a chance to present their side of the case," Frost said.

Pioneers crossing the plains did their outfitting in St. Louis more than a 100 years ago.

Eighth Texas Nuclear Science Symposium Set June 4-7

Texas Electric Service Company will sponsor a student and teacher from Stanton

John Anastasio, Jr.

High School to the Eighth Texas Nuclear Science Symposium from high schools at the University of Texas in Austin June 4-7.

John Anastasio, Jr. has been selected by school officials to attend the four-day meeting. He will be accompanied by John J. Anastasio, Stanton High teacher.

The symposium, held annually at the university, is sponsored by the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and the university. Texas Electric Service Company and nine other electric power companies in Texas make up the foundation.

Some 500 outstanding science students and their teachers will attend the meeting in Austin. They will have the opportunity to hear scientists from the fields of both industry and education discuss nuclear physics and related topics. Two afternoons will be spent touring the science laboratories of the university. Included will be visits to the experiments being carried on in thermonuclear (fusion) by scientists at the university for the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation.

"Texas Electric Service Company is interested in this research as a future source of generation of electricity," Cecil Bridges, company manager, said. "These experiments are aimed at eventual control of the nuclear reaction which takes place in the hydrogen bomb. When harnessed, the energy released in this nuclear reaction could be used for such peaceful purposes as power generation."

Rep. Craig Hosmer of California, ranking minority member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy of Congress, will speak at the symposium.

Other noted speakers include Dr. Peter Murray, director for an atomic power division of Westinghouse Electric Corp., Dr. John R. Bradford, dean of engineering at Texas Tech, Dr. Peter Almond, physicist at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, and B. G. Harper, research specialist for Dow Chemical Co.

Also on the program are several speakers from the university including Dr. Norman Hackerman, president; Dr. T. A. Griffy, Dr. A. E. Robinson and Dr. Alfred Schild of the physics department, and Dr. W. R. Uptegrove, chairman of the mechanical engineering department.

Chairman of this year's symposium is Dr. Harold Hanson, chairman of the physics department at the university.

State legislators will return to Austin on June 4. This time to complete the budget-writing chore they put off last year . . . and to pass a new $125,000,000 tax bill.

Indications are strong that the bulk of the funds will come through the sales tax route.

Gov. John Connally told reporters he is "fairly certain" he will suggest raising the two per cent sales tax rate to three per cent, then refund the increase to the cities on the basis of their 1960 populations. This would replace the present local option city sales levies adopted by 267 cities since last September.

Proposal would provide incorporated cities with $125,000,000 a year overall in state aid. State would gain $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 from the increased rate due to sales in unincorporated areas.

Other recommendations expected in Connally's sales tax package include: removing of some sales tax exemptions; taxing of services like laundry and haircuts; and increasing the auto sales tax rate to three per cent.

Governor also stated they might suggest a liquor - by-the - drink as part of his tax program. Legislative sources say he will suggest local option authority to sell liquor in small, one - drink - size under stiff state tax and strict regulation.

Connally told reporters that overall revision of the liquor laws also may be proposed. He intends to submit no other business until financial necessities are handled.

He expressed confidence that the budget and tax bill can be passed within the 30-day limit.

If lawmakers vote the same way their constituents did on the liquor - by - the - drink referendum (May 4) the governor may have a chance with the small bottles bill. At least 82 of the 150 state representatives and 17 of the 31 senators live in districts which voted for mixed drinks, with varying enthusiasm.

Courts Speak — Texas' law banning mass picketing in labor disputes withstood another State Supreme Court test when lower court rulings in favor of the statute were affirmed. High court agreed with intermediate Fourth of Civil Appeals, however, that the display of Mexican strike banners in a Laredo dispute should not be enjoined.

Question of whether voter registration applications must be submitted individually has been taken to the Texas Supreme Court.

High court said Texas statute which allows unlimited damages to survivors cannot be applied to fatal accidents involving Texans in other states.

An Abilene man should get a full trial on his $185,000 malpractice suit against two doctors, Supreme Court held. Court of Criminal Appeals ordered a new trial for wealthy Houston tobacco wholesaler Mair J. Schepps, who received a seven-year prison sentence on a charge of counterfeiting tax stamps.

Third Court of Civil Appeals affirmed a district court decision denying a $98,626 sales tax refund to a New York firm which claimed it received notice of deficiency more than three years after the date taxes were due.

Draft Quota Cut — Texas draft quota for June has been reduced by nearly a third, says Selective Service Director Col. Morris S. Schwartz.

State quota of 1,416 men has been trimmed to 961 on the basis of a new order by Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director. National quota, all for the Army, was reduced from 29,500 to 20,000 at the direction of the Department of Defense.

Call for July is expected to be only 15,000, meaning a Texas share of 700 to 750. May call was increased 4.3 per cent late last month (to 2,233) in order to provide some manpower for the Marine Corps, as well as the Army.

Draft boards will forward 8,500 men to examining and entrance stations next month for pre - induction physical and mental examinations. May total is 9,000.

Former Stanton Coach On Houston U. Staff

When you're looking for outstanding high school football players, you look at Texas high school coaches.

At least, that's been Bill Yeoman's theory. Yeoman the head coach at the University of Houston, has parlayed this combination into the state's top football machine for the past two seasons.

Five of the six UH assistant coaches are former Texas high school coaches and the sixth played high school ball in Texas.

"These assistants have done a terrific job," says Yeoman. "They are an extremely conscientious, dedicated group of men. We are very fortunate to have them at the University."

Statistics back up Yeoman's theory. The Cougars have led the nation in total offense for the past two seasons and were the only team in the country to rank in the top ten in both total offense and total defense last fall. Houston ranked number ten defensively and also was the country's leader in rushing offense.

Melvin Robertson, a veteran of 14 years of Texas high school coaching, heads the UH defense. Robertson coached at Stanton, Sweetwater, Amarillo, and Odessa in the high school ranks before joining the UH staff in June, 1965. Robertson also coached the North backs in the state high school all-star game.

Billy Willingham, maker of the offensive lines that have paved the way for Houston's great backs, lists seasons at Albany, Nacona, and Sweetwater among his experience. It was during his stay at Sweetwater, where he coached with Melvin Robertson, that Sweetwater broke Abilene High's winning streak. Willingham was coach of the North all-star line during his Sweetwater stay.

Two more members of the defensive staff are from the Gulf Coast high school ranks. Defense line coach Ben Hurt was an assistant coach at Stark High in Orange for five and a half years, and spent another year at Nederland High.

Linebacker Coach Howard Tippet coached for two seasons at Port Arthur High.

Still more sections of the state are represented by Cougar freshman coach, Bobby Baldwin. Baldwin, a former UH player, spent seasons at Arp, Lamar Consolidated, Athens, and Texas City high schools, before returning to his alma mater.

Melvin Brown is the only staff member besides Yeoman, who did not coach in the Texas high school ranks. He went directly to college as head coach at Southwestern Oklahoma in Durant, Okla., before joining the Cougar staff Brown, however, is a native of Denison, Texas, and played for the Denison High team that was a state-finalist in 1948.

"You won't find as more knowledgeable group or a harder working group of coaches anywhere than the Texas high school coaches," claims Yeoman. "These guys really know what they're talking about."

The University of Houston football record and Yeoman's staff is proof of this.

What's the most popular cartridge in the world today? To make the question even simpler, what is the best-selling cartridge in Texas?

If you answer .30.36 you're wrong. The .30.30? Wrong again. Far and away the most popular is the .22 Long Rifle.

Just about anyone is interested in guns has a .22 rimfire of one type or another. In fact, some people who are not remotely interested in hunting have a .22 around the house. It's handy for plinking an unwanted pest or for protection.

Furthermore, every major firearms manufacturer sells .22 rifles and ammo. This tiny cartridge and rifles chambered for it are as American as baseball and football.

But don't let the small size of the cartridge fool you. There's a lot of power wrapped in that diminutive package. The Long Rifle pushes a 40-grain bullet from the muzzle at 1,335 feet-per-second, and out 100 yards it is zipping along at 1,045 fps. At the muzzle it develops 158 foot-pounds of energy. At 100 yards it still has 97 fps. or energy.

The Long Rifle (the Short was developed for plinking and is okay for squirrels and cottontail rabbits when in the hands of a proficient marksman) is adequate for any small game up to and including the jack-rabbit.

Deer have been killed with it, but the .22 rimfire is now outlawed as a deer weapon in Texas.

The long, an in-between of the Short and Long Rifle, serves no useful purpose except to please a few customers who still demand it. The Long Rifle is a much better buy, it more accurate and more efficient.

Much of the credit for the .22 rimfire as we know it today belongs to Joshua Stevens who, oddly, was a maker of firearms, not ammunition. Back in late-1864, Stevens founded J. Stevens and Company and started making guns on his own. He had worked in several gun enterprises and figured he was ready to make his own mark in the world.

His first shop was part of a small grist mill on the north shore of the Chicopee River in Massachusetts. There he began making a break-action, single-shot pistol. Soon he branched out into rifles and shotguns.

He developed several pistols for the then popular .22 rimfire cartridge. But he was not satisfied with the low-powered .22 Short, nor with the awkward combination for more power by using a longer case and keeping the same 29-grain bullet of the .22 Short.

Stevens enlisted the aid of a famous ballistics, William M. Thomas, at the Union Metallic Cartridge Company to find a more accurate and powerful .22 Result was the .22 Long Rifle introduced in about 1889.

This shell uses the same case as the .22 long, but employs the heavier 40-grain bullet. The Long has the same slug as the Short. This is sort of a hybrid of the two, yet really doesn't do the job as well as either of the other two. The Short and Long Rifle both are much more accurate.

If you prefer plinking, use the Short; should you like hunting, employ the Long Rifle. The Long is absolutely unnecessary.

How well the cartridge was designed is reflected in the .22 Long Rifle of today, which has no changed much since 1889, except for the substitution of smokeless powder for black powder. Otherwise, it is the identical cartridge. It has stood the test of time. And for any cartridge, that is the ultimate test.

Petroleum companies pay millions of dollars annually to federal and state governments for operations on public lands. In fiscal 1967 the federal government collected a record $896 million from this source. The cumulative total since 1920 exceeds $4.5 billion, with about 60 per cent of this coming from leases on the Outer Continental Shelf. State governments collect more than $360 million a year from oil and gas leasing operations on state - owned lands. The nation's oil companies have spent an estimated $7.5 billion finding and developing oil and gas fields off the Louisiana coast.

You say you'd like a few suggestions on how to get more out of your telephone service?

Here are five tips to help make your every "hello" a real good buy:

- Whenever you're moving to another town within the Bell System, let us arrange for your phone service before you move. If you know the address of your new home, we can make arrangements in advance so you'll have the exact service you want in your new home. We'll also refer calls from your old phone to your new number if you like. Just call the business office and ask about our Easy Move Plan. There's no extra charge.
- Speaking of moving, we hope you realize that wherever you move in the Bell System, there is no color charge for the phones at your new address if you had color phones at your old address.
- Ever wonder what to do when you get a wrong number on a Long Distance call? Just hang up, dial "0" for "Operator," and tell her what happened. She'll see that you're not charged for the call.

- And if you ever lose your dime in an out-of-order pay telephone, just go to a working phone and report it to the Operator. She'll arrange to have your dime mailed to you. Also, if you give her the number of the out-of-order phone, we'll get it fixed right away.
- Long Distance interstate rates are lower all day Saturday and Sunday, and after 7 p.m. each weekday. You can also save money if you call by number. A station-to-station Long Distance call costs about one-third less than a person-to-person call.
- At Southwestern Bell, our goal is to help you get the very best telephone service. We want your every "hello" to be a real good buy.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox, Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw,

Soil is not permanent. Under many conditions it is very unstable. Water or wind moving across bare ground usually carries some soil away. It may be moved hundreds of miles or only a few feet, but eventually large amounts of soil will be removed from any unprotected or misused area, reports Jake Hodges, local SCS technician, assisting the Martin-Howard Soil and Water Conservation District.

Dense plant growth helps to slow down the movement of soil by water or wind. This gives nature a time to replace what little soil is removed by erosion. Nature does this by forming new top soil from the underlying subsoil or rock and the decayed remains of plants and animals: This slow process of constant erosion and new soil formation is known as "natural erosion." It has been going on for millions of years; it is usually beneficial instead of harmful. Most of our good agriculture soils were formed this way.

But where land is cultivated or left bare, another and faster kind of erosion takes place. This is accelerated erosion. When land is cultivated, there is no dense growth of plants to protect the soil, and erosion may be a thousand times faster than on protected soil. Accelerated erosion also damages grasslands where grass is thinned by over grazing or misuse. This accelerated erosion is what we now commonly call soil erosion.

Erosion has damaged, or ruined for practical use hundreds of millions of acres of once productive land all over the world.

Erosion has damaged about 280 million acres of crop, and grazing land in the United States.

Soil erosion is only one cause of declining productivity of our land. Organic matter has decayed or been oxidized on a large part of clean tilled land. This has made the soil less fertile, and the land harder to cultivate. This is why some soils "crust over" and won't allow the young plants to come through the surface. Some of the plant foods and minerals have been leached out of the soil, especially on sandy or other porous soils. This has lowered soil fertility. The removal of plant nutrients by crops, has also lowered soil fertility of land that has been farmed for a long time. Furthermore much of the commercial fertilizers applied each year is lost through runoff from cultivated fields.

Erosion and the loss of organic matter on farm land have made many soils less permeable. They will not absorb water as rapidly as they once would. A greater amount of the rainfall runs off slop-

Beta Sigma Phi Activities

Rho Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met May 16, for a salad supper and last business meeting of the year.

A ritual of jewels ritual was held for Mary Sale and Marilyn Newman. Installation of officers was conducted for Elaine Blackwell, president; Les Terry, vice president; Judy Reagor, extension officer; Sara Blocker, secretary; Peggy James, treasurer; Linda Bess Angel, director, and Mona Elmore, sponsor.

Wanda Bryan was in charge of the business meeting. She reminded everyone of the state convention to be held this summer at San Antonio, and also the area convention in Odessa next fall. Wanda was voted as having the "best program of the year" for her program of "Let's Talk on Radio and Over TV." Wanda announced that we would be a three-star chapter, because the yard stick showed we had achieved over 300 points.

Wanda presented the program, "Make An Art of Living." She played the record "Women — Be Women" by Gert Behanna.

Phi Pals were revealed by exchanging gifts, and new Phi Pals were drawn for next year.

Members present were Linda Bess Angel, Elaine Blackwell, Sara Blocker, Janie Boyd, Fiji Brandt, Wanda Bryan, Mona Elmore, Peggy James, Judy Reagor, Les Terry, Vanita Waid, Marilyn Newman, and Mary Sale.

Midland Hospital Chief Quits

John C. Hess, administrator of Midland Memorial Hospital for the past 12 years, has resigned his post effective June 30.

Hess, 46, said he is giving up his job because of "increasing federal controls." Hess, with a masters degree in hospital administration from Virginia College of Medicine, has been a hospital administrator for the past 20 years.

"With increasing federal controls," he said, "it's impossible to do your job of running a hospital anymore."

Hess said he had no plans for future employment, but did not plan on another hospital job.

Area Chamber Helping Boys Get Good Jobs

The Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce will offer a special service this summer to students and employers in an effort to create more summer jobs for students.

E. P. (Skeet) Fambro, president, said: "One of the responsibilities of the Chamber of Commerce is to work to try to keep our young people from moving away from Stephens County during the summer for jobs."

Some students, after returning to their home cities from working in another city during the summer, leave again after graduation.

"We need to keep these boys and girls at home and do everything in our power to find suitable jobs for them during the lull months," he said.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

The men behind the current political booms for RONALD REAGAN and NELSON ROCKEFELLER are pretty potent people. But, the fact is, RICHARD NIXON is going to be hard to stop and his nomination will probably make it when the Republicans convene in Florida to name their party candidate. However, it is too early to predict that any particular individual will get the GOP honor at this time.

DON YARBOROUGH and PRESTON SMITH have both started talking in personalities instead of planks and promises in platforms. Candidates have wanted to "take the gloves off" for years and slug it out but before this year the successful majority have played the mud-slinging and name calling down. The question arises whether or not all this personal talk the two top Democratic candidates are using in the current runoff campaign for the governorship is good or bad for the voter. Voters are targets for support on the basis of how qualified a person is for office. Heck, most of us know the real truth on each other. One expects something more from a candidate.

The lower draft call for men announced by the military for July is not related to peace negotiations now underway in Paris, France. The July call for 15,000 men is the lowest since the 11,400 of April a year ago. The drop reflects the tail end of an Army replacement cycle dating back to the buildup for the Vietnam war over two years ago.

As an honorary chapter former of the Stanton FFA group I salute NOLAN PARKER for the outstanding recognition given him personally at the annual FFA banquet held in Stanton the other evening. PARKER is one of the finest fellows around our community. His FFA boys have brought honor, distinction, and a lot of credit to Martin County through the years. He is loved and admired by his students and the parents of the FFA boys presented NOLAN with a pair of cowboy boots the other evening at the banquet in tribute of his devoted leadership of their boys. I add a very personal Amen!

THE STANTON REPORTER is not interested in second-handed news. That includes the re-runs of society pictures appearing in other publications. If you want your daughter's marriage announcement to appear in her hometown paper in the future I suggest you do the following things. Bring in the photograph and fill out an announcement form of the approaching event. If you want your loved ones news story to appear elsewhere first then that is fine but don't call this office hunting a photograph you turned over to someone else. This newspaper is under no obligation to read all the area papers and clip out your daughter's picture and story and run it in our paper. If you want this free publicity just bring your material to us first. There is no charge. And thanks, daughters and mothers for understanding this paragraph.

THE STANTON REPORTER is printing on a GOSS COX-O-TYPE press this week that is a credit to anything in the book for a weekly publication. This press can adequately serve a daily newspaper. Eight pages roll off simultaneously and what a beautiful operation to behold. I just like to walk around it and admire it and listen to the well timed, low throated hum of the GOSS. And I think of the faith in the future of this community the man has who made the installation of the press possible. I speak of publisher JAMES N. ALLISON of Midland.

ROY PICKETT is one of the proudest grandfathers we have learned about lately. ROY, Martin County attorney, and local civic and church leader, is strutting around in high style. MRS. PICKETT informs us that he never showed more appreciation when his daughters were born. Personal congratulations go to MR. and MRS. DON WILLIAMS, the proud parents of the new arrival, ROBIN GAYLE. In the meantime, friends of PICKETT continue to shake his hand and ROY is living up to that dignified line of dialogue in style — "Here Comes the Judge!"

MABLE ATCHISON offered your writer a welcomed suggestion Wednesday of this week. She suggested an article on the pretty yards and flower arrangements in the yards of residents. I intend to get with it next week and see what I can roundup.

GEN. CHARLES DE GALLE and the Tri-Color of France won a significant victory Wednesday afternoon when they fought off a censure vote. This in effect dealt the wild-eyed student agitators a death blow. It perhaps signaled to the world that France, despite the abuse heaped on it by some other powers, is not going to surrender to the minority groups. I hope every red flag that has gone up in France in the past week comes down in favor of the Tri-Color and let us hope that DE GALLE, the man who has been marked by some shady, gutless politicians and shifty souls for destruction, holds fast to the leadership of France. He has shown America the right way to handle a bunch of hoodlums who would burn the White House and run the President off by the light of the blaze. It is rumored that at this instant the Presidential plane is standing by to rush LYNDON to the ranch for safety if the situation gets out of hand in Washington. Some other top brass are probably filling up the Martini jugs and making ready for a run to the hills.

NEAL'S NUGGET. I hope the day never comes when La Marseilles the national song of France, will be discarded like The Star Spangled Banner has been by certain minority groups who prefer "We Shall Overcome."

TO BE MARRIED—Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Clardy of Stanton, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Susan, and Samuel Kay Weaverling, son of Mrs. Olga Bale of Loveland, Colo. The couple is planning a July 12 wedding.

During 1967, California further consolidated its position as the leading state in the nation in personal income. Personal income last year was provisionally estimated at $69.6 billion, a gain of 7 per cent over the 1966 level.

The staff at the newspaper is very happy about the new press and our Fairchild. We are like children with new Christmas toys. All of us are mighty proud of our new equipment and our gratitude and appreciation is certainly in order for our publisher, JAMES N. ALLISON.

Those who participated in the American Party voting to get Gov. George Wallace's name on the November ballot will not be allowed to vote in the run-off scheduled for June 1.

One run - off race remains on the local level in Martin County. Edna Welch and Raymond Pribyla are the run-off candidates in the precinct three commissioners race.

The remedy for the urban crisis lies mostly in local hands and requires that the quality of community life be improved along with growth. Mr. Allan Shivers, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, has noted. Improving the cities is a job not only for government and business, "It will take the wisdom and active support of all centers of (local) influence that can be mobilized. . . Labor, civil rights, religious, educational, cultural and other organizations that help shape the pattern of our lives must be brought into the effort wholeheartedly before any of us can say we are building ourselves the best possible community," Mr. Shivers said.

-fastbacks in 3 sizes!

And the Ford and Torino fastbacks actually cost no more than hardtops. All in all, Ford Dealers give you a choice of 5 fastbacks. Nobody else matches that!

Two big Ford fastbacks—the sporty XL and the popular-priced Galaxie 500. In the intermediate size there's the luxurious Torino GT and Fairlane 500—America's lowest-priced fastback. And then there's the fastback that started the swing to this new look—Mustang 2+2. That's five—and if you want a hardtop with formal roof styling, your Ford Dealer has eleven of those, too.
