

Prison completion date moved up

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

The expected completion date has been moved forward 14 days for the Price Daniel Unit now under construction northeast of the city, and could be moved even further forward pending the receipt of equipment deliveries.

Construction officials say the current working date for completion of the 1,000-man unit is Aug. 4, a Friday. The unit was to be completed by July 21.

"We're 95 to 96 percent complete, but there's a few pieces of specialized equipment which must be installed before they can operate," said David Ritter, on-site project administrator for HCB Contractors of Dallas.

Open house for the prison is now set for July 22 and, as of Monday, this date is not expected to be affected.

TDC officials were attending a meeting of the TDC board Monday morning and could not be reached for immediate comment.

The indication was that a delayed completion date would have to be formally approved by TDC.

Staffers with the prison are now scheduled to report next Monday, July 17, for orientation sessions.

On July 5, 1988, Texas Department of Corrections officials extended the official "notice of award" to construct the 1,000-man TDC prison unit here to Argee Corp. of Denver.

The work is progressing under a construction management team from HCB Contractors of Dallas.

The total construction package bid by Argee is some $13.9 million.

Dirt work for the prison began after the groundbreaking ceremony here on April 18 of last year and actual construction by Argee began almost one year ago, on July 25.

The unit is being built within a 26-acre fenced compound. The prisoners will be housed in four 252-bed, T-shaped buildings. Altogether, the unit has some 200,000 square feet of floor space.

$100 million package sought...

Bush proposes aid for Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — President Bush today proposed a $100 million aid package and promised to seek new loans and debt relief for Poland, declaring that the Communist nation's moves toward democratic freedoms "show the way toward a new era throughout Europe."

In the first address by an American president before the Polish parliament, Bush hailed recent political and economic reforms and said, "This generation's calling is to redeem the promise of a free Polish republic. Poland has not been lost so long as the Polish spirit lives."

The speech was the dramatic high point of the first day of the president's 10-day European tour, which included 2 hours and 40 minutes of talks with Polish leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski.

Bush was cheered by Poles shouting "Long Live, Long Live" when he attended wreath-laying ceremonies at memorials to Polish war dead and the Jewish victims of the Nazi Holocaust during World War II.

At a luncheon, the president urged Polish Communist leaders and representatives of the once-banned Solidarity trade union movement to "rise above the mistrust to bring the Polish people together for a common purpose."

In view of Poland's $39 billion foreign debt and other economic woes, Bush's aid proposals seemed modest. But Secretary of States James A. Baker III said, "This is really not a trip to bestow economic largesse."

Bush, in his parliamentary speech, said, "The reform of the Polish economy will be an historic challenge. There can be no substitute for Poland's own efforts."

Warning that Poland must accept austerity measures, the president said, "I must speak honestly: economic reform and recovery cannot occur without sacrifices."

The six-point aid package announced by Bush included these provisions:

—A request to Congress for a $100 million "enterprise fund" to support private entrepreneurs in Poland. Bush said he will ask other industrial democracies at the economic summit in Paris this weekend to establish similar funds.

—A proposal for the seven summit nations to intensify their cooperation in promoting democratic reforms in Poland and Hungary. He offered to work with the other summit nations to boost Western aid and technical assistance.

—A promise to establish a U.S. center in Warsaw to conduct educational and cultural programs. He said he would ask Poland to establish a similar center in America.

—A plea for the World Bank to move ahead with $325 million in loans to help Polish agriculture and industry improve productivity.

—A request for Western debtor nations to support "an early and generous" rescheduling of Polish debt. Bush said such a step could amount to deferral of about $5 billion in payments this year if Western nations agreed to liberalized terms.

—A request to Congress for $15 million for a cooperative effort with Poland to fight air and water pollution in the industrial city of Krakow.

County will mull budgetary matters

Scurry County commissioners Monday scheduled budgetary sessions for all of this week, to be ready to set the 1990 tax rate by mid-August.

They indicated in informal conversation that the budget may again be tight, as it has been during the declining tax base valuations of the past several years.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin noted that the Scurry County Appraisal District will have to issue its annual statement on the county's tax base before the tax rate — currently 29.66 cents per $100 valuation — can be set.

Other business in the 20-minute meeting included approval for Goodwin to seek price quotations for the purchase of a computer to be used in his office for the filing and compilation of county employees' insurance claims.

Election judges were appointed for the year beginning Aug. 1, with all but one of designations being re-appointments.

They are Louetta Turner of Fluvanna, Pct. 5, voting at Fluvanna Community Center; Mary Lankford of Arah Rt., Pct. 6 at Union Community Center; Mickey Sterling of Star Rt., Ira, Pct. 7 at Knapp Community Center; Stanley Noah of 2906 33rd St., Pct. 8 at the school ad-

Pageant winner selected

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The new Miss Texas is Leah Kay Lyle, who won the crown in Fort Worth on Saturday.

The 22-year-old Miss Lyle graduated in 1988 from Baylor University, where she was a communications major with a 3.7 grade-point average.

The new Miss Texas is from Plainview and competed as Miss Haltom-Richland Area. Her talent as a concert pianist helped her capture the crown on her fourth attempt.

Miss Dallas, Leslie Chambers, 24, was first runner-up. Miss Chambers is a Texas Tech University junior at Lubbock.

Miss Lyle will represent Texas in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., on Sept. 16.

City council members Monday night will be presented a working copy of the 1989-90 municipal budget and will consider setting a schedule of budgetary work sessions.

Work sessions have tentatively been set for Thursday, next Monday and next Thursday, according to the council's agenda.

Adoption of the budget is scheduled for Sept. 11, following an Aug. 7 public hearing.

Other business in the 6:30 p.m. meeting will include consideration of resolutions on Southwestern Bell's "Texas First" proposal pertaining to future rates and Cogdell Memorial Hospital's physicians' recruitment program.

City water treatment plant operator James L. "Red" Hargrove will be recognized for his recently awarded Class A Wastewater Operator's Certificate, and bids will be opened for street paving materials.

Pending litigation will be discussed in an executive session.

Ask Us

Q — Why does Scurry County permit the sale of firecrackers?

A — It is state rather than local law which permits the sale. A total of 29 states have laws that allow individuals to use some or all types of conventional fireworks. Twelve states ban all types of fireworks. Only two, Hawaii and Nevada, have no state fireworks law.

In Brief

Shark attack

LAKE JACKSON, Texas (AP) — A 9-year-old Houston girl remains hospitalized after she was bitten by a shark while playing in the Gulf of Mexico off Matagorda County.

Rene Richbourg is saying little about the attack in 3 feet of water on Friday, her mother, Teresa, said Sunday.

"She's touched on it (the experience) a couple of times, but she doesn't want to talk about it and she doesn't want to know the extent of the injury," her mother said.

The girl was playing near the mouth of Chaney Creek when the shark, estimated to be about 4 feet long, grabbed her leg.

The bite left a large gash, bone-deep, in the girl's leg near her ankle, Mrs. Richbourg said.

The wound required about 30 stitches to close.

Tot said safe

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A 3-year-old boy spent two nights lost in the forest with three dogs for company, then walked up to a police post and asked for a cookie.

The dogs probably saved Joseph Edwin Leffler's life, said Dr. Robert L. Norton, who examined the boy at University Hospital. The canines kept the boy alive by sleeping next to him through the 40-degree nights.

Boy impaled

NEW YORK (AP) — A teen-ager impaled on an iron spike when he slipped while climbing a fence for a fly ball didn't cry, despite being stuck there for 90 minutes, his brother said.

Julio Castillo, 15, was in guarded but stable condition late Sunday, said Fred Horen, an administrator at the City Hospital Center. The boy's major injuries were to his lower jaw and teeth.

Zen hero is 'no wimpy alien'

AUBURN, Maine (AP) — As the creator of the comic book "Zen, Intergalactic Ninja" sees it, most of today's space aliens are either bad guys or wimps.

Enter Zen, a short, muscular, blue-skinned space warrior; a nonsensical sort of extraterrestrial.

"Sort of the Dirty Harry of aliens," said his creator, Steve Stern.

Rather than spattering small-time villains with a big revolver like the Clint Eastwood film character, however, Zen addresses the big questions.

His latest mission is to save Earth from ecological destruction at the hands of a planet-devouring madman named Notan the Magnificent. Zen works through his mental link with Jeremy, the offspring of an alien queen and a mortal human.

Stern and airbrush artist Dan Cote publish the bimonthly comic as a sideline from their jobs. Stern heads a small advertising business; Cote is a commercial artist in Lewiston.

Until now, writers and film producers have treated most space aliens as evil, said Stern, citing a tradition that extends from the H.G. Wells novel, "War of the Worlds" to the hit movie, "Alien."

The exceptions, he said, are creatures like E.T., whom he characterized as wimpy and ineffectual, and Alf, the fuzzy but obnoxious star of a children's TV show.

"The comic book-buying public responded to Zen because he represents a true alien hero," Stern said. In recent years, "there have been very few, if any, alien heroes who come to mind."

The earlier generation of otherworldly superheroes, such as Superman, don't count, because they looked like earthlings rather than aliens, Stern said.

To underscore his scorn for nerds from outer space, Stern has printed hundreds of stickers that show an E.T.-like character in a red circle with a slash through it, with the phrase, "No Wimpy Aliens."

Stern said he used Zen because he believes the branch of Buddhism offers a valuable guide to day-to-day living. Zen imparts that philosophy to Jeremy, who develops confidence and assurance as the story unfolds.

Cote draws the comic book with a painstakingly slow airbrush technique that gives it a realistic, three-dimensional look. It is produced in black and white with a multi-color cover.

From an initial printing of 4,000 copies for the first issue in November 1987, circulation has climbed to 20,000, Stern said. He hopes soon to get a break that would turn Zen into a national phenomenon.

"The explosion of comic books into the mass media is at a fever pitch right now," he said, citing box office records set by the movie "Batman."

Stern also sees as a promising sign a heightened awareness of environmental problems.

Organizers of Earth Day 1990 have contacted Stern about a possible role for Zen in that observance. Stern and Cote also have established the Zen Save the Earth Foundation, which will divert a portion of the profits from licensing agreements to organizations dedicated to environmental protection.

Zen's creator hopes to follow in the path of "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles," an independently produced comic that became a major success, spawning a popular animated television series and sets of toy action figures.

A line of Zen pencils and notebooks is already on the market; Stern hopes a latex mask of Zen can be in stores by Halloween 1990.

Soviets remember soccer tragedy of seven years ago

MOSCOW (AP) — "It was something terrible. We couldn't move from where we were standing, and the crowd was pushing from above and below. It was no longer possible to control the people who had gone crazy."

Seven years later, Volodya Andreyev still has a hard time shaking the scene of the world's worst soccer tragedy from his mind.

Andreyev was one of the lucky ones. He survived. But 340 fans were reportedly killed by a "human mincer" in the 1982 match at Moscow, the magnitude of which had been covered up until now.

Sovietsky Sport, the official newspaper of the Soviet government's Sports Committee, printed the expose over the weekend. It said it was exposing the incident now "so as not to forget people who loved sports to the grave."

The incident had been reported before, but the deaths were reported outside the Soviet Union as "more than 20" and no number of deaths were released within the country until last April.

Sovietsky Sport said police pushed spectators down an icy staircase at Lenin Stadium, the main site of the 1980 Summer Olympics, on Oct. 20, 1982. The newspaper said authorities covered up the number of deaths.

A lengthy front-page investigative story in the newspaper on Saturday said parents believed there were as many as 340 deaths at the stadium in Moscow's Luzhniki section. A followup article on Sunday repeated the figure.

"According to our information — and no other information has been provided to the public — a human mincer at Luzhniki on that day pulverized 340 lives," the article said. "In the twinkling of an eye, interior troops and police cordoned off the stadium, and also quickly surrounded the tragedy."

The account said that because only 10,000 tickets had been sold to the European Football Association match between Moscow Spartak and Haarlem of the Netherlands in the 100,000-seat Lenin Stadium, the management decided to cram all the fans into one section. A double ring of police surrounded the section, and all but one staircase was locked "to save trouble to the police, cleaners," the newspaper reported.

Police pushed fans toward the exit a few minutes before the end of the game to prevent a sudden jam at the nearby subway station, the newspaper said. But when the only goal was scored, some of the fans tried to return and collided with outgoing fans on stairs that had become covered with ice in snowy, 14-degree weather.

Five days after the tragedy, The Associated Press quoted a semi-official Soviet source as saying that "more than 20 people died" and dozens were injured in a collision of fans on a ramp. A Soviet newspaper reported at the time there were casualties, but did not specify whether people were killed or injured and did not give a number.

Sovietsky Sport reported April 18 — three days after 95 people were killed in an accident at the Hillsborough Stadium in Sheffield, England — that dozens of people were trampled to death in the 1982 Moscow incident.

Dear Abby

TV Remote Lets Viewer Call Tune Without Paying the Piper

By Abigail Van Buren

© Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: About "The Clicker" — the fellow who made a practice of muting the sound during TV commercials: It reminds me of a story I used when I was a disc jockey and the commercial load got extra heavy. Actually, I stole it from Alfred Hitchcock, who said:

"When I was in college, my Uncle Frank used to take me out for dinner now and then. We'd go to an expensive restaurant, and while we ate, Uncle Frank would tell me these long, boring stories about himself. But no matter how boring or self-serving the stories were, I always listened politely, because, after all, Uncle Frank was paying for the dinner. Now I don't know what reminded me of all this, but it's time for a commercial."

STEVE A. GLASER, CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

DEAR STEVE: Alfred Hitchcock was a brilliant, talented man, and judging from his famous ample profile, he enjoyed a good meal. But what kind of message did he send with his clever segue? That he felt obligated to listen politely to his Uncle Frank's boring, self-serving stories because he loved to eat and Uncle Frank picked up the tab.

Now, thanks to the invention of the TV clicker, today's television viewers need not tolerate boring, inane, offensive commercials as payment for having watched a television program. And who's to say we should?

DEAR ABBY: As the author of "To Remember Me," I feel I must respond to the comments made by T.G. Hayes in which he says the essay was "positively gruesome."

While I agree he's entitled to his own opinion on the question of organ donation, I feel that, by the same token, he should give me, and others like me, the same right to choose.

Like Mr. Hayes, I believe the physical body is the temple that houses the soul — but only during our temporary stay on Earth. At death, I assume our soul leaves the body; therefore, why not use some of the body parts to help continue to house other souls? After all, our bodies were created from dust and so to dust they shall return... but who is to say when? To paraphrase Shakespeare, "Dust by any other name shall remain the same."

I certainly hope Mr. Hayes will think things over and realize that since the body is the temple of the soul, we should continue to make it as beautiful and enduring as possible, and that by the time the millennium arrives, organ donation will be a "way of life."

ROBERT N. TEST, CINCINNATI

DEAR MR. TEST: My mail was overwhelmingly supportive of the views expressed in your beautiful essay.

***

DEAR ABBY: The suggestion you recently made for brides to "break in" their wedding shoes before the big day was especially appreciated by me. It also reminded me of something I clipped out of your column many years ago and saved to enjoy:

"Dear Abby: My boyfriend said that he will marry me if I go all the way with him. When I refuse, he says, 'You wouldn't buy a pair of shoes without trying them on, would you?' I'm confused. What should I do?"

Your reply was: "I'd rather have a pair of shoes that didn't fit than have a pair that was worn by everyone in town!"

Abby, it's nice to know that you handled "breaking in" shoes for our younger citizens a long time ago.

NAACP leader: high court eroding civil rights gains

DETROIT (AP) — President Bush has lifted the "iron curtain" separating blacks from the White House, but recent Supreme Court rulings pose a critical challenge to minorities, according to the NAACP's executive director.

"The conservative majority that now holds sway seem determined, and yes, hellbent on consigning civil rights and affirmative action gains to the ash heap of history," Benjamin Hooks said Sunday.

Hooks addressed a crowd of 3,800 on the first night of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's annual convention, which runs through Thursday.

"This Supreme Court is dangerous to the well being of black people, women and other minorities," Hooks said Sunday.

"It is more dangerous to the legitimate hopes and aspirations of black people in this nation than any Bull Connor with a firehose; than any Jim Clark with a billy club; more dangerous than any Ross Barnett standing in the schoolhouse saying, 'They shall not pass'; more dangerous than George Wallace proclaiming 'Segregation today, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever,'" he said.

Connor was police chief in Birmingham, Ala., and Clark was a sheriff in Alabama during the desegregation of the 1950s and early 1960s. Barnett and Wallace were governors of Mississippi and Alabama, respectively.

Minority group leaders may need to revive the civil disobedience of past decades if the Bush administration and Congress fail to counter the anti-civil rights sentiment fostered by the high court, Hooks said.

"If Congress does not act, we must call upon our citizenry to mount such powerful demonstrations that the group gathered in China not long ago will look like a few compared with the millions that we mobilize," he said.

Hooks gave Bush qualified praise for some of the people he appointed to serve in the administration and for meeting with Jesse Jackson and Coretta Scott King.

"Bush has brought civility to Pennsylvania Avenue," he said. "There is no question that President Bush had done much to raise the iron curtain that had separated the White House from black Americans over the past several years."

The NAACP, however, has not given blanket approval to the administration, Hooks said.

Mexican opposition leaders cry fraud in state elections

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Opposition party members are threatening to block roads and government buildings today if the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party robs them of the state legislative elections they claim they won in Michoacan state.

"The government is obliging us to take action by not respecting the popular will," federal congressman Raul Reyes of the leftist Democratic Revolutionary Party said.

"It doesn't know what it is getting into by whisking away our triumph," Reyes told reporters Sunday night, as local election boards in Michoacan and in Baja California labored recounting ballots from elections July 2 in those two states.

Official results released by the state electoral commission for five of the 18 districts contested, giving the Institutional Revolutionary Party victories by as much as 2-1, were fraudulent, he said.

Another six seats are being awarded to opposition parties through proportional representation.

Reyes announced that members of his party plan to block roads and highways Monday and stage sit-ins at state government offices if the trend continues.

The elections in five states were a test of President Carlos Salina's de Gortari's promise to do away with Mexico's traditionally fraud-tainted balloting system after his own election in July 1988 was marked by accusations of irregularities.

In an unprecedented about-face, Salinas' party — popularly known as the PRI — admitted its worst defeat ever by conceding victory to Ernesto Ruffo, 37, of the conservative National Action Party as governor of Baja California.

Overriding protests by PRI state leaders, the party's national chairman Luis Donaldo Colosio publicly admitted that PRI candidate Margarita Ortega, 38, had lost.

During its 60 years of existence, the PRI had never conceded a race for president or governor and — until last year when National Action and the Democratic Revolutionary Party carried Michoacan and Mexico City — the Senate also.

In official returns Sunday, the PRI swept elections for a 27-seat legislature in Campeche and a 21-seat state assembly in Zacatecas, two of its strongholds, and in Chihuahua, where National Action had often made a vigorous showing in the past.

But except for Baja California where it neared 50 percent, the turnout of registered voters in the four other states was very low, indicating apathy and possible weariness with PRI promises of clean elections.

The legislature's other 10 seats are being distributed among minority parties in proportion to the votes they polled.

Missouri...

Abortion law said intimidating

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The poor women who hoped to end their pregnancies at Missouri's two public hospitals offering abortions will be most affected by last week's U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

The ruling also will mean fewer doctors willing to perform abortions and fewer counselors willing to give advice to indigents about the operation, according to abortion rights activists.

"Doctors in this state feel the tightening of the screws. It would take a lot of commitment to women's rights to continue," said Mary Bryant of Planned Parenthood, whose organization already has difficulty finding doctors willing to perform abortions at its Columbia clinic.

"When Blackmun talks about a chill wind blowing, he has no idea how chill it is in Missouri," Bryant said.

In his dissenting opinion to July 3's ruling, Justice Harry Blackmun said that while women still can obtain legal abortions, "the signs are evident and very ominous, and a chill wind blows."

The court, in a 5-4 vote, upheld Missouri's restrictive abortion law and invited further challenges to the historic 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that made abortion a right of women nationwide.

The Missouri law prohibits abortions from being performed at public hospitals, bans tax dollars from being spent for "encouraging or counseling" women to have abortions and requires doctors to determine, when possible, whether a fetus 20 or more weeks is capable of surviving outside the womb.

Anti-abortion groups said the ruling was a step in the right direction.

"Our whole goal has been to chip away at Roe and stop abortions," said Anne Carmichael of Missouri Citizens for Life. "If we've succeeded at chipping away, that's a good thing."

State Attorney General William Webster, who argued in favor of the law, and abortion rights advocates, who opposed it, agreed the decision would not immediately limit the availability of abortions in Missouri in a dramatic way.

Of the 17,382 procedures in Missouri last year, only 90 were performed at public hospitals.

Bryant and others say the ruling will slowly and subtly curtail the procedure, especially for poor women in Missouri.

Only two Missouri public hospitals performed abortions, in most cases for needy women who suffered from other medical problems that made their abortions risky, said Carroll Metzger, a former nursing administrator at one of the hospitals, Truman Medical Center West in Kansas City.

Metzger, who now works elsewhere in the Kansas City area, was one of the original plaintiffs in the lawsuit that challenged the Missouri law, which was passed in 1986 but did not go into effect until the high court decision.

"The reality that no one talks about is that women who are very poor can't afford abortions in Missouri anyway. Now we're limiting it even further," Metzger said. Missouri cut off public funding for abortions in 1980.

Abortions are available in Kansas City, St. Louis, Springfield and Columbia. Women in remote, rural areas such as the southeastern Bootheel region often must make long trips to the city to get abortions or inexpensive medical attention of any kind.

Metzger and Bryant said doctors and counselors who serve low-income women will be unlikely even to broach the subject of abortion for fear they will be sued, although it would still be legal to tell a pregnant woman what her options are.

Diane Booth, executive director of Planned Parenthood's clinic in Columbia, said it's been difficult for several years to find doctors willing to perform abortions. A Kansas City doctor travels 125 miles to perform abortions at the clinic.

"Given the size of Columbia's medical community, that's quite an indictment," Booth said. Columbia, a city of about 60,000 residents, has three hospitals, including the University of Missouri-Columbia Hospital and Clinics, the other public hospital where abortions were performed before last week.

Gertrude Stein's unpublished poem to appear for first time

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the last poems written by Gertrude Stein, the American writer who spent most of her life in France, is being published for the first time by the American correspondent she gave it to 45 years ago.

He is Frank Gervasi, now 81 years old, who has put it in a book called "The Violent Decade," being published today.

He said the poem was her way of thanking him for getting her own book, "Wars I Have Seen," through wartime censorship to her New York publisher. Stein died in 1946 at the age of 72.

The poem, called "A Ballad," was written on nine pages of air mail paper from Air France, the French national airline.

It begins:

"A big bird flying high
 "In the sky
 "Makes little birds sitting by
 "Know they must do or die."
 The 73 lines tell how the little birds keep hitting the big bird until it falls into a lake and drowns.

It concludes:
 "And this does happen every day
 "Just like I say...
 "For Frank Gervasi
 "Culoz, September 1, Happy Days, Always,
 "(signed) Gtd St."

Gervasi said he interpreted the poem as an expression of joy in the imminent triumph of virtue over evil, as World War II came to an end.

Stein is famous for the line "A rose is a rose is a rose." Much of her writing emphasizes repetition and the use of words as much for their sound as for their meaning.

Culoz is the little railroad town in southern France where Stein and her companion, Alice B. Toklas, lived during the German occupation of France.

Gervasi wrote that he and Eric Severeid — then a radio correspondent, now a consultant for CBS — joined in an expedition to liberate the two women as the Germans pulled back.

They were a day too late. Stein, Toklas and their poodle, Basket, had ridden into the nearby town of Belley in a taxi, found it full of American soldiers, had a big party with them, stayed overnight and went home.

Next day Gervasi and Severeid reached their house, La Colombe, got bone-crunching hugs and an invitation to lunch.

She told him local French officials never let the Germans know that she was American and Jewish, though German officers were quartered in her house. He quoted her as saying:

"But once I had an Italian major and his aide as guests. The major remarked on my accent, but if he guessed my identity, he never gave me away as an American, which goes to show the difference between the Italians and Germans in more ways than one."

Gervasi lives in New York. He went to work for The Associated Press there in 1934 and the same year moved to Universal News, which sent him to Spain to begin his career as a foreign correspondent. His book covers the five years before World War II in Spain and Italy, and then follows the war through North Africa to Sicily, the Italian mainland, Greece and France.

Thinking ahead

By James Jacoby

Remember Jacoby's advice on hands that look so easy you wonder why you're playing them. Ask yourself: (1) How can I possibly go set? (2) How can I prevent that happening?

Declarer won the ace of diamonds and made the natural play of a heart to the king. He could no longer avoid losing a diamond, two hearts and a club. Perhaps declarer would have been successful if dummy held A-J-9 of spades instead of A-10-9. He might then have seen that first playing ace of hearts from his hand would allow him an option whenever either opponent held all four trumps. That option would be to take a spade finesse while the heart king remained in dummy as a quick entry.

Even with A-10-9 of spades in dummy, it is right to first play the ace of hearts. With the knowledge that the heart game will succeed only if a diamond loser can be avoided, declarer must then play for the spade king to be with West and the spade jack with East. So he cashes the ace of hearts and leads the queen of spades, intending to let it ride. West should cover since declarer might be playing from Q-x of spades. Dummy's spade ace wins and the 10 is led. East plays the jack, declarer ruffs, and a heart to the king allows South to shed his losing diamond.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books. © 1989, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Country Club annual tourney...

Anderson, Talley Memorial champs

Local perennial champ Larry Anderson and San Angelo's Paul Talley teamed to win the 1989 Golfer's Memorial Partnership, held Saturday and Sunday at Snyder Country Club.

The pair shot 64-63 over the 36-hole event, which opened under cloudy and slightly rainy skies

Knicks expected to present coach

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Knicks are ignoring questions about inexperience in hiring Stu Jackson as head coach of the team.

The Knicks called a press conference for 2 p.m. EDT today to announce the promotion of Jackson, 32, a Knicks assistant under Rick Pitino the last two years. Jackson, who has never had a head coaching job at any level, would become the youngest coach in the NBA.

The Knicks did not officially confirm that Jackson is the choice, but a spokesman said, "We all know what the press conference is for."

Athletes plead

DALLAS (AP) - Two former high school football standouts who received college scholarships will plead guilty in connection with a series of armed robberies, their attorneys say.

Meanwhile, friends and associates remain perplexed over what might have prompted Gary Edwards and Derric Evans, stars on the Dallas Carter football team that won the Class 5A state football championship last fall, to go astray.

Evans and Edwards will plead guilty before State District Judge Joe Kendall and beg for leniency, attorneys said. Edwards' attorney, Royce West, said no court date has yet been set on the charges.

But Royce said a Saturday press conference, during which the two tearfully apologized to their families and others, was not designed to appeal for the court's sympathy.

Says Cowboys owner Jones...

QB expected to sign quickly

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Steve Walsh won't carry the same price tag as the Dallas Cowboys' other rookie quarterback if he plays for the team this season, said club owner Jerry Jones on the eve of contract negotiations with the player.

But Jones said he does not expect difficulty signing Walsh, despite the Cowboys' apparent intent to trade him. Discussions between the Cowboys and Marvin Demoff, Walsh's agent, begin today at the club's Valley Ranch headquarters.

"I don't anticipate any problems signing Steve," Jones told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in but finished in bright sun and calm winds. The format was low ball on Saturday and select shot Sunday.

The 127 total left Anderson and Talley atop the leader board by three strokes over Danny Kloza and Raymond Cole of San Antonio, who finished in second place in the Championship Flight with a 130 total. Western Texas College golfers Wade Hatter and Jeff Baker were third in the flight with a 132 total.

The other four flights were dominated by local talent. Lanny Wadleigh and Pete Greene took a three-stroke victory in the President's Flight, shooting a 131 total which included a 63 on Sunday.

Glen Patterson and Donnie Newman fired a 134 for second place, followed by John Boren and Tommy Mills with a 140.

First Flight winners were Dutch Stehley and Harold Lacik with a 140. Also coming in at 140 were Rob Hall and Dwayne Richards. Bill Hartsfield and Phil Aton were third with a 142.

A 138 won the Second Flight by seven strokes. Herb Reed and Mackey Greene, Snyder High School golf coach, put together a 71 and a 67 to claim top honors in the flight. Shooting 145 for second were Don Head and Neal Carter. Jim Burleson and Shawn Ragland placed third with a 147. Bush Jordan and Joe Self, Lubbock, won the Third Flight with a 150. Pat Gilstrap and Gregg Berry turned in a 151 for second place in the flight and Jeff Reed and Wade Lancaster shot 153 for third place.

Azinger regains form to win Hartford Open

CROMWELL, Conn. (AP) - Paul Azinger doesn't consider himself a choker. His victory in the Greater Hartford Open may have swayed others to his view. Azinger lost a four-stroke lead on the back nine Sunday, then sank a 40-foot pitch shot for a tie-breaking birdie on the final hole and a one-shot victory over Wayne Levi.

"I still wonder," Azinger said after shooting a 6-under-par 65 Sunday to finish with a course record 17-under 267, "am I ever going to let myself run away" with a tournament?

He seemed ready to do that after shooting a 6-under-par 30 on the front nine. That put him at 17 under for the tournament and gave him a four-stroke edge with just nine holes left.

While Azinger played cautiously, trying to protect his advantage, Levi, who shot 67, made birdies at the 9th, 10th, 12th and 13th holes to tie for the lead. Azinger then broke his string of 37 bogey-free holes on the 15th, but Levi bogeyed the 14th, leaving them at 16 under.

On the par-4, 420-yard 18th hole, Azinger hit his first shot into the right rough and his second into the rough to the right of the green.

He cleared it when he pitched the ball from about 10 feet off the green, dropped it about 20 feet from the cup and watched it roll in.

Sunday's victory was the fifth on the PGA Tour for Azinger but he's known as much for the tournaments he didn't win.

He led the 1987 British Open by one stroke with two holes to play, the 1988 PGA Championship by a stroke going into the final round and the Bob Hope Classic last January in a three-way playoff.

Azinger earned $180,000 Sunday and jumped from 11th to fourth place on the earnings list with $597,499.

Dave Rummells, who shot 66 Sunday, finished third at 14-under-par 270. Lee Trevino, Jim Carter and Mark Calcavecchia were tied for fourth at 271.

Graf tops Navratilova again; Becker avenges 1988 defeat

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Martina Navratilova says she still has time to break Wimbledon's ultimate record. Unless Steffi Graf gets there first.

After losing the women's championship to Graf for the second year in a row, Navratilova still is stuck on eight singles crowns at the All England Club, the record she shares with Helen Wills Moody.

Next year, Navratilova will be 33. But, she says, that won't stop her coming back to the oldest Grand Slam tournament for another crack at a place in tennis history.

"I absolutely think that I can win," Navratilova said after Graf beat her 6-2, 6-7, 6-1. "If I thought there was no chance I would win, or even a 50-50 chance, I wouldn't be playing any more."

It was the first time the women's championship, postponed from Saturday because of rain, ever had been held on a Sunday, and the first time in the modern era that the same women had met in the final three years in a row.

The match preceded the men's final between Boris Becker and Stefan Edberg on a day when four of the five main titles were settled.

Becker avenged his defeat by Edberg in last year's men's final with a 6-0, 7-6, 6-4 victory that made the West German the youngest man ever to win three Wimbledon singles titles. He also won in 1985 as an unseeded 17-year-old, and in 1986.

Becker, 21, flung his racket into the stands at the end of the 2-hour, 12-minute match, the most one-sided final in five years.

"After a couple of seconds, when you realize you have won it, you explode," Becker said. "Thankfully, I didn't hit anybody."

Becker's victory gave West Germany a sweep of the singles crowns.

Healthy Welch stops Rangers for Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Oakland pitcher Bob Welch spent 15 days on the disabled list last month, and the thought of spending another 10 days between starts alarmed him.

So Welch was thrilled when manager Tony La Russa shifted his rotation to allow him one last start before the All-Star break. He made the most of it, going 6 1-3 innings to beat the Texas Rangers 7-1 Sunday and finish the first half with a 10-4 record.

"I needed to pitch," said Welch, making his third start since returning from a groin injury. "I'm glad Tony gave me the opportunity, especially after my last start."

Going into the All-Star break, the A's are 1 1-2 games behind California. Only four games separate the second-place A's, Kansas City and Texas.

"It's a big difference when you have to jump over three teams," said Texas manager Bobby Valentine, whose club has stayed in the race with a 24-22 road record.

"California looks real good right now - their pitching is awesome," said Valentine. "And as soon as Oakland gets healthy, they'll be awesome. (Kansas City outfielder) Bo Jackson is awesome. We're going to have to Sunday's editions. "I will be very, very involved. I don't think this will be difficult for a lot of reasons.

"First of all, Steve has a very reasonable agent; secondly, I think we all see a great situation; and, thirdly, because I'm willing to do what it takes."

The University of Miami quarterback was selected by Dallas in Friday's supplemental draft, less than three months after they selected and signed UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman in the NFL's regular draft.

"Troy was a unique situation because he was the first quarterback and the first player drafted, and that commanded a certain financial consideration," Jones told the newspaper from his Arkansas home.

In the richest rookie contract in league history, Aikman signed a 6-year, $11-million pact. Walsh has indicated he expects to be paid a comparable salary.

On Saturday, Johnson talked with as many as six teams about trade options. The coach said four teams called to advise the Cowboys they are interested, while two others have indicated they also may want to be involved.

Brooks may go to Denver

DALLAS (AP) - Weaknesses in the Denver Broncos' defensive line and the team's need for a proven pass rusher has led coach Dan Reeves to Dallas, where he has expressed an interest in Cowboys defensive tackle Kevin Brooks.

Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson said Sunday that he expected to trade Brooks, 26, on Monday. Bob Ackles, the Cowboys director of player personnel, said the team would be looking for two 1990 draft choices in return for Brooks.

The Cowboys likely would get a picks in the third and fifth rounds in exchange for Brooks.

Tax trial for Texas tycoons begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — A multimillion-dollar tax claim against Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt could consume what remains of the tycoons' storied inheritance from fabled Texas wildcatter H.L. Hunt.

3 people receive injuries during weekend accidents

Three people were injured, although none seriously, in two traffic accidents here Saturday and Sunday.

At 8:05 a.m. Saturday in the 3200 Block of Ave. A, a 1987 Toyota pickup truck driven by Dwayne W. Clinkenbeard, 18, of 411 33rd St. struck a parked 1980 Ford owned by Cheryl S. Foster of 3112 Ave. U.

Clinkenbeard and his brother, 15-year-old Brian, were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital, where they were both treated and released.

A 1974 Ford driven by Lorene Haygood of Loraine was in collision with a 1984 Ford van driven by D.D. Smith of Dunn at 1:02

Revenue Service case that went to trial today could also determine whether there will be money left to repay the brothers' other creditors in U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

Once Dallas billionaires, Bunker now lists his assets at $258.83 million and Herbert says p.m. Sunday at 30th St. and Ave. E, after which both vehicles had to be towed.

A passenger in the Smith vehicle, 74-year-old Opal Smith of Dunn, was treated and released at the Snyder hospital.

Other weekend accidents included one at 9:29 a.m. Sunday in the 3700 Block of Ave. U, where a 1988 Ford driven by Maria Moncevais of Rt. 3 hit a parked 1977 Ford owned by James Jones of Killen.

At 9:15 a.m. Saturday in the 500 Block of the East Hwy., a 1988 Ford Ranger pickup driven by Joyce Jay of Box 593 was in collision with a 1985 Ford pickup driven by Tammy L. Wilson of Box 1087.

he's worth $169.38 million, according to documents recently filed in Bankruptcy Court in Dallas as part of their Chapter 11 reorganization.

The IRS alone has claims totaling $701 million in disputed taxes and interest against Bunker and $317 million against Herbert.

As a priority creditor in the bankruptcy case, the government's claim moves ahead of most others when the Hunts' assets are to be divided up; the amount depends on the resolution of IRS claims against the brothers.

"The Hunts don't have enough money to pay everybody. Our claim might eat up every penny that they have," said Grover Hartt, an attorney in the Justice Department's tax division.

"We have claims in excess of $1 billion in the aggregate for both brothers," says Hartt, who is monitoring the government's claim in the Hunts' bankruptcy case. "The largest single part of that is the 1982 tax year."

Company of Sweetwater; and seven $5 gift certificates from Jaramillo's Restaurant will be given out with random drawings. In another drawing, a Sunday "buffet for two" coupon will be given by Willow Park Inn.

The brothers and their wives appeared in court this morning as lawyers hauled in at least 16 boxes of trial documents.

While the 1982 tax year is the sole subject of the trial, the outcome could affect other IRS claims in preceding and subsequent tax years, Hartt said Friday from Dallas. The Hunts and the IRS are disputing taxes owed in several years between 1974 and 1988.

The dispute over the 1982 taxes centers on the dissolution of what the Hunts claim was a partnership created to repay the brothers' debts from the 1980 silver price collapse. The IRS claims the partnership was actually a loan the Hunts did not repay, and thus constitutes taxable income. In a separate case, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission alleges Bunker, Herbert and other international businessmen were involved in a price-fixing scheme to corner the world silver market. In court documents, the CFTC claims that had the scheme not collapsed "by the end of May 1980 they could have owned virtually the entire world supply of deliverable .999 silver bullion."

In the pending tax case, Nelson and Bunker Hunt are each contesting more than $150 million in taxes the IRS claims were owed in 1982.

House damaged by Saturday fire

Firemen spent 30 minutes extinguishing a noon Saturday fire at the 808 28th St. home of Felipe Gutierrez.

A department spokesman said children ignited a couch behind the house and that the blaze spread through a bedroom window, burned two mattresses on the bed inside and did minor damage to the interior of the home.

The call came in at 11:50 a.m., and firefighters returned to the station at 12:30 p.m.

Births

14 injured during prison riot

BANNING, Calif. (AP) — Inmates rioted at a prison camp, injuring at least 19 people and leaving seven buildings in flames early today, authorities said.

At least 100 law enforcement officers were involved in quelling the three-hour riot, ended around midnight Sunday at the Banning Road Camp Rehabilitation Center, a minimum- and medium security prison with 772 inmates.

"We still do not know what precipitated this, but it appears to have been racial in nature," said Riverside County Sheriff's Capt. Jake Bowser. "We had some fighting break out between barracks ... After that it just broke out in general pandemonium."

An administration building, the prison kitchen, a guard tower and at least four other buildings caught fire, said Chris Hays, a reserve Banning firefighter. Several vehicles were also reported to have burned. The fires were controlled just after midnight.

Flames shot at least 50 feet into the night sky, witnesses said.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm an 89-year-old male with congestive heart failure. I'm currently taking Micro-K, Lasix and Lanoxin. How serious is this, and will I overcome it?

DEAR READER: Congestive heart failure is a common manifestation of heart disease. When cardiac muscle contracts ineffectively, excess fluid builds up in tissues, causing congestion. This usually affects the lungs, leading to difficulty breathing, especially during physical exertion.

Congestive heart failure is usually treated in three ways. First, doctors try to increase the strength of cardiac muscle contraction. Lanoxin (purified digitalis) is prescribed for this purpose. The drug has a proven track record and has been used for years to stimulate more vigorous heart-muscle action, as well as to slow the pulse. It must be administered cautiously, as its side effects — notably nausea and heart electrical-blockage — can present problems, especially in older patients.

Second, diuretic medicine — such as Lasix — forces the kidneys to excrete more fluid than they normally would. The regular use of Lasix will often release excess water from the tissues, improve breathing, eliminate edema (swelling of the ankles and lower legs) and reduce the work of the heart muscle. Lasix (and other diuretics like it) do promote an inappropriate loss of potassium, a mineral needed by the body for normal muscle functioning. Hence, doctors usually prescribe potassium supplements (such as Micro-K) to replenish the losses. Lasix is often given with Lanoxin; the combination works well.

Third, physicians may treat congestive heart failure by giving drugs that reduce arterial resistance, thereby reducing the work of the heart. Such medicines include nitroglycerine and angiotensin converting enzyme, or ACE inhibitors. These medicines are often used in conjunction with diuretics. Their major side effect is unacceptably low blood pressure, so they should be used with caution.

Evidently, your doctor has chosen to administer Lanoxin, Lasix and potassium only, reserving the third class of drugs for the future, should you need additional treatment.

Congestive heart failure is a serious consequence of heart disease. It means that irreparable damage has occurred; without therapy, the situation could progress to pulmonary edema, a potentially fatal form of severe heart failure. However, if you follow your doctor's instructions and take appropriate medicine, your congestive heart failure can be improved and be controlled.

Other treatment includes stopping smoking and drinking alcohol because both nicotine and alcohol interfere with normal cardiac functioning. Also, some people are helped by reducing dietary salt, which can cause fluid overload, increased cardiac work and hypertension in individuals susceptible to high blood pressure. Because you have heart trouble and might benefit from a diet to protect your heart, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Eating Right For A Healthy Heart." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Town celebrates band's victory

SUNDOWN, Texas (AP) — It may have rained on the parade, but members of Sundown High School's marching band obviously didn't let it bother them at the National Independence Day Parade.

The Roughneck Marching Band billed as the "Pride of the Oil Patch" lived up to its nickname, being named best band in the July 4 parade and festival in Washington, D.C.

The West Texas town gathered Saturday to salute the band for its victory.

"We were floored," said Sundown band director Barry Hurt. "We didn't go up there with the notion to compete to win. We were ecstatic over the invitation to participate."

Composer Ludwig van Beethoven died in 1827 in Vienna.

No adequate convention center...

Conventioners do not pick Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — For all it has to offer, this Central Texas city is without one thing that has convention planners taking their business elsewhere.

Because it is without an adequate convention center, the city has not tapped a resource that could translate to hundreds of millions of dollars a year in spending to the local economy. It is a resource that could boost the city's lure and image among tourists and business leaders across the country.

"We used to rotate between Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston and Austin," said Larry Fitzgerald of the State Bar of Texas. "Corpus Christi has taken Austin's place on our rotation list. They have a magnificent new convention center right on the bay."

Austin voters are scheduled to vote July 29 on a City Council proposal to issue $69 million in revenue bonds to finance a new convention center.

Conventioners contend the city is lacking in the number of large hotels with adequate meeting and exhibition space. Those that do fit the criteria are few and far apart, and there is no centrally located facility in which to convene.

Austin may be the state capital, but Republicans haven't met here as a statewide group since 1982.

"The facilities simply cannot accommodate a convention of (our size) across the city," Holly Decherd, vice chair of the Republican Party of Texas, told the Austin American-Statesman. "That puts a tremendous burden on people trying to get from one session to another."

Only a few non-hotel facilities in the city are capable of meeting the needs of large conventions, but even the Frank Erwin Center and Palmer Auditorium apparently aren't adequate.

"Palmer is just out of date," Fitzgerald said of the city's largest convention facility, which was built in 1959.

The Erwin Center, located on the University of Texas campus, was the site of the August 1986 state Democratic Party convention.

"The Erwin Center was fine for our general sessions," said Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, "but we wound up with subcommittee meetings in the locker rooms and caucuses in the bleachers."

Other convention planners complain of a lack of space, which often translates into a lack of revenue. Trade organizations charge firms that rent booth space at conventions. "You can sum it up by saying that Palmer Auditorium has outlived its day," said Don King, general manager of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. "We try to come to Austin, but it's always a bad experience when we do. We love Austin, but your facilities are inadequate."

The size of a city's exhibition hall determines how much money a trade group can raise from booth rentals. Rental fees help the associations offset convention costs.

For example, the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association charges $450 to a manufacturer who wants to rent a 10-foot-by-10-foot booth. "Last year, we had only enough space to handle 75 percent of our normal show," said King. "So we actually lost revenues."

AIDS research said lagging in state

DALLAS (AP) — Federal AIDS authorities say Texas medical researchers have shown "incredibly little interest" in studying the fatal disease for which Texas ranks fourth in the nation for reported cases, a Dallas newspaper reported.

"Clinical investigators in Texas will have to get their act together, and you can quote me on that," Dr. Daniel Hoth, director of AIDS research programs for the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases in Bethesda, Md., told The Dallas Morning News.

Studies released Saturday at a gathering of AIDS researchers and government officials at Columbia University in New York showed a lack of acquired immune deficiency syndrome drug research in Texas.

"It's quite sad about Texas," said Dr. Mathilde Krim, co-founder of the American Foundation for AIDS Research. "There are hundreds of people with AIDS in Texas who are waiting for the drugs."

In the past three years, 7,316 Americans have been involved in major drug studies at the 45 federally funded AIDS research centers. Only 40 participants were Texans.

Texas, which has had 6,714 diagnosed cases of AIDS since 1981, ranks fourth nationally in the number of cases, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. Only New York, California and Florida have more cases.

In the last two years, the federal government has pumped more than $50 million into AIDS clinical studies — none of them in Dallas. But federal officials say they cannot be blamed.

"We can't go into a community and tell them what to do," said Hoth. "We've been scratching our heads over the problem in Texas for two years. If Texans can come up with something good, then we'll fund it, because we want to put something in Texas."

The Nelson-Tebedo Community Clinic for AIDS Research has been set up by the AIDS Resource Center in Dallas with a $100,000 grant from Ms. Krim's organization. It has yet to attract a drug study, though.

"It will require a lot of work, and there's only a few people available to do it," said Dr. Daniel Barbaro, a Fort Worth physician who will be the principal investigator at the new clinic.

Of 45 AIDS Clinical Trial Units

set up by the federal government since 1986, Texas currently has only one — a small pediatric unit at Texas Children's Hospital in Houston.

The state's largest AIDS research effort, the Institute for Immunological Disorders, was closed in Houston in late 1987 because of financial problems. More than $3 million in unspent money was returned to the federal government.

Dr. Adan Rios, who was research director at the institute, said only a handful of AIDS studies have survived the center's demise.

"On paper, these projects look good, but in comparison to what Texas needs, it's just keeping the flame alive," Rios said.

L&L: full service at self service prices

Are you tired of smelling like gasoline all day? L&L Inc., 3812 College, gives you full service fueling at self service prices. L&L also checks fluid levels and tire pressure. Air and water are free, so why carry around a bunch of quarters when you don't need them at L&L? You can even get your windshield washed without getting out of your car.

Your clothes don't get dribbled on from windshield cleaner.

Convenience store gas pumps are handy for snacks and things that L&L doesn't offer, so they try to make up for the inconvenience of making one stop for gas and another for snacks by offering service at the pump that the convenience store clerk can't offer.

L&L Inc. carries motor oils and transmission fluid ranging from $1.00 per quart for Kerr McGee brand 30 wt. oil to STP brand motor oil at $1.60 per quart. You can get oil cheaper at the discount store, but they carry it out, raise your hood, put the oil in, and then close the hood? Isn't full service worth a few cents more? For years, L&L Inc., headquartered in Abilene, Texas, has boasted that "You can't find cheaper gas anywhere in town." The Snyder L&L tries to live up to that promise, and if anyone does sell gas cheaper, L&L will shortly lower their prices, too. All they have to do is verify the price and then get instructions from their home office.

Local L&L management says, "We can't guarantee the lowest prices in town because of the logistic and communications situation, but it would be practically impossible for full service prices elsewhere to be lowered below our full service prices. So if you check other station's full service prices, you can be pretty sure that L&L's full service prices are lower."

You don't even have to get out of your car at L&L. Just roll down your window and talk to a friendly face and let them do the walking.

Sometimes it is impossible to give immediate service when we are very busy. But each customer is taken care of as soon as possible. Come by L&L Inc. at 3812 College Ave. in Snyder and see what it is like to have someone wait on you without having to pay extra. L&L employees say that they may not look like models or smell like petunias, but they do more than stand behind a counter and punch buttons while you do all the work.

Pilgrim says controversy won't change him

PITTSBURG, Texas (AP) — Lonnie Pilgrim isn't troubled by the investigation or criticism concerning the $10,000 checks he passed out to a handful of state senators in Austin last week.

And the 61-year-old head of a poultry empire said he doesn't plan to change his ways in the wake of the controversy.

"I've nothing to worry about. Truth will win out," Pilgrim said of the checks, which he passed out Wednesday after lobbying senators on workers' compensation laws.

His actions sparked criticism and prompted an investigation by the Travis County district attorney, but Pilgrim isn't making any apologies.

"I think giving large amounts of money to a politician is All-American as far as I'm concerned," Pilgrim told the Houston Chronicle. "And what you get from it is name identification. If you give them money, they return your calls or talk to you."

The donations weren't the first made by the Texas businessman, who is described as a nice corporate neighbor in this Camp County town, the Chronicle reported Sunday.

After a security guard at his Mexican farm was killed, Pilgrim learned that the Mexican government has no death benefits for family survivors. So Pilgrim said he told the widow and her three children they could continue picking up the man's paycheck every two weeks as though he were still alive.

That was a year ago, and the offer still stands.

In another case, Pilgrim bought an abandoned store for local church leaders before they met to decide if they wanted to obtain a $27,000 bank loan to buy the building for a student center near the local junior college.

And when a resident needed $200 for air fare to be with his ailing wife at an out-of-town operation, Pilgrim gave the man $1,000.

"He doesn't walk around acting like a millionaire," said Dr. Marvin Mosley, a local church leader. "When he gives money, his motives are as pure as any man's can be — he just wants to help."

Pilgrim attends school graduations, Chamber of Commerce banquets and civic club luncheons. But he doesn't frequent the drug store, post office or coffee shops.

"It's not because he's unfriendly," Pittsburg Mayor Dave Abernathy said. "He just doesn't have time."

Pilgrim's companies in Pittsburg and nearby Mount Pleasant employ nearly 1,000 Camp County residents — 14 percent of the county's work force, said Calvin Van Landingham, Chamber of Commerce vice president.

His 44-year-old company is now a Fortune 500 firm with estimated 1989 sales of $600 million. He employs nearly 8,000 people in four states and Mexico.

But chickens aren't his only interest. Pilgrim teaches an adult

Sunday school class and appears at a weekly prayer breakfast sponsored by the local Methodist Church — even though he's a First Baptist Church deacon.

His money helped build the Baptist church building and bought it an air conditioned bus and a park. Pilgrim is footing the bill for more land clearing behind the present church for a second park.

He estimates he gave away $1 million last year to churches and schools, including $200,000 to Texas A&M for Mexican and American student scholarships; $100,000 for a Baptist banquet in Dallas; $200,000 to other Baptist institutions; and $150,000 in titles to his own church.

He also gave $250,000 to buy a church for a predominantly black congregation and another $150,000 for a Hispanic church.

Pilgrim gave his employees

$250,000 when the company lost money and a worker's bonus plan wasn't going to pay off as planned. His 1988 gift list also includes $100,000 in political contributions.

And the requests haven't stopped since the Austin controversy erupted. On Friday, two written appeals for $1,000 each were sitting on his desk when he came to work.

"I guess I've been too free with my money," he said.

Chicken checks won't affect state legislators

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative workers' compensation leaders said last week's incident in which a businessman offered $10,000 checks to nine senators after he complained about the state workers' comp system should not affect the outcome of the issue.

As a House-Senate conference committee began meeting Sunday on workers' comp, state Rep. Richard Smith, the chief of the House negotiating team, said the payments caused a outcry, but added, "I don't think it will have any negative impact in the final analysis when passing the bill."

Poultry producer Lonnie "Bo" Pilgrim complained of the cost of his workers' comp premiums with nine senators, and handed them $10,000 checks. This occurred two days before a Senate vote on a House workers' comp proposal.

The lobbying attempt has prompted an investigation by the Travis County District Attorney and calls for campaign finance reform. On Friday, the Senate rejected the House proposal, an action which has set up the conference committee. Seven of the nine senators said they have returned or intend to return the money to Pilgrim.

Pilgrim has denied any wrongdoing in the incident.

State Sen. Kent Caperton, co-chairman of the conference committee, said, "Everybody probably views Mr. Pilgrim as kind of an eccentric guy who didn't know what he was doing."

Sen. John Montford, the only member of the conference committee who was offered a check from Pilgrim said he nearly threw the East Texas businessman out of his office.

Montford, D-Lubbock, said he told Pilgrim the payment was "highly irregular, unethical and probably illegal, and I shooed him out of my office."

With 10 days left in the special legislative session, conferees agreed they must produce a bill within the week or more legislative overtime may be needed to reach an agreement.

Caperton, D-Bryan, said a plan must be produced with enough time left in the session to give lawmakers a chance to study the overhaul. The 30-day special session ends July 19.

"We know what the issues are and if everybody rolls up their sleeves and works hard we can get a bill," Caperton, D-Bryan, said.

Lt. Gov. Hobby attended part of the meeting and said he was optimistic the Legislature can produce a bill during the session for Gov. Bill Clements to consider.

The conferees agreed on several minor points between the two plans and are expected to take up more controversial issues, such as safety provisions, today.

The House and Senate have been at odds over how to change the system of compensating employees who are accidentally injured at work.

The House plan is supported by business interests, who complain of high workers' comp insurance premiums, which they say is caused by the amount of attorney involvement and litigation in the determination of benefits.

The Senate proposal is backed by a coalition of labor and lawyers who represent injured workers. These groups say employers can blame themselves for the high cost of insurance because of the high number of unsafe workplaces.

Lawmakers failed to reach a compromise on workers' comp during the 140-day regular session, which was preceded by an 18-month, $450,000 study of the system.

That study concluded that workers' comp premiums were too high and many benefits to injured workers were too low.

Government tries luck at horse racing

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — It's been many years since U.S. Marshals in Texas had to worry full time about horses, but now they have no choice.

The U.S. Marshals Service is maintaining a stable of expensive racehorses after the ranch where they were being kept was seized from a drug suspect.

Ranch owner Mario Alberto Salinas is accused of buying the 88 horses with profits from illegal sales of drugs.

The marshals service has been taking care of the 200-acre Salinas ranch near Floresville since March 17. The government also seized the ranch's rambling house, two horse barns, bunkhouse, jockey's quarters and landing strip.

Thirty mares have been bred to deliver quarter horse thoroughbreds. Seven horses are in a racing program at Los Alamitos, Calif.

"We're doing what he (Salinas) was doing, but doing it better," said Chief Deputy U.S. Marshal Jim Brown.

Classy Classanova, a 3-year-old gelding registered in the service's name, won $10,000 at Los Alamitos California Derby on May 12. He won $158,218 last year.

Still in the stable is Shawnee Favorite, who won about $400,000 last year. He is scheduled for three races this year.

The marshals service contracted with Capstone Real Estate Service, Inc. to run the ranch. Herb Carroll serves as Capstone's ranch foreman.

A 62-year-old horseman from San Antonio, Carroll said, "It's our charge to see that the property and horses are in as good or better shape when the case is over as when they were seized."

"If you don't race race horses they lose their value," Carroll told the San Antonio Light. "If you don't breed mares, they lose their value."

Earnings will go into an interest-bearing trust fund that will offset the $30,000-a-month bill for feeding, training and racing the horses, Brown said.

Another $200 in average monthly income from an oil well on the ranch also is going into the fund.

"If we had just let them stand here, they would have gotten sick and the government would be out a lot of money," Brown said. Though the racing operation is in the hands of the government, it cannot be sold unless Salinas is convicted of the dope-dealing charges against him.
