

District hopes to now

More state funds expected to help local ISD budget

Snyder ISD is facing an estimated $1 million loss in tax-related income next school year, but school officials said Monday they hope to offset this by a combination of increased state provided monies and a "dip" into the district's reserve funds.

The "good news" offered trustees Monday was that proposed legislation at the state level—already passed by the Senate and now under consideration by the House—would see Snyder ISD receive an estimated $400,000 increase from state sources.

The state increase is tied to the district's steady decline in local taxable values.

When applied to the estimated $1 million shortfall, this leaves Snyder ISD with a $600,000 net loss in income due to declining oil production and a price-per-barrel figure for 1989 of just over $16.

School trustees have indicated they are willing to offset this loss out of the district's reserve funds.

By doing this, they hope to hold the tax rate for Snyder ISD this fall at under $1 per $100 valuation.

The current rate is 99 cents and Superintendent Dalton Moseley said Monday he hopes to keep school taxes at this level.

He noted during the board workshop that all campus budgets have now been submitted to him by district administrators. These budgets followed his direction of 10 percent cuts in operating levels.

This 10 percent reduction is designed to offset increased funding next year tied to career ladder supplements to be paid to teachers.

For the first time this spring, Snyder ISD teachers will become eligible for Level III of the career ladder, a state-mandated option which will see an estimated 120

U.S. denounces Panama's elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush today met with the observer team he sent to monitor Panama's voting, while U.S. officials denounced the elections and weighed military and financial pressure to depose Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega.

"We are deeply concerned by evidence pouring in of electoral fraud on the part of the pro-Noriega forces," the State Department said Monday night, joining members of Congress in criticizing the elections.

Bush brushed aside reporters' questions today as he sat down with his observer team to get a firsthand report on what they saw during and after Sunday's balloting.

Bush huddled with top advisers

Monday to weigh what steps the United States should take next in its efforts to oust Noriega.

An administration official who asked not to be identified said one possibility discussed at the meeting is to beef up the U.S. military presence in the former Canal Zone to protect U.S. citizens.

Some 10,000 U.S. military personnel are based in Panama at military installations which remain under U.S. control despite the decade-old treaty that cedes control of the Panama Canal to that Central American country at the end of the century.

Also under consideration, in addition to beefing up the U.S. military presence, are further economic sanctions, the official said.

The president met Monday with Vice President Dan Quayle, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, White House Chief of Staff John Sununu, Director of Central Intelligence William Webster and other aides to weigh U.S. options.

The State Department quoted Rep. John Murtha, R-Pa., head of

Snyder EMS ok'd for advanced care

Snyder EMS, which provides ambulance service to Snyder and Scurry County, has upgraded its level of "pre-hospital" care to advanced life support status.

Such medical treatment must be offered under the guidance of a physician, and the medical staff at Cogdell Memorial gave Snyder EMS staffers the go-ahead for these procedures effective May 5.

This will mark the first time advanced life support services have been offered at the local emergency medical service (EMS) level.

Local EMS personnel will now be operating under written "protocols" and standing orders established by Cogdell Chief of Staff Dr. Bid Cooper.

Advanced life support, in addition to previously offered basic life support, involves such pre-hospital treatments as cardiac drug therapy, drug therapy to reverse the effects of narcotic overdoses and diabetic complications, advanced treatment intended to restore electrical activity of the heart on CPR victims, insertion of airway tubes into the trachea to "open the airway" of CPR victims, IV fluid therapy and the application of MAST (Military Anti-Shock Trousers.)

Snyder EMS now employs 9

emergency medical technicians, three EMT-SS (special skills) staffers and two paramedics.

Four other staffers, to include ambulance service operator Perry Westmoreland, are to complete their paramedic training at the end of July. This will increase to six the number of paramedics employed by Snyder EMS.

Chamber sets member drive

Wednesday will begin a three-day membership drive for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce featuring a competition between the chamber board and the Goldcoat organization.

A breakfast at the chamber offices will begin the effort at 7:45 a.m. Wednesday. Prospective new members will be contacted through Friday as part of the drive.

The drive will end at 2:45 p.m. Friday.

The leaders for the two teams will be Herbie Figueredo, chamber president this year, and Bill Dryden, president of the Goldcoats.

A business membership for one year with the chamber is $125. For an individual or couple, annual chamber dues are $60.

Exotic animal rule approved

City council members Monday night passed on first reading an exotic animals ordinance that spawned protests last month from a Snyder family that is keeping a Bengal tiger.

A group of supporters of the Murry family of 403 36th St., although none of the family members, arrived after the council had voted unanimously in favor of the ordinance. The group then left the meeting without addressing the council.

A letter was read from Dr.

Robert Taylor, a local veterinarian, who warned that the tiger will get more dangerous as it gets older.

Attorney Dana Cooley, an associate of city legal consultant Ernie B. Armstrong who drafted the ordinance, quoted from a book by the late noted circus animal trainer Clyde Beatty that said lions and tigers raised in captivity tend to be more ferocious by nature because the harder animals are the ones who do better in captivity.

Other business in the two-hour meeting included the canvassing of votes from Saturday's municipal election and the scheduling of a swearing-in ceremony for new and re-elected council members for 5:30 p.m. next Monday.

The returns were certified as they had been reported early Sunday.

Perry Westmoreland of Snyder EMS Ambulance Service won approval for the purchase of a

ISD board reinstates $400 pay supplement

School trustees for Snyder ISD directed administrators to reinstate $400 per year supplemental payments to a handful of local teachers who received their masters degree prior to a change in district policy implemented almost three years ago.

The supplements were left out of a new salary plan adopted by the board this spring, a change described Monday as an "oversight."

It was estimated no more than 10 teachers will be affected by the change, which was brought to the board's attention Monday by junior high history teacher Darlene Robbins.

WTC policies updated with monthly meeting

Policy revisions, the resignation of one staffer and a request for funds to send the Western Texas College Rodeo Team to the national finals were approved by the WTC board Monday during its regular May meeting.

Three of the policy updates were prompted by a recent monitoring visit by the Office of Civil Rights and are linked to federal grant monies channeled through WTC.

Described as "minor" changes, they included the addition of the word "age" in relation to the college's non-discrimination policy.

In addition, the school agreed to file a contingency plan related to restroom alterations to accommodate wheelchair-bound students.

Another policy change involved the school's inventory procedures. In the future, only items with a replacement value of $500 or more will be required to be listed as inventory items.

In another update of college-related policy, the board approved a change in the Senior Citizen Center's bylaws, adding the Snyder Jaycees as a civic club represented on the center advisory board.

Under personnel, the board accepted the resignation of Annette Williams, an instructor in

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The best heart exercise is reaching down and lifting people up."

Snyder folks are good neighbors, and that was demonstrated recently when residents combined talents and resources to renovate nine houses here.

The nine homes repaired were owned either by the elderly or handicapped and were in need of a variety of fix-up projects. Work included roof repair, weather-proofing, scraping, painting and cleaning.

More than 150 volunteers donated all day Saturday for the project. There were a few skilled workers at each location, but the majority of the workforce were willing amateurs. It was amazing to see the amount of work done in such a short time.

Some of the volunteers, who do white-collar work during the week, Sunday and Monday were showing evidence of having worked some previously unused muscles.

Last spring, seven homes got a face-lift, and the success of the project saw it grow by two homes in 1989. It takes a lot of organization and effort. Sam Robertson, president of Snyder Neighbors Sharing, and his organization deserve a Texas-size tip of the hat.

Gary Landes, who recently bought out Hoyt Furniture and moved his store to the 25th Street location, last week observed an interesting exchange between a husband and wife who were in shopping.

The man told Landes they had argued most of the previous evening. "She wants to buy a new living room couch, and I told her there was nothing wrong with the old one."

The wife grinned the whole time as the man continued, "I got in the last word. I told her to go ahead and buy the blasted thing."

Phones out

An underground telephone cable was cut around 11:15 a.m. Tuesday and service was said eliminated for approximately 500 Snyder customers.

Southwestern Bell Telephone crews were at the scene and service was expected to be disrupted for five to six hours.

The line was cut near the Towle Park baseball fields. Service was said affected for phone customers west of College Ave. and south of 37th St. all the way to the Towle Park area.

Jury seated

A jury was seated in 132nd District Court Monday to hear a civil case involving a local woman who seeks damages due to an ankle injury she said she suffered during a tent revival meeting here almost four years ago.

Estella DeLeon seeks $50,000 in damages from the Rev. Ignacio Macias of San Antonio.

She claims uneven flooring at the tent meeting caused her to fall and fracture her ankle on Oct. 15, 1985.

Blood needs

Prospective blood donors have until 8 p.m. Tuesday as a countywide blood drive is held at the Towle Park Barn.

The drive is being jointly sponsored by the local advisory council for United Blood Services (UBS) of Lubbock and the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Judge strikes down VA rules

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A judge ordered the U.S. government to reconsider the Agent Orange health claims of more than 31,000 veterans because existing rules "sharply tipped the scales" against those exposed to the toxic defoliant.

U.S. District Judge Thelton Henderson struck down the Department of Veterans Affairs' regulations that denied Agent Orange service-related benefits for cancers and all other diseases except one non-fatal skin condition.

In a ruling on a nationwide lawsuit brought on behalf of Agent Orange claimants, Henderson said the department was wrong to require direct proof that the dioxin-containing herbicide caused various diseases. The department, formerly known as the Veterans Administration, should give claimants the benefit of the doubt, he said.

Veterans' advocates praised the decision, which was made public Monday.

"This is a major victory with far-reaching implications," said Mary Sout, president of Vietnam Veterans of America.

"The ruling validates what Vietnam veterans have been saying for years, that the VA has failed to give Agent Orange victims a fair hearing. ... I am optimistic that Congress will now act quickly to resolve this most painful legacy of the Vietnam War."

Vietnam Veterans of America again will sponsor legislation to require Agent Orange benefits for two types of cancer — soft-tissue sarcoma and non-

Hodgkins lymphoma — and establish a new, independent scientific panel to study the herbicide's health effects, said Barry Kasinitz, spokesman for the 35,000-member group.

A similar bill was passed by the Senate last year but died in the House, Kasinitz said.

The veterans department was represented by the Justice Department. Justice spokeswoman Amy Brown declined to comment on the ruling, saying department lawyers had not seen it.

The United States used Agent Orange to defoliate forests in Vietnam. Its health effects are sharply disputed.

In 1985, the VA ruled that only a non-fatal skin malady, chloracne, could be considered an effect of exposure to the herbicide. The agency based its ruling on a review of studies of Agent Orange's effects by an 11-member scientific committee.

"We think that we probably stand a better chance of getting a fair review under the current administration than we did under the past one," Kasinitz said.

To all customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company:

Public Notice

On March 14, 1989, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas an application which proposes to revise its Toll Restriction Tariff in Section 21 of the General Exchange Tariff. The Commission received the application as Docket No. 8700.

The application proposes to reduce the monthly rate for Toll Restriction residence service from the current $15 a month to $5 a month per residence access line. This proposed application will affect approximately 2,487 residence customers who presently subscribe to toll restriction. It is estimated that the proposed rate schedule will reduce the Company's annual revenues from this service by approximately $298,000, which is less than one percent of the Company's total intrastate revenues. If the application is approved, the effective date of the rate reduction will be set according to the Commission's Order.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A deadline to file motions to intervene has been set for May 30, 1989. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas at 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Information Office at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Dear Abby

Rock Fans' Frenzy Takes Spectator's Breath Away

By Abigail Van Buren

Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: "Help!" "God, I can't breathe!" "Get them to stop pushing!" "This is insane!" were the cries heard in Sheffield, England, on Saturday, April 15, when 93 people were killed and more than 200 injured by an unruly mob at a soccer game. These were also the cries heard by me at a rock concert at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium that same day when hundreds of unruly fans rushed the stage. One story made headlines, but the other easily could have.

The auditorium was overflowing with what must have been a double-capacity crowd. Some fans were seated comfortably at the rear of the hall, but hundreds were pressed forward against the stage by throngs of enthusiastic fans in the back, hell-bent on getting closer to the performers. Speaking as an unfortunate member of that audience, I can tell you that it was an unnerving ordeal. Bodies were pressed so tightly together that breathing was difficult and it was stiflingly hot. Crazy kids (either stoned or high) began pushing others around them, thus sparking off a potentially lethal chain reaction — not unlike the one in Sheffield. Only when you have been caught in such a churning riptide of humanity can you understand it.

Appeals to security personnel at the auditorium to do something about the situation produced no results; neither did a call to the fire department. There should have been far fewer tickets sold, and far more security people present to control the crowd. It is true that no one died in Santa Monica that night. The floodgates may have held this time, but they may not always. And while the concert promoters in Santa Monica count their dollars, in Sheffield they count their dead.

TYLER FOSHE,
SHERMAN OAKS, CALIF.

DEAR TYLER: Thanks for your letter. It answered the questions that occurred to many: How could this bizarre tragedy have occurred? And what can we do to prevent it from happening again?

DEAR ABBY: I'm a different drummer, marching to the same beat as "Losing Patience," who resented questions from strangers wanting to know why her infant daughter was wearing eyeglasses. Strangers noted my baby, too. But I felt blessed. My son was born with club feet. We were living in Brazil, but were told that a doctor in New York was "the best" in this field, so I took my baby to New York. For nine months we rode the commuter train from Chappaqua to New York City twice a week for treatments.

I had heard how "cold" New Yorkers were, but no one had better say that around me. Abby, in the nine months I was there, not once did I have to open a door when I had my baby in my arms. Total strangers gave up their cabs for me during the rush hour; businessmen I had never seen before juggled their briefcases to carry my baby up a flight of stairs. Those small favors and words of encouragement to a stranger alone gave me beautiful memories of a trying time.

To all who patted his curly blond hair: He's 31 now, and a remarkable athlete. So, to all you warmhearted New Yorkers, thanks for caring!

JANE WALLER,
CONROE, TEXAS

DEAR JANE: Thanks for sharing your positive experience in New York City. If you can make it there, you can make it anywhere. Congratulations.

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Losing Patience": When my son was 2 1/2 years old, he had to wear a patch over one eye temporarily to strengthen the other eye. One day while pushing him in a cart through a grocery store, a man with a bushy moustache stopped us and asked, "What's wrong with that boy's eye?" I explained, and we went our separate ways.

When we were out of earshot of the man, my son asked, "Mama, what's wrong with that man's mouth?" (He had never seen a moustache before.)

Sky diver delivers final exams

ORONO, Maine (AP) — The final exam was scheduled well in advance, but as far as Professor Sandra Caron's students were concerned, it still was from out of the blue.

Caron, who teaches human sexuality to 500 students at the University of Maine, hired a sky diver to deliver her exam to students waiting on the mall in front of the library.

"We wanted to be creative," Caron said. "Here is it, finals week. This is a great way to de-stress, have some fun and get them to relax before the exam."

Caron said students were told only to gather on the mall shortly after 6 p.m. to pick up their exams before taking them into Hauck Auditorium.

Skydiver Scott Delong, a member of the university's parachute club, descended under a green and white chute carrying the exams.

"He was amazingly accurate. He landed right where we wanted," said Caron.

Three no-trump would have been easier to play than four spades, since East did not hold a five-card diamond suit. But the spade contract should have succeeded.

Declarer won the ace of diamonds and drew four rounds of trump, discarding a club from dummy. Then he played a heart to dummy's jack. East won the king and came back with a diamond. South threw a club on that, as West won the king. West played another diamond, and South threw another club. When the defenders played still another diamond, declarer ruffed, and he is still wondering how to cash his last heart.

After South gets the bad news that trumps are not splitting, he should look ahead. It is an illusion that he must keep all the remaining diamonds in the dummy. Let him instead throw a diamond on the fourth spade. He should then play ace and queen of hearts. East can win the king and play diamonds as before, but see the difference on the fourth diamond. Having discarded two clubs on the second and third diamonds, on the fourth diamond South can ruff while at the same time unblocking the remaining heart honor from dummy. That lets him cash the 10-9 of hearts to make his contract.

Defender West did well to lead diamonds rather than his singleton heart. With four trumps, it is usually better to attack a suit that will make declarer shorten his trumps rather than to look for ruffs yourself. Against an opening heart lead, declarer would win the ace, draw trumps and easily make the contract.

Use improves finish on silver flatware

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Silver flatware, whether it is a family heirloom or a pattern of your own recent choosing, actually improves its appearance with use.

Wear on the finish of silver used daily, says Bob Page, will create a beautiful shine. Page, president of Replacements Ltd., which offers replacement pieces of china and flatware in hard-to-find patterns, cautions that when the used daily, on only for special occasions, silver requires special care.

— Store sterling flatware in a case or drawer lined with a soft cloth. Do not use a kitchen drawer that is opened frequently because exposure to air promotes tarnishing.

— Wash flatware immediately after dinner. If this isn't possible, give it a quick rinse to remove food residue. Do not soak.

— It is best to wash silver by hand with a mild detergent. If separate it from stainless flatware. Either way, it should be dried by hand with a soft towel.

— Allow clean flatware to dry overnight before storing. Damp silver can mildew your case or drawer.

— Regardless how often you use your silver, polish it only once or twice a year. Most polishes sold at groceries are safe, but manufacturers provide the best.

Cult 'godmother' tells police she was held hostage

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The woman police call the "godmother" of a drug smuggling cult that killed 15 people said she was held hostage by group members after the ritual killings were discovered.

Sara Aldrete Villarreal on Monday said she belonged to the cult and described its leader as "enigmatic and mysterious." But she again denied any role in the mutilation slayings at a ranch in Matamoros near the U.S. border.

"I have never in my life participated in a human sacrifice," the 24-year-old woman said at a news conference. "I am sorry because of all the things that happened, I'm sorry because of all the killing."

"I don't know how I got into this without knowing what it was," she said.

Mexican authorities said Adolfo de Jesus Constanzo and Ms. Aldrete, a former honor student at Texas Southmost College in Brownsville, directed the human sacrifices and other rituals, including mutilations and boiling of brains and organs.

Authorities said the rituals were meant to bring occult protection to the drug ring, which allegedly trafficked in marijuana to the United States.

Ms. Aldrete and four others were arrested at a Mexico City apartment Saturday after a gunfight with police.

Constanzo, 26, and his right-hand man, Martin Quintana Rodriguez, were killed. Alvaro de Leon Valdez, 22, one of those arrested, said he shot the two to death on Constanzo's orders.

Ms. Aldrete said Monday she was watching television with Constanzo, known as the cult's "godfather," at a Mexico City apartment on April 12 when she learned of the killings.

"He said, 'They've found the bodies, we have to leave,'" Ms. Aldrete said. "I said, 'What are you talking about?' And he said, 'OK, you want to know, I'll tell you.' And he told me how he did it and why."

De Leon Valdez told reporters Monday that Ms. Aldrete was not involved in the killings, discovered April 11.

At a news conference on Sunday he discussed the slayings and said he watched earlier this year as Mark Kilroy, 21, a University of Texas pre-medical student, was killed with a machete when he tried to steal a necklace from the leader and his animal cult members.

Ms. Aldrete said she, Constanzo and other cult members fled briefly to Brownsville, just north of Matamoros, after police began digging up the bodies of victims.

"Living in Brownsville, it was like hell," she said. "They treated me like a prisoner. I was scared."

Ms. Aldrete said the group returned to Mexico City a few days later and stayed in small towns near the capital.

Aldrete said that several weeks ago the group moved into the apartment in a quiet middle-class Mexico City neighborhood where police closed in Saturday.

She did not describe how group members kept her from escaping or from contacting authorities.

Ms. Aldrete said she was fascinated with Constanzo ever since she met him in June 1987.

"He would order you to do something and you would do it, but I don't know why," she said. "He was like a leader or something. We were like followers."

Aldrete said Constanzo initiated her into the Christian Santeria cult last year. Santeria, an offshoot of voodoo, is a blend of Catholicism and old African beliefs that include animal sacrifices.

Ms. Aldrete and the others arrested on Saturday were booked on charges including homicide and criminal association.

The attorney general's office said Monday that another two women had been arrested in the case but gave no further details.

U.S. law enforcement officials had expressed skepticism about whether Constanzo really was dead. A U.S. Embassy official who spoke on condition of anonymity and Mexican authorities said Constanzo's body had been positively identified.

Woman slain so teens could use her car

FORT WORTH (AP) — A 15-year-old girl and her two companions shot a woman to death so they could drive her car to a teen club, police say.

The three were arrested in connection with the April 28 shooting death of Lisa Pete, 23, an aspiring model, so they could drive her car.

Ms. Pete body was found beside a street. She had been shot twice in the back with a .32-caliber pistol, police said.

Fort Worth Police Sgt. Paul Kratz said the girls, one 15 and the others 16, are being held at the Tarrant County Juvenile Detention Center. Their names cannot be released because they are juveniles.

The girls are the offspring of parents hooked on drugs, Kratz said.

"These are the children of the drug problem," he said. "This is what the problem is spawning for us. These are unsupervised kids."

Kratz said he will ask prosecutors to have them certified as adults so they can be tried on capital murder charges.

It is unusual to arrest girls so young on such a serious charge, Kratz said. He said girls who do commit such crimes do so with their boyfriends.

"They usually don't do anything like this on their own," Kratz said.

The girls, all of whom have juvenile records, were looking for a car to steal that night so they could go to a nightclub, Kratz said. They didn't let the bloodshed interfere with their plans because they drove the victim's car to the club two straight nights.

The car had been wrecked and was equipped with stolen license plates when it was recovered, police said.

The victim was asked by the girls for a ride, Kratz said. They then shot her and dumped her on the street, shooting her again after she tried to escape following the first gunshot.

Officers said the girls split up the victim's belongings, including a typewriter, expensive cosmetics, a makeup mirror and a designer handbag.

One of the girls told officers she had hid the typewriter at the home of her grandparents.

When officers searched the home for the typewriter, they found that the girl's mother had pawned it for drug money.

"The mother found out her daughter was in custody, and instead of contacting police, she confiscates something," Kratz said. "We'll see if we can't charge her with theft of stolen property."

Unclaimed funds to be featured

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans owed millions of dollars in lost or forgotten property will be featured on "Unclaimed Fortunes," an ABC television show, state Treasurer Ann Richards' office announced.

The one-hour program, billed as a cross between "Unsolved Mysteries" and "Ripley's Believe It Or Not," will air at 7 p.m. CDT on Thursday.

The television show will inform viewers on how to prevent their possessions from becoming unclaimed property, and how they can reclaim abandoned property.

Earns degree

AUSTIN (AP) — When the University of Texas awards nearly 5,000 undergraduate and graduate degrees later this month, Gordon Wallace will be there to pick one up along with classmates more than 50 years his junior.

"Just because you've got a lot of years on you, it doesn't mean your mind has to wither away," said Wallace, 79, who on May 20 will add a doctorate to his two master's degrees.

Wallace will receive a Ph.D. in American studies after writing a dissertation on race walking.

It's a subject about which he already had taken the first steps during a career as a masters race walker who set 25 single age and group records.

Wallace, a resident of Prescott, Ariz., attributes his academic and athletic success to "a young outlook on life and a determination to keep my mind and body alive. There may have been a couple of other students smarter than me, but I was organized. I was able to hold my own."

Wallace retired from the Army in 1969 as a lieutenant colonel of military intelligence. He earned master's degrees from San Francisco State College in 1969 and Arizona State University in 1976. He also led wilderness treks in all parts of the world.

But he could barely walk 13 years ago, when he underwent triple heart bypass surgery.

Pickup strikes rural wire fence

Four young Snyder men were unhurt when the pickup truck in which they were riding went through a barbed wire fence after crossing a rural intersection 4.2 miles northwest of town.

The Department of Public Safety said a 1984 Ford F-150 driven by Jody D. Iglehart of Rt. 1 was eastbound on County Road 264 when it went through the FM 1611 intersection and through the fence, stopping in a field.

Iglehart, 17, and his passengers, Robert and Anthony Palacios, both 17, and 16-year-old Tracey Cotton, were all uninjured in the 9:15 p.m. Saturday mishap, a DPS trooper said.

Mother shocked that her daughter was indicted

DECATUR, Texas (AP) — An Eastland woman says she does not see how a Wise County jury came to indict her 28-year-old daughter in connection with two slayings that the younger woman says she was forced to watch.

"I can't believe it," said the mother of Sharon Green, who faces capital murder charges along with her husband, Ricky Lee Green. "I'm just so shook up."

Green is being held in connection with the stabbing deaths of Sandra Lorrene Bailey, alleged to have been killed Nov. 24, 1985, and a woman known only as Betty Jo, allegedly slain Oct. 12, 1985.

Bond for Sharon Green was set at $750,000 on each indictment. Arrangements were made for her to turn herself in to the Wise County Sheriff's Office today, Morris said.

The couple lived in Boyd.

Mrs. Green told authorities last month that her husband was responsible for four brutal murders over the past 3½ years. Green, 28, was arrested April 27.

Mrs. Green has said she did not come forward earlier because she feared her husband.

Her mother, who asked that her name not be used, said she was especially disturbed because the indictment against her daughter was apparently based on information provided by Green and the grand jury testimony of his father, Bill Green.

Wise County assistant district attorney Kenneth Mahaffey told The Dallas Morning News that Bill Green was indicted last fall on a charge of delivery of amphetamines.

"Why would they (the grand jury) believe him?" Mrs. Green's mother said. "Now who's going to want to step forward?"

Garage burns at Hermeleigh

A garage located on the north side of Hermeleigh was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon.

The local fire department received the call at 4:25 p.m. and were at the scene for approximately two hours.

The structure was said owned by Jim Hunter. A department spokesman said the cause of the blaze was still unknown Tuesday.

Also Monday, firemen were called to an air-conditioner fire at the home of a Snyder couple.

The 1:33 p.m. fire in an air conditioning unit owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bullard of 3606 Ave. V took less than 30 minutes to extinguish.

In an unrelated incident, firefighters were called at 7:07 p.m. to a grass fire on the Bullards' ranch 18 miles west of Snyder off the Lamesa Hwy.

A department spokesman said the grass fire, which took less than an hour to control, had apparently been started by a cigarette dropped at a wellsite.

360 gallons of gas stolen

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft of a large quantity of gasoline at a service station in Ira.

Kip Wadleigh of Kip's Chevron told officers at 9:30 a.m. Monday that he had discovered the theft of 360 gallons of unleaded gasoline from his tank.

Wadleigh said the theft occurred sometime after last Wednesday.

Richard's Chevron and Grocery in Hermeleigh reported a burglary at 7:50 a.m. Monday in which the only thing stolen was apparently some cigarettes.

Daniel Jones told city police at 12:34 p.m. Monday that some money had been stolen from him while he was at a residence in the 3000 Block of Ave. K.

Fence struck, vehicle flees

An unknown vehicle and driver struck a fence owned by Jose Lopez of 2405 Ave. I in an incident discovered at 9:23 a.m. Monday.

teachers paid an added $3,000 to their district salary.

It is now projected that Level II and Level III career ladder supplements will cost the district some $490,000 in the 1989-90 school budget.

All figures are now tentative and administrators noted the district has other "positive" income factors which might weigh in favor of the coming budget.

These include an estimated $67,000 in additional state income for the current school year and some $200,000 more in income generated by higher than expected interest rates for the district's reserve funds.

In other budget-related reports, large expense items expected next year were profiled, to include the replacement of the roof at East Elementary; a roof replacement for the cafeteria area at Northeast Elementary; the purchase of two new school buses; and the purchase of an overhead storage tank for the maintenance department and possible "cleanup and testing" costs related to an existing underground tank—steps required due to new environmental regulations.

business management.

In addition, the board approved an expense of $6,016 to send the rodeo team to the national finals competition.

Trustees conducted a 30-minute executive session at the start of the meeting to discuss a bid item, but took no action after coming back into open session.

Trustees attending included Bill Wilson, who presided as board president, Bob Hargrove, John Gayle, R.C. Patton, John Fagin and Roy Baze. Howard Sterling was absent.

Council okays EMS purchase

Rodeo Committee received approval for the city's contribution of $7,200 from its hotel-motel tax funds for the staging of the rodeo this August.

Miller said the national television contract for the rodeo has just been signed and that 50 million viewers are expected this year.

Part of the appropriation is to film a new commercial advertising Snyder, Miller noted, adding that the city's share of the expenses is $1,200 less than last year.

The council approved Lubbock engineering consultant Terry Bilderback's proposal to apply immediately to be included in the State Water Development Board's 1990 "intended use plan," to be eligible for a $3.6 million low-interest loan from the State Revolving Fund to build a new wastewater treatment plant south of town off Ave. M.

"We feel like, based on our meetings with water development board people, that we are in a good position to get funds," Bilderback said.

Rod Waller and Russell Yorgeson were re-appointed to the Colorado River Municipal Water District board, which is based in Big Spring, and James Northcott was appointed to the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

Sammie L. Harrison's request to "close" a city street which has never been built was approved also. The "street" is located on his property on what would be Ave. H south from 35th St.

The council approved also the re-zoning of 505 N. College Ave. from a heavy manufacturing to a commercial C-2 zone to allow a shop owner to add living quarters to his business.

A low bid of $12,252 was accepted from AAA Waste Systems of Fort Worth for the sale of 55 two-yard, 236 three-yard, 18 four-yard and 52 eight-yard dumpsters.

Mayor Troy Williamson said a called meeting will be held later this month to discuss 1989 budgetary philosophy with City Manager John Gayle.

Chamber of Commerce president Herbert Figueredo appeared to seek approval for the chamber's assumption of the management of six billboards owned by the city, to begin selling the logo advertising for various businesses on them.

The council voted to have city staff draw up a proposed agreement.

Board of County Development chairman Jack Denman said the new BCD and chamber campaign to attract more retirees to Snyder has already resulted in the sale of seven houses to retirees moving here.

Ralph Miller of the AJRA the U.S. election observer delegation in Panama, that he saw Panamanian authorities resort to "fraud and manipulation" to ensure victory for the pro-Noriega presidential candidate, Carlos Duque.

Murtha's charges were backed up by Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla., who said he witnessed "overwhelming support for the opposition" during his weekend visit to Panama as an election observer.

He said members of the Noriega-led Defense Forces were allowed to vote multiple times because, unlike other Panamanians, they were not assigned to a specific voting station.

"People who were dead (were) all of a sudden reappearing on rolls, when they had been dropped off," said Rep. Larry Smith, D-Fla. "So dead people could vote, but live people couldn't."

Pay question gains action

Teachers who qualified for the $400 annual amount were those employed by the district as of August of 1986 who had completed work for their masters.

After that cutoff date, the district placed all newly employed teachers on a single "salary schedule," one which did not take into account a masters degree for increased pay.

The recent salary schedule adopted by the board guarantees all Snyder teachers will be paid a minimum of $1,000 above state-mandated "base pay."

This amount varies according to which salary "step" individual teachers fall based on year's experience with the district.

For teachers like Robbins, who earned her masters prior to the 1986 cutoff, a $400 annual supplement is to be paid in addition to the guarantee of a minimum of $1,000 above state base. This increase indicates teachers employed by Snyder ISD as of August of '86 who had earned a masters degree should be paid a minimum of $1,400 above state base.

Some teachers within the system who are paid for their masters degree have salary levels paid well above this $1,400 cutoff, it was noted and, as such, were not affected by the "oversight."

The decision regarding the pay question was made during a Monday afternoon board workshop lasting some three hours.

Trustees attending included Billy Bob McMullan, who presided, Mike Jordan, Luann Burselson, Terry Martin, Ygnacio Benitez and Ann Walton. Ken Branam was absent.

Careers: plastics

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — One of the best-remembered scenes in the movie "The Graduate" is when the character played by Dustin Hoffman is urged to "get into plastics."

At Ball State University here, they believe that's still good advice for off-screen graduates.

"There are more job openings (in plastics) than there are qualified people to fill them," says Gerald Steele, director of the school's Plastic Research Center, "and the pay is excellent."

Furor over cold fusion continues

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A parade of chemists presented evidence suggesting they created a nuclear fusion reaction in a jar at room temperature, but they failed to convince critics who contend the findings are delusion.

"There is no fusion" in University of Utah experiments by chemists B. Stanley Pons and Martin Fleischmann, said their most vocal critic, California Institute of Technology chemist Nathan Lewis.

"I don't think anything has been proved. It's going to take time to sort it out," Ralph Brodd, former president of The Electrochemical Society Inc., said after Fleischmann and Pons spoke to 1,800 scientists attending the group's Monday night meeting.

Last week, University of Utah Vice President James Brophy had promised that Pons and Fleischmann would present new evidence at the meeting. However, the only significantly new information they offered was a report that their latest experiments produced even more excess heat than their earlier one. Fleischmann and Pons acknowledged some problems in their research, but said they still believed they achieved fusion in a jar.

"I have always been ready to acknowledge the fact our experiments could be faulty," Fleischmann, of England's University of Southampton, told reporters. "If we turn out to be wrong, I'll be the first to admit it."

Fleischmann and Pons, of the University of Utah, disputed Lewis and others who accused them of sloppy measurements. Pons said scientists who have been unable to duplicate their experiments failed to use large enough electrodes made of the metal palladium.

The two chemists shocked the world March 23 when they announced they created fusion by sending electrical current through a device in which an electrode of palladium metal was wrapped in platinum and soaked in heavy water. Heavy water is made from oxygen and a form of hydrogen called deuterium.

Sudafed may help flying problems

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have been a frequent flyer for many years. When I first started flying, I had severe pain in both ears. I tried swallowing, gum, yawning, holding my nose and everything else anyone suggested. Then I tried Sudafed and it really works. I hope this suggestion helps others with a similar problem.

DEAR READER: Thank you for sharing your experience.

Sudafed is one of several over-the-counter antihistamine/decongestant medicines that are useful in preventing aero-otitis, the pressure build-up in the ears that results from rapid changes in environmental pressure. These compounds work by reducing congestion and tissue swelling at the openings of the Eustachian tubes, the channels venting each middle ear compartment. Once the ears can vent, pressure levels within them will equalize with the environmental pressure.

Remember that even Sudafed may not help you if you choose to fly when you have a cold or hay fever.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Ear Infections and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 15-year-old son had a shunt put in in 1981 and another in 1984. Things have been touch and go ever since. Now he gets hot and cold spells, becomes sick to his stomach and foams at the mouth. Doctors seem unconcerned. So far I've spent $19,000 on doctor bills, and I am on a very limited income. Can you give any advice?

DEAR READER: Not without knowing what was shunted and why.

Shunts to relieve pressure on the brain from an excess of cerebrospinal fluid (hydrocephalus) can plug up or function deficiently. This can result in headaches, visual difficulties, weird feelings and convulsions, among other symptoms.

Your son may be helped by medicine if further surgery is not indicated. Ask for specific guidance from the surgeon who performed the shunt operations.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it possible for a person to be allergic to cold weather? I suffer from blue nail beds, runny nose, uncontrollable shaking and an intolerance to air conditioning.

DEAR READER: Cold sensitivity will sometimes be marked by vasomotor rhinitis, a chronic nasal reaction with sneezing and discharge. This closely resembles an allergic reaction — but it isn't.

You seem to be describing a form of cold intolerance, in which your vascular system and heat-monitoring mechanisms react violently to cold air. In many cases, this will respond to adaptation; in other words, with repeated exposure to cold, your body will eventually adjust to the changing temperature.

However, some people tend to remain cold-sensitive, despite efforts at adaptation. The reasons for this peculiarity are unknown but probably have to do with various natural compounds in the body, such as histamine and epinephrine, that control the constriction and dilation of blood vessels.

Cold intolerance is more pronounced in thin people (who have less fat for insulation) and in patients with certain disease states, such as anemia, underactive thyroid glands or diseased arteries (peripheral vascular disease).

Also, some medicines — such as beta blockers — that are used for heart ailments can accentuate cold intolerance.

See your doctor to determine if you have a treatable and reversible cause for your problem.
