THE STRAW THAT BROKE THE CAMELS BACK.

If you pile upon the Camel's back one straw at a time, you reach a point where one straw will prove too much. Certainly-- For there is a limit to all things. As applied to business there is a point where money ceases to have any value. An example of this may be had say in the purchase of a linen collar. The average costs 2 for 25 cents, but for 50 cents you can get better. If you laid down a two dollar bill and said, "Give me the best linen collar made," then the biggest part of the money would be absolutely valueless, for no collar made of linen could possibly cost so much. All of which shows that value has a limit. In our BRANDEGEE, KINCAID & CO. CLOTHES the limit of value has been reached. If you offered us a lot more money we could not possibly get better goods for you. As it is now, we supply the best dressed people with these clothes, which are made of the finest materials and by expert tailors. A good many clothes charge more, but every penny you pay over the price we ask is money expended without regard to corresponding values. — In BRANDEGEE, KINCAID & CO. CLOTHES you get the limit of value. We sell them—Come and see them.

- C. J. Haley, Chaplain.
- D. H. Hamilton, Treasure.

It was decided to hold memorial services and decorate graves on the 2nd. Sunday in October. Rev. O. W. Dean will deliver the memorial sermon. All the ministers are especially invited to assist in the service.

The camp will meet at 2 o'clock p. m. on the 1st. Saturday in October. The ladies are invited to be with us. The young people are especially requested to attend.

J. S. Post, Adjutant.

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, female complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness, and for new health and vigor. Try them. 50c at Corner Drug Store.

THE BIG MEETING

About 28 years ago, the first settlement of the white man was made in Haskell county. At that time, as the old settlers will remember, a small tribe of Indians, known as the Tonkawas still made the beautiful plains of Haskell county their hunting ground. Among the early pioneers, were men and women who saw the opportunity to make homes and lay the foundation of an ideal society. In this connection, we are impelled to mention some of the noble christian men and women, who, under the most trying conditions laid the foundation of our social stem. Among those whom we recall, are the Ballards who helped to organize the first Christian church, the Alexanders, who helped to organize the first Methodist church and our sainted mother, who helped to organize the first Baptist church. Do you know when I see a lot of modern society upstarts, who's stock in trade consist of many vices and a short period of temporary prosperity, trying to break down our noble christian ideals, it makes my blood boil with protest and resentment?

In those days there were other elements too, male and female who had sought the sparsely settled frontier, to live a wayward and lawless life. We have witnessed the men and women with noble christian ideals win in the struggle, and people they had a struggle too. You preachers and people who came here after the church and school houses were built and many of them paid for heave had a picnic. All you had to do was, crowd in to the schools churches and public offices and then write to your friends in Bell county telling them what a soft snap you had found.

We have seen Haskell develop spiritually morally and materially, and we have to day one of the finest civic structures, with a record of less vice and crime than almost any new community. We have often wished for the visit of some messenger from the older socially cultured and maturer east, who could portray to the young men and women of the west the beautiful ideals of life in the older communities. In Brother Bass we have the messenger. From the beginning of our social structure we have watched the influence of individuals as they came or went. We have seen human wrecks as they sported on the billows of vice, and seen them sink at last into its murky depths.

For the past two weeks we have had Brother J. M. Bass the evangelist and Brother Stapleton, both of Macon Georgia, with us in a cooperative meeting. These men have labored earnestly. Brother Bass has given his large audiences such reproof, with which the ancient prophets reproved their kings and people. He has in his series of sermons hit about every vice we have in Haskell. It seems to us he has forced every man and woman in his audience to stop and take stock of their lives. He held up to view the nakedness of sin in such vivid expose as to terrify some people and drive conviction to the heart. With withering rebuke and masterful logic, he crushed the false ideals some people would fasten on society. He has punctured the conceit and arrogance of craked brained vanity and pointed us to a simple christian life. He has taken the bible and applied it's precepts and reproofs to men and women of today.

Through his preaching many truths, enunciated in the bible, have been applied to society of today. Rev. Bass displays a wonderful knowledge of humanity. He evinces the greatest faith in human love of justice and virtue. His theological conceptions are of the highest order. We believe he has done a great work here.

Have we reached an age of materialism? Has humanity changed, have we outgrown the passions and escaped the woes that have afflicted the race in all the ages past? Is this man's mission to us useless? If so, how soon shall we forget him, and his preaching. We must answer in the negative. Let us rather choose to give heed to that desire of the human heart that points to immortality.

A Fierce Night Alarm

is the hoarse, startling cough of a child, suddenly attacked by croup. Often it aroused Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, O., [R. R. No. 2] for their four children were greatly subject to croup. "Sometimes in severe attacks," he wrote "we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup and for coughs, colds or throat or lung trouble." So do thousands of others. So may you. Asthma, Hay Fever, La Grippe, Whooping Cough, Hemorrhages fly before it. 50c and $1.00. Trail bottle free. Sold by Corner Drug Store.

THE IRISH SONG THAT WON FIRST PRIZE

It has always been contended that the key to success in song writing is and always will be, originality. The public is always craving for something new—something away from the last popular thing—be it a play, novel, painting, melody or song.

It is an unusual thing to find a new song that is entirely original—especially if same is an Irish song. Jerome H. Remick & Co. have had a great demand for a new Irish song, and concluded to offer special inducements in the shape of a cash prize and extra large royalties to any team on their staff that would supply them with a new and original Irish song. The prize was awarded to Williams and Van Alstyne, two of the best writers in the country, and the song that won the prize is entitled "My Irish Girl." It has proved a gem in every particular.

Williams is an Irish-American while Van Alstyne is of Dutch parentage, but, as the famous John T. Kelly once remarked, "the Dutch and the Irish always go together, especially on St. Patrick's Day; and, indeed, you will always find the Dutch leading the parade, for where could ye get twenty Irishmen to play in one band and have any harmony?"

Be that as it may, these two clever song writers have turned out the best Irish song that has been published in years. The verses tell of a quarrel between the Irish lad and his colleen, and he plaintively says, "As frost nips the clover, love's dream is all over," leading up to the chorus, which contains a pathetic appeal to "come back." And the colleen does come back after she listens to the lad's request to—

Chorus
Come to me, my Irish girl.
You have set my heart a-whirl;

You to me will ever be precious pearl.

Tho' other girls may wear the clothes and look the part. It's me who knows, there never bloomed a fairer rose Than you, my Irish girl.

Pianos, Pianos, Pianos.

NEW SLEEPING CARS ON TEXAS CENTRAL.

New Modern Pullman Electric Lighted Sleeping Cars to be Operated on T.C.R.R.

Mr. H. B. Sperry, General Passenger Agent of the Texas Central R. R., announces his company will receive from the shops on or about September 18, 1911, new modern electric lighted latest pattern Pullman tourist sleeping cars which will be operated between Waco and Rotan on trains number three and four.

The new pattern electric lighted sleeping car is the best and most convenient accomodation yet devised for use of the traveling public and the Texas Central R.-R. people are to be commended for their thoughtfulness and enterprise in placing this service on their line.

This is merely another of the many innovations provided by the Texas Central R. R. in the interest of patrons.

Has Millions Of Friends.

How would you like to number your friends by millions as Bucklens Arnica Salve does? Its astounding cures in the past forty years made them. Its the best Salve in the world for sores, ulcers, eczema, burns, boils, scalds, cuts, corns, sore eyes, sprains, swellings, bruises, cold sores. Has no equal for piles. 25c at Corner Drug store.

Mesquite Hedges.

We have been advocating the planting of mesquite hedges around the farms. In many localities there is a good crop of the mesquite beans, and if the farmers would gather the seed and plant them along under the wire fences, in a few years the farms would be hedged with mesquite. The timber would furnish fuel and post.

...LENDING MONEY...

The average farmer who gets some money ahead and starts in to become a second Russell Sage by lending to his friends, usually accumulates a lot of expensive experience before anyone notices any resemblance between him and the late, but little lamented Russell. Lending money is a business. A well managed bank life the Farmers National Bank of this city, has sources of information and a degree of experience that enables it to lend money with practically no loss at all, but the individual who tries lending money finds that many people he supposed all right, are in reality heavily involved. The best plan for a man with a little money ahead is to put it in the Farmers National Bank, where it will be absolutely safe and where he can get it whenever he wants it.

HISTORIC BUILDING IN DANGER.

It cannot be a pleasant thing to live next to a historic pile which threatens to tumble down. A few months ago there were fears that the wonderful leaning tower of Pisa was unsafe, but investigation resulted in reassurance. For some reason new apprehensions have arisen. The fact that Father Alfani, the world-renowned seismologist, has been engaged to look into the matter would indicate that what is dreaded is the effect of earth oscillations, which must be frequent in Italy, says the Milwaukee Wisconsin. But the pressure of the wind on the ancient edifice is the subject of scientific measurement, and Father Alfani has constructed an instrument by which the minutest influence can be ascertained. The Bank of England is a modern structure compared with Pisa's leaning tower, but the "Old Lady of Threadneedle street," as the bank is affectionately named by Londoners, was constructed upon wooden piles, and these have shrunk away, leaving a space of several inches between them. It was the rotting of the piling beneath it that caused the fall of the Campanile at Venice. The piles under the Bank of England are being removed and a six-foot raft of concrete is superceding them. The "Old Lady's" position was, no doubt, perilous, but it may be averred with no intention of slang that this ought to hold her for a while.

The Pribyloff islands, as wearers of sealskin will recall, are in Bering sea, well on the way to the Arctic circle. The Pribyloffs are remote and cold, but the scanty population has just shown itself gratifyingly human. These people have a new naval wireless station, thus enjoying close touch with the outside world for the first time. And what was the initial use to which they put this new apparatus? Did they want to know about the latest wrinkle in pelagic sealing? Did they ask for the particulars of the agreement just concluded between America, England, Russia and Japan for the better control of the fur trade? No; they wanted to hear about the baseball situation; what was the relative standing of the clubs in the National and American leagues? Thus does the national game spread to imperial dimensions. It follows the flag. Before such an interest one's mere scheme for getting a living goes by the board. The loyal fan ignores "shop"—save the shop of the diamond. The eager denizens of the Pribyloffs choked off impatiently all news of King George's coronation; they wanted "final results."

Texas has a new law which will stop elopements, as it requires the written consent of the parents of young men and women under the legal age to their marriage before a license can be obtained. Young and ardent lovers may lament over the hardships and tyranny of this law, but what is lost under it of present romantic bliss will be gained by future happiness, for the usual sequel to Gretchen Green is the divorce court.

A woman injured in a bargain-counter rush is not entitled to damages, according to a Minneapolis judge. A real bargain hunter scorns a trifling thing like a broken bone as long as she succeeds in getting the bargain.

A Chicago man is charged with having used a shotgun to stop a car. After a thorough study of the case we are led to believe that he really wanted the car to stop.

According to a German expert, American women do not know how to pose before a camera. Even at that they get some fine results.

Dr. Wiley tells us that smoking is on the decline, but he probably overlooks the fact that 26,455,584 corn cob pipes were made in Missouri last year.

When one considers the records by motors on land and water and the aviation contests, the resolution of a young Gotham couple to make a walking tour is really remarkable.

A correspondent writes: "Many proprietors of restaurants fight hard every day in order to have all utensils clean." More power to their arms!

It can be said for man that in order to demonstrate a successful vacation he does not need to be sunburned over as much space as his sister.

Will the aviators please tell an anxious public if there is any hay fever at 7,000 feet?

SPAIN TREMBLES UNDER REVOLUTION

THE SITUATION MENACING AND MUCH COMPLICATED.

IT IS A NATIONAL CRISIS

Starting With Labor Trouble Government Is Threatened. Fatal Rioting and Royalists Feated.

Madrid, Spain, Sept. 20.—Spain is face to face with a crisis equal in gravity to that following the riots in Barcelona in 1909. The agitation and the power of the agitators on the masses have increased in proportion to the rigor of the repressive measures undertaken by the Government.

What, at its origin, was apparently purely a labor movement, has now developed into a revolutionary conflict, a commune having actually been proclaimed at two towns near Valencia. At these places the authorities were driven out of the districts.

The affiliated trades unions have decided to call a general strike throughout the length and breadth of Spain, and the Government, abandoning the tone of optimism heretofore maintained, has decided upon the drastic steps of "suspending the constitutional guarantees" throughout the country.

It was explained, that in so doing, the Government did not seek to persecute the trades unions, but it was made clear that any attempts to stir up a rebellion would be rigorously dealt with. All meetings have been forbidden. The military authorities, it is stated officially, will not assume control except in extreme cases.

King Alfonso has signed a decree suspending the constitutional guarantees throughout Spain and this is equivalent to declaring the country under martial law and will give the Government power to deal sharply with revolutionary agitation fermenting in many parts of Spain, especially in the cities and industrial districts where Republicans and revolutionary plans are furthered under cover of working men's strikes.

Strikes also have been declared at Bilbao, Saragossa, Cadix, Huelva, Seville, Gijon and other cities. In some of these places the movement has been but partially successful.

Premier Canalejas announces the Government has in its possession details of a revolutionary plot uncovered at Valencia and Barcelona. Part of this plot was to assassinate Gen. Weyler, Captain General of Catalonia. The Government claims to know the names of all the conspirators and the sources of their supplies.

Washington: Former United States Senator Thomas Henry Carter of Montana, for many years a notable and picturesque character in National politics and once chairman of the Republican National Committee, died at his home Sunday from infarction of the lungs. He was 67 years old. Mr. Carter had been under the care of a physician for months. He was able to go about, however, and his ailment did not become acute until about a week ago.

Pittsburg, Pa.: While driving to the mines of the Superior Coal Company, near here, with the semi-monthly pay for the miners, David Steen was shot and killed by a highwayman. His father, Wm. J. Steen, who was in the buggy with him, caught the body of his son as it tumbled. The money, $3,400 was saved. Quadrata Orrihelli, an Italian, was arrested and with difficulty troopers of the State constabulary prevented the elder Steen from throttling him.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER TRAFFIC

St. Louis-New Orleans Boat Meets Obstacles Along Route.

New Orleans: Loaded to the guards and lying low in the water, the steamer Quincy, bringing 1,000 tons of miscellaneous freight and 75 passengers, arrived here Tuesday afternoon, the completion of her trip marking the resumption of the St. Louis-New Orleans river trade after an idleness of more than a dozen years.

The Quincy, which is the flagship of the Diamond Joe line, and considered one of the finest vessels on the Mississippi River, had a most successful trip. Her cargo loaded her to full capacity and passengers filled ever stateroom.

The big boat's progress down the stream was a continuous triumph. She was greeted with blasts of whistles, peals of bells and general glad acclaim at every settlement of importance. At no place was there welcome more cordial and earnest than it was here.

Judge Ramsey for Governor.

Austin: Judge Ramsey, that his friends may know where to place him, has issued the following:

"I will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, but will be a candidate for the nomination of the office of Governor of this State, and my name will be submitted for that office in the Democratic primaries next July. I will within the next few weeks, outline my views on some of the important issues and questions now in the public mind, and in due season will inaugurate a campaign which should and I believe will be successful."

Hampton Martin, 19 Years of Age, Killed Himself Monday Evening at the McGregor ranch, seven miles from Wichita Falls. A rifle was the weapon. Deceased bore an excellent reputation.

Jones County Establishes Farm. Haskell: The Commissioners' Court of Haskell County, acting on the petition of the County Farmers' Institute and other citizens, has appropriated $400 to be employed in conducting the farm co-operative demonstration work in this county under direction of agents of the United States Department of Agriculture, the latter to contribute a like sum. A demonstrator is to be put in charge of the work Oct. 1, in time to line up the farmers who will operate demonstration plots and to direct fall preparation to the land.

Alvarado: The Katy depot here was entirely destroyed by fire at noon Friday. A lunchroom just across the street also burned. The depot is on the very edge of town, being nearly a mile from a fire hydrant.

Man Killed When Auto Went Dead.

Beaumont: Andrew Bernard, aged twenty-two, son of a wealthy rice farmer, was killed by an eastbound train on the Southern Pacific at China, fifteen miles west of here, Monday morning. Bernard had started to cross the tracks in an automobile and the machine stopped on the tracks. His two little sisters, aged nine and thirteen, who were riding with him, jumped out of the machine and escaped, but he attempted to back the automobile off the tracks and was struck by the train, dying here at 10 o'clock, two hours after the accident.

Levee Contract in Dallas County. Dallas: The Trinity Valley Produce Company let contracts for the building of seven miles of levee around a farm of 2,265 acres between Elm and West Forks of Trinity River, making the land safe against all floods unless as bad as the one three years ago, which was the worst ever known on the Trinity. The work will cost about $25,000. Formerly many crops have been ruined on the farm because of floods coming down either fork of the Trinity River. The levees will be of sufficient height and strength to guard against inundation of the land from any normal flood.

Lost a Mother, Found a Home. Oklahoma City, Okla.: The conductor of a Rock Island train last night found a young baby boy wrapped in a bundle of baby clothes and lying in a seat as his train started out from Ringold. A young woman was seen to get aboard the train there having a small bundle, and although the woman cannot now be located, it is thought she left the baby. It had a good supply of malted milk when found. The baby was adopted by a man en route to Fort Worth, and it is believed it will be well cared for.

Grayson County Believes Laws Made for All Alike. Sherman: J. Q. Adamson former county judge of Grayson County, was arrested here on two indictments returned Saturday night. One charges extortion by writing "not guilty" on his docket when the entry should have been "dismissed." The "not guilty" entry is alleged to have given Mr. Adamson power to collect fees. The other indictment charged a misdemeanor in application for a fee alleged to be unlawful, and not yet paid to the applicant.

Kiev: The Russian Premier, Peter A. Stolypin, died Monday night from bullet wounds received at the hands of an assassin during a gala performance at the Municipal Theater Thursday evening. The official time of his death was announced as 10:12 p. m. (3:12 p. m. New York.)

BREAD RIOTS AWAKE VIENNA

Parliament Must Act Quickly or Populace Will Be Driven to Hunger's Desperation.

THE MAINE ELECTION IS STILL UNCERTAIN

ANTI-PROHIBITION NOW LEADS BY 26 VOTES.

STILL 20 DAYS FOR RETURNS

One of the Closest State Contests Ever Fought in this County. Result Still in Doubt.

Augusta, Maine, Sept. 19.—Complete official returns from the special election last Monday, when Maine voted on the question of repeal of the constitutional prohibitory amendment, as canvassed by the Governor and council showed a majority of 26 votes in favor of repeal.

Various discrepancies were found in the official returns as compared with the tabulations compiled by the Secretary of State's office. The latter indicated a majority for repeal of 136. Some doubt still remains as to the correctness of the returns and Gov. Plaisted announced that the City and Town Clerks would be given twenty days to check the results.

The total vote of the State as shown by the official figures tabulated is as follows: For repeal 69,487, against repeal 69,461; majority for repeal 26.

After the meeting a large procession marched to the Parliament building, cheering for revolution and Portugal. Revolvers were fired in the air and then the mob began throwing stones. The windows of many public and private buildings, restaurants and tram cars and street lamps were smashed.

Finally a squadron of dragoons and a detachment of infantry charged the rioters and dispersed them. The mobs reassembled, however, in the suburbs.

At one point the mob erected barricades and hurled missiles of various kinds on the soldiers from the upper windows of houses.

When the situation was worst troops were ordered to fire. At the first volley many rioters fell, either killed or wounded. Several also were injured and 100 more of those engaged in the conflict were arrested.

Passing of Ex-Senator Carter.

Washington: Former United States Senator Thomas Henry Carter of Montana, for many years a notable and picturesque character in National politics and once chairman of the Republican National Committee, died at his home Sunday from infarction of the lungs. RUSSIA'S PREMIER DEAD.

Peter Stolypin After Heroic Struggle Succumbs to Wounds.

Kiev: The Russian Premier, Peter A. Stolypin, died Monday night from bullet wounds received at the hands of an assassin during a gala performance at the Municipal Theater Thursday evening. The official time of his death was announced as 10:12 p. m. (3:12 p. m. New York.)

Almost until the last the Premier was conscious and for half an hour during the early part of the evening his wife alone was at his bedside.

Toward the end Stolypin suffered greatly. He groaned incessantly and threw himself about on the couch on which he lay. Finally the heart action became weaker and as the body grew cold the Premier realized death was overtaking him.

Half an hour before his death Stolypin asked the doctors to turn him on his side. He died surrounded by several of his relatives and State officials.

One charges extortion by writing "not guilty" on his docket when the entry should have been "dismissed." The "not guilty" entry is alleged to have given Mr. Adamson power to collect fees. The other indictment charged a misdemeanor in application for a fee alleged to be unlawful, and not yet paid to the applicant.

J. S. Kone, a Denison attorney, was indicted, charged with extortion while acting as special judge in several Denison cases under appointment of the governor. O. S. Cartwright, a former mayor of Whitesboro, was indicted charged with embezzling city funds.

RUSSIA'S PREMIER DEAD.

Peter Stolypin After Heroic Struggle Succumbs to Wounds.

Kiev: The Russian Premier, Peter A. Stolypin, died Monday night from bullet wounds received at the hands of an assassin during a gala performance at the Municipal Theater Thursday evening. The official time of his death was announced as 10:12 p. m. (3:12 p. m. New York.)

Almost until the last the Premier was conscious and for half an hour during the early part of the evening his wife alone was at his bedside.

Toward the end Stolypin suffered greatly. He groaned incessantly and threw himself about on the couch on which he lay. Finally the heart action became weaker and as the body grew cold the Premier realized death was overtaking him.

Half an hour before his death Stolypin asked the doctors to turn him on his side. He died surrounded by several of his relatives and State officials.

Man Killed When Auto Went Dead.

Beaumont: Andrew Bernard, aged twenty-two, son of a wealthy rice farmer, was killed by an eastbound train on the Southern Pacific at China, fifteen miles west of here, Monday morning. Bernard had started to cross the tracks in an automobile and the machine stopped on the tracks. His two little sisters, aged nine and thirteen, who were riding with him, jumped out of the machine and escaped, but he attempted to back the automobile off the tracks and was struck by the train, dying here at 10 o'clock, two hours after the accident.

Levee Contract in Dallas County.

Dallas: The Trinity Valley Produce Company let contracts for the building of seven miles of levee around a farm of 2,265 acres between Elm and West Forks of Trinity River, making the land safe against all floods unless as bad as the one three years ago, which was the worst ever known on the Trinity. The work will cost about $25,000. Formerly many crops have been ruined on the farm because of floods coming down either fork of the Trinity River. The levees will be of sufficient height and strength to guard against inundation of the land from any normal flood.

Lost a Mother, Found a Home.

Oklahoma City, Okla.: The conductor of a Rock Island train last night found a young baby boy wrapped in a bundle of baby clothes and lying in a seat as his train started out from Ringold. A young woman was seen to get aboard the train there having a small bundle, and although the woman cannot now be located, it is thought she left the baby. It had a good supply of malted milk when found. The baby was adopted by a man en route to Fort Worth, and it is believed it will be well cared for.

TAFT STANDS UP FOR DR. WILEY

The Turning Down of Wickersham's Recommendation Tacitly Means a Coming Shake-Up.

TAFT TAKES TRIP WORKS WAY WEST

CUTS POLITICS AND WILL TELL OF PEACE AND PLENTY.

STARTS ON 54TH BIRTHDAY

Defies Friday Superstition as He Does Many Other Old-Time Ideas, Customs and Practices.

Beverly, Mass.: The Mooted resignation of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry in the Department of Agriculture, and probably the best known food expert in the government service, will not be asked for by President Taft, despite recommendations that it be requested, made by the personnel board of the department and endorsed by Attorney General Wickersham.

The "condign punishment" for Dr. Wiley, which Mr. Wickersham held to be necessary, will not be meted out by the chief executive. The president's opinion, carrying no word of criticism for Dr. Wiley, was published here Friday. There was no indication in it that the president feels that he "turned down" Mr. Wickersham by not accepting his recommendations. He explains that the attorney general's findings in the case were made with less complete data than was before him when he took it up. In the opinion of the president admits what has been well known to many persons close to the administration—that there is trouble in the Department of Agriculture. Speaking of the Congressional inquiry into that department, unfinished at the last session, but to be taken up again next winter, Mr. Taft says:

"The broader issues raised by the investigation, which have much weightier relation than this one to the general efficiency of the department, may require much more radical action than the question I have considered and decided."

That this statement indicates a serious shake-up in the department next winter was freely predicted here.

A RACING AUTO KILLS NINE

Lee Oldfield Car Flings a Tire Leaves Track and Plunges Trough Fence Into Mass of People.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Nine people were killed and fourteen injured, some of them seriously, as the result of an accident during the closing miles of a fifty-mile automobile race at the State Fair track Saturday afternoon, when a Knox racing car driven by Lee Oldfield leaped from the track, crashed through the fences surrounding it and plunged into the throngs that lined the other side of the speedway.

The accident occurred in the forty-third mile. De Palma was leading by a lap with Oldfield trailing him as they entered the first quarter of that mile. The car, traveling at seventy-five miles an hour, was running side by side as they swung around the turn after passing the grand stand. As they took the turn there was a report. The car driven by Oldfield leaped in the air. Then it swerved to the outer side and crashed through the fence.

Oldfield, the driver, who is in a city hospital, though not seriously hurt, is being guarded by officers, and as soon as he recovers, it is said, he will be arrested.

REBELS SACK VILLAGES.

Unrest Still Keeps Things Going in the Cactus Land.

City of Mexico: Juan Andres Almazan, a former revolutionary officer, has joined his forces to those of Emiliano Zapata, the combined column of rebels marching toward Acatlan, in the State of Puebla. The united movement began at Huamantlan, and two villages were sacked by the marauding army. Reports from Puebla are that a number of Spanish merchants of Acatlan and nearby places have fled to that city for protection after having hidden the greater part of their merchandise in houses of friends.

Harootian, an Armenian, who was one of Almazan's officers, has been captured and is being brought to the capital for trial.

Almazan is but 21 years old. His defection is ascribed to resentment against Madero because he was not made provisional Governor of either Guerrero or the State of Puebla.

SAFE BLOWERS GET $315,000

Branch of a Montreal Bank is Blown for Big Money.

New Westminster, B. C.: Three robbers took $315,000 early Friday from the Bank of Montreal's local branch, and thereby perpetrated the largest "successful" safe blowing record in America. Bank officials assert all bills taken by the bandits were new and mostly of large denomination and that their so-called numbers are recorded at the bank. The gold can not be traced so directly.

Besides timing the robbery to match the vacation of the night watchman, it developed that the trio selected a time when the bank's cash supply was far above normal for the financing of the salmon shipments of the canning season now closing.

Bunch of Negroes Escape Dallas Jail.

Dallas: Five negroes escaped from the county jail at 5:55 o'clock Friday evening through the back door on the ground floor. It is not known whether they found the back door unlocked, or succeeded in prizing it open. Friday is clean-up day at the jail, and it is stated that these men, and others, were engaged in sweeping and scrubbing about the place. The men were not missed until a negro prisoner, about 6 o'clock, reported their escape.

TAFT TAKES TRIP WORKS WAY WEST

CUTS POLITICS AND WILL TELL OF PEACE AND PLENTY.

STARTS ON 54TH BIRTHDAY

Defies Friday Superstition as He Does Many Other Old-Time Ideas, Customs and Practices.

Beverly, Mass.: President William Taft started Friday on his second "swing around the circle." In the opinion of many of his friends, the trip promises to be one of the most important ever undertaken by a Chief Executive. He has said he will indulge in but little political discussion, but it is admitted that opportunity for such discussion will not be merely offered, but probably will be thrust upon him. That he would accept the gauge of battle if some "heckler" in his audiences threw it on the platform is hardly doubted. That the President's political fortunes may depend to some extent on his journey is agreed by many men close to the administration.

Two years ago the President started from Beverly on his first cross-continent trip. He had been six months in office and the Payne-Adrich tariff law had been five weeks on the statute books. On that trip he delivered his famous address at Winona, Minn., a defense of that law on which most of the criticism of the administration's tariff policy has been based. On the list for the present journey the President has set down "The Tariff" and "The Tariff Board" as two subjects for set addresses.

POSTAL BANKS IN TEXAS.

Eighty-Two, Now in Operation Prove to Be Popular.

Washington: Eighty-two postal savings banks will be in operation in Texas by Sept. 23. Of this number, six, Dallas, Houston, El Paso, Austin and Sherman, are connected with postoffices of the first class. Two more, one at Waco and the other at Beaumont, will go into operation Oct. 8.

Texas has eleven postoffices of the first class, and eight of these are to have postal savings banks; seventy-nine offices of the second class, of which seventy-six are to have such banks. There are 267 third-class postoffices in the State, practically all of which are to have the postal bank feature before the close of the year.

American Wealth—Degeneracy.

San Francisco, Cal.: One hundred thousand dollars' worth of dogs—100 animals in all—in the custody of their mistresses, attended a canine funeral Wednesday that was marked by all pomp generally displayed in honor of an eminent human. The occasion was the funeral of Miss Jennie Crocker's prize-winning Boston terrier, Wonderland Duchess and Dick Dazler. The funeral cortege wended its way from the Crocker kennels to a little dog cemetery, where the two terriers were laid away in coffins of concrete fashioned on the Egyptian style.

Texas-Louisiana Rice Day.

Houston: September 30th has been designated as the date to do homage to the queen of cereals, rice. On that day every large hotel in the country and every dining car and railway eating station will serve rice in various ways, free to its patrons. Every family in Texas and Louisiana should serve rice as a staple food on this occasion and every family in other sections is urged to do the same.

Dallas Court Bill Signed.

Austin: The Governor Thursday signed the bill creating another criminal district court for Dallas County and appointed Phil Barry Miller to the Judgeship. The place had previously been offered to Mr. Miller, but it was declined. It is thought that he may now accept it. He is a well-known Dallas attorney and served in the Texas Senate.

Family Can Pick Cotton.

Campbell, Hunt County: Lee Manly, son of Tom Manly, a farmer two miles east of town, in one day picked 904 pounds of cotton. His brother Watson, 18 years old, picked 794 pounds in one day. Mrs. Lee Manly picked 450 pounds of cotton. The three picked over five acres of cotton to get this amount. Two years ago Lee Manly picked in one day 687 pounds.

Red River Long Staple Cotton.

Clarksville: The first bale of long staple cotton to sell for 20c per pound in the Clarksville market this season was sold Thursday by J. K. P. Jamison to W. R. Moore. The highest price paid during the season previous to this sale was 19 1/2c. Local receipts at noon were 794 bales. Cotton men generally estimate that 20,000 or more bales, one-third of which will be of long staple varieties, will be received here.

COTTON MUST SELL FOR 15C OR OVER

MONTGOMERY CONVENTION DISCUSSES HOLDING PLAN.

MEET NEXT YEAR IN ATLANTA

Estimates Crop at 12,500,000 Bales Official Denies Union Statements.

Montgomery, Ala., Over Five hundred cotton growers, and as many bankers, Congressmen, United States Senators and business men, representing every cotton growing State in America, declared in convention that the farmer's cotton is worth 15c a pound and resolved that the farmer should hold his cotton for that price. The resolution followed a committee report that the crop in America would not exceed 12,500,000 bales.

Looking forward to plans for financing the crop for this year, a resolution was adopted that the farmer should deposit his cotton in a warehouse and use his receipt as collateral until he could sell his cotton at a fair price, not less than 15c. There was also a resolution that the several State Legislatures provide for a system of bonded warehouses.

Declaring that organization among the farmers and co-operation among them with the bankers and financiers was the solution of the problem, the convention resolved itself into a permanent organization, to be known as the Southern Cotton Congress, and adjourned to meet in Atlanta at the call of the president, E. J. Watson, Commissioner of Agriculture of South Carolina.

The meeting in Montgomery will be followed by a similar convention in every Southern State, to be called by the Commissioner of Agriculture in each State. By these conventions the action of the congress will be ratified and reinforced by further steps to secure a better price for cotton for this season first and then for years to come.

PUT GOVERNOR ON GRIDIRON

Votes May Have to Run Gauntlet of Courts.

Austin: It is reported here that the old board of codifiers will insist upon mandamus proceedings to test the Governor's veto of the act of the regular session of the Legislature appropriating $25,000 for the annotation and indexing of the Revised Civil Code, etc. It is said that a firm of San Antonio lawyers have been engaged to bring the proceedings in the Supreme Court against the Secretary of State to compel him to publish as a law and not treat it as vetoed. The point will be that the Governor failed to veto the bill within the time allowed by the Constitution—twenty days. The Governor vetoed it after twenty consecutive days had passed, but before twenty days excluding Sundays. The Executive contends that he had twenty days exclusive of Sundays and the codifiers will insist that the Constitution includes Sundays, therefore the bill became a law without the Governor's signature.

The same point is involved in the Governor's veto of the eight-hour law.

TARRANT'S DEVELOPMENT.

Proposed Bond Issue of $1,600,000 for Roads and Bridges.

Fort Worth: Citizens of Fort Worth, Arlington and other towns of Tarrant County have launched the movement for a bridge and road bond issue of $600,000 and $1,000,000, aggregating $1,600,000, which will insure bridges of the best quality and boulevards or pikes throughout every section of the county.

Petitions for the election have already been signed and will be presented to the Commissioners next week. The election will be held about a month later.

The bond issues will be separate, as that for road bonds requires a two-thirds vote to carry, while that for bridges requires only a majority. The elections will, however, be held on the same day for both issues and both will receive equal advocacy from the same citizens.

McKinney Cotton Mill on Full Time. McKinney: The McKinney cotton mill is running on full time, employing one hundred and twenty-five hands. The pay roll is about $500 per month. This mill has lately secured the contract to furnish all State institutions with denim and chevrons. It is the only mill west of the Mississippi that manufactures colored cloths.

State Senator Tom Perkins of Collier County is an announced candidate for Congress to succeed Congressman C. B. Randall.

Friends of Will H. Hayes, editor of the Brownwood Bulletin, have been urging him to enter the race for Lieutenant Governor, believing his favorable acquaintance throughout the State will insure his nomination.

A postal savings bank will be opened in Fort Worth October 14, according to statement of the postmaster.

NAVARRO COUNTY VOTES DRY

City of Corsicana Gives An Anti Majority of Only 21.

Corsicana: Complete unofficial returns in the election Saturday gave the anti twenty-one majority in town.

With three small boxes to hear from the pros have a majority of 504 in the county. The three boxes not reporting have a combined vote not exceeding 200 and can not change the result.

Throughout the day interested pros and anti visited the polls, particularly where the negro vote is heaviest, in order to satisfy themselves that every legal voter was privileged to vote listed on that score. While interest has been high a close observation has it appears that both sides are satisfied, the day passed without disturbance.

FRISCO FEELS GROWTH

Orders 2500 New Refrigerator Cars for Sawdust.

New Orleans, La.: One of the results of the meeting of the directors of the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico railroad here was the approval of a contract for the immediate building of 2500 refrigerator cars for use on the different line of the Frisco system. The first deliveries are expected in six ty days.

The cars are to be used to take care of the immense business in perishable goods, which the Frisco hopes to build up in Louisiana and Texas and the order for the very large consignment was planned when it was known that the arrangements with the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain, for the Frisco's use of the Iron Mountain tracks on the west bank of the Mississippi from Baton Rouge to a point in Arkansas, opposite Memphis, by which arrangement a new short line service from New Orleans to St. Louis would be affected.

Drainage and Levee Surveys. Austin: State Levee and Drainage Commissioner Stiles has just received from Washington the new reclamation maps of portions of the overflowed valleys of the Brazos, Trinity and Little Rivers, which have been made jointly by the Federal Government and the State Levee and Drainage Board. The total overflowed area of these sheets is about 125,000 acres of which 80 per cent will be reclaimed and permanently protected from overflows. The next surveys will probably be made along the Trinity in the Arlington and Dallas sections and as far below Dallas as possible. Requests for surveys in other districts over the State will be considered from time to time.

Third Transcontinental Flyer

New York: C. P. Rodgers, third aviator to start on the transcontinental flight for the Hearst prize, rose from the race track at Sheepshead Bay Sunday afternoon, swept in a wide circle over the grounds and then headed northwest until his white-winged flyer merged into a bank of clouds over the Jersey meadows and disappeared.

He drove a Wright biplane and carried a message from Mayor Gaynor to the Mayor of San Francisco and from the commanders of the Eastern divisions of the army and navy to the commanders on the Pacific Coast. Before his start his machine was christened by Miss Amelia Swift of Memphis, Tenn.

Bailey "Closes the Event."

Washington: Senator Bailey arrived in Washington Sunday. He was sought out by several newspaper men, but declined to discuss his retirement from the senatorial race in Texas. To a reporter for a local paper he said: "I will not talk about my withdrawal either now or at any time. I have said all that I have to say, and that amounted to about four lines in a newspaper column. I shall practice law. That is about all."

Texas City Adopts Commission. Galveston: The heaviest vote in the history of the support was cast on Saturday, when Texas City voted on the proposition to establish the commission form of government. The commission form of government was adopted and the following officers elected: Mayor, W. T. Tarpey; Commissioners, H. N. Coats and S. B. Davidson.

Dividend by Waxahachie Mill. Waxahachie: At a meeting of the directors of the Waxahachie cotton mill an annual dividend of 10 per cent was ordered paid. The payment of this apportionment required the distribution of $10,000. In addition to this, $9,500 was added to the surplus fund. All the old directors and officers were re-elected.

Ft. Worth-Cleburne Grading Contract. Fort Worth: The Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation has awarded the contract for the grading of the line of interurban between Fort Worth and Cleburne to the Texas Building Company. The work must begin within ten days from the signing of the contract and is to be completed within ninety days from the time of beginning. A penalty is fixed for failure to complete the work within a contract time.

Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union of America

Matters of Especial Moment to the Progressive Agriculturist

Make the farm worth while. Co-operation is the life of profit. The roll of fat on the show hog covers a multitude of defects. "Listen, I'm telling you!" shouts the fool. "Tell me and I'll listen," says the wise man.

The man who really loves his wife does not forget at 75 how beautiful she was at 20. It is all right to ask the Lord to air us in our work but all the same, he expects us to do our level best.

How we admire the man who never talks about anybody or anything except himself and his own doings! The brain-using business man is the profit maker; since farming is a business, the more brains the more profit.

Some women are so unreasonable as to expect a man to stop pitching horse shoes just to saw wood for the kitchen stove.

There was never a woman whose heart has not been touched with jealousy. If there was no jealousy there would be no love in the world.

Farm machinery comes pretty high, we sometimes think, but there is one thing in its favor, it is not eating three meals a day when it is not working.

It's a losing game to buy staple supplies in little dribs. The reason so many city people are poor is because they buy groceries and coal in five and ten cent lots.

A harsh word spoken to the wife or children or a simple act of injustice is often the germ which grows into a monster which strangles affection and starves our hungry hearts.

If your neighbor comes along and offers to let you in on a ground floor gold mine or any other sure thing proposition "just because you are a good fellow," ask time to think it over and then refuse.

Swamps on the farm are like dark spots on the human character. They are neglected and misunderstood and may be redeemed to usefulness and beauty by proper cultivation.

POTATO GROWERS OF MAINE

Form Organization for Handling Crop and Putting it on Markets to Best Advantage.

I have several times mentioned the fact that the Aroostook potato growers of Maine were attempting to form an association to aid them in growing and handling their potatoes and in placing them upon the markets more advantageously. This association has now been formed with its plans definitely outlined, and is now ready for business, says a writer in the New England Homestead. Through its methods, the consumer may profit, as well as the grower.

This association is the result of the united efforts of the two Pomona granges in the county, through a joint committee which began its work early in April. The objects of the association are to adopt a more careful system of handling and grading, harvesting and shipping; to acquire new and better markets by having agents in different consuming, or shipping centers, so as to keep posted on conditions and requirements; to devise better and more economic methods of marketing, thus making a saving to the producer without increasing the cost to the consumer. There are several other lines of business the association expects to take up later, but there is a feeling among the promoters, that it is best to make haste slowly along these lines.

The association is capitalized for $100,000, divided into 20,000 shares of five dollars each. As it is a grange movement the stock is to be sold only to members of the order, or to such granges as may elect to become stockholders. The plan is to establish a shipping station at every place in the county where 60 shares of stock are held, with not less than 20 members. At smaller stations and at sidings, shipments will be made through the general management.

All shipments are to be inspected by competent inspectors employed by the association, and none will be allowed to leave the county that are not fully up to the guarantee. It is expected that the handling of seed stock may form quite a part of the business of the association and an attempt will be made to so conduct this branch of the work as to insure to each purchaser absolute certainty that he receives the variety he desired and that the stock is good of the variety. In other words the association will "state what it sells and sell what it states." L. E. LITTLE of Caribou is president and Guy Porter of Houlton is secretary of the association.

Select Good Seeds.

No work on the farm will pay as well for the time and expense as seed selection. A few days devoted to the selection of the best bolls from the best stalks of cotton and to the selection of the best ears of corn from the best all-round stalks of corn will very materially increase the yield of cotton and corn.

FIGHT TO MAINTAIN COTTON

President Barrett Makes First Official Expression on Attitude to Keep Staple on Proper Level.

National President Barrett of the Farmers' union, recently made his first official expression regarding the attitude of that big organization in the battle that is coming this fall to maintain the price of cotton at a proper level.

"The Farmers' union," says President Barrett, "issues an invitation to the entire south to co-operate with it in saving to this section many million dollars on the cotton crop of 1911-12. It is for the merchant, the business man, the banker, the smallest citizen, no less than the farmer, to figure the difference between eight or nine cent cotton and thirteen or fourteen cent cotton. The fight we are going to win is not alone in behalf of the farmer. It is waged in the interest of the southern business world as a whole. To that degree, it is not only the duty, but the individual profit, of every element in the southern states to join hands with the Farmers' union, to the end that the powerful machinery of this organization may be brought to bear with complete success upon the present situation.

"To the farmer, whether or not a member of the Farmers' union, my imperative advice is 'Hold your cotton!' It is worth infinitely more than the price now quoted. You should first go to your local banker, if you are in debt, and borrow sufficient money, with cotton as collateral, to enable you to hold. Your own banker knows you best, and it is to his interest to aid you in the fight. Should he fail you—and I don't think he will—you can depend upon us for assistance.

"The Farmers' union does not intend that a clique of bear gamblers or domestic and foreign speculators shall combine to dictate the price of our product, or to rob the section of a tremendous sum of money. It is for the south we are working. Now is the time for every southerner to prove his business insight, and it is not the time for hypocritical pretensions. It is a cold matter of dollars and cents. If the farmer suffers, the business man, every business interest, suffers along with him.

"It is no longer possible to produce cotton for eight or nine cents at a profit. If we would return to the old prices for mules, supplies, farm machinery, land itself, the proposition would be feasible. But as we cannot, the farmer must insist upon the price of his product being maintained upon a level with that of every other product.

"The south ought to be abundantly able to finance and hold its own principal product. The accomplishment should be a matter of pride, as well as of common sense. Practical men realize that the cotton crop of the opening season will not be nearly so large as it has been reported. We, who have investigated, know that there will be a demand at a fair price, for every pound of the staple produced. The main thing is for the farmer, large of small, organized and unorganized, to get together and resolve that he will not be cheated out of the result of his toil.

"Every solitary southerner is interested in the same result. And to each one, in whatever calling, I extend a cordial invitation to work with us for his own monetary interest, no less than that of the farmer. As for the latter—another season or two of fair prices mean absolute emancipation from debt. That thought could be sufficient to nerve him for the battle—especially when he is assured assistance in its winning."

"Capt. Reuben F. Kolb, commissioner of Agriculture of Alabama, has called a meeting of the commissioners of Agriculture of the southern states, and of all interested parties, barring none, to devise means for maintaining the price of cotton. This conference will follow the Farmers' union convention, to be held at Shawnee, Okla., September 5, and the convention will be liberally, if not as a body, represented at the conference. I urge all southerners who realize the importance of the occasion to meet with the commissioners and with members of the Farmers' union in this conference. Let all come, not to discuss the farmers' 'greatness,' which may be taken for granted, nor any other subject, but the securing of a proper price for cotton. That is a big enough job for a gathering composed of the south's best brains, and it should not be interfered with by 'hot air' or discussions admirable in their way but without any bearing on the paramount issue.

"Prompt action taken by this joint conference, following the policies outlined at the Farmers' union convention, will bring triumph in a campaign which no southerner, however humble, can afford in self-interest and patriotism, to ignore."

CHARLES S. BARRETT.

Texas Ranks First.

Judging by the value of agricultural products, Texas ranks first of all the states. She has 10,000,000 acres in cotton and her farm crops aggregated in 1910 $364,110,000. Till then Illinois held the leading place. The value of wealth produced on the farms of the United States in 1910 was $8,926,000,000, an increase of $104,000,000 over 1909.

Poor "Packing" Animals.

Nearly 50 per cent. of the hogs received at the packing houses are graded as "packing." This means they are of the poor quality such as old sows and light hogs.

A TRAIN LOAD OF TOBACCO.

Twenty-four Carloads Purchased for Lewis' Single Binder Cigar Factory.

What is probably the biggest lot of all fancy grade tobacco held by any factory in the United States has just been purchased by Frank P. Lewis, of Peoria, for the manufacture of Lewis' Single Binder Cigars. The lot will make twenty-four carloads, and is selected from what is considered by experts to be the finest crop raised in many years. The purchase of tobacco is sufficient to last the factory more than two years. An extra price was paid for the selection. Smokers of Lewis' Single Binder Cigars will appreciate this tobacco.

THE FARMS of the country are the source from which nine tenths of the wealth of the country comes. As the productive power of the farms is increased and the certainty of crop yields is enhanced just in that proportion not alone does the farmer prosper, but every other man and line of business. From this incontestable fact it is apparent that the business men of the country should attend such meetings as the Central West Texas Dry Farming Congress, to be held at Abilene, Sept. 27-28, get in touch with the movement and give it their aid and encouragement.

AN IMPORTANT FARMERS' MEETING

What Some Leaders in Texas Development Think of it.

Below we give extracts from letters written to the secretary of the Dry Farming Congress to be held at Abilene on Sept. 27 and 28. When well known and progressive men like these give unqualified endorsement to a movement intended to promote the prosperity and development of West Texas, it is certain that it possesses more than ordinary merit:

President Peter Radford, of the Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union of Texas, Says:

"I desire to see the farmers educated scientifically on every line wherein their interests lie, for it is by education and intelligent co-operation that I expect to see the farmers come into their own and, through them, every honest person receive his part for the service they render for the country's good. So I wish you much success in your undertaking."

We all know that Homer D. Wade has been a strong factor in development work for West Texas; he says:

"I will take pleasure in calling attention to this meeting, as I am sure its object is a matter of intense interest in the agricultural development of our country."

A man who has given much study to the problem of improving the farming methods of West Texas is Seth B. Holman, secretary Chamber of Commerce, Comanche, Texas, says: "I will most certainly be at the Dry Farming Congress at Abilene Sept. 27-28, if the Lord is willing, for if there is one particular thing I am interested in it is better farming. In fact most of my time is devoted to that subject. I will try to bring some of our representative farmers with me."

Still another such man is Judge Fred Cockroft of Abilene, who says:

"It is the best movement started in West Texas in twenty years."

Will L. Sargent, industrial agent of the T. & P. Ry. Co., saw the call for the meeting published in the Dallas News and wrote:

"I desire to say to you that the Bureau which I represent, as well as the old reliable and never failing T. & P. Ry., will be glad to co-operate with you in making this meeting a great success."

"Personally, I feel that such meetings are absolutely in demand and essential to agricultural progress and that the people who are undertaking to farm must adopt some system along the line proposed by such a congress of practical farmers and scientific experts in agriculture. The sooner this stage of co-operation and progress is reached the greater and sooner will come the settlement and development of the great Middle West of Texas, bringing in its train prosperity, contentment and stability."

We desire to add our editorial endorsement to this movement, as it is one which appeals to reason and judgment, and we hope that many of both the farmers and business men of our country will go to Abilene and get in touch with it.

The Recreative Value Of the County Fair.

Southwestern Farmer is an ardent advocate of the county fair—if for no other reason than that it furnishes an easily available method for the hard-working farmer and his family to secure a well-earned breathing spell.

These fairs come at a season when the bulk of the harvest work is over or well in hand. We believe there is no farmer in the state of Texas who is so busy that he could not, by a little extra effort, take at least one day to attend.

The annual vacation is admitted to be an economic necessity to the city worker. It is doubly so to the man who wrests a living from the soil. All year he has been toiling, early and late, in season and out of season, in good weather and bad. He has earned a change of scene and rest of at least a few days. No one would even attempt to deny it.

Perhaps one of the greatest of the many benefits to be derived from the county fair is the social feature of such gathering. Man is a gregarious creature. Too much living in a state of semi-seclusion is not good for him. Rubbing elbows with your neighbors as afforded at these county fairs will go a long way toward relieving the lonesomeness of farming business.

Talk the matter over with the family now, while it's fresh in your mind. When the day comes, pack the lunch basket running over with fried chicken, bread-and-butter, fruit, doughnuts and cookies, or anything else that strikes the fancy of the little woman and the youngsters; shut down the farm; hitch up the team and drive over to the county seat and forget all about work for one long day. Southwestern Farmer will be with you, in spirit at least, on your outing.—Ex.

Texas Corn

Texas is a world's force in agriculture. Withdraw our farm products from the market and the people of two hemispheres will go hungry and shiver with cold. Out of the soil and from the air our farmers take annually nearly a billion dollars of wealth. In plowing the land the Texas farmers walk 330,000 miles per annum, which is equal to traveling around the globe 13,200 times.

The chief products of Texas in order of their value, as estimated by the Federal agricultural department for 1910, are cotton, corn, wheat, oats, hay, rice, potatoes, etc. Cotton is the leading product is far ahead of its rivals. Corn occupies second place without challenge. Wheat and oats have been disputing for third place, but the separation this year is so pronounced that there can be no longer any controversy over their respective positions.

An examination of our cereal products dispels the idea that Texas is a one-crop state. In 1910 we harvested 223,000,000 bushels of grain. Although a bushel of oats weighs less than a bushel of any other grain, yet there is some significance in the total quantity of all cereals produced. Our cereal belt is following closely behind the plow as it turns the virgin soil, and we have so far found no geographical limitation placed upon it by nature.

Our corn acreage in 1910 was 5,900,000 and production 181,250,000 bushels, and it had a farm value of $114,200,000. This corn was raised in 120 days, making an average production of approximately $1,000,000 per day. We raised 20.6 bushels per acre at a farm value of $12.25 per acre. The corn crop of 1909 and 1910 will purchase the railroads of Texas using the railroad commission's valuation on railroad property.

This giant industry has scarcely begun its development in Texas and the possibilities of extending the corn area and increasing the yield per acre present a wide field for enterprising farmers and there are millions of acres of idle land in the corn belt.

FINE AND FLEET HORSES AT FAIR

Many of the Best Are Listed to Be on Hand.

PURSES TRULY TEMPTING

Twenty-Eight Thousand Dollars Offered Both for Thoroughbreds and Harness Horses, and Amount Provided for Exhibition Studs.

It has been an axiom from time immemorial that the trite saying "no foot no horse" can have been no more truthful statement than to now say "no horse no fair," for in the years gone by had there been no racing at the Great State Fair of Texas, there would not have been many horses bred or raised. You might say that the Great State Fair of Texas, at Dallas has been God-mother to all breeders of high-class stock and more especially the race horse, whether it has been raced or kept for driving purposes, at home or abroad, it can be said without the possibility of refutation that the Great State Fair has been built on and around the performances of that great animal "The Horse."

Robert Ingersoll has been quoted as having said that "much that is good in man is the dog that is in him." In this we differ with him to some extent, and although the dog is an ever source of pleasure and comfort to man, still it is our firm belief that had we to do without one or the other, man could have best survived the total elimination of the dog, than that of the horse. And though many of us are too young to recall the fact, it is a matter of history that when railroads were first put into operation, it was most generally predicted that the total disuse of the horse would follow. How fallacious this statement proved to be we all now well know. Again when with a rub that carried the rich, the poor, in fact all the masses a wheel from the very first introduction of the old-time bicycle, again was that ever ready prediction often made, the horse must go, and yet another era, one which does not take an octogenarian to recall, was the incoming of the automobile, then indeed was our old friend and erstwhile companion, the ever patient and forbearing horse, to get the way of the ancient Eolippus, again we ask, did he?

If you wish to try an unusual experiment, just tie you forth into the markets of the East, or if you wish elsewhere, and see what a good ordinary everyday horse can be, first found and next, purchased for. To further illustrate, we might say that not a great time past a combination auto was held in a large city of the East, noted the world over for its millionaires, and in that sale, seven hundred and fifty horses were sold; can you imagine for one minute that this great number of horses could be gathered from the four corners of the earth and have them all perfect, is it not more likely to have been the case that some of them were young for immediate use, and that others too old, and in the seed and yellow leaf as it were, and again might not many of them been afflicted with some of the many ills that horse flesh is heir to, or blemished in drivers and sundry ways, or can you for a moment claim that it is possible to gather that number from the many breeders all over the United States and have each one of them a perfect and technically sound horse. At any rate, the average price of this sale was four hundred and fifty-four dollars each, and yet, there are those who would have us believe that the horse days on earth are numbered. Had you ever thought of a horse like any other crop raised by the farmers of this great country that it takes just six years to replenish our stock of horses? If our country was suffering from a shortage of corn, our barley, rye or cotton, one year would be sufficient to do away with that shortage not so however, with our livestock for from baby beef to horses, it takes from three to six years, to have them ready for market.

A few years ago it was possible to find many of our young men mounted on a horse that the trappings were of more value than the horse and the former would most likely be represented by about twenty-five dollars as a cash outlay, this is far from being the case today. An elegant combination horse will command the attention of not only along the streets on which he may be driven or ridden, but will also sell on the open market for from five hundred to one thousand dollars. Then we ask our farmers do better than to raise one or more such colts each year and feed to them their surplus grain and hay to the end that someone more able to own them than their breeders may purchase and fit them for the market, as breeding and raising them belongs to one class and the educating and fitting of them to another.

Can it not be said that each breeder's success at our annual State Fair when the finished product is shown will be an additional incentive to all onlookers and visitors at the fall meeting, at least try and raise something that can be shown in competition with his neighbor and are we not all ambitious to excel? In conclusion it can be asked—is not the Great State Fair, held at Dallas, in all its colossal proportions, its various products of the states many farms, its mineral resources, lumber and mining interests built upon and intermeshed with the horse. Would any one of the many enumerated industries have been the proven success that they have been without the aid of the horse, then we proclaim, all hail to the greatest of all the lower animals given by a great and beneficent God, to man, the horse. Again can we say that no other than the Great State Fair of Texas has done more, nor have other interests been able to do as much for the breeders of livestock in the Southwest as have they.

At their annual meeting, October 14-29, 1911, twenty-eight thousand dollars will be given in purses to both thoroughbred and harness horses, and in addition to this there will also be given for exhibition horses fifty-eight hundred dollars, for cattle eighty-six hundred dollars, and still further for premiums on swine, sheep, goats, dairy, farm and mill products, cotton, corn, county exhibits, poultry, etc., etc. will be given a grand total of twenty-seven thousand, three hundred and five dollars.

There will be expended in the fall of 1911, in Dallas, by the State Fair of Texas, in premiums, purses, permanent improvements and operations, a grand total of two hundred and five thousand, three hundred and five dollars.

AMUSEMENT FEATURES.

Thaviu and His Russian Band Among Them.

By long experience, the management of the State Fair of Texas, keenly appreciates that equally as important as the exhibition and display of every modern educational feature, is that of amusement and entertainment for its visitors as well. With this in view the directors of the Fair association have this year appropriated alone for the department the sum of $20,000, and contracts are already closed for attractions costing slightly in excess of that amount.

EDWIN J. Kiest, President State Fair of Texas.

COLISEUM.

In this monster coliseum, constructed in 1910, at a cost of $108,000, will be seen Professor A. F. Thaviu, the famous Russian Band Master, and his international band and Grand Opera company, as well as a troupe of fifteen European ballet dancers, twelve lady specialty artists in Russian, Spanish, Hungarian and Characteristic dances and songs. There will also be four vocal soloists of international reputation, and one of the latest European Novelty casting acts.

Professor Thaviu's management last season was such a success that contract was given him this year to furnish the entire program for the Coliseum and all to be under his direction. There will be performances morning, afternoon and evening by the entire band and company, consisting of 75 artists.

As a finale to each evening performance there will be given one of the standard operas in condensed form by the entire company with the entire band in the orchestra. In the repertoire are such operas as Aida, Pagliacci, Gioconda, Madame Butterfly, The Trovatore, Rigoletto, Lucia, etc., assuring a complete change of program daily. This will be a musical carnival never before heard in the south and of a size never attempted by any other Fair Association in the country.

President E. J. Kiest has always said there was nothing too good for visitors to the State Fair at Dallas and in this, his fourth year of service as president, he is endeavoring to eclipse any of his former great achievements.

The performances morning and afternoon are absolutely free and only a nominal charge of twenty-five cents is made in the evening. This will certainly be a treat.

MAMMOTH COASTER.

In addition to the many new and varied educational features that will be seen at the Great State Fair of Texas, Dallas, October 14th to 29th, President E. J. Kiest is equally alive to the amusement features as well, and had just announced that contract has been closed for the construction of a mammoth racing coaster by an Eastern syndicate at a cost of $30,000. Material and engineers are now in transit and the coaster will be ready for all amusement lovers on the opening day, Saturday, October 14th.

The mammoth racing coaster is the very latest amusement riding device before the public today, and to ride on same is the next thing to flying. The syndicate operating these coasters has decided to place only two of them in this country and selected Dallas as the only place in the United States, and Toronto, Canada, as the location of the other. This is another endorsement of the State Fair of Texas, being the greatest and largest institution of its kind in the world and of which every citizen of Texas is justly proud.

DAILY FLIGHTS.

As one of the special attractions of the State Fair of Texas, Dallas, October 14-29, President E. J. Kiest, announces that contract has just been closed with the McCurdy-Willard Aeroplane company of New York, for daily flights by J. D. McCurdy, whose recent flight from Key West to Havana is still fresh in the minds of every one and whose reputation is world wide; Charles F. Willard whose numerous flights have thrilled thousands in all parts of the country, or "Jimmie" Ward, who, while one of the youngest aviators in the business, started the thousands who saw him in Dallas during the spring flitting with the gods, soaring to an altitude that made him almost invisible and then descending in long spiral glides, and performing every daring feat known to aviation.

Flights will be made daily from the infield of the race track in front of the grand stand between 1 p. m. and 8 p. m. and in between the races.

The hangar will be situated so as to be easily accessible to all visitors and where the machines can be seen at close range. Lectures will also be given, on aeroplanes and every detail of aviation, which will be instructive and highly interesting.

MIDWAY.

The Midway attractions will be in the capable hands of Herbert A. Kilne, with his great aggregation of new and novel shows, furnishing all kinds of attractions and amusements for the young and old. Every show will be of the highest moral character and under no circumstances will any freak or immoral show be allowed on the grounds. Among the permanent amusement features are, the Mammoth Racing Coaster, the new novel, highly exciting and being erected at a cost of $50,000, the Scenic Railway, the Chute the Chutes, Figure Skating, Carousel, Double Wheel, Amusement Railway, the Pickin' Old Mill and Frolic, besides many other transient devices.

SYNOPSIS.

David Amber, starting for a duck-shooting visit with his friend, Quain, comes upon a young lady equestrian who has been dismounted by her horse becoming frightened at the sudden appearance in the road of a burly Hindu. He declares he is Bahari Lal Chatterji. The appointed mysterious of the Bell, addresses Amber as a man of high rank and pressing a mysterious little bronze box. "The token," into his hand, disappears in the wood. The girl calls Amber by name. His in turn addresses her as Miss Sophie Farrell, daughter of Col. Farrell of the British diplomatic service in India and visiting the Quains. Several nights later the Quain home is burglarized and the bronze box stolen. Amber and Quain go hunting on an island and become lost and Amber is left marooned. He wanders about, finally reaches a cabin and recognizes as its occupant an old friend named Rutton, whom he last met in England, and who appears to be in hiding. When Miss Farrell is mentioned Amber is strangely excited. Chatterji appears and summons Rutton to a meeting of a mysterious body. Rutton seizes a revolver and dashes after Chatterji. He returns wildly excited, says he has killed the Hindu, takes poison, and when dying asks Amber to go to India on a mysterious errand. Amber decides to leave at once for India. On the way he sends a letter to Mr. Labertouche, a scientific friend in Calcutta, by a quicker route. Upon arriving he finds a note awaiting him. It directs Amber to meet his friend at a certain place. The latter tells him he knows his mission is to get Miss Farrell out of the country. Amber attempts to dispose of the token to a money-lender, is mistaken for Rutton and barely escapes being mobbed. A message from Labertouche causes him to start for Bangalore, and on the way he meets Miss Farrell.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Photograph.

That same night Amber dined at the Residency, on the invitation of Raikes, the local representative of government, seconded by the insistence of Colonel Farrell. It developed that Sophia's telegram had somehow been lost in transit, and Farrell's surprise and pleasure at sight of her were tempered only by his keen appreciation of Amber's adventitious services, slight though they had been. He was urged to stay the evening out, before proceeding to his designated quarters, and the reluctance with which he acceded to this arrangement which worked so happily with his desires, may be imagined.

Ease of anxiety was more than food and drink to Amber; his feeling of relief, to have convoyed Sophia to the company and protection of Anglo-Saxons like himself, was intense. Yet he swallowed his preliminary brandy-peg in a distinctly uncomfortable frame of mind, strangely troubled by the reflection that round that lone white table was gathered together the known white population of the state; a census of which accounted for just five souls.

Amber was relieved when at length the meal was over, and Miss Farrell having withdrawn in conformance with inviolable custom, the cloth was deftly whisked away and cigars, cigarettes, liquors, whisky and soda were served.

Amber took unto himself a cigar and utilized an observation of the Political's as a lever to swing the conversation to a plane more likely to inform him. Farrell had grumbled about the exactions of his position as particularly instanced by the necessity of his attending tedious and tiresome native ceremonies in connection with the tamasha.

"What's, precisely, the nature of this tamasha, Colonel Farrell?"

"Why, my dear young man, I thought you knew. Isn't it what you came to see?"

"No," Amber admitted cautiously; "I merely heard a rumor that there was something uncommon afoot. Is it really anything worth while?"

"Rather," Raikes interjected drily, "the present ruler's abdicating in favor of his son, a child of twelve. That puts the business in a class by itself."

"But why should a prince hand over the reins of government to a child of twelve? There must be some reason for it. Isn't it known?" asked Amber.

"Who can fathom a Hindu's mind?" grunted Farrell. "I daresay there's some scandalous native intrigue at the bottom of it. Eh, Raikes?"

The Resident shook his head. "Don't come to this shop for information about what goes on in Khandawar. I doubt if there's another Resident in India who knows as little of the underhand devilment in his state as I do. His majesty the Rana loves me as a chetah loves his trainer. He's an intractable rascal."

"There have been a number of deaths from cholera in the Palace lately, the grand vizier's amongst them."

"White arsenic cholera?"

"That and the hemp poison kind."

"Refractory vizier?" questioned Farrell.

"The kind that wants to retrench and institute reforms—railways and metalled roads and so forth."

"No; he was quite suited to his master. But the bazar says Naraini took a dislike to him for one reason or another."

"Naraini?" queried Amber.

"The genius of the place." Raikes nodded toward the Raj Mahal, shining like a pearl through the darkness on the hillside over against the Residency. "She's Salig's head queen. At least that's about as near to her status as one can get. She's not actually his queen, but some sort of a heritage from the Rutton dynasty—I hardly know what or why. Salig never married her, but she lives in the Palace, and for several years—ever since she first began to be talked about—she's ruled from behind the screen with a high hand and an outstretched arm. So the bazar says."

They arose and left the table to the servants, the Resident with Amber following Farrell and young Clarkson.

"Old women we are, forever talking scandal," said Raikes, with a chuckle. "Oh, well! It's shop with us, you know."

"Of course. . . . Then I understand that the tamasha is the reason for the encampment beyond the walls?"

"Yes; they've been coming in for a week. By tomorrow night, I daresay, every rajah, prince, thakur, baron, fief, and lord in Rajputana, each with his 'tail,' horse and foot, will be camped down before the walls of Kuttarpur. You've chosen an interesting time for your visit. It'll be a sight worth seeing, when they begin to make a show. My troubles begin with a state banquet tomorrow that I'd give much to miss; however, I'll have Farrell for company."

"I'm glad to be here," said Amber thoughtfully. "Could it be possible that the proposed abdication of Salig Singh in favor of his son were merely a cloak to a conspiracy to restore to power the house of Rutton? Or had the tamasha been arranged in order to gather together all the rulers in Rajputana without exciting suspicion, that they might agree upon a concerted plan of mutiny against the Sirkar? The state affair of surpassing importance had been arranged for the last day of grace allotted the Prince of the house of Rutton. What had it to do with the Gateway of Swords, the Voice, the Mind, the Eye, the Body, the Bell?"

"By the way, Mr. Raikes," said the Virginian suddenly, "what do they call the gate by which we entered the city—the southern gate?"

"The Gateway of Swords, I believe."

Farrell, on the point of entering the house, overheard and turned. "Is that so? Why, I thought that gateway was in Kathlapur."

"I've heard of a Gateway of Swords in Kathlapur," Raikes admitted. "Never been there, myself."

"Kathlapur?"

"A dead city, Mr. Amber, not far away—originally the capital of Khandawar. It's over there in the hills to the north, somewhere. Old Rao Rutton, founder of the old dynasty, got tired of the place and caused it to be depopulated, building Kuttarpur in its stead—I believe, to commemorate some victory or other. That sort of thing used to be quite the fashion in India, before we came." Raikes fell back, giving Amber precedence as they entered the Residency. "By the way, remind me, if you think of it, Colonel Farrell, to get after the telegraph clerk tomorrow. There's a new man in charge—a Bengali babu—and I presume he's about as worthless as the run of his kind."

Amber made a careful note of this information; he was curious about that babu.

In the drawing room Raikes and Farrell impressed Clarkson for three-handed bridge. Sophia did not care to play and Amber was ignorant of the game—a defect in his social education which he found no cause to regret, since it left him in undisputed attendance upon the girl.

She had seated herself at a warped and discouraged piano, for which Raikes had already apologized; it was, he said, a legacy from a former Resident. For years its yellow keys had not known a woman's touch such as that to which they now responded with thin, cracked voices; the girl's fine, slender fingers wrung from them a plaintive, pathetic parody of melody.

Amber stood over her with his arms folded on the top of the instrument, comfortably unconscious that his pose was copied from any number of sentimental photographs and "art photographs." His temper was sentimental enough, for that matter; the woman was very sweet and beautiful in his eyes as she sat with her white, round arms flashing over the keyboard, her head bowed and her face a little averted, the long lashes low upon her cheeks and tremulous with a fathomless emotion. It was his thought that his time was momentarily becoming shorter, and that just now, more than ever, she was very distant from them, something inaccessible, too rare and delicate and fine for the rude possession of him who sighed for his own unworthiness.

Abruptly she brought both hands down upon the keys, edging a jangled, startled crash from the tortured wires, and swinging round, glanced up at Amber with quaint mirth trembling behind the veil of moisture in her misty eyes.

"India!" she cried, with a broken laugh; "India epitomized: a homesick, exiled woman trying to drag a song of home from the broken heart of a crippled piano! That is an Englishwoman's India: it's our life, ever to strive and struggle and contrive to piece together out of makeshift odds and ends the atmosphere of home!"

"It's suffocating in here, Come!" She rose with a quick shrug of impatience, and led the way back to the gardens.

Pensive, the girl trained her long skirts headlessly over the dew-drenched grasses, Amber at her side, himself speechless with an intangible, ineluctable, unreasoning sense of expectancy. Never, he told himself, had a lover's hour been more auspiciously timed or staged; and this was his hour, altogether his! . . . If only he might find the words of wooing to which his lips were strange! He dared not delay; tomorrow it might be too late; in the womb of the morrow a world of chances stirred—contingencies that might in a breath set them a world apart.

They found seats in the shadow of a peepul.

"Are you in the habit of indulging in protracted silences?" she rallied him gently. "Between friends of old standing they're permissible, I believe, but—"

"A day's journey by tonga matures acquaintanceship wonderfully," he observed abruptly.

"Indeed?" She laughed. "At least, I hope so."

He felt that he must be making progress; thus far he had been no less lame than any average lover of the stage or fiction. And he wondered: was she laughing at him, softly, there in the shadows?

"You see," she said, amused at his relapse into reverie, "you're incurable and ungrateful. I'm trying my best to be attractive and interesting, and you won't pay me any attention whatever. There must be something on your mind. Is it this mysterious errand that brings you so unexpectedly to India—to Kuttarpur, Mr. Amber?"

"Yes," he answered truthfully. "And you won't tell me?"

"I think I must," he said, bending forward.

There sounded a stealthy rustling in the shrubbery. The girl drew away and rose with a startled exclamation. With a bound, a man in native dress sped from the shadows and paused before them, panting.

Amber jumped up, overturning his chair, and instinctively feeling for the

He assented meekly, having been perfectly candid in his assertion that he had no suspicion of what the packet might contain, and a moment later they stood beneath the window of Residency, from which a broad shaft of light streamed out like vaporized gold.

Amber held the packet to the light; it was oblong, thin, stiff, covered with common paper, guileless of superscription, and sealed with mullage. He tore the covering, withdrew the enclosure, and heard the girl gasp with surprise. For himself, he was transfixed with consternation. His look wavered in dismay between the girl and the photograph in his hand—her photograph, which had been stolen from him aboard the Poonah.

She extended her hand imperiously. "Give that to me, please, Mr. Amber," she insisted. He surrendered it without a word. "Mr. Amber!" she cried in a voice that quivered with wonder and resentment.

He faced her with a hang-dog air, feeling that now indeed had his case been made hopeless by this contretemps. "Confound Labertouche!" he cried in his ungrateful heart. "Confound his meddling mystery-mongering and hokus-pokus!"

"Well?" inquired the girl sharply.

"Yes, Miss Farrell." He could invent nothing else to say.

"You—you are going to explain, I presume."

He shook his head in despair. "No . . ."

"What?"

"I've no explanation whatever to make—that'd be adequate, I mean."

He saw that she was shaken by impatience. "I think," said she evenly—"I think you will find it best to let me judge of that. This is my photograph. How do you come to have it? What right have you to it?"

"I . . . ah . . ." He stammered and paused, acutely conscious of the voices of the Englishmen, Farrell, Raikes, and young Clarkson, drifting out through the open window of the drawing room. "If you'll be kind enough to return to our chairs," he said, "I'll try to make a satisfac-

"Some time, yes. But now, I may not. A dear friend of mine owned the photograph. He gave it to me at my request. I came to India, and on the steamer I met it; in spite of my offer of a reward, I was obliged to leave the boat without it, when we got to Calcutta. My friend here knew how highly I valued it—"

"Why?"

"Because I'd told him."

"I don't mean that. Why do you value it so highly?"

"Because of its original." He took heart of despair and plunged boldly.

She looked him over calmly. "Do you mean me to understand that you told this friend you had followed me to India because you were in love with me?"

"Precisely. . . . Thank you."

She laughed a little, mockingly. "Are you, Mr. Amber?"

"In love with you? . . . Yes."

"And how soon will you be free to tell me the whole truth?"

"Only after . . . we're married."

She laughed adorably. "Mr. Amber," she protested, "you are dangerous—you are delightful! Do you really believe I shall ever marry you?"

"I hope so. I came to India to ask you—to use every means in my power to make you marry me. You see, I love you."

"And . . . and when is this to happen, please—in the name of impudence?"

"As soon as I can persuade you—to-night, if you will."

"Oh!"

He was obliged to laugh with her at the absurdity of the suggestion. "Or to-morrow morning, at the very latest," he amended seriously. "I don't think we dare wait longer."

"Why is that?"

"Delays are perilous. There might be another chap."

"How can you be sure there isn't already?"

He felt sober enough at this. "But there isn't, is there, really?"

She delayed her reply provokingly. At length, "I don't see why I should tell you—no, there isn't—yet." And as she spoke, Farrell called "Sophia!" from the window of the drawing room. She stood up, answering clearly with the assurance that she was coming, and began deliberately to move toward the house.

Amber followed, deeply anxious. "I've not offended you?"

"No," she told him gravely, "but you have both puzzled and mystified me. I shall have to sleep on this before I can make up my mind whether or not to be offended."

"And . . . will you marry me?"

"Oh, dear! How do I know?" she laughed.

"You won't give me a hint as to the complexion of my chances?"

She paused, turning. "The chances, Mr. Amber," she said without affectation or coquetry, "are all in your favor . . . if you can prove your case. I do like you very much, and you have been successful in rousing my interest in you to an astonishing degree. . . . But I shall have to think it over; you must allow me at least 12 hours' grace."

"You'll let me know tomorrow morning?"

"Yes."

"Early?"

"You've already been bidden to breakfast by Mr. Raikes."

"Meanwhile, may I have my photograph?"

"Mine, if you please! . . . I think not; if my decision is favorable, you shall have it back—after breakfast."

"Thank you," he said meekly. And as they were entering the Residency he hung back. "I'm going now," he said; "it's good night. Will you remember you've not refused me the privilege of hoping?"

"I've told you I like you, Mr. Amber." Impulsively she extended her hand. "Good night."

He bowed and put his lips to it; and she did not resist.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Sure, He Did the Right Thing!

"I hope it will be a long time before I have such another test applied to my honesty," a down-town merchant remarked as he returned from waiting on a customer, relates the St. Paul Dispatch. "What was the trouble?" asked his partner. "These near-wool suits. An old fellow came in just now and asked me the price of one. 'Seven dollars,' I told him. 'Speak louder!' he said, holding his hand behind his ear. So I yelled, 'Seven dollars!' 'Eleven dollars! Too much! I'll give you nine!' he replied." His partner looked at the speaker in alarm. "You—of course, did the right thing?" "I guess you can depend on me to do the right thing," was the haughty retort. Then he paused. "You'd better get some dollar bills when you go to the bank," he remarked. "I just gave an old fellow our last one for change."

Army and Navy Inventors.

There are numerous examples of officers of the army and navy inventing machinery and devices which are used by the service without any compensation from the government. Generally speaking, they are guided by the code of honor that as they were educated at the expense of the government and enlisted in its service it has the right to the use of their inventions without payment of royalty or other money. There have been many who have not considered themselves so bound, and have claimed compensation for use of their inventions.—The Bookman.

Another Phase of the Problem.

"Doubtless the servant girl problem is very annoying to you."

"Very," responded the housewife. "I have a really desperate time getting made my clothes won't fit."

EMERGENCY REMEDY FOR ALL SKIN AFFECTIONS

While Traveling, Motoring, Yachting or on the Vacation.

In any emergency, no matter who you are or where you are, you should have with you the indispensable standard remedy for all skin troubles, from the common pimple, cut, scald, boil or sore, to carbuncles, felons, eczema, milk-crust, shingles, barber's itch, psoriasis and every abrasion of the skin from any cause. Resinol Ointment can be instantly applied and its effect is instantaneous. It is put up in screw-top opal containers, selling at fifty cents or a dollar, according to size. Resinol Ointment has the approval and recommendation of thousands of our best physicians, and hundreds of thousands of families are never without it. Another indispensable necessity is Resinol Soap, one of the finest, most soothing and refreshing toilet soaps in the world. It is a preventive of most of the skin troubles, including blackheads, pimples, chapped hands. It is especially adapted to the tender skin of infants and children. Nothing is better for shampooing and cleaning the scalp and for the prevention of falling hair. The ointment and soap are for sale by all druggists. Sample sent free if you will mention the heading of this article when writing. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

A HIT

What She Gained by Trying Again.

A failure at first makes us esteem final success.

A family in Minnesota that now enjoys Postum would never have known how good it is if the mother had been discouraged by the failure of her first attempt to prepare it. Her son tells the story:

"We had never used Postum till last spring when father brought home a package one evening just to try it. We had heard from our neighbors, and in fact every one who used it, how well they liked it.

"Well, the next morning Mother brewed it about five minutes, just as she had been in the habit of doing with coffee without paying special attention to the directions printed on the package. It looked weak and didn't have a very promising color, but nevertheless father raised his cup with an air of expectancy. It certainly did give him a great surprise, but I'm afraid it wasn't a very pleasant one, for he put down his cup with a look of disgust.

"Mother wasn't discouraged though, and next morning gave it another try, letting it stand on the stove till boiling began and then letting it boil for fifteen or twenty minutes, and this time we were all so pleased with it that we have used it ever since.

"Father was a confirmed dyspeptic and a cup of coffee was to him like poison. So he never drinks it any more, but drinks Postum regularly. He isn't troubled with dyspepsia now and is actually growing fat, and I'm sure Postum is the cause of it. All the children are allowed to drink it and they are perfect pictures of health." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The Demagogue

The passing of the demagogue has marked an important epoch in the progress of Texas. Like the desperado and the cowboy he has had a thrilling and exciting career and like them he has been compelled to give away to the trend of civilization.

He was the product of the times and the harder the times the more perfect the product. A Prince Albert coat, a slouch hat and a strong pair of lungs and he was ready for the hustings to warn the people against the approach of capital. He thrived best upon strife and discussion and his principal occupation was in shrewdly arraying class against class and then leading the stronger against the weaker force. With star defying audacity he would publicly attack the character of a prosperous industry and argue its destruction with all the logic and sincerity of a Pilgrim father pleading for the burning of a witch. He was a mixture of ignorance and genius, and would hunt out prosperous corporations and make their success a springboard on which he could bound into the spotlight by denouncing capital as sapping the life blood of the people and then proceed to argue hypothetically the cause of the down-trodden masses with the earnestness of a starving lawyer pleading his first case.

He was a patriot for applause and a politician for revenue and he sought the goal of his desire with the intuition of a gifted criminal and he would track his prey with the instinct of a hungry beast. But he is gone and may his shadow never again darken the threshold of Texas.

Good Roads

A farm with bad roads is worse off than a farm with bad water. It is hard to understand how a farmer, otherwise enterprising, should be backward in building roads. Travel through some of our rural districts and you will find farmers with blooded stock, land highly cultivated and premises well kept and with public highways that hog up an empty wagon six months in the year. Build roads and keep up with the procession.

Back to the Soil

There is too much money going for the luxuries of city life and not enough for country improvements.

The cry of "back to the soil" should apply to money as well as to men. It takes the coin of the realm to improve farms, build public highways and make farm life profitable and attractive.

SINGING CONVENTION

An immense crowd attended the singing convention at Roberts school house Sunday. They had dinner on the ground sufficient to feed the big crowd. The class again bore off the honors. The next convention will meet at Sayles.

WINTER PASTURAGE

Realizing the value of winter pasturage, many Rule country farmers are planning to put in a large acreage of wheat and other small grains. They figure that the pasturage is worth more than the cost of seed and labor, and then, should they hit just right, a respectable yield of grain may be harvested in the spring. OLD TESTAMENT TIMES BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

IN A DEN OF LIONS
Daniel vi—Sept. 24

The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him, and delivereth them.—Psalm xxxiii, 7.

At the time of this study Daniel had been long in service, wise and faithful in his administration of the government entrusted to him. He had seen the Babylonian Dynasty perish. In its place came the empire of the Medes and Persians. By these also Daniel's grand character was recognized—his loyalty to principle, his faithfulness, as a public servant, his obedience to God and the principles of righteousness.

That which will specially mark Messiah's Kingdom will be that it will not only have perfect ideals in respect to human government, but that it will be backed by Divine Power, before which, eventually, "Every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess."—Philippians 2, 10, 11.

A man like Prayed Three Times a Day. Daniel, in so important a place as that which he occupied as one of the three supervisors of a great Empire, was sure to be in the way of grafters—a hinderer of their schemes. And for this reason his fellows in office were desirous of getting rid of him. Realizing that he could not be deposed, the endeavor was to secure his removal; but the man's integrity and uprightness gave no hope in this direction. Finally, however, the scheme was concerted.

The conspirators approached the king with a project which they assured him would help to make strong and united the various parts of his empire. It was this: The king should be recognized for a month as the only channel of mediation or access between his subjects and their gods. King Darius felt flattered and agreed to the arrangement and issued an order to that effect—never thinking of what might be the result in the case of Daniel, and never suspecting that his counselors were seeking to entrap him and to accomplish the death of his most trusted officer.

Prayed Three Times Daily

Daniel heard of the decree but altered not his custom of praying three times daily before a window of his house which looked out toward Jerusalem. Morning, noon and night he remembered his God and his vows of faithfulness to Him and called to mind the gracious promises respecting the Holy Land, that it would yet be the center of the whole earth and of God's holy people; that eventually, through these, Divine blessings would be extended to every nation, people and tongue.

Unquestionably the best men and women in the world are those who pray, and pray regularly, who bow the knee, as did Daniel. Unquestionably it is impossible to live a consecrated life in neglect of prayer. What would Daniel have been without his praying time! How would his loyalty to principle have maintained itself in the midst of corruption had it not been for his communion with his Maker? To the Christian this privilege is still further enhanced by a realization that "We have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, the Righteous."

Jehovah Sent His Angel

The conspirators were on the lookout. They had witnesses ready to testify, not that they had seen Daniel do anything wrong, but that he had violated the edict which the king had been entrapped into making and signing. The matter was laid before the king. King Darius felt himself bound hand and foot and ensnared—trapped. All day he sought means whereby he could avert the consequences of his royal mandate, but found none. He assured Daniel that he believed his God was able to deliver him. What a beautiful testimony to the uprightness of Daniel's life!

Daniel was cast into the lion's den. That night, we are told, was one of great distress to the king. He could think only of his faithful officer, the noble man so unrighteously treated. He was abroad early in the morning, to call to Daniel, to learn whether or not he were still alive. His joy of heart was great when he learned that he was still safe, that his God had sent His angel to stop the lions' mouths. Daniel was soon lifted from the pit. The king now made another decree—that those counselors who had thus sought the life of a faithful man should themselves be cast into the den of lions; and this, in their case, meant destruction, as the result proved. Oh, that every Christian would live as high above the world's standards as Daniel did, so that their enemies might see that they have no ground for charges except those to their credit; and so that their superiors in the walks of life might discern that their God whom they serve is indeed the true God, the living God, the God of all Truth.

OUTLINE OF PROGRAM DRY FARMING CONGRESS

We here give some of the leading features of the Central West Texas Dry Farming Congress to be held at Abilene, September 27 and 28.

"The Soil Mulch," by an original soil mulcher, Prof. R. R. Clearidge, agricultural commissioner, I. & G. N. R. R.

The lecture deals with the mulch in its relation to soil moisture; when to mulch, how to mulch, and explains the scientific reason for it, by a man who is fully competent to tell them.

"Forage Crops and Legumes for Dry Regions," by Prof. A. B. Connor, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Dry Land Cropping Systems for West Texas," by Prof. B. Youngblood, now on the staff of the Texas A. & M. College and formerly for a number of years one of the most practical and successful farm demonstrators for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Diversification and Crop Rotation in Dry Farming," by Hon. Ed R. Kone, State Commissioner of Agriculture.

"Methods of Dry Farming, and what the System has Accomplished in Semi-Arid countries," by Prof. H. M. Bainer, agricultural demonstrator for the Santa Fe system in New Mexico and the Panhandle and formerly on the staff of the Agricultural College of Colorado.

"Seed Selection and Development of Drouth Resisting Varieties," by J. W. Neill, director of Farmers' Institutes.

"Growing Cotton in Semi-Arid Regions," by Prof. J. L. Quicksall of the U. S. Department of agriculture farm demonstration work for the western district of Texas.

"Good Roads, How to Build, and their Importance," by Judge T. A. Bledsoe, of Abilene.

Short talks on pertinent local questions by farmers. Also a free opening for questions and discussions following each lecture.

We had hoped to give the program complete at this time, but find that we can not, as negotiations are pending with two or three dry farming experts whom we may yet secure to deliver lectures.
