Museum to celebrate 15th anniversary

Scurry County Museum, observing its 15th year on the Western Texas College campus, will open three special exhibits Sunday, Oct. 15, in honor of the anniversary.

The date follows White Buffalo Days, an annual event which takes place on Saturday.

Western art by Charles Pruitt of Midland and sculpture by Charlie Boren of Burleson will be featured at the museum, along with exhibits concerning its history in a month-long show.

As part of the anniversary observance, the museum will sponsor a Mexican food buffet in the college cafeteria on Oct. 15. Serving is planned from 12:30 until 2 p.m. Tickets are $6.95 for adults and $5.95 for children 12 and under and may be purchased at the museum or chamber of commerce. All proceeds will go to the museum.

"We want this observance to honor all those who worked so hard to make Scurry County Museum a reality," said Shirley Leftwich, museum director. "It's been so interesting to look back at photos and news stories about the people who were involved in the museum. We feel the museum's success is a tribute to all of them as well as an asset to our community."

The museum was first opened on Aug. 20, 1972, in a 32-foot square room in the WTC Resource Center. More than 2,700 visitors signed the museum room's guest register during its first year and more than 500 students came from local schools.

Exhibits which had been prepared for the museum room were the foundation for the exhibits ready when the new building opened in August of 1974. The building was one of the few in West Texas built especially for use as a museum, providing 14,000 square feet on two levels, including a permanent display gallery and a multi-purpose area where temporary and traveling exhibits can be shown.

A dedication program for the building was held Oct. 10, 1976 during the Bi-centennial celebration. The museum received accreditation from the American Association of Museums in April of 1980 and is also a member of the Texas Association of Museums.

The museum will also open for tour from 8:30 until 10 a.m. on Oct. 14, to coincide with White Buffalo Days.

Q—Is there a law to prohibit parking travel trailers in front of residences on the street for long periods of time?

A—No such law could be found in city ordinances, except that enough room must be left that vehicular traffic in the street is not obstructed.

Drug speech

GROESBECK, Texas (AP) — Regarding the president's "War on Drugs," the folks of Limestone County got together and told Bush where to go — Groesbeck, of course.

They say their county seat is a fine example of community work to eradicate illegal drugs and they want the chief executive to see the results for himself.

"The president has targeted an area that we're concerned about here," said Mexia school superintendent Bob Funderburk. "We are, in a way, exemplary of what he's asking the nation to do."

Sidon closed

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — The International Committee of the Red Cross suspended operations in this southern port city today after two Swiss relief workers were kidnapped, a Red Cross official said.

"Our operations have been suspended in Sidon pending the release of our two abducted comrades," said Mohammed Bizri, the Lebanese representative of the Red Cross in Sidon.

Hospital woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate plan to revive ailing rural hospitals would provide $3.5 million in relief for Texas next year, but the overall cost of the Senate Finance Committee's Medicare package would end up costing the state $68.3 million, according to an industry analysis.

Officials of the Texas Hospital Association say Texas hospitals also will be underpaid by Medicare, the government's health insurance program for the elderly and disabled, by $290 million next year.

School attendance up for first week of ADA

Snyder Public Schools average daily attendance was up one-half percent from the first week a year ago, Lavada Cates, administrative secretary, said Friday afternoon.

The average daily attendance, which the Texas Education Agency uses to allocate funds, is being taken from Oct. 2 through Oct. 27. For the first week, or Oct. 2 through Oct. 6, Snyder public schools had a 97.6 percent attendance rate.

Last year at the same time, 97.1 percent of the students enrolled were accounted for.

The main increase occurred at the high school and junior high.

Nelson will perform at school auditorium

Charles Nelson, nationally known bass baritone, will perform at Worsham Auditorium in an admission-free program sponsored by the Snyder High School Fine Arts Department.

The performance is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday in Worsham Auditorium.

Local soprano Melanie Smith, Snyder Junior High choral director, will also sing on the program. She will be accompanied by Pam Gibson.

Last year, those two campuses experienced 95 percent attendance during the first week. This year, the high school reported 96.55 percent attendance while the junior high reported 96.55 percent.

"It's good. Ninety-seven percent is really good," said Cates, who noted that normal attendance is 93 percent throughout the school year. "We just hope it gets better and better."

After reading Charles' resume and hearing him sing, it could well be possible that Byron is pleased in being referred to as Charles' brother."

Nelson, who is presently artist-in-residence at Abilene Christian University, has performed with over 50 symphony orchestras throughout the country, including the Atlanta Symphony, Nashville Symphony, Memphis Symphony, Dallas Symphony and Houston Symphony. He performed the role of Christus in Bach's St. John Passion in Los Angeles. With the Dallas Symphony Chorus, he was bass soloist in a production of Bach's B Minor Mass in St. Stephens Cathedral in Vienna, Austria, and also sang in St. Thomas Church in Leipzig and Salzburg.

As a recitalist, Nelson has performed at Carnegie Hall in New York and Kennedy Center in Washington. He has sung in recitals at colleges and universities in 20 states over the past two years.

Board accepts resignation; approves staff replacement

The resignation of Dr. Buerk Williams, radiologist, from the medical staff of Cogdell Memorial Hospital was acknowledged Friday by the hospital's board of managers, which then approved the addition of Dr. Sherman H. Merritt of Colorado City to the staff to replace him.

Dr. Williams' resignation will become effective Oct. 29, and Dr. Merritt will work here daily, primarily in the mornings, to whatever extent is necessary "to meet our needs," hospital administrator Thomas Hochwalt said.

Hochwalt said Merritt will also maintain practices in Colorado City and Lamesa and that he is committed to working here daily from 7:30 to 10:30 a.m. and to returning in the afternoons if needed.

Hochwalt said the arrangement with the radiologist will be permanent.

Dr. Williams came here in May, 1985, from Big Spring. He is leaving to join the staff of Harris Hospital Northwest at Azle, a Fort Worth suburb.

Williams said his involvement in the establishment of Cogdell's mammography suite, for which the hospital auxiliary raised $64,000 in late 1986, is the achievement here of which he has been most proud.

He said the suite "is one of the finest anywhere, that I know of."

Other business in the one-hour meeting included Hochwalt's report that the hospital Thursday received its first payment, $87,000, for medical services to the Price Daniel Unit in July and August.

He said the hospital expects to

The meeting was also attended by board president Dan Cotton and members Jim Palmer, Brenda Hedges, who replaced Hall, and Roy McQueen.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A true friend is the person who walks in when the whole world walks out."

Now that football season is underway, we're reminded of some advice given by Bear Bryant, the legendary Alabama football coach, on how to motivate people.

In order to lift some up, and to calm others down, the Bear had just three things to say:

- If anything goes bad, I did it.
- If anything goes semi-good, then we did it.
- If anything goes real good, then you did it.

That philosophy will do more than just win football games—it can work for a family, a business or a community.

Jim Erwin, principal at East Elementary, said one of his teachers was playing a word game with her class. She gave them the answer and asked them to supply the question.

Looking for the word "Magnet," the teacher gave the clue by saying the word begins with the letter M and it picks things up.

Almost immediately, a student raised his hand and gave this answer, "What is mother?"

Tony Degrate putting the NFL behind him

It's taken awhile, but native son shakes off disappointment

By BILL MCCLELLAN
SDN Managing Editor

Tony Degrate was about as high as any individual can get. Despite a mediocre senior season at Snyder High School in 1981, Degrate quickly rose to stardom with a scholarship to the University of Texas. He was a two-time all-American defensive Degrate, who seemed to have the world at his feet, anything but a high pick was humiliating.

"I stopped watching after the second round," Degrate recalls today. "I know Jerry Gray (another UT All-American and defensive co-captain along with Degrate) was supposed to be one of the top two or three players in the draft. When he went No. 21, I challenge. But my mind was on how much money I would get. I was depressed. I felt sorry for myself," says Degrate.

Despondent, he missed the second of two mini camps staged by Cincinnati that year and reported in 15 pounds overweight.

It didn't help his psyche either that his Lombardi-Award-to-mid-round-draft-pick plummet got a gave up on him.

A month later, Green Bay picked him up and he played in his first and only regular-season ballgame. But an injury at another position forced the Packers to shift their lineup and acquire another player on waivers, and Degrate was gone a week later.

His final shot in the NFL came tackle for the Longhorns, winner of the Lombardi Award for the nation's best collegiate lineman and an almost certain high draft choice by the National Football League. He had already turned down a three-year, $2.5 million contract to play for the USFL's Tampa Bay Bandits.

Then, it all ended. As Degrate watched the televised 1985 draft, his heart sank. Along with it, his pride. The first round went by. Then the second, third and fourth. He was chosen unceremoniously in the fifth round by the Cincinnati Bengals.

Being drafted at all would be a dream come true for most kids from a small town. But for thought, "Oh, boy, this may be a long day." As the rounds went by, my dreams sunk more and more.

That was in 1985, and now, in 1989, Degrate is managing to put it all behind him. He's ready to concentrate on his admitted "second love," drawing.

"I'm cautiously optimistic," said Degrate, who has three interviews scheduled with graphic design companies in Austin. "I'm looking forward to it."

It's taken Degrate four years to get back some of the pride he lost after being seemingly shunned in the draft.

"Everybody was telling me it was a great situation for me. They told me to look on it as a lot of media attention.

"I got more attention because I was drafted in the fifth round and was the Lombardi Award winner," he remembers. "Of course, I wasn't especially thrilled with all the press I was getting about being drafted in the fifth round."

Though he says Bengals coach Sam Wyche encouraged him on an almost daily basis, Degrate was unable to shake off his depression and return to the form that had made him an All-American.

"I decided I wasn't as good as I thought I was. So I played like a fifth rounder. Cincinnati had high hopes for me."

He made it to the next-to-the-last cut before the Bengals finally in 1986, when he spent April through September with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Again, he was unable to find the fire in himself. Pride — or lack of it — got the best of him again.

The Friday before the 1985 Tuesday draft, Degrate was offered a multi-million dollar contract to play for the Tampa Bay Bandits. With some hesitation, he turned it down.

"I had always been told I would be a high-round draft choice and my heart was sold with the NFL," he says. "Looking back, I think that meeting hurt, because some NFL teams thought I had signed and they lost interest."

Other decisions — some on the advice of football-playing friends — may not have been best, either, he admits. He didn't run for time in an NFL combine and he decided to skip the Senior Bowl. Texas' poor finish — losing its final four games and the Freedom Bowl after being ranked as high as No. 1 in the nation — may also have hurt his chances at a higher draft shot.

It's taken time, but Degrate is finally beginning to put the past behind him.

"I do feel good about what I accomplished," he muses. "It's even more gratifying that I made the all-time, all-Southwest Conference Team (released this year). To realize your peers feel that much about you is unbelievable. Most of the guys on that list played in the NFL."

"A lot of people didn't think I would make it (in college ball). I had my doubts too. A positive influence set in and it felt like the world was open to me," he adds.

His collegiate success on the field also helped another of his favorite endeavors — art. But time limitations collided with that success.

"I had opportunities to have numerous art shows. I said I wanted to do it but I didn't do it," Degrate recalls. "I blew so many opportunities. I had a chance to study in France. I didn't take ad-

Bette Davis, winner of 2 Oscars, dies at 81

NEW YORK (AP) — Bette Davis, whose soulful eyes inspired song decades after her tough demeanor helped create the film image of the independent woman, has died of cancer, her longtime attorney said Saturday. The two-time Academy Award winner was 81.

Miss Davis died Friday night in a Paris hospital, said attorney Harold Schiff.

The actress, who lived in West Hollywood, Calif., was traveling through Paris on her way home from the San Sebastian Film Festival in Spain, where she was honored for a lifetime of achievement.

Miss Davis — who appeared in more than 80 films, including "Jezebel," "All About Eve," and "Of Human Bondage" — died after a battle with breast cancer that began after a 1983 mastectomy, Schiff said.

"What a loss," said actress Olivia de Havilland, who worked with Miss Davis in four films including the 1964 "Hush, Hush Sweet Charlotte."

"She was a remarkable person to work with, highly professional, innovative, brilliant and quick," said Miss de Havilland, 73, who lives in Paris.

Vincent Price, who worked with Miss Davis on "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex" in 1939 and "Whales of August" in 1987, said in Los Angeles, "There are very few people left who really sum up the motion picture industry, who had that star quality."

"She had extraordinary energy; she was a genius," Price said.

Miss Davis was nominated for Academy Awards 10 times and won two best actress Oscars, for "Dangerous" in 1935 and "Jezebel" in 1938. She won an Emmy in 1979 for the television production "Strangers — The Story of a Mother and Daughter."

At a Sept. 21 news conference in San Sebastian, she joked about co-stars James Stewart — "I never should have let him get away" — and Ronald Reagan — "He never had much talent but as President he restored patriotism for Americans."

Of her expressive eyes, she said, "It's my basic facial feature and what communicated to the camera."

Her screen heroines were often strong women — as uncompromising as the actress was off-screen and on the set, according to those who worked with her.

"The person who wants to make it has to sweat," she said once. "There are no short cuts. And you've got to have the guts to be hated. That's the hardest part."

She once suggested the lines for her own epitaph: "Bette Davis — She Did It the Hard Way." That included her 1985 comeback from the mastectomy, a stroke and a broken hip in quick succession.

Her success story was one of Hollywood's most unlikely tales. Lacking the looks of a traditional Hollywood glamour girl, the skinny youngster with the huge eyes relied on her acting skill and took roles nobody else wanted, playing nasty women more often than nice ones.

"My entire career was never based on looks or glamour or sex," she once said. "It was an absolute miracle that people came to watch me act."

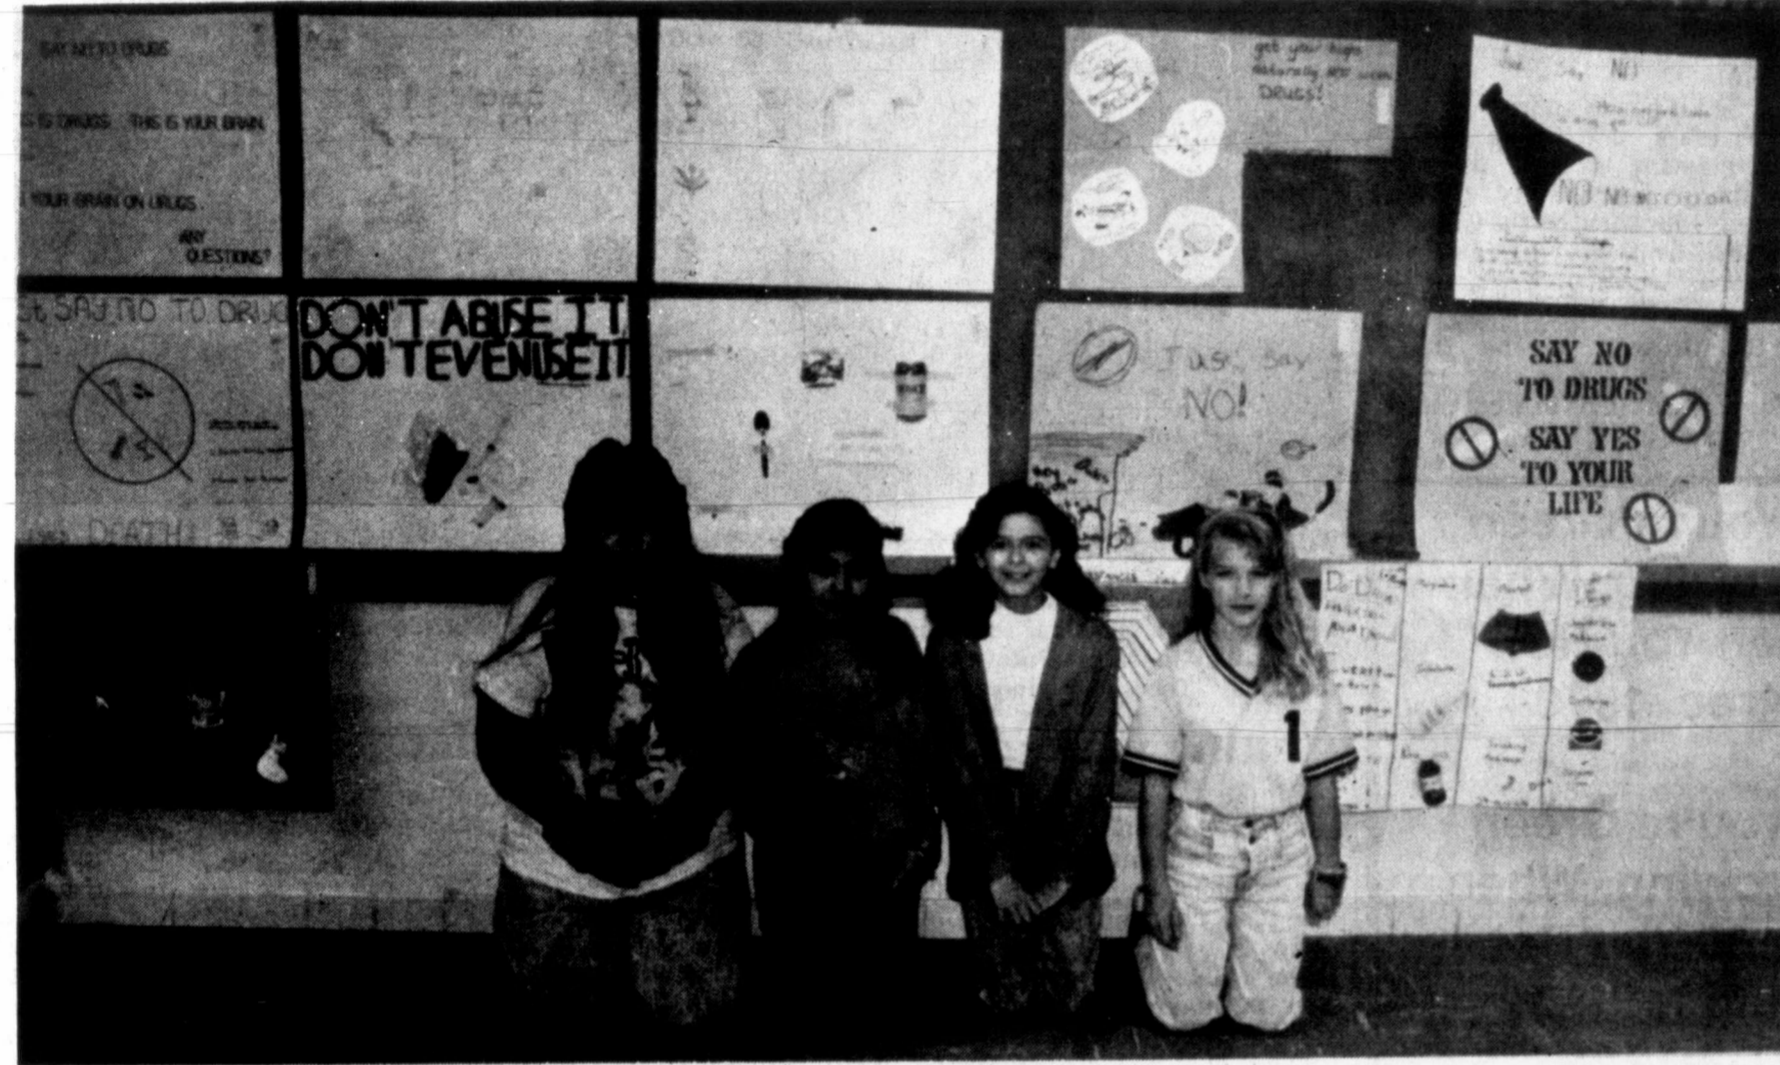

Impressionists copied her mannerisms, and a song, "Bette Davis Eyes," was a rock hit in 1982. The line most identified with her was "What a dump!" from "Beyond the Forest."

She sought happiness in marriage, but after four husbands declared that she had failed and would never marry again. When she wrote her autobiography, she titled it "The Lonely Life."

She is survived by two adopted children, Michael Merrill and Margot Merrill, and a daughter, Barbara Hyman.

Question:
What's the difference in Medicare Supplement Policies?

Answer:
Most Medicare Supplement Policies pay only the 20% difference between what Medicare approves and what Medicare actually pays. However, Medicare may only approve a portion of the actual doctor bill. Our company pays the difference between what the doctor charges and what Medicare actually pays!

Example
$2500.00	Doctor Bill
$1456.40	Medicare Approved
$1165.12	Medicare Paid
$1134.88	Balance You Owe

A 20% policy would pay $291.28 leaving you to pay $1043.60. Our company paid $1134.88 leaving you a 0 balance!

Annual 'Turkey Walk' slated

American Heart Association members met recently to plan the annual "Turkey Walk" slated for Saturday, Oct. 28. This year's course will be the same as last year's, with the five mile walk beginning at the pavilion in Towle Park, proceeding through the park, down Houston Ave. to College Ave and then back to the park. Each participant can walk at his/her own pace, with the walk to get underway at 9 a.m. This year's contestants who raise $50 in pledges will receive a T-shirt, for $150 in pledges they will receive a turkey, and those who raise $200 or more in pledges will receive a sweatshirt, turkey and T-shirt. Other prizes will also be offered.

Last year's "Turkey Walk" drew some 35 participants and raised around $4,000. Some 100 participants are expected this year.

Anyone who walks daily for fun and/or exercise is urged to participate. Sign-up forms are available at Olney Savings, Snyder National Bank, American State Bank, Snyder Nursing Home, Western Texas College, Furr's, and West Texas State Bank.

Also at the meeting, Kay Alexander displayed a Heart Awareness Kit which is available for area businesses to better educate their employees on ways to cut down on absenteeism by using better physical and mental health.

The kit has been proven to cut the costs of illness related absenteeism, as well as boost company productivity through better education of the signs of heart and cardiovascular disease.

Latin America's manufacturing sector, which had achieved an average growth rate of 5.2 percent during 1984-86, saw this rate dip to a very slow 2.1 percent in 1987, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. The bank added that the great majority of the region's countries have not succeeded in stabilizing manufacturing growth rates during the past few years, which increases uncertainty and tends to hinder the private sector's long-term investment plans.

Court papers depict cocaine pipeline

LAS VEGAS — A drug pipeline that ended in a Los Angeles warehouse apparently pumped 60 tons of cocaine into Southern California and returned some $80 million to traffickers in the past year, a federal prosecutor said.

Meanwhile, a sworn statement unsealed Friday alleges that Rafael Munoz of Juarez, Mexico, was the middleman who provided "transportation and storage for loads of cocaine coming from Colombia via Mexico to the United States."

James McTague, 41, the alleged supervisor of the warehouse cache in Sylmar in suburban Los Angeles for about a year, Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Green said.

"He indicated that since he had been in charge they had moved 60 tons of cocaine through the warehouse," Green said. "The ledgers showed that $80 million cash had gone through his hands since he'd been involved."

McTague was among four other men also arrested in the case. The Los Angeles District Attorney's office dismissed charges against them Friday so federal charges, carrying significantly stricter penalties, could be pursued.

The men were being held without bail in Los Angeles for investigation of conspiracy and drug trafficking.

On Thursday, narcotics agents announced more cocaine seizures almost as big — almost 15 tons confiscated in separate raids in Harlingen, Texas, and New Orleans.

Almost 9 tons found in a three-bedroom home in Harlingen was bound for Los Angeles, authorities said, but it apparently was unrelated to the drug seizure in Sylmar.

On Friday, drug czar William J. Bennett's office ordered an urgent review to determine if U.S. estimates of cocaine production have been vastly understated, the Times reported.

According to U.S. estimates, the 34 tons confiscated represents about 8 percent of the cartel's maximum annual production.

Evidence seized in the Sylmar warehouse have laid bare the inner workings of a major trafficking operation, and federal officials said it may help them follow drug money to legitimate businesses and banks where it is laundered.

The disclosures came during an identity and bail hearing for Carlos Tapia Ponce and his son, Hector Tapia Anchocho, who authorities claim ran the U.S. leg of the alleged smuggling operation.

The two men are being held without bail for investigation of conspiracy and possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

U.S. Magistrate Lawrence Leavitt recessed the hearing without ruling on a request for bail by Anchocho. Leavitt, who was not asked to set bail for Ponce, said he would rule on the request later.

Hermleigh Methodists slate annual festival

Hermleigh United Methodist Church's annual fall festival is slated for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 4. The public is invited.

Everything will be arranged under a big circus tent similar to last year.

Activities will get underway at 9 a.m. with a flea market featuring arts and crafts, baked goods, Christmas items, southwestern items and a farmer's market.

According to a church spokesperson, "Since the gardens will probably be gone by November, we plan on stocking the market with homemade jellies, preserves, pickles, chowchow, pepper sauce, apples, pears, pumpkins, honey, turnips, and greens."

Starting at 9:30 a.m. and continuing every 30 minutes throughout the day drawings for door prizes will be held. Prizes will include framed western prints, needlework, coffee maker, knife sets, food, gas, glassware and tools.

A barbecue lunch consisting of beef brisket, German sausage, potato salad, red beans, dessert, tea/coffee, and relishes will be served starting at 11:30 a.m. Meals may be eaten on the ground or carried out.

A drawing for several prizes will be held at 4 p.m. They include VCR with remote control, cable compatible and 110 channel capability; Snidow Print (That's My Cowdog, Joe Healer, signed, numbered and framed); hand-made quilt with a broken star pattern and a hand painted art mirror by Doris Chorn. These prizes together are worth over $1,000.

Almost right

By James Jacoby

One of the key ingredients of the strip-and-endplay strategy is forcing the right opponent on lead at the right moment. Unfortunately Willy Nilly held the South cards and wasn't quite up to the best play. He won the ace of diamonds, drew two rounds of trump, ending in dummy, and ruffed a diamond. Next came A-Q-K of hearts. Hearts didn't split, so Willy ruffed the last heart. Let's give him credit — Willy had watched his play in the trump suit, so he still had a trump entry to dummy. He now led a spade to the dummy and played a club. He hoped East would follow with the three or four. Then he could insert his five, and West would be employed. Unfortunately East put up the eight of clubs. Willy played the queen, losing to West's king, and a club return left Willy with an eventual club loser.

When Willy complained to Careful Charlie about his bad luck, he was shown the error of his ways. "You did fine, Willy, up to a point," commiserated Charlie. "But after you had drawn two rounds of trumps, ruffed a diamond, and played the high hearts, what was the necessity of ruffing that fourth heart? Why not just discard a club? West will have to win the trick and he will now have to lead into your A-Q of clubs."

Coyotes edge past Ira with late score

Friday night's battle of area six-man squads ended with Borden County defeating Ira, 18-16, with 30 seconds remaining in the contest.

"It was an excellent, hard-hitting ball game," said Ira coach Don Jones.

"We beat 'em everywhere but the score."

Patrick Pass Herriage scored on a two-yard run to give the Coyotes the win.

Borden County's Brian Bond intercepted a Shane Bearden pass and scooted 79 yards for the Gail school's first TD of the evening.

The PAT was no good but Borden County held a 6-0 lead.

Bond connected with wide receiver Bill Vestal in the second quarter for an eight yard scoring strike. Once again the kick failed but the Coyotes lead had been stretched to 12-0.

Ira came back in the third quarter of the non-district tilt on a three-yard jaunt by Craig McMullen. McMullen's touchdown and subsequent extra point kick closed the gap to 12-8.

The Bulldogs took a 16-12 lead late in the third period on a Bearden to Jason Withers pass that covered four yards of ground. McMullen's extra point attempt was good.

The Borden County TD was the only scoring in the fourth quarter.

Bearden led the defensive effort for Ira with nine unassisted tackles. Withers had seven and Greg Box recovered a Borden County fumble. Both squads will begin district action next week as Ira hosts Highland and Borden County travels to Loop.

Hermleigh, the other local six-man unit was idle this week. They, too, begin play in their district as they entertain Trent.

Chiefs slip by Tigers

LVHS hands Snyder third one-point loss

SAN ANGELO—The host Lake View Chiefs marched 53 yards with just over a minute remaining and kicked a 34-yard field goal with just three ticks left on the clock to hand the Snyder Tigers their third consecutive one-point loss.

Snyder had gone ahead, 23-21, on a 10-yard scamper by fullback Dewey Cato with 1:14 left in the final quarter, and it appeared that Snyder was on the way to its first victory in four starts this season.

The Chiefs, also winless, weren't finished as quarterback Cory Stephens orchestrated a march through the Tiger defense, assisted by a pass interference call, that set up the field goal attempt with three seconds left.

Bryan Worrell's 34-yard boot sewed up a 24-23 District 4-4A win in a grid battle that saw the lead change hands eight times.

The game started on a positive note for the Tigers as Bert Merritt kicked a 23 yard field goal in the first period to give Snyder an early 3-0 lead.

That didn't last long as Stephens connected with Steven Cruz for a 51 yard TD with 2:27 left in the opening quarter.

Worrell added the extra point and Lake View had taken the lead.

Snyder assumed their offensive posture from the Lake View 40 following a short kick and a 45 yard return by Paul Anderson.

A pair of tries at the middle of the Chiefs' line netted Jayson Presley less than a yard, bringing up third and ten.

SHS quarterback Toby Goodwin handed off to Anderson who scooted around right end for a 27 yard gain and a fresh set of downs.

Anderson added runs of 14 and two yards before crashing into the end zone from the two with 11:00 left in the half.

The extra point was no good, but Snyder had snatched a 9-7 lead.

The two teams went into the locker rooms for intermission with the same tally.

It didn't take the Chiefs long to regain the top spot on the scoreboard as Stephens, almost single-handedly, moved the squad down the field. He ripped off runs of 20, three, and the final two yards. Worrell's kick was successful and Lake View was on top 14-9.

Snyder had the ball three downs on their next possession as a Goodwin toss was tipped on third and 10 and landed in the arms of Lake View's Jonny Glover.

The Chiefs could do nothing with the ball and kicked it back to Snyder.

The Tigers began a long drive at their opponents 45. Anderson swivel-hipped around the right side for 14 yards followed by a seven yard gain from Cato.

Cato added two more and Anderson tore off another 12 yards setting the SHS offense at the Lake View 10.

Mark King slipped through the line for six and Cato tacked on two more moving the chains and setting up a first and goal from the Chiefs' three-inch line.

King blasted over the top for the six pointer. The point after was no good, but the lead had changed hands again. Snyder 15, Lake View 14.

Four plays later, split end Joe Barquera slipped outside with a Stephens pass and galloped 80 yards to add six more to Lake View's totals.

Worrell was successful on the PAT and the score went to 21-15 in favor of the home team.

Snyder whipped out a pair of first downs on their next possession but the drive stalled and they punted back to Lake View.

A beautiful Terry Stephens boot was downed on Lake View's two-yard stripe by SHS safety Charlie Guynes.

The Tiger defenders stiffened and Lake View lined up in punt formation at their own seven.

Rather than risk a blocked punt from deep in their own territory, the Chiefs' punter, Stephens, ran the football out of the end zone, accepting the intentional safety and making the score closer at 21-17.

Presley took the free kick and returned the ball to Snyder's 43 where they went to work.

Cato was the workhorse on this trip down the gridiron, gaining yardage on runs of nine, six and nine again before rumbling over from 10 yards out with just 1:14 left in the contest.

Snyder fans had already chalked up a "W" on the evening when Lake View's Stephens started his heroics.

A pair of completions, one to Barquera for 11 yards and one to Herrera for nine, two runs of his own totalling five yards and a draw to Lay that netted another five, coupled with a pair of holding calls against Snyder and the Chiefs were astride the Snyder 17 yard marker awaiting Worrell's field goal attempt. The football cleared the upright with plenty of room to spare and Lake View had won their first game of the season.

There were bright spots for the Tigers as Anderson racked up 104 yards on 18 carries, and Presley gathered in five Goodwin passes for 74 yards.

The defense held the Chiefs to just 73 rushing yards and recovered a fumble on the game's opening kick-off.

The Tigers come home for next Friday's 8 p.m. tilt versus Andrews, a 21-8 winner over Pecos, Friday.

Walker turns down deal to NFL teams

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have discovered they won't be trading Herschel Walker. Herschel Walker will be trading Herschel Walker.

Walker doesn't have a no-trade clause in his five-year, $5 million contract that he signed in 1986.

He doesn't need one. Walker is wealthy enough to be set for life because of his contracts with Donald Trump's New Jersey Generals in the now defunct USFL. He doesn't have to play football for a living.

So the Minnesota Vikings and the Cleveland Browns, reported to have been dealing with the Cowboys for their talented, 28-year-old running back, need Walker's approval to guarantee he will show up.

Any team signing him would likely want him to bargain for a contract extension. The club would have to try to re-sign him after next season. Walker said he will consider retirement when the contract is up.

HJHS Cards win 38-0 tilt

Hermleigh's junior high Cardinals travelled to McCaulley Thursday and delivered a severe case of embarrassment to the home team as they thumped the host squad, 38-0.

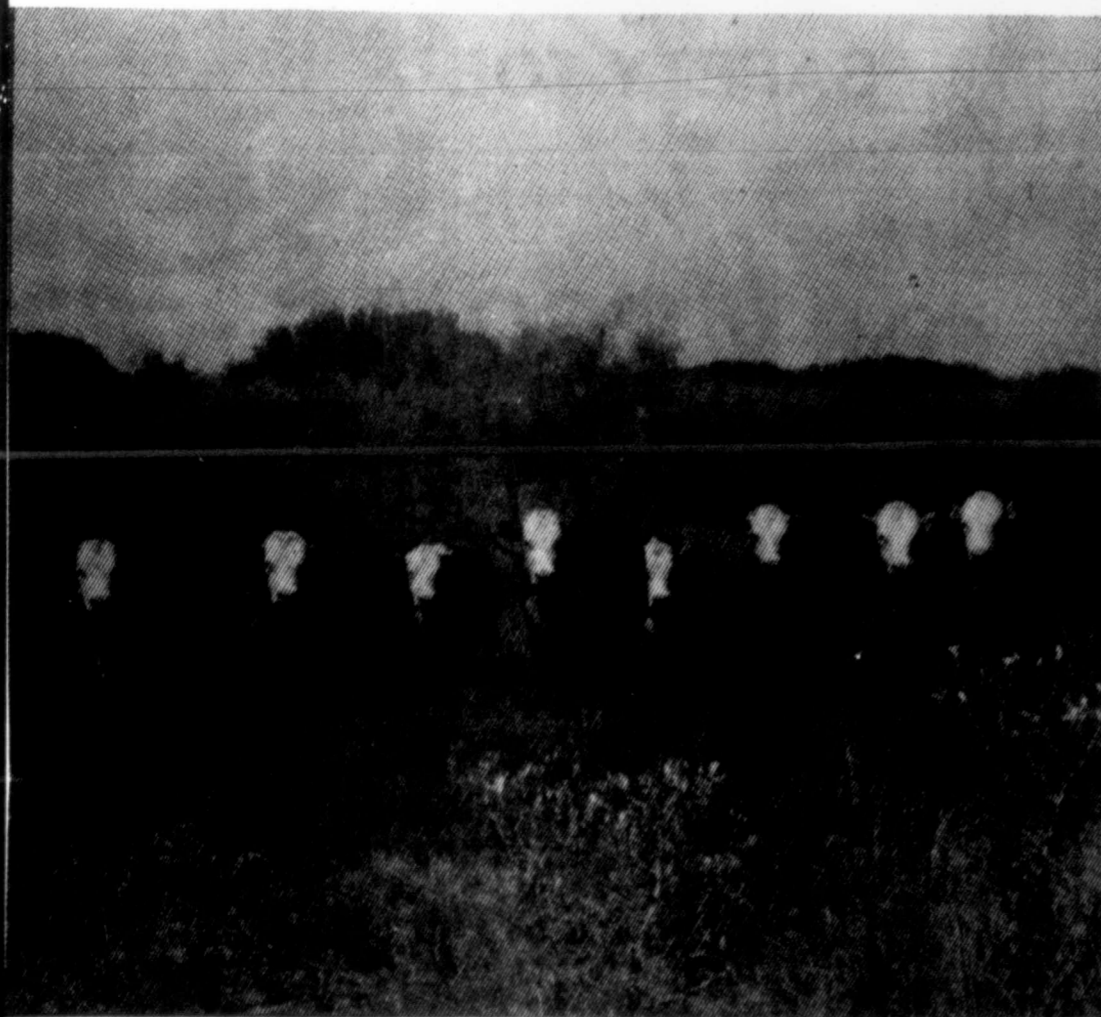

Freddie Martinez scored on three occasions for Hermleigh, while Leon Morales, Chris Darby and Joey Sanchez each crossed the goal line once.

Sanchez added a two-point conversion on a kick after his TD.

Oakland leads series, 2-1...

Blue Jays win in SkyDome

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays got home to the dome and finally got a win of their own.

Tony Fernandez keyed a pair of big innings with doubles and the Blue Jays, cheered by a record crowd at the SkyDome, beat Oakland 7-3 Friday night and cut the Athletics' lead in the American League playoffs to 2-1.

Rickey Henderson did his best to quiet the 50,268 fans, scoring twice and stealing his seventh base as Oakland took a 3-0 lead.

Toronto scored four times in the fourth against 19-game winner Storm Davis and added three runs in the seventh. That made the Blue Jays 11-0 when the retractable roof at the SkyDome is closed.

The next two games are in Toronto and AL President Dr. Bobby Brown has already announced the dome will be shut both days. Game 4 will be Saturday, when Bob Welch (17-8) faces Mike Flanagan (8-10), who is 18-7 lifetime against Oakland.

Jimmy Key overcame a shaky start and held on to win. He gave up seven hits in six innings, Jim Acker allowed two hits in two innings and Tom Henke pitched the ninth.

Rickey Henderson's steal was the only one of the evening. He led the majors with 77 stolen bases, tied Lou Brock's mark set in the 1967 and 1968 World Series, for most in a postseason series. Brock did it in seven games each time.

Rickey Henderson also reached base nine of his first 11 plate appearances in the series.

Jose Canseco singled twice for Oakland. Key, who had walked just two batters in his last 46 innings, began the game with two walks. He pitched carefully to Rickey Henderson and passed him on a full count and, with Rickey Henderson juking off first base, Carney Lansford also walked on a 3-2 pitch.

Canseco followed with a fly ball and right fielder Junior Felix, anxious to get Henderson but with no chance of doing it, overthrew the cutoff man as both runners advanced. Mark McGwire hit a sacrifice fly, also to the opposite field in right.

Key retired seven straight before Rickey Henderson doubled down the third-base line with one out in the third. Rickey Henderson stole on the first pitch and scored on Lansford's single.

Dave Parker, booed because of his lengthy home-run trot in Game 2, got to take another one when he connected with two outs in the fourth. Parker ran around the bases a little faster this time and, to the jeers of the Blue Jays fans, bashed forearms with on-deck batter Tony Phillips.

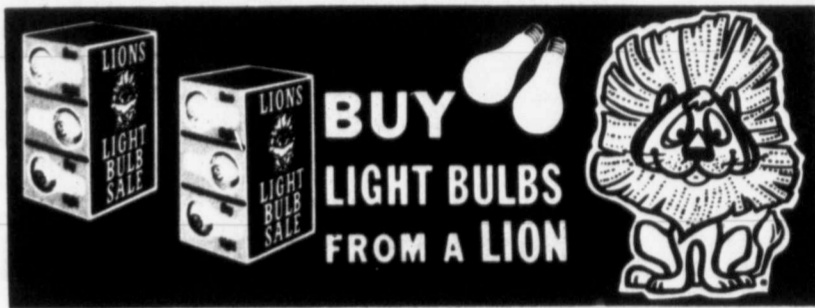

Toronto's rally began when Lloyd Moseby drew a leadoff walk in the fourth. Mookie Wilson got a broken-bat single and Fred McGriff singled sharply, loading the bases.

George Bell hit a sacrifice fly, ending Davis' streak of 15 scoreless innings in the playoffs. Fernandez, without an RBI in 32 career at-bats in the postseason, pulled a drive down the right-field line for a run-scoring double. Canseco overran the ball for an error, allowing McGriff to score and Fernandez to take third. Ernie Whitt's single put the Blue Jays ahead 4-3.

Western Texas College cowboys hovered at or near the top in several events during the NIRA rodeo at Sul Ross State University.

Friday's performance of the rodeo saw Troy Cottoor slip into second place in bareback riding with a score of 71 and saddle bronc riding with a 73.

Ray Brown shot to third place in calf roping followed by teammate Shawn Quin in fourth overall. Brown holds a time of 9.5 seconds while Quin has a 9.8.

Steer wrestlers Terry Graf and Brown are currently in third and fifth place, respectively. Graf's time is 6.3 seconds and Brown took his animal down in 7.1.

Team ropers Barry Byrd of the Westerners and Kevin Hudleston from Tarleton State University are third in the standings after Friday with a 7.4 second showing.

Kyle Ham, who captured first place Thursday night, held on to the top spot in bull riding with a score of 75.

WTC cowgirl Jackie Parker rests in first place in breakaway roping. Her 2.9 second time seems sure to get her into Sunday's final round.

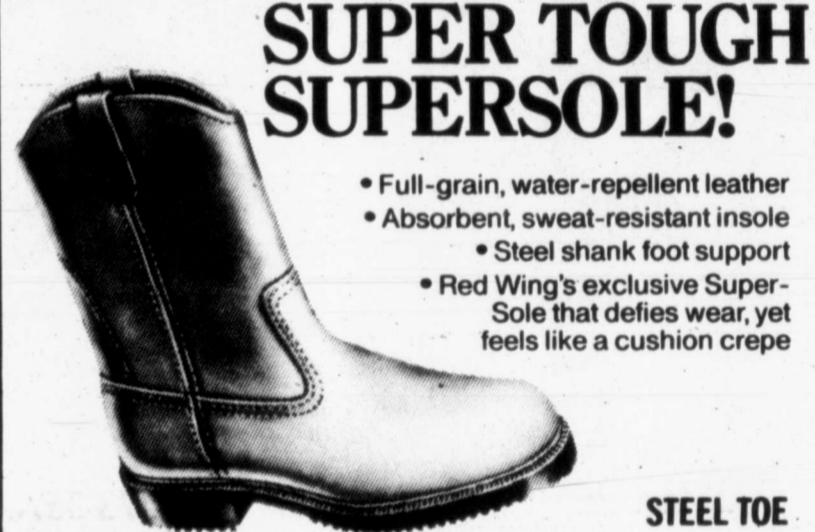

Barrel racer Shannon Ragland tore up the course, riding the circuit in just 17.12 seconds and taking second place overall.

Breakaway roper, Lisa Meloy, holds sixth place with a 4.2 time from Thursday.

Other WTC wranglers competing Friday included Denny McClanahan, who was bucked off in both bareback riding and bull riding, Russell Merchant, with a 'no time' as a calf roper, and Brian Davis who was tossed off in the saddle bronc event.

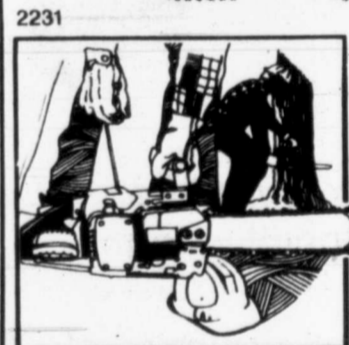

Steven Moorman was thrown by his bull and Jennifer Lee broke te barrier in breakaway roping putting her time, including penalty at 13.1 seconds.

The top ten performers in each event will participate in Sunday's short go at Sul Ross.

Attention: Front Wheel Drive Car Owners

Now, computerized 4-wheel alignment... to meet the needs of today's cars

Many of today's cars - especially front-wheel drive models - need 4-wheel alignment.

Our new computerized state of the art wheel alignment system lets us measure and adjust the alignment angles of each wheel to meet manufacturer's specifications. It relates all four wheels to a common centerline to insure precise alignment and a perfectly centered steering wheel.

Alignment results are displayed on a TV screen so you can see the exact condition of your car or light truck. In fact Larry House can give you a tape print out which shows how your vehicle compares to specifications.

Genetic link now doubted

NEW YORK (AP) — A new study weakens the evidence linking manic-depressive illness to a genetic defect as proposed in a widely reported 1987 paper, says a scientist who participated in both studies.

Although the evidence remains suggestive, "it's not up to the accepted or the conventional level of significance that has been used in these kinds of studies," said David Pauls.

The original study had been hailed as the first to show a genetic defect in a psychiatric illness that includes no physical abnormalities in the brain.

But with the new data, researchers are "not nearly as confident as we were" that they had found the approximate location of such a gene, said Pauls of the Yale University School of Medicine.

"I guess the conclusion is that the evidence isn't nearly as strong, and additional work needs to be done so that we can either definitely rule in or rule out the finding," he said.

The new work was reported recently at a scientific meeting. Co-authors included several researchers who wrote the 1987 paper, and other scientists.

Genes lie along tiny threadlike structures called chromosomes that are found in cells of the body. The 1987 paper presented evidence that a gene causing manic-depressive illness in three generations of a large Amish family lay somewhere within a part of the chromosome numbered 11.

The new work suggests that either there is also a second gene for the disease in the Amish, or that the originally reported gene does not exist, Pauls said.

The illness, also called bipolar disorder, is estimated to affect about one out of every 100 Americans at some time in their lives.

Generally it involves severe depression plus episodes of mania, which can include restlessness, racing thoughts and delusions of grandeur, or of hypomania, a less intense form of mania. Symptoms can be largely controlled with drugs.

Soon after the 1987 paper was published, other researchers announced that a different group of people showed evidence of a gene for manic-depressive illness on the chromosome designated X. Scientists said it supported the idea that more than one gene can cause the disorder.

Pauls said that more work has been done on the X chromosome finding since, and it "still looks quite convincing."

The original Amish research involved genetic testing of 19 family members who had manic-depressive illness or a related condition, plus 62 family members without psychiatric illness.

Scientists traced the inheritance of genetic markers, which are detectable signposts on chromosomes. Statistical analysis comparing marker inheritance to the appearance of the disease in a family tree can reveal the location of disease-causing genes that lie near the markers.

Since the original work was done, Pauls said in a recent interview, scientists have added some 40 people to the analysis, and two people in the original group who had been disease-free developed manic-depressive disorder.

When the statistical analysis was performed again to include the new information, the evidence for the reported manic-depressive gene became considerably weaker, Pauls said.

Fallen honeydew, plant sap that has passed through the body of aphids or related insects after needed nutrients are absorbed, was the "manna" of the Old Testament and a human delicacy in some places.

Ginkgo tree leaves have been used for 5,000 years to treat allergies and asthma in China. The active substance has been isolated and synthesized and could lead to a cheaper, more effective drug for these illnesses than any currently available, according to horticulturalists at the Dorothy Chapman Fuqua Conservatory in Atlanta.

Snyder group attends camp

Ten campers and two adults sponsored by the Church of the Living God recently attended Camp Dry Gulch USA near Tulsa, Okla. The camp is an extension of Willie George ministries which also produces the Gospel Bill Show.

Those attending were LaKrisha Brown, April Cook, Micah Brown, Carrie Jones, Angela Ballinger, Jeremy Blagg, Brady and Brandon Hackfeld, Jesse McDaniel, and Moses Williams. Jackie Hackfeld and Lydia Blagg attended as sponsors.

Also attending were Roy and Casey Powers of Seminole. The children, their parents, and other church members raised all expenses and fees for the camp.

Activities included horseback riding, archery, riflery, canoeing, hiking, swimming, crafts, soccer, kickball, basketball, hayrides and clowns. Chapel services were held in the morning and evening.

Special speakers included Coonskin Ben, Safari Sam, Elmer Barnes and Miss Lana from the Gospel Bill Show and Gospel Bill himself. The campers learned about faith, salvation, prosperity, health and the Holy Spirit through puppet skits, object lessons, stories, and songs.

Each day one camper was chosen from his group as the most Christ-like camper of the day. Six of the 12 Snyder campers were chosen from their group including: Micah Brown, April Cook, Carrie Jones, Angela Ballinger, Brady Hackfeld and Jeremy Blagg. The campers and sponsors had a wonderful time in the scenic camp and are ready for a return trip next summer.

Ads anger mayor of Odessa

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Transit authorities in Columbus, Ohio, don't want their city to become another Odessa, an attitude that doesn't sit well with Mayor Don Carter.

"I wouldn't mind if they talked favorably, but when they try to run down our city, it doesn't sit well with the local mayor," Carter said.

Beginning Monday, the Central Ohio Transit Authority plans to broadcast a television commercial that says Odessa is the only city among the nation's 258 largest that doesn't have publicly-funded transit.

In the spot, a person asks if other U.S. cities use tax money to fund public transit.

"Every major city except just Odessa, Texas, has a tax-funded transit system," is the reply.

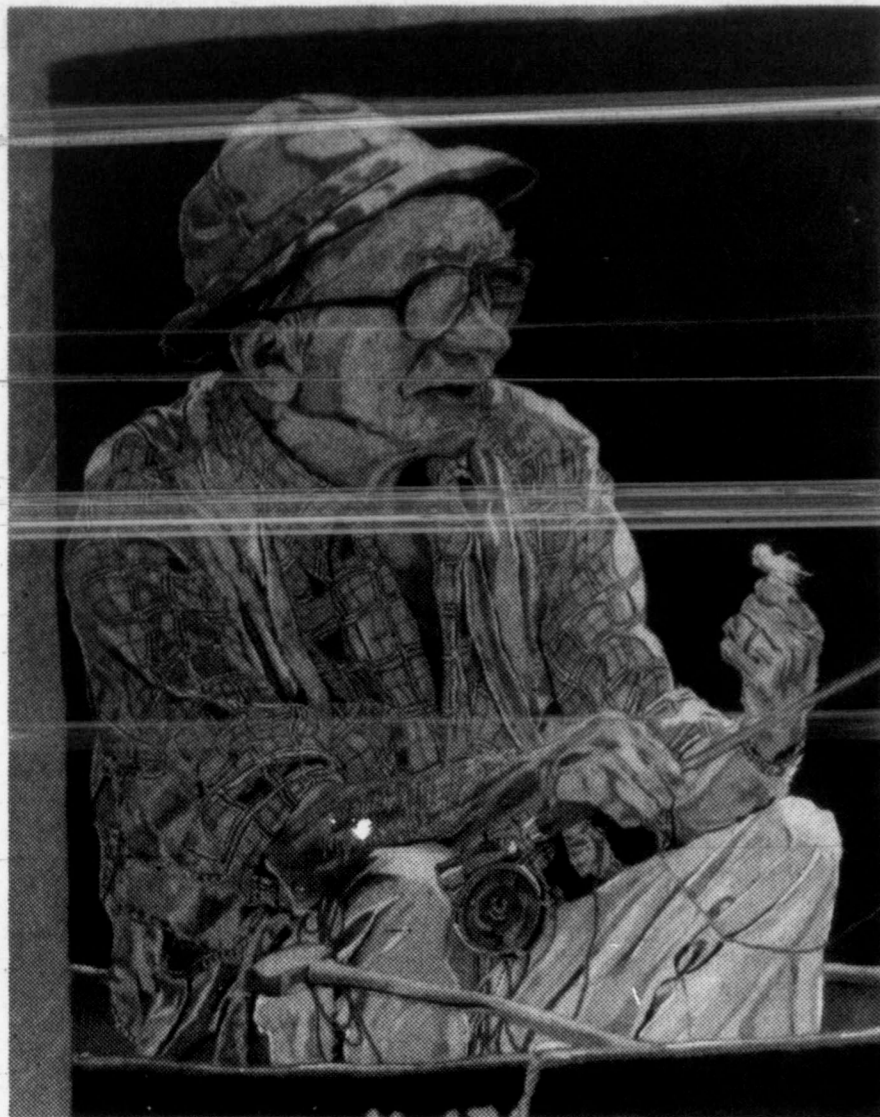

The spot is designed to persuade voters to pass a sales tax increase to support the authority and shows a picture of downtown Odessa from a Chamber of Commerce brochure.

In 1984, Odessa was the country's 149th-largest city, according to the Statistical Abstract of the United States. Columbus, with more than 500,000 people, was the 20th-largest city.

COTA is trying for the second time in two years to gain passage of a 10-year, 0.25 percent sales tax to keep the buses running. Backers have said Columbus will be without buses if the sales tax is rejected Nov. 7.

The ad is one of five to be broadcast as part of a $47,000 campaign launched by the Committee to Keep Franklin County moving, committee spokesman Terry Casey said Friday. The ads will run through Oct. 15.

vantage of those opportunities."

They included a spread in Sports Illustrated magazine that was scrapped because he was unable to make the deadline.

"I look back and see that I wasted those opportunities. Hopefully, the second time now I'll take advantage," he says.

"I think I have a lot to offer. It's the first time I've been excited about something since college."

But professional football may always haunt Degrate.

"Now that I look back at it, it's ridiculous that I'm not playing. I see friends playing and I see guys I played against that I'm surprised to see playing in the NFL. They weren't all that talented. But they had a lot of heart and they were determined," he says.

And friends sometimes still question him about pro football.

"People say I'm not going to be happy until I give it another shot. But is it really worth going through all that again? As far as my giving it up, I've swept it under the porch. I've still got a lot of dust under the porch, I admit. But my future is in graphic design."

Through it all, Degrate is proud that he never resorted to drugs.

"At times, I was exposed to it a lot, but I never did drugs. I'd like to think that young kids could look at me and what I've been through and it would help them stay off drugs, too," he says.

Degrate has always enjoyed working with youngsters.

"It's fun," he smiles. "I've been officiating some since I've been back in Snyder and I've really enjoyed it. I love working with kids."

He's putting the past behind him.

"I know I've been difficult to live with. I appreciate the things people have done for me. I hope my friends know that I realize I've done things I'm not proud of but they weren't intentional. I'm the same person I always was," he contends. "Hopefully, I'll grow from this. Life is not guaranteed."

Not even for a Lombardi Award winner.

Vehicle hit

A parked 1985 Chevrolet Blazer owned by Stephene Nunn of Rt. 1, Hermleigh, was hit by an unknown vehicle and driver in an incident discovered at 4:34 p.m. Friday in the 100 Block of the East Hwy.

Gorbachev tells E. Germans to solve their own problems

BERLIN (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev told East Germans to solve their own problems as the Soviet president visited the Communist nation for 40th anniversary celebrations overshadowed by a refugee exodus.

On the first day of East Germany's carefully staged two-day anniversary festivities, Gorbachev on Friday urged the aging leadership to work with "all forces in society" to resolve the country's turmoil.

Gorbachev winds up his visit today, the actual anniversary of East Germany's founding, by meeting privately with East German leader Erich Honecker, watching a military parade and attending an evening reception.

Gorbachev was center stage Friday, hailed by youths shouting "Gorby! Gorby!" He stood next to Honecker during a three-hour Communist youth parade.

East Germany's leaders are using the anniversary to portray their country as a socialist success.

"All of our energy and loyalty to the German Democratic Republic," read one of the parade banners. But the exodus of thousands of its citizens to the West and violent clashes between disgruntled East Germans and police have focused world attention on the country's turmoil instead.

Unconfirmed reports said the government was mounting barbed wire fences on the border with its neighboring Warsaw Pact allies Poland and Czechoslovakia, which East German refugees used as stepping stones to the West.

West Germany's ZDF television said a caller from East Germany told the network Friday that barbed wire was being strung along the frontier with Czechoslovakia. The newspaper Die Welt said without citing sources that East German authorities were preparing to build fences along the Polish border.

Second annual CROP Walk slated Oct. 22

Plans for the second annual CROP Walk were made Thursday during the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance meeting. The five kilometer walk will take place Sunday, Oct. 22, at 1:30 p.m., with walkers gathering about 30 minutes ahead of time on the courthouse square.

The CROP Walk benefits the relief and development of Church World Service. In more than 70 countries, CWS works through partner agencies specializing in family health, food production, water resource development, vocational training and refugee assistance. CWS has been active recently in the Caribbean and on the South Carolina Coast, in the wake of Hurricane Hugo.

Church World Service also allows contributors the option of designating gifts to other international hunger-fighting agencies such as Catholic Relief Services, Lutheran World Relief and the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Twenty-five percent of all funds raised by the walk will remain in Snyder to combat hunger. In last year's walk, approximately 100 walkers raised more than $3,000 with $800 remaining in Snyder to assist the Ministerial Alliance's Food Bank work.

Nelson began his education in Fort Worth where he learned to play the violin. At age 14, he began to concentrate on singing. At 15, while in high school in Denton, he was selected to fill a vacant place in the bass section of the North Texas State University A Capella Choir. By age 17, he was the principal bass soloist.

He was involved in performances of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, Brahms' Requiem, Handel's Messiah, Mendelssohn's Elijah and Rachmaninoff's Bells, as well as three tour programs including motets by Bach, Brahms, Palestrina and Victoria.

Nelson will also perform briefly for choir and drama students Monday morning at the high school.

Arrests

State highway patrolmen arrested a 21-year-old man on several charges at 1:30 a.m. Saturday two miles south of Snyder on the Colorado City Hwy.

The man was taken into custody for failure to have a driver's license, not having liability insurance and running a stop sign.

A 16-year-old girl was arrested by city police at 12:23 a.m. Saturday at a location that was not reported for being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Financial Focus

Understandably, investors become alarmed when the value of the dollar drops. The sharper the drop, the more the concern.

Since 1973, currency exchange rates have been based on supply and demand. This supply/demand relationship is created by commercial transactions, investors, speculators and governments.

Commercially, an importer may have to convert U.S. dollars to another currency to pay a foreign manufacturer. Big investors and speculators buy or sell dollars so they may profit from anticipated market movement. Governments buy and sell currency in order to influence its value. All of these transactions affect the supply and demand balance, which in turn affects the value of the dollar.

When the value of the U.S. dollar falls, it poses a threat of high inflation, which could lead to a recession. Here's what happens. When the U.S. dollar discounts against other currencies, imports become more expensive for Americans. High prices on imports give U.S. companies a green light to raise their prices and spur inflation.

CHANGING TIMES magazine recently cited an example of this. Several years ago, when the dollar was worth 250 yen, a Japanese automobile manufacturer charged 2.5 million yen for a car. This meant the car's cost to an American was $10,000. When the value of the dollar dropped to equal only 125 yen, that same car cost an American $20,000.

Since 1985, major industrial nations have tried to cut America's trade deficit by attempting to control the dollar's decline. When the value of the dollar rises so high that U.S. goods are too expensive for foreign markets, foreign markets suffer. Conversely, when foreign goods are so inexpensive that imports into the United States boom as exports fizzle, it's bad for the U.S. economy.

To a degree, the dollar-drop strategy has worked. CHANGING TIMES magazine also stated that in 1988, U.S. exports rose 16 percent over the previous year.

Some economists suggest an even greater decline in the value of the dollar will be necessary to relieve the trade deficit. The key is allowing the value to drop gradually.

From an investor's point of view, as the value of the dollar declines, money invested in foreign currency gains additional dollars. When this happens, foreign bonds become more attractive. In this country, a drop in the value of the dollar could result in higher interest rates, meaning a discounted or lower bond market.

Obviously, currency, trade, deficits and inflation are directly interrelated. Because the relationship between them is important to all investments, it's necessary that investors understand how they relate and how this affects investments.

Hair loss is difficult to diagnose

DEAR DR. GOTT: What can you tell me about alopecia? I'm currently on Medrol for polymyalgia rheumatica and estraderm/provera for osteoporosis. I've suffered 30 to 40 percent hair loss over the past nine months. I'm told these drugs can cause hair loss but cannot obtain additional information about alopecia.

DEAR READER: Alopecia (hair loss) has many causes, some of which include scalp infection, fever and chronic illness, cancer, mechanical trauma (such as burns and freezing), poor nutrition (including anorexia nervosa and crash dieting), psoriasis and other skin diseases, stress, glandular disorders (especially of the thyroid gland), poisoning (particularly vitamin A and arsenic), pregnancy, and male-pattern baldness (a genetic, age-related hair loss in men).

Alopecia is also a side effect of many drugs. Aside from the hair loss universally experienced by cancer patients during chemotherapy, a surprising number of commonly used medicines cause alopecia; these include anti-convulsants, anti-depressants, beta-blockers, calcium-channel blockers, oral contraceptives, anti-Parkinson agents, drugs for gout and anti-arthritis.

As you can see, alopecia is difficult to diagnose because of its many causes. In your case, hair loss could be caused by your medicines or by polymyalgia, a disease characterized by arterial inflammation and muscle/joint stiffness.

I urge you to see a dermatologist. Such a specialist will be able to sort out the causes of your problem and suggest appropriate therapy.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Eczema and Psoriasis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369.

The longer I practice medicine, the more convinced I am that a physician's primary role is to relieve suffering and pain. In most instances, this involves diagnosing and treating illness. But what happens when all methods of cure have been exhausted and the patient is nearing the end?

At this point, I believe a doctor's duty is to help allay the fear of death. This means assisting the terminal patient to cope with the reality of his or her own mortality, thereby allowing a reconciliation with defeat. Such a role requires delicate skills; by and large, I am successful with it. However, sometimes it backfires.

I had known Joanne, as a friend, for more than 20 years. During the past few months, she had been under the care of an oncologist because of a colon cancer that had spread throughout her pelvis, despite chemotherapy and radiation.

One Sunday, when her regular physician was unavailable, I was called to Joanne's house; she was uncomfortable and needed assistance. A brief examination confirmed my worst suspicions: Her lower bowel was literally replaced by rock-hard tumor. Here was a 55-year-old woman who had inoperable, incurable cancer that showed no signs of abating or shrinking.

"What has your doctor told you?" I asked.

"He said the cancer is treatable," she replied. "Although it spread to my liver, the chemotherapy cured it. My liver's OK."

"That's good," I answered. "However, it looks as though your lower bowel is involved now, and I'm concerned about your discomfort."

"I'm waiting for a miracle," she said.

"A miracle?"

"Yes, a miracle. The doctor says more chemotherapy will cure me. I want a miracle. I'm going to beat this thing."

"Well," I said, "miracles come in different forms. Perhaps your miracle will not be a cure."

She was immediately wary. "What do you mean?"

"Sometimes, in cases such as yours," I continued, "the miracle is the act of acceptance. I think that if you're going to experience a miracle, it may be the serenity of acknowledging the seriousness of the problem, the peace that comes when you know that everything possible has been done and the acceptance of what is to come."

"No," she stated. "I'm waiting for a real miracle."

We talked further, and she was relieved to learn she was in no immediate danger. I promised to report to her doctor. And I did.

Two weeks later, I called Joanne to see how she was doing. Her manner was cool.

"You did something terrible to me," she blurted, angrily.

"What?" I was shocked.

"You took away my hope. You said the cancer had spread, but my oncologist told me it had responded very well to therapy and was no worse than it had been a month ago. You took away my hope, but I am going to get my miracle anyway. I'm going to take more chemotherapy."

As I hung up the telephone, I felt an irreconcilable sadness. I had apparently failed Joanne at the very moment she needed me. And yet, in recalling our conversation, I knew I had said what needed to be said. I regretted not having stated it in terms she could have accepted more readily. I believe now — as I believed then — that at the appropriate time, the acceptance of death is associated with a tranquility that transcends hopelessness. My unsuccessful attempts at addressing her illness were misperceived by Joanne as taking away her hope. This was far from my intention.

Joanne had her additional chemotherapy. It made her even sicker. She died 15 weeks after I saw her at home.

I marvel at her courage. I hope that, at the end, she was able to resolve the issue of miracles which, like beauty, are more often in the eye of the beholder.

By Shirley A. Gorman

Sarah Boyd, 2½-year-old daughter of Robbie and Paula Boyd, may be thought of as a "miracle child." On February 12 of this year a creeping and sometimes fatal paralysis commonly called Guillain-Barre Syndrome had begun attacking her young body, totally paralyzing her from the waist down.

She quit walking and doing all the other normal activities that children her age do and it became very painful for her to be moved after she had been at rest for awhile.

The muscular paralysis began in her feet and swiftly worked its way up to her chest where it even weakened her voice. Then just as mysteriously as it had appeared, as if from nowhere, the Guillain-Barre Syndrome stopped and then began to reverse itself. However, by that time Sarah's muscles had been devastated by the disease and she has had to learn all the motor functions over again.

Since being released from Lubbock General Hospital, she has been under the constant care and supervision of family, friends, doctors and perhaps most importantly of all, Jeff Mason, a Snyder physical therapist for 10 years, who has been diligently working with Sarah and her family for the past several months.

Mason earned his undergraduate degree at Nebraska Wesleyan University and took his physical therapy training at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. He and his wife, Gaylean, have two children, Molly, 3, and Curtis, 17 months. Mason also has a daughter Jennifer, 10, from his first marriage.

Sarah started walking again four months ago, the week her brother, Thomas, was born. The Boyds also have another son, Benjamin, who is 6½ years old.

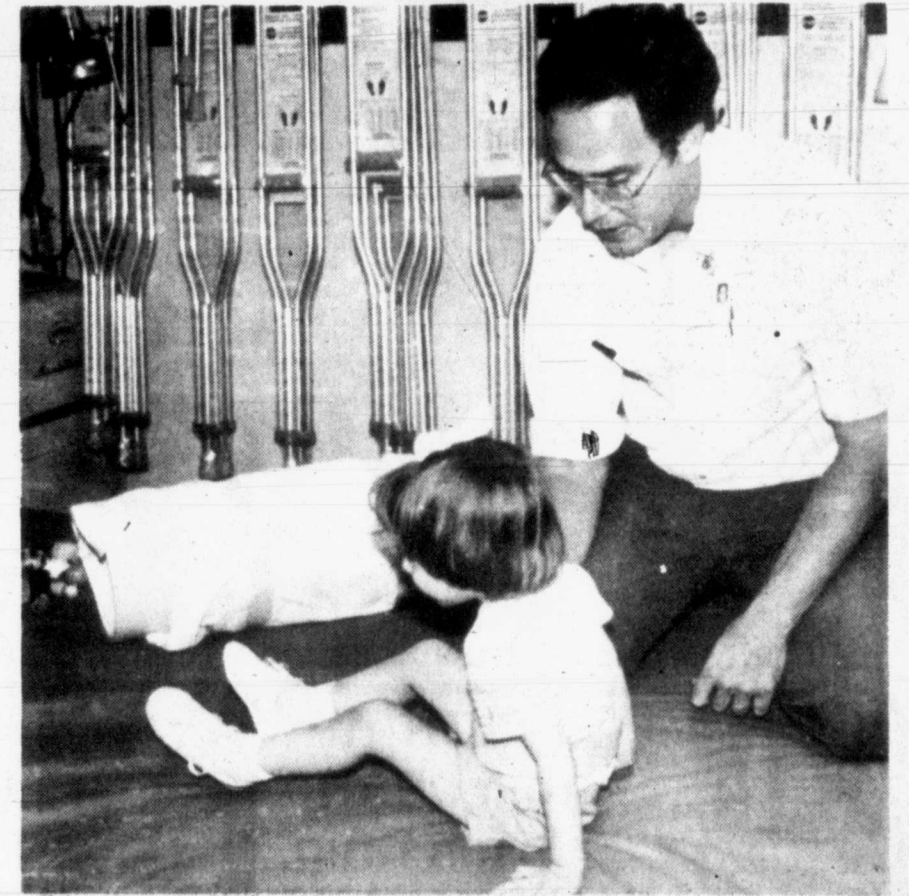

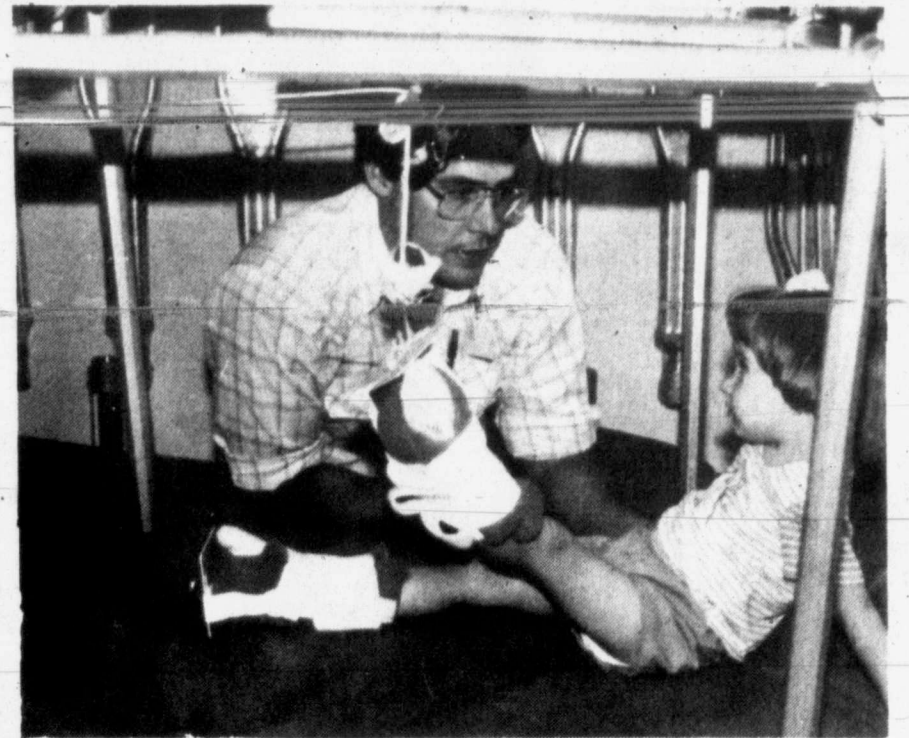

"Having Sarah start walking again meant more to us than when she first learned to walk," Mrs. Boyd said recently. "I had prayed to God to let Sarah walk again. One Sunday morning she just said she wanted to walk and she did. I didn't expect it because she had said that before."

Sarah is well on her way to a full recovery, but she is not out of the woods yet. She will have to remain under a doctor's care for another two years and a physical therapist one more year before it can be certain that she has recovered. Even then both her parents said it was possible, though they hoped unlikely, that Sarah might be stricken again just as mysteriously as she had been the first time.

The Boyds have taken this family crisis "in stride," but Mrs. Boyd admits that it has "tested their faith." Boyd has served as the youth minister at First Baptist Church for the past 4½ years and later this month the family will be moving to Lubbock where Boyd has accepted a similar position with another church. Sarah will continue to work with a therapist in Lubbock.

Sarah and her family have dealt with the situation for the past several months to the best of their ability and, now that Sarah is beginning to get well, their lives can begin to take on some semblance of order again. But in the beginning, the situation was very bleak, and Mrs. Boyd said that a real fear they all had to face when Sarah was so ill and no one knew the cause was that she

LONG ROAD TO RECOVERY — Little Sarah Boyd's almost total recovery from Guillain-Barre Syndrome which left her partially paralyzed a few months ago has been brought about in large measure by Jeff Mason, physical therapist at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Throughout Sarah's recovery, Mason either borrowed necessary equipment or built his own. He also devised games and exercises for her to do. Sarah started walking again about four months ago. In the top left photo Mason is teaching Sarah coordination. In the top right photo he is using a special "jungle gym" which he built to strengthen her leg muscles. In the bottom right photo, Sarah is learning to "scooch" across the padding. She will have to continue physical therapy for one more year, but is expected to recover completely. Rivas, Becerra...

Couple married in Denver City

DENVER CITY—Corina Rivas and Gabriel Becerra were united in marriage at 3 p.m. July 29 at St. Williams Catholic Church, with Father Nester Villanueva officiating.

Altar boys were Joey and Justin Esquivel and liturgy was read by Jessie and Phyllis Esquivel.

The bride is the daughter of Juan and Elfida Rivas of Denver City and the groom is the son of Frank and Yolanda Becerra of Snyder.

Vows were exchanged before an arch decorated with greenery, peach roses and white carnations accented with large peach bows and ribbons.

Music during the ceremony was played by Mariachis from the Holy Name Catholic Church of Ft. Worth. Cousins of the bride, Christy, Edward and Stephanie Rivas sang "Bonded Together."

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a traditional style gown of white bridal taffeta with a portrait neckline and fitted Basque bodice, accented with re-embroidered Alencon lace, pearls, sequins and crystal drops. The sleeves were puffed with bows and silk flower accents. The double bustle bow had silk flower accents at the back of the waist.

A cathedral train with Alencon lace inserts, decorated with pearls and sequins, fell from the bouffant skirt. The crown of azares and crystal was attached to a blusher fingertip-veil-of-illusion.

The bride carried a bouquet of white lace and white roses with peach rosebuds, peach baby's breath and peach and white streamers.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo with tails and a peach rose cummerbund.

The unity candle was lit by the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Luis and Diana Galvan, then it was lit by the bride and groom.

Becky Becerra, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a white satin, two-layer dress with puffed sleeves. Bridesmaids were Monica Anzaldria, Barbara Barrera, Christy Rivas, Monica Rivas, Ruby Guerrero, Amy Reyes and Angie Rivas.

Escorts for the bridesmaids were Edward Rivas, Eddie Becerra, Mike Flow, Mario Escobedo, Navor Rivas, Able Becerra, Robert Flores and Phillip Becerra.

Bridesmaids wore peach satin, two-layer dresses with puffed sleeves. They each carried a single peach rose with baby's breath and pink streamers. Their escorts wore gray tuxedos with tails and peach cummerbunds, with peach rose boutonnieres.

Emilio L. Galvan, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Ruchi Rodriguez was the flower girl. She wore a peach dress, with a wreath of peach and white flowers and baby's breath in her hair.

Carin Reyes and Elvia Barrera, cousins of the groom, carried decorated white baskets filled with rice bags. They wore peach and white dresses, with wreaths of white and peach flowers with baby's breath and streamers in their hair.

Attendants-of-first-padrinos were Betty and Navor Rivas. Luis and Diana Galvan were attendants for ularso, with Cindy and Anthony Gonzalez for Bible and rosary; and Celia and Manuel Barrera for cushions.

The female attendants' gowns were of peach satin with V-shape necklines and lace overlaying the skirts which were cut below the knee in front and fell to ankle length in back. The men wore gray tuxedos with peach cummerbunds and boutonnieres.

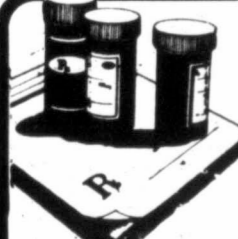

A reception and dance followed in the Community Building. The wedding cake was made by the bride's aunt, Dora Lozano. It was a three-tiered yellow and white creation with stairs and figurines on each side. Flowers and greenery accented the middle tier.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Denver City High School, and the groom is a 1986 graduate of Snyder High School. They each received an associate degree from South Plains College in 1988.

After a brief trip to Austin, the couple will make San Marcos their home. There, the bride attends Southwest Texas State University and the groom is employed with Butler Industries.

NIACIN

This vitamin is needed to form certain enzymes, is involved in carbohydrate metabolism, and is essential to growth. Normal function of the nervous system and digestive tract requires niacin. Pellagra, with symptoms of dermatitis, diarrhea, weakness, and vertigo, clears up with niacin supplements. Meat, poultry, seafood, peanut butter, brown rice, and whole grain cereals are rich in niacin.

MONEY AND SECOND MARRIAGES

Conflicts of financial interest almost always occur in a second marriage when former spouses and children are involved. The impact is usually felt when children have special needs not provided by the usual child support monies, such as braces, glasses or winter clothing.

Conflict over money in step-families can be explosive and threatening unless obligations are understood and accepted from the outset. Two emotional pitfalls can lead to financial tension in a second marriage: resentment of monthly obligations to make child support payments, and resentment of the high cost of rearing children from birth to 18 years. Whether the children are yours or not, providing for them is part of the responsibility and reality of a second marriage. Dealing with your spouse's or your own "past life" in a new marriage can be difficult at times. The less you dwell on and resist the expenses stemming from a previous marriage, the better off you'll be.

If you find it hard to put the past in its place, consider joining a self-help group (or a support group) where members are experiencing similar feelings and situations.

The Stepfamily Association of America in Baltimore is one such organization. Many communities have local affiliates of this group.

Because parenting is a lifelong obligation no matter who lives under whose roof, children need money and care. You will want to provide day-to-day care, but don't forget to provide for your children and current spouse in an up-to-date will and adequate insurance. The more complicated the family situation is, the more likely money matters will be complicated, too. Families may deal us a measure of pain, but they also provide a bounty of pleasure and pride.

Couple repeats promises in afternoon

NOW AND THEN — A.B. and Margaret Linville will be honored with a 50th wedding anniversary reception in the First Baptist Church Garden Room, Oct. 15 from 2 to 4 p.m. The couple was married Oct. 12, 1939, in Lorena where they lived for 18 years. They have lived in Snyder for 32 years. Hosts for the event will be their children, Carolyn Rodgers of Abilene, Paulette Gaddis of Tyler, Josephine Ivey of Sarasota, Fla., and Charlotte Holloway of Snyder. The presence of family and friends is the only gift requested. Above, Mr. and Mrs. Linville are pictured as they were 50 years ago. Below is a photo of the couple today. (Private Photos)

ARLINGTON—Cynthia Marie Wayland of Arlington became the bride of Dr. James Claude Hanks of Irving Sept. 9 at 1 p.m. at Rush Creek Christian Church. Rev. Ken Branam officiated the double-ring ceremony. Branam, formerly of Snyder, is pastor of Plymouth Park Baptist Church of Irving.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Wanda Martinez of Arlington and Donald Wayland of Buchanan Dam. The groom is the son of Dorothy Hanks and S.R. Hanks, both of Snyder.

Floral arrangements of peach and light blue silk flowers and a unity candle, complemented by a wedding invitation, accented the altar.

Dr. John Dorsett of Palestine served as usher and candlelighter. Robby Trevey of Arlington was also an usher.

The groom sang "Lady," by Kenny Rogers during the ceremony. Jean Cooke of Arlington served as organist and pianist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Capt. Bradley A. Wayland, chose a gown of satin and lace with sheer-to-elbow sleeves and lace to the wrist. A hat and silk flower bouquet featuring light blue flowers with dark blue and white accent flowers made up the bridal attire.

Kelly Don Moore of Arlington, the bride's best friend, served as maid of honor. She wore a peach tea-length dress with ruffles over the right shoulder and a bow above the left hip. Peach pumps and a smaller version of the bride's bouquet complemented her dress.

Richard Hanks of Abilene served his brother as best man. The groom was attired in an all-white tuxedo with tails. The best man wore a light blue tuxedo, while the ushers wore light blue tuxedos with peach cummerbunds and bow ties.

Jessika Thompson of Fort Worth, niece of the bride, registered guests with a peach plume pen.

A reception at Don Carter's Carter Connection in Fort Worth followed the ceremony.

The bride's table was decorated with a white tablecloth and peach bows accented the corners. Karen Wilmoth, sister of the bride, designed and created the wedding cake.

The yellow bridal cake covered in white butter cream icing was accented with peach and light blue flowers. Three tiers were separated with Grecian columns and featured a staircase leading to the groom's two-tiered cake, also separated by columns.

Teresa Thompson of Ft. Worth, cousin of the bride, and Susan Hanks of Snyder, sister of the groom, served the confection.

The bride is a graduate of Arlington High School and attended Tarrant County Junior College. She is a 1989 graduate of Barbizon School of Modeling.

The groom is a Snyder High School graduate who completed pre-med work at Abilene Christian University. He graduated Parker College of Chiropractic in 1988 and is presently doing practice sitting in the state of Texas, while concurrently setting up a joint practice in the Lewisville-Dallas area.

The couple is making Irving their home.

Using photographs that capture the essence of baseball, this book paints a complete picture of a sport that tugs at the conscience of America. But baseball is more than just a sport. Baughman, Norman...

Candlelight ceremony unites couple

Cynthia Ruth Baughman and Paul Malcom Norman were united in marriage July 29 in the Majestic Room at Reta's Cake Shop and Texas Barbecue. John Howard, Jr., minister of Abundant Life Tabernacle, officiated the double-ring, candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baughman of Allen, and the groom is the son of Sgt. and Mrs. Clayton Norman of Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene.

Decorations included a 14-tiered candelabra flanked with English ivy, entwined with baby's breath. Fourteen lighted burgundy tapers completed the candelabra. Pink satin bows and ribbons accented the burgundy roses. Tall baskets of greenery and burgundy flowers were on either side of the candelabra.

Jason Norman, brother of the groom, lighted candles. Gary Norman, another brother of the groom, was ring-bearer. He carried a white, heart-shaped satin pillow, upon which the rings were tied with white satin ribbon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white wedding gown borrowed from her aunt, Sandra Hall. The gown was designed by Jane Brown of Lamesa. It was fashioned of peau de soie and sheer dotted swiss. The gown featured a high neckline and sheer sleeves, with a long train. The veil trailed over the entire length of the gown and train.

The bride carried a cascade of deep red roses, greenery and baby's breath, atop her mother's lace and satin covered Bible. The bride's mother carried the same Bible in her own wedding. The bouquet was accented with lace and satin ribbon tied in love knots.

The groom was attired in a gray suit complemented with a boutonniere of a single red rose, matching the bridal bouquet.

The music was provided by John Howard, Jr. He sang, "You and I." He and Charlotte Howard performed "You Light Up My Life."

Krystal Graham, cousin of the bride, presided at the registry table. It was covered with lace and decorated with a brass candelabrum and lighted burgundy tapers. This table held a crystal bowl of birdseed bags made of pink satin lace, and tied with bows of pink satin.

Wanda Hall of Lovington, N.M., aunt of the bride, presided at the gift table. This table was draped with a white floor-length lace skirt, covered with a pink cloth overlaid in white lace. A brass candelabra held two burgundy tapers.

A formal dinner in honor of the bride and groom was held immediately following the ceremony. The meal, consisting of turkey, dressing, ham and all the trimmings was a gift from the bride's aunt and uncle, Mike and Reta Graham. They were assisted by C.W. and Sandra Hall, aunt and uncle of the bride.

The guest-of-honor's table was covered with burgundy cloth, overlaid in lace. A large centerpiece of burgundy and pink roses, complemented by two brass candelabra with burgundy tapers completed the table decor. Individual tables for the guests were covered with pink and burgundy cloths, overlaid in lace. Each table held a bud vase of burgundy and pink flowers.

The reception was also held in the Majestic Room. The bride's table was draped with a floor-length white tablecloth, overlaid in white lace. The table was set with crystal and silver. The antique punch bowl and cups of hand-cut glass belonged to the bride's grandmother, LaVada Hall of Snyder. The punch was a special family recipe in the color of burgundy.

Hand-formed mints made by the bride's cousin, Rebecca Graham, and mixed nuts were served from crystal bowls. The bridal bouquet served as centerpiece. A silver candelabra held five burgundy candles.

The bridal table featured a three-tiered wedding cake baked in a special strawberry cream recipe and covered with a pure white, buttery-flavored frosting. The cake was assembled on a floating cake stand. It had a delicate ruffle and lattice design. String designs in a soft shade of pink accented the design on the cake. The floating arm was entwined with English Ivy, burgundy roses and fresh baby's breath. A single rose rested on the bottom two tiers of the cake. Baby's breath accented the single rose along with a combination of pink and burgundy satin streamers.

Greenery of English ivy completely encircled the bottom layer of the cake. Fresh baby's breath completed the decor of the cake, which was topped with a miniature bone china bride and groom by Ben Randolph of Hobbs, N.M. The confection was created and designed especially for the bride and groom by Reta Graham.

The groom's table was covered with a matching floor-length draped cloth. The table was covered with a burgundy tablecloth, overlaid in white lace. The groom's cake was baked with a mocha chocolate recipe and frosted with a smooth satin chocolate frosting. The four-tiered, octagon-shaped cake was placed on a plate covered in whispering pink foil. A delicate border covered the entire cake.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL MALCOM NORMAN

Each layer of the groom's cake was decorated with a special ruffle design and cascades of roses in various shades of chocolate. The top two tiers were separated by five-inch crystal pillars. The theme of Harley Davidson completed the groom's cake. A silver buckle was placed between the tiers. The top layer held a crystal Harley Davidson motorcycle. This was a gift to the groom from the bride.

The center of the table held a matching silver candelabrum with five arms and lighted burgundy tapers. Coffee was served from a silver service, and mints and nuts were also served. The groom's cake was also designed by Reta Graham.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to San Angelo. The groom is employed by Long John Silvers and graduated from Abilene Cooper High School. The bride attended McKinney High School. In Abilene, where the couple will make their home, the bride will be attending Travis School.

Taxes, taxes, taxes. My junkers are getting junkier by the minute, the pipes have so many leaks I'm thinking about using them for sprinklers, and just like you, I got my tax statement in the mail. To top it off, Liquid Plumber sent me a bill for a house call. I need some luck.

"Magic Voodoo Dolls," the ad in the tabloid says. Just $9.95 plus 2 bucks shipping and handling each. There are seven dolls — Lucky, Love, Power, Money Drawing, Good Fortune, Healing and Protection. Nope, No Jim and Tammy dolls.

Hmm. Do I need the "Lucky" voodoo doll or the "Good Fortune" voodoo doll? I wish these things were more specific.

Wait. Here's something... "Experience the mystical power of this sacred relic, Our Lady of Guadalupe gold leafed reproduction of the Holy Tilma."

It's free, too, except for $2 postage and handling.

No, I'll pass on that one.

Maybe a cross with a "genuine synthetic birthstone" for $18.95. I'm not sure what something is when it's called "genuine synthetic." Is that like "real fake"?

I've already got one of those. I drive it to work everyday, when it runs.

Anyway, the advertisement doesn't make any claims concerning good luck or good fortune, so I've got to keep looking.

Okay, here's a Good Luck Money Ring. "Put a little money in your life," the ad says. "Inspired by the rings our ancestors used successfully to attract money to them as far back as 200 B.C."

My guess is that somebody is attracting money here — at $10 a pop but it may not be the one who orders the ring.

Voodoo dolls, rings and charms aren't exactly what I was looking for anyhow.

Maybe I just need a different outlook.

My wife has been hinting that maybe losing a little weight might help this mini battle of depression.

"Flatten your stomach in 4½ minutes, guaranteed," this ad states. Hmm. The ad doesn't say how long "flattened" stomachs stay flattened. I can suck it in for 4½ minutes and save the $9.95 tag plus $2 shipping and handling.

I think I've found it. The answer to my problems. It's the 101 Wish Four-Leaf Clover. A full-page ad.

It says all I have to do is check which of the 101 wishes I want, put $10 in the mail, and as the ad says, "What the 101 Wish Four-Leaf Clover has done for others, it can also do for you."

Let's see about these wishes. I can "receive invitations."

Uh, to what?

Or I can "Decide to get it," whatever IT is. Or, box number 96 says I can "Don't do anything you don't want to do."

I guess you could plan your entire life around this four-leaf clover. You can "Go out with that special person" (No. 71), "Live together as a couple" (No. 69), "Marry that woman" (No. 62), "Know true love" (No. 65), "Be able to separate" (No. 67), "Be able to divorce with no problems" (No. 68), "Be loved by the one who left you" (No. 64) and "See the one you love who left you come back to you" (No. 63).

In between, for cash you might want to mark one of these boxes:

- 1—"win from $10,000 to $20 million in Lotto."
 - 2—"be the immediate winner of $25 million in Lotto."
 - 5—"win from $40,000 to $30 million predicting baseball scores within 30 days."
 - 6—"win from $20,000 to $30 million within six months."
 - 8—"regularly win small prizes of from $500,000 to $1,500,000 in sweepstakes giveaways."
 - 12—"win $50 million before two years are up."
- I guess there might be somebody out there who isn't interested in winning $25 million immediately. They'd rather have $20,000 to $3 million in six months, or $50 million in two years. Tax reasons I guess.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

Did you ever wish you could take some university-level classes on history, English, law, sociology, literature or science—without having to do any work, or go to the time, trouble and expense of signing up? You didn't want college credits, necessarily, you just wanted to LEARN?

Now you can do it, right here in Snyder, for absolutely nothing.

All you have to do is go to the library. Through a matching grant with John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation Library Video Classics Project, and the generous patronage of a number of caring Snyder individuals, civic organizations, businesses and banks, the Scurry County Library now offers more than 200 hours of quality video programming which has been gleaned from the best series offered from Public Broadcasting over recent years.

There are 20 sets, including such selections as "The Shakespeare Plays," "The Brain," "The Ascent of Man," "The Living Planet," and "Vietnam: A Television History."

Even if you live in town and have access to PBS, you seldom get to see a series from start to finish; or if you do, you often wish you'd taped it or that you could see it again. Now you can. With your library card, you can check out two tapes at a time and keep them for up to two days.

For us country folks, this is a rich treasure trove indeed, for most of us are unable to pick up PBS with a normal antenna, and miss all the quality programming.

For teachers, it is an unparalleled teaching tool. Each tape lasts about an hour, which works out well for classroom viewing.

Most people are also unaware of other services the library offers. They still have a wide selection of classic movies—and they are not all "children's" movies, per se. You can check out "Wuthering Heights," "On the Waterfront," "The Quiet Man," and "Vertigo," for example, along with "Ramona," "Mary Poppins," or others for your kids.

I've been wanting to give this library a plug for a long time. For ten years I've worked as a writer and have researched everything imaginable, from schizophrenia to saddle-making, and I have never needed anything that the library either didn't have or couldn't get for me through inter-library loan. (That's right. They'll borrow a book for you for two weeks from any library in the state. You pay 87 cents postage. Cheap.)

Back in my freelancing days, I was able to make $1,000 sales to magazines by checking out eight month's worth of a magazine, studying all the issues, and putting together a query to the editor based on what I could see were their needs. Yes, you can check out periodicals with your library card.

You can also check out record albums; children's stories, classical music, even pop and rock music. My kids were raised on dull summer days with kid's stories and songs we checked out of the library record selection.

Large-type books are available through a special arrangement with the Senior Citizens' Center.

For general information, the library offers phone books from cities all over the state.

Every week, all summer long, special activities are planned for kids, and for the little ones in (see DEANIE, page 9B)

THE COMMON COLD

SDN Letters to the Editor

To the editor,

Our St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Wheel's For Life Bike-A-Thon was a huge success!! Although our campaign has ended, our appreciation of everyone's efforts has not gone unnoticed.

We're proud of the 17 riders, volunteers and the citizens of the Ira and Snyder communities. Thanks to you and to them we raised $779.40.

Knowing the people in our community are concerned enough to help others less fortunate than they, we must take pride in helping maintain that humanitarian spark. On behalf of the children of St. Jude Hospital, thank you. Sincerely,

Trish Payne
P.O. Box 150
Ira, TX 79527

To the family of Eldon Perry,

When I speak of the dirty dozen, this does not include Eldon in any way. If the county just had a few more like Eldon, it would be a much better place to live. He did his best in my case and I want you to know you had a great loss. So did the county, and so did I.

My respect for Eldon Perry is greater than you will ever know.

Thank You,
Henry Treat

To the editor,

This is going to come as a disappointment to some in Scurry County. I did not die as some were wishing and the jury is still out as to whether I am in Hell or not.

I would like for you to tell Mr. Bobby Nolan (letter to the editor 8-3-89), he is eaten alive with Scurry Logic. By his being 110% for TDC tells me he is either associated with or owns his own business. Mr. Nolan demonstrated his pride rather well, I thought, in our sheriff, police and fire departments when he chose to take millions of dollars out of this county to pay people to move here on the off chance he might get another customer or two.

They are the only ones who are doing what they are hired to do. Everyone else we hire has got to have an assistant or hire a contractor to do their job for them then has the gall to want pay, plus sending the contractor's bill to us also. Why not reward these servants of the community in the pay check where it counts. These folks are worth a lot more than we are paying them.

Businesses do not pay taxes! I have a few friends who own their own businesses, and they have not been bashful about telling me they do not pay taxes; they collect them. Their only worry is keeping prices just low enough to keep you from going out of town for your needs. I do not know of any way of stopping this so I do not worry about it.

My point is when our commissioners say a roll back will only save you 20 dollars or so, this may be true. But when I pay my 20 and go buy a loaf of bread, there is the store's $20 and the guy that owns the store puts his $20 in there too. So now $20 becomes $60 dollars.

Business tells their employees the price of oil is down and I am just hanging on. I would like to give you a raise. If I do I will have to let someone go. Like your paper, Mr. Editor. When you doubled your income, did you double your employees' wages?

Anyway, what has me uptight is the way business has put its finger through the ring in the nose of our commissioners and leading them around like a prize bull. Kick business in the rear and you will hit the commissioners in the back of the head. They proved this in their "Open Letter."

No mention of cutting back on their two-fisted giveaways or to stop stripping the county of its assets. The only things they can think of to cut are the things that benefit the folks who are paying their salaries.

The sidewalk, curb, half the street and the driveway in the city is paid by the homeowner. Each month we pay to have our trash hauled. If I move out of the city limits these things are paid for by the city slicker? This is what the Commissioners Court Letter implies. The letter further requested that the people help them to understand what we expect (see LETTERS, page 10B)

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Colombia's new justice minister was quoted Friday as saying he favors extradition of drug trafficking suspects to the United States.

President Virgilio Barco named Roberto Salazar Manrique to the job Thursday night. The previous justice minister quit after being threatened by the traffickers and one of her predecessors was slain.

As he left the presidential palace Thursday, Salazar was asked by a reporter if he favors extradition.

Soldiers in artillery accident get diplomas

FORT SILL, Okla. (AP) — Basic trainees, some in crutches, one in a hospital bed and another in a wheelchair, received their diplomas at Fort Sill with no intention of putting the memory of an artillery accident that killed three of their comrades behind them.

"As I stand before you, my heart is filled with both joy and sorrow ... They laid down their lives in service of their country," Pvt. 1 Jay Adams, the distinguished graduate, said Thursday at the graduation ceremony. "Their spirit lives on."

Spec. Thomas P. Boyle of Ventura, Calif.; Pvt 1. Jimmy N. McCain of Troy, Ala.; and Pvt 1. Edward L. Zastrow, 18, Lester Prairie, Minn., died in the Sept. 27 accident, in which a howitzer shell landed a half-mile off target about 30 feet from where many of the trainees from the A Battery, 2nd Battalion, 80th Field Artillery had gathered in formation.

Twenty-three others were wounded, some of whom were able to attend Thursday's ceremony.

Pvt. 1 Gregory Wilkinson of Colonel Heights, Va., lay in his

"If I weren't for it, I wouldn't have accepted" the appointment, the anti-drug newspaper El Espectador quoted Salazar as saying.

No major drug trafficker has ever been convicted for the offense in Colombia.

On Thursday the government announced plans for a referendum on the extradition issue. Late Thursday, two bombs exploded at a supermarket and a bank in Bogota, injuring two people, police said. The explosions were believed part of the traffickers' violent response to the crackdown on drugs.

Since Aug. 23, when cocaine treasury official and deputy director of the national bank, accepted the job as justice minister, five people turned down the post after receiving death threats, including three government officials, news reports said.

Ex-teacher innocent

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Jurors Friday afternoon found a former high school teacher accused of having sex with a teenager innocent of sexual assault of a child.

The jury deliberated for about an hour before returning the verdict in the trial of Lou Ann Hogan, a former teacher at Clark High School.

Mrs. Hogan was calm as the verdict was announced. Her husband cried.

Attorneys presented final arguments this morning, a day after Mrs. Hogan, 26, testified she never had sex with the teenager, who later committed suicide.

Mrs. Hogan was accused of having sex with Chad Cadenhead on Dec. 5 and Dec. 11, 1987. Four former Clark students testified that they watched, at Cadenhead's request, on those two dates as Mrs. Hogan and Cadenhead engaged in sex acts in his room.

Cadenhead took his own life with a shotgun blast about six weeks later.

Israeli oil speculator sentenced

DALLAS (AP) — An Israeli citizen has been sentenced to nine years in prison for fraudulently manipulating the stock of Dallas-based Frontier Resources Corp.

Sam Merit, a Texas oil speculator, may have received the longest sentence ever given for such a crime, according to Sarah Ackerson, chief of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's penny stock fraud task force.

Larry A. Gaydos, Merit's attorney, said he will appeal the conviction.

FBI officials said they identified Merit as having ties to organized crime after he boosted the price of Frontier Resources' stock from a few cents to more than $7 per share.

The firm issued more than 7 million shares, and traded at least 2 million. Court records show much of the stock not traded on the open market was distributed to Merit associates, who used it as security for bank loans.

Merit received a probationary sentence in New Jersey nine years ago for granting kickbacks on property transported in interstate commerce.

Court records show that Merit entered the federal witness protection program after his conviction in New Jersey. But he was dismissed from the program two years later because he failed to follow its rules.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Lost Children Should Stay Put If They Want Out of the Woods

DEAR ABBY: You recently had a letter voicing concerns about children losing their way in the woods or campgrounds. You suggested that they should always carry a whistle, which is fine, but parents can take a few more steps to keep their children safe.

One of them is called "Hug a Tree." This is a program founded by Abe Taylor, a retired U.S. border patrolman who is an expert "tracker." He honed his talents to such an extent that the National Parks and Recreation Agency held special training sessions with Taylor to assist their agents in finding people who had lost their way in our deserts, mountains and forests.

Mr. Taylor and other volunteers carry this lifesaving message to children in our schools and summer camps: "Hug a tree, if you suddenly realize that you have lost your way. Sit still; trackers will find you! All children should have a whistle, and in their pocket — folded and kept as an emergency item — a plastic trash bag to be stepped into and pulled up only to the child's neck, and never over their head, to protect them from exposure to the chill of the night. And no one, child or adult, should go hiking without taking along a 'buddy.'"

Family outings are great fun, but many end in tragedy because the areas do not appear sinister (they have brooks, trees, small animals, birds, picnic tables, etc.). Because of the friendly atmosphere, we all tend to let our guard down.

"Get Lost — Hug a Tree" is easy for a child to remember, and it's recommended for adults, too!

MURIEL C. WATSON,
BONITA, CALIF.

DEAR MURIEL: And a hug for you, Ms. Watson, for sharing the excellent lifesaving suggestions for campers.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago our son was killed in an accident. He left a wife and two sons, ages 4 and 6. Within a year, his wife (I'll call her Jane) met a man who moved in with her, and our grandsons started calling him "Daddy." We begged Jane not to let the boys call this man "Daddy" because we felt there was no lasting commitment in that relationship and never would be. Jane had told us that she had no intentions of marrying again because she'd lose the $500 a month in Social Security she gets as a widow.

Meanwhile, my husband and I were always there for Jane and the boys, and we kept our grandsons every weekend we could get them.

Three months ago, "Daddy" left Jane and she started to drink too much. Last weekend we had the boys, and when we brought them back on Sunday evening, Jane came to the door very disheveled with a swollen lip and dark glasses. She looked as though she had been in a fight. When I asked what happened to her, she went totally out of control and struck me! I hated to leave the boys with her, but since she was so hostile, I didn't want to start anything in front of the boys, so I left.

Now Jane refuses to let us see our grandsons. When I call her, she hangs up on me. We do not want a public court battle, but we worry about our grandsons. We are desperate. What should we do?

KEEP ME ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Discuss this with your lawyer immediately, and follow his or her advice. Please do not delay, for the sake of your grandchildren. Jane is not a fit mother, and your grandsons need to be protected.

DEAR ABBY: I cut this article out of the American Legion magazine several years ago:

THE FOUR CHAPLAINS

"Early on the morning of Feb. 3, 1943, the U.S. troop transport Dorchester was wallowing through icy seas off Greenland. Most of the 900 troops on board were asleep in their bunks. Suddenly a torpedo smashed into the Dorchester's flank. Frantically pounding up the ladders, the troops milled in confusion on the decks.

"In those dark moments of panic, the coolest men aboard were four U.S. Army chaplains — 1st Lts. Clark V. Poling (Reformed Church of America), Alexander D. Goode (Jewish), John P. Washington (Catholic) and George L. Fox (Methodist). The four chaplains led the men to boxes of life jackets and passed them out to the soldiers with boat-drill precision. When the boxes were empty, the four chaplains quietly slipped off their own precious life preservers, put them on four young GIs and told them to jump.

"The Dorchester went down 25 minutes later in a rumble of steam. Some 600 men were lost, but the heroic chaplains had helped save over 200. The last anyone saw of them, they were standing on the slanting deck, their arms linked, in prayer to the one God they all served."

Abby, I have often wondered if anyone knows what happened to the four young GIs who received the life preservers. Who were they?

The article states that although some 600 men perished when the Dorchester went down, about 200 were saved. Perhaps a survivor — or a relative or friend of a survivor — will read this and write to you.

I realize this happened 46 years ago, but maybe a reader will have some information pertaining to this historic event.

HERMAN POWELL,
CALHOUN FALLS, S.C.

DEAR HERMAN: It's a long shot, but it's worth a try. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: My cousin is planning to get married next month. (I am going to be one of her bridesmaids.) All the wedding plans have been set since last August. The problem is, our grandmother has recently been admitted to the hospital with a 50-50 chance of recovery.

The invitations, church, flowers, caterer and dresses are all set to go. My cousin's mother and my mother (who are sisters) both feel that the wedding should be postponed indefinitely until all can enjoy themselves. My cousin and I are very close to our grandmother and don't want to be disrespectful to her, or our mothers' wishes, but we feel that the wedding should go on as planned.

What is your opinion?

DEAR 50: I vote to proceed with the wedding as planned and hope for the best.

If your grandmother is like most grandmothers, she would want her granddaughter to go ahead with the wedding, and somehow she'd gather the strength to give them her blessings — even from her hospital bed. Add my prayers to yours. (50-50 are not bad odds.)

The facts about drugs, AIDS and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy are all in Abby's new, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage is included.

2 brothers convicted of killing deputy

PHOENIX (AP) — An Arizona prosecutor says he plans to seek the death penalty for two Big Spring, Texas, brothers found guilty of first-degree murder Thursday in the shooting death of a sheriff's deputy.

The men's brother and father still face trial in the killing.

Leaving a courtroom filled with off-duty sheriff's deputies, Deputy County Attorney Noel Levy told reporters Thursday he planned to seek the death penalty for both Mickel Herrera, 19, and William Herrera Jr., 20, when they are sentenced by Superior Court Judge Norman Hall on Nov. 12.

The brothers showed little emotion when the jury found them guilty of first-degree murder, aggravated robbery and kidnapping.

Still to face trial on the same charges are the men's brother, Ruben Benjamin Herrera, 17, and the brothers' father, William Herrera Sr.

The Herreras are accused in the June 30, 1988, slaying of Maricopa County Deputy Vernon Marconnet, 51, who had stopped to question the men as they drank beer along a canal bank near South Mountain.

Appeals would be automatic if the brothers were sentenced to death.

Levy said he also would seek the death penalty for William Herrera Sr. if he were convicted of first-degree murder. His trial is scheduled to start Oct. 16 before Hall. A tentative trial date of Oct. 18 is set for Ruben Herrera, who could not be sentenced to death if convicted because he was under the age of 16 when the incident occurred, Levy said.

Levy said the murder was especially heinous because the deputy was surrounded, beaten, held on the ground at the point of his own gun, and then shot once through the right eye as he pleaded for his life.

The prosecutor said because any of the Herreras could have stopped the murder, each is as guilty as the one who actually pulled the trigger.

Marconnet had stopped to question the Herreras after a motorist hailed him and told him he'd seen two vehicles parked as if one had forced the other off the road. The Herreras allegedly became confrontational when Marconnet asked them for identification, testimony showed.

According to Levy, William Herrera Jr., who had an outstanding burglary warrant from Texas, said he didn't want to go to jail and pushed the officer.

Mickel Herrera then went for the officer's gun, and he confessed to shooting the deputy, telling officers he'd held the gun on Marconnet for several minutes before firing, the prosecutor said.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Grudges should not be permitted to condition your behavior in dealing with a person with whom you've had trouble previously. Look upon today's developments as a fresh start.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep an eye out for a close friend who could run into some problems in a business arrangement today. You might be the person who can help her get her act together.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It makes sense to carefully weigh and analyze matters that have an effect upon your career today, but be wary of being overly negative. Look for positive factors as well.

Debate skirts legal issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The debate over the failed coup in Panama centers on whether the Bush administration showed sensible restraint. Little is being said about the legal and moral principles involved.

No objections were raised on Capitol Hill this week when Secretary of State James A. Baker III reserved the option of using force to bring down Gen. Manuel Noriega sometime in the future, according to "our own timetable."

The conditions cited by Baker were threats to Americans in Panama or to operations of the Panama Canal. He criticized those "armchair generals" in Congress who faulted President Bush for not supporting the failed insurgency this time around.

The secretary of state left no doubt the United States could jump in under more favorable conditions.

But William D. Rogers, a lawyer who was assistant secretary of state in the Ford administration, registered amazement that in the current debate "there has been no reference to the clear, simple, unqualified prohibition of the use of force" established in the U.N. Charter.

For nearly two years, the Reagan and Bush administrations have waged an unrelenting propaganda war against Noriega, accusing him of drug trafficking and dictatorial rule against the wishes of the Panamanian people.

The case for U.S. intervention is built on his authoritarian rule. No one has suggested seriously that the United States is compelled in self-defense to use force against him — although Baker raised the strategic Panama Canal issue.

Rogers, looking down the road, speculated that at the end-of-the-century, when the canal goes over to Panama under a 1977 treaty, the United States would have a clear right to ensure the neutrality of the waterway.

In the heyday of imperialism the use of U.S. force as an instrument of American foreign policy was hardly ever questioned, except by its targets.

For a while, the Vietnam war made U.S. military intervention unpopular.

But the Reagan doctrine rejected the idea that American power is dangerous to the world.

Byran woman ID'd as rape victim

CAMERON, Texas (AP) — The body of a young woman who was raped and strangled and found under the U.S. 79 Brazos River bridge this week near Hearne has been identified as that of an 18-year-old from Bryan.

Milam County sheriff's officials said Thursday the parents of Clarissa Carvett Turner identified their daughter from photographs deputies took before the body was taken to Dallas for an autopsy.

Brazos County Sheriff Ronnie Miller said Miss Turner's parents came to his office Wednesday and told deputies the body found a day earlier in Milam County matched the description of their daughter.

Authorities said the parents last saw their daughter about 6 p.m. Monday. Her body was discovered by a salesman beneath the bridge about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The salesman told deputies he usually stops at the bridge to drink coffee and plan his day when he is in the area.

Preliminary autopsy results from the Dallas County Forensic Science Laboratory revealed she was raped and strangled. Detectives said they believed she was killed elsewhere and left under the bridge.

pect of them and in the same breath name everything they were hired to maintain as the things to cut back on. All the commissioners have to do to find out what the people want is to take one step backwards and look around. They can't see a thing where their heads are now.

I noticed our commissioners did not have any trouble at all finding another $18,000 to put on that dead horse called the coliseum. They jumped on that faster than they would on an old woman who is delinquent on her taxes. But they could not find $15,000 to straighten the bridge on Hwy. 208 north across Ennis Creek where people have been killed. I wish it was election time so our commissioners could see what a skim job looks like. I think that is the only time they use that road.

My other letter to you was the first time I ever went public with my opinions and I had afterthoughts that it may cause a problem for someone. With jobs dropping like flies, I would have taken it hard if anyone became unemployed over anything I said. Based on our commissioners demonstrated abilities, I thought their only capabilities were what they have been doing to the taxpayers. And as a civilian this would be a felony. But they can do one other thing and excel over anyone. They would get rich raising mushrooms. All you have to do is keep them in the dark and feed them a lot of manure.
