

Charles Anderson...

SJHS principal planning retirement

Charles Anderson, a Snyder educator the past 32 years to include service as the principal at two elementaries and, most recently, Snyder Junior High, has announced his retirement.

In a letter to school officials, he noted that although the question of his leaving education has been on his mind for some time, his actual decision was not made until this past week and the end of summer school, which Anderson was overseeing.

He cites a desire to complete writing projects he has underway, and notes, "I will be among your strongest supporters for maintaining a quality educational system."

Anderson also informed his staff at junior high of his plans in a separate mailing headed "Memo (Number) 1,799,001," a joking reference to his habit of daily written directions to campus personnel.

His tenure with Snyder ISD included teaching at both the elementary and junior high level, coaching football and basketball for a four year period during the 1960s and administration-level postings since 1968.

After high school graduation in 1948, he served with the U.S. Air Force during the Korean War from 1950-54 and in Germany.

He graduated from Abilene Christian University in Abilene in the spring of 1957, accepting a teaching post in Snyder for that fall.

He began as an English and reading teacher at Travis Junior High. During this time, he continued his academic studies and gained his masters degree from ACU in 1958.

In 1961, he shifted to the second junior high campus, Lamar.

From 1961-65, he served as an assistant football coach for two years and as the seventh grade basketball coach for two, earning a record of 33 wins and 4 losses in the second sport.

His final posting as a classroom teacher was from 1966-68 at Northeast Elementary, where he taught the sixth grade. In 1968, he was named principal at Northeast, a position he held until 1976.

His longest tenure with a local campus was at Central Elementary, where he served as principal. See ANDERSON, page 10

Ask Us

Q — Is there a law regarding maternity leave or is it up to each employer to set his own policy?

A — There is no state statute dealing with the rights of pregnant women, but all employers come under federal guidelines related to discrimination. The federal statute mandates that an employee cannot be discriminated against because of pregnancy and that it should be treated in the same manner as any "short term" medical disability. In other words, pregnancy must fall under the employer's policy for sick leave.

'There were no heroes'...

Pilot comments on fatal DC-10 crash

SIoux CITY, Iowa (AP) — A United Airlines pilot declared "there is no hero" in the fiery DC-10 crash in which survivors outnumbered fatalities, and conceded he learned a new way of flying in the final minutes of Flight 232.

"It was just a group of four people who did their job," said Capt. Al Haynes, in his first public comments since the July 19 crash. "It was an unusual circumstance but we put our best resources and knowledge together and did what we felt was best."

Haynes said the flight crew never doubted the stricken jetliner would make it to Sioux Gateway Airport, where the jetliner crash-landed short of a runway, flipped and broke apart. Of the 296 aboard, 185 people survived.

"We must not forget that 111 people perished in this accident. This crew ... is dedicated to finding the cause of this accident so we can maybe never have it happen again," said Haynes, a 33-year United pilot.

Later, he and his wife, Darlene, flew home to Seattle to applause and hugs from family and neighbors outside their small yellow house a few blocks east of Seattle-Tacoma International Airport.

"It's just great to be home," the 57-year-old pilot told a crowd of reporters outside. "If you can give me a few days, maybe we can all get together and talk about this."

At Tuesday's news conference, Haynes said he heard a "very loud report" as the DC-10 flew over northwest Iowa on a flight from Denver to Philadelphia via Chicago. He immediately began shutting down the jetliner's No. 2 tail-mounted engine.

"It was very shortly after this that we realized we had more than just an engine failure," said Haynes. "It was apparent to us that we had lost all of our hydraulic fluid."

Arson suspected as cars burn

Firemen and police are investigating a possible arson case in which two 1989-model automobiles were heavily damaged by fire early Wednesday in the 1200 Block of 28th St.

Firefighters went to the scene at 2:48 a.m. and worked for an hour to control fires in the interiors of a 1989 Plymouth and a 1989 Ford owned by Weldon Wyatt of 1201 28th.

A fire department spokesman said both blazes appeared to be of a "suspicious origin."

Fire officials say one of the vehicles, the Ford, retained the smell of a flammable liquid which they speculate was poured inside the vehicle before the fire was set.

The interior of the Plymouth was gutted and there was no smell of an "accelerant" or flammable liquid there, they said, noting the Ford sustained the lesser damage of the two.

No immediate suspects are reported in the case.

Dancers in 'TEXAS' headed by SHS grad

A Snyder High School graduate is working this summer as dance captain for the annual production of "TEXAS," being performed for its 23rd year in the Palo Duro Canyon near Canyon.

Heading up the dancers is Michael L. Everett, a 1984 graduate of SHS who also attended Western Texas College. He is the son of Nancy Baker, formerly of Snyder.

Prior to joining the "TEXAS" staff, he studied in the School of American Ballet in New York for two summers.

He was also a member of The

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Just when you get to the point that menu prices don't matter—calories do."

Kenneth Midkiff, a retiree who lives on 32nd Street, was in the office last week and inquired about taming squirrels.

Over the past few years, he has enjoyed watching playful squirrels in his backyard. Often, he hears them running across the roof and making the noise of a much larger animal.

Midkiff says he has never tried to tame one, and was recently surprised by the friendly nature of one. Midkiff was standing on his back porch and saw a squirrel munching on a pecan. The squirrel was so relaxed that he flattened out and continued to munch.

After a while, the squirrel got up and got on the porch with the homeowner, showing no fear of Midkiff who later asked if he knew of anyone who had successfully tamed one of the animals.

The question caused us to recall a story about retired junior principal Dutch Stehley who had a couple of squirrels eating out of his hand at Snyder Country Club.

Stehley made it a practice to take a few pecans with him to the golf course. Stehley would click the pecans together to call up the friendly critters, then he would crack the pecans and feed them.

That went on for several months at the number one green at the country club, but Stehley says he hasn't seen the pair in several years.

Stehley said he once played golf with a fellow from San Angelo who could call up squirrels by making a noise with his mouth.

That's true—golfers never tell a fib.

Cleanup of HUD pledged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing Secretary Jack Kemp today pledged not to overlook his department's duties to the poor and elderly as he tackles the "Herculean task" of cleaning up the scandal-plagued agency.

"We are going to both clean up HUD and make it work while moving forward on goals that Congress and President Bush have laid out," Kemp told the House Select Committee on Aging during a hearing on housing for the elderly.

Alluding to recent allegations about fraud and influence-peddling under his predecessor at HUD, Kemp said it was appropriate that he address the aging committee because "there is no secretary in the Cabinet who is aging faster."

He pledged that "as we go about the Herculean task of cleaning up the Aegean stables ... I feel quite confident that we can move forward on policy, programs, reports to meet the great goals of the Department of Housing and Urban Development."

On Tuesday, Kemp said in an interview on CBS-TV he believes "there'll be some people that go to jail," and some ought to go to jail for their roles in the scandal. He did not identify any individuals he had in mind.

Kemp said he was "shocked at the extent" the scandal "reached into the management of HUD" in the previous administration.

Kemp's predecessor, Samuel Pierce, won't have to return until September to testify before a panel investigating alleged fraud and influence-peddling at the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Pierce had been scheduled to testify Aug. 3, but the House panel investigating the HUD case granted an extension to give him more time to prepare.

Rep. Thomas Lantos, D-Calif., chairman of the House Government Operations subcommittee on employment and housing, said in a letter to Pierce he agreed to the delay "based on your apparent difficulty in retaining counsel to represent you at the subcommittee hearing."

Also on Tuesday, the Justice Department said it is sending two attorneys to Denver to help federal prosecutors in Colorado investigate cases of fraud.

Arrest 74

MOSCOW (AP) — Police arrested 74 people and seized scores of weapons in Abkhazia, where tensions between rival ethnic groups remain high. Tass said today. Two bombs exploded in the region but no injuries were reported.

In the Abkhazian capital of Sukhumi, an explosive device was thrown into the yard of a teacher's house and an explosion at a repair shop damaged a truck, the official Soviet news agency said.

Abkhazia, a region in the southern republic of Georgia, has been the scene of fighting between ethnic Abkhazians and native Georgians since July 15. At least 21 people have been reported killed in clashes between the groups.

Show profit

DALLAS (AP) — Oryx Energy Co. said Wednesday higher crude oil prices plus debt restructuring enabled the company to post a $17 million profit in the second quarter.

The 16-cent-per-share net income compares to a $273 million loss in the same quarter last year, which included a $260 million writedown of oil and gas properties intended for sale and the cost of employee terminations, office closings and other matters.

Oil and gas revenues for the quarter ending June 30 were $283 million and total revenues were $304 million. That compares to $278 million in oil and gas revenues and $332 million overall last year, when the company still operated as Sun Exploration and Production Co., a division of Sun Co.

So far this year, Oryx has earned $119 million.

Heart attack...

Veteran dies after shootout

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A 31-year police veteran who had begun to consider retirement died of an apparent heart attack, the result of a shootout in which officers returned gunfire from a man who had complained of construction noise, officials said.

Two other officers were injured in the Tuesday morning confrontation in this North Texas city about 125 miles northwest of Dallas. The injured gunman was apprehended after a six-hour manhunt that involved more than 60 law enforcement authorities.

Lt. Walter Collins, 52, underwent about three hours of surgery on his bullet-shredded shoulder and arm but died a short time later at Bethania Regional Hospital, said Police Sgt. Jim Bernethy, who heads the homicide division. Collins died of an apparent heart attack caused by massive blood loss, said the doctor who treated Collins.

Collins is the fourth officer to be killed in the line of duty here and the first since August 1968, police said.

"He was the kind of supervisor who believed in getting out with his men in situations like this," said Police Chief Curtis Harrelson, who worked with Collins 25 years. "He was a good friend and a tremendous officer."

About the time of Collins' death, the gunman was being treated in the hospital emergency room for a gunshot to his shoulder. He was in fair condition at Bethania early today, hospital officials said.

Two other officers were injured in the shootout. Officer Steve Pruitt, 38, was in fair condition after undergoing surgery for a shoulder wound, a nursing supervisor said. Officer Don Gossett, 35, who was shot in the leg, was treated and released.

Charges were to be filed today and authorities said the suspect could face a capital murder charge and two attempted capital murder charges.

The suspect had recently moved to Wichita Falls from North Plains, Ore., and was taking medication for a chemical imbalance, the man's father told the Wichita Falls Times Record News. The suspect was released May 15, 1981 from a Texas prison after serving three years of a six-year sentence on a burglary conviction.

Exxon set to post millions to send ship to dry dock

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Exxon Shipping Co. agreed to post $20 million and meet other requirements to get its crippled tanker Valdez into dry dock for repairs.

The oil company signed an agreement to comply with state restrictions Tuesday as the damaged tanker underwent continued emergency repair work on the high seas about 56 miles offshore.

The announcement came as the state Assembly's Select Committee on Oil Spill Prevention and Response Preparedness heard testimony in San Diego regarding the ship's status and Exxon's efforts to bring it into dry dock.

The committee was formed after the Valdez hit a submerged reef in Alaska's Prince William Sound and spilled up to 11 million gallons of crude oil.

State officials were concerned about the possibility of a similar spill washing ashore in California.

"The state of California is in the same position as the state of Alaska when they had the (Valdez) accident, and it must be corrected," said Assemblyman Gerald Felando, who visited Alaska in June.

Also Tuesday, Exxon Corp. said it will return to the site of the nation's worst oil spill next year but stopped short of making a commitment to further cleanup.

A July 19 internal memo to Exxon oil spill managers, which was quoted in media reports Monday, suggested that the oil company's cleanup crews would leave Alaska for good after shutting down for the winter.

DEAR ABBY: At what age should an illegitimate child meet his natural father? My 11-year-old son (I'll call him Nicky) has been asking questions about his "real" father since he put 2 and 2 together at the age of 8. I have told Nicky that I loved his natural father very much but we were not able to marry because he was stationed 2,000 miles away. What the boy doesn't know is that his natural father never answered any of my letters. Two years ago, I married a very fine man who has been a wonderful father to Nicky, but he keeps wanting to meet his "real" father. I know where he is and could arrange it, but I'm afraid he would be a big disappointment to the boy. Perhaps Nicky would accept his stepfather better if he didn't have this false image of his "real" father. What do you think?
ANGUISHED MOTHER

DEAR ANGUISHED: First, please don't refer to your son as an "illegitimate" child. There are no "illegitimate" children—only illegitimate parents.

It is your credit that you did not bad-mouth Nicky's natural father even though you had just cause to do so.

Don't try to correct the "false image" Nicky has of his natural father in an effort to make his stepfather more acceptable.

Does Nicky's natural father want to see his son? If so, by all means bring them together and let the boy make his own judgments. (Eleven-year-olds are far more perceptive than you think.) If, on the other hand, Nicky's father has no desire to see his son, you must tell Nicky the truth.

DEAR ABBY: Here is a thought about infants and air travel. It is common, as the plane begins its descent, for several babies to start screaming. This is from low pressure in the middle ear; many babies cannot easily clear their Eustachian tubes to balance the painful pressure differences. Swallowing or sucking helps clear these tubes; a bottle or a pacifier, given as the plane nears the destination, would save babies severe pain, as well as spare the nerves of nearby passengers.

My wife says you've published this idea before. My last two plane trips, next to shrieking infants, tells me it is time to publish it again.

THOMAS F. LOWRY, M.D., WOODACRE, CALIF.

DEAR DR. LOWRY: Your wife has a good memory, and you're right — it's time to publish this again. Also, if flight attendants would pass this information on to mothers traveling with very small babies, it would be very beneficial.

DEAR ABBY: I am involved with a man I don't know very much about. I have reason to believe that he has had a sex-change operation, but I can't be sure. Are people who have had sex-change operations registered anywhere? If so, where? Thank you for any help you can give me.
ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Sex-change surgery is a private matter; those who have undergone that type of surgery are not "registered" anywhere. The best way to learn the facts about a man is to ask him. And if you can't believe what he tells you, I advise you to cool the relationship.

1989 Property Tax Rates in Snyder CISD

This notice concerns 1989 property tax rates for SNYDER C I S D. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$ 8,028,483
+ Last year's debt taxes	$ -0-
= Last year's total taxes	$ 8,028,483
÷ Last year's tax base	$ 810,957,899

÷ This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting taxes on new property)	$ 707,635,255
= This year's effective tax rate	$ 1.095 /$100
A city that adopted the additional sales tax in a 1989 election must include the following lines:

Bush talking tough on steel imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush hopes tough talk will force foreign governments to stop subsidizing their domestic steel industries, but lawmakers in U.S. steel states remain skeptical.

After months of internal debate in his Cabinet, Bush said Tuesday he was extending steel import restrictions for 2½ years. The steel industry had sought a five-year extension.

The voluntary import quotas, which cover 29 countries, were due to expire Sept. 30. They will be extended to March 31, 1992, if Congress, as expected, agrees.

Bush said the extension would give U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hills time to negotiate an end to unfair steel subsidies provided by other countries. If the subsidies aren't removed, foreign producers will be vulnerable to having unfair trade complaints lodged against them, which could boost the cost of their products in the United States, Bush said.

'The Friendship State'

AUSTIN (AP) — The controversy over printing "The Friendship State" on Texas license plates has grown so hot, even gubernatorial candidates are speaking out on the issue.

Two Democrats and a Republican weighed in Tuesday, with two votes against and one call for a public referendum.

"It's wimpy," said Democratic state Treasurer Ann Richards, who was the first of the gubernatorial hopefuls to join the chorus of opponents speaking up since last week's vote by the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission.

"When I first saw it, I thought, At embassies...

But Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., complained that Bush's decision undercut Hills' negotiating position by fixing a date when the quotas would end.

"The chances are slim to none that even the most determined U.S. negotiators can end a generation of government subsidizing and unfair practices in a mere 2½ years," he said.

Under the voluntary restraint agreements, 29 countries, including Japan, South Korea, Brazil and the 12-nation European Community, had agreed to limit their imports of steel to 18.4 percent of the U.S. market.

The quotas were imposed by the Reagan administration in 1984 after an intense campaign waged by steel companies and unions representing steel workers. There was never any question that Bush would support some quota extension because he had promised to do so in a letter to Heinz four days before November's presidential election.

Gubernatorial candidates speak out on slogan

"Well why would we want to do that?" Ms. Richards said. "Obviously, it's not an earth-shattering decision. But I think 'The Lone Star State' has served us well."

The new slogan has generated hundreds of phone calls from Texans outraged over the idea, many of whom have suggested replacing the current sloganless plates with those bearing the "Lone Star" nickname.

Opposition was bipartisan. Jack Rains, the former secretary of state who launched his Republican gubernatorial bid Tuesday, said he didn't like the friendship slogan, either.

"I kind of like the Lone Star State," Rains said. "The rest of that stuff looked a little quiche and chablis to me."

Attorney General Jim Mattox, who's raising money for the Democratic gubernatorial primary, had a different idea.

"Let's have all the daily newspapers around the state run ballots that the public can fill out and mail in," he said, adding that the ballots could offer several options for the slogan.

"That way, we wouldn't have to go through an expensive ballot proposition of having the public actually vote on the matter, but the people would have the decision-making in their hands," Mattox said.

Ms. Richards said she agrees with those who say "friendship" is too generic a term for Texas, where the tough "Don't Mess With Texas" anti-littering slogan has proven so popular. "I think the reason the 'Don't Mess With Texas' thing has been so successful is that it sort of continues that image that we're great, we're wonderful, we're we are," she said. "The friendly state — you could put that on Kansas, Ohio ..."

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Without anyone looking over your shoulder, you'll be industrious, productive and effective today. Kibitzers or critics, however, could have a negative effect on your performance.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Favors others bestow on you today should be accepted with gracious gratitude. People who will treat you kindly will do so because they like you, not to make you feel obligated.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In areas of small consequence, you might bungle things a trifle today. However, in situations where the stakes are meaningful, you'll perform like a champion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An acquaintance who likes to take pot shots at others may fire a few missiles in your direction today. Such efforts will be as ineffective as a popgun trying to knock out a tank.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A likable friend who has a tough time prying open her purse when the check is due might be subjected to ridicule today when others compare your generous nature to hers.

Report says government needs to bolster anti-spy efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has ignored its own warnings to improve defenses against spies, the Senate Intelligence Committee says in a report that comes as embassy security undergoes new scrutiny in the Felix S. Bloch espionage case.

In unusually harsh language, the committee said "bureaucratic infighting" has paralyzed the new Security Evaluation Office, established last year under CIA Director William Webster to bolster anti-spy efforts at U.S. embassies around the world.

"It has failed to achieve its objectives," the panel said in an assessment written before last week's public revelation that Bloch, once the No. 2 official at the U.S. Embassy in Vienna, was under investigation for allegedly passing secrets to the Soviet Union. Ranking committee members had been informed of the Bloch case, absent his name, in late June.

While the report deals mainly with technological efforts to thwart spying at U.S. posts abroad, it highlights the State Department's longstanding reputation among intelligence professionals for giving short shrift to security.

The panel noted, for example, that the State Department has failed to create a top-level office for a director of diplomatic security, despite the administration's own recommendation for such a position following a series of studies ending in 1987.

But several former diplomats and counterintelligence officials said in interviews Tuesday that the department has tried to improve anti-spy efforts.

James Nolan, the recently retired head of the department's Office of Foreign Missions and longtime deputy FBI counterintelligence chief, said several FBI experts have been hired by the department.

And George A. Carver, Jr., who was deputy for national intelligence for two CIA directors, said "one of the toughest things to do is have counterintelligence in an open society. I'm not suggesting we become a police state, but I think we do need to review our policies." Carver supports lie detector tests for foreign service officers, like those given regularly to intelligence officers.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I read your column on ethics in the medical profession. As I remember it, the Hippocratic Oath enjoins physicians never to induce abortion. Would you tell me if the oath has been amended and/or the injunction against abortion deleted?

DEAR READER: The Hippocratic Oath, a traditional and ethical guide for doctors, contains the clause "nor will I give a woman a pessary to produce abortion." To the extent that this archaic wording seems to prohibit abortion by any means, it has been largely ignored by many modern practitioners. However, today's abortions are not performed by using pessaries (devices to prevent conception or to support the uterus). Therefore, the Hippocratic pledge is not being technically broken by physicians who perform abortions. Of course, this point is arguable. In any case, most abortionists consider the woman's wishes to be paramount.

I sense from your question that you would like to condemn surgeons who perform abortions because they appear to be violating the Hippocratic Oath and are, therefore, renegeing on their medical pledge. It won't work, I'm afraid. The argument is simply not valid. Abortion is an emotionally charged subject that has become a legal issue. This is unfortunate, in my opinion, because I believe that decisions about abortion should not be decided in court; rather, they are appropriate for the physician's office, to be decided between a woman and her doctor.

To answer your question specifically, the Hippocratic Oath has been neither amended nor deleted.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My sister-in-law has arthritis, gout and neuropathy in the feet and body. She's on Inderal, Lasix and digitalis. Occasionally at bedtime, she takes amitriptyline and suffers a lot. What medication might help reduce the pain?

DEAR READER: Your sister-in-law appears to have more than joint and nerve problems. Inderal (for angina and hypertension), Lasix (for a weak heart and fluid retention) and digitalis (a heart stimulant) indicate that she is being treated for heart disease and probable circulatory deficiency. In the presence of neuropathy (nerve malfunction), I wonder if she is not diabetic, too, because this disease is commonly related to neuropathy.

In any case, none of these medicines is for gout. If your sister-in-law does, indeed, have gout, she would be helped by taking allopurinol (to reduce the formation of uric acid, the cause of gouty arthritis) or probenecid (to rid the body of excess uric acid). In addition, the judicious use of pain medicine could control her pain.

Your sister-in-law may be depressed about the way she feels, especially if she has chronic pain. The amitriptyline is an anti-depressant.

If she were my patient, I'd review all her medicines to decide what she really needs and what will do her the most good. Some of the drugs may be fighting one another. For instance, Inderal can cause heart failure, for which your sister-in-law appears to be taking two drugs (Lasix and digitalis) to counteract.

At the very least, she needs medicine for pain and, probably, for gout. She should check with her doctor to review her medication needs.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Managing Chronic Pain." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

So South went to dummy with the king of diamonds to play a low spade. East rose immediately with the ace, and the defense took two more heart tricks to set the contract.

This deal is an exercise in avoidance. To protect his J-9 of hearts, declarer must strive to keep East off lead until the contract is secure. Therefore, declarer should lead to the 10 of diamonds in dummy and come off with a low club. East will duck, and South wins the queen. Playing a second club would now be a mistake. Instead, declarer goes to dummy with the diamond king and plays a low spade. Once again, if East rises with the ace, declarer will have nine tricks. So East plays the nine and declarer wins the spade queen. Now he can switch back to clubs and guarantee making his contract.

And what if West could have won the ace of spades? He would have led back a spade, but declarer could not risk putting in dummy's 10. He would win dummy's king and play a high club from dummy, once again ensuring his contract.

Avoidance play

By James Jacoby

Trick one was the heart four, queen and king, topped by declarer's ace. It seemed natural to now play a club. Declarer played low to dummy's jack; East took the ace and returned a heart. The nine lost to West's 10, and West cleared the heart suit. Now the queen of clubs disclosed the bad news.

IRS investigation...

'Mindset' protects wrongdoers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wrongdoing in the Internal Revenue Service criminal division goes unexposed because of an "institutional mindset" that the IRS image must be protected, according to investigators for a House subcommittee.

Leonard Bernard and Richard Stana said their investigation uncovered abuses ranging from inappropriate personal involvement with informants to illegal use of government travel funds to visit girlfriends.

The investigators opened testimony Tuesday on the IRS before the House Government Operations subcommittee on commerce, consumer and monetary affairs.

"There appears to be a longstanding institutional mindset which says protect the image and integrity of the IRS at all cost because the image is vital to a voluntary compliance system which relies on taxpayer integrity," said Bernard and Stana.

"Our investigation revealed, for example, that on a number of occasions, IRS national office officials at the highest levels ignored instances of wrongdoing by senior managers in Washington D.C. and elsewhere," Stana told the committee.

The vast majority of IRS employees understand the importance of high ethical standards, said the two investigators, who added their probe was limited to a small fraction of the criminal division's activities.

"However," they said, "the abuses we found underscore the lack of intensive management review and internal auditing of (division) programs and operations."

IRS Commissioner Fred Goldberg, who is to testify Thursday, said in prepared testimony he disagrees with the investigators' characterization of the agency as being more concerned about image than possible internal wrongdoing.

"The public knows that we are a large agency and that we will make mistakes," he said. "I believe our image is enhanced — not tarnished — when the public knows that we aggressively investigate and punish wrongdoing by IRS employees."

One case investigated by the subcommittee involved the makers of Jordache and Guess? jeans and the former chief of the division's Los Angeles office, Ronald Saranow.

Stana said Saranow was approached in 1985 by the half-owners of Guess? with information about alleged tax fraud by their business partners, who were the owners of Jordache Enterprises.

The subcommittee investigators said the Guess? owners' information was of "dubious value and questionable quality," but Saranow pursued an aggressive two-year investigation of Jordache without turning up any criminal violation.

The investigators said "the Guess? owners "exercised unusual influence over Ronald Saranow by cultivating a strong personal and social relationship with him and by offering him a six-figure salary."

The Guess owners — Paul,

George, Armand and Maurice Marciano of Los Angeles — denied offering a job to Saranow, who has retired from the IRS and was never disciplined or prosecuted.

Convicted PTL aides harbor no bitterness

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Two PTL aides convicted of tax evasion harbored no bitterness over ministry founder Jim Bakker's decision not to testify in their defense, their attorney says.

Brothers David and James Taggart were convicted Tuesday of evading $525,000 in income taxes on $1.2 million they took from the television ministry to buy condominiums, furs, jewelry and nearly $100,000 worth of shoes.

Bakker invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination last week when the defense called him to the stand. Bakker and former PTL Executive Vice President Richard Dortch are scheduled to go on trial Aug. 28 on wire and mail fraud and conspiracy charges.

"Obviously we would have preferred it if he testified," said defense attorney Ben Cotten.

He said his clients were not bitter at their former boss.

"They recognized he followed his constitutional rights, just like we have," Cotten said. "He's going to face some of the same things we faced in this trial."

Federal prosecutor David Brown said he would recommend a stiff sentence. Each Taggart faces a maximum of 25 years in prison and more than $1 million in fines. A tentative sentencing date was set for Aug. 25.

"Greed doesn't pay. No matter how rich you are, you've got to pay your taxes," Brown said.

A U.S. District Court jury found David Taggart, 32, and his 35-year-old brother, James, guilty on identical charges: conspiracy to impede the IRS in collecting income taxes and filing false tax returns for the years 1984 through 1987.

Brown said the verdict was not a statement about PTL, the televangelism empire started by Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker in the early 1970s. The ministry was well known for the Bakkers' tearful, televised pleas for money.

"It was a statement about David Taggart and James Taggart's obligations to pay their taxes no matter how much they own and what kind of lifestyle they live," he said.

The Taggarts joined PTL in 1978 as piano players. By 1980, David was Bakker's top personal aide. James became the interior designer at PTL's Heritage USA Christian retreat just south of Charlotte.

Both Taggarts were fired when Jerry Falwell took over at PTL in early 1987 following Bakker's resignation.

Journalists despair over re-enactments

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Re-enactments of real-life events, once limited to racy, crime-stopping television shows like "America's Most Wanted," have arrived on network news, startling some eminent broadcast journalists.

By showing a brief re-enactment Friday, ABC's "World News Tonight" has drawn criticism even from some staffers.

"We were wrong with what we did," Sam Donaldson, a veteran ABC correspondent, said in a telephone interview Tuesday.

ABC anchorman Peter Jennings apologized in his Tuesday newscast for the network's failure to identify the segment as a simulation.

The controversy was sparked by an ABC News report using two staged images to intimate that veteran U.S. diplomat Felix S. Bloch had handed a briefcase to a Soviet agent.

Bloch has not been charged with any wrongdoing.

Donaldson said ABC's depiction of the alleged transaction easily could have led viewers to "believing that they had actually seen the event. And ... they might say, 'Well, I saw the dirty (explicative deleted) briefcase ... to a dirty Commie spy....' Well, no, they didn't. They didn't see that at all."

Fred Friendly, a former CBS News president, said: "This fooled everybody. A friend of mine looked at (ABC's Bloch story), and said he had no idea it was a simulation."

In the version of "World News Tonight" seen by most of its nearly 20 million viewers, the 10-second re-created scene was not labeled as staged.

Richard Wald, senior vice president of ABC News, defended the network's use of the re-enactment earlier this week. He did say the network made "a terrible mistake" in failing to label them consistently as simulations.

But other news officials said ABC's mistake wasn't just its failure to describe the segment as fabricated, but its decision to use a news re-creation in the first place.

"I think it's very dangerous. I think it was particularly unfortunate that they tried to fake the look of an FBI surveillance film," said Lawrence Grossman, a former NBC News president. "I just don't think the news divisions should be in the business of creating fiction, or fiction based on fact."

Ed Turner, executive vice president of the Cable News Network, said that CNN doesn't do "theater in the round. We don't do drama with actors."

Boxcar deaths...

Court allows families to hire own attorneys

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Families of three of the 18 Mexican men who suffocated inside a locked railroad boxcar two years ago have rejected an out-of-court settlement and are switching attorneys.

The families of Jose Cruz Perez, Zacarias Duron and Jose Antonio Ramos can fire their El Paso law firm and hire Reynaldo L. Diaz Jr. of San Antonio to represent them in their civil suit against Missouri-Pacific Railroad and Pacific Car & Foundry, District Judge Herb Marsh ruled Monday.

The other 15 families have come to an out-of-court settlement with the railroad. Marsh sealed the settlement and ordered parties not to divulge details.

All 18 families sued the railroad and boxcar maker soon after the men were found dead in a locked boxcar July 2, 1987. The men, all from central Mexico, had been smuggled across the border into the Missouri-Pacific freight yard in El Paso.

A smuggler locked the men inside the insulated boxcar that later was parked for hours in the desert sun at Sierra Blanca, Texas, about 90 miles east of El Paso. One of the 19 men who boarded the boxcar survived.

Eleven families hired an Albuquerque, N.M., attorney and seven hired Webb, Stokes, Sparks, Parker, Junell & Choate to file suits accusing the railroad of lax security and the boxcar maker of negligence by not providing inside emergency door latches.

Missouri-Pacific offered a $15,000 settlement to the families, said Carlos Viguera, an El Paso notary public and confidant of some of the families.

But the families of Cruz Perez, Duron and Ramos were dissatisfied with their representation because the attorneys neglected the case and pressured them to accept a settlement, said Jose Cruz Machain, a spokesman for the families.

Baylor lineman better following July injury

HOUSTON (AP) — A promising Baylor recruit known for his aggressive play on the football field has been fighting for his life in a Houston hospital after an apparent drive-by shooting left him in critical condition.

Hospital officials said Tuesday that Albert Greggs is finally showing improvement from his wound. But doctors were forced to amputate his right leg in an effort to save his life.

"We will honor his scholarship, but obviously, his football career is over," said Baylor coach Grant Teaff, who said he has been in touch with Greggs' family since learning about the July 15 shooting.

Greggs, who spent the past year working to improve his grades in preparation for his first season with the Bears, was shot in the abdomen while he stood outside an apartment complex near his Houston home, authorities said.

After more than a week on the critical list, his condition was upgraded to serious but stable Tuesday, hospital spokesman Ray Crowley said.

"It was quite a surprise and a shock to all of us," said Baylor recruiting coordinator Jerry Pickle.

"We really don't understand what happened but we do know that it's been a struggle for him just to stay alive."

The 6-foot-4, 320-pound lineman was one of the top players in the state during his senior year in 1987-88 and was heavily recruited by a number of college teams, said Coger Coverson, who coached Greggs throughout his career at Worthing High School.

"The whole thing is just terrible. He was highly motivated and he was one of the best offensive linemen I've ever been around," Coverson said.

"He was always a very good kid. He was one of the best kids we had on the team and was a real leader," he said.

"All the players respected him and the people in the school respected him. I think everybody is just shocked and they're still trying to find out what happened."

His parents declined to be interviewed Tuesday.

Greggs was unable to play football during his first year at Baylor because his grades were not good enough, Pickle said.

Snyder beats Tye; will move into final game with S'water

The Snyder Buffs Junior Teenage team scored three runs in the top of the first to take a lead they never relinquished in a semi-final matchup against the Tye Yankees in the district tournament in Sweetwater Tuesday.

Eric West started things out for the Buffs with a single. He then stole second and was pushed to third with a single from Richard Morris. Bobby Clinkinbeard reached on an error as West raced home for the game's first run.

Singles by John Conger, Raymond Ware, and Raymond House accounted for the balance of the Snyder offense in the opening stanza.

Buff's pitcher Raymond Ware was touched for a pair of hits in the first inning, singles from Scott Walker and Brad Bardin, but didn't allow a run as a base running mistake led to a run down of Walker between second and third to get him out of the inning.

The game got a little tighter in the second as the Snyder unit was put down in order and Tye drove in a run.

Tye's J.R. Riojas reached first on a fielders' choice, stole second and crossed the plate as Joe Silvas was allowed aboard on an error.

The scored remained at 3-1 going into the fifth inning when Snyder's David Patrick went to first after being hit by a pitch. Patrick moved to third on sacrifices by West and Morris and was driven in by Clinkinbeard's single to up the Buff's run total to four.

Tye scored two more runs in the bottom of the sixth a walk and a pair of errors to bring the game to a 4-3 tally going into the final inning.

Snyder scored a pair of insurance runs in the top of the seventh. With two outs, Morris walked and moved to second as Clinkinbeard was again allowed on via an error. Conger pounded a single deep to right-center to allow both base runners to score.

George Wellmaker of the Yankees led off the bottom half of the inning with a walk from Buffs' reliever David Patrick and was driven in by Bardin's double to end the scoring.

The Buffs play Sweetwater today at 5:30 p.m. in Sweetwater for the district championship.

Sweetwater had to beat Colorado City and Tye on Tuesday to advance to the finals. Colorado City fell to the hosts, 18-0, while Tye was victimized, 16-5.

The winner of the tournament will go on to the state tournament in Monahan's next week.

Oilers sign Munchak; Rozier still holds out

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers said Tuesday they have agreed to terms with veteran guard Mike Munchak on a three-year contract, reportedly worth nearly $2 million.

LL All-Stars to play Dixie

The Snyder Little League All-Stars head to Coleman Thursday to take on the Abilene Dixie squad for the District 5 championship in a 7:30 p.m. game.

Munchak, 29, a four-time Pro Bowler, is entering his eighth year with the Oilers.

The 6-3, 280-pound lineman was Houston's first-round pick and the eighth pick overall in 1982, and has started in 85 of his 86 games with the team.

The contract agreement, which has not yet been signed, came a day after Oilers owner K.S. "Bud" Adams issued an ultimatum regarding contract holdout Mike Rozier, the team's top running back.

Adams said Monday that the current contract offer would be withdrawn if Rozier did not accept it and report to training camp by Friday.

Snyder's Curt Rinehart pitched a no hitter and team mate Shae Sisson knocked a homer to lead the locals to a 28-0 win over Cisco Monday.

Abilene Dixie advanced to the finals by beating Coleman County, 5-1, Monday.

Snyder moves into the contest with an unblemished playoff record and Abilene has a single loss. The double elimination format of the tournament means that a Snyder win puts Abilene out of the competition. If Abilene Dixie wins the opening game on Thursday, then a second game between the two squads will be necessary.

The winner of the District 5 tournament will meet the winner of district 6 competition, which is comprised of Wichita Falls and surrounding areas, in a best two out of three playoff beginning July 31.

Rozier, who has played in two Pro Bowls, reportedly has been offered a deal worth $5.45 million and would make him one of the six highest-paid running backs in the NFL with an $850,000 salary for the 1989 season.

The disagreement over the five-year contract, none of which is said to be guaranteed, reportedly stems from money paid up front to Rozier.

Scott Norwood of Buffalo was the leading scorer of the NFL in 1988 with 129 points on 32 field goals and 33 extra points.

1989 Tax Rates in Western Texas College

This notice concerns 1989 property tax rates for Western Tex Coll.. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$ 1,751,825
+ Last year's debt taxes	$ -0-
= Last year's total taxes	$ 1,751,825
÷ Last year's tax base	$ 993,098,356
= Last year's total tax rate	$.1764 /$100

This year's effective tax rate:
Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$ 1,750,966
÷ This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting taxes on new property)	$ 899,324,275
= This year's effective tax rate	$.1964 /$100

A city that adopted the additional sales tax in a 1989 election must include the following lines:

- Sales tax adjustment rate	$ /$100
= Effective tax rate	$ /$100
× 1.03 = maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearing	$.2005 /$100

This year's rollback tax rate:

1989 Property Tax Rates in City of Snyder

This notice concerns 1989 property tax rates for CITY OF SNYDER. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$ 818,991
+ Last year's debt taxes	$
= Last year's total taxes	$ 818,991
÷ Last year's tax base	$ 256,014,973
= Last year's total tax rate	$.3199 /$100

This year's effective tax rate:
Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$ 816,307
÷ This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting taxes on new property)	$ 245,277,389
= This year's effective tax rate	$.3328 /$100

A city that adopted the additional sales tax in a 1989 election must include the following lines:

- Sales tax adjustment rate	$ /$100
= Effective tax rate	$ /$100
× 1.03 = maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearing	$.3427 /$100

This year's rollback tax rate:

÷ This year's adjusted tax base	$ 245,277,389
= This year's effective operating rate	$.3328 /$100
× 1.08 = this year's maximum operating rate	$.3594 /$100
+ This year's debt rate	$ -0- /$100
= This year's rollback rate	$.3594 /$100

A city that imposes the additional sales tax must include these lines, regardless of when it held the election:

Nolan Ryan fans 14 and still loses to Toronto's Blue Jays

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Nolan Ryan's curve ball against the Toronto Blue Jays was so good it was almost uncatchable, Texas Rangers catcher Chad Kreuter said.

The result was a 4-0 Toronto victory Tuesday night despite a club record 18 strikeouts by Ryan and two Texas relievers.

Ryan's curve ball was breaking so sharply that the Blue Jays twice made it to first after strikeouts — once on a passed ball and once on a wild pitch.

Kreuter was knocking down pitches all night, and the Blue Jays exploited the situation with four easy stolen bases.

"I did my job. He (Ryan) threw 10 or 12 pitches in the dirt. I blocked all of them. One got away where I couldn't find it," Kreuter said.

"His curve ball was unbelievable. If he wanted to strike out a guy at 0-2 or 1-2, he'd throw the curve in the dirt. It starts out waist high, and it's strike three," Kreuter said.

Toronto scored a run in the first inning even though Ryan didn't allow a hit or a walk. Centerfielder Cecil Espy dropped Junior Felix's pop fly for a two-base error, and Felix later scored on what would have been the third out when Kreuter let a strikeout pitch get away from him.

Ryan, 11-6, struck out 14, one short of his Rangers' club record, in six innings. But Toronto's Dave Stieb, 10-6, and two relievers combined for a 4-hitter that kept Texas at bay.

Duane Ward pitched the final 1 2-3 innings to get his 11th save.

The Blue Jays got two runs off four scattered hits Ryan gave up through six innings, then drove him from the game with Kelly Gruber's leadoff single in the seventh and George Bell's RBI double.

"Nolan always pitches well, and Dave pitched well tonight. Ward did an outstanding job. There was some good pitching on both sides," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said.

With the victory, the Blue Jays moved to within 4 1-2 games of Baltimore in the American League East.

"The bullpen pitched better. We're starting to get key hits, and we're playing better defense. We're just generally more consistent," Gaston added.

Texas manager Bobby Valentine came to Kreuter's defense.

"Ryan's breaking ball and change were really going down. I thought Chad did a yeoman's job. Those were tough pitches," Valentine said.

The Rangers threatened in the bottom of the first, when Scott Fletcher's single and Rafael Palmeiro's double put runners at second and third with one out. But Ruben Sierra's line drive was right at second baseman Nelson Liriano for a double play.

The Rangers got only two more hits the rest of the evening — a single in the eighth and a single in the ninth, both off Ward.

"Things didn't go right at the beginning, and we turned flat. Everybody but Nolan," Valentine added.

"Seems like we couldn't put the hits together. We got a runner on second and third, and we hit a line drive to second base for the double play. That's two runs if it's either side of him or a little higher," Valentine said.

Asked if he would have thought Toronto could have won a game in which Ryan struck out 14, Gruber said: "Absolutely not. We didn't win it in a pretty way. But anytime you can beat a Nolan Ryan, you take it any way you can."

The victory evened Toronto's record at 50-50.

"We feel we're within catching distance," Blue Jays catcher Ernie Whitte said. "It's nice to be at .500. It's a starting point. To be 4 1-2 games out after playing so poorly is a definite plus."

Allez France was the first filly in racing to win $1 million in purses, reaching that sum in 1974.

In the first major match race between thoroughbreds in the United States, American Eclipse defeated Sir Charles in 1822.

Destroyin' Daryl impressing coaches during Pokes' camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Daryl Johnston rolls into right guard, breaks three tackles, and is finally bulldozed down from behind. Who is this guy wearing No. 38 in the Dallas Cowboys' uniform, Larry Csonka reincarnate?

Orangemen, is expected to take some of the load off running back Herschel Walker.

"We didn't just draft him to be a big old fat guard in the backfield," said running back coach Joe Brodsky. "We think he can be an offensive threat."

Johnston's pass receiving has caught the eye of coach Jimmy Johnson.

"He has shown outstanding hands and to be honest I didn't know he could catch the ball like he does," Johnson said. "I think ole DJ has a realistic chance at winning a starting job."

Veteran Timmy Newsome returns along with Darryl Clack and Todd Fowler. Newsome is a good receiver but somewhat slow on runs and just an average blocker.

"We felt fullback was one of the major needs coming in," Cowboys' offensive coordinator David Shula said. "We have some age in there and we need to upgrade that position."

Johnston said he knows a lot is being expected of him.

"I guess I'm a throwback to fullbacks years ago," he said. "I'm the old style fullback, straight ahead runner, and a blocker. But I also have another weapon because I can catch the ball."

John Wooten, who has recently replaced Gil Brandt as the Cowboys' scouting director, says Johnston just might be another Csonka, the former All-Pro for the Miami Dolphins.

Wooten says of his second round draft pick from Syracuse: "He reminds you of Csonka (who also played at Syracuse) because the first or second guy seldom takes him down."

Johnston also has impressed with his blocking ability and pass catching in early Cowboys' training camp drills.

"He blocks extremely well, in fact, he takes a lot of pride in it," Wooten said.

During his career at Syracuse, Johnston once broke eight tackles in making a 19-yard touchdown run against West Virginia.

"He just moves you back when he runs," Wooten said.

Johnston is the highest Syracuse running back drafted since Csonka was selected by the Miami Dolphins in the first round in 1968.

Johnston, who rushed for 645 yards and scored five touchdowns last year for the

Alvarez will stay within organization

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Despite 19-year-old Wilson Alvarez's abbreviated major league appearance, scouts say the young pitcher will anchor the Rangers staff of the 1990s.

On Tuesday, barely a day after Alvarez made his major league debut, the Rangers announced they had optioned Alvarez to Tulsa, their Class AA affiliate, and purchased the contract of righthander Paul Wilmet from triple-A Oklahoma City.

The left-handed pitcher who became the youngest in the majors, lasted only 26 pitches in the Rangers' 6-3 loss to the Toronto Blue Jays. He didn't even get an out.

"This was my first time, and the experience is going to help me out a whole lot when I go on," Alvarez said Monday, before the demotion was announced.

Although the organization lost confidence in Alvarez after one game, the Rangers aren't ready to give up on him just yet.

"I'd say his fastball was outstanding," said manager Bobby Valentine. "They didn't even put his fastball in play. Nobody got around on his fastball."

But that was of little consolation to the native of Maracaibo, Venezuela, who was called up from Tulsa on Friday when Charlie Hough went on the 15-day disabled list with soreness in his right shoulder.

Laufenberg may hold mark for 'Turk' visits

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The NFL doesn't keep records for being released from teams, but if they did Babe Laufenberg would be the "King of the Cuts."

The NFL "Turk" has called on Laufenberg eight times in his quarterbacking career. Four different teams have applied the machete.

All these chops have happened in just five short years since Laufenberg left the land of the Indiana Hoosiers. Laufenberg started out at Stanford, but left when someone named John Elway appeared on campus.

"I saw him throw 50-yard out passes and started looking for the door," Laufenberg laughed. "I could see that guy couldn't miss."

Only the travel agency has Laufenberg's permanent address.

"It's been an interesting career, and it's just barely started," Laufenberg said. "The first cut I got was devastating, but nothing phases me anymore."

Laufenberg is now wearing the colors of the Dallas Cowboys, his fifth NFL team. He's the one in the beard trying to beat out youngsters Troy Aikman, Steve Walsh, and Scott Secules.

The 29-year-old Laufenberg has played for New Orleans, Washington, Kansas City and San Diego. He's started a grand total of six NFL games. For San Diego he completed 47.9 percent of his passes for 778 yards with four touchdowns and five interceptions.

He was taken in the 1983 sixth round by Washington and stayed there until 1985. He was sent to San Diego, then cut.

Laufenberg was watching "Monday Night Football" in a bar in a Mexican village when he saw Joe Theismann's career-ending broken leg. Laufenberg returned to Washington, where he finished the 1985 season with the Redskins.

He was cut again and New Orleans picked him up for four days. He was released, but was re-signed and then released again.

Kansas City signed him and released him, as did Washington again.

The Chargers let him go last year. Ironically, Laufenberg threw three touchdown passes to beat Dallas 24-21 in a preseason game.

"I know I'm being counted out again, but I'm used to it," Laufenberg said. "I'm feeling stronger than at any time in my career, and I think they can use my experience. It's hard to play in the NFL without it. And I'm the only one on this team who has it."

Laufenberg wants a starting role, not just a job.

"I don't want to grab the last (third) spot," he said. "I really believe I can play in this league. If I didn't, I'd be doing something else."

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said Laufenberg is a long shot, but "has some experience and that should help his chances."

The Cowboys' gypsy quarterback said he doesn't watch the bullet passes thrown by Aikman and the other contenders in practice.

"I just concentrate on my own game," he said. "It's a long, long way until the final cut in September."

He added: "I know anything can happen because just about everything has happened to me. I've adopted Harrison Ford's motto — Sometimes survival is winning."

House launches budget attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic-controlled House is launching a budget-slashing attack against the stealth bomber, saying the radar-evading aircraft is too expensive.

Deep cuts by the House in the stealth program would set up an eventual conflict with the Senate, which voted 98-1 Tuesday to back the $500 million B-2 bomber if it meets flight test and radar-evasion standards.

The Senate amendment trimmed President Bush's $2.1 billion stealth request by a relatively modest $300 million, a reduction already endorsed by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Meanwhile, the House, clearly in a budget-cutting mood, voted Tuesday to reduce by nearly $2 billion Bush's $4.9 billion request for Star Wars.

The House scheduled votes on three alternatives for the future of the stealth program. The first would accept an $800 million cut made by the House Armed Services Committee.

A second would scrap the program after this year, allowing only the 13 bombers already in production to be completed. That would represent a $40 billion cut in anticipated total spending.

A third amendment, which House Speaker Thomas Foley said will likely prevail, calls on the administration to propose a cheaper program than the Bush administration's $70 billion plan to build 132 stealth bombers. It would limit the number of planes built to two bombers in 1990 and 1991 instead of the eight sought by the administration.

The House also was to consider amendments to eliminate the MX missile and the competing single-warhead Midgetman missile, both of which are supported by the White House.

Rep. John Rowland, R-Conn., said lobbying by the White House, the Air Force and Northrop Corp., manufacturer of the stealth, has diminished chances that the program will be scuttled.

"It's tough when the president weighs in," Rowland said, adding that he is counting on only 130 to 140 votes in the 435-member House on his bill to scrap the stealth.

National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft told senators in a letter Tuesday that cuts in the stealth program could undermine progress in hammering out a strategic arms reduction treaty with Moscow.

Delaying the program "would seriously undermine our capability to negotiate from a position of strength," Scowcroft said. "Even worse, should the program eventually be canceled, it would force us toward a major restructuring of our negotiating position."

The Senate was to resume full debate on the defense bill Thursday.

The administration has requested $1.1 billion for the MX missile on railroad cars and $100 million for development of the Midgetman. Both the Senate and House Armed Services committees approved the administration's request.

Auto towed after wreck

A car had to be towed from the scene of a two-vehicle collision at 1:55 p.m. Tuesday in the 3100 Block of College Ave.

Police said a 1988 GMC pickup driven by Burl J. Belew of Rt. 1, Fluvanna, was in collision with a 1987 Pontiac driven by Patricia E. Rosas of Box 522, Snyder, after which the Rosas car had to be towed.

Rosas later appeared at the Cogdell Memorial Emergency Room for treatment. She was not admitted, however.

Arrest noted

A sheriff's deputy arrested a 58-year-old man for probation violation at 2:25 p.m. Tuesday at the sheriff's office.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace prevented the integration of Tuskegee High School in 1963 by encircling the building with state troopers.

Plans are being completed for the third annual Payne-Seven Wells reunion in Colorado City.

The gathering for the two Mitchell County communities will be Aug. 5 in the C.C. Thompson Room of City National Bank.

Visiting and registration will get underway at 9:30 a.m. and continue through the afternoon. A brief memorial service and business session will begin at 11 a.m.

principal at Snyder Junior High.

At this campus, he helped implement curriculum and scheduling changes with the aim of improving the quality of education.

Among these, he notes the appointment of department chairmen for science, social studies, English and math; developing a composition course for all eighth grade students, the implementation of tutoring for both TEAMS and CTBS tests; and reassigning seventh grade athletics as an after-school activity to allow greater student leeway to enroll in extracurricular classes.

During his time at junior high, he also assisted with a major renovation project spearheaded by the campus parent council to place the campus patio area back into use.

Other accomplishments he cited include the initiation of an orientation session for incoming seventh graders and their parents and an annual junior high open house.

In addition to his school work, Anderson is the author of two books about historical Scurry County, "In Search of the Buffalo," the story of J. Wright Mooar, and "Deep Creek Merchant," dealing with Snyder namesake Pete Snyder.

He has written several magazine articles for such publications as Texas Outlook, Texas Scenes and Good Old Days magazine, as well as poems in the World of Poetry and American Bard Magazine.

He has been active in the community as well as his church, currently serving as an elder for 37th St. Church of Christ. He is a past president of the Scurry County Historical Commission and served as the chairman for the county's Texas Sesquicentennial Committee. He is a member also of the Scurry County Museum Association.

His educational affiliations include a lifetime membership in TSTA and the National Education Association. He was an NEA delegate to its national conventions in Atlantic City and New York and has filled various other offices for TSTA on the local, district and state level.

He is a former member of the Texas Elementary Principals Association and a current member of the Texas Association of Secondary Principals.

He and his wife, Margie, have two sons, Marcus of Abilene and Chuck of Abilene, and one granddaughter.

Cabbages apparently are for kings, not babies. According to the Beech-Nut Nutrition Corp., cabbages and brussel sprouts are not good for babies because they can interfere with the infant's ability to use the essential mineral, iodine, necessary for growth.

Residents of toxic trailer park angry

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Rose Douglas' son played with a yellowish resin near their mobile home and ate vegetables grown from her garden.

On Tuesday, the federal government confirmed what she had feared for most of the 9½ years she'd lived at the Forest Glen trailer park: The site is heavily polluted with carcinogenic chemical wastes.

Like the situation in nearby Love Canal 10 years ago, the government said the site poses "a significant risk to human health." It is offering to pay to relocate temporarily some 51 families under a voluntary program.

Echoing the comments of many of the 150 or so people living on the 11-acre site, Douglas wants out. But she wants the government to pay for a permanent move.

"If it's that bad that they have to temporarily relocate us, why not just buy us out?" she asked.

A Federal Environmental Protection Agency spokesman, Richard Salkie, said the contamination is so pervasive he thinks every resident eventually will have to leave for good.

"Any further remedial action could not be performed without totally disrupting the trailers that might remain," he said.

The trailer park is located just north of a landfill operated by CECOS International Inc., a hazardous-waste disposal company.

Toxic wastes and carcinogenic industrial compounds such as aniline, phenothiazine and benzothiazole have been found in the soil and ground water at the site. Officials described the materials as cancer-causing byproducts of chemical production.

EPA official Joseph Rotola said no evidence exists that Forest Glen was a recognized landfill at any time, but aerial photos and the accounts of longtime residents indicate the land was previously used to bury chemical wastes.

Before residents can be permanently relocated, the site must be placed on the EPA's Superfund National Priorities List, Salkie said. He said the EPA will ask the federal Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry to issue a public health advisory, the first step toward inclusion on the list.

On Tuesday, that agency released a preliminary assessment that found "significant" health risks in the park.

Forest Glen is several miles from the Love Canal neighborhood, which was declared a national environmental disaster in 1978.

State health officials originally evacuated 237 families whose homes were built on or adjacent to Love Canal. The state later offered to buy homes in a 10-block area around the former Occidental Chemical Corp. dump.

Salkie refused to identify which of a half-dozen chemical companies near Forest Glen are being investigated for contaminating the site, saying officials haven't determined who put what in the ground.

Federal officials predicted there would be considerable resistance to temporary relocation.

Douglas agreed, saying residents were "very upset, scared and very confused" at being offered only temporary help.

Officials had few answers Tuesday. Salkie said it would be months before a decision was made on the site's fate.

Douglas said residents have been aware of contaminants for years, particularly after sewer and power lines were dug into the site.

Bush sets lofty goals for U.S. space program

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Why the moon? Why Mars?" asked President Bush. "Because it is humanity's destiny to strive, to seek, to find."

And, he might have added, "not to yield."

That, at least, is how Tennyson phrased it in "Ulysses," the poem that served as a source of inspiration for Bush's speechwriters on the 20th anniversary of man's first steps on the moon.

Bush enunciated lofty goals for a U.S. space program falter on harder times since its Apollo glory days.

First a space station, then back to the moon, "and then a journey into tomorrow ... a manned mission to Mars," declared the president, standing beside the graying heroes of Apollo 11, Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin and Michael Collins.

If royalties were payable on 19th century poems, the heirs of Alfred Lord Tennyson would be raking in money. "Ulysses" is one of the most widely quoted poems in the language, a favorite of politicians and English teachers alike. Its ringing rhetoric fits many occasions from high school graduations to affairs of state.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher used the phrase — "to strive, to seek, to find" — in welcoming Ronald Reagan back from a summit in Moscow with Mikhail Gorbachev in 1988.

Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts borrowed the same words in a dramatic speech at the 1980 Democratic National Convention in New York conceding victory to Jimmy Carter. Had he but time enough, there was more that Bush might have borrowed from this archly romantic poem about the wily warrior of Greek myth.

It is a poem about Ulysses not in his prime, not in his myriad of misadventures on the circuitous, 20-year route home from the Trojan wars, but about the ennui that settled in after he has been back in Ithaca for a few years.

Scholars differ on whether Tennyson intended to lionize this geriatric adventurer — or debunk his dreams.

Walesa will not join governing coalition

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — After rejecting President Wojciech Jaruzelski's offer to join a governing coalition, Solidarity leader Lech Walesa said he intends to form a shadow Cabinet and prepare for "inevitable" control of the government.

He said he told Poland's Communist chief during a two-hour meeting Tuesday that the "bold solution" to Poland's leadership crisis would be for the ruling Communists to let the free trade union movement govern.

Solidarity-backed candidates won all but one of the seats they were allowed to contest in June parliamentary elections.

Walesa said "everything indicates" the Communists are still unwilling to surrender power to the popular movement they tried to crush in December 1981 with martial law.

"For my part, I intend to form a shadow Cabinet to prepare for the solution that sooner or later will become inevitable," he said in making public a statement he gave Jaruzelski.

Walesa said his private talks with Gen. Jaruzelski were "very interesting" but did not produce any agreement.

He said Jaruzelski, who has led the country for eight years as Communist Party first secretary and was elected by parliament last week to the newly powerful presidency, has not yet decided what government to nominate.

Walesa said he would not stand in the way of Solidarity members accepting appointments as government ministers, but that they would be acting as individuals.

He told reporters the union fears it would not have enough strength within a governing coalition to force through its own policies, but would be held accountable by the public for government decisions anyway.

"We are remaining an opposition that will ensure that the government does not leave the path of reforms," Walesa told a brief news conference.

He added: "It will be more comfortable for us in the opposition because we will focus on making sure that the path of reforms is kept, and not on other things for which we are not yet mature."

Tuesday was not the first time Communist authorities had asked Solidarity to join a governing coalition.

The government negotiated Solidarity's April reinstatement, many believe, because it desperately needs to cooperation of the opposition if it is to revive the country's crippled economy.

1989 Property Tax Rates in Ira Independent School District

This notice concerns 1989 property tax rates for Ira Independent School District. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Charged with selling bad juice

CHICAGO (AP) — A company sold millions of cases of orange juice as 100 percent pure but had substituted beet sugar, waste water and other products in violation of federal law, the government said in an indictment.

The government said those substitutes accounted for 15 percent to 40 percent of the orange juice concentrate sold by the now defunct Bodine's Inc. of Chicago from 1978 to 1985.

The federal indictment announced Tuesday charges two former owners and a top executive of the orange juice company with conspiracy.

The indictment cites 18 instances in which beet sugar, corn sugar, monosodium glutamate, grapefruit solids and other substitutes were used in the orange juice concentrate in violation of the federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, said U.S. Attorney Anton Valukas.

The company increased its annual sales from $5 million to $100 million over the same period, the indictment said. About the same time, concentrated orange juice solid cost $1.29 per pound, compared with 29 cents a pound for beet sugar.

The Food and Drug Administration began its probe of the company in the early 1980s, after a customer suffered a negative reaction to the sugar content in a can of juice, Valukas said.

Between 1983 and 1985, about 7 million cases of products were produced for sale nationwide to more than 150 supermarket chains and wholesalers under 50 different labels. Among the best know labels were Scot Brand, Heritage House and Red Owl.

"There are no allegations that consumers were at risk as a result of the substitutions ... even though they used, at times, the waste water stream from a distillation system," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Pierre Talbert. "Obviously, though, they were able to undersell their competition."

Named in the indictment were Bodine's former owners, Edward Boden Sr. and Edward Boden Jr., both of Chicago; and Roger Walsh Jr., formerly vice president of finance and now a Texas resident. If convicted, all three face a maximum of 57 years in prison and $4.75 million in fines.

Roger Walsh Sr., a former chief executive officer of Bodine's who held a 20 percent share of the company, also was named as an unindicted co-conspirator.

The manufacturing operation, located on the city's West Side, was sold in 1987 to McCain O.J. Inc. Talbert said McCain was not connected to the scheme alleged in the indictment.

Bentsen remains cautiously optimistic

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas senator remained cautiously optimistic after the super collider won $225 million in 1990 funding from the Senate Appropriations Committee.

"We have one more hurdle to get over before we can be assured construction will begin next year," Democratic Sen.

Railey custody case...

Judge opens records

DALLAS (AP) — There is no need for the records detailing a custody agreement involving a former Methodist minister's two children to be kept secret from the public, a judge has ruled.

State District Judge Joe Koons made the ruling Tuesday in the case of the children of Walker Railey, former minister of the First Methodist Church of Dallas.

Railey, whose wife was attacked and choked nearly to death on April 21, 1987, had relinquished custody of the children June 27, turning them over to the custody of friends Diane and John Yarrington.

The Yarringtons have been taking care of the children since Railey's wife, Margaret "Peggy" Railey was attacked in the garage of her home. She is now confined to a Tyler nursing home and has been diagnosed as being in a vegetative state.

No charges have been filed in the case, but a lawyer for Railey has said Dallas Police identify him as the prime suspect.

A Dallas television station filed a motion last week seeking public access to the records, including details on visitation rights and child support obligations.

Railey's lawyer sought to prevent KDFW-TV from gaining access to the records.

The station sought access to the Lloyd Bentsen said after Tuesday's action.

The unanimous vote to approve the Energy and Water Appropriations Act was considered one of the super collider's last legislative hurdles. The full Senate could begin debate on collider funding Thursday.

Bentsen's Texas colleague, records, claiming they were covered by the Texas Open Records law.

In attempting to keep the records sealed, Railey claimed the documents must be kept sealed to protect the children "from harassment, ridicule, shame, abuse or injury which could probably result from further media intrusion into their lives."

Railey also said in the motion that the children have been traumatized by the events of the past two years and need "peace, quiet, nurturing and healing rather than additional turmoil."

Lawyer John McShane, who represents the former minister, said he and a lawyer representing the Yarringtons will likely appeal the ruling.

Judge Koons said the records could be opened to the public Aug. 31, giving lawyers a chance to appeal his ruling.

A judge ruled against Railey, who now lives in California, in a civil suit last December, holding him financially liable for the attack on his wife and ordered him to pay $18 million in damages.

In a sworn deposition, Railey said he has no assets to pay the judgment and is only making about $1,000 per month as a "glorified secretary" for a California aerospace firm.

Republican Phil Gramm, called Tuesday's vote the biggest step in the legislative process for the collider, which is to be built in Ellis County south of Dallas.

"We will have a groundbreaking sometime after Oct. 1 on the most important scientific project to be built anywhere in the world," Gramm predicted.

Bentsen said an amendment might be offered during the committee meeting regarding foreign funding of the collider. No amendment was offered, however, and few members of the appropriations panel expressed opposition to the project.

Sen Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, shelved a plan he made public last week to attempt to delay funding until the U.S. Energy Department secured contributions from foreign nations interested in participating in the project.

But Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said the collider might be headed for the same fate as the ill-fated Sunfuels Corp. and Clinch River breeder reactor, two federal projects the government abandoned after investing millions of dollars.

President Bush asked for $250 million to begin construction on the collider, but the House approved only $200 million.

Many Texas congressional leaders viewed Senate approval as the largest obstacle to collider funding, but Bentsen said, "Things have gone better than any of us expected so far."

El-Paso added to list of summit hopefuls

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — El Paso is now in the hunt to bag the 1990 world economic summit.

Mayor Suzie Azar wrote a letter Tuesday to President Bush to ask him to consider holding the summit in El Paso, the state's fourth-largest city, with a population of about 550,000. Houston, Dallas and San Antonio already have expressed interest. Bush hinted last week at the conclusion of this year's summit in Paris that next year's might be in Texas.

In a five-paragraph letter, Mrs. Azar wrote: "Since the focus for the next world economic summit will address the conditions of the Third World, El Paso best exemplifies the contrast and symbiotic relationship between two economic strata."

She was referring to El Paso's relationship with neighboring Ciudad Juarez, Mexico. Juarez, a booming industrial city with a population of about 1.2 million, is relatively wealthy by Mexican standards but desperately poor by American standards.

The mayor said she thinks El Paso has a chance of being chosen.

"We do have some close friends of George Bush in town, which helps," she said. "But most importantly, we are a border community, which offers a different perspective than just being a major city."

Two factors counting against El Paso are its status as a Democratic stronghold and the availability of hotel rooms. El Paso has about 1,800 hotel rooms that are routinely used for conventions.

The last time a sitting president visited El Paso was Sept. 25, 1964, when Lyndon Johnson met Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos to celebrate the signing of a treaty that ended a century-old boundary dispute.
