Army 'won't shoot people'

BEIJING (AP) — In a stinging blow to Premier Li Peng, more than 100 top military officers signed a letter today opposing his declaration of martial law in Beijing, saying the army "will never shoot the people," sources said.

State-run television also quoted an officer as saying he had been told to withdraw his troops because of widespread popular resistance.

In central Tiananmen Square, the roughly 45,000 student protesters had been ordered to disperse after hundreds of thousands of people again mired troop convoys with roadblocks.

For a second night, masses of city residents had stymied the army, jamming major roads with public buses, trucks and garbage cans.

Students and citizens defiantly vowed to continue their struggle until Li and senior leader Deng Xiaoping resign. Many people believe Li acted on Deng's orders.

The people's mobilization was a severe blow to Li, whose declaration of martial law in the capital on Saturday has apparently backfired and strengthened popular support for a 10-day pro-democracy protest in the square.

The officers' letter, sent to the People's Daily newspaper, mouthpiece of the ruling Communist Party, was a further blow.

Seven well-known military figures, including former Defense Minister Zhang Aiping and former People's Liberation Army Chief of Staff Yang Dezhi, wrote the letter, a source at the People's Daily said.

"As old soldiers we have the following demands," the letter said. "The People's Liberation Army belongs to the people. It cannot confront the people, even more so it cannot suppress the people and it will never shoot the people."

"To keep the situation from worsening, the army cannot enter the city," it said. The letter was signed by 100 other officers, said another source.

The letter and the inability to remove the students from the square called into question Li's hold on power and ability to control the army.

Parole office to open

County Judge Bobby Goodwin announced Monday that the State Board of Pardons and Paroles will establish an office in Snyder, primarily because of the impending opening of the new Price Daniel Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections.

Goodwin said the agency will have four officers here, including a supervisor who is moving here from Abilene.

The judge was authorized in the morning commissioners' meeting to begin looking for office space for the county to lease to the Board of Pardons and Paroles and the Texas Department of Human Services, which is moving out of the Senior Citizens Center to provide more space for center operations.

The job is being performed by commissioner Pcts. 2 and 3, but the costs are being shared by all four precincts. The park is in Pct. 3, which is represented by C.D. Gray Jr.

Commissioners okay list...

Incentives to TDC approved

Scurry County commissioners Monday approved a list of new incentives in the city-county effort to have the Price Daniel Unit doubled in size to a 2,000-inmate prison.

The county's part in offering a new slate of incentives to the Texas Department of Corrections includes leveling the terraces and removing vegetation from the TDC's property five miles northeast of town, with the commissioners unanimously approving those actions.

Also, the county will pave up to a half-mile of entrance roadway to serve the expanded part of the new unit, if one is awarded, and offer free hangar space for state aircraft at Winston Field airport, the commissioners decided.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin announced during the 10 a.m. meeting that he and the four county commissioners will accompany county economic development committee members Jack Smartt, Roy Baze and Roy McQueen, Mayor Troy Williamson and City Manager John Gayle to Austin Wednesday to ask the state highway department to pave landfill road south of the prison.

Other business included an authorization to advertise for bids for sheet metal to construct 80 covered horse stalls on the southeastern side of the county coliseum annex, to be used by AJRA rodeo contestants in August and by other coliseum and annex renters.

The 10 by 12 foot stalls, in a 200 by 200-foot structure, are being constructed largely with volunteer help, Goodwin said, with Patterson Drilling already having constructed the necessary trusses and other volunteers being prepared to help with the labor and other aspects of the project.

The court expects the sheet metal to cost about $9,000.

Perry Westmoreland of Snyder EMS Ambulance Service appeared to ask for the county's participation in the purchase of a $7,335 heart monitor to satisfy requirements of the service's new protocol agreement with the Cogdell Memorial Hospital medical staff.

Splitting the cost with the city was unanimously approved, with Westmoreland saying a more sophisticated model has just become available at the same price and the court okaying the purchase of the newer model.

Westmoreland said the new model has a digital readout for pulse.

Kennedy said visiting in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy attended Mass in Mexico's holiest shrine and was mobbed by so many well-wishers afterward it took 20 minutes for him to reach his car. Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, and family members traveling with him attended Mass at the Basilica of the Virgin of Guadalupe on Sunday. Hundreds of people inside and outside the church surrounded the Massachusetts Democrat after the service to shake hands as security agents pushed some people away. After church, Kennedy left for the southern city of Oaxaca, where he toured agricultural areas and met with farmers. In the afternoon he returned to Mexico City to meet with Mexican human rights activist Rosario Ibarra Piedra, an unsuccessful candidate for the Revolutionary Workers Party in the 1988 presidential election. The meeting was closed to reporters. However, local news reports said the pair discussed Mexico's $107.4 billion debt.

Undercover arrests come under fire

DALLAS (AP) — An anti-racism organization is calling for the suspension of two Dallas Police officers who donned Pizza Hut uniforms to arrest three black men who a white delivery woman accused of robbing and assaulting her. Citizens Against Racism in Dallas, a coalition of clergy and community-based organizations, also has called for the firing of the delivery woman and her manager, and for a public apology from Pizza Hut Inc. officials. On April 28, two white patrol officers arrested James Morgan and two friends, all of them black, after the delivery woman, Patti Murray, alleged that they assaulted and robbed her. The men were released without charges after 15 hours in jail. Morgan and his friends denied assaulting Ms. Murray and said she probably concocted the story as revenge after they refused the pizzas.

The three men wouldn't pay for the pizzas because they had waited 90 minutes for the delivery, Morgan said. After about an hour, the men ordered pizza from another restaurant and both orders arrived at the same time. The delivery man from the other restaurant said the men didn't assault Ms. Murray. But about an hour after the incident, the two officers, wearing Pizza Hut uniforms, burst into the apartment and handcuffed and arrested the three men. Police officials have said the officers changed into the restaurant uniforms so they could get close enough to Morgan's apartment to make the arrests.

The Rev. G. James Christopher, co-chairman of the citizens' group, called for Dallas Police Chief Mack Vines to suspend both officers immediately while an internal investigation continues. Christopher also said Ms. Morgan and her manager should be fired, and that Pizza Hut officials should issue a public apology for the "ludicrous and disrespectful" behavior.

Meanwhile, former mayoral candidate Peter Lesser, a defense lawyer who has successfully represented clients in cases against the police department, said he has been hired to represent Morgan and his two friends, both minors. At a Saturday news conference, Christopher also called for Pizza Hut to reveal its hiring and promotional policies for minorities, and to state what percentage of Dallas-area franchises are owned by minorities.

Dear Abby

Announcements Turn Flunking Senior Into an Eager Graduate

By Abigail Van Buren
Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a senior this year, but because he fooled around and skipped school so much, he does not have enough credits to graduate with his class. He plans to go to summer school to get the credits he is short, but he is not allowed to participate in the graduation ceremonies with the rest of his class. The graduation announcements, thank-you cards, etc. had to be ordered months ago. (They cost me $75.) Since my son won't be graduating, I don't think we should send out any announcements. His grandmother thinks that we should go ahead and send them. His father says if we send the graduation announcements, a note should be enclosed explaining the situation. My son wants them sent because of the money and gifts he might receive. What do you think?

A TUG OF WAR

DEAR TUG: I think you should not send graduation announcements until there is a graduation to announce.

DEAR EQUAL TIME: I received many letters such as yours. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: So, Daddy doesn't send the support money! Well, I am one daddy who has sent $2,000 a month for the support of my two children, but Mommy tells them that their father is a rich but stingy man who doesn't give her enough money to support them.

Abby, in addition to the $2,000 a month, I pay tuition and transportation to their boarding schools. (Mother does not work, but she sends the children to boarding schools anyway.)

At Christmastime, I give each child $1,000 for clothes, but they don't see a penny of it because their mother keeps putting off taking them shopping for the clothes. Last Easter, the children were put on a plane to spend the holiday with me, and they arrived looking like a pair of ragamuffins.

I am sure this letter could have been written by many fathers, so you can sign it...

DIVORCED DAD, ANYWHERE USA OR CANADA

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column from a young girl whose parents were divorced. She complained that her mom had to work two jobs because her father fails to send support checks.

Abby, please be fair and print this letter. It's from a daddy who does pay child support money, but Mom spends it on something other than the child.

In my case, my ex-wife sends our son to me whenever it suits her convenience. When the boy arrives (he's now 12 years old), his clothes are shabby, his shoes have holes in the soles, he wears no socks, and he carries a battered suitcase with underwear that's ready for the rag bin. My first job is get the boy a haircut and buy him some decent clothes and shoes.

Abby, something should be done about monitoring "Mom" to be sure that the support checks she receives are spent on supporting the child.

EQUAL TIME IN NEWARK, N.J.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for giving your personal stamp of approval to the suggestion that all wedding guests wear name tags — especially when the bride's family members have never met any of the groom's family.

I would add yet another suggestion: Along with the name, indicate "affiliation" — such as "Mildred Shannon, cousin of the groom," or "Paul Brownell, brother of the bride."

Show's cancellation may be linked to its two stars
 NEW YORK (AP) — Gumbo shoes trying to crack the case of why ABC's "Moonlighting" was canceled have at least two suspects — Bruce Willis and Cybill Shepherd.

The show's stars apparently spent much of their time arguing with each other and with the series' creator, Glenn Gordon Caron, said an ABC official quoted in this week's People magazine.
 "They were working in a pressure cooker," said the official, who was not identified.
 The tongue-in-cheek detective series had its final episode earlier this month, after four seasons spiced with snappy repartee and double-entendres. It made a star of Willis and was a comeback vehicle for Shepherd.
 But the show's real turnaround came with Shepherd's 1987 pregnancy, which plagued her with sickness and left her unable to work the show's long hours.
 And when Willis lost interest, one writer told People, the show was doomed.

Support surges for environmental organizations

By The Associated Press

The Alaska oil spill, last summer's beach pollution and reports of global warming have pumped new life into the American environmental movement, which is reaping a bitter windfall with each new catastrophe.

Officials of some of the nation's leading conservation groups say they have been inundated with donations and new members during the past year or so, especially after the March 24 spill of nearly 11 million gallons from the oil tanker Exxon Valdez.

Although environmentalists insist they aren't gloating over Exxon's misfortune, they can't hide a sense of vindication.

"This spill has just really presented an opportunity," said Lee Keller Reis, a National Wildlife Federation spokeswoman. "You hate to say,

'We told you so,' but it's a way to make a point."

The federation, the nation's largest environmental group, has added 700,000 members during the past year, bringing membership to more than 5.8 million, Ms. Reis said.

Although the organization cannot say how many members were added in response to the Alaska spill, it does know that donors have contributed $400,000 to an Alaska Fund established after the disaster, she said.

Ms. Reis said part of the fund will be used to pay for research into the effects of the spill and for lobbying against oil drilling in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

The federation is among several groups that took advantage of the spill to send out direct mail appeals for contributions. One such mailing sent out by the Defenders of Wildlife was the organization's most successful ever, according to Carol Waite, the group's development director.

Defenders of Wildlife, which has 80,000 members, received $200,000 in response to its plea, Ms. Waite said. One woman sent in unsolicited about $1,000 in Exxon stock.

Another group, the 285,000-member Wilderness Society, hasn't sent out an appeal for contributions related to the spill but has received about $50,000 in unsolicited funds, according to Rebecca Wodder, vice president for membership and development.

Other groups, such as the National Audubon Society, said it was too early to assess the impact of the oil spill on membership or contributions. However, Audubon spokesman Robert SanGeorge said the spill clearly would help.

He and other conservationists stressed that the upswing in sympathy for environmental causes began well before the spill. Most dated it to last year.

Martin Sheen miffed at reaction to declaration

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Actor Martin Sheen is miffed at "certain irresponsible media personalities" for the way they reacted to his declaration as honorary mayor of this star-studded beach community.

Sheen shook up some of his neighbors by designating Malibu a nuclear-free haven for the homeless and aliens. On Sunday, he had more to say.

"I regret that my concern for the poor and the environment was so dishonestly misinterpreted and misused to perpetrate a cruel hoax on 4 million Americans who are already broken beyond any measure of understanding," Sheen said in a statement.

"I am deeply troubled and profoundly saddened by certain irresponsible media personalities who have abused their power to gain ratings by treading on misery and suffering."

Sheen's declaration last week was a bit ill-received.

Johnny Carson poked fun at it in his monologue on NBC's "Tonight" show, and the marquee at the Malibu Inn and restaurant briefly read "Dump Martin Sheen."

Leading from an ace

By James Jacoby

In tournament competition you seldom do well if the opponents bid and make a close game not reached at many tables. Rita Seamon, playing with her daughter Janice, was facing just such a situation in today's deal, although she did not know it at the time. She had no easy lead, but the bidding suggested that the spade king might be in the dummy, so Rita calmly led the six of spades, away from her ace. Declarer played just as you would expect — a low card from dummy — and East won the queen.

East now returned the singleton queen of clubs. Declarer placed East with the A-Q of spades (how could she know that West had underled the ace?) and perhaps some diamond honors. If East had the king of hearts as well, she might have entered the bidding earlier. So instead of taking a heart finesse, declarer played ace and a heart. Janice won the king of hearts and led a spade to her partner's ace. That held the declarer to 10 tricks, only an average score since many others failed to reach game. Note that normal defense makes it very plausible that declarer will take 12 tricks, and that would have been a terrible result for the Seamons.

Lesson: The right time to underlead an ace is when the bidding strongly suggests that the king will be in dummy. You should also have no other obvious lead to make.

Lakers need only a little Magic to get past Phoenix Suns, 127-119

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Everyone knows what the Los Angeles Lakers can do with Magic Johnson in the lineup.

Now everyone - including the Phoenix Suns - knows what they can do without him.

The Lakers were without Johnson for nine minutes in the second half Saturday, first because he was in foul trouble and then because he fouled out.

But Laker reserves Orlando Woolridge, Michael Cooper and Mychal Thompson stepped in and helped the Lakers to a 127-119 victory over the Suns and a 1-0 lead in the Western Conference finals.

Johnson, too, had a big part in the victory. He went to the bench with 4:07 left in the third quarter after drawing his fourth and fifth fouls on offensive charges just 26 seconds apart.

He returned with just over seven minutes left and put the Lakers ahead for good, 101-100, on a long jumper. He assisted on the Lakers' next four baskets and then scored three more points before fouling out with 2:23 to go and the Lakers leading 116-109.

But the focus was still on the reserves.

"We didn't do some things we wanted to do and then we did some things right, but at the end I have to give the victory to our bench," said Johnson, who had 18 points and 12 assists before fouling out for the first time since March 7, 1984, against Philadelphia.

"When your key guys are out, everybody out on the court has got to do something extra. You have to," said Woolridge, who scored 13 points, had seven rebounds, two blocked shots and three assists.

Game 2 is Tuesday night at the Forum.

Bulls defeat Detroit, 94-88

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) - The Chicago Bulls tore the page marked "defense" out of Detroit's book and let the Pistons see how the other half lives.

The Bulls beat the Pistons 94-88 in the first game of the Eastern Conference finals on Sunday, wiping out the home-court advantage, just as the Bulls had done in their first two playoff series.

Chicago, with Michael Jordan scoring 10 of his 32 points in the fourth quarter, held Detroit to just 38.5 percent shooting.

And it was Jordan who led the defense.

"Detroit is the best defensive team in the NBA," Chicago coach Doug Collins said. "I just told our guys to keep it on the line and see what happens. If the ball is loose on the floor, go down and get it."

The Pistons, who had won their first seven playoff games and were riding a club-record 12-game winning streak - 25 at home - had been holding opponents to 89.6 points in the playoffs.

Detroit guards Isiah Thomas, Joe Dumars and Vinnie Johnson had been averaging 43.8 points in the playoffs. But the Bulls' defense held the trio to just 27 points Sunday on 11-for-45 shooting from the field.

Rick Mahorn led Detroit with 17 points, but he missed two free throws and was called for an offensive foul in the final minute.

Game 2 of the best-of-7 series is set for Tuesday night at The Palace. The action then shifts back to Chicago for Games 3 and 4 on Saturday and Monday.

Aggies claim baseball title

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - The red-hot Texas A&M bats cooled a bit in the Southwest Conference baseball tournament's championship game, but the Aggies still found enough runs to hold off Texas.

Texas A&M came from behind to beat the Longhorns 5-4 Saturday in front of 5,264 at Pat Olsen Field.

Aggies baseball coach Mark Johnson was a gracious winner, after his team carted away the SWC tourney winner's trophy.

"They fought hard and made it tough," Johnson said. "Texas hit the ball really well."

But so did the Aggies, who are 55-5 and were ranked No. 1 nationally by College Baseball-ESPN going into the tournament.

The Aggies had won their first two tournament games over Houston and Arkansas by scores of 15-3 and 15-6, respectively.

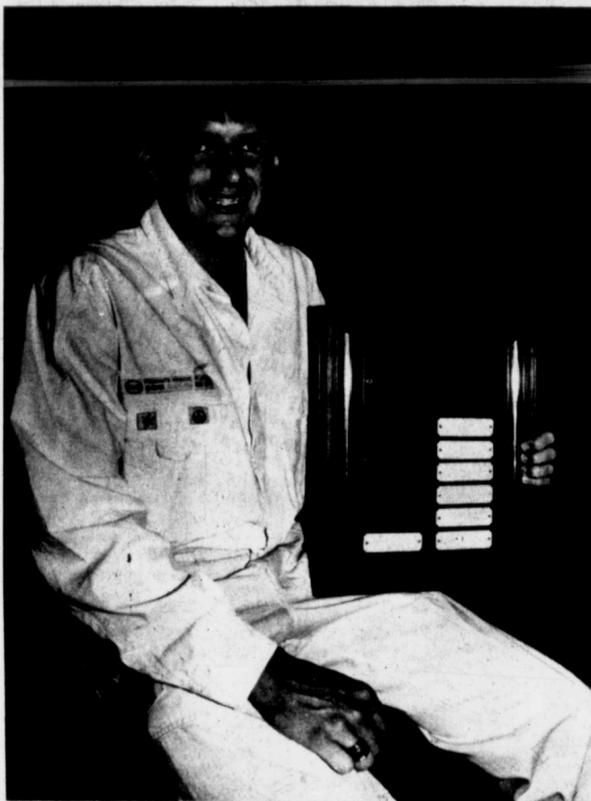

Sunday Silence wins Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) - Sunday Silence edged Easy Goer by a nose in an eye-to-eye stretch duel to capture the Preakness Stakes on Saturday.

Sunday Silence, who beat Easy Goer by 2 1/2 lengths in the Kentucky Derby, can win the Triple Crown at the 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes on June 10.

Sunday Silence, ridden by jockey Pat Valenzuela, carried 126 pounds over the 1 1/2-mile in 1:53 4/5, the third-fastest time in 114 Preaknesses.

Sunday Silence, owned by Whittingham, Arthur B. Hancock III and Dr. Ernest Gaillard, paid $6.20, $3 and $3.20 and earned $438,230 from a purse of $674,200. The victory gave Sunday Silence a bankroll of $1,428,530 on a record of five wins and two seconds in seven career starts.

Baker-Finch tops Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - He may not be the Great White Shark, but Jaws himself couldn't have flashed a toothier grin than Ian Baker-Finch did at the 18th hole of the Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

The tall, slender Australian floated an 8-iron to within three feet of the pin Sunday to secure his first American PGA Tour title and cap a wire-to-wire triumph - the first on tour this year - that earned him $180,000 from Colonial's first $1 million purse.

His smile lit up the 18th fairway and a few million television screens and you could almost hear the sounds of "Waltzing Matilda" as Baker-Finch marched on in with a closing round of par 70 for a four-shot victory over Dave Edwards, who started the day nine shots off the pace but managed a final-round 65.

Baker-Finch, 28, posted a 10-under-par 270 that kept him atop the leaderboard for four days, hiked his official earnings to $193,689 and aroused admiring comparison to countryman Greg Norman, golf's Great White Shark.

"If I'm compared to Greg, it's because we're both Australians and we're mates," he laughed. "... But I don't hunt sharks and I haven't had time to drive Ferraris fast. We're two different sorts of people."

And while he made it look easy Sunday, there were some shaky moments.

American State Bank Diamonds 17, Pride Petroleum Moonbeams 5

There were only four hits in this game and Magen Lee got two of them - both singles - for the Diamonds, now 2-1.

Rachel Garcia was the winning pitcher. Marissa Wilson and Halea Huestis offered up one single each for the Moonbeams, 1-2.

McDonald's Rangers III 8, Dairy Queen Demons 7

Annie Ragland spanked a triple and Dawn Myers and winning pitcher Stephanie Molina cracked two singles each as the Rangers nipped the Demons last week.

Haley Patterson notched a double for the Rangers while Stephnaie Davis added one single.

Billie Jones led the Demons with a double and a single. Jennifer Jones rapped two singles; Jaclyn Morris hit a double; and Misty Molina and Stephanie Fambro added one single each.

Hurricanes 12, Powder Puffs 11

Lesli Monroe clubbed three singles to lead the Hurricanes past the Powder Puffs in this ballgame.

Hitting one single apiece for the Hurricanes were Laura Lewis, CeCe Valadez and Melanie Prichard. Erica Pruitt was the winning pitcher.

For the Powder Puffs, Veronica Hermsillo knocked a triple and a single and Laurie Huddleston, Calley Parks and April Fletcher offered one single apiece.

Pink Flamingos 14, Firebirds 13

April Baker got three of the Flamingos nine singles to lead her team to a win over the Firebirds on Saturday.

Pam Brace, Rebecca Digby, Sheila Garza, Michelle Arnold, Jennifer Morin and winning pitcher Haley Brown had one single apiece for the winners.

Rena Bly slammed a home run for the Firebirds, who also got a triple from Tasha Castillo and a single from Olga Rodriguez.

Wright says...

'Rules were changed in mid-game'

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Jim Wright's televised defense against ethics charges this week will be that the rules were changed in mid-stream, but even his own lawyers give him less than an even chance of winning quick dismissal of the case.

Wright's lawyers will argue that the two most serious sets of charges brought against their client by the House ethics committee should be dismissed because the panel, reacting to a new moral climate, has stretched the rules beyond their original intent.

"We are hoping for a clear interpretation that the rules haven't changed on us," Wright said.

But Wright's lawyers concede such motions are routinely denied and give the speaker less than even chance of winning a pre-emptive dismissal of the charges.

William C. Oldaker, one of Wright's lawyers, said last week that in a best-case scenario, the odds of succeeding with such a motion would be 50-50; in this case, he conceded that the odds could be something less than that.

And a growing number of House Democrats are saying that while the ethics process is important, it may ultimately prove irrelevant to the speaker's political fortunes.

"It would be nice if he could be in a position to defend his case on the merits before he has to face the question of what the political consequences are," said Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., who has argued that the rules are on Wright's side.

Stephen D. Susman, a hard-nosed trial lawyer brought in this month to bolster the defense team, is expected to argue that the committee misapplied the rules in two ways:

—In charging Wright with evading limits on outside earned income through bulk sales of his book, "Reflections of a Public Man," the panel ignored a rule specifically exempting book royalties from the limit.

House rules place a cap on money earned from speaking fees at 30 percent of congressional salary. The ethics panel said that in seven instances, Wright sold bulk quantities of books to groups he had spoken to, and that the sales were really disguised speaking fees which he otherwise wouldn't have been able to accept.

"No rule of the House, no advisory opinion, no prior cases and not one shred of legislative history ... supports the outside special counsel's revisionist approach to the copyright royalty exemption," the lawyers argue in a statement.

—Charges that Wright improperly accepted $145,000 in improper gifts from George Mallick, a Fort Worth real estate developer and business partner of the speaker, are based on a finding that Mallick had a direct interest in legislation before Congress.

Over a period of nearly 10 years, Mallick gave Wright and his wife, Betty, use of a car and a condominium in Fort Worth, and from 1979 through 1984 paid Mrs. Wright an $18,000-a-year salary. The committee found reason to believe those amounted to gifts, and that Mallick had a stake in legislation because of his many investments. House rules bar acceptance of more than $100 in gifts annually from any such person.

An ethics committee advisory opinion defines the direct interest standard as "a distinct or special interest in influencing or affecting the federal legislative process which sets the individual or organization apart from the general public."

Chicago lawyer Richard J. Phelan, the ethics committee's special outside counsel in the case, will defend the panel's rules interpretation at the hearing Tuesday.

The dismissal motion essentially asks the ethics committee to abandon rules interpretations it earlier had decided to accept. Committee Chairman Julian Dixon, D-Calif., last week characterized the panel's original decision as "very well founded."

Wright's defense team is not challenging, at least for the moment, charges that he failed to report the Mallick benefits as gifts on his annual financial disclosure forms, a relatively minor concern.

Following the hearing, expected to take about six hours, the committee will meet later in the week to rule on the dismissal motion. Any remaining charges then would become the subject of a disciplinary hearing.

Wright and his advisers, hoping to avoid prolonging what has become a daily barrage of negative news stories and new allegations, are expected to ask that the committee begin the trial-like hearing immediately. Dixon has said the hearing would probably take more than a week. The panel then would rule on whether the charges have been proved with clear and convincing evidence, and could recommend sanctions to the full House. The House is free to accept, reject or modify the recommendation, but many lawmakers say it is most likely that the chamber would simply accept whatever the ethics panel suggests.

Charges against Wright cover wide area of topics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, was charged April 17 by the House ethics committee with 69 instances of violating House rules, and new allegations have since arisen in news reports. Wright denies having committed ethical violations. Here is a run-down on the charges:

BOOK SALES — The ethics committee charged that on seven occasions, Wright sold bulk quantities of his book, "Reflections of a Public Man," to groups to which he had given speeches. The panel contends that Wright improperly disguised speaking fees, which are limited under the rules, as royalties, which are not.

LEGISLATIVE INTEREST — The committee charged that Fort Worth real estate developer George Mallick, by virtue of his extensive financial holdings, had a direct interest in legislation before Congress. That would make benefits Wright and his wife received from Mallick from 1979 to 1988, totaling $145,000, improper under the rules.

GIFT REPORTING — The committee charged that the benefits, including Mrs. Wright's $18,000-a-year salary from 1979 through 1984, and use of a 1979 Cadillac and a Fort Worth condominium, were not reported as gifts on Wright's annual financial disclosure form, as required.

SABINE LAKE — Ethics investigators are still looking into whether Wright received improper proceeds from a 1988 investment in a Texas gas drilling venture. Known as the Sabine Lake Prospect, the venture yielded Wright's blind trust a quick $170,000 profit, even though the well has so far proven dry. Doug Jaffe, a San Antonio businessman who arranged the investment, is seeking to sell training aircraft to the Pentagon.

JEWELL ENTERPRISES — Wright borrowed $100,000 to invest in a now-defunct business that bought and sold nursing homes. Although he ultimately lost his money, at one point he reportedly received $23,000 in dividends unavailable to other investors, and got help paying the interest on his loan. The ethics panel still is examining the transactions.

PACIFIC INSTITUTE — Former employees of a Seattle, Wash., firm that sells motivational programs say Wright's wife Betty did little or no work for the $36,000 salary she received from 1985 to 1988. Her boss at the time insists she performed satisfactorily.

Exxon credit card customers are returning cards by the thousands

HOUSTON (AP) — For the past two months, the employees who answer Exxon Corp. credit card inquiries have been under a state of siege with more than 17,000 canceling their credit cards to protest the Alaskan oil spill.

Workers at Exxon's Credit Card Center in Houston are wearing special gloves to handle oil-soaked letters. They spend hours piecing together torn-up credit cards in order to determine the account numbers that customers want canceled. They apologize on behalf of their company dozens of times a day.

"There are mornings when I don't want to go to work," Barbara Domino said. "I just tell myself I can't let it get to me."

Many of the returned credit cards are torn to shreds, covered in oil or burned. They also are accompanied by notes reading, "You ought to be hung" for the March 24 oil spill in Prince William Sound.

The crisis is taking its toll throughout the Exxon organization.

Employees, confronted daily by criticisms of Exxon in the media and by friends and family members, are questioning their faith in the corporate giant.

"It's been deeply painful for every employee that I've worked with, talked with and met," said Larry Stockman, a psychologist on retainer with Exxon. "They feel devastated by what's happened."

A week and a half into the crisis, one of the women at the card center hung up after a call from an enraged customer and started to cry. One by one, her office mates started crying as well. Her supervisor, Joyce Jackson, stood amid them, handing out tissues.

Movie on rescue draws mixed reviews from kin, participants

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A made-for-television movie recounting the 58-hour ordeal of toddler Jessica McClure before her rescue from the bottom of an abandoned water well got mixed reviews from the girl's parents.

Chip McClure said he knew he wasn't always looking his best during his daughter's rescue in October 1987.

"But I didn't look that scruffy," he said Sunday after watching the ABC movie, "Everybody's Baby: The Rescue of Jessica McClure."

He said actor Will Oldham, who portrayed him, "is awful rough, to say the least. I think he's on drugs or on Cloud Nine and he's not acting."

The movie concerns the rescue that captured international attention and brought fame to the McClure family.

McClure said he met his movie double during a recent trip to Hollywood.

"Our highest hopes were that he looked better on TV than in person," he said, also giving the actor low marks for grooming and poise.

"I did a better job at the press conference in Hollywood. And he could have shaved the sideburns and the beard and I would have been a lot happier," McClure said, noting that actress Roxanne Zal, who played his wife Sissy McClure, "cut eight inches off her hair to play her part."

"They ruined it with stupid mistakes," said McClure. "I should have played myself."

The girl's father wasn't the only Midland resident disappointed with the movie. Robert O'Donnell, one of two rescuers who pulled Jessica from the hole, said he was dissatisfied by the appearance of the actor chosen to play him.

Actor Whip Hubley "is a little bit stockier than myself," said O'Donnell. "He'd never have fit in the shaft."

But other residents who were portrayed in the movie were happier with it.

"At the time, our only goal was to get a little girl out of a hole and now there's a 3-year-old girl alive because of it," said police Sgt. Andy Glasscock, who was the first rescuer on the scene.

"It's kind of weird to see yourself on TV but how many times does something like this happen to you? Now we can just sit back and enjoy it."

Glasscock watched the movie at a Midland clubhouse with other rescuers, their families and friends. Some couldn't help shouting out advice to characters in the movie.

"Cissy, look in the hole!" one viewer shouted as Jessica's movie mother looked around the yard for her missing daughter.

The subject of the film, while watching the movie, reportedly gave it a "thumbs up," McClure told the Dallas Morning News in a telephone interview.

"She's real interested in it," he said. "She knows it's her they're talking about. I told her this was going to be a scary movie and if she didn't like it, we could turn it off."

"But she's not scared at all," her father said. "She says, 'That's you, mommy, and is that you, daddy?'"

McClure said he was hopeful that 19 months of media attention would end with the showing of the TV movie.

Military statement is used

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Three months after the last Soviet soldiers left, the government is showing increasing confidence it can ultimately force Moslem guerrillas and their supporters — especially the United States — to talk peace.

After initial anxiety following the Red Army's withdrawal and the guerrillas' Jalalabad offensive, President Najib's government is displaying a new optimism in its ability to stand alone against the mujahedeen guerrillas.

Western countries had predicted the mujahedeen, or Islamic holy warriors, would overwhelm the Afghan armed forces within weeks of the Soviets' departure on Feb. 15.

Although these predictions have not come true, the United States has rebuffed proposals by Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev for a mutual cut-off of weapons and stepped-up efforts for a cease-fire.

Foreign Minister Abdul Wakil says President Bush should accept that the guerrillas will not bring down the Soviet-backed government and that a negotiated peace is the only policy consistent with the principles espoused by the United States.

third in the district 400 meter dash and was that sport's designated Outstanding Runner.

Riggins was also chosen Most Improved on the basketball team.

Pickering participated in volleyball and basketball as a senior. She had participated in track in previous seasons.

She was a two-time All-District choice in volleyball, and earned honorable mention this season in basketball.

A large crowd attended the banquet, which honored athletes in volleyball, basketball, golf, tennis, track, baseball and football. The SHS cheerleaders were recognized also. Master of ceremonies was David Baugh, SHS athletic director and head football coach.

Coaches of the respective sports presented the awards.

Junior athlete Charlie Guynes was one of several individuals who was recognized in more than one sport. Guynes, who has advanced to regionals twice in the pole vault, was chosen as the Outstanding Field Events participant on the track team. He also took the Fightin' Heart Award for football.

Other football awards included the Best Hustle Award, which went to Manuel Espinosa, and Most Valuable Player, which was given to Benny Miller.

Nichole Overman, who along with Guynes qualified for regionals in track—she in the 100 meter hurdles—was the girl's Outstanding Track Athlete. The two Most Improved girls in track were Michelle Payne and Melissa Williams.

Baseball award winners were Most Valuable Player Tracy Odom and Robert Hobbs Award recipient Bert Otto. Odom, an all-district selection at catcher, missed being the district baseball MVP by one vote. Otto, playing short, earned honorable mention all-loop honors. The Robert Hobbs Award is a memorial award.

Outstanding tennis players were Winter, who also won the scholar athlete award winner, and Lori McFarland. Winter and Michael Rodriguez were also recognized with a state participating certificate. The two made up Snyder's Region I-4A champion doubles team.

Outstanding golfers were medalists Amy Armstrong and Jay Parker.

In addition to Riggins as the Most Improved in boy's basketball, other hoop award winners were Tracy Braziel, Most Valuable Player; Dewayne Clinkinbeard, Fightin' Tiger Award; and Tyrone Durst, Best Defense.

Girl's basketball awards were Holly Fuller, Most Improved; Anne Osborn, Top Free Throw Shooter; and Evette Housden, Team Player Award and Top Defensive Player.

Honored in volleyball were Sandrin Morin, Team Player Award, and Kathy Armstrong, Tiger Heart Award.

Also recognized were girls who participated in cross country, the cheerleaders, and athletic trainers and managers, video operators and statisticians.

AP analysis

The guerrilla attack on Jalalabad, which the government claims was orchestrated by neighboring Pakistan's top military and civilian officials, was based on the assumption that Afghanistan's fifth-largest city would fall quickly, clearing the way for a push on Kabul, the capital.

But government forces defending Jalalabad have proved their morale was not sapped by the Soviet withdrawal. And the mujahedeen have not yet shown themselves capable of transforming from hit-and-run fighters to a cohesive force able to mount a conventional assault on a heavily defended city.

The guerrillas' failure to capture Jalalabad and other major cities appears to have strengthened feelings among government troops that the war has become a do-or-die affair.

"As long as the Russians were here, there was confusion among the people about what we were fighting for," a 30-year-old soldier in Jalalabad said recently. "Now we know. We are fighting as Afghans, and the fighting is for our future."

After failing for nine years to win the war with 115,000 soldiers and a mighty modern arsenal, the Kremlin now professes a desire to play peacemaker. It has called for a broad-based government in which Najib's Soviet-style party would play a role — but not the only role.

He came to the station at 9:45 p.m. and asked to talk to an officer and then struck one of the two who subsequently came in to talk with him, officers said.

Lobbyists said like David to Goliath

AUSTIN (AP) — Lobbyists working for consumers at the Capitol say they feel like David facing several Goliaths, as they race from battle to battle where their numbers are dwarfed by business interests.

"We take our four or five (consumer lobbyists) on insurance, and go up against 50 (lobbyists) on insurance, then the same five do utilities and are up against 50 new people who don't do anything but utilities," said John Hildreth, director of the southwest regional office of Consumers Union.

"They've always got fresh troops," he said.

Tom Smith, director of Public Citizen-Texas, agreed.

"Consumer lobbyists and consumer interests are outnumbered six to one or better by industry lobbyists and people who are working for greed," he said.

Consumers Union, Public Citizen, Texas Consumer Association, Gray Panthers and American Association of Retired Persons worked together on a booklet outlining "good" and "bad" consumer bills. Subjects range from credit to health to insurance to civil justice.

"We're just trying to cover so many areas because we don't want to leave consumers unrepresented," Hildreth said. "We do the best job we can of raising questions and organizing material and information so legislators who care about consumers can fight a winning battle."

Despite such organized efforts, Smith said, "It has not been a good session at this point for consumers."

Injury noted to pedestrian

A 21-year-old Snyder man was treated and released at Cogdell Memorial Hospital early Saturday after injuring his left ankle in a pedestrian-motor vehicle accident.

Clifford Redman of 1907 20th St. was brought to the hospital at 1:15 a.m. Saturday after a pickup truck reportedly ran over his foot, a hospital spokesman said.

Union center has burglary

Pct. 2 County Commissioner Tommy Pate told sheriff's deputies at 8:12 a.m. Friday that the Union Community Center, west of town off the Lamesa Hwy., had been broken into.

Pate said nothing had apparently been taken.

Russell Jones Jr. of 2300 37th St. at 11:45 a.m. Saturday told the sheriff's office that a $200 Rockwell 10-inch circular saw had been stolen from a trailer.

Two troopers die in freak accident

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My physician has diagnosed me as having ectopic heartbeats. My mother has PVCs. Are these the same? I realize they require no attention but I find my problem irritating. Is there medicine to regulate my situation?

DEAR READER: Ectopic heartbeats (contractions not under the control of the heart's normal pacemaker) are common and, in general, harmless.

Ectopic beats can arise from the atria (low-pressure heart chambers) or from the ventricles (high-pressure chambers). They can cause fluttering in the chest or an unusual awareness of heartbeat that may be irregular.

Premature atrial contractions (PACs or atrial ectopic beats) rarely last for extended periods and require no treatment, unless they occur in long and frequent bursts when they are very annoying. In such pronounced cases, beta-blockers (such as Inderal) may be used to regulate the pulse.

Premature ventricular contractions (PVCs or ventricular ectopic beats) are more noticeable to the patient because they are stronger. Like PACs, they seldom require treatment and are more a nuisance than an affliction. When they are frequent and multiple, they can be harmful; medicine — such as quinidine or procainamide — will retard their formation.

Ectopic heartbeats are often worsened by fatigue, stress, excitement, nicotine, caffeine, alcohol and other drugs. Therefore, you may be able to reduce their frequency by getting more sleep, learning to cope with stress, drinking decaffeinated beverages, stopping smoking, reducing alcohol and avoiding drugs that seem to make your symptoms worse. Ectopic beats are not hereditary.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please comment on people living alone and talking to themselves? I know we all do it at one time or another but this concerns me.

DEAR READER: You are correct that, at times, we all talk to ourselves. This is normal and harmless — unless, as one would-be humorist remarked, we answer ourselves. People tend to talk to themselves when they are alone and don't have company.

Children often normally talk to themselves and to make-believe companions.

Mentally disturbed adults, on the other hand, carry on extensive conversations with imaginary figures and deities. This is usually a sign of severe mental disorder.

In my experience, when normal people talk to themselves, they do just that. And they recognize it as such. Emotionally disturbed persons are usually under the delusion that there is really someone or a force out there with whom they converse. Their sense of reality is impaired.

In short, as long as a person knows he is talking to himself, he is probably normal. This activity slides into abnormal behavior when an individual can no longer differentiate "self," and the talking takes on a meaning all its own. Dream once was 'crazy notion'

NEW YORK (AP) — Prince Philip says the dream of rebuilding London's Globe Theater began as a "slightly crazy notion" but will become a tribute to William Shakespeare.

The effort to raise $33 million to recreate a replica of the theater, where the Bard made his debut as an actor, is a "grand scheme," the Duke of Edinburgh told reporters Sunday.

The prince was the guest of honor at a dinner where actor Sam Wanamaker and representatives of the Shakespeare Globe Centre finished a U.S. fundraising tour. Wanamaker initiated the restoration project.

The Globe replica is scheduled to open in 1992 on Shakespeare's birthday, April 23. The original Globe was built in 1599.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — For only the third time in the history of the Texas Department of Public Safety, two officers have died together.

Two troopers who had stopped a suspected drunken driver were killed early Sunday when a tractor-trailer rig struck their patrol car, crushing the officers between the two cars.

The troopers died just before 3 a.m. one mile inside the Bexar County line, near the intersection of U.S. Highway 90 and Farm-to-Market Road 1604, said DPS

Patrol Sgt. William Kuhnle, 36, and Trooper Ralph Zerda, 29, both stationed in Bexar County, became the 64th and 65th troopers killed in the line of duty since the Texas highway patrol began in 1930, Cox said.

The last time two DPS officers died together was July 7, 1974, when a trooper directing traffic in Baird was struck and killed by a passing motorist and his partner saw what happened and suffered a fatal heart attack.

The other dual trooper death came on Dec. 1, 1973 when two troopers in Athens were killed when their patrol car overturned, Cox said.

Kuhnle and Zerda had made a DWI traffic arrest and had requested routine registration information, then had requested a wrecker, Cox said.

"But when one of the dispatchers called them back with the registration information, they did not answer their radio."

The tractor-trailer rig, traveling westbound on U.S. 90, had veered off the road and struck the patrol car from behind.

Conservationists try to save historic pines

AUSTIN (AP) — Conservationists are attempting to save hundreds of historic pines targeted for removal, and the group may have an unusual ally in its battle — a rare toad.

The Texas Highway Department claims trees along a stretch of Texas 21 cause fatal auto accidents. The stretch of road also is home to the Houston toad, a federally endangered species.

Don Fries, spokesman for the Save the Pines Committee, wants the state Highway Commission to agree to delay the $800,000 tree removal project so that alternatives to tree-cutting can be studied.

The Bastrop group claims a 5.7-mile stretch of the East Texas highway lies within a federally designated 12-square-mile habitat of the toad.

Fries is scheduled to speak before the highway commission Wednesday, and opponents of the tree destruction have chartered a bus to Austin for the meeting.

But Highway Department officials claim car wrecks outweigh other considerations on the highway.

"This should not be a debate about trees. This should not be a debate about highway beautification. It should be a debate about safety," said highway department spokesman Randall Dillard.

First department plans called for cutting down up to 1,000 of the 3,475 trees that are a minimum of four inches in diameter. A revised plan limits the cutting to 359 trees.

"There have been numerous severe accidents on this roadway that have claimed 16 lives in the last 15-year period," said Dillard. "We feel we have the knowledge and the funding to reduce the severity of the accidents."

Of the deaths, 11 occurred when vehicles hit trees, he said. An environmental assessment would take a minimum of 10 months to complete and could put the federal Highway Safety Improvement-Hazard Elimination Program grant in jeopardy, said Dillard.

"The way we plan on clearing the trees is to cut them down and grind the stumps to below ground level," said Stacey Benningfield, a highway department environmental coordinator. "It would have minimal affect on the habitat."

However, committee members want the highway department to study whether warning signs on the roads could be added or crossovers closed to add safety but not lose trees.

"Let's do these alternative engineering things and study them for 12 to 18 months in lieu of cutting the trees," said Fries.

The highway is part of El Camino Real that joined Nacogdoches and San Antonio in the early 1700s. The conservation group wants to buy time and wants the pines to be protected by a scenic parkway or historic designation.

Six youths jumped to safety just in time, police added.

Craig Fornaro, 28, of Austin walked away from the Saturday night accident and walked into a wooded area, but police found him hiding under a bush and arrested him a short time later, authorities said.

Fornaro was charged with one count of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the deaths of Rene Sordahl, 15, of Austin and a 20-year-old man whose identity was withheld pending notification of next of kin, authorities said.
