Haying authorization will end on August 31,

2011. "Eligible producers who are interested in emergency haying of CRP must request approval before haying eligible acreage," said Hemphill. "It is also important for producers to obtain a modified conservation plan from the Natural Resources Conservation Service that includes haying requirements," she said.

Upon approval of emergency haying, producers must leave at least 50 percent of each field or contiguous field unhayed for wildlife. For those counties that are eligible for emergency haying and grazing, the same CRP acreage cannot be both hayed and/or grazed at the same time. For example, if 50 percent of a field or contiguous field is hayed, the remaining unhayed 50 percent cannot be grazed; it must remain unhayed and ungrazed for wildlife.

In addition, participants are limited to one hay cutting and are not permitted to sell any of the hay. There will be a 25 percent CRP payment reduction depending on the number of acres actually hayed.

To take advantage of the emergency haying provisions, authorized producers can use the CRP acreage for their own livestock or may grant another livestock producer use of the CRP acreage for the purpose of haying.

For more information on and to request approval for emergency haying of CRP acres contact the Sherman County FSA office at 806-396-2211. THE STRATFORD STAR Thursday, July 14, 2011 Page 2

Scot Hall Scuttle

By Cindy Jackson

S.C.O.T. Hall held its first quilt show along with the annual garden tour. It was a huge success. Even though we worried about the gardens being a little sparse, they were beautiful and everyone enjoyed the tour immensely. We had an amazing display of quilts. If the quilts could have talked, the history and love they have wrapped themselves around. You had to go around and look at them more than once because you got a little more of their story each time you looked at them. Winner of the quilt raffle was Kim Allen. Congratulations Kim you won a beautiful quilt. We had close to 50 people in attendance. Everyone had a great time. A proper thank you will be placed in the paper next week.

We did finally get our floor in the kitchen. It is beautiful; we are pretty well back together. Come by and see it if you get a chance.

Football MVP Helps Educate Men About Health

(NAPS)-Kurt Warner, a twotime professional football MVP and one of the final five competitors on Season 11 of ABC's "Dancing with the Stars," knows that staying healthy can make or break your game, whatever your game in life may be.

Kurt recently became a spokesperson for NUTRILITE®, from AMWAY, helping to educate men and their families about optimal health. He offers these tips for anyone looking to live a healthier lifestyle

1. Eat a Rainbow a Day-Most Americans eat a lot of beige food, like potatoes and bread. We all need to get foods from five color categories: red, green, blue/purple, white and yellow/orange

2. Protein Comes in All Shapes and Sizes—Instead of relying just on meat for protein, spice family meals up with quinoa, beans, oats, milk, yogurt, and soy protein.

3. Carbs Are Cool—Cutting out carbs can have a negative effect on your mood, energy level, ability to build muscle and even to think. Eat good carbs like whole grains, fruit, leafy green veggies, and nuts.

4. Stay Connected Through Sex_A happy, healthy sex life relieves stress and helps couples stay connected.

5. Hydration Is Huge-Reach for water before you feel thirsty. Eight 8-oz. glasses per day is recommended. Or keep a rehydration drink like a NUTRILITE Sports Drink with you.

6. Feed Your Heart-Some foods have heart-healthy benefits, like garlic, onions and apples, which contain nutrients that help lower blood pressure, and grapes and blueberries, which can help cholesterol levels. Grapes are easy on the go and blueberries are a quick addition to cereal.

Supplement your diet with a multivitamin, a concentrated fruit and vegetable supplement and an omega-3 supplement.

7. Stay on Top of Stress-Stress has a direct impact on the immune system and often leads to unhealthy choices. Spending time with friends or family, praying, practicing yoga or playing with your pet can help you deal with stress in a healthy way.

8. Mind Games Matter-Exercise your body AND your brain. Brain-stimulating games can keep your mind in top shape and support your memory.

9. Make Exercise Fun-Minimize time on the treadmill and instead maximize time playing with kids and friends while you exercise. A game of pickup basketball or an hour on the skating rink makes exercise fun.

10. Supplement Your Diet-NUTRILITE Perfect Pack includes a multivitamin, a concentrated fruit and vegetable supplement and an omega-3 supplement.

Texas NRCS receives funding for Panhandle and South Plains water conservation projects

Lubbock, Texas, July 1, 2011 — The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) has announced additional funding in the Panhandle and South Plains regions to enhance natural resources on Texas agricultural working lands. Additional funds are now available through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) to address water conservation concerns through the Agricultural Water Enhancement Program (AWEP) and the Ogallala Aquifer Initiative.

"AWEP and the Ogallala Aquifer Initiative are both voluntary programs and provide financial and technical assistance to farmers and ranchers to improve water conditions on their agricultural land," said Salvador Salinas, NRCS state conservationist for Texas. "With water supplies at an all-time low, this is just one more way agriculture can help conserve its use."

AWEP and the Ogallala Aquifer Initiative promote ground and surface water conservation by helping farmers and ranchers implement agricultural water enhancement activities. Projects address water quantity resource concerns in the 49 Panhandle and South Plains counties within the Aquifer area.

Types of water enhancement activities include water quantity or water conservation plan development; irrigation system improvements and irrigation efficiency enhancements; water conservation restoration and activities designed to mitigate the effects of drought. All these activities are utilized to enhance water quantity or water conservation benefits on agricultural lands.

Producers are encouraged to work with NRCS on conservation planning assistance to develop a conservation plan as a primary tool for long-term management of their natural resources.

"Benefits of a conservation plan go a long way in helping producers protect and improve their land," said

Jon Weddle, NRCS program manager in Lubbock. "The plan will help producers qualify for NRCS financial assistance to implement the conservation practices to make the changes on their farms or ranches. It will also serve as a planning tool, and can be modified as they change their objectives and goals throughout the years."

EQIP is a continuous sign-up program. NRCS will be accepting applications through July 29, 2011 for current funding. NRCS implements the programs by entering into EQIP contracts directly with agricultural producers.

Visit your local USDA Service Center and talk to the NRCS office staff about the details for A WEP and the Ogallala Aquifer Initiative, conservation planning, and other programs to help protect your farm. For more information about EQIP, go to

Thanks to all who donated, helped set up, serve, and cleaned up. We couldn't have done it without the help from so many generous caring people. We are so blessed to live in a community that is so giving. Thank you all for helping to make this a HUGE SUCCESS!!!!

A Pre-Trip Inspection Can Mean Better Mileage

(NAPS)—Getting a vehicle inspected before you start out on a trip can help keep you on the road to safety and savings.

That's the word from the experts at the Car Care Council who say a pre-trip vehicle inspection can also provide peace of mind by making sure your vehicle is safe for travel and running efficiently.

To help, here are some tips: • A tune-up can help an engine deliver the best balance of power and fuel economy and produce the lowest level of emissions.

• Check the brake system and make sure the battery connection is clean, tight and corrosion-free.

· Check filters and fluids, including engine oil, power steering and brake and transmission, as well as windshield washer solvent and antifreeze/coolant. Dirty air filters can waste gas and cause the engine to lose power.

• Check the hoses and belts, which can become cracked, brittle, frayed, loose or show signs of excessive wear. These are critical to the proper functioning of the electrical system, air-conditioning, power steering and the cooling system.

• Check the tires, including tire pressure and tread. Underinflated tires reduce a vehicle's fuel economy and uneven wear indicates a need for wheel alignment. Tires should also be checked for bulges and bald spots.

• Check that the gas cap is not damaged, loose or missing to prevent gas from spilling or evaporating.

Giving your car a tune-up before you go on vacation can help an engine deliver the optimal balance of power and fuel economy.

"A pre-trip vehicle check can determine just how road ready your vehicle is, so you can take steps to have the problems fixed before heading out for vacation," said Rich White, executive director, Car Care Council. "Making sure your vehicle is running efficiently will get you more miles to the gallon.

Added White, "By also avoiding aggressive driving, observing the speed limit and avoiding excessive idling, you will spend less on fuel and have more money for vacation fun.

The Car Care Council is the source of information for the "Be Car Care Aware" consumer education campaign. The campaign promotes the benefits of regular vehicle care, maintenance and repair.
