The $82,000, 7700 square foot, new wing has 2900 more square feet in it than the old 4800 square foot structure leveled by fire. In addition to two beautifully appointed school rooms for the lower grades and the cafeteria, it has what has been termed by school board members there as "the execu- tive suite," which has offices for both the school superinten- dent and principal, and a school board conference room.

Total cost of the new wing, equipped completely through- out has been "between $95,000 and $100,000," Morrison said.

Members of the firm of Tit- tle and Luther, Abilene archi- tects, C. L. Moritz, the con- tractor, Stamford, joined the school board members and visitors in inspecting the new facility Sunday and were serv- ed refreshments in the new cafeteria while Bob Cooper, of Abilene, associated with D&W Store Music Division, played an organ provided for the oc- casion.

Cheerleaders To Organize At Indian Gym

Haskell High School's cheer- leading corps, comprised of seven loquacious lasses, will hold a pre-school organization- al session at 5:30 p. m. Thurs- day.

Purpose of the meeting will be twofold, to elect officers for the 1964-65 school year and to try out some new yells and maneuvers. The pep session will be held in the Haskell In- dian gymnasium, and all Indian supporters are invited to be present.

Selected as cheerleaders for Haskell High School this year are Carolyn Fischer, Gerre Colbert, Janice Burson, Susy Redwine, Dorja Pace, Johnnie Ray Lowe and Debbie Wise- man.

WHERE THINGS SOON WILL BE JUMPIN'—Rule's new gymnasium, destined to be one of the most utilized structures in the community, is pictured here in the process of construction. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by mid-October.

NEW SCHOOL GYMNASIUM AT RULE NEARING COMPLETION

Rule will have one of the most modern and up-to-date gymnasiums in the area by mid-October when construc- tion on the project is expected to be completed.

The project is part of a $135,- 000 bond issue okayed by vot- ers here in an April 11 elec- tion for construction of the new gymnasium, installation of permanent aluminum windows in the elementary and junior high school buildings, con- struction of a parking lot and other renovation improvements.

Contractor on the gymnasi- um project has been South Plains Steel Structure, Inc., of Lubbock, which began work soon after school was out this past May.

Aluminum windows were in- stalled by C. C. Building Sup- ply Co. of Abilene and Pete Kitley, of Rule.

The new gym is located be- tween the junior high school building and the football field. Dressing rooms, rest rooms and ticket office will be avail- able for football and basket- ball games.

It will have a seating capac- ity of 740 people, including the special sections for teams. A new scoreboard will also be featured.

The steel structure will have a brick front. Inside walls will be paneled and tiled. The floor on the playing area will be maple, with tile flooring on the walking areas.

The south end of the build- ing will house four dressing rooms with offices, four rest rooms and a band room. The rest room walls will be tiled. Boys in blue and girls in pink.

The north end of the building will be the lobby and public restrooms, with opening to the outside for use during football games. The lobby will be paneled with walnut and tile blocks and a trophy case, concession stand and ticket office in the lobby will also be featured.

The new parking lot will give an additional parking area for 70 cars.

Other improvements at the Rule Schools is the remodeling of the agriculture lecture room. A new ceiling has been installed, walls plastered and painted, new blinds installed.

declared coincident with the announcement. "These rate re- ductions are evidence of our policy of reducing the cost of service to customers whenever we can. The $490,000 reduction in our federal income taxes, plus the improved operating equipment we have recently put into service, as well as the new facilities now under con- struction, make it possible for us to pass on again real sav- ings to our customers. Based on 1963 sales, the new rate schedules will represent a re- duction of about 3 1/2 per cent company-wide."

Withers, the Haskell man- ager, said the company-wide av- erage reduction, taking into consideration customers both large and small, would be "be- tween $9 and $10 per year per customer."

Approximately $390,000 of the annual savings from the

Honored As 'Man Of The Month'

The cry in Haskell Monday was "EMBA!" which was not just so much gobbledy- gook, but a reminder that "Every Member Bring A Member" to the third in a series of "Town Hall" meetings, a breakfast session at Sam's Drive Inn Cafe at 7 a. m. Tues- day.

The "town hall" series which was launched three weeks ago by the Haskell Chamber of Commerce because "we are at a crossroads in community development," has gathered steam ever since, and we now are showing signs of a Chamber on the move to get a town on an economic upswing." Abe Tur- ner, Jr., chamber president, declared after Tuesday's breakfast.

Orville Roland, manager of the Chamber of Commerce in Olney, a "decidedly up-and- coming town our size," was the stem-winding speaker at Tues- day morning's session here at which more impetus was gath- ered to launch and attain new goals outlined for community development here, Turner said.

"It's not what we do in our meetings, it's what we do after them that counts."

This capsuled the challenge issued by Orville Roland, man- ager of the Chamber of Com- merce at Olney, "a town on the grow," to some 70 Haskell citizens who turned out for a 7 a. m. breakfast Tuesday, in the third of a series of "town hall" sessions begun three weeks ago here to stimulate in- terest and participation in community development.

Speaking on "Why Have A Chamber of Commerce," Rol- and explained the organization is a wonderful tool which too few people know how to use. Calling on Haskell folks to light and hang out your lan- terns," the Olney Chamber of Commerce manager, who has led his community into an era of economic upswing with new industry and revitalized com- munity activity, said the im- age of a Chamber of Commerce had changed from the old conception of "sugarcoating its community ills" to a group with "the cold, hard facts and figures at its fingertips, admit- ting its problems and showing by action to industrial prospects and interested po- tential citizens that it is work- ing together to erase those problems."

The Olney chamber man- ager said membership in the C of C is "insurance" an in- dividual has to keep up in- dividual values, his own, for example in case he has to move, and to keep jobs secure, and create new ones.

"Every individual citizen has a big stake in his community's welfare," Roland pointed out. "Every community on every side of Haskell is struggling to do the same thing you are, re- vitalize." Roland declared.

"And it's back to you as in- dividuals to get the job done."

The speaker praised the worth of industrial foundations, saying industrial prospects pre- ferred doing business with them in consideration of the benefit to the town as a whole rather than a few individuals.

"The industrial foundations are the pocketbook of a town, while the chambers are the promot- ers of the community," Roland (See C of C Continues, Page 10)

The revered Baptist pastor will be going to a pulpit he has occupied twice before, once for four years, and the second time for eight. He was named to the interim pastorate to succeed Rev. R. N. Tucker, pastor of the Weinert church for the past 18 months, who has accepted a call to the First Baptist Church of Iraan, Texas.

In addition to his 12 years at the Weinert church, Rev. Copeland has completed long ten- ures at the Baptist churches in the Pinkerton and Roberts communities in Haskell County, and at Vera, also in this area.

Rotarians Hear Talk By Coach Sonny Everett

Haskell High Head Coach, Sonny Everett, spoke to mem- bers of Rotary Club last Thurs- day noon at their noonday luncheon program meeting at Felker's Cafe. Bob Herren was in charge of the program.

Ray Johnson, president, read a letter from District Govern- or stating that Mr. Dodsworth would be in Haskell Wednes- day and Thursday, September 23 and 24.

"Prexy" Johnson, along with his wife, just recently returned from a vacation to cool Colo- rado, remarked he saw a town, working together in unity and harmony. Mr. Johnson said that one Sunday, while a rodeo was in progress at Dur- ange, Colo., all churches in that city had early services in order to give their members a chance to attend the rodeo.

Coach Everett, in his talk, pointed out some of the things football did for the boys such as teaching them proper health and diet habits, working to- gether, leadership, importance of making their grades, learn- ing to make sacrifices, and keeping them mentally and physically fit.

Everett introduced his coaching staff, Carlos Berry, David Middleton and Raymond Bennett.

Lions View Film, "Food Or Famine"

Various types of equip- ment and labor used to pro- duce the foods was shown in the very timely film.

President Frank Martin pre- sided over the meeting. Bill Reeves led the sing-song and Dr. Frank Caldenhead opened the meeting with prayer.

LET THE USERS PAY

Back in 1953, the Post Office Department inaugurated a policy of moving first-class mail by air on a space available basis. In other words, if you happen to be lucky, your 5-cent stamp gets you 8-cents worth of carriage. It was argued that an overall economy in mail transportation costs would result.

Now the General Accounting Office, which is the watchdog of federal spending, has reviewed the airlift program for 1960-61. And it has found, and has so reported to Congress, that the Department has incurred unnecessary costs because of the airlift. Specifically, it says, rather than reducing costs by a predicted $210,000 a year, expansion of the program has increased them by more than a million, or about 85 per cent more than the costs surface transportation. The GAO also notes that there was airlift service on certain routes on weekends and at certain other times when existing surface transportation could provide the same service at substantial reductions in the Department's transportation costs.

It seems only reasonable that those who want their mail to be airlifted be required to stick on the proper postage. Surface transportation of regular mail -- which is primarily provided by fleets of mailcars -- is efficient, economical, and capable of meeting any demand as the almost incredible job done at Christmas time attests year after year. The sole advantage of the airlift is speed and that is only a factor when great distances are involved. And those who find a need for speed should pay for it.

Let's Have A Safe Labor Day

Labor Day is a youthful institution, as national holidays go. But its place in the national life is secure and honored. It provides a formal and well-earned salute to all working people, within and without unions. And this is a tribute that goes beyond the changing problems and controversies that have to do with labor legislation and labor's rights and privileges.

Too, Labor Day has another special characteristic. It gives most of us a three-day holiday in this age of the five or five-and-one-half day work week. And millions of people take advantage of it to journey in search of new sights and scenes, or to go again to favored vacation spots. Labor Day has become a day of fun, relaxation and sports.

Unhappily, however, that bright prospect is not realized for an appallingly large number of us. They are the victims of Labor Day's toll of deaths and injuries. The mishandled automobile becomes a killer of almost warlike dimension. The toll of drownings steadily mounts and ignorance or disregard of the rules and precautions that are essential to safe boating are big factors in this.

The tragic part of it all is that the vast majority of these and other accidents are totally unnecessary. They don't just happen -- careless, thoughtless and uninformed human beings make them happen. If all of us, this coming Labor Day period would use just rudimentary caution wherever we go and whatever we do, the expected accident toll would be reduced spectacularly. How about it?

Fluid Idea

It hasn't been so long, strange as it may seem, since motels were introduced and became an indispensable part of the American scene.

But technology moves fast, once an innovation gets established, and, like pizza pie, soon everyone is improvising on the original.

After the motels became about as elegant as they could be, along came the motor hotel, which combined the luxury of a hotel with the parking convenience of a motel.

Next we find the hotels adopting some of the motorist conveniences of the motels and motor hotels, as in the case of the new San Francisco Hilton, where the motorist can drive in, check in from his car, and drive to his floor where a bellhop waits to take his bags to the room.

We thought we had seen this trend go about as far as it could go, as they say about Kansas City in the show "Oklahoma!", when, lo and behold, a boatel turns up in Oakland, California, where the guests drive up to their accommodations, not in cars, but in boats.

But a Swiss shipowner will outdo even this. Meyer Haleby is his name, and he calls his projected development a boatel, too, but it's got a real twist. You would drive your car in and park-- nothing unusual there -- only after that, he boatel would take you, and your car, from New York to Southampton, England, or vice versa.

Talk about a mobile population! Guess after the astronauts, it'll be cars to the moon!

Oakescripts A Pencil Pusher's Potpourri By PORTER

Politics, one of America's greatest pastimes, and, paradoxically, one of this nation's most serious subjects, the aims and objects of which have universal and all-encompassing effects, this week again have been in full array in Atlantic City. The Democratic national convention there has bestirred more emotions than all the girls in all the bathing suits who ever promenade that city's famous landmark boardwalk.

And with the windup of the Atlantic City panorama, politics will be in full flower in the United States now until November's decisive general election.

Politics is, or are, a great captivator of the American mind, ingenious as it is in its free man's setting and atmosphere, for projecting the most to the mokest. Our West Texas funnybone was tickled during our recent sortie into the stratosphere that is Colorado, where we ranged terrain from Mile High Denver to the almost Two Mile High Front Range region 10,300 feet above sea level (And we got as low down as 644 feet above sea level, too, on this TDY). In an out of the way country store, where a pickle barrel still existed, and a Coleman lantern was the most predominating item in the house, we saw this sign, which seems most propitious to recall: "Politics are like a blind man at a burlesque show. He knows what's going on, but wonders what's coming off."

Yes, politics is as redundant as that!

In the same store, too, before we forget it, was another sign, the sentiment of which is well worth remembering. It advised "It's more profitable to be fired by enthusiasm than by the boss!" One can't take issue with that.

While pursuing another great American pastime -- battin' it down the highway on the way home Sunday -- we heard a report, speaking of politics, of Barry Goldwater delivering a speech to and about ham operators, of which he is one. (It's ham RADIO operators -- take or leave out 'radio' as you will with respect to Mr. Goldwater!) He got off a couple of good ones. He said he wanted to discuss the NET WORTH (which is a very solvent subject among candidates these days), of ham radio operators. Barry said he had done quite a research on the subject, and has learned that the average ham radio operator's net worth is $32,500 per year. Take away his radio equipment, and his net worth is $481! There's probably more fact than guffaw to that.

Our Colorado-based brother-in-law, Erlon Nowell, a transplanted Mississippian, told us this one about the Texan who had just completed an European tour. He was asked if he had brought home a Picasso, or a DeGolyer, perhaps.

Backlash on the political palaver heretofore! We heard the other day about a candidate being asked how he stood on the Common Market. He

30 YEARS AGO (August 30, 1934)

The Haskell Braves will meet a collection of All-Stars here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m.

Mrs. B. C. Chapman entertained members of the Contract Bridge Club on Tuesday afternoon. After the usual games of Contract, Mrs. Hollis Atkinson received high score prize. Mrs. Chapman served a delicious salad plate to Mesdames Beth Welsh, T. V. Post, Barton Welsh, Clay Smith, W. G. Forgy, Roy A. Sanders, French Robertson, Hollis Atkinson, T. G. Cahill, Henry Wilson of Breckinridge, Misses Mary Couch and Katherine Rile.

Misses Naomi Poteet and Velma Hambleton came home Friday from Denton where they have been attending the College of Industrial Arts.

Owen Fouts, who has been connected with the Reeves-Burton Motor Company for the past several months, assumed sole management of the Gulf Service Station located south of the Tonkawa Hotel.

At a meeting of the directors of the Farmers State Bank of Rule last Friday, Mr. J. L. Hill, Jr., was elected as Assistant Cashier of the Farmers State Bank to take the place of Miss Nora Hudspeth, who

"None," drawled our Texan, "Never did like them leetle right-handed drive autos anyway."

One of the most startling things the Pencil Pusher saw during his trek beyond Haskell County's domain was the Grant-Lee (that's buryn' the ol' hatchet) Apartments in Denver's apartment-laden residential section. Probably owned by Mason and Dixon, don't you reckon?

Another startler was this heavenly hunk of humanity with a face that would have rivaled Mona Lisa's in refreshing repose. She was attired in a sloppy-jim sweat shirt, red, of course. Across a bountiful bosom in white block letters was emblazoned "U. S. A. DRINKING TEAM."

Same Mr. Nowell, the pluperfect host, likewise conversationalist, as above, called our attention to the husband and wife conversation in which hubby inquired, "We have two TV sets, and two cars -- why can't we have two opinions?" Most couples, averred the fellow who married our only sister, have one TV set, one car -- and TWO opinions!

We had a field day in the high country takin' the proverbial bus man's holiday while away -- readin' newspapers, of course. And it was all because Colorado has a Governor whose last name is LOVE! Some of the most fetching headlines jumped out, hugged you, and practically enveloped you in bliss in reporting Governor Love's multiple activities. Such as: "Increment Highway Taxes Won't Get Love's Push!"

Backlash on the political palaver heretofore! We heard the other day about a candidate being asked how he stood on the Common Market. He

30 YEARS AGO (August 30, 1934)

Miss Rachel Solomon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Solomon, received her B.S. degree in Elementary Education at the North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, Texas, on August 23.

A total of 4200 votes was cast in the August run-off primary here Saturday for state, district and county offices. James V. Allred was given a lead of 649 votes in the county for governor, Allred polled 2,488 votes in the county.

Perkins - Timberlake Company advertised fall dresses for women from $3.98 to $5.98. Wash Dresses, 59c, and Sport Coats and Suits $7.95 to $18.95.

10 YEARS AGO (August 29, 1924)

R. W. Herren and son of northwest of town shipped 3 cars of white-faced cattle of their own raising to Fort Worth market this week and received very satisfactory prices for them. Mr. Herren makes an effort to keep his cattle up to a high standard and the cattle shipped were closely graded and marketed in excellent condition.

The first bale of cotton from the 1924 crop was brought to town last Thursday by Shelby Harris of the Center Point community. The bale weighed 420 pounds and was ginned by the Farmers Gin Company.

Marvin H. Hancock and Miss Nora Kirkpatrick of Hancock & Company's big store returned home Friday evening from a week's visit to markets in Dallas and other points.

Plans are now being made to begin work on the reteacherage at Midway this week and is expected to be ready for occupancy by the time the school begins its term. The former teacherage was destroyed by fire a month ago.

W. P. Trice, County Agent returned last night from a meeting of Poultry men and county agents from many sections of the county at the big poultry plant of M. Johnson at Bowie.

Paul Frierson of the Midway Community was in the city Tuesday and reported seeing some Army Worms in his cotton field.

60 YEARS AGO (August 27, 1904)

Mrs. Theron Cahill and Miss Bernice Mask visited in Abilene a few days of last week and Mr. Cahill drove over and brought them home.

The run-off primary election which was held last Saturday was probably one of the warmest campaigns ever held in Haskell county. Only four county and precinct offices were being contested, but more votes were polled than in the first primary. Sheriff W. G. Allen was defeated 157 votes by his opponent J. C. Turnbow.

Mrs. J. S. Keister entertained the Full Moon club Tuesday.

Mr. A. G. Lambert, who is farming on Capt. J. S. Williams place about one mile northeast of town brought to town Wednesday the first bale of new cotton. A premium of $22.00 was made up for Mr. Lambert.

Judge P. D. Sanders returned Monday from a trip to Waco. He, like ever one else who has been in that section, says Haskell county has the best crops.

Mr. J. C. Powers has sold his place two and a half miles south of town to Mr. J. L. Boulden of Jones county. The place has good improvements on it and about 300 acres in cultivation and 500 acres in

PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

Community Development planning requires ANALYSIS of the Community Survey

A Community Survey of factors which influence community and economic development is the starting point for a soundly planned program.

What is done with and about such a survey is the next crucial step. We must assess and evaluate all the facts in microscopic detail, for results can only come from a thorough and realistic analysis.

Should we ask ourselves . . . what are our advantages for economic and growth? How can we utilize them for community and economic development? Are there civic factors which need improvement to compete with neighboring towns? How can we best make such improvements? And, how can the entire citizenship cooperating with community organizations whose leadership can accomplish our objectives?

Completion of a Community Survey is another PATTERN FOR PROGRESS.

Community development representatives will assist growth conscious communities in planning a thorough analysis of its Community Survey for economic development. This service is available on request through your community development manager.

The Good Earth

by MRS. B. F. CORB

Two residents of Oklahoma recently visited in our home. Mrs. Chuburn Moore of Altus, Okla., and Mrs. Taylor Childress and family of Guymon, Okla. They are both former residents of Haskell and well known throughout the county. Each of these girls said they were weekly readers of the "Good Earth."

Mrs. Childress said when I wrote about magic lilies, hers were in bloom, and that they, too, were on the longest stems she had seen. Mrs. Childress got her bulbs from Mrs. Kirby Kirkpatrick and there was 3 weeks difference in the blooming time. Those in Oklahoma blossomed three weeks later. Happy gardening, Juanita and Hazel.

Soon we will be planting our fall bulbs; for next year's blossoms, it is well to prepare the bed a few days before setting the bulbs in the ground. Well rotted manure should be worked into the soil so it will be friable and porous.

Some meal mixed with the soil also gives the bulbs a big boost.

Try some of the smaller bulbs for contrast in the garden. Snow crocus show their pretty faces very early, often in February. The colors range from white and yellow through the blue hues. Snow drops, grape hyacinth, snow flakes, scilla siberica and scilla campanulata, are all early bloomers that add charm to the garden before many other plants begin to blossom.

Giant trumpet daffodils and those whose blossoms are doubled and frilled, add an eye-catching picture to the garden. Many have different colored trumpets.

Tulips come in many varieties and their color range is broad; the varieties many. The extra early Darwin tulip often shows color in late March. Double peony tulips like to be tucked under the shade of some large tree, but will also blossom in the sun.

Giant breeder tulips flower in May. They come in "art shades," salmon orange, soft silvery heliotrope, rich violet purple, maroon red and many blends.

Parrot tulips' attractively fringed and lacinated petals, enhance the beauty of their surroundings. The color range is wide. They are also very good as cut flowers.

The lily-flowered tulip, with long oval-shaped flowers with

"Back To School" Roundup Friday At Weinert Church

A "back-to-school roundup" will be held in the First Baptist Church of Weinert beginning at 6:30 p. m. Friday, August 28, preceding the opening of school in Weinert on Monday, August 31. congregational leaders have announced.

All young people of school age through college age are invited to participate, and are asked to bring their musical instruments and songbooks to the roundup.

A lively program of fun, food, and fellowship for everyone is planned for the evening. Adult leaders of the church reported.

delicate lily-like reflexing petals, bloom in May. Their color range is as varied as the Darwin tulip.

Early blooming species tulips take well to the rock garden and are extremely early-blooming, usually in April.

Anemone, Ranunculus, Dutch iris and hardy amaryllis are more bulbs to consider. Start planning the bulb garden now so you won't forget to plant the bulbs.

At forty, most men have not yet arrived and have not yet found themselves fully. The ablest are just coming into power and self-understanding. But even for them the peak of achievement is still more than seven years away. Then and not until then do they know themselves and what they can do. Not until then does the world take their measure and give them their due rank. Not until then, in the complete sense, can they truthfully say they know how to live. —Walter B. Pitkin.

After lecturing her 6-year-old on the Golden Rule, the mother concluded emphatically: "Now always remember that we are in this world to help others."

The youngster mulled this over a minute and then asked: "Well, what are the others for?"

Some men have it — some don't. Some try to develop it — while others say, "Why bother?" — and thus miss their opportunities entirely. What is it that makes one man successful, and another a failure? Isn't it that something 'extra' that he puts into his work... his living... his relationships... more of himself that another doesn't see... or is indifferent to seeing?

Giving of yourself and ever striving to improve... offering encouragement to a needy one... lending support, courage, confidence... never accepting failure for yourself... or anyone. These are but a few of the 'extras' that make the difference in one man's contribution... and another's... and it is this extra something that marks the careers of great men.

Individual progress is not based on luck, or any other type of superstition. Progress is won by the worthy. It is this innate quality... this extra something that makes the boy work harder at his lessons... it makes him more loving and charitable to others, more devoted to home and parents. And what is true of the boy... is certainly true of the man.

When success turns a man's head, he is facing failure.

You can pick out big men by the way they treat little men.

FOR GALLANTRY AND OUTSTANDING AIRMANSHIP—Major Stephen E. Harrison, left, a native of Stephenville, whose wife is the former Lucy Covey, of Haskell, recently received the third cluster to his U. S. Air Force Air Medal in a special awards ceremony at the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va. Presenting the award was Major General J. Stanley Holtner, right, commander of the staff college.

The major, who is the son-in-law of C. G. Covey of Haskell, is currently a student at the Armed Forces Staff College.

He was awarded the medal for "meritorious achievement in aerial flight over hostile territory and under extremely hazardous conditions."

Major Harrison, a reconnaissance pilot, was cited for his "gallantry, outstanding airmanship, and mission accomplishment."

He was commissioned through the aviation cadet program in 1950, and holds a B.G.E. degree from the University of Omaha, Nebraska.

Major Harrison is the son of Mrs. Terry L. Harrison, of Stephenville.

EYES OF TEXAS DPS ARE UPON YOU, ALL THE LIVELONG DAY...

A total of 26 citizens of Haskell County had driver's licenses suspended, or were denied a license during 1963, State Highway Patrolman Ralph Briscoe, of Wichita Falls, district safety coordinator, reported on a visit to Haskell Friday.

The conscientious and imposing representative of the state's law arm said that three people who applied for licenses were denied them in Haskell County last year, and 23 persons had their licenses suspended.

Driving while drinking was the reason for 20 suspensions, Briscoe reported, and two persons tagged with being "habitual violators" through frequent flaunting of the traffic laws drew license suspensions.

Briscoe's enlightening report concerning traffic safety revealed that during the year, 25,022 licenses were suspended in Texas and 8,632 applicants were denied the privilege of driving.

Drivers in the 20-year-old bracket had the most licenses suspended, with 1,307, and the 19-year-olds ran a close second, with 1,305 suspensions.

The oldest driver who had his license suspended was 96 years of age. And, believe it or not, one driver, 95, made application for a license. He was denied it.

Briscoe pointed out that the Department of Public Safety is required by law to file every application for a driver's license received by that state agency. These records include the name of every licensee to whom licenses are granted, and the names of every licensee whose driving privilege has been suspended, cancelled, denied, revoked and the reasons therefor.

The Department also files all accident reports and abstracts of court records of convictions in order to keep individual records of each licensee.

The DPS knows your driving background. So when driving, stay alert to what's in the foreground.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wilson, Karen and Tommy and Elizabeth and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adams, David and Brian, all of Abilene.

Four students from Haskell received degrees from McMurry College at the Abilene school's summer commencement exercises last Thursday.

The four students receiving degrees were: Chris DuBois, B. S.; Jane Bynum Gibson, B. S.; Couilla Teague, B. S.; and Van Morrison, M. Ed.

The Rev. Lloyd A. Hughes, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in Albuquerque, was the commencement speaker. Hughes and the Rev. Bervin Caswell, pastor of First Methodist Church in Carlsbad, received honorary Doctor of Divinity degrees from the college.

Degrees were granted to 89 students at the summer commencement program.

MISS NISBETT, MRS. GILLELAND REUNITED AFTER 6 DECADES

Whatever became of Miss Leila Nisbett? That question was posed by old-timers around Haskell recently, principally those who "went to school to her."

"Miss Leila" taught school at West Thalia, about 11 miles east of Haskell, 61 years ago, in 1903. It was a one-room school house over which she presided. Haskell County was "broken out" with them in the days before consolidation.

There are reported to have been no less than 82 one-room schoolhouses in this county at one time right after the turn of the century, and up until World War I.

One of Miss Leila's old students, Mrs. W. D. Gililand, here, about six months ago, decided to find her school-teacher of six decades ago—and she did. Through relatives, Mrs. Gililand learned of her whereabouts in Dallas.

Today, Leila Nisbett lives at 406 Wildwood Road in Dallas. She has retired from the teaching profession. Yet, at the age of 82, she still drives her own car, goes to church and Sunday School regularly.

Mrs. Gililand, pupil of Miss Nisbett in 1903, set up a correspondence with her former teacher when she wrote and asked her so many questions after 61 years of silence, she had to answer.

The two ladies have had much reminiscing to do by mail. Among subjects discussed have been Mrs. Gililand's mother, a remarkable nonagenarian herself, who still lives in Haskell. Mrs. R. M. (Aunt Becky) Atchison, mother of Mrs. Gililand, remembers Miss Leila well. She will be 91 years old next month.

Miss Nisbett, according to Mrs. Gililand's recollections, moved with her family of seven to Haskell in December, 1900, and taught school in town as well as at West Thalia. The Nisbett family lived for a time on the second floor of a bank building in town here.

Since Mrs. Gililand and her old school teacher have taken pen in hand, the word has zoomed around town, and many who remember Miss Leila inquire regularly about her welfare.

Miss Leila still has a picture postcard of Haskell's famous saloon, "The Road to Ruin," which was the name of the bar. Its "trademark" sign was equally famous. A huge key with the letters "WHIS" painted above it pointed the way through the double swinging doors.

The "Road to Ruin" was located on the southeast corner of Haskell's Square on the spot now occupied by the Haskell Free Press. In the days the saloon thrived, a water well was dug on the property, but understandably, did not come in for much use.

The well was still here, and its resources still were hardly tapped when it was filled in and covered over at the time the new Free Press building was erected.

Two Generations Of McGuires Take Part In Reunions

A "progressive dinner" type reunion was held both in Dallas and Haskell recently by members of the McGuire family of Haskell and Weinert.

Following a reunion of Mrs. John McGuire, Haskell, with her three sisters, all past 70 years of age, in Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McGuire, Sr., son and daughter-in-law of Mrs. John McGuire, invited all of her children to a reunion at their home.

Mrs. John McGuire enjoyed the pleasure of the company in Dallas of her sisters, Mrs. G. E. Williams, at whose home the reunion there was held; Mrs. John Haines, of Tucuman, N. M.; and Mrs. S. A. Sifford, of Lubbock. The Dallas reunion was of a week's duration.

Last weekend, the Floyd McGuire entertained in Weinert a total of 19 members of the family. All of Mrs. John McGuire's children were there except one daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Christian, of Laredo. One son-in-law, Roy Hodgins, of Abilene, could not attend.

Present at the weekend reunion at the Floyd McGuire were Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Hill, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hill, Kathy, Jean, and Cheryl Ann, of Gaston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire, Abilene; Miss Charolett McGuire, Lubbock; Mrs. Roy Hodgins and Shirley, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McGuire Jr., Mckie and Stevie, of O'Brien; Mrs. John McGuire Sr., of Haskell, and the host and hostess, the Floyd McGuire.
